Thefts plague campus

By SUE KNAPIC
Jambar News Editor

Within the past two weeks, nearly half a dozen items were reported stolen from automobiles on campus. According to Campus Police reports, the thefts have occurred at various times and places around campus.

On Oct. 8, a Sear's AM/FM cassette tape player was reported stolen from a car parked on level 4 of the M-1 Parking Deck (Wick Avenue Parking Deck). The report stated that no marks were visible on the driver's window or door and that access was probably gained with a "Slim Jim".

Also on Oct. 8, another car parked in the M-1 lot, level 5, was reportedly broken into. Items missing from the front console consisted of two radio knobs, one Pioneer radio cover and six cassette tapes. The report stated that a "Slim Jim" was probably used to gain access to that car.

Two similar thefts occurred on Oct. 7. One car, parked in the M-11 lot on Emerald Street, reported a missing Jensen car stereo and a missing Road Star 7-band graphic equalizer. The report stated that "No marks [were] on the vehicle to show how entry was gained."

In addition, another theft occurred on Oct. 7 in the M-2 parking deck (Lincoln Avenue Parking Deck) on level 2C. A stereo equalizer was reported stolen and again there was "no evidence of forced entry," said police reports.

And on Oct. 6, a Panasonic AM/FM in-dash cassette player was reported stolen from the M-2 deck, level 2C.

Campus Police Director Richard Turkiewicz said that he doesn't believe there is a connection in all of the thefts. There may possibly be a connection in the two thefts that occurred in the M-2 lot on Oct. 7, Turkiewicz said. The other thefts, however, appear unrelated, he added.

Student Government maps out 1987-88 goals

By LISA M. SOLLEY
Jambar Editor

Student Government mapped out its 1987-88 goals at an informal session following the official meeting Monday afternoon.

During official business, reading of the minutes was suspended and Gary Caylor, vice president, presented his address. The body then moved to hear recommendations from the financial appropriations committee concerning allocations for six student organizations.

Government approved funding for the Ohio Student Education Association for a seminar and two ads; the Organization for Womens Equality for additional films, flyers and ad; and the Non-Traditional Student Organization for an ad for fall events.

The body denied funding for the American Chemical Society for a fall speaker for National Chemical Day and to the Palestinian Student Organization for a speaker and ad. A request from the LDS organization was also denied pending further information for a singer, accompanist and ad.

After the meeting adjourned, Caylor proceeded to outline the goals Student Government set at a retreat before school started.

At the top of the list was communications/Dear Marvin. Special Projects and Research Committee was appointed to investigate the possibility of Student Government obtaining a column in The Jambar so students

Trustees resolve issues

By DEBORA SHALLIS

Resolutions, recommendations and recognition of faculty were among the items on the agenda at last Friday's Board of Trustees meeting in Tod Hall.

The Board unanimously passed recommendations to increase the budgets of the Intercollegiate Athletics and Scholarships and Financial Aid departments, amending the figures approved by the trustees previously.

Funds transferred to Intercollegiate Athletics included a gift of $25,000 from Edward DeBartolo Jr., for a drug testing program at YSU; $65,959 from the Contingency Reserve for part-time professional/administrative salary increases and other adjustments; and $11,390 from the scholarship fund for scholarships restricted to athletes.

could write in questions to the body and Student Government President Marvin Robinson to answer questions of student concern.

Student grievance procedures were listed as the second goal. Robinson will head a committee to look into the legalities of having faculty contracts change in 1989 so a professor will not have the final say in a student grievance hearing.

Caylor will head a committee on faculty selection to study the possibility of having students placed on committees when departments are in the process of hiring new faculty members.

The third goal is a co-op program. Government appointed Amy McFarland, engineering

Professor wins ASCAP award for eighth time

By JONI DOBRAN
Jambar Entertainment Editor

To receive an award from the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers (ASCAP) is a great honor, but receiving the award eight times is an even greater achievement.

Dr. Robert Rollin, F&PA, has received this national award eight years running and he has already begun preparing for next year's submission.

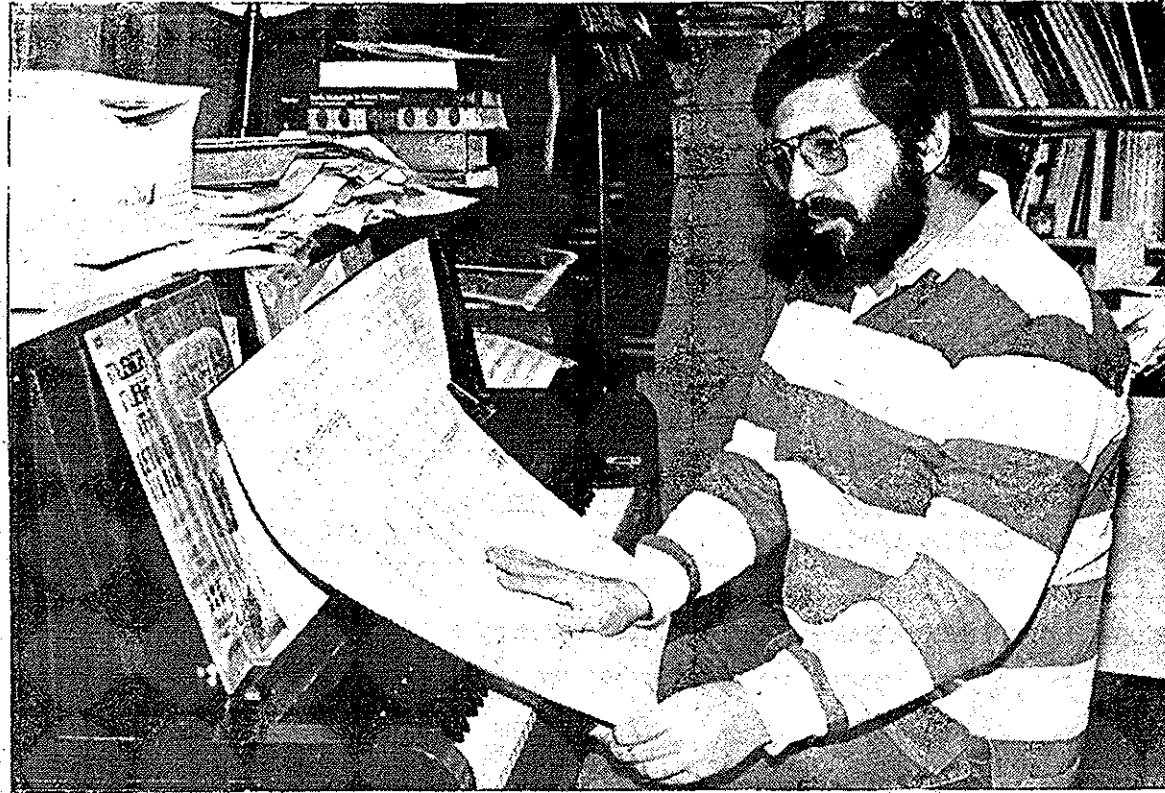

A monetary gift is awarded to a recipient after he or she submits a record of the performances of self-written musical pieces.

"You list your activities. It's an open [yearly] competition for members of the society who write classical music," said Rollin, who has been composing since he was eight years old.

A panel of distinguished composers and publishers decide who the winners of this award will be, based on the quantity and quality of their submitted works.

Rollin, a YSU faculty member since 1977, has composed for many instruments and voice types. His music has been performed both nationally and internationally, while his writings and research about music have been published in various periodicals.

Recently he was commissioned by the Cleveland Philharmonic Orchestra to create a work for its 50-year anniversary. Entitled Renaissance Suite, it was the beginning piece of the evening, premiering at the orchestra's performance this past Sunday at the Cuyahoga Community College. According to Rollin, it was a great honor for him to have been asked to compose the piece.

Rollin, who is advisor of YSU's New Music Society, is currently working on bringing chamber music into the area by working with students, faculty and community members. Eventually he'd like to see the concerts present new works, old classic pieces and guest artists to the YSU community, so, as he said, "Everyone will be able to get something out of all the different types of music."

In the immediate future, however, Rollin is concentrating on the Mini-Festival of American Music, set to take place here at YSU on Nov. 2 and 3.

International students choose technical field

By JEFF LADNER
Jambar Reporter

Approximately 300 international students attend YSU; the majority from the Middle East and the next largest group is from East Asia with most majoring in the technical fields.

Susan Khawaja, coordinator of the International Student and Scholar Services office here at YSU, is in her fourteenth year in this position and keeps informed of the various characteristics and trends of the international student population.

Although the official figures are not available yet on this year's international student enrollment, Khawaja said that there has been about a 33 percent drop in the last five years.

"There are approximately 300 international students and scholars," she said. The largest group of international students, according to Khawaja, are from the Middle East; the next largest group is from East Asia.

"The vast majority of students from the Middle East are undergraduate students while the majority of students from East Asia are graduate students," Khawaja said.

The areas of study with the highest concentration of international students are the technical fields.

"There is a 90 percent emphasis in the engineering, computer science and business administration fields," Khawaja said.

Why do the international students choose YSU? Khawaja said that many are residents of Youngstown and "fifty percent come in with a family connection, some come for a good academic program and some choose it (YSU) blind."

According to Khawaja, when international students do choose YSU "blindly," they usually look through recommendation and accrediting agency books found in U.S. Embassies around the world.

Khawaja pointed out that many international students are the first from their families to attend college.

"Families often hang their hopes on their child for mobility which creates pressure to get scholarships and succeed in school," she said. The students then go on to pay their families back.

International students come from, as Khawaja terms it, "highly competitive backgrounds." They go back to their own country prepared to join an elite group because of the quality of education found in the United States. This education, Khawaja added, serves as the basis for advancing technology in foreign lands.

Khawaja said she views the experience of attending YSU, or any other university in America, as more than a means of technological advancement.

"The international student gets a chance to see his/her own country from a different perspective, something the native American student does not get," she said.

Fall quarter enrollment down from last year

YSU — Enrollment at YSU this fall quarter is 14,675, down from last year's 15,015 but closely in line with the 14,730 projected by the University's Office of Budget and Institutional Studies.

Officials said this fall's figures reflect the Director of Budget and Institutional Studies' projection based on the population of area schools from which the University draws its students.

Approximately 7,500 YSU students are receiving an estimated $4.5 million in scholarships and financial aid this fall.

Of these, 197 are freshmen who graduated in the upper 10 percent of their class, and 32 were high school valedictorians.

The University's fall quarter enrollment includes 13,521 undergraduates and 1,154 graduate students; 7,522 women and 7,153 men.

Hail to Bork's decision

Robert H. Bork's decision not to withdraw as a nominee to the Supreme Court should be hailed by all Americans.

Negative, slam campaigns such as the one against Bork is a disgrace to the profession of journalism.

Ethics walk a fine line in journalism — a line that currently can only draw questions from some journalists and editors.

From the day President Reagan made Bork's appointment, the media has focused its angle on the defeat of Bork. This angle is based on the assumption that Bork's conservative views would turn back the clocks on civil rights. "Bork would be the deciding vote on changing liberal policies in our country," was the outcry. Is this an outcry of concern or an outcry of paranoia?

The latter best describes not only the liberals in this country, but many in media. Maybe they have become one.

Readers are not subjected to objective, factual stories, but rather biased, narrow-focused stories about the man's defeat.

The angle of Bork's conservatism needs to receive print, but other issues also need mentioned. A factual story of the man's record would be a start.

Every organization and senator against Bork has received press explaining their opposition. If lucky, Reagan has been devoted a paragraph stating he would not withdraw the appointment.

A couple of paragraphs in ratio to numerous stories — talk about the scales being unbalanced.

Probably the most objective story Americans received came during senate judiciary questioning. Bork's intelligence and experience was shining, but once again, the media focused on the senators' hopes of defeating the nominee.

Intelligent viewers were given a glance at the underlying issues and not an interpreted impression of a trumped-up effort to destroy an appointment.

More so than this event, Bork was excellent in making his statement last Friday. His decision not to withdraw showed more personal integrity than all of those combined in this defeat campaign.

This biased campaign can be labeled as an excuse, an explanation and even an outlet for the majority of liberals point of view.

How liberal to shove that point of view down every American's throat.

COMMENTARY

Students give off icy attitude

Every day the students at YSU see at least 100 people that they've never seen before and they go home, stare at the television and call it a day.

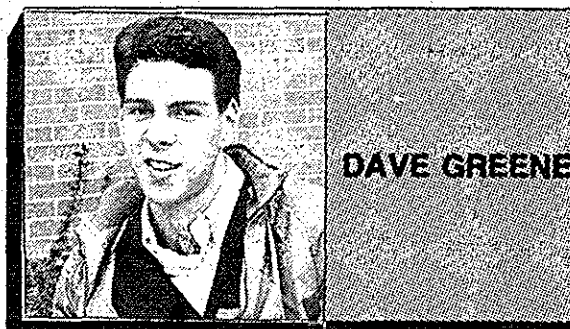

Why is it that people look at other people all day and keep walking? Does everyone out there have low self-esteem or what? I think everyone has done it. They say to themselves "hey, that guy looks like someone I'd like to hang out with" or "that girl is so cool" and then it's off to solitude.

That stranger could turn out to be the best thing that ever happened to them. Maybe they will be someone to say hi to occasionally, or maybe they'll turn out to be a total jerk that you'll want nothing to do with. But, why not find out? Since they're not a part of your life now, you have nothing. So you have nothing to lose, right?

I'm so tired of hearing people complain about how bored they are and how they hate school. A wise man once said, "A bored person is a boring person." Actually, I think I said that, but that's beside the point. The point is those people just don't know what life is all about. Not that I do, of course, but at least I want to know. There is a huge world out there. There are over 10 thousand people right here. Why is it so hard for people to open up?

Then we get into the stereotypes. Who made up these categories anyway? Take, for example, that guy crossing the street. Sure, he looks like a major geek, but is he? Maybe someone called him a nerd in the third grade and it stuck with him. Maybe. Society, in its infinite wisdom, molded this third grader into a complete spaz. Because he looks different? Because he likes different things? Because he has a deep love for pocket protectors? People are stereotyped everyday. Society does a great job in giving people complexes. Why don't these people talk to each other?

It's like all those stupid wars. History books offend me. They tell us what a great leader president so-and-so was or whoever and how the war was "successful." People, often young adults (that's the part that really steams me), are dead and they wouldn't be if some really ignorant people would have just talked out their problems. Is communication so difficult?

Let's babble further. Another thing I hate is when people try to impress people into being their friend. They think that buying a Mercedes-Benz with windshield wipers on the headlights makes them great. It's so sad when they get so wrapped up in collecting those material things that it overshadows the real person and the personality inside. It's obvious these people want attention. But it isn't possible to achieve that on a charge card. Maybe they're all just plain shallow after all.

If you want to talk to someone deep down, you should do it.

That's one of the things I like about punks. They do whatever they feel like doing because they are non-conformists. They don't go with the flow and do what's expected of them. If they want to talk to someone, they will. If they want to slam-dance them to death afterwards, they won't think twice. Proud non-conformists are happy people. So why are so many punks obsessed with the color black, death and suicide?

Obviously, this article isn't for everyone. There are a lot of people out there who have their lives together. But there are too many that don't. College is tough. The more people you have to help you through it, the better.

LETTERS

Dear Editor,
 At last week's Academic Senate meeting Dr. Paul Peterson concluded his three year tenure as YSU's NCAA and OVC representative with an address highlighting, among other things, the major issues, policy changes and challenges of his term in office. Following a brief question and answer period, the chairman of the Senate thanked Peterson for his remarks and then turned to other matters on the agenda.

I believe it unfortunate that a note of appreciation to Peterson was not placed in the record at that time. I was tempted to do so, but was under the impression that the Senate wished to move along to other matters.

Therefore, I would like to take this opportunity to express my deep appreciation to Peterson for his commitment and dedicated service on behalf of the students, staff and faculty of YSU. I know there were times when NCAA and OVC matters required much of his time and energy. Time and energy that went largely unnoticed by the YSU community, yet vital to the success of the athletic program.

I also wish to extend my best wishes to Dr. Frank Tarantine who now begins a three year term as YSU's NCAA and OVC representative. I know he will continue the fine work begun by Peterson and will bring much credit not only to himself but to the University which he serves.

Dropouts fail to pay loans

COLLEGE PRESS SERVICE

College dropouts are more likely to default on Guaranteed Student Loans than students who complete their education, according to a study by the University of California at Los Angeles. Black students, students from low-income backgrounds and students who dropped out of high school also are more likely to default on loans, UCLA professor Wellford Wilms found.

In a study of more than 6,000 students at community colleges and vocational schools on the West Coast in 1985, Wilms found that 38 percent of students who dropped out later defaulted on loans.

By comparison, 17 percent of students who completed their studies did not repay their loans, Wilms wrote in his report, called "Whose Fault is Default?"

Wilms' study, mandated by the California state legislature and funded by the state student aid commission, did not study defaulters' motivations.

Wilms' study focused exclusively on community colleges and vocational schools, he said, since they have the highest percentage of defaulters.

The study found that lender and school policies had little impact on the incidence of loan defaults. Students' characteristics, Wilms said, were the strongest variable leading to defaults.

College dropouts, Wilms speculated, "either didn't have what it took or the program was not what they had hoped for. They became discouraged and don't pay back what they owe."

Day Care Center eases student concerns

By MARALINE KUBIK
Jambar Contributor

Quality day care is often a major concern for many non-traditional students attending YSU. Finding quality child care near the University, however, is much easier since Great Expectations Day Care Center opened Sept. 1.

Owners Linda and Bonnie Beraduce operate the center in the basement of St. John's Episcopal Church, 323 Wick Ave., from 7:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m. five days a week year round.

"We felt there was a need on the Northside of Youngstown for quality child care," Linda said. She further explained that besides its proximity to YSU and downtown business, parents are impressed by the size of the school which includes a science and library room, an arts and crafts room, a gymnasium, two classrooms, a lunch room and a fenced playground.

According to Linda, although only 16 children are currently enrolled at the center, it could accommodate up to 92 children 2½ years old and older.

Great Expectations is state licensed, all teachers are certified and student/teacher ratios adhere to state guidelines.

According to Linda, children are encouraged but not forced to participate in structured preschool programs and group activities.

She also said that they try to provide a variety of activities for the children. They help in the preparation of morning and afternoon snacks, visit the main library once a week where they select and check out books, and they plan to visit the "Hands-On Museum" located in the Wick Motor Inn.

"We want to use the things that are close," Linda said, because there's no need to provide transportation if it's within walking distance.

Parents can enroll children for full or half-day sessions. Unlike many other day care centers, the four-hour, half-day sessions are flexible. Any consecutive four hours are considered half-days rather than strictly morning or afternoon half-days.

"We're trying to bend so that non-traditional students at the University will have access to us," Linda said.

Bonnie received her degree in Child Care Technology from YSU and spent 2½ years as Day School Director at Lads N' Lassies Preschool in Boardman.

Linda received a BS in Business Administration from YSU and was a buyer at Strouss for 15 years.

Anyone interested in more information is encouraged to visit the center or contact Linda or Bonnie at 744-3131.

Tuition doesn't burden students

COLLEGE PRESS SERVICE

Students' post-college lifestyles aren't suffering because of their student loan repayments, a new study indicates.

Released last week at a financial aid conference here, the survey of how monthly student loan repayments affect recent New England college grads' buying decisions found that, though the students complained about their debt burdens, those burdens didn't seem to stop them from buying things.

In no case was the size of the monthly loan payment correlated to the economic behavior in question," said Tufts University Asst. Prof. Saul Schwartz, who reported conclusions gleaned from the still-unfinished "New England Student Loan Survey" to a joint meeting of the National Council of Higher Education Loan Programs and the National Association of State Scholarship and Grant Programs.

While 30 percent of the students surveyed complained their monthly payments hurt them, the payments had no effect on whether they decided to buy a car or a home, get married or move out of their parents' houses.

He pointed out most of the ex-students questioned graduated from private colleges, and thus were likely to come from wealthy families.

Couple leaves large endowment

YSU — A $300,000 scholarship, the largest endowment in the history of the University was granted to the undergraduate and graduate students in elementary education. The John W. and Lucille G. Fedor Scholarship Fund was established by the Board of Trustees on Oct. 9.

The will of Lucille G. Fedor, a retired Campbell elementary teacher who died Oct. 30, 1986 at age 80, leaves in excess of $300,000 to establish the fund "for scholarships for worthy students."

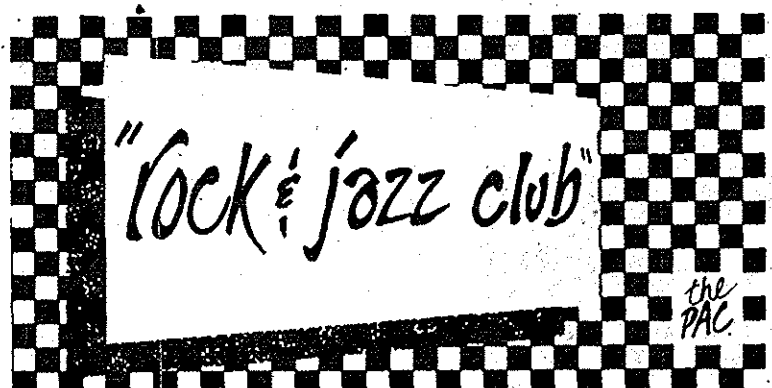

Neil D. Humphrey, president of YSU, expressed the University's appreciation and said the gift truly reflects Fedor's ideals of advancing education and helping young people for years to come.

Fedor, the former Lucille Gilboy, was an elementary teacher at the old McCartney School in Campbell, where her late husband, John had also been principal.

The income from the fund is to be used for an annual scholarship for a graduate student in elementary education to assist them in their research costs and all additional income to be used for scholarships for undergraduates in elementary education.

Trustees accept judge's gift

YSU — A $40,000 gift from a former Youngstown judge and civic leader was accepted by the YSU Trustees on Oct. 9.

The gift will be used to support the University's Center for Human Services Development in YSU's Public Service Institute.

The trustees said the gift, received from the estate of the late Mahoning County Common Pleas Judge Sidney Rigelhaupt, will be designated the Judge Sidney Rigelhaupt Endowment Fund. The gift presented by Atty. Bert Rigelhaupt, brother of the judge, will be used to support the center, which was established to provide the community with resources which supplement and complement service planning and delivery by local health and human service agencies.

Judge Rigelhaupt was a Youngstown native and graduate of Rayen School. He earned a law degree in 1926 from the Youngstown Institute of Technology, now YSU. From 1926-63 he was engaged in private practice of general law in Youngstown. In 1963 he was elected to the first of two successive, six-year terms as judge of the Mahoning County Common Pleas Court.

During his lifetime he was active in civic organizations and community projects and was the recipient of many honors and awards. In June 1975 Judge Rigelhaupt was the key speaker at YSU's Spring Commencement and received an honorary Doctor of Laws degree.

families, he said, "don't have the ability or desire to pay back loans." Blacks, Wilms theorized, may not pay back student loans because they are among the most disenfranchised and disenfranchised members of society. "Blacks receive the lowest earnings and face the most discrimination in the job market," he said.

"I'm not an enemy of the GSL program," Wilms explained. "It's a good program, an important one." But the loan program, he said, discourages students from attending graduate schools because they balk at the debts they accrued during their undergraduate studies.

which amounted to $8,450, will allow the department to hire additional staff members.

The Board of Trustees also approved the transfer of $30,000 from the University's Fund One, or Unallocated Reserve, Education and Associated Operations, to the General Insurance account to meet the increasing costs of insurance for University employees.

Enrollment

Also included are: 5,188 freshmen, 2,901 sophomores, 2,487 junior and 2,945 seniors.

The student body this fall includes 9,470 full-time students taking 12 or more credit hours and 5,205 part-time students.

The Full-Time Equivalent for this quarter's Enrollment is 10,918. (FTE is the student-credit hour formula used by the Ohio Board of Regents to measure both part-time and full-time students into a full-time equation.)

Enrollment this fall includes 13,501 Ohioians and 1,174 from other states.

Fall enrollment by school or college shows 4,464 in the College of Arts and Sciences; 4,204 in College of Applied Science and Technology; 1,648 in the Warren P. Williamson Jr. School of Business Administration; 1,598 in the School of Education; 813 in the College of Fine and Performing Arts; 794 in the William Rayen School of Engineering; and 1,154 in the Graduate School.

A comparison of this quarter's class enrollment figures to those of the 1986 fall quarter shows senior class enrollment is 100.2 percent of last fall's figures; the junior class, 97.8 percent; sophomore, 97 percent; and freshmen, 97.0 percent.

Turkiewicz offered three tips to students concerned about their vehicles. "First, [they] should keep their doors locked; second, they should not leave any valuables visible that might entice a break-in; and third, if they have valuables they should keep identification and serial numbers on the items." Many times if a stolen item is recovered, the item cannot be returned to the owner because they don't have a positive identification of the item, Turkiewicz said.

The Public Events account also received $11,880, transferred from Fund One, to help cover expenses for the University's Bicentennial of the United States Constitution observance.

Trustees also approved the use of the John W. Fedor and Lucille G. Fedor Scholarship Fund for one or more scholarships presented annually for undergraduate and graduate students in the School of Education.

The Board, in addition, resolved to create from the bequest of the late Judge Sidney Rigelhaupt, the Judge Sidney Rigelhaupt Endowment Fund, and to use the funds to support the Center for Human Services Development, which is part of YSU's Public Service Institute.

The Board of Trustees also recognized the accomplishments of faculty members. Dr. Frederick Blue, history, was congratulated on the recent release of his book on Salmon P. Chase, and Dr. Robert Rollin, music, was lauded for receiving an award from the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers.

SURF'S UP WEEK FEBRUARY 22-26, 1988

Center Stage bop(harvey)

Yes, that's the way it's really spelled

By JONI DOBRAN
Jambar Entertainment Editor
and JAMIE OWEN
Jambar Entertainment Reporter

A hush fell over the back room of The Cedar's as we walked in to our interview this past Friday with bop(harvey), a band from East Lansing, Mich.

As we took our seats atop the dormant amplifiers and introduced ourselves, the cacophony of wild animal noises and strains of reggae music resumed and the band continued unloading their equipment and readying for the show.

We first started talking to horn player Miles Davis, who was seated between us, writing up that night's set list. We began by discussing the history of the band.

"Three years ago when we started, we said we were a reggae band and we played reggae," said Miles (who insisted on being called Miles); "eventually, I think we saw, kind of, the folly of seven white guys trying to come off [by] playing a bunch of reggae songs."

By this time we had met the other members: Wordsmith, lead vocals and guitar; Dan Stechow, bass and vocals; Scott Culling, drums and percussion; Randy Sly, keyboards and vocals; Steve Shoha, lead guitar and Joel Hamilton, horns and vocals.

The band started with two core members, Stechow and Culling, and when Wordsmith arrived on the scene, he seemed to be a lucky charm, as immediately the others came along and the band gelled. In fact, Miles and Culling left their positions with major symphony orchestras to join the project.

Wordsmith brought with him a 20-song repertoire, thus giving the group a solid foundation from which to start building their song list.

This is not to give the impression that Wordsmith is the main contributor to the group, since, as we learned, each member has equal input.

"We all appreciate most kinds of music but what we individually listen to is vastly different," said Miles, reflecting on how the group incorporates those seven individual influences into their songs.

At rehearsals, where most of the songs tend to get written, no member is robbed of the chance to contribute to the direction and sound of each song. In the same vein, when a particular member has an idea for a number, he is subject to everyone else's opinion and subsequent suggestions for change.

In the time they've been together, they've developed their own style. As Miles put it, "no other bands quite do it the way we do it. We have a very eclectic approach to reggae, we try to consider ourselves less of a reggae band and more of a band that plays reggae." Hamilton then took the opportunity to add that "you have to thoroughly know something before you can step out of it." It's that way with their music: they've taken what they've learned of reggae and used it as a building block to develop that style.

They're very proud of their ability to draw an incredibly diverse crowd with their music. In fact, at one show they had a group of 80-year old ladies out on the floor and dancing.

Wordsmith, at this point, wanted us to convey greetings to his mommy; "Hi! Send me soap."

The question was raised about the spirituality behind the band's music; that often associated with reggae music. Hamilton responded by saying simply that reggae is "something you feel and just go with — the philosophy is not reggae, the feeling is."

The ever-prophetic Miles added that "there is a tremendous spirituality with any music and that is what has kept the band going."

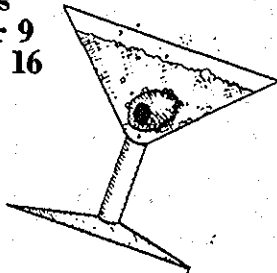

Just as we had gotten our seats on the amplifiers warmed up, the word came back that it was time to get ready for the show, so we wandered out front to experience the sound of bop(harvey)'s soul-inspiring "world beat." Miles' parting word: "Listen and enjoy the music."

Penguins defeat Tech in comeback, 18-15

By GEORGE J. RUSNAK
Jambar Sports Reporter

Lykes sets new YSU standards in win

Last week, YSU head football coach Jim Tressel said that, to have a championship team you have to be able to win on the road and win the big game. Saturday the Penguins did both when they career. The Penguins drew first blood when they took the opening kickoff and in 11 plays drove to the Golden Eagles 15 yard line.

JOHN CHARIGNON/THE JAMBAR

Another record falls: YSU quarterback broke another Penguin record this weekend in the game at Tennessee Tech. The senior from Akron established a new YSU mark for total yards career, breaking the old mark set by Cliff Stoudt from 1973-76.

came from behind to beat the Tennessee Tech Golden Eagles 18-15.

The Penguins have now improved their overall record to 3-2 (1-0 in the OVC). Tech hasn't beaten the YSU squad in six years. YSU leads the all time series 11-4.

YSU quarterback Trenton Lykes had another outstanding outing. He completed 21 out of 36 passes for 303 yards and two touchdowns.

Lykes also set two records against Tech. He became the all-time OVC leader in yards passing with 5,592 yards eclipsing the mark of 5,584 yards set by Dave Schaetke of Morehead State (1970-73).

The senior signal caller also shattered YSU Hall of Famer Cliff Stoudt's Penguin total offense record of 5,495 yards

From there kicker John Dowling booted a 32-yard field goal.

YSU struck again with 4:57 left in the first half. A 64-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Lykes to Lorenzo Davis capped a five play 80-yard drive. Dowling added the point after to give Youngstown a 10-0 lead.

Tech came back with a 35-yard field goal right before the half to make the score 10-3 in favor of YSU.

YSU attempted to increase their half-time lead when Dowling tried a 55-yard field goal with :04 seconds left in the frame, but it fell short. The score at the half was YSU 10, Tech 3.

Tech opened the second half with a quick score on the very first play of the half. On the kickoff, Lorenzo Rivers returned the ball 99 yards for a touchdown, the second longest return in the Golden Eagles history. The extra point was no good, making the score 10-9 YSU.

The Eagles came right back, scoring again with 10:12 left in the third quarter. Once again it was Rivers putting the points on the board. This time he scampered 22 yards for a score. The two point conversion-try failed, making the score 15-10 Tech.

Each team had additional chances to score in the third quarter, but failed to do so. The Penguins took the ball from their own 40 and drove it down to the Tech 10 yardline. A great defensive stand by the Eagles kept the Penguins out of the end zone and from there Tech took over on downs.

The Golden Eagles then drove down to the YSU 21 yard line and attempted a 39 yard field goal, but the attempt was wide to the left. The field goal try was set up by a 72 yard sprint by Rivers. Defensive Back Rod Henderson saved a touchdown with his open field tackle at the Penguin 26. The Penguins tried a 49 yard field goal to open the fourth quarter, but Dowling's kick was wide to the left. The two teams

Golfers wrap up fall season; YSU cheerleading tryouts set

Another big weekend for YSU sports. All fall sports were in action again this weekend, highlighted by the big Penguin win over Tennessee Tech Saturday afternoon, 18-15.

Congratulations go out to Trenton Lykes on surpassing yet another mark in the YSU record book. On Saturday, the senior from Akron passed up former YSU great Cliff Stoudt in the category of total offense career.

In addition, the Penguin quarterback is also the all-time OVC leader in total yards career, surpassing the former mark of 5,593 set by Dave Schaetzke of Morehead from 1970-73.

Lykes is also in position to break the OVC all-time passing yardage mark of 5,545 yards set by present New York Giants quarterback Phil Simms at Morehead from 1975-78. Lykes needs only 408 yards to pass Simms' mark.

The YSU golf team wrapped up their 1987 fall schedule at the Buckeye Fall Invitational at Ohio State University this past weekend. The Penguin linkers finished 12th out of 19 teams in the event with a 996 team total. Host OSU finished first with a 902. Kent State placed second with a 912 and Illinois filled the third spot with a 923.

Brian Garman paced YSU with a 240 total on round scores of 77-82-81. Placing second for the Penguins was Gary Buttar with a final hole total of 247.

Standout Scott Karabin finished third on the squad with a 257. Ed Sowers rounded out the Penguins with a 269.

YSU finished the fall season with a 40-21-0 record, good for a .656 winning percentage.

The YSU women's tennis team's record dropped to 3-2 with a weekend loss to Clarion University, 0-9.

Singles players Judy Giacatello, Sandy Kocak, Janet Polish, Michelle Julius, Camille Iannizzaro and Pam

Higgins all were swept in straight sets by their Clarion foes with Julius putting in a fine showing, taking her opponent into extra games both sets.

The women wrapped up their first fall campaign yesterday at Pitt.

Tryouts for cheerleaders, male lifters and Penguin mascots will be held Tuesday, Oct. 27 from 5 p.m.-8 p.m. in the Beeghly Center gymnastics room.

Practices will be held Oct. 19, 20, 21 and 26 from 2-5 p.m.

All those interested in cheerleading or lifter positions must see Dan Wathen in the Stambaugh Stadium Athletic Training Room for weight and lifting qualification.

For more information contact Jeanne Wilster in the Stambaugh Stadium Athletic Office, or call extension 1921.

Don't forget to get your tickets early for the Homecoming game with Austin Peay this Saturday. Tickets can be obtained in the Stambaugh Stadium Ticket Office or at the Information Booth in Kilcawley Center. All you need is a valid YSU ID.

Bump-it up: YSU's Shelly Byers, a junior from Newark, practices for the YSU Invitational Volleyball Tournament this Wednesday with Cleveland State, Ashland and Baldwin-Wallace.

Spikers prepare for tourney

YSU — The YSU women's volleyball team will host the third annual YSU Invitational Tournament this Wednesday at Stambaugh Stadium Gyms A and B. Action begins at 6 p.m.

The women spikers will play host to volleyball teams from Baldwin-Wallace College, Ashland College and Cleveland State University.

"Historically Cleveland State has been the best team," YSU head volleyball coach John McKenna said. "They are definitely the team to beat."

"Baldwin-Wallace is a good OAC (Ohio Athletic Conference) team and so is Ashland," McKenna continued. "Both schools have very good programs."

The Penguins enter their tourney with a 1-9 mark, following a loss to Robert Morris on Saturday.

"The kids aren't coming on as fast as we hoped," McKenna said. "We have a young team and we have to learn to win."

"We have no seniors to lead this squad, but leadership will come with experience," the Penguin coach said. "We know they'll win; it will all fall in place soon."

The team will venture to Morehead State University this weekend to participate in the Ohio Valley Conference Tournament.

Track coach seeks new thinclads

YSU — All male or female full-time students in good standing are invited to compete as a Division I track and field athlete during YSU's 1988 season.

The men will be competing for a second season as a varsity sport after a 4-2 1987 dual season record.

The women's team will begin their third season with an overall 10-4 dual record.

Head coach Jack Rigney is actively seeking athletes for both teams. Many athletes are returning from last season, but it is necessary to develop depth in all of the events.

The throwing events for the men and women include the javelin, discus and shot put. The jumping events for the men and women include high jump, long jump, triple jump and pole vault.

Rigney said that he is confident that many of the outstanding high school athletes now attending YSU will be competing at the collegiate level this year.

According to Rigney, the running events have some depth, but it is necessary to continue developing the necessary depth in approximately 12 running events.

The high hurdles and 400 hurdles are lacking in depth, Rigney indicated. He said that concentration is on developing the sprinters, middle distance and distance runners as well as the relay events.

Students interested in continuing their track and field competition at the collegiate level should contact Rigney at 742-3004, or stop in the Intramural/Athletic Office located in room 302 of Beeghly Center.

Minority students score high on aptitude test

COLLEGE PRESS SERVICE

Minority students scored higher than ever on this year's college aptitude tests, while other students essentially held their own, reports from the sponsors of the Scholastic Aptitude Tests (SAT) and American College Testing (ACT) tests showed last week.

But the highest scorers, reports showed, once again tended to be wealthy, male and white.

Generally, ACT scores showed little change from last year, while SAT scores have been stable for 3 years.

Average SAT verbal scores among students who are this year's freshmen were 430, down one point from 1986, while the math average score rose one point to 476, the College Board reported.

The average composite ACT score in 1987 was 18.7, down 0.1 percent from 1986 averages.

As the national averages scores stayed the same, however, black students improved their scores.

On the SATs, black test takers raised their average verbal score from 346 in 1985 to 351 in 1987. Average math scores rose one point, from 376 to 377.

Black ACT takers averaged 13.4 in 1987, up from 13.0 in 1986. White students averaged 19.7, and Asian-Americans 19.8.

As always, there was absolutely no agreement just what the scores meant.

U.S. Secretary of Education William J. Bennett thought they were "good news," though "we need better results. We need accountability for results."

"The increasing number of students taking the SAT is an encouraging sign since it means that a great many more students are actually considering going to college," said Donald M. Stewart, president of the College Board.

But at the same time, Stewart termed the results "not dramatic."

In general, average aptitude test scores began falling in 1967, and didn't stop until 1981.

Observers explained the long decline with a variety of theories ranging from less-rigorous high schools to the shrinking size of families to the atmospheric testing of nuclear weapons through 1963.

Bennett continued to blame high schools for failing to prepare students to take the tests, while the College Board itself saw 1987's results as a reflection of the number of students taking the test.

"The more kids that take the test, the greater the variety of student and the lower the scores," noted College Board spokesman Fred Moreno.

The number of students taking the test in 1987 rose eight percent.

Board research chief Robert Cameron added, "There's no doubt that the student who take more challenging courses in high school tend to do better on the test."

Indeed, ACT director of minority education Samuel D. Cargile credited better high school preparation for the rise in minority scores.

"Over the past several years, the proportion of ACT-tested students from minority groups taking a core high school curriculum has increased noticeably," Cargile said.

Nevertheless, wealthy, white male test takers still outperformed other students, prompting critics again to label the tests biased.

Students with family incomes more than $70,000, averaged 523 math and 471 verbal on the SAT. Students whose families had incomes of less than $10,000 had average scores of 416 math and 364 verbal.

"The continued large gender gap on both the SAT and ACT indicates there are still serious flaws in both exams," asserted John Weiss, executive director of Fair Test.

"If test results were consistent with other measures of academic merit like high school and college grades, girls would score the same as or even slightly better than boys."

Goal

representative, Amy Otley, second vice president, and Chris Chiabontti, secretary, to find out why YSU does not have a co-op program with businesses so students can receive credits for working while attending school; if there is a need for this type of program; and how to go about starting a program of this nature. Studying the bearing faculty evaluations have on teachers is the next goal.

Dan Davis, A&S representative and Rich Dever, CAST representative, will investigate what bearing the faculty evaluation forms have on YSU teachers and what is done with these forms. They will also study the possibility of having these evaluations published for student viewing.

Setting standards and regulating and making additions to housing is the sixth goal on Government's list.

Otley and Chiabontti will investigate current housing lists for the North Side located in the housing office and study ways to regulate and modify and make additions to student housing.

Special Projects and Research will also investigate extending facility hours in the library and Meshel Hall throughout the quarter and especially during finals week.

A committee was also formed to report on the feasibility of childcare on campus.

The final goal was the appointment of a committee to seek legislative support in placing students on the YSU Board of Trustees.

Government will hear weekly reports from all of these committees.

Student Government also announced opening of chairs for a representative in F&PA, CAST and two openings for graduate positions.

For more information, stop in the Government offices located on the second floor of Kilcawley Center.

Construction begins soon on industrial museum

YSU — Bids will be received in Columbus the week of Dec. 14 for the Historical Center of Industry and Labor (Industrial History Museum), and construction could begin approximately 60 days later.

The $4.3 million museum in downtown Youngstown, first of its kind in Ohio, is to be a cultural and educational mirror depicting the iron and steel making history of the City and the Mahoning Valley. It will also recall the history of other area industries and labor.

Funds for the project, to be located on a three-acre site opposite St. Columba Cathedral, were approved by the Ohio Legislature. The site, opposite St. Columba Cathedral at N. Hazel and Wood Streets, will be maintained and operated by the Ohio Historical Society.

YSU is administering the project locally because of the nature of the state appropriation (funding).

Edmund J. Salata, YSU's executive director of facilities, announced when the bids for the project will be accepted in Columbus by the Department of Administrative Services and Public Works and projected the completion of the three-story structure as fall, 1989.

The museum's three levels will follow the sloping site as it drops toward West Commerce Street and the downtown area, creating an educational/cultural "avenue" from the University and Butler Institute of American Art to the cathedral, museum and Powers Auditorium.

The Youngstown firm of Raymond J. Jaminet & Partners, selected as principal architect for the building, will oversee the project in association with Michael Graves, internationally known architect from Princeton, N.J., as principal designer.

Dr. Donna M. DeBlasio, local coordinator and program supervisor for the Ohio Historical Society and Carol Buckley, education coordinator for the museum are gathering photos, film, reference books, papers and artifacts for the museum.

DeBlasio said the society continues to welcome historical materials for the museum and can be contacted at 743-5934.

exchanged punts and with 6:07 left in the game, Lykes and Company went to work.

Passes from Lykes of 18, 16, 15, and eight yards to Davis twice, Maury Bibent and Mike McGlone, plus runs of 10 and 7 yards by Davis and Lykes respectively, set up the winning toss. Lykes hit Steve Jones from six yards out to put the Penguins on top to stay 16-15. The Penguins' try on the two point conversion was successful when Lykes dashed into the end-zone, making the score 18-15 YSU.

Bibent led all receivers in the contest with nine receptions for 129 yards. Davis paced all YSU rushers with 67 yards plus five catches for 111 yards.

Paul Soltis led the YSU grid-der in tackles for the fifth straight game with 11.

The Penguin defense successfully shut down the Tech offense to only 255 total yards in the game despite injuries to senior starters Jerry Dunlap and Andre Peterson.

Tressel was very pleased with the teams composure. "We didn't panic," stated Tressel. "We won a very difficult road game."

The Penguins will be home this week for a Homecoming game with OVC rivals, the Austin Peay State University Governors. Game time is 4:30 p.m. at Stambaugh Stadium.
