To portray what would happen as a result of a nuclear confrontation two protesters, Rev. Jim Ray of Cooperative Campus Ministry and Susan Pohlen of Pittsburgh, simulate death during a training session for the Die-in that will take place on Friday, Nov. 18. Die-in participants will play "dead" for six minutes — the amount of time it would take American missiles stationed in Europe to reach the Soviet Union.

Honor roll

Educators rate YSU program

By DAVID NUDD
Jambar Staff Writer

The YSU School of Education has received national recognition by placing in the top four percent of colleges and universities for excellence in its student-teaching program criteria.

Only 34 other student-teaching programs received the same level of recognition as YSU, which achieved superior ratings in 18 out of 24 criteria taken into account by the survey. None of the nation's colleges met all the criteria in their programs.

The major points that the survey measured were admission standards, accreditation, evaluation procedures, supervision of student teachers and training policies of cooperating teachers.

"We are especially proud that the school received professional recognition," said B. Bradley West, assistant dean, education.

The survey was conducted by researchers at Northern Illinois University and Southland College of Education in London, England.

"Lately, there have been many people aiming cannons at teachers and at American school systems in general," said West. "If people would only look a little further they would see that there is excellence within the training of educators, and a judgement was made to prove it."

Presently, YSU has close to 900 students enrolled in the School of Education's undergraduate program. About 200 of the students are student-teachers in the local school districts.

'If people would only look a little further they would see that there is excellence within the training of educators, and a judgement was made to prove it.'

— B. Bradley West

YSU certifies teachers in elementary, secondary, and special education. Beginning freshman year, students must start to accumulate the 300 hours of field experience required as a prerequisite to student-teaching. During senior year students complete a minimum of 11 weeks student-teaching full-time in area schools.

West said he wished to stress the importance of the cooperating public and private school districts. "I'd consider our relationship with the local schools as splendid," he said.

Susan E. Pullman, coordinator of Student Field Experiences, said she is more than happy with the recognition given to the program. She also stated that the quality of the program is sure to give student-teachers the competitive edge.

"It's nice to have something for our students to point to as evidence of their extensive training," she said. "Since many of

Smokeout will kick habit

By CLARENCE MOORE
Jambar News Editor

Students, faculty and staff members will be encouraged to kick their nicotine habits for at least 24 hours during the seventh annual "Great American Smokeout" (GAS) Thursday, Nov. 17.

GAS is a nationwide event, sponsored by the American Cancer Society, in which millions of Americans of all ages will try to go "cold turkey" on cigarette smoking.

The event is usually popular on college campuses and this year, as in previous years, YSU's Health Education and Physical Education Majors Club will sponsor the campus version of the smokeout.

For the second year in a row, the H&PE club has challenged Kent State University's Eta Sigma Gamma to a contest to see which club can convince more people to pledge not to smoke on Thursday.

YSU is determined to win the event this year, after having lost to Kent last year, said Karen Mincher, publicity chairman for the campus smokeout.

Last year, said Mincher, Kent signed up about 450 pledges, while YSU only signed up about 250.

She said the goal of the American Cancer Society is to get at least one in every five smokers to give up cigarette.

Adopt a Smoker

Adoption Papers

I, a non-smoker, will take a non-smoker to help me quit smoking. I will provide the necessary support and encouragement, but and person I need to be adopted by me.

I will assist me by acting as a shoulder to cry on.

I will be available for the following activities:

1. Hide cigarettes, ashtrays, lighters and matches.
2. Tell all your friends that you have been adopted and will not smoke on the day of the Great American Smokeout (GAS) November 17.
3. Call on your boss requesting that he or she not smoke on the day.
4. Refuse to purchase and use any more cigarettes.
5. Refuse to visit one and one's "hot smoking" place.

I will later remember to be to the American Cancer Society to receive my "Adopt a Smoker" certificate. I will also be available to help other smokers.

Deal brings YSU $10,000

By DAN PECCHIA
Jambar Managing Editor

A little negotiating by YSU athletic director Joe Malmisur has brought YSU an extra $10,000 in profit for next Saturday's YSU-Morehead State game.

Malmisur talked WTAE-TV up from $1,000 in a settlement that enabled the Pittsburgh television station to "buy out" Stambaugh Stadium and thereby gain permission to televise Saturday's Penn State-Pittsburgh game. According to NCAA statutes, a college football game cannot be televised locally unless all other

Talkback

Broadcasting students gain on-camera experience

By MARY KAY QUINN
Jambor Feature Editor

Most students want the opportunity to do something that "looks good on the resume," and for three YSU students, WKBN's Talkback offers this and more.

Barb Maiorana, Dave Pignanelli and Michele Blazek, all appear on the television station's daily editorial broadcast.

The opportunity awaits upperclassmen majoring in speech, communication and theater who are members of the honorary broadcasting society Alpha Epsilon Rho.

Because the positions do not reward the students with pay, Pignanelli said his work is "something to put on a resume." However, Maiorana added, "it is the only way of getting on-camera experience in the area."

Pignanelli, who has been writing and reading his scripts twice a week for a year, said, "I finally feel a little bit comfortable on camera. When you first start out you're frozen, but then you begin to loosen up and feel more relaxed."

This week ends Pignanelli's year with Talkback. Blazek has been with the program for six months and Maiorana, two months.

An though she is relatively new at the job, Maiorana said, she finds her skills improving already. "The first few times you're basically worried about reading it," she said. "Then you start trying new things, such as your presence in front of the camera and looking relaxed."

Blazek said one of the most difficult aspects is "trying to find a good, controversial topic." According to Federal Communications Commission regulations, local TV stations must explore community needs through some of their broadcasting.

WKBN's ascertainment sheet has unemployment and social problems at the top of its list, said the students. Although the station may edit their scripts before taping them, the students noted their editorials "are supposed to be controversial and sometimes are controversial."

One time, Pignanelli's broadcast aroused too much controversy. He would not say what his topic was, for fear of stirring up angry feelings once again. However, he said he received many phone calls and letters at the time because viewers thought a paraphrased statement he had made was his own. They heard the remark in dispute, but they did not hear Pignanelli attribute the quote to a Grambling State University official.

"To really get nailed (for an editorial) I haven't been doing it long enough," Maiorana stated after noting she has never been severely criticized.

On the lighter side, Maiorana joked, "Michele gets fan mail from all over." That is, one man regularly writes Blazek to tell her how well she is doing. Often, viewers will write if they agree with the editorials or they may even make suggestions for topics face-to-face, the students said.

Indeed, viewers often recognize the Talkback broadcasters if they see them in public. "People look at you and stare," Maiorana noticed after she began appearing on the air. Each of the students' two scripts is broadcast five times during the week, allowing the "Talkbackers" to become familiar faces to some.

In fact, other stations may hire former Talkback announcers because viewers recognize their faces, Maiorana noted. Several local broadcasters got their start with Talkback, which began about seven years ago, Pignanelli said.

After leaving Talkback and graduating this quarter, Pignanelli said, he wants to "go out and look for a real job" in television. Blazek stated she would like to be a reporter, and Maiorana added it would be "fun to be a network reporter or a Washington correspondent."

Invasion interrupts med students' midterms

From the College Press Service

Jeffrey Hough was scared. He was away from home and his new wife was back in Baltimore. Six days before, he'd seen the evidence of a bloody coup on the tiny Caribbean island on which he went to school.

He was later to learn the deposed leader of the island had been murdered. The new government had ordered Hough and his medical school classmates not to leave campus without permission, and to be in bed by a new curfew time. It threatened to shoot violators on sight.

And on Oct. 25, the shooting did begin on and around St. George's Medical School's Grenada campuses.

The school itself is headquartered in New York, and caters generally to American students who cannot get into med. schools here. St. George's maintains two campuses on the island, one called True Blue, the other Grand Anse, near the now-famous 10,000-foot airstrip built by the Cubans. Ninety-five percent of the students are American. None expected an invasion for midterms.

But life at the school had "just seemed to go from bad to worse" after the coup in which Prime Minister Maurice Bishop lost his life, said Tom Fioretti, another American on the campus.

A week after the coup, "the local government instituted a martial law with curfew," he added. "The other they issued was very severe. They said violators would be shot on sight. There was a lot of unrest on the

Straight A's

Congratulations! The School of Education has received an "A" grade for its student-teaching program criteria.

In comparison to 903 other colleges and universities across the nation, YSU's School of Education placed in the top four percent for criteria comparisons such as accreditation, admission standards and student-teaching supervision and policy.

The national recognition — a result of a survey by James Johnson of Northern Illinois University and John Yates of Southland College of Education in London, England — is an example of academic excellence. An example that is sorely needed in the wake of criticism of education in general in the United States.

The survey included a selection of 24 characteristics or criteria as measurements of the "best" student teaching programs that the United States has to offer.

The results show that YSU's School of Education is one of the best.

The results also reflect the professional attitude existing among the 1,474 students enrolled in the School of Education, and would not and could not be expressed if it were not for the consistent efforts of members of the entire department and people such as Susan Pullman and Bernadette Angle, coordinators of student field experiences for the YSU program.

The program requires 300 hours of field experience for students prior to graduation. This opportunity, obtained in local school districts, gives the students hands-on experience which becomes invaluable after graduation. It also provides a chance for faculty to evaluate growth and development of the students.

It all leads to qualified and knowledgeable educators — educators from this University.

Years of hard work and dedication to academic excellence is proof that the credibility of the educational system in this country is not waning.

And the credibility of this University is enhanced by leading the way.

COMMENTARY

Once upon a time...

Once upon a time there was a nuclear attack on Lawrence, Kansas.

So goes the premise for the controversial movie The Day After which will be shown next Sunday on ABC. Conservatives and groups such as the Moral Majority are all up in arms over the showing of the movie.

In sounding their battle cry conservatives have labeled the movie everything from a one-sided political statement to outright propaganda. They believe the movie will be the coup de grace for the nuclear freeze proponents as they seek the support of the American people. Reading and listening to the conservative opinions in the media, one gets the impression they view the showing of The Day After as a weapon more powerful than the Russian nuclear arsenal.

ABC, meanwhile, steadfastly denies that The Day After is a "political movie." The network says that issues such as the use of a strong defense as a deterrent, who launches the attack, or the nuclear freeze movement itself are not even mentioned in the movie.

It does seem ironic that the conservatives, who just a few weeks ago applauded the President for prohibiting media coverage of the war in Grenada, now are crying "foul" as the media cover their "own" war.

All of the furor surrounding the movie, which is bound to boost the network's ratings, does not give ABC a blank check. The network will still have to face the court of public and professional opinion.

JOE DeMAY

The verdict in that case is a separate matter.

Hopefully, the movie will place the issue of our potential nuclear destruction in our living rooms and follow us to our sidewalks and places where we work. Perhaps next Monday we won't be discussing the Browns or the Steelers. Maybe we'll be talking about what the world should be doing on third down.

One of the last times that Americans did some serious Monday morning quarterbacking was after the mini-series Holocaust was shown on television. We all wondered how such an atrocity could take place. The only problem was, we were wondering about it 40 years too late.

Maybe ABC will be accused of putting the cart before the horse, but that might be what we need. We Americans tend to take a lot of things for granted, and the absence of having nuclear bombs falling all around us is one of them.

Perhaps the movie will serve as a prod or a video reminder for us all. Then, hopefully, we can avoid showing up the day after to hear the ultimate, "I told you so." That would be a bitter ending to the grim fairy tale of Lawrence, Kansas and the rest of the nation.

Wants volunteers

To the Editor of The Jambar:

This Wednesday, there is going to be an opportunity for YSU students to do what may be the kindest thing they'll ever do for anyone in their lives. It is not going to be hard, either, for all it takes to qualify for the job are the qualities we all possess firsthand: talking, listening, laughing, sharing and just being a friend.

The Volunteers In Corrections (VIC) is an organization from The Mahoning County Juvenile Court which will be on campus to recruit new volunteers. VIC is similar to the "Big Brothers" or "Big Sisters" organization of the YMCA. The exceptions are that VIC is exclusively for the clients of the Juvenile Justice Center and volunteers are specially alerted to the individual problems of these clients.

When a volunteer is matched up with a child, they are expected to spend five hours a week together for six months. Volunteers are encouraged to introduce the child to new activities, such as roller skating, ice skating, or anything the child enjoys most. During this time, the relationship is expected to grow into a unique friendship based on trust and companionship.

In addition, if you are interested in volunteering and would like to receive credits, contact Dr. James Kiriazis, social work, or Dr. James Morrison, psychology, but only if you are seeking a major or minor in Psychology. Hope to see you this Wednesday, across from the Dollar Bank in Kilcawley, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. This may be the most important relationship in your life.

Seeks peace, justice

To the Editor of The Jambar:

Sadly, over 200 Americans were recently killed in Lebanon, but we must remember that others besides Americans have died in that conflict, a conflict shaped and agitated by American foreign policy.

Thousands of Lebanese and thousands of Palestinians have also been killed in Lebanon, but we only realize how horrible this conflict is when it touches us directly. Naturally, we become hungry for revenge, so hungry that we blindly accept our nation's imperialistic invasion of Grenada and cry out for even more blood. However, if we really loved our American brothers that died in Lebanon, we should have the courage to question our nation's foreign policy.

We claim that we are in Lebanon to maintain peace, but how can there be peace unless there is also justice? If we want peace we must seek justice for all the parties involved, the Christians and Muslims, the Lebanese and Palestinians.

Unless all parties are treated fairly, there will not be peace, and unless we earnestly question our nation's foreign policy, more young Americans will die in Lebanon, Grenada, Central America, or some other land they know almost nothing about.

GUEST SPEAKER

YSU basketball goes big-time

By JOE ROMANO
Special to the Jambar

I don't really know how many people who watch college basketball fully realize the tremendous difference there is between NCAA Division I and Division II competition, but I'd be willing to say that not an overwhelming number do.

To check it out, here's a quickie quiz to test your knowledge:

Q.1. Which school won the NCAA Division I championship last season?

Q.2. Which school won the NCAA Division II championship last season?

If your response to Q.1. is "North Carolina State," you are correct.

If your response to Q.2. is "I don't know," I am correct. I didn't expect you to know the answer (By the way, Wright State, Dayton, Ohio is the answer).

I did this to make a point. That point is that YSU is a Division I school now — a "big-time" university which is now a part of the "big-time" division in the NCAA. It has been for the past couple of years. And I think it's time for the University and the community to realize this and to treat YSU's status as such.

Gone forever are the very fine Division II days of old at this University. Here to stay are the knock 'em down, drag 'em out days of Division I basketball in the rugged Ohio Valley Conference (OVC).

The man taking YSU into this new "era" of competitive basketball is Mike Rice.

Formerly head coach at Duquesne University in Pittsburgh, Rice has brought to YSU a fiery, energetic type of attitude. His efforts are aimed at turning YSU's basketball program into a truly formidable Division I competitor. In a little more than a year, Rice's progress has been rapid, and I wonder if anyone has noticed.

Did you know that YSU was 15th in the NCAA in won-loss improvement last year? The 1981-82 Penguins finished 8-18, basically with a young team. Rice finished 1982-83 with a 15-12 record. No, it's not a miracle, but still, it's not bad.

Rice also made major changes in the schedule. One third of the opponents YSU will face this year have gone to either the NCAA Tournament or the National Invitational Tournament (NIT) within the last two years.

The already strong OVC schedule is complimented by a trying out-of-conference slate. Such major powers as Purdue, Dayton, Auburn, and LaSalle head the list.

Also marking out of conference play are two early season tournaments — one at South Alabama and the other at Ball State. Most major college teams play in these early tournneys, you know.

The Penguins certainly have progressed since the days of those epic battles with such Juggernauts as Steubenville, Alliance, and S.U.N.Y. at Buffalo.

And have you seen Beeghly Center lately? Nice. Real nice. Just walking in gives you more of a feeling of a big-time college basketball atmosphere. The seating capacity has been upped by about 2000 and the enclosure of either end could make it a real "snake pit" for opposing teams. The plans for the renovation were drawn up after Rice's arrival. It's a well-spent million (Good move, YSU).

Not so evident is the name that Rice is making in the brutal recruiting wars of college basketball. The YSU program is becoming more and more recognized by top high school performers.

Other major college schools are also taking notice. YSU is actually mentioned in the same conversation with such top teams as St. John's, Kentucky, Tennessee, and Robert Morris when recruiting is the topic. That's a far cry from engaging in recruiting battles with the Westminster and the Ashlands of the basketball world.

Smoke

tes on Thursday.

The H&PE club will be in the arcade of Kilcawley Center on Tuesday and Wednesday, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., trying to get student smokers to sign up as pledges, Mincher said.

Smokers who sign the pledge sheet will receive a badge and a rubber band to wear on their wrists so they can snap themselves if they feel the urge to light one up.

Like last year, Beeghly Center will be declared a non-smoking building for the entire day. All students, faculty and staff are asked to refrain from smoking in the building on Thursday.

Mincher said non-smokers are being encouraged to "adopt" friends who smoke, encourage them to quit for the day, provide sympathy and understanding, and help them steer clear of cigarettes.

She said the non-smokers should also remember that the smokeout is a time of light-hearted fun and the non-smoker shouldn't "preach or scold" the smoker who is attempting to quit for the day.

"The important thing for the friends to do," said Mincher, "is to make themselves available either in person or by phone for the entire day."

Although smokers are being asked to quit for only 24 hours, Mincher said, she believes quitting for good is the best thing a smoker can do.

She said she thinks smoking is "unhealthy," quoting facts from a pamphlet published by the Cancer Society that states how cigarette smoking has been linked to most lung cancer deaths.

Mincher said she is also concerned about recent discoveries that there has been a 400 percent increase in lung cancer deaths among women.

By the late 1980s, she said, lung cancer is expected to surpass breast cancer as the number-one killer among women.

On the less gloomy side, she added, recent studies have indicated that the number of non-smokers is rising steadily.

From 1978 to 1980, the ranks of non-smokers increased from 1.8 million to 3.3 million, she said.

So far, said Mincher, the H&PE club is the only on-campus organization she knows of participating in the smokeout. But she said she is encouraging other campus groups to become involved in the smokeout.

A few tips concerning the smokeout

The annual observance of the Great American Smokeout focuses public attention on cigarette smokers from coast to coast. The smokeout is an effort to encourage smokers to give up cigarettes for 24 hours, if only to prove to themselves that they can.

In an effort to help those who quit smoking for the day, the American Cancer Society has suggested the following tips for getting through the day:

- ▶ Throw out all cigarettes by breaking them in half and wetting them down. Clean out all ashtrays in your home, office, or car and put them away. Discard matches; hide lighters.

- ▶ When the urge to smoke hits, take a deep breath. Hold it for ten seconds, then release it slowly. Taking deep, rhythmic breaths is similar to smoking, only you'll inhale clean air, not poisonous gases.

- ▶ Exercise to help relieve tension. Climb stairs rather than take the elevator, park the car a block or two from your destination and walk the rest of the way. At home, practice touching your toes, jog in place, do jumping jacks.

- ▶ When tempted to reach for a cigarette, think of a negative image about smoking. Select your worst memory connected with the habit—the time you burned a hole in your suit or when you were left completely breathless running for a bus that pulled away. Imagine this experience for 15 seconds whenever an urge occurs.

- ▶ Eat three meals. This maintains constant blood sugar levels, thus preventing urges to smoke. Avoid sugar-laden foods and spicy items that can trigger a desire for cigarettes.

- ▶ Go public with your plans to quit. Ask friends to help you keep from backsliding. Ask family and co-workers who smoke not to do so around you.

- ▶ Cleanse your body of nicotine. Drink liquids—lots of them. Water (six to eight glasses), herbal teas, fruit juices, and caffeine-free soft drinks all fit the bill. Pass up coffee, caffeinated soft drinks and alcohol, as they can increase your urge to smoke.

Russo will be teaching the three courses offered winter quarter, which begins Jan. 3, 1984.

The purpose of the labor studies program is to provide students, trade unionists, labor relationists, and personnel specialists with a better understanding of collective bargaining and trade unionism, while at the same time preparing them for active participation in unions and/or employment in the field of labor relations or personnel administration.

Russo explained an important aspect of the program is that both management and labor personnel take the classes. Management is more willing to train their people to learn about labor unions and how they operate, as well as basic skills in negotiations which are relevant to both, he said.

Applications and registration material for the courses may be obtained by contacting the labor studies office of YSU at 742-3336.

To prove this, Rice won out over Georgia's Hugh Durham last year in the fight for Ricky Tunstall, YSU's first ever seven-footer.

Georgia was in the final four of the NCAA last year.

Okay, go ahead and laugh and call him Ricky "Standstill." I did last year. But I realize how wrong we all were. Tunstall played under great pressure last year. We the fans expected too much. Tunstall is 7'1" but that doesn't make him Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. Tunstall proved at times last year that he could play. This year I feel he will play; he's looking good to this point — prove me right, Mr. T.

By now you've probably gotten the feeling that I'm anti-small college and pro-Mike Rice. Well, I'm not anti-small college. I am pro-Mike Rice.

Small college basketball is great. It's exciting and competitive — on its level. However, YSU is NCAA Division I and that's where Mike Rice comes in.

Rice knows his business — college basketball. I'd like to see the basketball left to Rice and not to a group of Tod Hall Administrators who know college basketball like Harold Robbins knows aesthetic literature.

Rice is a professional at what he is doing — coaching and building a contending Division I basketball program. I believe that, given a fair and unobstructed opportunity, Rice will bring big-time college basketball to YSU.

Student Government President Catha Pavlov also passed out her written report to the members before they left. In her report Pavlov noted that Gina Palombaro from the Juvenile Justice Center would be in the Kilcawley Arcade on Wednesday, Nov. 16, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Palombaro will be seeking students to apply for the Volunteers in Correction Program. Arrangements have been made for students in the program to receive college credit for their work.

Pavlov also reported that a letter would soon be sent to all students to inform them of the student representation that was available to them.

She also reminded the members to attend Friday's "Die-In," which is being sponsored by the Cooperative Campus Ministry and the Newman Center.

CAMPUS QUOTES

Is parking adequate at YSU?

CHRIS REIFINGER
On Monday and Wednesday after nine it's hard to find a place to park. Even the little lots are filled up.

LINDA JONES
Always. It's not that bad if you get here early enough — I have to get here at eight just to park and my first class is at 10. It would help if they built another parking lot.

KAMAL KASSOUF
We have a lot of parking facilities, but they're far away. Even so, there are parking problems every day.

DIANE BARACALLI
Yes, all the time. I'm always late for my classes because the parking lot is filled. I think they should have put up a new parking area instead of the stadium.

KEVIN KLEIN
Yes and no. When I come here around nine o'clock it's bad. I usually go through a couple of decks looking for parking spaces.

DAVID MINES
No. As students are leaving after morning classes there are open spaces. I usually don't have that much trouble.

LYN NISWANDER
Some mornings. It's a pain sometimes when you have to drive around looking or else there are signs saying there isn't any parking and you go in and there is.

TOM ILLENCIK
No. I get here at eight o'clock and I park at the back of the Wick deck.

JACQUELINE WILLIAMS
No, because most of my classes are at night and I can park on the street.

island. As far as the school went, people were becoming very scared, scared to the point where half the school wanted to pack it up and go home."
Fioretti, who did his undergraduate work at the University of Maryland's main College Park campus before emigrating to St. George's, said the med school faculty decided "to see how things went" the week of Oct. 24 before deciding whether to call the semester off.

Things did look brighter at the beginning of the week, when the government lifted the curfew.

"I even went to class Monday afternoon," Fioretti said.

One school administrator was quoted soon after the invasion began as saying the worst was over by then, and that students were safe.

President Reagan, in his subsequent explanation of the American invasion, said American troops had uncovered evidence on the island that the Grenadian government had been considering taking the med students as hostages.

Regardless of his safety, however, Fioretti never got to class after Monday. The invasion began soon thereafter, "and everybody's future changed."

Hough was asleep when it began, awakened by what he thought was thunder.

"We typically get electrical storms, and that's what I thought it was," he recalled. "But, after a minute or so, the anti-aircraft guns near us opened up, and then we could hear planes."

The Jambar/Clem Marlon

Gamblers reveal their sins in the rousing 'Sit Down You're Rockin' the Boat' at the Save a Soul Mission.

Musical proves enjoyable night of YSU theatre

By DAVID NUDO
Jambar Staff Writer

Gamblers, missionaries and showgirls are combined in University Theatre's entertaining rendition of Loesser, Swerling and Burrows' Guys and Dolls, which opened in Ford Auditorium last weekend.

The musical comedy is about high rollers in New York during the 30s and centers around two love relationships. The first is the unlikely match between the sophisticated gambler Sky Masterson (Robert J. Kozar, senior, F&PA) and the self-righteous missionary worker Sarah Brown (Elsa Christine Higby, freshman, F&PA).

Nathan Detroit (Joseph Mineo, freshman, F&PA), organizer of the city's notorious floating crap game, and his fiancée of 14 years, Miss Adelaide (Rose Rokus-Boehlke, junior, F&PA), make up the second couple. They go through the problems of colds and cold-feet.

Throughout the play the characters try to find solutions to their respective dilemmas. Sky searches for the perfect bet, Sarah crusades for souls to save, Nathan seeks out the perfect place to hold a crap game away from "the heat," and Adelaide rallies to get Nathan to finally take his wedding vows.

As in most musical comedies, the outcome is fairly predictable.

The enjoyment of the production is in the delivery of witty dialogue and in the performance of the show's snappy, singable songs.

Under the direction of Professor Dennis Henneman, theatre, this production fares well, though there are a few problems. The choppy transition from scene to scene and the rather predictable blocking techniques throughout the show are unsatisfying.

Kozar and Higby are adequate in their roles, but along with some of the other members of the cast, they don't seem to get over that stiff, rehearsed presence. But the singing, especially Kozar's, more than compensates for it.

Rokus-Boehlke gives an outstanding performance as the Betty-Boopish showgirl, Adelaide. She couldn't be funnier or more engaging.

Kudos also go to Mineo, Brian Leslie, who played Benny Southstreet, and James Tisdale as the sensible Arvide Abernathy.

The scenery for the show ranges from the exceptional representation of the New York sewer system to the ho-hum drably painted backdrops portraying Broadway.

The street scenes were rather interesting, as the cast gathered on stage to play a variety of

'Scrooge' tickets available

The holiday musical Scrooge has increased its number of Playhouse performances this year and has made tickets available early.

Scrooge is a family musical adapted from Charles Dickens' A Christmas Carol. It will open Dec. 10 and play for a total of 17 performances. There will be three shows daily at 1, 4, and 7 p.m. on Dec. 10, 11, 17, and 18. From Monday, Dec. 19 through Friday, Dec. 23, there will be performances daily.

Tickets are $5 for adults, and $3 for children and students through college. There is no reserved seating and doors will open one hour before each performance.

Scrooge is not part of the regular season ticket series.

characters, including a drunk and a bag lady.

The choreography by Barry VanCura is commendable. The dancing during the "Crap Shooters Ballet" in the sewer scene is most memorable.

All in all, Guys and Dolls is an enjoyable, worthwhile production that should be seen.

There will be three more 8 p.m. showings next weekend, Nov. 17-19. Tickets are available at the Theatre box office or by calling 742-3105.

Jazz concert featuring arrangements by alumnus

YSU's Jazz Ensembles I and II will open their season with a free public concert 8 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 16, Chestnut Room, Kilcawley.

Professor Tony Leonardi, music, is director of the ensembles.

The opening segment by Jazz Ensemble I will feature two new arrangements by Dave LaLama, a 1976 Dana graduate who has played and arranged for Woody Herman, Buddy Rich, and other noted groups.

Soloists will include Kent Engelhardt, alto and soprano saxophone and clarinet; Rick Alberico, alto sax; Phil Miller, trombone; Royce Hetrick, trumpet; and Jeff Grubbs, bass.

Solo performers with Jazz Ensemble II will include Keith Turner, tenor sax and flute, and Allen Zurcher, tenor and soprano sax.

Leonardi announced that a double record album, Reunion '82, will be available at the concert. It is a recording of the Nov. 8, 1982 standing-room-only jazz concert at YSU which featured eight Dana alumni plus Jazz Ensemble I in a special concert in observance of YSU's 75th anniversary.

Professor Ron Seiter, art, designed and illustrated the album cover and Professor Martin Berger, history, wrote the cover story.

Room 101 will appear at Cedar

By MARK PEYKO
Jambor Staff Writer

A recent addition to Youngstown sub-culture, Room 101 will premiere with its unique brand of music at the Cedar Lounge, downtown, Wednesday evening.

Since its reorganization, Room 101 has been very obscure, and surely will prove to be inaccessible to those expecting the trendiness of today's glossed over pop. Presently a trio regrouping after internal changes, Room 101 released a single in the early fall.

Mark Hanley, one of the creative forces within the group, affirms that the group is indeed a difficult subject to approach. "It's not commercial," said Hanley. "I certainly don't want to belong in a class or fashion."

Room 101 draws on various sources. At times it has a sound approaching that of The Velvet Underground. In some material, the dirge-like quality of the music is reminiscent of Joy Division.

Room 101 is permeated by a moodiness which is distinct, yet varied enough to lend individuality to each composition.

Hanley is disgruntled with the state of the local music scene, calling Youngstown an "area unresponsive to original music, since most clubs don't allow it." But Hanley said he hopes he can somehow overcome this problem.

He added that Room 101 could be described as "working against the grain, or an 'anti-product.'"

Drummer Robert Shields shares an equal input into the group's material. Both he and Hanley approach their craft with the same long-term intentions. A recent addition, Tom Delaquadrie, will act as bassist for the group.

The two cuts on their first single include "Another Holiday" and "Red & No. 5." Although the sound quality is very poor, because of problems in the studio, the single is a provocative display of music so tantalizingly different for local talent that it should be supported. It will stand as an artifact that artistic endeavor can supersede crass attempts to placate the community.

The Sacksville Rhythm And Blues Band will complete the evening at the downtown lounge.

'Streetcar' comes to Playhouse

Tennessee Williams' A Streetcar Named Desire opens at the Youngstown Playhouse on Nov. 25, with Lynn Nelson Rafferty as the lost, pitiful and confused Blanche DuBois.

Ellen Eckhardt will play Blanche's married sister, Stella; Geno Petro will play Stanley, Stella's husband; and George Mansour will play Mitch.

Others in the cast will include Wendy Buchwald, Annette Ciavarella, Barbara Evans, Charles Harasym, Don Mraovich, Christopher Scarvell and Robert Spain. The production is being directed by Joseph Scarvell, and the setting, which represents a squalid two-room apartment in a rowdy neighborhood in New Orleans, is designed by Paul Kimpel. Angelo Tropepe is stage manager, assisted by Judy Colella.

Streetcar will open Friday, Nov. 25, and play for eight performances over a two-weekend run.

Tickets are $8, and $5 for students or senior citizens. They may be ordered by phone at 788-8739, or purchased at the Playhouse box office, open daily from 9 a.m.-6 p.m.

Arms exhibit opens

On Wednesday, Nov. 16, The Arms Museum of the Mahoning Valley Historical Society, 648 Wick Avenue, opens a new exhibit, "Sweet Dreams," which contrasts the bed clothes, nightclothes and bedroom of a prosperous Mahoning Valley family of 1850 and a wealthy Youngstown family of 1910.

The museum is open to the public 1-4 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, and 1:30-5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Penguins fall to Racers

All season long the YSU football team has performed consistently in one major area — failure to make the big play.

"All year long we've had trouble with big plays," said Penguin defensive end Chris Stec. "They've just killed us. We seem to get fired up for a long time and then we have mental breaks."

Last Saturday YSU suffered its fourth straight defeat, 19-7, at the hands of Murray State, before a home crowd at a cold and snow-covered Stambaugh Stadium. The Penguins' record fell to 4-6 on the season and 2-4 in the Ohio Valley Conference (OVC), while Murray State improved its record to 6-4 overall, 4-3 in the conference.

In addition to YSU's inability to make big plays against Murray State, the Penguins also make too many mistakes.

Four pass interceptions, three lost fumbles and one blocked punt hurt the Penguins in Saturday's game.

Only 2,400 were present at the Trumbull County Recognition Day.

Senior running back Vic Ceglie scored YSU's lone touchdown on a 30 yard run midway through the second period.

Ceglie led the Penguins in rushing, with 45 yards in nine attempts. Mike Hardie was YSU's top receiver, catching 7 passes for 68 yards.

Top defensive players included linebackers Mark Derthink and Pat Toler. Dennick led YSU with 21 tackles while Toler followed with 20.

After two turnovers by the Penguins and one by the Racers, Murray State opened the scoring halfway through the first period on a 39-yard pass from quarterback Kevin Sisk. They scored again, with only 31 seconds left in the first quarter, on a field goal from Jeff Lancaster.

YSU struck back in the second quarter on Ceglie's touchdown run.

In the initial play of the second half, the Penguins appeared to be

See Racers, page 14.

The Jambor/Clem Marion

Robert L. Thompson's first quarter fumble was one of several errors the Penguins committed during their loss to Murray State at an icy Stambaugh Stadium, Saturday.

YSU's lack of guts proves costly

Deception and trickery had their place in YSU football early this season. End-around plays, fake punts and flea-flickers helped add points to the scoreboard and characterized the Penguins' surprising 4-2 start.

They added excitement to a team that had, in recent years, relied on an up-the-middle running game that had gotten quite boring. Indeed, fans had something to see when they came to Stambaugh Stadium.

Last Saturday, in a 19-7 loss here to Murray State, YSU's dullness may have put some of its 2,400 fans asleep. Fortunately, it was too cold outside to succumb to slumber.

A flare for the unusual and the gutsy helped make YSU a winner earlier this season. A lack of guts helped make them a loser Saturday.

The defeat — which left YSU at 4-6 and wiped out any hope for a winning season — was marked by a grave lack of imagination in the play-calling department. In particular, two questionable moves loomed large after the loss.

Halftime had just ended and Murray State's kickoff into the end zone gave YSU possession at its 20. On a play that seemed to signal a return to the Penguins' wide-open game, Ken Kuhn rifled a 19-yard pass to Frank Pokorny on first down.

Kuhn went on to hit three of four passes in the drive, which accounted for four YSU first downs and moved the Penguins to the Murray 24.

From there, the drive stalled a bit. Robert Thompson was stacked up for a one-yard gain on first down and Kuhn was held to nothing on the next snap. On the crucial third-and-nine play — with YSU trailing 10-7 — the Penguins appeared to give up and settle for a field goal.

Fullback Mike Hardie, who ran the ball only six times all day, got the call on this third-and-long situation. He plowed through the line and picked up three tough yards. He'd hardly been tackled and the YSU field goal unit was already on the field.

Paul McFadden missed the 37-yard field goal. The Penguins never threatened to score thereafter.

It seemed YSU didn't even try for the first down, but was looking only for three points. There is little victory in that. The defense is the victor when it holds a driving offense to a mere field goal.

That drive was one of only three in which the Penguins completed more than one pass. One occurred in the final minute of the game and didn't really matter. One that did matter.

Tunstall trimmer, faster, hungry for action

By JANICE CAFARO
Jambor Sports Editor

In shape and ready for action, junior center Rick Tunstall eagerly anticipates the opening game of the YSU men's basketball season on Nov. 26.

"I've been working out hard since last summer and it has made me quicker and more agile," Tunstall said. "This year I think my performance with the team should improve, because I'm in good shape."

In June Tunstall launched a conditioning program with the assistance of YSU trainer Dan Wathan.

"Dan helped me start a weight lifting program," he recalled. "He showed me the proper techniques to work on. But most importantly, he gave me the moral support I needed to get through each day."

And it appears to have paid off. Tunstall has already dropped 25 pounds since last season. The seven-foot center has slimmed down from 260 to 235 pounds.

YSU head coach Mike Rice has commented on the increased speed Tunstall has shown in practice.

The transition, however, might be a bit costly.

Last season Tunstall led the Penguins in blocked shots. In fact, his 138 blocked shot total placed him second to Houston's Akeem Abdul-Jabbar in the nation.

he excelled.

But now the center's role for the Penguins might be undergoing some change. Instead of relying on Tunstall's defensive play, the Penguins may be utilizing him more on offense.

"Since I'm faster now, I'm able to get to the ball quicker," he noted. "So the fans will probably see more rebounding and dunking from me. If I can do both of these, I think I'll be able to help the Murray State struck again on a safety during the initial minutes of the fourth quarter and scored again on their next drive on a one-yard run by Dennis Dockery.

YSU outpassed the Racers 183 yards to 129. However, Murray State doubled the Penguins in rushing yards with 159 yards to the Penguins' 77.

"I don't think the snow affected our game plan at all," YSU head coach Bill Narduzzi said.

Murray State head coach Frank Beamer agreed that, although the weather gave his players a bit of trouble during the first quarter, their plans were also unaffected.

Of course, in order to achieve this, Tunstall won't be able to block as many shots as he did last season.

However, Rice doesn't seem to mind the sacrifice.

"Tunstall's overall game will be the key if a successful season is to be realized this year," Rice said.

Tickets are available for Saturday's football game against Morehead State.

All YSU students with a valid YSU I.D. may obtain a free game ticket.

Students may pick up their tickets at the Information Center, second floor of Kilcawley, from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Thursday or from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Friday.

Deal

concurrent games within a 100-mile radius are sold out.

The $10,000 was a concession for Malmisur to consider YSU's season finale "sold out." The station has since gained permission from the NCAA to televise the game in the Pittsburgh and Altoona markets, according to WTAE Program Director Judy Girard.

"I think that's a good deal. We have to make $10,000 a game according to our budget. I think we did alright," said Malmisur.

"It's a very equitable amount. We're very pleased," said Girard.

In the beginning, the amount was less than what Malmisur thought equitable. "Ridiculous," he said, in describing the $1,000 WTAE offered through its marketing agent, Total Communications Systems.

"When they suggested that, I got kind of flippant," Malmisur said. "I was taken aback by an offer of $1,000."

"But they didn't plan on negotiating. They called me back on two consecutive days and reiterated that $1,000 was their offer."

Malmisur responded, sarcastically, that he wanted $50,000. But he was irked that TMC reported to several news syndicates that Malmisur was "holding out" for an offer of $50,000.

"They didn't even bother to call me about it," Malmisur said of several newspapers which published the report he was waiting for $50,000.

"I thought $1,000 was ridiculous. I think $50,000 was just as ridiculous."

TMC then offered Malmisur $5,000, then $8,000. But the athletic director insisted he needed $10,000 — 10 times the original offer — to guarantee that he'd satisfy his budgetary requirements.

"That's not bad — going from $1,000 to $10,000," he remarked.

After the negotiation was finished, WTAE's general manager called Malmisur and apologized, said Malmisur. The station sent Malmisur a check by courier Saturday afternoon, Malmisur said.

Last year — YSU's first in Stambaugh Stadium — the last game of the season attracted the lowest crowd. This year, Morehead has the worst record among YSU opponents: 1-9. Morehead's latest outing resulted in a 56-0 defeat at the hands of Eastern Kentucky.

"There's no way we would have made $10,000 on that game," Malmisur said.

The Morehead-YSU game is slated for a 1:30 p.m. kickoff. The Penn State-Pitt game is set for a 1 p.m. start, and will be aired over WTAE and WJAC, Girard said.

Deadline extended

The deadline for submissions of artwork for Bob Murrell's hot tub contest (The Jambar, Oct. 28) has been extended from Nov. 15 to Nov. 23.

The winner of the hot tub contest will win the exclusive use of one of Murrell's own hot tubs or $50.

Pete's Beat

This weekend will be the Penguin fans' last chance to see the football team in action. YSU closes out its season on Saturday in an afternoon game scheduled to begin at 1:30. But that's not all. Intramural football playoffs continue this weekend at Harrison field. The men will be entering their second week of playoff action. The women's division will start its playoffs. This Sunday will see champions crowned in both men's and women's play. I hope to see everyone there at the games.

HOOPS: Tillman Bevely signs

Campbell Memorial star Tillman Bevely signed yesterday with the YSU's men's basketball team. He'll be playing on the squad during the 1984-85 season.

YSU head coach Mike Rice noted Tillman's versatility. "He's a real athlete," Rice noted. "He can play both outside and inside, but we'll probably use him inside."

Rice said he now believes that, with the acquisition of Bevely, James Gilmore and Bruce Timko, the Penguins have three of the best players produced in the area during the last two years.

Rice noted that he's been recruiting Bevely since his sophomore year.

"We were able to recruit an excellent player like Bevely basically because of his strong family ties to the area," he said.

VOLLEYBALL: YSU hosts championship

The YSU Women's Volleyball team will host the OVC championship Nov. 18 and 19 in Stambaugh Stadium. Friday matches are scheduled for 3:30, 5:30 and 8:30 p.m., with Saturday matches being held all day from 10:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m.

Tickets are $2 for adults, free to students with a valid YSU I.D. and $1 without. For further information contact John Tokash at 742-3485.

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK: Mark Derthick

Leading YSU with 21 total tackles last week against Murray State, YSU junior linebacker Mark Derthick is The Jambar's Athlete of the Week.

This year's defensive co-captain, Derthick led the Penguins last year with 104 total tackles, including 51 solo and 53 assists.

He is known on the squad for his keen awareness and situational intelligence.

Derthick is a medical technology major and a native of Kent Ohio.

Tony Castor of the Smalltown Boys led his team to victory.

Eight intramural football teams approaching championship game

The intramural football season opened with 52 teams hoping for a berth to the championship. After last weekend, only eight squads can still share that dream.

Those eight are Smalltown Boys of Division 4, Jackett's A.C. of Division 5, Kardiac Kids and Sharp Dressed Men of Division 6, Just Toyin' and Emtae of Division 7, Dirty Deeds of Division 8, and Alpha Phi Delta of Division 9.

Almost all the playoff victories last weekend were by large margins:

Sharp Dressed Men buried the Buckeyes 28-0; Just Toyin' cured Kilcawley Diseases 26-0; Dirty Deeds whipped the Immigrants 27-2; Emtae stomped Theta Chi 25-6; Smalltown Boys manhandled Barnstormers 25-6; Jackett's A.C. stung Green Sting 13-0; and Alpha Phi Delta sank the Coral Reefers 19-7.

In the only close game, Kardiac Kids lived up to their name by coming back and defeating Nads in the final minute 9-6.

In that game Kardiac Kids scored first on a safety in the final quarter for a 2-0 lead. Nads quickly fought back, however, and went ahead on a touchdown with one minute to go, 6-2. Then, with time as their enemy, Kardiac Kids marched 80-plus yards for the game-winning touchdown, 9-6.

Guts

ter took place late in the first quarter, just after Murray extended its lead to 10-0 via a field goal.

Throwing on first down from his 20, Kuhn hit John Goode for a quick 12-yard gain. The next two plays netted no gain. On third down, a nine-yard pass to Hardie gave the Penguins a fourth-and-one on their 41.

At a time when the Penguins had just been scored on, were moving the football and needed only a yard, punter Nick Xides trotted onto the field to turn the ball back over to the Racers.

YSU Head Coach Bill Narduzzi said he hesitated on his decision to punt. On three other fourth-and-one situations — deeper in YSU territory — he made the same decision.

"I thought it was easier to punt the ball down, then play good defense and hope for a turnover," he said at a postgame press conference. "That was the only (fourth-and-one) situation that there was even a question about."

Both gutless scenarios seemed out of place for the same YSU team that was inclined to gamble earlier. Against Eastern Illinois, YSU took a risk with a two-point conversion when they were down by just one after a last-minute touchdown. It failed, but the Penguins were to be respected for having guts.

The same guts prompted YSU to try a flea-flicker play several times early in the season, in which wide receiver Griffin Keys — a former quarterback — takes a pitch and fires downfield. The same guts accounted for plays in which tight ends Pokorny and Goode would become ball carriers.

Neither Goode nor Pokorny came around end for a handoff Saturday. Griffin Keys never got a chance to throw the flea-flicker.

The Penguins did little to shock the Racers in front of an embarrassingly small, bored crowd.

And they lost.

Sooner Or Later You'll Get Responsibility Like This. In The Navy It's Sooner.

You're maneuvering 445 feet of guided missile frigate through the navigational hazards and non-stop traffic of one of the world's busiest ports.

But you'll dock safely. Because you know your equipment. You know your men. And even when the responsibility weighs in at 3,600 tons... you're ready.

After four years of college, you're ready for more responsibility than most civilian jobs offer. Navy officers get the kind of job and responsibility they want, and they get it sooner.

Navy officers are part of the management team after 16 weeks. Instead of boot camp, officer candidates receive four months of leadership training. It's professional schooling designed to sharpen their technical and management skills.

Then, in their first assignment, Navy officers get management experience that could take years in private industry. And they earn the decision-making authority it takes to make that responsibility pay off.

As their management abilities grow, Navy officers can take advantage of advanced education and training in fields as varied as operations management, electronics, and systems analysis. In graduate school it would cost you thousands; in the Navy we pay you.

And the Navy pays well. The starting salary is $17,000 (more than most companies pay). And that's on top of a comprehensive benefits program that can include special duty pay. After four years, with regular promotions and pay increases, the salary is up to as much as $31,000.

If you qualify to be an officer in the Navy, chances are you have what it takes to succeed. The Navy just makes it happen faster.
