A MEDICAL UNION?

In keeping with the established policy of this year's council to air controversial issues, we are inviting as our speaker at the next meeting (Sept. 25th) Stanley S. Peterson, M.D. (University of Nebraska College of Medicine, 1943).

He is a practicing internist at Smith-Glynn-Callaway Clinic in Springfield, Mo.; a consultant to the Missouri Regional Medical Program; a delegate to the A.M.A. House of Delegates; a former Speaker of the House of the Missouri State Medical Association (for three years), and a member of many other non-professional associations. Pertinently at this moment he is President of the newly formed American Federation of Physicians and Dentists (AFPD), an unaffiliated national union.

There are many who feel that such a union is necessary to protect the doctor-patient relationship from erosion by third parties such as government, insurance companies and hospitals, an erosion that would result in the deterioration of the practice of good medicine.

If one accepts the premise that the best quality of medicine at the cheapest cost can best be provided under our present pluralistic private practice of medicine, then it follows logically that one has a moral obligation to himself and his patients to make that system work and to protect it from the inroads of those who would supplant it with an inferior system.

It is the contention of some, including the leaders of the A.M.A. that this is now being done by the A.M.A. and can best be accomplished by its organization acting for all of medicine. The record to date does not lend credence to this contention in the opinion of many. There is a substantial number who believe that the present posture of the A.M.A. on many issues does not adequately or well represent the stand of the practicing physician.

As a consequence, splinter groups such as Council of Medical Staffs, the Association of Physicians and Surgeons, the American Federation of Physicians and Dentists and Dr. Holmes' AFL-CIO Las Vegas group have struck out in order to provide a voice which will espouse the principles of the practicing doctor.

In a recent Physicians Attitude Survey, replies to the questions inherent in unionization were received from 993 physicians. Over forty per-cent of the respondents said that a guild or union is inevitable and a majority would join if need be.

The question always arises as to whether physicians would strike (even though historically they have done so [or threatened to do so] in countries where socialization has taken place).

Dr. Peterson's answer to this in a recent article is that, "We would not withhold our services from patients in need of medical care. Our responsibility to patients does not extend, however, to third parties."

The issue is close upon us; some say now. It is incumbent upon each of us to keep ourselves informed of the forces that are influencing us and will continue to do so in this period of social turmoil.

So please come to the meeting. Come prepared to listen, judge, and question logically, quietly and with dignity.

You may even want to join Dr. Peterson's union! — Who knows?

President

A CHOICE IS COMING

A new year of medical meetings is starting. We are going to have some decisions to make on our local level. Last year we had several meetings for information only. The information was to give our society members a chance to listen to all the aspects of our changing medical field.

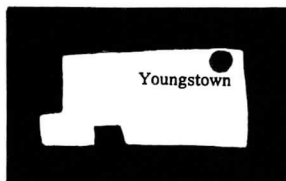

We had meetings on PSRO, HMO's, and Medical Foundations. The meetings were well attended and the information I think well presented.

We will soon be having a meeting on another aspect of medicine. The meeting in September will have a speaker on medical unions for doctors. I hope this meeting will be well attended because in the near future the members of our local society will have to make some decisions. The biggest decision will be on how we, in Mahoning County, want to try to guide the practice of medicine.

We do have a voice; we do have a choice. We do give the care; no one else can. We can make our viewpoint felt, but we must stick together. Our forefathers fought for what they believed to be right. I hope we will too.

Let's get to the meeting and let our voices be known: whether it be HMO's, PSRO, Medical Foundations or a Union! Let's get together and make a choice for what we feel is good for the practice of medicine, for ourselves, but most important for our patients.

DR. PETERSON IS SEPTEMBER SPEAKER

Stanley S. Peterson, M.D.

In what is probably the last phase of a program provided by the Council of the Mahoning County Medical Society to enlighten the membership for an impending vote, the speaker at the Sept. 25th meeting will be the president of the American Federation of Physicians and Dentists, Stanley S. Peterson, M.D.

All members are asked to note the change of date, which was made to accommodate the speaker, from the usual third Tuesday to Sept. 25. The meeting will again be held at the Youngstown Club with wives invited, along with members and wives of other county medical societies, dental societies and osteopathic medical societies in the area.

Dr. Peterson, engaged in the practice of Internal Medicine in Springfield, Mo., is a graduate of the U. of Nebraska College of Medicine and served in the European Theater of Operations with the U. S. Army Medical Corps. He has practiced at Springfield since 1946.

He is a delegate to the American Medical Association and to the Missouri State Medical Association. He is consultant to Missouri Regional Medical Program and director of an Experimental Health Services Delivery System. His many honors include an appointment by the President of the United States as delegate-at-large to the White House Conference. In 1951, he was voted Missouri State Outstanding Young Man of the Year.

In an interview early this year, Dr. Peterson listed 8,000 dues paying members of the AFPD. He estimated another 18,000 would join before the end of the year.

Reservation for the dinner may be made by sending a check for $7.00 per person to the Medical Society office. Checks should be made out to: "Mahoning County Medical Society." Because of the large crowd expected, deadline for members' reservations is Friday, Sept. 21. Deadline for reservations from other organizations is Monday, Sept. 17. Dinner will be served at 7:00 p.m. Social Hour is at 6:00.

SEEK EMERGENCY COMMUNICATIONS SYSTEM

Following a summer series of meetings on the general topic of a regional emergency medical communications system, the Mahoning-Shenango Area Health Education Network, Inc. (MASHEN), has submitted a proposal for just such a system to the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation as a request for a grant.

The current proposal is an outgrowth of a series of meetings held in the summer of 1971, under the auspices of the Mahoning County Medical Society, with the coordinating being done by Dr. Mike Vuksta, chairman of the Trauma Committee.. At that time a communications system by Motorola was approved and all hospitals and the major ambulance companies signed an agreement to participate. The plan was stymied when it was found that no government grant could be obtained.

The Mahoning County Medical Society has endorsed the MASHEN proposal and a number of members, including Dr. Vuksta, Dr. Bill Bunn, Dr. James Finley, Dr. S. V. Squicquero and Dr. R. A. Wiltsie have worked on the proposal. Dr. Richard W. Juvancic is chairman of MASHEN Board of Trustees. C. Kenneth Proefrock is executive director.

22 YEARS AT THE FAIR

The third year for the new medical-health building at the Canfield Fair proved to be the best yet with a handsome display of 28 health exhibitors. The Mahoning County Medical Society sponsored the combined exhibition for the 22nd consecutive year.

The Medical Society, pursuing the medical museum concept for the building, prepared a show-case with approximately 35 articles of medical equipment, most of which dated from about 1870. The showcase will be enlarged in future years as more old equipment is donated for the museum. This year the Society acquired the original X-ray table of Dr. John Heberding, donated by Dr. and Mrs. Ben Brown. This was on display along with an ancient piece of X-ray equipment. The doctor's office of 1872 was again displayed with additional period equipment.

In a special display, the photos of 50-year physicians of the Medical Society were shown. These include: Drs. E. C. Baker, J. M. Basile, W. H. Bennett, L. G. Coe, Enrico DiIorio, B. J. Dreiling, W. H. Evans, R. W. Fenton, J. L. Fisher, H. E. Fusselman, J. P. Harvey, P. H. Kennedy, R. G. Mossman, V. A. Neel, Henri Schmid, M. H. Speck, Clarence Stefanski, and H. S. Zeve.

In other exhibits, the three hospitals combined to present a display on computerized medicine and blood banks. The nurses gave an exhibition of screening for blood pressure and for EKGs.

Other exhibitors included the Youngstown Society for the Blind, Blue Cross and Blue Shield, Mahoning County Cancer Society, Youngstown Health Department, Corydon Palmer Dental Society, Eastern Ohio Pharmaceutical Society, Youngstown Hearing and Speech Center, Heart Association of Youngstown, Mahoning Valley Kidney Foundation, Mental Health Association, Multiple Sclerosis Society, National Foundation, Planned Parenthood Association of Youngstown, Eastern Academy of the Ohio Podiatry Association, American Red Cross, Safety Council of Greater Youngstown, TB and Health Association, Veterinarian Medical Society, Mahoning County Health Department, Vocational Rehabilitation, Right to Life and LaLeche League.

From the Bulletin

FORTY YEARS AGO — SEPTEMBER 1933

There was a great deal of excitement about the eighteen cases of polio reported to the Health Department. An editorial in a local newspaper urged the Medical Society to conduct an investigation as to the mode of transmission and the possible common source of the infection. Our Secretary (Wm. Skipp) was compiling a list of persons who had recovered from polio, for the purpose of obtaining convalescent serum to use in paralytic cases. That was a popular treatment then. The hospital laboratory would process the blood and the serum would be injected in 50c.c. doses. Dr. E. R. Thomas contributed an article on polio in which he called attention to the small percentage of paralytic cases and the large number of acute non-specific infections without signs of nervous system injury.

In the excitement over polio, twenty cases of typhoid fever went almost unnoticed.

THIRTY YEARS AGO — SEPTEMBER 1943

Some of the men in the armed services were heard from, others were scattered to far distant places. Fred Coombs reported that he was enjoying himself at Madison, Wisconsin. His family was with him and he was promoted to major. John Goldcamp was down at Fort Sill where the heat was terrific. He was coach of the enlisted men's baseball team. Sam Klatman was working a 10-hour day doing surgery at Fort Lawton, Wash. There were 1,500 men to every doctor there. He was glad to be back on land after a year at sea. Luke Reed was somewhere out in the desert but had his family there. Herman Ipp was at San Marcus Field, Texas, a major now, his second promotion. M. M. Szucs was head cardiologist for the base hospital at Manhattan Beach, Brooklyn. E. W. Sears and John Rogers were home for brief visits.

The Bulletin mentioned other members who were away on vacations, fishing and hunting trips or at the Waldorf-Astoria to ease their tired bodies. This made a big hit with their friends who read about it in a tent down on some island in the South Pacific.

The hospitals of Akron, Canton and Youngstown were making vigorous protest against a recent ruling of the Procurement and Assignment Service which had allotted for Youngstown 15 internes and three residents (for two hospitals). This made a ratio of one interne to 1,976 admissions. The number of practicing physicians was down 31% while hospital beds increased 15%.

TWENTY YEARS AGO — SEPTEMBER 1953

Seven cases of polio were reported that month, an increase of 25% over last year but no one appeared excited. There was general interest in the sharp increase of cases of infectious hepatitis.

Kenneth J. Hovanic and Raymond Boniface had an interesting article on Tay-Sach's Disease (Amaurotic Familial Idiocy) with report of a case seen at St. Elizabeth's Hospital where Dr. Boniface was an interne.

The Medical exhibit at Canfield Fair was a big success. President Goodwin and Editor Reese urged the members to start the new season with a big attendance. For bait they dangled before us free dinners and top drawer speakers. The prospect was pleasing. It was a good year.

TEN YEARS AGO — SEPTEMBER 1963

A leading article on "Myocardial Revascularization" by E. Saadi, E. Massulo and A. Riberi described their method of treatment of intractable angina by internal mammary artery transplant and presented a successful case.

Approximately sixty internes and general practitioners with their wives attended the annual General Practitioners picnic for the newly arrived Youngstown Hospital internes. Dr. Richard Roland was in charge of the affair this year which was held at the home of Dr. John LaManna off Raccoon Road. This was the first social gathering for the new house staff and most impressive. Volley ball was the most popular afternoon activity. A three-piece combo played for dancing from 7:00 until 11:00 p.m.

John Melnick became a full time Radiologist at the South Side Hospital.

The Health Department reported no Polio, no Typhoid, 2 cases of Hepatitis. There were 28 new cases of Gonorrhoea.

BULLETIN BOARD

Dr. J. Paul Harvey helped get the student clinic off to a flying start at Youngstown State University by donating all his office equipment to the clinic.

Dr. John J. McDonough received the "Steel Baton Award" from the Youngstown Symphony Society for his part in the recent centennial celebration of the Mahoning County Medical Society which culminated in a sizable donation from the Medical Society to Youngstown's several cultural organizations.

Dr. J. L. Scarnecchia designed the emblem used on the cover of the quarterly Medical Bulletin of St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Dr. McDonough was the subject of a feature article in the new physicians' magazine, Diversion. The August/September issue carried a two-page story entitled "At Home with American Art," with a photo of Dr. McDonough and several paintings from his collection.

Dr. B. B. Burrowes is head of the medical division of the Buckeye Elks drive for funds for their Youth Development Center on North Ave.

Dr. Robert Hritz is to be congratulated for another great dog show at the Canfield Fairgrounds, held by the Mahoning-Shenango Kennel Club, of which he is president.

Dr. Mike Vuksta discussed prevention of injuries at the recent meeting of the Youngstown District Football Officials Association.

PAST PRESIDENTS SPOKE

Editor's Note: This article, to be printed in several sections, was submitted by Dr. C. A. Gustafson, 1950 president of the Mahoning County Medical Society. It was written at an earlier time and reflects the activities of the Medical Society in an important period of revitalization.

Working With Other Professions

by

W. M. Skipp, M.D. and C. A. Gustafson, M.D.

This story begins like a fairy tale "Once upon a time" — years ago, before the 1920's our Medical Society just existed. There was no co-operation between our Society and our hospitals, our nurses, or in fact between any of the professions even though we worked in unison. Our hospitals directed their activities without advice from our Medical Society. Staff appointments were made without regard to membership in the Society, or ability of the individuals. The hospital's activities, including the Staff, were directed by a group of the Medical Profession (Members of the Society) who were beyond the approach of any one individual or organization. They told the Society as much that "it was none of the Society's business how the hospitals were managed, professionally or otherwise."

Our Society was poorly managed. Officers were elected because they were good fellows and not because they had performed any service for the profession. The membership felt that the Society should have no function but to hold a monthly meeting and present a scientific paper. The result was that the Society did nothing. Our meetings were poorly attended.

About this time there came into being an organization known as "Medical Arts Club of Youngstown." This club restricted its membership to younger active men. The club functioned well and about 1930 the men who belonged, even though they were in the minority, took over the activities of the Medical Society. When the Medical Society became a going unit, the "Medical Arts Club" ceased to exist.

The Constitution of the Medical Society was re-written. We set up a Council of all elective officers and the Editor of the County Medical Bulletin. The Bulletin of the Society came into being in 1920 and has aided in knitting together the entire membership.

Post-graduate training was started. Annually a whole day of post-graduate training by outstanding teachers was brought to the County. This continued for 20 years. This type of program was the first of its kind in this part of the country. Men in the Society were trained to become leaders and officers. No one was elected to the Presidency unless he had served on the Council.

Public relations in 1932 between the hospitals and the professions was nil. At that time on the suggestion of Council of the Medical Society and under the direction of the late Dr. O. J. Walker an inter-professional committee was established. It was called the Allied Professions Committee. This Committee was formed because we had no political power when we stood alone, and the Medical Society of course could not enter into politics in any form. We could not get any consideration from any candidate from any party running for office unless we were stronger and were banded together.

This paper was presented at the annual meeting of the Ohio State Medical Association in 1936.

ALAS, HOW TRUE

Our profession is under attack, both internally and externally. We live in a milieu in which major forces direct themselves to the needs of mass society rather than to the needs of the individual man, woman, and child. Civilized life has become so thoroughly political that it makes the life of the individual seem trifling. The theory and rhetoric of our times submerge the fundamental reality that sick people have individual differences and require highly individualized care. Proposals for total health care systems harbor within them pressures that would separate physicians from their patients. Economists who appear to know the cost of everything but fall short in their perception of human values would reduce the members of a learned profession to vendors of goods and services in the medical marketplace. The unity of humanism and biological medicine that sustained us in the early 20th century no longer exists.

The courts of our nation impinge upon us even to the point of dictating whether our patients shall or shall not have medication.

The Food and Drug Administration and the Department of Justice usurp the right of the physician to determine the drugs he will prescribe.

There is widespread belief in powerful circles that medicine must be planned, organized, managed, coordinated, staffed, motivated, and controlled by agencies outside of the medical profession and under the aegis of the federal government, third-party payers, or both. The "Megaplan," a working document of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, speaks of using "the might of government" to force changes in the health care delivery system—changes that could ultimately establish rigid fee and price schedules for physicians and hospitals, bring government controls over research, and initiate federal intervention in medical ethics. Most national health proposals forthrightly declare their intent to control the quality of health care through the power of funding mechanisms.

Medicine continues to be singled out for special controls under the wage-price freeze, and some theorists would drastically alter present patterns of private practice.

There is wide spread demand for the initiation of a massive quasi-medical, quasi-scientific, so-called "treatment" program for masses of people on a nationwide scale.

DIABETES-HYPERTENSION CLINICS HELD

Diabetes Clinics in Mahoning County and Youngstown are currently being conducted by the Mahoning County Health Department and the Youngstown Health Department, at the instigation of the Ohio State Health Department.

Clinics began on Sept. 5 and are providing screening tests for diabetes and hypertension. Douglas A. Walsh, D.O., county health commissioner, is supervising the 13 county clinic sites. William Johnson, M.D., is supervising the 10 city sites. Final session will be Sept. 28.

A training session for some 45 area volunteer nurses was held at St. Elizabeth Hospital's School of Nursing with Edward Kessler, M.D., in charge, along with Dr. Walsh and Dr. Johnson.

The joint program was hailed by Mayor Hunter as "a new era of cooperation" between the two departments.

The Mahoning County Medical Society has conducted an annual Diabetes Week for the past 20 years in conjunction with the National Diabetes Association. The Medical Society will again hold Diabetes Week in November.

DOCTORS STAFF CAREER COURSE

Twenty-seven physicians, headed by course director, Dr. John Stotler, acted as faculty for the ninth annual "Introduction to a Career in Medicine," held at St. Elizabeth Hospital this summer.

The six-weeks course enrolled 18 boys and 15 girls representing 13 area high schools and 2 universities. The students were recommended by their school guidance counselors and had expressed an interest in the medical profession. Purpose of the yearly program is to help young people gain a better idea as to what it is really like to be a doctor, and to help them make up their mind whether or not they wish to pursue the study of medicine.

Faculty members for this year's course were: Drs. L. P. Caccamo, F. A. Pesa, M. J. Vuksta, P. G. Rhodes, S. V. Squicquero, S. V. Chiasson, F. J. Kocab, C. E. Pichette, P. J. Mahar, Jr., E. A. ## CENTENNIAL AFTERMATH

And still the Centennial goes on! The highly successful 100-year celebration of the Mahoning County Medical Society last year continues to command interest in both medical and cultural circles.

The summer issue of Arts Management, a national news service for those who finance, manage and communicate the arts, carried a feature story about the Medical Society function entitled, "Doctors Celebrate Centennial By Funding Local Arts Groups." The article praised Mahoning County physicians and called the fund-raising endeavor "unique."

One other medical society in Ohio has made inquiries concerning Mahoning's centennial for the purpose of conducting a series of events for their own upcoming celebration.

For those interested, there are still available copies of the centennial program autographed by the artist. These are free for the asking at the Medical Society office. Members are invited to stop by and pick one up. They are too large to be mailed.
