Rapes in city reported; two near YSU campus

by Sherry Williams

Five rapes in the city of Youngstown have been reported to the Youngstown Police Department during the month of January, said Chief Detective John Fabrizi.

Two of these rapes occurred in the campus vicinity and remain unsolved, he said.

Fabrizi also said that there have been "no rapes on the YSU campus that I know of." The Y.P.D. rarely interferes in campus crimes, he said.

Of the two rapes near campus, one was in Wick Park and the other was near Thornton and Kensington Streets.

"Actually, there is nobody in that area that we're looking for in connection with the rapes," said Fabrizi. There have been two line-ups in an attempt to identify the rapists, but nothing has come from them.

One of the rapes involved a single rapist, while two men were involved in the other attack.

Fabrizi said anyone with leads to the identity of the rapists in these or other cases should contact him at 747-5631, ext. 231. Everything reported will be kept confidential.

Upon contacting the five social sororities on campus, the Jambar learned from Donna Feorene, a member of Zeta Tau Alpha sorority, that patrolmen visited the sorority's house about 11:30 p.m. one night to warn the girls about two recent rapes in the area. Feorene said the policemen told her that one of the girls had been beaten up badly and asked the girls to be cautious.

A spokesman for another sorority said that one of their members had been accosted one night outside of Inner Circle Pizza on Lincoln Avenue.

A member of the Alpha Omicron Pi sorority said that police come around to their house regularly and check to see that everything is all right.

Lieutenant Gene Sabatino, of the Y.P.D. said he had heard of an incident at YSU which involved a man in the women's restrooms around campus. Sabatino said this man was a voyeur and did not attack any women.

Citywide, rape cases rose 3.8 per cent, from 52 reported cases in 1976 to 54 reported in 1977. There were 48 cases reported in 1975 and 45 in 1974.

Since 1970 the rape rate has risen 57 per cent nationwide.

Fifty-two per cent of these rapes are committed by acquaintances of the victim and 51 per cent occur in the home of either the victim or the rapist. Most victims are between 14 and 19 years old. This information was given to the Jambar by Sabatino, who was quoting statistics on hand at the Y.P.D.

Sabatino added that it is

Phones on campus will ring to 'Ma Bell's' Centrex system

by Naton Leslie

On March 20, YSU will switch from the outdated PBX phone system to the new Centrex II phone system. The system provides greater communication efficiency as well as other additional features.

Presently, Ohio Bell is conducting training classes to teach people how to operate the new system. The classes are being given at 8 a.m., 10 a.m., 1 p.m. and 3 p.m., everyday except Mondays, from now until March 17, in Room 240, Kilcawley Center. Over 1000 people are expected to have attended the class by March 17. Each class will accommodate 20-25 people.

The instructor for the course is Genesta Patrick, an employee of Ohio Bell. Patrick is assisted by Beatrice Zeller of the Central Services department of YSU.

Classes to be held March 15-17 will be make-up sessions for those people who were unable to attend earlier.

The object of the course is to familiarize and orient YSU staff with the operation of the new phone system. The class consists of a 20-minute tape and slide presentation followed by a practice session with a mock four-way telephone system.

Among the changes brought about by the Centrex II system is that the University will be receiving a new main number, 742-3000, the first 742 number assigned in the Youngstown area. In addition, each department will have a separate seven-digit station number, allowing incoming calls to bypass the switch board.

People who call the old University number (746-1851) will be given the new number by a switch board operator and then be connected with the correct department. The new department numbers will be listed in the upcoming Youngstown telephone directory.

One of the new features afforded by Centrex II is referred to as "call transfer." This procedure bypasses the switchboard operator. The transfer is accomplished by the individual who originally received the call. To make a call transfer, an individual first depresses the receiver button once, listens for the dial tone, then dials the station number where the call is to be transferred. Then the individual announces the call and hangs up. The transfer is then completed.

Another feature of the Centrex II system is called "consultation hold." First, a person who is already on the line with another party and wishes to talk to a third person without hanging up can depress the receiver button once, listen for the dial tone, and dial the station number or outside number. When the consultation is completed, the individual depresses the receiver button twice to be reconnected to the original call.

To add another station or outside number to an existing conversation, a person, using the new system, may use the new "three way conference" call. The phone user depresses the receiver button once, listens for the dial tone, dials the station number or outside number to be added, then depresses the receiver button again to reconnect both parties to the original caller.

However, if the called number is busy or does not answer, depress receiver button once to return to the original caller and then depress the receiver button once more to disconnect the ringing or busy tone. And if the caller wishes to wait for the busy station to become available, depress the receiver button, dial "0" and give the attendant the request for hold.

Cress criticizes 'stupid' victims

Women urged to take precautions

by Sherry Williams

"Your guess is as good as mine," said Campus Security Director Paul Cress when asked if rumors of increased rapes in the University area were true.

No rapes or attacks had been reported to him recently, Cress noted, and said that security can do nothing about the problem if these attacks are not reported to the security department.

Cress told the Jambar that crime on the YSU campus is phenomenally low when compared to other Ohio state universities because YSU is a predominantly commuter campus.

Cress also said that in the past six years, only two reported rapes have occurred on the campus. One of these concerned the rape of a girl behind Beeghly Center. The rapist was apprehended nearly eight months later in New York City, and also confessed to the raping of three women (non-YSU students) who lived on Elm Street between the University and Gypsy Lane. Cress did not disclose the facts about the second rape.

Cress said that his security patrol does not have jurisdiction in areas other than those owned by the University. Therefore, security can do nothing about attacks that take place near the University, but off the campus. "All we can do is warn these girls," he said.

Kent State University, Cress said, has reported numerous rapes on campus in one year. Although YSU has had only two reported rapes in six years, Cress said this is not due to the superiority of the security force, but rather to the fact that Kent is a dormitory school.

Girls who are raped "will blame anybody for it," Cress said. He added, "They can't be wrong. The girl doesn't deserve it (being raped), but she doesn't do her share to prevent it either. I feel sorry for a girl who is raped, not because she's raped, but because she's stupid. You pay for stupidity," Cress said.

The American citizen needs to learn to protect himself, said Cress. Girls who walk to their car alone at night are not doing their share to prevent an attack. Cress said that surely someone else will be walking in the same direction and could safely see the girl to her car. The Campus Escort Service is also available to escort students to and from their classes and cars.

One's own good judgement is the best protection against crime, said Cress and later added "I think some students around here major in stupidity."

DANA REVIEW

by Roger Harned

Donald W. Byo opened his bassoon recital Monday, Feb. 20, with the "Allegro Spiritoso" of J.B. Senaille. Byo's choice of harpsichord accompaniment for this Baroque composition proved to be particularly tasteful. His technique combined with the clarity of the harpsichord to provide an enjoyable introduction to the recital.

The "Concerto in B-flat" of Francois Devienne was once attributed to Mozart, and is so similar to Mozart's style that there is still some question as to its origin. Byo once again handled several technical passages with apparent ease.

"Etudes to Spring," one of my favorites on the recital, was written for solo bassoon by Mel Solomon in 1968. Byo performed four of the twelve movements. "The Squirrel" is a most delightful etude in which Solomon uses a rapid, low staccato melody, ca-denced with two high, legato notes to depict these little creatures. Byo played the tune with an exuberance that would have pleased Chip and Dale! "The Spanish Dancer" captures the flavor of Spanish music with its harmonies, flamenco style and torreador melodies. Byo's brisk tempo and clean technique in "Colors" provided an exciting conclusion to the Solomon "Etudes."

"Suite for English Horn and Bassoon, Opus 21" is one of the early works of contemporary composer, Alan Hovhaness. The Adagio employs an expressive, minor melody in the bassoon, and an English horn counter-melody. Jim Byo exercised good control of the English horn in the Allegro. His rich tone and sensitive interpretation of the flowing Andante melody combined with the precise and well-

Influenza hits hard at YSU

by Ed Shanks

Classes are usually not full every day during winter quarter because of snow and bad weather. However, the recent outbreak of flu seems to be taking its toll.

Mary Murphy, Supervisor of Student Health, said that "There seems to be four types of flu going around. The first brings on a severe headache and fever; the second causes nausea and dizziness; the third produces a very sore throat and a possible earache, and the fourth brings on nausea and diarrhea." Murphy added that few people actually have the Russian Flu that is going around. It is closest in symptoms to the first type of flu described above, but it also has additional symptoms.

It seems to be a combination of most of the above symptoms, Murphy said.

There probably will be an upsurge of flu-related absences, added Murphy, because of the cooler classrooms. Students who are not feeling well in the first place might get a chill, and this chill could develop into the flu. As yet, there have been no epidemics, nor have whole floors of dormitories come down with the flu, but this could change with the cooler temperatures to come.

Murphy noted that students living in the area seem to take care of each other. The people on duty in the clinic in the Beeghly Physical Education Building have seen many students return for medication for roommates after they themselves had been cured on the medication.

Murphy advised those with flu symptoms to "Stay warm, take a lot of fluids, and take aspirin." Care should be taken, because in several cases people have had the flu and had it develop into walking pneumonia.

Students who are torn between going to class, turning to a paper or doing something equally important or remaining home in bed where they can stay warm are advised to do the latter, said

Murphy. You can always call the instructor and explain to him just what the problem is, and chances are good that you will be advised to remain at home, rather than infect the whole class.

estimated that 70 per cent of rapes go unreported.

Interestingly enough, more rapes happen in winter than in summer, he said.

There has been a 9 per cent decrease in rape arrests between 1976 and 1977 in the city. Thirty-five arrests were made in 1976, while 33 were made in 1977.

Family Services gives aid for rape victims

by Leslie Pearce

Rape. What does this word do to you? Does it make you feel petrified? Is it similar to the feeling that a nightmare brings on? So what if you become the victim of a nightmare of this sort - what can you do? Well, I did some investigating and found the Rape Information and Counseling Program.

I spoke with Mr. Janosik, the director of Children's and Family Services. He said that the program consists of three components. The first is the Rape Hot Line or 743-RAPE (743-7273). It is a 24-hour, seven-day-a-week line for victims of sexual abuse.

The second component is the educational phase. In this area, speakers go out to talk about rape. In 1977, 99 talks were given. Fifty-four percent were presented to educational groups, such as universities and schools. Twenty-six percent were presented to social groups, and 20 percent of the speeches were given for training and professional purposes.

The speeches focus on two areas. The first area is how women can prevent rape by protecting themselves. Tips, such as checking a dark car before entering, are given on how to be careful in order to prevent rape. The second area has to do with the feelings the victim must deal with. Many times women are made to feel that the rape was her fault. But the speakers emphasize the fact that the woman is a victim of an act of violence, rather than a victim of a sexual act. This the victim does not bring on, because the rapist's strongest motivation is that of making someone fear him.

The third component of the program is dealing with the victim through counseling. In an emergency, immediate contact with the counseling program is possible. Plus, there are no fees for aid or counseling from the Rape Information and Counseling Program.

The Rape Program is referred to 45 percent of the time by hospitals, 18 percent by police departments, 17 percent by social workers, and 1 percent by physicians. Self-referred victims make up 18 percent of the clients. (Cont. on page 6)

Insult

Paul Cress, chief of security for YSU, because of his position and his years of service at the University, is one of the first turned to when the subject of crime on campus is discussed.

In light of this some of Cress's recent remarks on the subject of rape and women who fall victims to the crime are noteworthy.

According to Cress, girls who are raped "will blame anybody for it." He added, "They can't be wrong. The girl doesn't deserve it (being raped), but she doesn't do her share to prevent it either. I feel sorry for a girl who is raped, not because she's raped, but because she's stupid. You pay for your stupidity."

It is indeed unfortunate that there are still people who blame the victim of rape for the crime as much, or more than the attacker.

It is true that a woman should be careful and try to avoid situations where she might be more vulnerable to attack. For instance, she should avoid walking in dark, unpopulated areas. Never-the-less, it is a simplistic and ridiculous notion that only incautious or stupid women get raped.

Rape is a very indiscriminate crime; the situations in which rapes have occurred are as varied as the women who have been victimized.

Cress's philosophy that "the American citizen needs to learn to protect himself," might fit well in a John Wayne movie, but not every woman, or man, for that matter, can be trained in self-defense tactics.

A rape victim who finds she is incapable of fighting off her attacker can not justifiably be blamed for not being able to prevent the crime.

To call all attacked women incautious or stupid or to say they are not doing their share to prevent attacks is not only an insult against the victims but also an insult to all women.

Guz Says

Close Encounters

by Guz Scullin

Many a night I have wondered if there is intelligent life on other planets. I used to wonder if there was intelligent life and what their ACT scores would be. I used to wonder if they would play Monopoly, if they would buy "Slime," if they would watch Laverne & Shirley. No longer do I wonder if there is intelligent life out there, for now I know that there is. Allow me to tell you about my close encounter of the 3.873 kind.

Late last Tuesday night I was sitting in my chair writing, "I will never buy the Mona Lisa" one hundred times. I heard a knocking at my bedroom window. Being a basically curious person, I decided to find out who or what was knocking at my window. Suddenly, the window shattered, and tiny slivers of glass fell to the floor (where else would they fall to?). I felt a cold wind on my left earlobe. When I got to the window, I looked out and saw what looked like a "Corelle" saucer. I began to wonder if it was breakable. There were flashing green and blue lights. I thought to myself that if this was a space ship, then the things inside must have poor taste - blue with green, hideous! The space vehicle was the size of an average space ship. There was a sign on the front of the space ship that read "Eat at Xtzopl's." I heard a voice that sounded like a munchkin singing "Raindrops Keep Falling on My Head." I turned, and there before me was an honest-to-Pete, out-of-this-world foreigner.

"Who are you?" I questioned the greenish thing that stood before me.

"I am Nijholk from the planet Ruytgiop."

"Did you wipe your feet before you came in?" I questioned the short being.

"Yes, I did," he, she, or it answered.

"What can I do for you?"

"I need help," the thing responded.

"What kind of help?"

"I have personal problems, and on my planet there is no one who can help me with my personal problem."

"What is your problem?"

"Well, about three of your earth years ago, I was dating this girl. She was everything I ever wanted and more."

"Hey," I said, "what are the girls like on your planet?"

"Shut up you fool, and wait until I finish my story." "Sorry."

"What I want you to do is mail this letter to Ann Landers." He handed me his letter. "Is that all you want from me?"

"Well, yes. Wait, if you could, would you give me a glass of wawa?"

"Sure," I said as I went to get the being a Dixie cup of water. When I returned, he was gone with the wind. All that was left was his letter and broken glass.

I mailed the letter to Ann the other day and hopefully it will be in the paper soon. I haven't got the window fixed yet, and every night I curse that strange thing that entered my life like a firetruck, as I try to stay warm.

Believe me though, there is life on other planets and they have girl problems, too. Keep an eye out for the being's letter in Ann's column; it is a real juicy problem. As Nijholk said to me, "I am Nijholk." I leave you with those words of wisdom.

Council platforms invited

In order that the student body will be better informed about nominees for the coming student Council election, the Jambar will print statements by the candidates in the Feb. 28 issue of the Jambar.

Each nominee should submit a statement of 75 words or less. The statement should consist of information about the nominees reasons for running for student Council or plans if elected.

All statements must be turned into the Jambar office by 4 p.m. Friday Feb. 24. No Jambar endorsements will be given to candidates who have not submitted a statement for students to read.

Editor's Note: The purpose of the following column is to give Jambar staff reporters the chance to express personal views.

The opinions are, therefore, those of the reporter and not necessarily those of the Jambar or its editorial staff.

Now that our extra-curricular activities have been curtailed due to the energy crisis, what is being done with the money allotted for these activities from the General Fee? Part of our tuition goes toward these activities, and if this money is not being used for this purpose, why shouldn't we get it back? It seems to me that it is only fair that we get some of it back, in place of the activities that would normally take place.

The University claims to be saving energy by closing the gym, swimming pool, handball courts and other facilities. Now, not only do we not get to use these facilities, we have thrown our money away. We will never see it again. This money could be put toward some use, such as a rebate on the winter quarter tuition, or some other kind of distribution.

Since the payment of the General Fee is not voluntary, there ought to be some way to get the money back that would go towards these activities. We did not simply give our money towards these things, saying, "Here, take the money and spend it on the gym. If you don't use all of it, that's okay!" Ed Shanks

Top five films announced Academy awards nominations

by Greg Garramone

The Academy Award Nominations were announced Tuesday by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. Julia and The Turning Point took top honors with 11 nominations each. Star Wars was close behind with 10 nominations and Close Encounters of the Third Kind followed with 8.

Woody Allen became the second person in Academy history to receive acting, directing, and writing nominations for the same film Annie Hall. (Orson Wells received the same triple nomination in 1941 for Citizen Kane.) Others nominated for the best performance by an actor are Richard Burton for Equus; Richard Dreyfuss for The Goodbye Girl; Marcello Mastroianni for A Special Day; and John Travolta for Saturday Night Fever. Three of the nominees are up for the award for the first time: Allen, Travolta, and Dreyfuss. None of the five were nominated last year.

For the best performance by an actress in a leading role, the nominees are (sounds like I'm doing the show): Anne Bancroft, The Turning Point; Jane Fonda, Julia; Diane Keaton, Annie Hall; Shirley MacLaine, The Turning Point; and Marsha Mason, The Goodbye Girl. With the exception of Keaton, all have been nominated before, and both Fonda and Bancroft have won once, Fonda for Kluge, and Bancroft for The Miracle Worker.

The Goodbye Girl and Annie Hall were both nominated for best picture of the year, giving both movies a chance to sweep the top three awards. Other films nominated in this category include Julia, Star Wars, and The Turning Point.

Ten-year old Quinn Cummings was nominated for the best performance by an actress in a supporting role for her part in

The Goodbye Girl. Tatum O'Neal was the same age when she won the same award for Paper Moon in 1973. Also nominated are Leslie Brown, The Turning Point; Melinda Dillon, Close Encounters of the Third Kind; Vanessa Redgrave, Julia; and Tuesday Weld for Looking for Mr. Goodbar. None of the nominees have been nominated before in this category, although Redgrave has had two nominations for acting in a leading role.

Jason Robards received his second consecutive nomination in the category of best actor in a supporting role, this year for his performance in Julia. He won the Oscar last year for All the President's Men. The rest of the nominees are all mentioned for the first time. They are Mikhail Baryshnikov for The Turning Point, Peter Firth, for Equus, Alec Guinness, for Star Wars, and Maximilian Schell, also for Julia. Guinness and Schell have previously won Oscars for leading roles, Guinness for Bride Over the River Kwai, and Schell for Judgement at Nuremberg.

In addition to Woody Allen's nomination for best achievement in directing, are: George Lucas, Star Wars; Herbert Ross, The Turning Point; Steven Spielberg Close Encounters of the Third Kind; and Fred Zinneman, Julia. Lucas was nominated previously for American Graffiti, and Zinneman has won two Oscars; one in 1953 for From Here to Eternity and one in 1966 for A Man for All Seasons.

The winners of the awards will be announced on a nationally televised special on April 3.

Dana Review

balanced bassoon accompaniment for a very well-received performance.

Jim opened the second half of his recital with "Neuf Pieces" for bassoon and piano by Pierre Max DuBois. Each piece lasts only a minute or less, and contrasts with the other pieces in harmony, meter, style, mode, or tempo.

The final number on the program was the Poulenc "Trio for Oboe, Bassoon and Piano." The Presto features several technical runs, which were performed masterfully by both the bassoon and oboe. Jim Byo once again demonstrated his rich double-reed tone, this time on the oboe. The expressive Andante movement was performed with excellent contrast and dynamic line. The final Rondo once again demonstrated the remarkable technique of both the Byos. The only real problem of the recital was the piano. It is really more a problem of the recital hall, which is so lively that it has the effect of amplifying the piano (which the soloists could certainly do without). Hopefully, the University will install more curtains to absorb some of this sound some time in the near future. The technique of pianist Judy Darling was quite good. It's too bad we had to hear it so loudly. Irregardless, the recital, as a whole, was very enjoyable.

YSU to host O'Casey festival

The second Sean O'Casey Festival will be held at YSU Thursday through Saturday, March 2-4, and the program will include lectures, presentation of papers, production of an O'Casey play and an exhibit of first editions, letters and memorabilia of O'Casey.

Sponsored by the Sean O'Casey Review, YSU's departments of continuing education and English and the College of Fine and Performing Arts, the festival includes a performance of Junio and the Paycock.

Participants will include Ronan Murphy, consul general of Ireland, and Robert Lowery, editor of the O'Casey Review.

Speakers will include David Krause, editor of The Sean O'Casey Letters and Critical Autobiography, speaking on The Voices of Sean: Historical Epiphanies in the Autobiography, and Vincent Dowling, director of the Great Lakes Shakespeare Festival and former actor/director of the Abbey Theatre, speaking on Sean O'Casey in Production.

Rape Hotline

Last year, the program served 104 rape victims. In 1976, 78 were served and in 1975, 83 victims were helped by this center.

So remember, if you become part of the nightmare called rape, there are people who care. Contact the Rape Information and Counseling Program and you can awake to the kindness and the type of concern you need.

Basketeers clinch tourney berth; gymnasts enter state competition

by Bill Snier

The YSU women's basketball team has accepted a bid to play in the state tournament to be held March 3-4 at Bowling Green State University.

Other teams which have received bids to the tourney include Ohio State, Toledo, University of Cincinnati, Miami (O), Cleveland State and Bowling Green.

"I think its a great honor to be selected as one of the top eight teams in the state," stated Coach Joyce Ramsey upon hearing of the bid.

The Penguins will face the home standing Bowling Green women in the opening game of the single elimination tourney at 3 p.m. Friday, March 3. More information about subsequent games will appear next week.

The Penguins, with an outstanding record of 10-1, added John Carroll to their list of victims Tuesday by trouncing the Streaks, 87-50, on the visitor's court.

"We played our best game of the season," remarked Ramsey. "We received a total team effort and everyone played extremely well."

The Penguins were paced by Wanda Grant, who gunned in 29 points. Grant is also currently the women's leading rebounder with a 15.3 average per game. Linda Fredricks tossed in 24 points and Vicki Lawrence, the team's leading scorer with just over 17 points a game, chipped in with 13. The game was costly, however. Lawrence was forced to the bench with an ankle injury that makes her doubtful for the Penguins final regular season contest with Duquesne.

The Penguins will tune up for the state tournament Sunday when they take on Duquesne in the first game of a college doubleheader at the Civic Arena in Pittsburgh.

YSU's rapidly improving women's gymnastics squad will participate in the state tournament this Saturday, February 25, at Kent State University.

Besides the Penguins, other teams entered include Ohio State, Kent State, Bowling Green, Miami and West Virginia.

Although YSU is currently 2-9, Coach Helen Mines' youthful squad has made steady improvement in their last five meets, winning two contests and narrowly losing two meets by one point.

Mines expects Ohio State, Kent and Bowling Green to be YSU's stiffest competition at the meet.

Last winter, YSU finished fifth at this meet and Mines believes that if her squad can defeat Miami, they will have the opportunity to improve on last year's performance.

"We're setting the defeat of Miami as our goal," said Mines. "If we beat them, we should finish fourth and have improved by one place our finish of a year ago. We're finally healthy and should be at full strength Saturday."

Jill Lonsinger, the Penguins top performer in all-around competition, will return to action after missing the last three weeks with an injured knee. A solid performer, Lonsinger has been YSU's third or fourth top scorer this season.

In their most recent contest, the Penguins split a double dual meet with Pittsburgh and Indiana (Pa.). Pittsburgh scored 140 points, YSU 104.4, and Indiana 103.45.

YSU received a strong performance from captain Linda Wiegel. Wiegel won a first place in floor competition with an excellent score of 8.1, and was the Penguins top performer in all-around with an effort of 26.9.

INTRAMURALS

Table Tennis

Dave DeMay, playing for Kilcawley Diseases, scored a stunning upset over team member Bob Green to capture first place in the Intramural Table Tennis Tournament. In the consolation match, the Kilcawley II team played each other, with Mike Parish defeating John Kern.

In the women's tournament, first place went to Maureen Meenachan. Wendy Stamm came in second, Linda Jo Smith third, and Peggi Oberg fourth.

Bowling

The YSU Bowling Club Intramural team competed in an extramural bowling tournament at Cuyahoga Community College and finished second. Congratulations go to the team members: Dave Pugh, Mark Novothy, Jim Warino, Bill Snier, and Ed Hamrock.

Football

Congratulations, though a little late, go to the Intramural Football Champs, the Ohzones. They proved that a team could not only win, but could conduct themselves in a sportsmanlike manner. The great combination of Mel Plunkett to Brian Meenachan proved to be too hard to handle, not only for the regular season but also in the All University playoffs.

Penguins hold fall banquet; awards given in four sports

by Bill Snier

Awards were presented in four fall sports Monday night during the First Annual Fall Sports banquet held at the Kilcawley Center multi-purpose room.

Assistant Athletic Director Pauline Noe presented "Most Valuable Player" awards for women's sports to Cindy Buraizer for field hockey and Judy Rutz for volleyball. In addition, four-year sports participants in each sport were presented with plaques.

Soccer coach George Hunter introduced his team and presented his "Most Valuable Player" award to senior Bassam Amer, whom he referred to as "a small man in stature that contributed to our team in a big way."

Head football coach Bill Narduzzi introduced his staff and team and presented awards to the best players at certain positions on the line and in the backfield as well as "The Penguin Pack" awards. The "Pack" awards are presented to gridgers who, in Narduzzi's words, "played well enough to win in at least six ballgames during the past season."

A total of 23 players received "Penguin Pack" awards, with only four of these being seniors. Players receiving awards for being the best at their individual positions were Jeff Lear (best offensive lineman), Jim Ferranti (best offensive back), Fred Thomas (best defensive lineman) and Greg Fitzpatrick (best defensive back).

Sophomore wide receiver sensation Jim Ferranti was named the "Most Valuable Player" on the 1977 squad. Besides playing on offense, Jim played on both specialty teams and also broke the YSU receiving record formally held by his brother.

Team captains for next year's squad were also named by the coaches. The two men named were junior defensive tackle Sam Barbera and junior offensive tackle Tom Farina.

WFMJ sportscaster Jack Corrigan served as master of ceremonies with YSU Athletic Director Paul Amodio and Mr. Don McCloud also making a few remarks. Football player Ed McGlasson delivered the invocation.

Tourney Outlook

As of yesterday, only one team has been named to participate in the Great Lakes Regional Tournament. That team is a team already beaten by YSU, the Northern Kentucky Norsemen.

It had been rumored that Eastern Illinois would be selected as the home site for the tournament (because of the coal strike, YSU withdrew their application), but their application was turned down Tuesday by the NCAA Committee.

The other three berths will come from among the following teams: St. Joseph's of Indiana (16-7), the University of Indiana at Evansville (18-7), YSU (15-8), Eastern Illinois (15-9) and Bellarmine (13-9).

The committee will meet on Sunday afternoon and their decision will be announced Monday morning. At this moment, Indiana at Evansville is the frontrunner to be the host team and therefore gain an automatic selection.

Volunteers are needed now at these agencies:

Swimming results

The YSU men's swimming team narrowly won their final dual meet of the season by edging Grove City College, 57-56.

The Penguins, who led for most of the meet, suddenly found themselves six points behind going into the final event of the day. But the 400-yd freestyle relay team of Todd Spencer, Paul Loonemann, Greg Stokes, and Tom Bosse swept their meet in a pool record time of 3:18.2 to give the Penguins the victory.

Todd Spencer had a real record-breaking meet as he also broke the pool record in the 200-yd individual medley with a time of 2:02.9.

Because of the coal shortage, the Penguin's final home meet with Pittsburgh has been cancelled. The swimmers, who posted an overall record of 8-4, will now set their sights on the Penn-Ohio Conference Championships to be held at Westminster College on March 2-4.

End is near Covington nears goal

With only about six days remaining, Jeff Covington has a very good chance of being selected to participate in the Fourth Annual Pizza Hut Basketball Classic.

There is a major problem however. Exactly 90 boxes of ballots have been distributed to various groups around the University and around the area. Only 70 boxes have been returned. It is very important to get these ballots in as soon as possible to avoid backlogging at the end of the campaign.

If you cannot fill out all of the ballots that you have taken, please return the unused ballots for, as YSU Sports Information Director Dick Sapara makes very clear, "people are dying to fill out ballots and can't get their hands on any at this time."

Sapara also makes another point about the importance of turning in the ballots as soon as possible. "The computer at the balloting headquarters can only process about 60,000 ballots per day. By turning in the ballots late in the drive, we run the risk of not having the computer tabulate all of the ballots we turn in to Pizza Hut."
