Students protest lack of engineering classes

by Timothy Fitzpatrick

Eighteen electrical engineering students, upset and frustrated by the lack of necessary summer courses, gathered in Tod Hall yesterday to request monies for the addition of more classes.

The students went to see Leon Rand, acting academic vice president, saying that not enough summer courses were offered for them to complete the sequence of classes necessary to continue in the fall.

John Soroka, junior, electrical engineering, explained that approximately 72 students needed to take a sequence of classes offered only in the summer. He said that only 20 of these students could be accommodated.

Soroka said that the students had approached George E. Sutton, dean of the school of engineering, about the problem and that he had instructed them to go see Rand.

Sutton remarked that "I sent the students up because I have not been able to get the necessary funds (for the summer courses) and I thought that maybe they could."

He continued, "I thought that this (the request by the electrical engineering students) might help to sensitize the administration to the problem before I made by requests."

Rand admitted Soroka and another student to his office at about 1:30 p.m. and said that he would check into the problem. He said that he would do everything he could to get the classes for the students but added, "I don't know where the money will come from."

Rand said that the scarcity problem of courses for the students was caused by the loss of instructors in engineering who have not yet been replaced.

Rand added that plans were being developed to limit the enrollment of the engineering school so that this problem would not

Coffelt reports enrollment rise

Trustees approve tuition hike for 80-81 budget

by Timothy Fitzpatrick

The approval of YSU's 1980-81 budget, which includes a $20 tuition increase, and a report of rising enrollment highlighted the Board of Trustees' spring quarter meeting Saturday morning.

The new budget shows an increase of 8.7 per cent in operating expenditures over the 1979-80 budget. The $20 increase in the instructional fee for full-time students and a $2 per-credit-hour increase in the instructional fee for part-time students will provide some of the necessary increased revenue.

However, the increase for part-time students will be partially offset by the adoption of a new graduated general fee for those students.

The general fee has been a flat $25 for part-time enrollment but next year it will be $10 for those registering for 1 or 2 credits, $15 for 3 or 4 credits, $20 for 5 or 6 credits and $25 for 7 to 11 credits.

Kilcawley Hall residents will also be affected by the 1980-81 budget. Their room and board fees show an increase of 19 per cent caused by increased utility rates, food costs and personnel salaries.

The budget also provides a 20.31 per cent increase for intercollegiate athletics. Attorney Paul M. Dutton, the newest board member, questioned this increase and was informed that team travel costs and the acquisition of a ticket manager and a secretary add to an expense hike.

YSU President John Coffelt announced that enrollment is up despite predictions of a slump. The spring quarter enrollment now is 14,023 as opposed to last spring's 13,508, a total increase of 515 students.

Coffelt attributed the rise in enrollment to the locally depressed economy saying that more people were taking advantage of available financial aids because of a lack of jobs.

Other business of the Trustee meeting included a report on the conditions surrounding the two recent explosions injuring five students in the Engineering Science Building.

It was reported that an inspection of the lab concerned is forthcoming and Dean of Engineering George Sutton said that one student involved is

YSU lab assistant receives burns in outdoor chemistry experiment

by Elizabeth C. Lane

A YSU lab assistant received substantial burns to the hands and face while assisting in a chemistry experiment around 4 p.m. yesterday outside Ward Beecher.

Richard Kortes, senior, chemistry, received second degree and possible third degree burns of the left hand and first degree burns of the face while lighting a magnesium ribbon during an inorganic synthesis lab. He was taken to North Side Hospital by ambulance where he was treated and later released.

Kortes is not enrolled in the lab class, but was assisting Ron considering legal action against the University.

Also, in a report to the trustees, Coffelt clarified a situation concerning the forensic lab. He said that the University is still trying to collect back-rent

Bishop, senior, chemistry, in performing the Goldschmid experiment which is a type of oxidation-reduction test.

According to Bishop, Kortes began lighting the magnesium ribbon when a piece of the strip fell into a crucible and ignited the mixture.

Bishop said the experiment was performed outside Ward Beecher because the asbestos covering in the protective hood was destroyed by the same experiment late last week.

Dr. Friedrich Koknat, chemistry and instructor of the class, explained the Goldschmid reaction is an experiment which tries to make chromium metal by reacting chromium oxide with aluminum metal. Koknat said this experiment requires that a magnesium ribbon be used as a fuse.

According to Koknat, the experiment produces a violent reaction. "Flames may shoot out as high as two to three feet," explained Koknat.

Koknat also commented that the experiment is difficult to perform outdoors. "Outside it's not easy to light the fuse," said Koknat.

new graduated General Fee rates

by Barbara Janesh

General fee income for student activities and auxiliary enterprises for next year will increase an average of 8.6 per cent as a result of action taken by the Board of Trustees, Saturday, in approving the 1980-81 University budget.

Student General Fee assessment next year will be graduated from $10 to $25 for part-time students depending upon the number of credit hours they are enrolled, and will remain at $55 for full-time students.

The increases in allocations were possible even though the general fee funds available for disbursement next year are projected at $1,989,625, nearly $104,000 less than 1979, primarily because less money is expected to be needed for the Kilcawley Center Expansion Fund.

Currently, $10 of the $55 billed full-time students as general fee, and $5 charged part-time students, is placed into a fund to finance expansion projects for Kilcawley. Because this money has been generating its own interest income, less student general fee money will be allocated for this purpose next year, freeing over $260,000 to be distributed elsewhere.

Dr. Charles McBriarty, associate vice president for student services, explained that increases in allocations for most funds were granted to accommodate raises in salaries, student wages, stipends and general operational costs.

Among the more notable changes related to the general fee allocations, is the decision not to charge students for admission to Spotlight Theatre productions. McBriarty explained that individuals reviewing the budget, thought that since Spotlight was financed by student fees, the students should not be assessed a second time with an admission charge.

Changes in three other budgets concerned the allocation of funds for new positions.

Intercollegiate athletics, will receive $866,322 for general fee money (a 10.5 per cent increase from 1979-80) for its $1,272,328 budget and will add a ticket coordinator to organize selling campaigns and a secretary for the assistant athletic director and women's athletics coaches, stated McBriarty.

In addition, part of the salaries of two assistant coaches, currently paid from the intramural/recreational fund, McBriarty continued, will be absorbed by intercollegiate athletics, because of revisions in the coaches duties.

The budget also includes the addition of five new athletic scholarships. Dr. Lawrence Looby, associate vice president of public services, reported to the Board that three of these are for men's basketball, and two are for women's basketball.

The remainder of the income for next year's intercollegiate athletic budget will be generated by ticket sales and television revenue, McBriarty explained.

In addition, the new budget permits the fund to carry forward, as it did last year, unexpended money from 1979-80. Looby estimates that this balance

Inflation, enrollment influence figures

YSU's 80-81 budget increased by 3.5 million

by Barbara Janesh

YSU will be operating with a $42,358,553 budget next year, up nearly $3.5 million or 8.7 per cent from 1979-80.

The budget, recommended by University President John Coffelt, was approved by the Board of Trustees at their meeting on Saturday.

In an introductory letter accompanying the formal submission of the budget to the Trustees, Coffelt explained that "a projected one per cent drop in enrollment and the necessity of accommodating to double-digit inflation," have caused the University to proceed "cautiously" in compiling the document.

He added, however, that the budget "will continue to allow the University to meet its obligations and provide the necessary services."

Caution was further exercised, as reported in a 13-page budget summary, because of the University's "strong commitment to keep student fees as low as feasible."

The student instructional fee, however, will increase $20 per quarter to $250 and $2 per credit hour to $22, with the adoption of this budget. In addition, students boarding in the Kilcawley Residence Hall will be assessed $535 per quarter, an increase of $85 over the $450 charged this year.

General fee charges will remain at $55 for full-time students, and will be $10 for students enrolled for one or two credits, $15 for those with three to four credits, $20 for five to six credits, and $25 for seven to 11 credits.

Instruction fees totaling $9.8 million will supply roughly 27 per cent of the revenue for the University Operation Fund. This fund comprises nearly 85 per cent or $36 million of the total budget and it is used primarily to finance instruction and departmental research (54.2 per cent).

In addition, this fund, receiving most of its revenue (64 per cent) from the state of Ohio, finances the operation and maintenance of the physical plant (15 per cent), institutional support-administrative positions, classified personnel, security, campus development, University Relations (3.6 per cent), academic support-library, media center, faculty development, academic dean positions (9.2 per cent), and student services (5.3 per cent).

A major increase will be budgeted for the purchase of utilities, which are expected to cost YSU $2,009,400 in 1980-81. This is nearly $333,900 or 20 per cent more than was allocated for 1979-80.

The new budget will also accommodate increases in wages and salaries for student, faculty and administrative positions.

Student wages, according to the budget summary will be increased $.25 per hour, or an average of 9 per cent. Hourly rates for 1980-81 will be $2.90, $3.05, $3.20 and $3.35, depending upon the student's amount of accumulated hours of employment at YSU.

Salaries for graduate assistants (the University employs 90) will be a uniform $3750 per year. Currently, first-year assistants are receiving $2,900 while second year assistants are earning $3300.

Full-time faculty salaries will be increased by 9.25 per cent

(subject to maxima by ranks) as the University had negotiated earlier with the YSU Chapter of the Ohio Education Association.

Compensation for full-time faculty in 1980-81 (including salary and fringe benefits) will average $28,980, up from $26,685 this year.

Rates for limited service faculty will increase an average of 7.5 per cent with the new budget. Depending upon the academic degree an instructor holds, she/he will receive $195, $215, or $260 per credit hour, up from $180, $200, and $240 in 1979-80.

Four new full-time faculty and the equivalent of five full-time limited service instructors will be added to the YSU teaching staff.

The student faculty ratio for 1980-81 is expected to be just under 20:1.

Finally, administrative salaries for all individuals except academic deans and persons reporting directly to the president, are to be increased across the board by $1200.

An additional $90,529 will be available for further raises to recognize merit. Total increases will range from 4.5 per cent to 8 per cent more.

The chart below indicates the 1980-81 allocations and compares them with those for 1979-80. Funds 30-34, receiving their income from sources outside the University, while not new to the YSU budget, are included in the official document for the first time this year.

EditorialPerspective on increase

Despite a supposed "commitment to keeping student fees as low as feasible," YSU administrators recommended and the Board of Trustees approved a $20 per quarter tuition hike for next year.

While this 8.6 per cent increase will make few students happy, when one puts it in the perspective of the overall economy, and when one notes the accompanying wage and salary increases at the University for 1980-81, expected rage becomes less justified, and is subdued.

The new budget, allocating 8.7 per cent more money than this year, contains few surprises, with increases in major funds comparable to those established for 1979-80.

EditorialLid on Athletics

General Fee disbursements for 1980-81 are, on the whole, comparable to the recommendations made by the student and administrative members of the Budget Subcommittee on the General Fee. However, members of the University Budget Committee, President Coffelt, and the Board of Trustees increased the subcommittee recommendation for intercollegiate athletics by some $59,000.

Intercollegiate athletics continues to be one of the largest budgeted funds, absorbing more student general fee money than any other.

It is unjust to require that all YSU students pay nearly half of every general fee dollar to support athletic activities which are of little benefit to most, and of questionable indirect benefit.

While it is unrealistic to expect the fund to be decreased immediately, the administration should have made more of an effort to limit the intercollegiate athletic budget.

Granted, much of the the 1980-81 increase will be used to accommodate fixed raises in salaries and wages. Considering student sentiment on the matter, however, it would not have been unreasonable to request that the intercollegiate department "tighten its belt" and absorb more of the increase.

Intercollegiate athletics at YSU has become an ever-expanding demon, devouring student fees at a rapid rate. While the need for the program is recognized, as is the need for some growth, beyond certain proportions, it must be limited.

Reporters insightExamines attempted hostage rescue

by Neil S. Yutkin

President Carter should receive, as has been suggested by one Jambar pundit, the Mayaguez Incident of the Year Award for his recent abortive attempt at rescue of the hostages in Iran.

Mayaguez was an incident during the Ford Regime, when marines were sent into rescue American civilians, and more marines were lost in the rescue attempt than people were rescued.

Later it was revealed that the captured civilians were about to be released.

It is not that anyone can fault the President for his attempt to rescue the hostages, in any manner that he deemed necessary, but what has to be questioned is his sense of timing the rescue attempt.

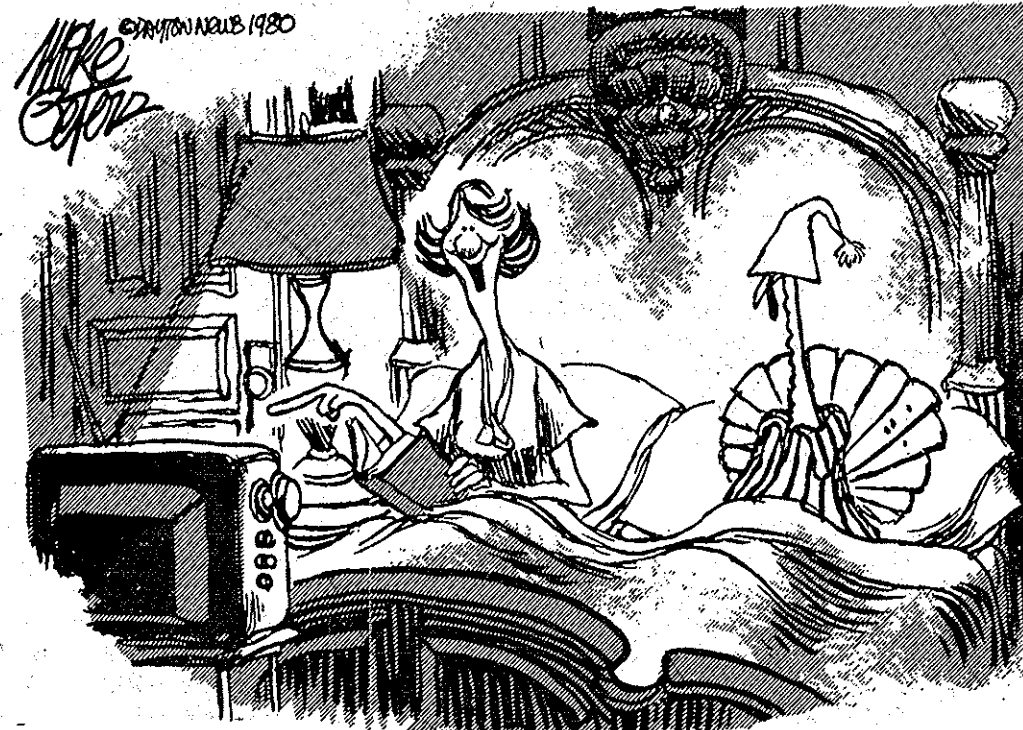

If the attempt had been made in the first month, or even the fifth month, few people would have criticized the success or failure of the mission. But coming in the sixth month, immediately after we obtained the support of our allies in Europe and Asia in enforcing an economic boycott of Iran on the grounds that this boycott would forego the necessity of military action, the timing of the rescue makes one question the President's motives.

Now I am not suggesting that the motivation that the President responded to was his sagging popularity, and his defeat in the Pennsylvania primary, but I am saying that the loss had definite bearing on his decision to launch the rescue attempt when he did.

The operation had probably been planned for a later date, in case the economic sanctions had failed, and was moved up because the President felt it would hurt the effectiveness of the mission (which it probably didn't) and it would help the President in his (non) campaign.

Where it did hurt the President, and the hostages, is with our allies. Having been promised that the sanctions against Iran would allow America the

Urges students to join May Days

To the Editor of the Jambar:
To the Students of YSU:

On April 22, Damian Garcia, a member of the Revolutionary Communist Party (RCP) and one of the three revolutionaries who raised the red flag over the Alamo was brutally murdered in E. Los Angeles by people who the RCP claimed were police agents. Another revolutionary was seriously injured.

As the (alleged) agents carried out this hit job, singling out these two Alamo revolutionaries, they called out, "You guys hate the government; well, I am the government. Your flag is red; my flag is red, white and blue."

Minutes later, pigs in uniform cordoned off the masses and arrested Damian's comrades, stopping them from helping him, and left him lying in a bloodstained sheet for over two hours.

This cowardly murder on top of over 400 busts across the country in three months lays bare their dreadful fear of May Day 1980. It is their fear of the masses refusal to be blind sheep, meekly accepting the oppression and degradation of this system and their plans for world war, that forces them to show their true nature in these vicious attacks.

They are weak and sense what difference it will make for the working class and others here to stand firmly with the workers and people of the world and not with them.

The stakes are clear. Nothing less than the possibility of revolution to bring this mad dog system to its righteous death stands on the horizon for the oppressed world wide.

We must take the red flag from this comrade, and join the forward march of history. Our action or inaction on May 1 could be decisive as to whether we're prepared to go all the way in the upheavals of the '80s.

The bus for Cleveland leaves Thursday, at 8:30 p.m., from Federal Plaza E. and Walnut. We will march May 1, taking history into our hands, serving the highest interests of our class. Where will you be? What will you be doing? Who will you be serving?

forward will be $53,251.

The Jambar, another fund which generates some of its own income (through the sale of advertising space), will acquire two new positions with the new allocations.

The paid summer staff of the paper, currently consisting only of the editor, will be expanded to include a make-up and a news editor, McBriarty related.

The Jambar will be allocated $31,366 in general fee money, 2.3 per cent more than 1979-80. The newspaper's total budget is $69,887, down from $71,167 in 1980-81.

Student government, funded entirely by student general fee monies will be budgeted $75,000 for 1980-81, an increase over the previous year of $11,000 or 17.2 per cent.

The group will add a full-time secretary and a student grievance officer to their paid staff. Although student government has designated an individual to handle student grievances in the past, this will be the first year that the person will be financially compensated for his/her services, McBriarty explained.

Other changes related to the general fee concern forensics and the marching band.

Forensics, previously funded solely through the general fee, will no longer receive its financial support. McBriarty explained that the Budget Committee, in reviewing 1980-81 requests, determined that forensics was more of an academic matter than a student activity, and should thus be supported by University funds allocated to the School of Fine and Performing Arts.

The Marching Band, comprised of approximately 165 individuals, will receive a 1980-81 allocation of $17,250, 56.8 per cent or $6,250 more than 1979-80. McBriarty explained that the increase was granted to compensate music majors in the band for the added academic costs incurred by participating in the group. Such participation necessitates that music majors take an overload of courses at the University.

Kilcawley Center to be expanded; Pub, Brief-Eater will seat more

by Fred Woak

Construction on the $1.8 billion expansion project for Kilcawley Center is expected to begin sometime in June or July and should be completed fall 1981, according to Phil Hirsch, director of Kilcawley Center.

He explained to Student Council that under the new plan, The Pub will be enlarged from 94 to 170 seats and making-pizza facilities will be added. Hirsch pointed out that The Pub will be made accessible to handicapped students. The Kilcawley gameroom will also be expanded to include space for board games.

The decision to sell pizza in The Pub was made after a student survey was taken by the center staff. Some 70 per cent of the students surveyed said they would like fresh pizza served. Hirsch said that many surveys were taken to see what sort of improvements the student body would like to see made.

The Brief-Eater will be closed for the completion of a new 300-seat cafeteria. Hirsch said the new dining room will speed service as well as free the Chestnut Room for other programs during the day.

Hirsch said he hopes the new cafeteria will provide a place where faculty and students can get together to continue the educational process outside of the classroom.

A new art gallery will be added to reduce the moving of art works from the present store room to the current gallery which will be converted to a quiet study lounge, Hirsch said.

He was asked if considerations would be made for non-smokers in the new lounge. Although no rules have yet been set, Hirsch said that non-smokers would be considered, especially after a recent report which indicates that the effects of smoke on non-smokers is greater than previously thought.

The plans also call for the relocation of the copy center and the expansion of the Dollar Bank, four new meeting rooms and a reception area, and improvements in the resident hall student's dining room.

A portion of the budget has been allocated for energy conser-no recommendation that legal action be taken at this time.

Edmund J. Salata, dean of administrative services, reported that the All-Sports Complex should be completed in January 1982, since work is under way. When Dutten inquired whether the complex would be available for that football season, Salata declined to offer any assurances.

Salata also said that bids would be received in June to start "phase II" of Kilcawley's expansion. He reported that the expansion should be complete in August.

The University may provide employment opportunities to the community, according to Coffelt. He said that the University needs to update its audits because they are continually behind schedule.

Coffelt recommended that a local public accountant firm be contracted to accomplish this audit update.

During the non-snow off season the U.S. Women's Alpine Ski Team members go on the "Ski Team" diet to lose 20 pounds in two weeks. That's right - 20 pounds in 14 days! The basis of the diet is chemical food action and was devised by a famous Colorado physician especially for the U.S. Ski Team. Normal energy is maintained (very important) while reducing. You keep "full" - no starvation - because the diet is designed that way. It's a diet that is easy to follow whether you work, travel or stay at home.

This is, honestly, a fantastically successful diet. If it weren't, the U.S. Women's Ski Team wouldn't be permitted to use it! Right? So, give yourself the same break the U.S. Ski Team gets. Lose weight the scientific, proven way. Even if you've tried all the other diets, you owe it to yourself to try the U.S. Women's Ski Team Diet. That is, if you really do want to lose 20 pounds in two weeks. Order today. Tear this out as a reminder.

Send only $2.00 ($2.25 for Rush Service - cash is O.K. - to NORTHWEST PRODUCTS, P.O. BOX 70222, Seattle, Wash. 98178. Don't order unless you want to lose 20 pounds in two weeks! Because that's what the Ski Team Diet will do.

Prevention program designed to help women

Common sense can reduce likelihood of rape

by Ed Menaldi

Common sense and a woman's willingness to accept responsibility for her own action will reduce the likelihood of rape, according to Sandra McConnell, YSU patrol officer.

Richard Turkiewicz, director of campus security, reported that in a lecture given last Monday, McConnell explained that Rape Prevention Awareness is a program designed to make people aware of the potential for rape, both on and off campus.

He added that McConnell explained steps women should take to prevent rape.

She suggested, first of all, that women be aware of the possibility of attack. It is also important to use good common sense and judgement in one's day to day activities, for example, refrain from hitchhiking. Be aware of strangers, especially as those trying to pick up fast dates in bars. And report any suspicious occurrences to the police.

Gale W. Mills, assistant director of security, stated that the focus of McConnell's speech was to make women aware that they must assume responsibilities for their own actions. Also, ways for women to protect themselves by using common sense were discussed.

Questions concerning the legal procedure followed in the event of rape were also discussed.

In addition to McConnell's speech, the film A Preventive Enquiry was shown. The women, four rape victims, gave their views on what they could have done to prevent rape. They also told how their lives were affected after the rapes.

McConnell spoke before an audience of 40 women and answered questions which arose. In addition, tables were set up for an exhibition of rape prevention literature.

The Rape Awareness Program is a crime prevention tool, reported Turkiewicz. "It is offered to make people aware of the possibility of crimes before they actually occur," he said.

Turkiewicz pointed out that pamphlets are available in Kilcawley, on the prevention of other crimes. Rape prevention was stressed because of the serious emotional trauma which often follows such an incident.

"Pamphlets are part of the educational tool of informing people of what crimes are most numerous. They suggest ways to prevent these crimes," said Turkiewicz.

Mills added that Kilcawley is the most logical place to post pamphlets, because of the large number of students who pass through it each day. He added that the security budget is small and that availability of pamphlets is limited.

Turkiewicz explained that the rape awareness is a pilot program developed by the security department and offered primarily for female students. He said that in the fall the security department is going to expand this program making it available to more students such as those in sororities.

Mills added that the pilot program was started as a public relations gesture. He stated that pilot programs are developed to create student interest.

"There is going to be a continuation of rape awareness programs in the fall," Mills said. "Whether or not awareness programs in other fields of crime are offered depends on public interest."

YSU fees to remain lower than other Ohio colleges

Despite increased tuition rates for 1980-81, YSU fees are expected to remain under those for most of Ohio's 12 state supported universities, according to a report released by Dr. Neil Humphrey, executive vice president.

Currently, YSU's tuition is second lowest for both in-state and out-of-state undergraduates. The $855 per academic year ($690, instructional fee; $165 general fee), charged full-time students is higher only than Central State University, and, according to the report, $134 or 13.5 per cent below the $989 mean for the universities.

Humphrey's report further explains that of the universities, YSU charges the least amount of graduate tuition ($413 per quarter or 32.6 per cent below the average), and the least for room and board ($357 or 20.9 per cent below the mean).

"Based upon preliminary information it can be assumed that several, if not all, Ohio Board of Regents universities, will adopt fee increases for next fall," Humphrey explained.

Although unable to predict what tuition charges for next year will be for these universities, Humphrey concluded that if rates were not raised, YSU's new rate of $915 ($750, instructional fee; $165, general fee) would be third from the bottom and $74 below the 1979-80 mean for in-state tuition.

Graduate tuition, Humphrey continued would remain the lowest, at $353 below the average for in-state students, as would room and board charges ($1605 per academic year), at $102 below the 1979-80 mean.

Planitarium presents drama on 'The Last Question'

YSU's Planitarium will present Isaac Asimov's science fiction masterpiece, The Last Question for its May program.

All shows will begin at 8 p.m. and run Fridays and Saturdays, May 2, 3, 9, 10, 16, and 17. All showings are free and open to the public.

Reservations are required because of limited seating capacity.

Specially adapted for showing in planetariums, the story begins in the twenty-first century and moves through billions of years into the future as man asks The Last Question: What happens when the universe runs down?

The YSU Planetarium becomes the setting for each of the five scenes of drama: a master computer vault, a starship traveling to a new world, a remote planet of the Galactic Council, intergalactic space, and finally the edge of the universe when at last the answer is found.

Having published 200 books and short stories, Asimov said that he considers The Last Question one of his personal favorites.

Reservations may be made by calling the YSU Planetarium at 742-3616.

Cyrus Vance, Secretary of State, it seems, felt so strongly that we cheated our allies, that in good conscience he has resigned.

Whether the sanctions will still be imposed by our allies now seems in doubt, and I would hope that Americans look closely at this point before they jump on the "hooray, it's about time we did something" bandwagon that seems to have surfaced over the weekend.

Rosselli wins 400th

BOOKS

Cardinal
10412 N. PHILIPS
YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO 44503

by Ron Anderson
Another milestone in the distinguished coaching career of YSU's head basketball and baseball coach Dom Rosselli was reached Friday, as the Penguins won the second game of a doubleheader from the Akron Zips on the Penguins' home field of Pemberton Park.

The win marked the four-hundredth time that a YSU baseball team has left the field victorious under Rosselli's tutelage.

"All I can say is that I have to give a lot of credit to a lot of kids who have played ball here over the years," was Rosselli's reaction to the win.

"Over the years we have been blessed with a lot of good kids for our program," Rosselli continued.

Despite Friday's victory over

Akron the Penguins could win only that one game over the weekend as they lost two others, slipping to a 6-4 mark for the season.

In the first game of Friday's doubleheader with Akron, the Zips scored once in the second inning and once in the fourth and that proved to be enough as they shut out the Penguins by a 2-0 score.

Lee Rudibaugh started for YSU on the mound, allowing one run to two hits while striking out four and walking only one. Rudibaugh took the loss after a three-inning stint on the mound.

Bob Haseley followed Rudibaugh on the mound, hurling the final four frames while allowing the final Akron run on five hits, while striking out one and walking nobody.

The Penguin hitting attack was sluggish as only firstbaseman Don Hawkins totaled more than one hit with his two singles.

"We've had a hard time getting clutch hits so far this year," explained Rosselli. "The pitching is not too bad, but we just haven't been able to get the right hit at the right time." Besides getting Coach Rosselli his four-hundredth win in the nightcap of the twinbill, the Penguins also delivered key clutch hits as they overcame a 3-1 Akron lead to win the game, 4-3.

George Vuckovich pitched the distance for the Penguins allowing three runs (one of them unearned) on six hits while striking out four and walking three in his seven-inning outing. Vuckovich was credited with the victory.

Joe Iacobucci paced the Penguin hitting attack with a 2-for-4 day that included a double and a run batted in.

The winning run crossed the plate for the Penguins in the bottom of the sixth as secondbaseman John McAbier lifted a sacrifice fly to the outfield to drive in a run with the bases loaded.

On Sunday the Penguins traveled to Cleveland for a doubleheader with John Carroll University. Due to rain forcing the cancellation of the second game, only one game could be played with YSU coming up on

Amodio explains governing process

Slight changes expected for future recruiting

The following is the final of a three-part series on collegiate athletic recruiting.

by Tina Ketchum

By taking the big step into Division I and the Ohio Valley Conference, many changes are bound to take place for YSU athletics in the near future.

According to athletic director Paul Amodio, however, drastic changes will not be made in the YSU recruiting processes. This is because while YSU is still a Division II school, it has been recruiting according to NCAA Division I regulations for the past three years.

"The NCAA put us on probation to make sure we follow the rules," explained Amodio.

An example of an OVC rule "change" that has been practiced at YSU for three years is the higher scholarship regulations according to grade point average.

This grade criteria is the distinct difference between Division I and Division II. In Division I, a school cannot grant a scholarship to any athlete with a grade average less than 2.0.

When referring to scholarship qualifiers and non-qualifiers, an individual with a 2.0 average is considered a "qualifier" while an athlete with a lower average is a "non-qualifier."

Perhaps one of the reasons for the high number of athletes on recent athletic honor rolls is that "the 2.0 ruling for eligibility since high school has been in full force at YSU for three years," states Amodio.

The NCAA's by-laws govern all institutions with by-laws ruling specific classifications, such as Division I or II. Women's athletics are governed more by the Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIAW), but are also under NCAA rules.

Once a year, the NCAA and the AIAW meet to make or study present laws. During this time, any college institution can ask for changes in rules or suggest new regulations.

"It's a very democratic process," comments Amodio.

The NCAA and AIAW give maximum allowance for the amount of scholarships given at a school, with most restrictions at YSU based on its own budget.

The budget is determined a year in advance with one of the main concerns being travel money.

While recruiting for football, "we try not to keep the recruits overnight," explains Amodio.

The cost of bringing athletes to campus is kept at a minimum by offering only a visit and lunch.

This short visit gives the athlete the opportunity to see other schools, because, according to NCAA rules, an individual is only allowed six visits to school. One over night stay or an evening meal constitutes one visit.

However, since there are relatively few in the local Youngstown area large enough to play college basketball, the coaches must go find them. Their traveling takes a different slant: The coaches must first know where they are and then start visiting.

Revenue sports have larger budgets to work with as compared to non-revenue sports such as soccer, baseball, or softball.

"Football is always looking for more. Numbers are important," said Amodio.

"We keep basketball up to the maximum to be competitive. And we've never had a large coaching staff," continued Amodio. "Schools of our size usually do have much larger staffs."

Perhaps one of the biggest problems one must face with recruiting is the existing AIAW rule for women emphasizing that a school cannot contact the athlete. If interested, the girl must contact the school herself and make arrangements for a visit.

"This women's rule is uncontrollable and many high schools are not aware of this rule," commented Amodio. "It's unrealistic. You can't build a good program like this."

By following these guidelines, YSU has built fine athletic programs in the past and the future looks nothing but bright for the Penguins as they take that important step upward to Division I.

Eight-game win streak ends as softball team splits pair

by Tina Ketchum

Making their record an 8-4 showing, the YSU softball team split the decisions of a twin-bill on Saturday.

With a 5-2 score, the Penguins downed Ohio Northern behind the winning pitching of Leslie Ingram. Ingram pitched all seven innings, with four scattered hits and two earned runs. Her personal record for wins is 2-1.

The Penguins had six hits throughout the game, two coming from Linda Sikora, including a double.

YSU's eight game winning streak came to an end after losing to Ohio University 4-3 in the second game.

Vicki Lawrence was tagged with the loss while giving up only four runs on four hits. The loss now gives her a record of 4-2 from the mound.

The top hitter of the game was Lori Cerelega with two hits, including an RBI. Cerelega also scored a run for YSU.

The Penguins will hope to pick up another win when they travel to Cleveland State Tuesday for the last scheduled game of the regular season. On Friday, YSU will face Cleveland State again in game number three of the Division I State Tournament at 11:30 a.m.

If the Penguins win this game, they will then be matched against the winner of the Kent State and Miami University game. Kent State is the number two seeded team, behind first seeded Ohio State.

The games are being played at Kramer Fields of the Fred Fuller Park in Kent, Ohio. (This is not on the Kent State campus.)

The daily admission fee is $3 for adults and $1.50 for children. Prices for tournament passes are $5 for adults and $2.50 for children.
