YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio - The 11th annual Eastern Ohio Counselors Association Workshop will be held March 13 on the campus of Youngstown State University. Keynote speaker will be sex educator and sex therapist, Dr. Judith Huffman-Seifer.

"Adolescence: Confusion, Confessions, Conception and Control," is the title of this year's program which is sponsored by the Eastern Ohio Counselors Association and YSU's Counseling Department and Office of Continuing Education.

The program will focus on current issues in adolescent's decision making. It is designed to assist counselors in developing alternative views of how teens today are subliminally educated by the media, their peers, and oftentimes their parents to become sexually active, all too often becoming pregnant.

The workshop is intended for community agency counselors, school counselors, psychologists, graduate students in psychology and education, clergy, and others in the helping professions.

Dr. Huffman-Seifer believes that by broadening our views of adolescent sexuality thereby recognizing many previously hidden agendas and influences on sexual expression, counselors will recognize their abilities to interact, intervene and act as a successful advocate for the troubled adolescent.

Dr. Huffman-Seifer, who has a private practice in Dayton, is a graduate of St. John's Hospital School of Nursing and Quincy College in Illinois. She has a master's degree in human sexuality and a doctoral degree in sex research from the Institute for Advanced Study of Human Sexuality in San Francisco. She is a member of the teaching faculty in the Department of Psychology at the University of Dayton and is affiliated with the Department of Psychiatry at the Wright State University School of Medicine.
