YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio - Youngstown State University's first Thomas Colloquium program speaker, Irving Kristol, has been announced and a lecture program is scheduled April 13 on the YSU campus.

Kristol is a member of the "Wall Street Journal's" Board of Contributors and is a professor of social thought at New York University's Graduate School of Business Administration.

An 11:00 a.m. press conference in Bliss Hall, room 3006, will be held that morning. Immediately following the press conference, Kristol will address university students, faculty and the public from 12:00-1:00 p.m. in the Bliss Hall Ford Auditorium. While on campus Kristol will also host the YSU Small Business Administration's (SBA) Student Advisory Council.

The Paul J. and Marguerite K. Thomas Colloquium on Free Enterprises is supported by the Thomas Endowment which is provided to the University annually, by the Youngstown Foundation. The purpose of the Thomas Colloquium series is to support public lectures, seminars and workshops conducive to the growth of the free enterprise system. All lectures are free and open to the public.

The former editor of Commentary magazine, The Reporter magazine and co-founder of Encounter magazine, Kristol graduated from City College in 1920 and since has received honorary degrees from Franklin and Marshall College, the University of Dallas and Kenyon College. He has been on the faculty of NYU since 1969.

His professional positions include: executive vice-president of Basic Books, Inc., a New York publishing house; co-editor of the "Public Interest Magazine";
