Body OKs four new members

By ERIKA HANZELY
Jambar Assistant News Editor

Student Government approved four new members at its weekly meeting yesterday.

The new members approved were: Patricia Sveth, Graduate School; Martin Duffy, A&S; Tara Taylor, F&PA; and Jodie Monique, CAST. They replaced those members of council who had either been removed or had resigned their positions.

Student Government also approved Chrissie Wolf, A&S; and Denise Hayes, Business; for the Continuing Education Advisory Board.

In other Government business, Students United for Peace and the African American Student Leadership Corps were denied funding of a combined total of more than $700. According to Dan Davis, chair of Financial Appropriations Committee, Student Government has only approved.

Gay commentary does not make president happy

COLLEGE PRESS SERVICE

Benno C. Schmidt, president of Yale, sent a letter to 2000 fundraisers condemning an August newspaper opinion piece that called Yale a "gay school." The article, run on a commentary page of the Aug. 4 Wall Street Journal, and written by Yale grad and freelance writer, Julie Iovine, alleged 25 percent of Yale's students are homosexual. Schmidt charged the piece "painted a lurid picture of this place" and had "no basis in fact."

Officials echo alarm's success

By SUE KNAPIC
Jambar News Editor

Two of the outdoor tornado alarm systems were deemed successful by YSU officials Friday. The alarms located on top of Beeghly Center and Maag Library were tested on Oct. 23, at approximately 1:30 p.m.

The outdoor alarms, the first of a two-part alarm system being installed at the University, is being funded through the state.

YSU received $61,000 in state funds to install a complete tornado warning system.

Herbert Moore, designer of the office of executive director-facilities, explained the new alarm system is designed to alert persons both indoors and outdoors. Friday's testing was concerned only with the outdoor system.

The outdoor alarm was intended to reach the immediate campus area and, according to Moore, the system's reach was "much better than we intended."

The indoor system, when installed, will have the capability of a verbal warning, in addition to a sounded alarm, that will let students know the alarm is not a test and to take immediate shelter.

Moore said it will take another week to two weeks to install the indoor system.

Moore further explained that See Alarm, page 10

Teachers to translate developments

YSU — Educators from the U.S. and Canada will be attending the 11th annual Conference on the Teaching of Foreign Languages, from 8:30 a.m. - 5 p.m. on Oct. 30, and 9:30 a.m. - noon on Oct. 31 in YSU's Kilcawley Center.

The event is sponsored by YSU's department of foreign languages and literatures in association with the Office of Continuing Education. It is open to teachers of foreign language on all levels of education as well as administrators and other interested persons.

The conference is designed to provide language teachers and others with an opportunity to learn new approaches and techniques, as well as to inform them about recent developments in promoting and improving language courses.

Participants will choose from 46 different workshops and sessions presented by experienced teachers and scholars from area school systems, YSU and many other colleges and universities.

This conference has been approved for six-tenths of Continuing Education Units. Registration fees, which cover the cost of participation, materials and refreshments, are $28 for general participants and $10 for students with a current I.D.

The Friday conference luncheon, which is optional, requires an advance registration at a cost of $7 per person. Free parking will be available for registrants.

In conjunction with the conference, the Northern Ohio Chapter of the Association of American Teachers of Spanish and Portuguese will attend a luncheon Saturday and hear an address on "View of Modern Columbia" by Dr. Servio Becerra of foreign languages at YSU.

Consul general to speak on German-American relations

YSU — Dr. Goetz von Boehmer, consul general of the Federal Republic of Germany, will speak on "German-American Relations Today" at 8 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 4, in DeBartolo Hall Auditorium.

The lecture is free and open to the public.

The consul general was born in Berlin, studied law at the University of Bonn, and has held diplomatic posts in Africa, Ireland and Germany.

He is currently consul general in Detroit with a consular district comprised of Indiana, Kentucky, Michigan and Ohio.

He will also speak at noon that day for YSU's History Club on the subject of "German Resistance Against Hitler."

Alarm system is sound investment

H.G. Wells sent the country into panic in 1939 with the release of War of the Worlds.

Recently, many persons in the YSU community were walking around with perplexed looks.

Just as Americans thought aliens were invading the country in 1939, many YSU students had the impression a nuclear bomb was being dropped or an air raid was in effect last Friday afternoon.

However, no bombs were being dropped, but the new outdoor tornado alarm system was being tested.

The alarm is the first part of a dual alert system for YSU. Funding for the system came from the state.

The $61,000 alarm system is well worth the money and probably the most advanced system in the tri-county area. The alarm system will not only alert people outside, but is also set up to sound alarms inside of buildings. The system also has the capability to have a voice over, so instructions can be sounded while the alarm is going off.

Expense is not a factor with a system that has the potential to save lives.

A weather alarm system for the campus is a great idea. For those who do not believe a tornado could ever hit the Youngstown area — go back and read the newspapers from May 31, 1985. Better yet, read a paper from this past summer.

Residents of Niles, Hubbard and Newton Falls can tell you how important a tornado warning is.

The distinct sound of YSU's system is in simple terms — excellent. Niles has a new tornado system that proved very successful this past August.

The siren is very loud, but sounds like a fire whistle. The YSU alarm system has a variety of pitches that sounds somewhat like an air raid siren. This unique sound will let people in the YSU community know bad weather is imminent simply by sound.

This alarm system is an excellent stepping stone for YSU to issue warnings: The process needs to continue.

Testing of this system should be somewhat periodic so people will know what it is and bugs can be ironed out. Also, information should be distributed so all students, faculty and staff will know what to do when the alarm does sound.

If you do not think preparation is important — ask one of the surviving family members of the nine people who were killed in Niles May 31, 1985.

COMMENTARY

Group tries to pull plug on rock 'n roll

I don't know what is going wrong in this country. I don't know if the fault lies with the general public or if it lies with our elected officials.

The fault I'm speaking of is censorship. Lately we have been standing on the edge of it, and if we're not careful, we just might get pushed off.

There is a group that is trying to strip us of that right, that group being the Parents' Music Resource Center (PMRC). Based in our nation's capitol, this group is frequently referred to as the "Washington wives" because they are also married to powerful senators.

These ladies are at the forefront of a movement that is trying to censor the lyrical content of rock albums. Taking their case before the Senate Committee on Commerce, Science and Transportation, the PMRC tried to "prove" that albums contain nothing but references to explicit sex, drug and alcohol abuse, violence and the occult. They also stated that music is a major force behind premarital sex, drug abuse and teen suicides.

To help curb this "problem," the ladies told the Senate that warning labels should be placed on album covers, to alert unsuspecting parents of what their children are listening to. As you read this, there are now albums in record stores with stickers on them that read: "Warning: The material contained on this album contains references that may be objectionable to some listeners."

"Big deal," you say. Yes, it is a big deal. If these women got their way with the labels, they won't want to stop — and they're not. Already, plans are under way to try to get record companies to dissuade their artists from writing "corruptive" lyrics and if the artists persist, then the wives want them dropped from the label's management. This is not good, folks.

JONI DOBRAN
Entertainment
Editor

Groups like Judas Priest, Motley Crue, W.A.S.P. and the Dead Kennedys are all falling victim to the wrath of the wives.

In fact, Dead Kennedys lead singer Jello Biafra was recently acquitted of a charge of unlawful distribution of material to minors in the form of a poster. That picture, by the Oscar-winning H.R. Giger, was a surrealistic view of intertwined genitalia entitled Penis Landscape and was included in the 1985 DK album, Frankenchrist.

The aforementioned groups, among others, have always received criticism from people who don't like, or don't understand, the music. Just because you don't like something, that doesn't mean it's necessarily harmful. I don't like kidney beans, but I don't think they're harmful to me, or are corrupting me, and the same goes with music. Sure, I listen to the music by those groups and I also sing along to them but that doesn't make me want to go shove a needle into my vein. Maybe these women are confusing this matter with something known as peer pressure.

It's a proven fact that peer pressure is the biggest cause behind everything the wives are fighting to stop. Maybe they should do some more research.

I think the PMRC should take their time and their money and investigate something that really

Correction

In the October 27 editorial, "Athletics give off a chill," it was stated that 88 percent of the $115 general fee goes to athletics. This percentage is incorrect. The correct percentage is 39.5 percent.

The percentage allotted to the athletic department shrunk, but the amount increased by 19.4 percent in 1986-87. In 1985-86, athletics received $1,540,029.00. In 1986-87, athletics received $1,839,060.00.

Out of the $115 general fee charge, $45.42 goes towards athletics.

The Jambar regrets the error.

Commentary

 matters. How about starvation or homelessness? How about getting involved with groups like Greenpeace or Amnesty International? I think these are a tad more important than worrying about Prince using the word "masturbating" in one of his songs.
 What's scary is that the PMRC seems to be changing their line of fire. With the recent Biafra trial, this proves that they are now moving into the area of groups who are politically vocal, groups including the Kennedys, U2 and Little Steven (whose song "Sun City," about anti-apartheid in South Africa, was banned from many radio station's playlists). If they move into and conquer this realm, what will be the next victim? Songs written by left-handers? Lord knows that left-handed people are children of the Devil, because everyone knows about the right hand of God.

Then what will be next after that? Book burnings? People telling you how to act and dress? People telling you who you can talk to and who you can't? Sound a lot like Big Brother? Sure does to me.
 We are one of the few nations left with a freedom of speech that cannot afford to become lost. By banning together now, while there's still time, we can make sure it never does.

Student travels to Europe to meet people

By BOB JACKSON
Jambar Reporter

Brian Ramsey did not travel to Europe this past summer to see the sights or to marvel at all the European wonders.

He went to meet the people and to find out about life in other parts of the world.

Ramsey, senior, F&PA, visited the Scandinavian countries of Norway, Sweden and Denmark during a two week trip lasting from Aug. 30-Sept. 15.

Ramsey said he opted to take a more personal approach to his trip because, "After you've seen four or five castles, one more is not that big of a deal. You can see that kind of stuff on TV anytime, and it usually looks a lot better on TV than it does in person. I wanted to meet the people."

Ramsey said he brought home a lesson and a remembrance of each country he visited, noting that each of the three Scandinavian countries left its own distinct impression on him. For instance, he said he was particularly impressed with how much nurturing the Norwegian children received from their mothers. "If you saw an American mother treating her kids that way, you would think that the child was spoiled," he said, "but they have a different way of approaching it. It's not so much that they wait on the children hand and foot, but there's still a tremendous amount of attention given."

Another aspect of the Norwegian people Ramsey said he noticed is their non-violent nature. He said their peacefulness should not be confused with pacifism, but noted they are indeed a peaceful race.

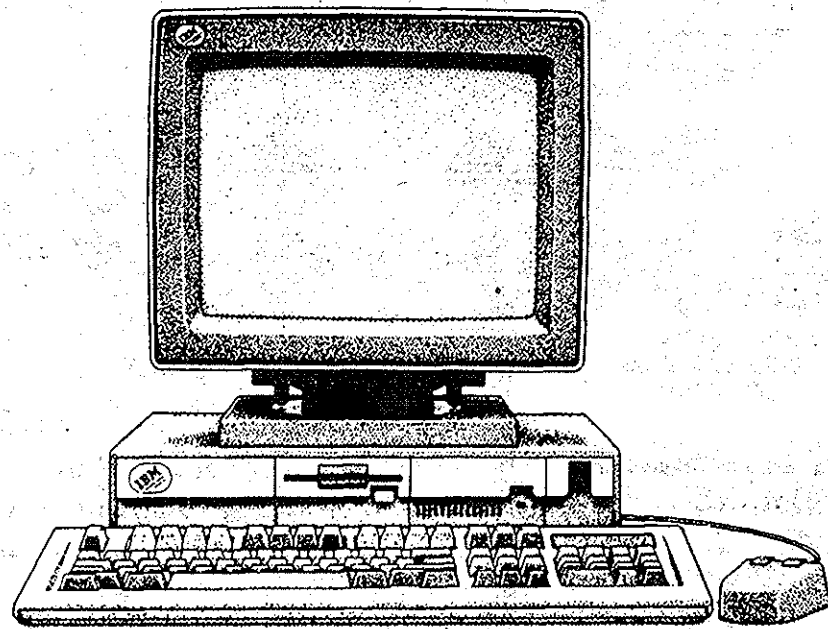

The Norwegians will not permit their children to watch anything with violent content on television and they do their best to shield them from any aggressive influences. All three Scandinavian countries receive only six hours of television broadcasting each day and many American shows are favorites there, with Dynasty and Murder She Wrote ranking high on the list of hit shows.

Ramsey said he was very impressed with Sweden's interest in the Third World. "Even though they're so far removed from it themselves, they really seemed to have a deep concern for those people who are affected," he said. For all their concern for Third World people, though, Ramsey said he was not impressed with the somewhat unfriendly nature of the Swedes. He said Americans are very well received in Norway and Denmark, but the Swedish people, except in the southern part of the country, were usually cool toward Americans. He said the people of

Stockholm were especially suspicious of strangers and tourists. He also said the Norwegians seemed to be glad to have an opportunity to practice speaking English, as opposed to the Swedish who would rather not speak English at all.

While in Copenhagen, Denmark, Ramsey said he met a group of high school students who were there on a field trip. "They were on a field trip because of upcoming elections for the Danish parliament. They were all very well-informed and interested about politics, which is something you don't see very often in high school kids here," he said.

Ramsey took time out from his observation of the Scandinavian people to appreciate one of Norway's more impressive sights, he said. A ski jump at Holmenkollen, a former site of the Winter Olympics, offered a view that Ramsey described as "awesome." "You can see down into Oslo and all the way out to Oslo fjord, about ten miles out," Ramsey said. "It's just incredible."

Another incentive for Ramsey's summer trip to Europe was a chance to meet relatives of his in Norway that he had never met before. "I knew we had relatives over there, but I didn't know who they were," he said. He contacted them when he began to make plans to travel to Europe; asking them if it would be alright if he came to see them when he got to their country. They phoned him about a week before he left and told him they would pick him up at the airport when he arrived. Ramsey said he enjoyed getting to know his Norwegian relatives, though they — like all Scandinavian people — were very shy. "If they couldn't think of a word in English, they would get very upset about it," he said. "Some of them who can't speak English very well just won't even try to speak it at all for fear of being embarrassed if they mispronounced a word."

A final highlight of the trip, Ramsey said, was when he met a group of nurses while traveling through West Germany. The ladies invited him to come to their hometown of St. Hubert before returning home to the United States. "It was like the German homes you see in the old movies, where they all get together and have a big dinner; then they stand around a piano and sing songs and drink beers," he said. "They are very warm people. It was a wonderful experience and I'm glad I took the time to stop."

Ramsey said that if things work out the way he is hoping, he intends to return to Scandinavia next summer. "I got a lot of invitations to come back and visit," he said. "I would really like to get back there again."

Alarm

the indoor alarm system is similar to the fire alarm system at the University. If an alarm fails to sound in a building, the Campus Police Department will receive a computerized print-out of the malfunction and will then be able to notify occupants of the situation.

The indoor system, however, will not be heard outdoors and will be activated in conjunction with the outdoor system.

Campus Police is in charge of activating the automatic system. According to Sgt. James Gray, there is an intercom system located in the Campus Police office that is hooked up to a local radio station. When there is a tornado watch or warning in effect in our area, a loud humming noise will broadcast over the intercom. Following the humming noise (about 8-10 seconds later), a vocal message will inform Campus Police of the situation.

Gray said the sergeant on duty would then insert a key into a key control panel and the tornado warning system would be activated.

Upon hearing the alarm, students and faculty members should immediately move to a tornado shelter.

Gray added that the system contains two warnings: one for a tornado watch and the other for a tornado warning.

The pulsating sound of the alarm is quite different than the common "fire engine" alarm sound of many alarm systems. Moore said they were looking for a sound which would be distinctive rather than resembling a fire engine siren.

During the 1986-87 fiscal year, Yale raised $31.1 million in donations from alumni, some of whom wrote Schmidt in the commentary's aftermath, to ask about its veracity.

In his letter, Schmidt said, "It is too bad that serious, concerned readers can be misled by such journalistic drivel."

Journal Leisure and Arts page editor Raymond Sokolov said he was sorry Schmidt was upset by the article, but refused to disown it.

Iovine said she didn't claim that Yale was over-run with gays, but if it was, "What's wrong with that?" Iovine said she thinks the reaction is extreme.

Meanwhile, the Yale Daily News reported on Sept. 18, the Yale chapter of the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority still had 1985 guidelines written by the national chapter, that suggest pointing out to the student involved that homosexuality is "illegal," and, if the student continues to flaunt the rules, says the chapter should ask the member to resign.

proximately $200 left to fund organization requests. Additional funding will not be available until January.

Government is also in the process of gathering information on possible future uses of faculty evaluations. The ad hoc committee in charge of faculty evaluations had hoped to make evaluations available by mass printing; however, this would violate the faculty contract. Faculty evaluations are made available to the students only through the professor's Dean's office.

Student Government, in conjunction with Housing Coordinator April Brown, will also be investigating the formation of a group to regulate off-campus housing for students.

Homework keeps success in 'The Works'

By DEBORA SHAULIS
Jambar Managing Editor

Students are often told the key to succeeding in a class depends on the homework they do. The members of The Works, performing at the Halloween Dance Friday night in Kilcawley Center's Chestnut Room, also believe in homework being the key to success.

The dance marks the second appearance on campus within the past year for the Top-40 band as well as the end of Chiller Week festivities. In November, the five members will mark their third year together — "sort of a long pregnancy," joked Brian Musone, bass guitarist and vocalist.

Far be it from anyone to call

The Works students of the music scene. Lead guitarist/vocalist John Longo, drummer Larry Paoletta and keyboardist/vocalist Jim Moran each played in bands before joining forces eight years ago. The trio have performed together in three bands, most notably as members of Savannah and Modern Man.

With Musone, formerly of Exhibit A and Shenango, and guitarist/vocalist Denise Krestal, previous member of Paradise and Sojourn, several years of musical experience are represented in the band.

Though they are not students, homework remains essential to the band members. Playing an average of four nights per week, rehearsal time is limited to one or two nights and depends on "if we do our homework at home," said Musone.

Introducing a new song to a set takes 4-10 hours of practice time, "depending on how involved the song is," said Moran.

Since some songs are more challenging than others, the finished product "depends on how we do individually," added Paoletta.

See Band, page 16.

Chiller Week is very event-full

By JONI DOBRAN
Jambar Entertainment Editor

Boo!
Don't be surprised if you hear that phrase spoken a lot this week, because you surely will. Why? Because it's Chiller Week, that's why.

Chiller Week contains action-packed events, sponsored by the Program and Activities Council. Chairman of this year's horror adventures is Michael Thomas, junior, A & S.

If undertaking the human psyche is what interests you, then you won't want to miss the performance by mentalist Craig Karnes.

With his "magic of the mind" show, he leaves his audiences spellbound. If you saw his show last year, then you know that you won't want to miss his command performance this year. He'll take to the Chestnut Room stage at 11:45 a.m. today.

Also making a repeat performance is the Chiller Scream Contest. If your friends always told you that you have a big mouth, then it's a good sign that you

Dana School of Music presents mini festival

YSU — A "Mini Festival of American Music," sponsored by YSU's New Music Society in conjunction with the Dana Concert Series, will be held at 8 p.m., Nov. 2 and 3 in the Bliss Recital Hall.

The concerts will feature a number of guest artists, including the Rollin-Harting Violin-Guitar Duo, other artists and composers and Dana faculty and student performers.

Gwyneth Rollin of Boardman, violin and Lynn Harting of Toronto, Ontario, Canada, guitar, will premiere works by Dr. Robert Rollin, music, and guest composer Peter Ware of Toronto. They will perform both evenings.

Gwyneth received her bachelor of music degree at the University of Calgary and her master's and doctoral degrees at Indiana University. She was a member of the Calgary Philharmonic and toured as a soloist for the Jeunesses Musicales.

Harting received her bachelor's degree from the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music and master's degree from Kent State University. She performs frequently in new concerts in Canada and has been featured in festivals in the U.S.

The program will include Rollin's "American Variations" for violin and guitar, a piece based on a song he originally wrote in June 1985 for a fund raising project to help victims of the tornado which devastated parts of Northeastern Ohio and Northwestern Pennsylvania. The song was recorded and videotaped with a chorus of area television and radio personalities and helped raise thousands of dollars to help tornado victims.

Also featured Monday night will be the Ohio premiere of Dr. Rollin's "Sonata for Solo Violin," which was based on music of the Zuni Indians of New Mexico, where he researched Indian music and customs in 1986 under a YSU research grant.

The Rollin-Harting Duo will perform the Ohio premiere of a new version of Peter Ware's "Chama, the Eagle and the Plumed Serpent," a composition based on legends of the Toltec Indians.

Tuesday night's program will feature Harting playing Ware's

"Nakina," a composition for solo guitar based on Indian legends from the Nakina River region of British Columbia.

Dana faculty member Dr. Edward Largent, music, will premiere "A Ragtime Set," three new piano rag pieces.

The two concerts will include performances by these Dana faculty members: Wendell Orr, baritone; Dr. Tedrow Perkins, oboe; Roman Rudnytsky, pianist; the Dana Woodwind and Brass Quintets and graduate student Lars Brondum, guitar.

The concerts are free and open to the public.

One of the eeriest sequels ever made will be shown this Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Chestnut Room. Aliens, starring Sigourney Weaver, details her travels to a desolate planet to check on its people; what she finds is... well, go see it and find out for yourself. Admission is free, so go with your friends for a cheap, but frightening, night out on the town.

Another masterpiece of the macabre will come to the Pub on Friday as The Shining will be shown twice, once at 10 a.m. and again at 2 p.m. Starring Jack Nicholson and Shelley Duvall, the twisting tale of "redrum" is sure to chill the Pub's audience down to their socks.

Capping off the Halloween activities on Friday night will be the Halloween Dance. Music will be provided by area band, The Works (see the related story in this issue's Center Stage), taking place at 9:30 in the Chestnut Room. Prizes will be awarded for the best costumes in several different categories. Admission is $1 with costume and $2 without, but since it is a Halloween party, it would be a lot more fun if everyone dressed up.

Chiller Week is sure to provide entertainment for every student, so stop and check out all the goings-on.

YSU win streak snapped at three by EKU, 14-7

By GEORGE J. RUSNAK
Jambar Sports Reporter

A person once said "All good things must come to an end." For the Penguins, the end to their three game win streak came Saturday as they dropped a hard fought contest to the Eastern Kentucky University Colonels 14-7.

The loss dropped the Penguins to 4-3 overall and to 2-1 in the OVC.

On their first possession of the game, the Colonels drove right down the field and scored on a one yard run by James Crawford. The point after attempt by James Campbell was good and EKU went on top 7-0.

The Colonels attempted to up their lead on a field goal attempt in the first frame, but the boot was errant and the score remained 7-0.

The Penguins took over on their own 26 yardline.

On the first play quarterback Trenton Lykes hit senior tight end Elliott Fedd on a pass over the middle which Fedd turned into a 67 yard gain. This left the Penguins with the ball on the seven yardline. The Colonels defense toughened up though and YSU's offense could not punch the ball into the endzone.

EKU took over on downs but could not move the ball and was forced to punt.

The punt was fielded by freshman Pete Rektis who promptly raced 44 yards on the return giving the Penguins the ball on the six. One play later

JOHN CHARIGNON/THE JAMBAR

Lykes found Fedd in the endzone for six. The extra point attempt by placekicker John Dowling was good, knotting the score at 7-7.

From this point on it was a very intense defensive struggle. The Colonels attempted a 19 yard field goal in the second quarter, but the kick was wide.

Going into the half the scoreboard showed the Penguins and the Colonels tied seven all.

In the fourth quarter, the Penguin defense let up just enough to let the Colonels take the ball into the endzone. That even proved difficult for EKU as it took them 11 plays to go 55 yards for the score. The points came on a two yard plunge by Elroy Harris. The extra point by Campbell was good and YSU was down by seven, 14-7, the game's final outcome.

The Colonels' defense totally shut down the air attack of YSU in the second half. Lykes was only three out of five in the second half.

Lykes finished up the day 11-17 for 132 yards and one touchdown. He was also sacked four times.

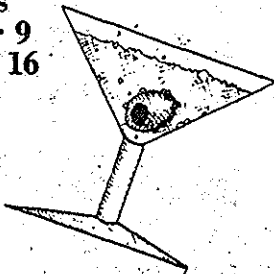

Other Penguins who had fine performances were: Elliott Fedd, who led all receivers with four catches for 92 yards and Paul Soltis, who had 29 tackles to lead both teams.

The Penguins take on Middle Tennessee in another key OVC game for YSU this weekend.

Spring tennis team tryouts set; Harriers post win number two

Oh fans, I'm disappointed. When last we met I asked 4,000 of you to use your IDs and obtain tickets for Saturday's game with Eastern Kentucky. You fell short — way short.

It's a shame you did. The outcome of the game may have not been what we hoped for (14-7, Eastern Kentucky), but the contest has to rate as one of the finest games played at Stambaugh Stadium since its opening in 1982.

It's not only the students I'm disappointed with — those that were there did a fine job of screaming their heads off. It's the Youngstown area, in general, that has me perturbed.

For years we've claimed that the Mahoning Valley is home to the greatest football fans in the country. This weekend was our chance to show that this was indeed true. Our Penguins were playing for first place in their conference against one of the most powerful teams in I-AA college football.

Add to this the fact that YSU had won three games in a row, and that quarterback Trenton Lykes would be gunning for all kinds of new YSU and OVC standards — Stambaugh Stadium should easily have been sold out.

Instead, the Penguins played

Band

Homework also plays a factor in the original material the band produces. Writing original songs is a "collective effort," said Longo, involving each band member.

The Works said they do not feel their style is fully developed as far as original material is concerned. Working on new songs, though, has helped the group discover each other's "hidden talents," said Krestal.

The original music didn't come right away, as it "took a little while to get going with each other," said Musone. Currently, The Works include six original pieces in their song rotation while they continue to work on other pieces.

The Works would like to be known as "the band that doesn't do 'Mony Mony,'" said Paoletta, because of the way many other bands overplay popular songs.

"They're all playing the same material," Moran said of other top 40 bands. Thus, listeners who are new to The Works' sound will hear material from lesser-known, yet talented, bands like Go West or Manhattan Transfer. Classic songs from bands like the Temptations and Kansas are also standards in the band's songlist.

While a risk may be involved in playing lesser-known songs, the risk is worth it "if you can turn people on to another sound," said Moran.

The Works are also quick to point out that their efforts are made by seven, not five, people. Sound technician Rick Powell and light technician Dale Steele, both of Audiax of Warren, help pull the show together, both during practices and actual performances.

Like other bands, The Works want to go "as far as we can go," said Musone, and steps have been taken to reach that higher goal.

A tape of the band's six original songs have been sent to record producers and the band has been in contact with members of management in the music industry. The Works have received "favorable feedback," said Paoletta. "Things are looking the best they ever have."

At times, things don't look so good during a performance, as a memory block may hamper one of the band members. During such frustrating times, the troubled musician reflects on the group's motto, passed on by a friend: "When in doubt, trill in C."

"It's like choosing one letter for every answer on a multiple-choice test," Powell said.

their hearts out in front of 9,060 fans — a far cry from the 15,200 capacity of the stadium.

I could go on, but why harp on it? I think the people of this area are scared of going to a YSU game on a Saturday afternoon. No matter how much I scream and beg and plead, you won't show up...I'm disgusted.

Spring quarter may be a long way off, but tryouts for the spring men's and women's tennis team are approaching.

Head coach Don Getz announces that tryouts for walk-ons will be held Oct. 31, at the Recreation Courts on Spring Street. Men's tryouts will begin at noon and the women's will start at 2 p.m.

Getz urges all full-time students who are interested, to try out for the squads. For more information, contact Getz at 742-3189, or 742-3478, or stop in the Athletic Offices in Stambaugh Stadium.

YSU's harriers competed at Robert Morris University this weekend with the St. Francis University meeting with mixed results. The women dropped their matches to both schools, but the men managed a split, defeating St. Francis 23-35.

The men are now 2-2 on the fall campaign and the women drop to 1-3, heading into the OVC Championship on Oct. 31, at Eastern Kentucky.

The men were again paced by Bill Hess, who finished fourth overall with a 26:46 time. Rounding out the field for the men were: Tom Bellish (time of 27:27, eighth overall); Rich Price (28:17, 11th); Phil Orlando (28:56, 13th); and Greg Cisneros (29:02, 15th).

The women were paced by Carol Falibota with a time of 18:59 and a ninth place finish overall. Other times and finishes for the Penguins were: Bev Smith (21:32, 11th); Gloria Duricy (21:42, 12th); Renay Falibota (22:10, 13th); and Laura Luther (23:36, 16th).

Until next week...Go Penguins!

Now that you've gotten into Youngstown State, IBM can help you get more out of it.

The road to graduation is paved with term papers, lab reports, cramming, all-nighters and, of course, exams.

To ease that journey and awaken your professors to your exceptional abilities, we suggest the newest member of the IBM® Personal System/2™ family: the Model 25 Collegiate.

It's a high-powered personal computer with advanced graphics capabilities, designed to fit on your desk without adding to the clutter. And it comes with a generous 640 KB memory, two 3.5" diskette drives and an aid package every student can appreciate—a big discount, plus Microsoft® Windows 1.04, Write, Paint, Cardfile, IBM DOS 3.3 and a mouse.

Pop in the load-and-go diskette and your Model 25 Collegiate is set to help you write and revise long papers and illustrate your points by combining words and graphics. So your professors will draw favorable conclusions about your work.

For more information on the Model 25 Collegiate, visit the IBM Education Product Coordinator on campus. You'll quickly learn how to get the most out of the IBM Personal System/2.
