Artists, critic highlight symposium

By PAMELA GAY
Jambar News Editor

Three luminaries of the art world related just how they got to be luminaries in a three hour lecture/slide show Friday night.

Carol Wald, Barbara Nessim and David Shirey were the featured guests of the Paper, Ink and Inspiration symposium sponsored by YSU's art department. Friday's event preceded the opening of Wald's and Nessim's exhibit in Kilcawley Center Art Gallery as well as a full day of seminar sessions held the following day.

Wald, a painter and collage artist, has had her illustrations appear in publications including Time, Fortune and The New York Times Magazine. While showing slides of her portfolio, she told the large audience that she has been serious about art since age six. "I never intended to be an illustrator though," she said.

Wald received her schooling in fine arts. "I knew I would paint all my life." She entered the field of illustration in her mid-30s.

"My insides told me I was a fine artist, but the world was starting to know me as an illustrator," she said.

Art talk: Barbara Nessim, a popular illustrator, was on hand Friday for the art department's special symposium.

Some of her recent illustrations can be seen on the book jackets of Gore Vidal's Duluth and Erica Jong's Serenissima.

"All of my work is diversified but it all comes from one brain, one spirit," she said.

Wald works heavily in collage and photo montages as well as rendering a "pretty true copy" of the works of the old masters. She said she loves to make interpretations of the master's work.

Wald said that she doesn't see much of a distinction between fine art and illustration. "Art directors are looking for good art as opposed to illustration — that's the long and short of it."

Nessim also showed slides of her works as well as a videotape of how her works develop in the field of computer graphics.

Nessim is an artist and illustrator who works in both watercolor and in computer graphics. She has had her illustrations published in Time, Cosmopolitan, and The Boston Globe.

Much of Nessim's work is inspired by her sketchbooks — she works on up to four sketchbooks a year.

"In my sketchbooks, I draw without thinking. I just take a pen and draw."

However, in her illustrations, she said, "I think of every little detail."

In 1980, Nessim began her work in a budding new field of art — computer graphics.

"There's no magic in computers, you really do have to work hard." See Symposium, page 6

OSA names Robinson to vice president post

By L.M. SOLLEY
Jambar Managing Editor

Student Government President Marvin Robinson has made history.

Robinson is the first YSU student to be elected to an executive position on the Ohio Student Association (OSA). Robinson was elected as the vice president. OSA only elects two executive chairs, the president and vice president, and the rest of the executive chairs are appointed by the two elected officials.

Elections for the executive chairs were held at the monthly OSA meeting held in Cincinnati over the weekend. The results were announced after Monday's Student Government meeting.

Robinson did not attend the meeting, however, YSU was represented by Vice President Todd Vreeland, Second Vice President Amy Otley and Student Government representative Heather Stefanih.

Only two other YSU students have been appointed to fill executive positions with the OSA. Last year Sahar Mansour, senior A&S, was appointed as the assistant to the president and Otley is the current executive secretary to OSA and has been appointed to fill the position again next year.

Wendy Johnson from Ohio State was elected as the president of OSA. The OSA executives will travel to YSU this weekend for Springfest and will hold an orientation Sunday.

'Fest' shows signs of spring

By DEB SHAULIS
Jambar Entertainment Editor

A festival-like atmosphere, complete with rides, food and music, will be only a few steps away as Springfest '87 takes place April 30 - May 2.

The event, sponsored by Student Government's Major Events Committee, will be held in the visitor and mixed parking lots located at the corner of Spring and Bryson Streets. Springfest '87 hours are 11:30 a.m. - 11 p.m.

"We felt it was time for a major springtime activity on campus," said Marvin Robinson, Student Government president and organizer of the event.

All events are free and open to the public. Friday night has been designated "teenager night" by Student Government. "The idea is to spark some in terest in those high school students who would be freshmen in the fall to see what's going on at YSU," Robinson said.

Grotto Clowns will visit the campus Tuesday and Wednesday to advertise the event, which begins Thursday.

The Grotto Clowns return to campus Thursday to pass out balloons beginning at 10:30 a.m. as part of opening ceremonies. A helicopter flying demonstration by the 107th CAS Air Force Reserves of Akron takes See SpringFest, page 9

Local physician speaks

NEWS SERVICE — The subject of a recent TV movie will be the final lecturer in YSU's Special Lecture Series. Dr. Mary Groda-Lewis, local physician, will give the final presentation on Tuesday, May 5. She will speak on "Learning Challenges," at 8 p.m. in the Ohio Room, Kilcawley Center, Spring Street. YSU's Special Lecture Series is free and open to the public. Seating is on a first-come, first-served basis. These programs are designed to enhance and enrich community and University life by bringing in prominent social, political and intellectual leaders.

Groda-Lewis, who overcame dyslexia and a stroke to pursue her dream of becoming a doctor, is well-acquainted with what the word challenge means. She was a dropout at 10, a delinquent at 16 and an unwed mother at 18.

Her life story has been the subject of many magazine and newspaper articles and the CBS movie, "Love, Mary."

Groda-Lewis is a graduate of Albany (N.Y.) Medical College with an M.D. degree and the mother of two children.

She has received numerous awards and scholarships, including the Ann Perkins Scholarship, Lamb Foundation Award and the Alumni Association Medal from Albany Medical College.

Security apprehends runaways

By PAMELA GAY
Jambar News Editor

Three runaways and a stolen car combined to keep Campus Security busy during Saturday's early morning hours.

According to a Campus Security report, an officer observed three juveniles walking from the Kilcawley Bookstore area towards Spring Street at 2:28 a.m. Due to the time and their young appearance, the officer stopped the three.

All three provided their names but did not give any other information such as their social security numbers or phone numbers. A check was made with the Youngstown Police Department and the Juvenile Justice Center to see if they were reported runaways but that check came up negative, the report stated.

After transporting the three to the Campus Security Office, one admitted that they were residents of Pennsylvania and that they are now "living on the streets."

After further questioning, it was determined that they hailed from Mechanicsburg. A call was made to the Mechanicsburg Police Department but they were unable to provide any information from the names the three gave, the report continued.

Fire alarms plague dorm

By PAMELA GAY
Jambar News Editor

If you've never lived in a dormitory then you probably don't know the sheer frustration from being woken from a sound sleep by the piercing blast of a fire alarm — and knowing it's just someone's idea of a practical joke.

Residents of Kilcawley Residence Hall know that frustration well. The fire alarm sounded three times this month already — and this weekend it sent residents into the lobby on both Friday and Saturday.

April Brown, housing coordinator, said she is concerned that if there is a real fire someday, residents will assume the alarm is not for real. It's a "cry wolf" type situation.

This month alone, the alarm was set off on the sixth floor last Monday, on the third floor Friday and on the second floor Saturday.

Brown said she has a "very good lead" on who set off the alarms this weekend. She is currently working on different preventative measures to stop the late night treks to the lobby, but could only tell The Jambar that right now residents should keep watch over the alarms.

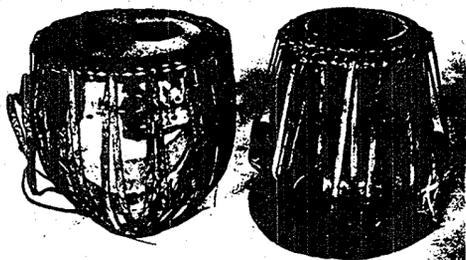

"If anybody knows who pulls the alarms, let me know so that we can put a stop to this," she said.

Brown said alarms are usually pulled around this time of year because people stay up late and stay out late.

GOOD VIBRATIONS

Good Vibrations is a column written by affiliates of Cooperative Campus Ministry and the Newman Center. This column was written by Rev. Jim Ray.

An article in the New York Times Magazine of April 5 entitled "Alone Together — The Unromantic Generation" caught my eye and my emotions. The article detailed a survey of 60 persons between the ages of 22 and 26. The author at age 33 attempted to "take the emotional temperature of a generation" which seems to "have succumbed to a culture of immediate gratification..."

As the father of three children in that age range, each of whom will soon be college graduates, I found myself in a pensive mood at the conclusion of the article. My mind wandered to several other articles that touched on a similar theme. One of these, set in an international theme, indicated that U.S. students studying abroad find themselves using the term "Fortress America."

The term arises as these students find themselves in another country's culture and in comparison with students of that country find themselves and American students "incredibly uninformed, incredibly naive and incredibly unprepared to think seriously about anything of consequence in the world."

Thus the term "Fortress America" refers to an invisible wall built around a nation afflicted with myopia.

The author of the "fortress" article writing in "Entre" for Sept. 1986, a journal of National Lutheran Campus Ministry was developing his point following an extended trip to Europe last summer and after reading a series of articles in the Washington Post. The series of articles "was about a new generation of students, a generation it labeled as "without cause: self centered and expecting the good life to get better."

So it was with great interest that I read through the article "Alone Together" where it became all too clear that for many young people emotion has taken a back seat to the rational. As the author interviewed person after person, some of them couples, married and not married, he found a very calculating approach to life. The "me" generation seems to be in its prime.

I worry about a sense of balance and priorities. I worry because a bottom line understanding about life for me is that each of us is here in this world for each other. And that means more than just one other person or just one's family.

We are here to be concerned about our city, our nation, our world. Increasingly, it is becoming critical that each of us have a global awareness of life. But where does one pick this up in our secularized, commercialized society? One has to fend off the crass advertising pitches that confront us continually, each telling us how we can look better, smell better, drive the best car, etc. Small wonder that even the Youngstown Vindicator ran an editorial in March entitled "Greed, Selfishness Characterize '80s."

Everyone, it seems, is jumping on the band wagon of concern. The more conservative times in which we are living give an incredible boost to privatism making it difficult to go against the tide.

I hope there will be times when you work for a cause larger than yourself. I hope there will be a growing awareness that rather than competing at the expense of one another we can work with one another for a greater common good. I hope you will connect personal goals with societal objectives. A young chief accountant in Dallas said, "Seems like everyone in our generation has to be out there achieving — most of my time is taken up going to work."

It's a struggle — but an important one. If I can help, let me know.

Spring enrollment drops slightly

NEWS SERVICE — A few students must have decided to take advantage of good spring weather and take the quarter off. YSU's official spring quarter enrollment is 13,532.

This is down slightly from the 13,707 students last spring.

This spring's enrollment includes 8,373 full-time and 5,159 part-time students. Full-time students are those who are taking 12 or more credit hours.

The full-time equivalent for spring quarter is 9,972. (FTE is the student-credit hour formula used by the state to measure both part-time and full-time students into a full-time equation.)

Encourages student sanctions

Dear Editor,

I agree! There is definitely too much fondling going on on this campus! And that spitting on the sidewalk, well that's just dispicable!

Student Government should take measures to eradicate these atrocities. And while they're at it, they should form a committee to review the books in Maag Library. I have a feeling we need to remove some of them.

We should also pass a law that prohibits bare midriffs and shoulders. If we should rub naked skin upon naked skin we might contract that dreaded AIDS virus.

I'd also like to see that vile, intoxicating Pub removed from our campus.

Do you think we can get some sort of legislation passed to force our professors to give equal time to creationism? That Theory of Evolution is ridiculous.

And how about getting some daily religious services on campus. Make it mandatory that everyone attend.

Guy Bedlent

Proposes solution for fondlers

Dear Editor,

I too feel disgust at what you have described in your editorial of Tuesday, April 21. I feel my rights as a human being are demoralized by animalistic displays of affection in public places.

However since we are a learning institution perhaps we can view these scenes in a different manner.

Obviously these specimens not only require public attention, but they most definitely demand it.

Therefore, I would advise taking as many snapshots as possible of the display, catalog it, date it and forward it to the nearest living relative, farthest living relative, all schools and businesses including NASA.

In this way, those who choose to animalize their lifestyle will be more than satisfied with their wider than normal viewing area while still providing their mother, father, minister, prospective employer with a "birds eye view" of what they have to offer the future of America.

You are also right...Student Government should act fast...build some cages and kennels in the center of campus where we can keep this species since they evidently don't have any more intelligence than two dogs in heat and belong in the zoo.

Vreeland reported that the OSA will be monitoring actions taken by the Supreme Court on raising the drinking age in all states. If the order is passed, OSA will push for a grandfather clause which will allow those persons who are 19 or 20-years of age at the time the law is passed to continue drinking.

Vreeland also reported that House Bill 34, which will enable students to sit on the Board of Trustees at their respective schools in Ohio has now gone to the rules committee.

However, he added that the bill will probably not be voted on until the fall of 1987 because the state budget is consuming most of the legislators' time.

In YSU Student Government action, Otley reported that the Women's Resource Center requested that two of the advisory board members be replaced.

Julie Tucker, senior, WSBA, and Hope Schafer, graduate student, were replaced by Silvia Mortellaro, junior, WSBA, Milene Stanich, senior, A&S, and Rosemary Keshock-Crew, senior, A&S.

In further Student Government action, education representative Henry Diamond made a motion to have all of the clocks on campus set at the same time and maintained to keep accurate time throughout the buildings on campus. The motion was unanimously accepted.

Vreeland then assigned the carried motion to the special projects and research committee. The vice president asked the committee to find out what kind of action the governing body must take in order to have maintenance fix the clocks throughout campus to read the correct time.

Closing representative remarks were heard and advisor Dr. Edna Neal encouraged all representatives to attend Springfest this coming weekend. "This is an activity for the students, put on by the students and arranged for your benefit," Neal said.

Opening ceremonies for the event will take place at 11 a.m. Thursday.

Airline

FAA had 16,412 controllers. All except 3000 held top classification of full performance.

Also a problem is the fact that before the strike, aircraft were spaced five to ten miles apart along an airway.

Steps are being taken to try and overcome some of these major problems that cause airline delays. In February the FAA implemented an expanded East Coast Plan. Instead of 17 departure routes, there will be 28. Planes from one field won't have to wait on the ground while those from another cross the same departure fix. Arrival routes will expand from nine to 12. The number of controllers are also planned to increase. Five-hundred were added in 1986 and funds have been budgeted to hire more this year.

This new plan may be somewhat successful, however, the FAA said it is not a long-term solution. The facts stand that we need more bigger airports along with more takeoff and landing space, in order to accommodate the increased number of air travelers.

Continued from page 1 to know how to draw," she said. Nessim showed a videotape of some of the works she has completed in computer graphics. The sped-up version showed a work from start to finish.

Shirey, originally from Canfield, related a few of his favorite stories on his life. (In fact, many of those stories were the same as ones he told at a lecture at The Butler three years ago.)

Shirey is an art critic for The New York Times as well as current chairman for the graduate program at the School of Visual Arts in New York City. He has also written for Newsweek, Art in America and Art News, among others.

Shirey jokingly told the crowd that "the role of the critic is to destroy artists," and then added that he actually works as a "purveyor of information."

"A critic by nature is prejudiced," he said. "I don't think a critic should be objective."

Shirey explained that when he was in high school, art was considered a stigma. "They always seemed to lump art together with shop class and home economics. It was always seen as a unacademic subject."

"I became an art critic because I wanted, in my own small way, to change that attitude," he remarked.

Shirey also spoke of his short-term career as a painter. "My career in painting came to an abrupt halt when I was told, 'David, it needs a second coat.'"

He also said that an earlier reporting job with Newsweek "was the best job I ever had. It was a real learning experience."

Aside from Friday's lecture/slide show, Nessim and Wald spent the previous week visiting various art classes and critiquing student's portfolios.

Campus Security gave the department descriptions of the three and one was then identified as a juvenile on probation. The two others then admitted their real names, the report stated.

The probation officer of the one juvenile was contacted and he advised Campus Security to transport the three to the Juvenile Justice Center. He also advised that one other juvenile was also on probation.

According to the report, the two on parole had failed to return to Job Corp in Mechanicsburg after Easter leave.

All three were transported to the Juvenile Justice Center in Youngstown.

Campus Security was then told by the probation officer that the car the three were driving was a stolen vehicle. The three told Campus Security that they had left the car on the west side parking lot of the Arcade on Fifth Avenue.

A study released last week by University of Minnesota's Student Organization Development Center found fraternity and sorority members tended to have lower grades than independent students, and tend to have more problems — from missing class to having unpleasant sexual encounters — associated with alcohol use.

At Lamar University in Beaumont, Tex., police said they suspect Harold Thomas, 25, died during hazing rituals performed by the Omega Psi Phi chapter.

Boston University students picketed the campus April 6 to protest the scheduled closing of the nursing school.

At Georgetown in Washington, D.C., the American Association of Dental Schools claimed Georgetown officials were simply wrong in closing their dentistry program because enrollment nationwide is not, in fact, declining.

Whether it's playing piano, saving souls or making jokes, the Reverend Billy C. Wirtz, self-proclaimed Director of the First House of Polyester Worship and Our Lady of the White GoGo Boot Worldwide Love Ministries, Inc., brings his 'ministry' to YSU with a performance at 11:30 a.m. Friday, May 1 in the Kilcawley Center Pub.

Political, social and religious satire is the trademark of Wirtz's show, in which Pat Robertson, Jerry Falwell, Ferdinand Marcos and others fall victim to his comic style.

Music is another of the reverend's trademarks. With a voice once likened to "Wayne Newton's after a severe head injury," Wirtz's piano-playing and improvised lyrics are another source of comedy.

Past performances include appearances with Joe Piscopo, The Fabulous Thunderbirds and Stevie Ray Vaughan. In addition, he has made several appearances on P.M. Magazine and East Coast radio shows.

Wirtz recently performed at Niles' Tin Pan Alley for Comedy Night.

The South Carolina-born Wirtz began playing with a country band before learning blues from performer Sunnyland Slim in Chicago. Also influenced by Elvis, Jerry Lee Lewis and Red Sovine, he has developed his own style of playing — called "warp-a-billy."

Wirtz, who travels approximately 50,000 miles a year in his performance schedule, was called "One of the hottest — and strangest — acts on the East Coast club circuit" by the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette. The Kansas City Star said "the Reverend Billy C. Wirtz isn't Falwell, but he has charisma."

Committee chooses theme

YSU — The classic children's tale The Wizard of Oz will come to life next fall, as the Homecoming Committee has chosen the theme "There's No Place Like Home — Coming!" for the celebration, Oct. 13-17.

Sketches of possible logo designs are currently being designed by the Graphic Center and will be voted on at Wednesday's meeting. After the logo has been selected the week's colors will also be chosen.

The 1987 Homecoming Student Executive Board has been finalized. Vicki Spintos is Homecoming Chair, Madonna Barwick and Marnie Murphy are co-captains of the Opening Ceremonies, Phil Commins and Chrissie Bond are Mid-Week. See Homecoming, page 9.

Greek Sing tradition continues Friday

YSU — Tradition and competition highlight the 34th Annual Greek Sing, which will be held at 7 p.m. Friday, May 1 in Stambaugh Auditorium.

Months of practicing for the year-ending event are over, as participating YSU fraternities Phi Kappa Tau, Sigma Phi Epsilon and Sigma Chi and sororities Delta Zeta, Phi Mu and Zeta Tau Alpha take the stage in competition.

The event is sponsored by the Greek Program Board.

The participating groups will perform in formal class competition, which involves all the members. An open class competition will also be held for individual members or small groups.

In both classes, the singers may be accompanied by music or sing a cappella.

Masters of Ceremonies for this year's Greek Sing are Jim Moran, Phi Kappa Tau and Kimm Orr, Phi Mu.

Besides prizes for Greek

Sing, awards for individual scholarship will be given, and the fraternity and sorority with the highest grade point average will be recognized.

Admission for Greek Sing is $3 at the door. Tickets can also be purchased at the Information Desk, Kilcawley Center.

This year's performance is dedicated to the memory of former Assistant Dean Mark Evans.

AT THE BUTLER

YOUNGSTOWN — American figures are the focus of a new exhibit at the Butler Institute of American Art.

"Lester Johnson, Selected Paintings 1970-1986" is at the Butler through May 17.

Johnson has emerged in recent years as one of the leading figurative painters in the world. This exhibition examines the last sixteen years in the evolutionary process of his work.

Johnson's people are neither northern nor southern, but there is no mistaking the Americanness of these people.

The strength of Johnson's painting's is through layer upon layer of paint application. He over-paints, scrapes, scores with his brush handle and even drips paint to create effects. In short, in work that looks gruff on the surface with little thought or manner, Johnson has tackled the basic agenda of post-Renaissance occidental art.

Johnson has been quoted as saying, "Part of my idea of structure is to compress it to get energy. I have always been involved with energy. When I think of my recent work I think of my paintings as energy. The color is energy. When you squeeze Cadmium Orange out of the tube that's one hundred percent energy. If you put white in to it, that's like putting water in wine. You can, however, put purple into the orange. You don't dilute the energy; you create new energy."

Paul A. Chew, director of Westmoreland Museum of Art has this to say of Johnson's work, "This exhibition is not intended as a retrospective. A few works of art, however, introduce us to his style of the early 70s which act as a transition to the recent stylistic and color changes in his work.

Johnson's career of some 40 years most certainly places him as a major figurative artist in the mainstream of American art."

Johnson was born in Minneapolis, Minn. He enrolled in 1939 at the Minneapolis School of Art. He continued his studies at the St. Paul School of Art.

By mid 1950s he was invited to join the Artists Club. Over the years Johnson has taught at various schools and universities. Since 1964, he has been director of studies in graduate painting at Yale University.

The Butler is hosting the 51st YSU Student Exhibition May 3-17, a multi-media exhibition by the art students of YSU.

Award presentation and reception with speaker Nathan Goldstein will begin at 4 p.m. Goldstein, prominent artist, teacher and author, will be juror of awards for the YSU Student Show.

Hustle and bustle: Lester Johnson's Late Arrival, an oil on canvas painting, displays the talents which earned him the reputation as one of the leading figurative painters in the world. Johnson's works are one of three shows currently on display at the Butler Institute of American Art.

YSU musicians play a major part in Springfest '87. Of the bands performing at the festival, "the majority are students at the University," said Robinson. "It's a student event, so we wanted to involve as much talent we had on campus as possible."

Sacksville Rhythm & Blues opens the event with a performance at 11:30 a.m. Thursday, Graphic Pink follows later with an 8 p.m. show.

Jady Kurrent is scheduled to perform at 11:30 a.m. Friday, while The Infidels will perform at 8 p.m., also on Friday. Saturday's music schedule includes performances by The Other Side at 11:30 a.m., Jazz Revival Orchestra at 3:30 p.m. and In-sane at 8 p.m.

The bands will be performing in the parking lot behind the Campus Security building on Spring Street.

More information on Springfest '87 can be obtained by calling Student Government at ext. 3593 or 3594.

The Greek Games to be held during the event were cancelled because they conflicted with Friday's Greek Sing.

Greek Advisor Sondra McGirr said too many activities were taking place this week. "It was just too much to handle," McGirr said.

Baseball

Team goes one-for-three in weekend games

By RUSSELL FARMINTINO
Jambar Sports Reporter

The YSU baseball team, recent victims of a nine-game losing streak, attempted to break out of it this past weekend.

The Penguins thumped Allegheny College by a score of 11-5 at Pemberton Park, but promptly started another losing streak by dropping a doubleheader to the visiting Eastern Kentucky Colonels by scores of 7-5 and 10-1.

The Penguins' season record dropped to 7-22 overall and 2-12 in the OVC.

Against Allegheny, the Penguins started off by putting a three spot up on the scoreboard in the bottom half of the first inning. Jeff Stofko unloaded and cracked a three run round-tripper driving home Vic Kuchmaner and Mike Grazier.

Following a three run third inning by Allegheny to knot things up, the Penguins plated a tally to take the lead for keeps in the bottom half of the inning. Kuchener cracked his second straight hit and was singled home two outs later by Joel Brennan.

The Penguins then proceeded to break things open in the bottom of the fourth inning. With none on and two away, the Penguins exploded. After Archie Herring, Grazier and Kuchmaner reached base via two walks and an error, Stofko smashed a two run single to give the Penguins a 6-3 lead.

Next up was Jim Sotlar who promptly rapped an RBI double to up the ante to 7-3.

Brennan then followed with his second hit, a two run single, to make it 9-3. John DePiere closed out the scoring in the fourth with an RBI single.

After a two run Allegheny fifth inning, the Penguins answered back with a single run in the bottom of the sixth. Brennan singled in Jim Sotlar for his third hit and fourth RBI on the day, making it 11-5.

In addition to Brennan's three-for-four showing, Stofko went two-for-three with five RBI's. Also featuring in ending the losing skein were Kuchmaner, DePiere and Mincher, who each slammed two hits.

Joe Marasati went the distance in picking up the mound decision, scattering six hits.

Next, the Eastern Kentucky Colonels swept a doubleheader from the Penguins.

In the opener, it appeared as if the Penguins were going to make it two in a row by scoring twice in each of the first two innings to take a 4-0 lead.

However, EKV scored in each of the last five innings to come away with the 7-5 victory.

Stofko continued his display of power hitting by homering in his second straight game and driving in two of the Penguins five runs.

Marasati took the loss in relief of starting pitcher Greg Solarz for YSU.

In the nightcap, the Penguins saw everything unravel as EKV held the Penguins to four safeties in administering a 10-1 drubbing. Suffering the mound defeat for YSU was Jim Dennison.

The Penguin slate continues Friday with a doubleheader at Pemberton Park against the University of Cincinnati Bearcats.

Ladies break even in Akron

By MARK S. ARP
Jambar Sports Reporter

Last weekend the Lady Penguins took their 10-6 record on the road and travelled west to participate in the Akron Invitational.

In the first game on Saturday, YSU faced the Lady Zips and wound up on the losing end of a 4-0 decision.

Julie Croft took the loss for the Penguins, surrendering six hits to the Akron batters. Third baseman Tammy Schaeffer and Croft combined for all of the Penguin's offense, with Schaeffer for smacking two singles and Croft adding another.

In the second game on Saturday, YSU took on the Lady Vikings of Cleveland State and came out on top 3-2. Ruth Pleskovic hurled a two-hitter, striking out four. Shortstop Kendall Trexler broke a 2-2 tie as she scored the go-ahead run in the fifth inning which proved to be the difference in the game.

The ladies played Davis and Elkins University in their third game of the tournament on Sunday and upped their record to 2-1 in a 4-2 victory. Pleskovic started the contest on the mound and Croft relieved in the sixth inning as they combined on a four hitter. Kim Calhoun and Julie Yuhasz each contributed two hits apiece for the Penguins.

The YSU softballers rounded out the invitational at 2-2 at the hands of Wayne State in a 12-1 rout. Croft took the loss giving up nine hits. Four players had one hit apiece for the Lady Penguins.

YSU, now 12-8 overall, will lead off a six game home stand today against Edinboro University.

The men's and women's netters, led by Head Coach Don Getz, saw match play in the OVC Tennis Tournaments. The ladies competed at Eastern Kentucky while the men ventured to Akron.

The women all met defeat despite some fine net play on the part of Judy Ciacatello. Playing number one singles for the Penguins, Ciacatello placed seventh in the OVC.

The doubles team of Sandy Kocak and Heidi Raupach also placed seventh in the OVC as the YSU number two doubles team.

The men squared off with the rest of the OVC at Akron.

Getz got some really great net play from the entire men's squad. In singles action, number one man Paul Lieber placed sixth in the OVC, winning one of his three matches. Rick Beachy, playing number two man for the Penguins also took one of his three matches en route to a sixth place finish. Thad Hawkes also went one for three and took the fourth spot.

In doubles play, the Hawkes/Lieber team earned fifth place honors. Beachy/Kent placed seventh and Redmond/Bob McGivern finished in the eighth spot.

Pierce placed seventh in the men's "C" race and Faller finished seventh in the "A" bracket. Saturday's races were of the Criterium type. In the Criterium type racing the riders ride from 10 to 30 laps with emphasis placed on cornering and spring skills.

Sunday's races were long distance. The Velo-Equipe continued to shine. Pierce placed seventh again in the men's "C" division and Jeff Kessner placed 20 in the men's "B." In the women's race, Diane Kilka posted a thirteenth place finish.

GO FROM COLLEGE TO THE ARMY WITHOUT MISSING A BEAT.

The hardest thing about breaking into professional music is—well, breaking into professional music. So if you're looking for an opportunity to turn your musical talent into a full-time performing career, take a good look at the Army.

It's not all parades and John Philip Sousa. Army bands rock, waltz and boogie as well as march, and they perform before concert audiences as well as spectators. With an average of 40 performances a month, there's also the opportunity for travel—not only across America, but possibly abroad.

Most important, you can expect a first-rate professional environment from your instructors, facilities and fellow musicians. The Army has educational programs that can help you pay for off-duty instruction, and if you qualify, even help you repay your federally-insured student loans. If you can sight-read music, performing in the Army could be your big break. Write: Chief, Army Bands Office, Fort Benjamin Harrison, IN 46216-5005. Or call toll free 1-800-USA-ARMY.
