Crime continues to hit campus area during break

BY PETE WILMS
Jambar News Editor

Crime continues to plague the YSU campus area as students returned from their holiday breaks, only to find that their room had been looted.

Close to one hundred rooms in the Lincoln Towers Dormitory were burglarized over the Winter recess it was learned yesterday. Students returning for the Winter Quarter have found their doors kicked in and everything from television sets and stereos to a picture of a girlfriend missing, according to residents and assistant directors Tim Jayme and Fred Neuberger.

The Youngstown Police Department has been compiling a list of the missing items as the students arrive and report them. Jayme returned early Monday morning, December 28, and found that the building had been forcibly entered.

It is believed that the burglarizing occurred several days before the discovery.

Cleaning personnel had been working in the building daily during the break but according to W.A. McGinley, Business Manager for Lincoln Towers, no one had been in the building between Christmas and the time the burglary had been discovered. He also stated that as of yesterday the extensive damage to the building nearly totaled that of the value of the missing property. He also stated that some 80 doors would have to be replaced.

Almost all rooms were entered but in some valuables were left behind while in others red light bulbs were taken. Jayme reported that the thieves left behind a stereo tape deck which was under his bed but took two model railroad cars. In most rooms, TV's, stereos, typewriters, and late model table and clock radios were taken.

Student apartments in the university area have also been burglarized. Several students have reported losses in stereo equipment which totals near $1,500. The fact that apartments were robbed during absences of the students has led them to believe that their activities have been watched by the burglars.

This Friday the Jambar in cooperation with the Youngstown Police Department will publish precautions students may take to minimize the threat to their apartments.

Dame Judith Anderson stars as Hamlet on Friday night

"Hamlet", starring Dame Judith Anderson in the lead role, will be performed Friday, January 8 at Powers Auditorium as part of the Artist Lecture Series.

Critically acclaimed as an acting masterpiece, "Hamlet" is being presented as a special feature of the lecture series. Tickets are currently on sale at the University box office located in Room 104, Kilcawley Student Center.

Dame Judith is a legend in modern day acting. Often called the modern day Sarah Bernhardt, Dame Judith played many of the great characters of the theater. Her roles include Lavinia Mannon in the Eugen O'Neill trilogy "Mourning Becomes Electra," Nina Leeds in "Strange Interlude", Lady Macbeth in Shakespeare's "Macbeth", and the lead roles in "The Three Sisters", "Tower Beyond Tragedy", and her greatest triumph, "Medea."

William Ball directs Dame Judith and an outstanding supporting cast adds to the success of the production.

The original production is being produced by Paul Gregory, who gave Broadway such hits as "Don Juan in Hell," "John Brown's Body," and "Caine Mutiny Court Martial."

Drop it today and save 25% fee assessed

Students who drop classes today will avoid a 25% drop fee.

Any student who by dropping a class or classes would lower their load below 12 hours today will not have to pay the 25% fee on their refund. Today they will pay only the $2 add-drop fee.

After today, however, students will be assessed 25% of any refund that may be due them along with the standard $2 fee.

Classes may be added until 12:00 noon Saturday, January 9th, 1971.

1971 Jambar to include expanded coverage

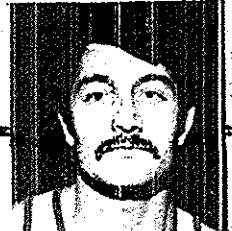

As Christmas decorations go down and New Year's resolutions are kept in mind, we would like to welcome you back to campus this quarter.

Several changes are planned for this quarter's Jambar. Starting next Friday an entertainment page which will include reviews of albums, plays and movies on or around campus will make its weekly debut. Increased coverage of varsity and intramural sports as well as more feature stories and by-lined articles are planned for the future.

We extend to all our readers our best wishes for the new year.

FDA seeks funds from industry to shape new food label requirements

By G.C. THELEN JR.
ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration confirmed Monday it is negotiating for $100,000 in industry-supported research to help shape new labeling requirements aimed at disclosing the nutritional value of processed food.

Dr. James D. Grant, the FDA deputy commissioner, said he is arranging for the Consumer Research Institute, Washington, D.C., to conduct free field tests of several choices for informing consumers better about the nutritional soundness of what they eat.

The Institute receives most of its support from grocery manufacturers and food-related businesses, according to its director, Dr. Raymond C. Stokes.

Spokesmen for consumer organizations were critical when they learned of the proposed research donation.

And officials of the White House Consumer Affairs Office were concerned about the appearance of impropriety when they learned of the arrangement last week, Nixon administration sources said.

"My first reaction is that CRI is not the best place for this kind of thing, and certainly not for free," said Morris Kaplan, technical director of Consumers Union, Mount Vernon, N.Y.

"I think there would be dissatisfaction even if something logical emerged from this," said Erma Angevine, executive director of the Consumer Federation of America. "People would wonder what kind of pressure was exerted when industry paid the bill."

The FDA's Grant defended the proposal, saying the CRI's findings and recommendations would be only one of a number of comments from industry and consumer groups that would influence the final labeling decision.

Food manufacturers now must state on their labels what goes into a product. But they are not required to indicate nutritional value.

Nixon says combat near end

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon said last night "we are now seeing the end of America's combat role" in South Vietnam, and he counts that the major achievement of his first two years in office.

But he said in an interview broadcast from the White House that accomplishment is tempered by "the tragedies of Kent State, Jackson State and the University of Wisconsin."

Election board to plan procedures for 18-year-olds

COLUMBUS, OHIO (AP) — The county board of election directors and their assistants will take up procedures for registering 18-year-olds, recently approved by the U.S. Supreme Court to vote in federal elections.

Secretary of State Ted Brown said he doesn't expect registration of the 533,000 Ohioans between the ages of 18 and 21 to present any problems, although he did remark:

"We'd rather wait until '72 to register them."

The Secretary of State has said, however, that there would be confusion among boards of elections and at the polls if the newly-enfranchised 18 to 21-year-olds are allowed to vote in federal elections but not in state and local ones. He expects legislation to be offered to lower the Ohio voting age to 18 years.

Nixon, answering the questions of four network reporters in a radio-television appearance from the library of the White House, said as the war winds down, he hopes such violence as that faced on American campuses in the past year will recede.

"But during this administration to have had three such tragedies as that left a very deep impression upon me," the President said.

Four students were killed at Kent State University, Ohio, last May in a confrontation of students and National Guardsmen. Two students died in gunfire at Jackson State University, Miss. And a graduate student was killed in an explosion at the University of Wisconsin.

Nixon said he trusts that as the administration continues winding down the American combat role in Vietnam.

Congress subcommittee discovers Defense Dept. unsure of budget

By JAMES H. PHILLIPS
ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. each year spends billions more to arm foreign governments than is generally realized and nobody—not even the Defense Department knows the exact sum, a congressional subcommittee was told yesterday.

“Those who believe that military assistance consists largely of the military component of our foreign-aid program, amounting to something in the neighborhood of $375 to $400 million for the current fiscal year, are only dimly perceiving the tip of this particular iceberg,” said Sen.

J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, estimated the U.S. would spend $7 billion this year on military assistance under various disguises. And he added:

“The truth of the matter is that I don’t know what the total figure is, and I doubt that anybody else does.”

On the basis of the $7 billion for the current fiscal year, he estimated the U.S. has spent $175 billion since 1945 on arms and assistance to other countries.

Fulbright contended there has been no lessening of world tensions because of these expenditures and suggested the U.S. and

Russia today “feel less secure than we did 25 years ago.”

Elmer Staats, comptroller general of the U.S., pointed out some of the problems in arriving at an exact figure on foreign military assistance.

He said the Defense Department is unable to state the dollar amount of excess equipment or real property turned over to Vietnamese forces.

About $108 million was used to purchase weapons for other nations under the Food for Peace program, he said.

Fulbright said the huge expenditures for foreign assistance often fail to contribute to a general peace.

Many states begin registration of new 18-year-old voters

By RON KAYE

John Kelly, an 18-year-old Notre Dame student, drove 2,000 miles to be the first teenager to register to vote in New York City, but when he got to the election board at 4 a.m. Monday, Devon Black, 17, was already in line.

Black stepped aside, though, in recognition of Kelly’s long

U.S. may remove more troops from South Korea

WASHINGTON (AP) — A State Department spokesman left open yesterday the possibility that the United States will withdraw more US troops from South Korea after June 30.

Press officer John King said no decisions have yet been made for additional withdrawal of American forces or for a postponement in further reduction of American forces in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Under present plans the US is reducing its total authorized strength in Korea from 63,000 to 43,000 by June 30. At least half of the 20,000 have already departed.

A published report declared that President Nixon has directed the Defense Department to delay indefinitely plans for troop withdrawals from South Korea beyond the 20,000 scheduled to be removed. According to this report, by the New York Times, ranking defense and Army officials had sought further reductions, primarily for reasons of economy, but State Department officials were said to have contended that further cuts might give Asians the impression the US was making too hasty a pullout from Asia.

drive from the Cotton Bowl game in Dallas, Texas, and several hundred other young people followed them in registering.

In Albuquerque, N.M., Glenn Garvin, 16, got up at 5 a.m. to hurry across icy streets to be first in line for registration. He said he felt like someone “undertaking a great odyssey.”

And in White Plains, N.Y., Ron Bloch, 20, spent the night in a sleeping bag outside the elections board.

New York, Louisiana, Virginia, New Mexico and Arizona opened the way Monday for 18-to-20-year-olds to vote for the first time in federal elections. Officials described the turnout as light.

Kelly, New York City’s first registrant, offered one explanation for the low turnout: “Of our generation, only a small percentage is concerned with the community. The others are apathetic because parents and adults have looked down on younger groups for so long.”

American fashion considered to be in darkest period

By DEE WEDEMEYER
ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

A fashion representative said Monday that the American fashion industry is in its “darkest period since the depression” because its designs are “dredging up the past” in the space age.

Speaking at the opening of the New York Couture Groups’ fashion week, Vincent Monte-Sano, president of the Couture Business Council, said 1970 fashions looked “like they had come from a thrift shop or an international bazaar.”

“Fashion became a charade, a masquerade, a giant put-on,” said Monte-Sano, a former couturier. “No wonder women of good taste are confused. I am critical of Seventh Avenue for dredging up the past—the look of the ‘30’s has no place in a space and technological age. It would be as if we resurrected...the DC3 to replace the 747.”

Stop the danger

A little more than one year ago today, we reported in a news story that "in the midst of a crime wave that has plagued the city of Youngstown, University security officials report negligible incidents on the University's six-block area."

Since the beginning of last quarter, however, there has been a shooting in an attempted hold-up, an attack on a 19 year old coed, several armed robberies, numerous parking lot thefts, fraternity house thefts and massive burglary of 98 rooms in a private dorm.

It is impossible to explain the drastic change in the security of students here. We can't place all the blame on the University Security force for they are responsible for the protection of only the University's parking and building facilities. Nor can we place all the blame on the Youngstown Police for their responsibility is city-wide. We can only offer several suggestions.

Crime on this campus is everyone's problem. Students can decrease the stolen goods market by refusing to buy "Hot" goods. It is also a good idea for night students to walk in pairs. The city police force should focus their attention on patrolling the campus area at night more thoroughly, rather than directing their energies at ticketing parked cars. The security force would do well to take a sincere interest in campus security, and the University could help matters by installing better lighting on campus.

It is clear that there is a danger of crime on campus. It is the responsibility of all University personnel to alleviate the danger.

A glance at 1970:

While summing up changes that took place during the span of one year, former President Dwight D. Eisenhower remarked that "things are more like they are today than they've ever been before." We're not sure exactly what Ike had in mind when he uttered those words, but we do understand his dilemma in trying to sum-up the events of the last year. If we can make a generalization, the past year at YSU must be considered the year of the student. For the first time the student at YSU began to play an important role in the decision making power at the University. Although apathy still existed at YSU in 1970, students began to involve themselves in the University structure.

The stories of 1970 were of protest, politics, ecology, and tragedy, and YSU had its share of all. Protests ranged from student dissatisfaction over the firing of political science prof. Dr. William Hunt to an all-campus strike in protest of the Kent State slayings and President Nixon's movement of troops into Cambodia. Hundreds also marched on "Earth Day" in support of our ecology and others battled for a place to park. YSU also had its share of tragedies as death suddenly took Arts and Sciences dean Karl Washburn Dykema, astronomy professor Dr. Anthony Julius, former dean Joseph Smith, and popular professor Sylvan Einstein.

All in all, 1970 was perhaps the most eventful, if not interesting year in the history of YSU. But the news and stories of 1971 are yet to come.

A round-up of the stories at YSU during 1970 follows:

January 6: Dr. Joseph Swartz, dean of the School of Education for 10 years, retires; 6 students were named as non-voting members of the University senate.

Jan. 13: A proposed Faculty evaluation drew fire from faculty.

Jan. 17: Students gathered at the Struthers Field House to listen to the Rascals during the traditional Winter Weekend.

Jan. 20: The Board of Trustees passed a proposal to plan for portable parking decks to increase parking facilities by 1200 spaces by next fall.

Feb. 6: Basketball coach Dom Rosselli became only the eighth living coach to win 400 games or more as his roundballers posted their seventeenth straight win of the season.

Feb. 10: Faculty evaluation questionnaires are sent to faculty despite objections.

Feb. 17: Less than 1% of student body vote in Student council elections; President Richard Nixon lauds basketball coach Rosselli for his 400th career win.

Feb. 18: Mr. Sylvan Einstein, popular professor of public relations dies of cancer.

Feb. 24: University President Albert L. Pugsley defends the University's student newspaper the Jambor after accusations made by Ohio Speaker of the House Charles Kurfess.

March 3: President Pugsley endorses the faculty evaluation.

March 10: Dr. Earl Edgar, dean of the graduate school, was named to replace Dr. William Coffield as vice-president for Academic Affairs.

March 13: The University Senate passed a set of student revised social regulations.

March 31: Political science prof. Dr. William Hunt protests his firing to the Board of Trustees; Jambor editor John Greenman resigns and associate editor Dale Peskin is named as his successor.

April 1: A student coup from Newman Student Organization overthrew the administration and held President Pugsley in hostage as reported in the Bird, an infrequent campus newspaper.

April 7: Rev. Burton Cantrell resigned his position as campus minister to accept a position with SANE.

April 14: A dispute over a political candidate's grade complicate the Hunt dismissal case; Dr. Donald Robinson of Southern Illinois U., is named new education dean.

April 20: 200 students stage anti-pollutions march in pre-"Earth Day" activities.

April 23: About 200 students were met by armed guards at the Executive offices as members of SCAR (Student Committee for Academic Reform) presented a list of 15 demands to President Pugsley.

April 27: Two students were arrested as riot police were called to the campus following student dissatisfaction with President Pugsley's response to demands.

May 1: About 200 students marched in a silent dirge and laid a wreath on the steps of the Executive offices marking the academic death of YSU.

May 4: YSU reacted to the slayings of 4 Kent State students, one of which was a summer student at YSU.

May 8: About 1500 students participated in a rally in support of a student strike as other Universities striked and shut down.

May 15: Students elected a Spring Weekend queen and staged that event despite objections from several factions.

May 16: A small fire to a weekend tent was quickly extinguished after unidentified person set torches to the tent.

June 5: Spring quarter ends quietly; Jambor announces first summer paper.

July 6: A legislative sub-committee held an investigation at YSU to probe campus disorder.

July 22: The University paid its respects to Karl Dykema in a memorial service at Dana Recital Hall. Dean Dykema died of cancer.

Aug. 20: A YSU student was expelled on drug charges.

Aug. 27: Social rules formulated by the administration were announced.

Oct. 2: A bookstore policy allowing students only two weeks to purchase books was attacked in a Student Government report; the first string middle linebacker of the YSU football team was sentenced on a narcotics charge.

Oct. 9: President Pugsley refuted an article in the Youngstown Vindicator which was nationally syndicated, which credited Dr. Pugsley with having the solution for campus unrest.

Oct. 10: The administration was accused of preventing the serving of beer at a Greek Week concert despite its legality and was slammed for its actions by Interfraternity and Student Councils; students elected a homecoming queen despite allegations of illegal campaigning.

Oct. 20: An Idora Park promoter claimed that the University's associate dean of Student Affairs stopped the serving of beer at the concert despite its legality.

Oct. 22: A Black studies program, headed by Mr. Al Bright, was announced; a campus crime wave resulted in increased security measures.

Oct. 27: A YSU fraternity presumed to be an affiliate of Phi Delta Theta was discovered to be representing themselves illegally since the national organization stated that no such chapter existed at YSU, a student was shot on campus in a hold-up attempt.

Nov. 3: Student council voted down a proposed $1000 allocation to Kent.

Nov. 6: Several Greek houses were found to be in violation of city zoning ordinances; head swimming coach Ralph Johnson resigned.

Nov. 10: The Jambor called for the abolishment of Student Council following election violations in a front page editorial.

Nov. 13: The varsity swim team voted no swim in meets this year in protest of the resignation of coach Ralph Johnson; growing disillusionment with the Athletic department and the football team took place as football Coach Dike Beede was handed in effigy.

Nov. 17: Less than 300 people, the smallest crowd in recent football history at YSU, watched the football team lose its eighth straight game.

Dec. 4: Winter quarter ends.

Protest, politics, ecology, and tragedy

PROTEST - Hundreds of students took part in active protest against the University. An adhoc committee called the Student Committee for Academic Reform lead by Hugh Helm (right) presented a list of 15 demands to a worried President Pugsley (left). Unrest cooled down after an unsuccessful University strike.

PEOPLE - Three popular University headliners left the University in a year of personnel changeover. Dr. William Hunt (left), political science instructor was fired for unspecified reasons and his dismissal lead to a wave of student and faculty protest. Rev. Burton Cantrell, protestant minister, and active in liberal movements, resigned his position to accept a job with SANE. Dean Karl Dykema, noted linguist and long-time dean of the College of Arts and Sciences died during the summer quarter.

CRIME - The YSU campus area was plagued by crime during the Fall quarter last year, including auto accessories thefts, robberies, and armed robberies.

400th WIN - Basketball coach Dom Roselli is congratulated by the team for the 400th win of his coaching career.

Mixed reactions follow spread of abortion ads

You may have noticed abortion ads, such as the one on page 2. The appearance of such ads in the Jambar and other campus papers has created mixed reaction to ethics of such advertising.

Major advertising campaigns have spread to campus publications, drawing mixed reaction from the campus community. In one instance, at Concordia College in Moorhead, Minnesota, the campus newspaper, The Concordian, was suspended from publication by the University president for running an abortion ad.

Advertisements for abortions usually point out that such operations are now legal under certain circumstances in various states, and advise young women on proper abortion procedure through their service.

Currently, a decision by the Wisconsin attorney general on whether contraceptive and abortion referral services ads may be accepted by student newspapers is pending in Wisconsin.

Several students have on the other hand, come to the Jambar office for further information on the service.

At YSU, the Jambar has periodically run ads for several abortion referral services. The ads were received from the Jambar's national advertising representative, National Educational Advertising Service. The Jambar's policy concerning such ads, according to Dale Peskin, editor, is that the newspaper will publish all advertising that is acceptable and not offensive. Peskin said that questionable ads are judged by the editors and their advisors as to their taste.

Since the legalization of abortions in several states, several abortion service agencies have openly advertised in newspapers and other media to spread the word of their service.

Faculty evaluation may be available in seven weeks

This year's faculty evaluation should be available by the 7th week of this quarter, Larry Simko, Student Government vice-president, announced yesterday.

The returned questionnaires have been transposed to computer cards. The computer is awaiting a program. Bids must be taken from printers and then the actual printing must be completed.

The drunk driver.
He helps to eliminate the overcrowding in our classrooms.

Drunk drivers kill and injure our children.

Last year, almost 6,000 children under 15 years old were killed in traffic accidents. Countless thousands were seriously injured.

No one can be sure how many drunken drivers were responsible.
But even one death or one injury is one too many.

What can you do?

Remember, it's not the drink that kills. It's the drunk, the problem drinker, the abusive drinker, the drunk driver.

Remember, drunk drivers may be sick, and we've got to give them help.

But first we've got to get them off the road. For their sake and yours.

YSU professor researches effects of class size

The question of class size affecting the student's comprehension of mathematics for elementary education teachers was researched by Dr. Marvin W. Crisp, professor and chairman of the department of elementary education at Youngstown State University.

Dr. Crisp is co-author of an article appearing in the international quarterly journal, "Improving College and University Teaching," which probes the question "Large or Small Classes?" Co-author with Dr. Crisp is Dr. Samuel D. Aven, former YSU faculty member, who is now professor and chairman of the department of education at Tarkio College in Missouri.

The article is based on research done with two college freshman classes in mathematics for elementary school teachers which were taught for one semester by the same instructor. One class had 35 members and the other had 64. The purpose of the course was to provide a mathematics background for prospective elementary school teachers.

The two classes were tested for understanding of the Decimal Number System and the meaning of the number operations before instruction in mathematics was initiated and again when instruction was terminated.

Dr. Aven and Dr. Crisp show through the use of tables that there was "No significant difference either between the means or the standard deviations of the two classes at the beginning of the semester." One table compares means and standard deviations after a semester of instruction and "despite the difference in class size, no significant difference was found between the average scores of the two groups; the difference in variability is not significant."

However both groups did make significant gains in understanding as measured by the test of mathematical understanding. The differences between means are significant beyond the 1% level.

The smaller of the two classes was not significantly more variable in understanding after instruction. "There was, however, a significant difference between the initial and final standard deviations of the larger class. The larger class was significantly less variable with regard to understanding after instruction than it was prior to instruction."

According to Dr. Crisp and Dr. Aven, it therefore appears possible to have larger classes in elementary mathematics without sacrificing understanding of basic mathematics. But they ponder that "it may be worth while to determine just how large a class could be without sacrificing understanding."

Dr. Crisp, 17640 Beck St., Lake Milton, was a teacher in the Summit County and Akron public schools for seven years and an instructor at the University of Akron for four years prior to coming to YSU in 1962, where he was named "Distinguished Professor" in 1969. He received both bachelor of arts and master of arts degrees from the University of Akron, and Ed.D. from Case Western Reserve University. He is a member of the American Education Research Association and was recently selected for inclusion in the 1970 edition of "Outstanding Educators of America."

SPEED KILLS

If you are a senior...

1971

could be the most important year of your life.

As you contemplate one of the most important decisions of your life, you will want to remember this: it is not just "a job" you are seeking—it should be the beginning of a career. And if it is to be successful, both you and your employer must need and want each other.

To help you with your decision, we invite you to consider the opportunities at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft. Currently, our engineers and scientists are exploring the ever-broadening avenues of energy conversion for every environment... all opening up new avenues of exploration in every field of aerospace, marine and industrial power application. The technical staff working on these programs, backed by Management's determination to provide the best and most advanced facilities and scientific apparatus, has already given the Company a firm foothold in the current land, sea, air and space programs so vital to our country's future.

We select our engineers and scientists carefully. Motivate them well. Give them the equipment and facilities only a leader can provide. Offer them company-paid, graduate-education opportunities. Encourage them to push into fields that have not been explored before. Keep them reaching for a little bit more responsibility than they can manage. Reward them well when they do manage it.

Your degree can be a B.S., M.S., or Ph.D. in:

- MECHANICAL ENGINEERING
- AERONAUTICAL ENGINEERING
- ENGINEERING SCIENCE
- ENGINEERING MECHANICS

If your degree is in another field, consult your college placement officer—or write Mr. Len Black, Engineering Department, Pratt & Whitney Aircraft, East Hartford, Connecticut 06108.

Eric Parsloe to lecture on debate comparison

Eric Parsloe, recent past president of the Oxford Union debating society of England, lectures tonight on the "Comparisons Between British and American Debate" at 8 p.m. in the Pollock House.

Parsloe has been active in youth politics in Great Britain. In England, youth parties parallel the regular Conservative and Labour parties at all levels. He has served on Andover's city council, chaired the town party and served as a professional political campaign manager of a parliamentary district for the Labour Party. He was also active in the Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament.

According to Parsloe, debating in England is not considered an academic subject as it is in the United States. The British style of debate is very much a part of their political scene. "Debating is the method of British political communication," he stated.

The Oxford Union is a debating society in the exclusive tradition of the British gentlemen's clubs. The Union is not a student union in the sense of American student unions, but it is run by students whose membership is recruited in much the same manner as a fraternity. The Union has a private library, dining hall, debating hall and its own classrooms.

The Oxford Union is the "cradle of British Politics." It has produced lawyers, churchmen, and journalists as well as five British Prime Ministers of both parties.

Prime Ministers Gladstone, Salisbury, MacMillan, and the present Prime Minister Heath are among former members of the Union. One in three of its presidents over the past 50 years have

YSU students may now purchase reduced bus tickets

The student parking situation may be alleviated somewhat this quarter when YSU students begin to take advantage of reduced fare rates on all of the Mahoning Valley Transit Authority's city bus lines.

Punch tickets, valid for twenty rides, are now on sale for $5 at the bursar's office in Jones Hall, stated T. H. Martindale, bursar.

Mr. Martindale considers the MTA offer to be "a bargain for students who live in outlying areas and feels that if enough students take advantage of the offer, it will relieve the parking situation somewhat."

Although only 30 passes have been sold to date, Mr. Martindale expects sales to increase now that school is in session.

become members of Parliament.

Having recently completing a tour of the United States on the Oxford Debate Team, Parsloe has become a partisan of the American Forensic Association's Summer Programs for American students wishing to study politics, drama and debate.

Dr. Daniel O'Neill of the YSU speech department is affiliated with the American Forensic Association and is strongly supporting the summer program through the AFA.

Dr. O'Neill will be lecturing with Parsloe tonight. The lecture is free and open to the public.

Unbeaten Penguins face Akron Zips tomorrow

Youngstown State's unbeaten Penguins, boasting Ohio's best small college defense and the fourth best in the nation (56.6 ppg.), face their stiffest test of the season tomorrow night against neighboring rival Akron.

Then YSU barely catches its second wind before hosting a tall and talented University of San Diego club Saturday evening and arch-rival Gannon next Thursday night, closing out a five-game home stand.

Dom Rosselli's Penguins will have all they can handle and then some as they try to extend their undefeated string to 9 in a row and their home court win streak to 23 straight at Akron's expense. The varsity tip is set for 8 p.m. at Struthers High Field House with the two JV clubs meeting at 6 p.m.

YSU handed the Zips back-to-back losses last year for only the second time in the long series. The Penguins' 55-48 win at Akron (the first at Memorial Hall in 15 years) and 80-69 victory at home both went down to the wire. The two wins sliced Akron's lead in the series to 17-14.

Wednesday's clash figures to be a typical YSU-AU 40-minute battle with Wyatt Webb having the personnel to give the Penguins trouble. The Zips were 2-3 before hosting Wittenberg yesterday, but could easily be 4-1 but for some costly turnovers. Akron dumped Otterbein (106-86) and Hofstra (75-67) while bowing to Kent State (77-54), Virginia Commonwealth (74-70) and Wayne State

Webb will probably start Len Paul, 6-4 sophomore from Cleveland John Hay, and Harvey Glover, 6-5 sophomore from Orange, N.J., at forward, Randy Anderson, 6-7 junior from Port Huron, Mich., at center, and Tom Henry, 6-5 senior from Brooklyn, N.Y., and Larry Jenkins, 5-11 freshman from Cleveland East, at guards.

Henry, who could have a field day shooting over YSU's smaller guards, leads AU with a 17.2 average. Paul, one of the best in the district who led the Zips in scoring and rebounding last year, is hitting at a 16.4 ppg. clip. Both Paul and Randy Anderson, a transfer from St. Clair (Mich.) Community College, are averaging 9.4 rebounds per game. Anderson has a 10.0 scoring average.

The Penguins, who have had to come from behind in the second half to win their last three outings, need a quick start against Akron. YSU could get out of the gate fast since ace guard Billy Johnson will be making his first start in the past four games.

Johnson, who controls the Penguin offense with 13.1 ppg. and 6.4 assists, will probably be joined by J.C. Williams (7.8) in the backcourt. Rugged Jeff Skeeles (5.6) is the center with Ron Smith (22.0) and Rich Denamen (8.3) at forward.

Skeeles (11.8), Smith (10.0) and defensive whiz Denamen (7.0) are the top three Penguin rebounders.

YOUNGSTOWN STATE UNIVERSITY CAGERS — The YSU basketball team tries for their ninth straight win tomorrow night against Akron. The YSU-Akron game is set for 8 p.m. Looking for an undefeated season are: Seated-Billy Johnson, Chuck Montgomery, Ron Smith, Bill Barnhart, Lindsay Randall, J.C. Williams, Gregg Merrill and Ron Romine. Standing-DomRosselli, coach, Rich Denamen, Bob Patton, Joe Ziak, Bill McMeans, Ron Beaber, Tom Cope, Billy Wells, Jeff Skeeles and Chuck Bush, assistant coach.

PENGUIN PROFILES

BY BOB INGANI
Jambar Sports Writer

Jeff Skeeles, the six foot four inch, 205 pound Youngstown State University center and forward is rapidly becoming the darling of Penguin basketball fans. Jeff accomplishes this by his steady hustle, intense desire and completely unselfish play.

Basketball coach Dom Rosselli says, "If they gave an award for hustle, Jeff would run away with it." His intense desire to win is evident even in practice because Jeff "plays as hard in practice as he does in the regular season games."

Although Jeff is usually over-matched by taller and heavier opponents, he leads the YSU roundballers in rebounds with 94 and an average of almost 12 per game. Rosselli thinks "Jeff helps others score because he is unselfish and always willing to feed another player."

Jeff has the uncanny ability of being in the right place on the offensive and defensive boards and anticipating his opponents' moves on defense. Jeff is one of the top defensive players on the team because of his great strength, quick hands, and natural defensive instincts.

Jeff is a graduate of Canton Lincoln High School and a transfer student from Ashland College. A junior, he has one more year of basketball eligibility at Youngstown State University.

Jayvees to face former YSU stars

Long-time followers of Youngstown State basketball will want to circle Jan. 9 on their calendars.

Prior to the YSU-San Diego University game that night, the second annual YSU Junior Varsity-Alumni All-Star game will be held starting at 6 p.m. at the Struthers High Field House.

Avid Penguin fans can relive bygone days watching four YSU all-time top scorers and other past favorites in action again. The Alumni All-Stars won last year's first meeting by a narrow 85-81 margin.

Slated to face the JVs are all-time scoring greats John McElroy (1965-69), second in career scoring with 1,942 points; Dave Culliver (1962-66), sixth with 1,430; Ron Allen (1961-63), tenth with 1,001; and Fred Jones (1961-64), twelfth with 945.

Also scheduled to play are former YSU stars Charlie Day (1958-62), Frank Fitz (1964-68), Tony Pero (1959-63), Chuck Rowan (1964-68) and last year's three grads—Wayne Davis, Don Graham and Willie Teague.

YSU to present non-credit courses

Designed to expand interests and horizons in many fields, a variety of non-credit adult education courses including ceramics, small business management, real estate, telescope construction and a survey of Chinese culture, will be offered by Youngstown State University's department of continuing education beginning winter quarter, January 4.

Intended especially for mature adults, the non-credit courses are stimulating, challenging learning experiences of university level and quality. Starting dates, times and fees vary with each course.

A course in Beginning Ceramics provides the basic technique of ceramics, with instruction in pottery shaping through coiling, slab, pinching and pottery wheel. The Administrative Management of Small Business course, presented in cooperation with the Small Business Administration for the owners and managers of small businesses in this area, focuses on managing to

Cadets receive Army commissions in Dec. ceremonies

Six Youngstown State University Reserve Officers' Training Corps (ROTC) cadets were commissioned Second Lieutenants in the U.S. Army and Army Reserve, Tuesday, December 16, in ceremonies at Pollock House.

Robert L. Pegues Jr., assistant superintendent of Youngstown City Schools and former cadet commander of the YSU ROTC addressed the new officers, their family and friends. The "Oath of Office" was administered by Lt. Col. Richard J. Connolly, professor of military science and commanding officer.

Those cadets who received their commissions, their branch assignments and reporting dates are as follows: Edward L. Brill Jr., Corps of Engineers, January 12; Gary C. Crumbacher, Adjutant General Corps, January 6; Eugene E. Faith, Military Police Corps, January 11; Charles R. Kennedy, Signal Corps, January 20; Terry L. Miksic, Infantry, December 19; and Roy W. Retzlaff, Finance Corps, January 31.

Miksic has been designated Distinguished Military Graduate, enabling him to accept a Regular Army Commission.

veling, skiing, and generally taking advantage of their leisure time.

Skiing in Colorado attracted students Larry Chance and Spencer Lockson. David Rosenberg spent his vacation in Miami, Florida. Other students went to New York City for New Years Eve, to the Rose Bowl, or to the Allegheny Mountains in Pennsylvania.

Students and faculty spent their vacations traveling out of the country. Barbara Hoover led a Girl Scout expedition in Argentina. Dr. and Mrs. Ward L. Miner, Professor Christine R. Dykema, and Assistant Professor Louise Einstein all of the English Department spent their vacation in Portugal.

The winter retreat sponsored by the Cooperative Campus Ministry at a camp in Central Pennsylvania attracted 45 students. The 18 ski enthusiasts who traveled to Stowe, Vermont with the YSU Ski Club enjoyed ideal conditions.

Some students traveled home for the holidays. Shirley Kahler traveled to Cochran, Pa., and Michael Duquin traveled to Cheektowaga, New York, where he worked as a mailman.

Al Murray and Roger Jenkins spent their holiday in Dayton, Ohio.

Getting engaged, snowmobiling in Cook's Forest, Pa., sleeping, watching football on TV, making Christmas presents, working, partying, seeing Hair in Pittsburgh, eating, ice skating, tobogganning, and various other activities were enjoyed by students during this holiday break.

'T'WAS THE SEASON...
by Skip Miller and Carl Basic

After the long vacation period we feel a re-cap of some of the more outstanding events of the Holiday Season is in order.

Skip Miller's pre-Christmas party was a real blast—but so was Hiroshima.

WIIC TV channel 11 in Pittsburgh had two outstanding movie offerings over the holidays. The movies were apparently geared to what Channel 11 thought was the intellectual level of their viewing audience. On the Saturday before Christmas they showed Santa Claus Conquers the Martians. On the following Saturday they aired Jesse James Meets Frankenstein's Daughter. Right on WIIC!

The Major Events Christmas Concert had to be cancelled because the group didn't show up. They had previously booked the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Marching Band but the band went on strike over the firing of a cymbal player.

Santa Claus was pretty active on campus. He apologized for not bringing Dean Painter (who is always worried about the morals of the female students at YSU) what she wanted but he couldn't find 7,000 chastity belts decorated with red and white sequenced Penguins. Instead, Santa Claus brought 3,000 used green and white Ursuline outfits and 4,000 red and white midi-dresses decorated with green and orange caricatures of the invasion of Anzio. Santa said he figured these uniforms would attract men about as well as Lions attract Antelope and would serve well in lieu of the chastity belts. Santa went on to say that no male in his right mind would approach any female wearing the aforementioned costume. It seems to us that Santa isn't too familiar with the Horny Hoards of YSU males.

Santa also reported having a little difficulty in delivering gifts to YSU. He was attacked by a group of ruthless Inner Mongolian Reindeer thieves. However, Santa managed to escape when he cut through the YSU mudlots and someone mugged the Reindeer thieves.

Santa said he found out that the nose wasn't the only thing about Rudolph that was red as the lead reindeer tried to hijack the sleigh to Cuba.

On the lighter side the YSU debate team placed second to West Virginia University at the Borsey Memorial Debate Tournament held at Slippery Rock State College of Pennsylvania over the break. Part of the Debaters effort involved a victory over Kutztown State College of Pennsylvania. Following their triumph, the debaters presented their coach, Dr. Panasonic of the Speech Dept., with three copies of the Jaggerz record "The Rapper," two autographed copies of Selected Speeches by Ulysses S. Woolworth and an Honorary Membership to the Herman Goering Anti-Aircraft Division Association.

Several YSU commuters got together and gave Officer Hairless of the YPD an Honorary membership to the Human Race.

Santa was good to the residents of Buechner Hall. He gave them things which they can really use such as Clearasil, Right Guard, Listerine and razor blades.

He also gave Dean Dean the answers to the G.E.D. test so that the Dean can get the equivalent of a high school diploma.

All YSU coeds got a copy of the book by Miss Goldie Tushoes (a former Ursuline student) entitled I Was a 23 Year Old Teenager.

The Editor of the Jambar gave everyone at YSU a break by not publishing the Jambar for over 3 weeks thereby giving the readers a brief respite from the inanities of Skip Miller and Carl Basic.

Immediately following Christmas weekend came New Year's weekend with all the parties and celebration. In the wake of the celebratings came that all-american institution, the New Year's resolution. We talked to several people about their New Year's resolutions. Two of them happened sell, taxation, financing and aspects of sales promotion, book-keeping, personnel management.

KILCAWLEY STUDENT CENTER AT YSU — The new University at Youngstown State University will look something like this when it's completed in 1973. The first phase of the $3.5 million structure will include recreational areas, rooms for social and cultural activities, meetings, conferences and seminars; food service space; staff offices and student activities rooms and a new bookstore area. Financed from accumulated and projected general fees, the University Center will be contiguous to the present building and will be erected on land known as Urban Renewal Project 87, including the right-of-way of Elm Street between Spring and Arlington. The first phase will add nearly 100,000 square feet to the present structure.

Fundamentals of planning and execution of brokerage operations and managing sales practices is discussed in Real Estate Brokerage and a unique course in Telescope Construction offers guidance in building your own telescope.

A Survey of Chinese Culture and Language is designed to provide a broad historical study of major elements in the Chinese heritage, as well as to introduce the student to ideas, attitudes and institutions basic to Chinese life.

A course in Federal Income Tax Preparation is planned for the beginner as well as the more experienced to gain additional information about the current tax law. Managerial Leadership, a study of human factors in the administration function, emphasizes the contribution of the behavioral sciences with focusing on the history of human relations, labor management relations, group dynamics and communications.

Other courses offered are Matrix Algebra for Engineers, Beginning and Intermediate/Advanced Photography, Electrocardiography for Nurses, Value Analysis, Blue Print Reading, Foreman Training I and II, Beginning Conversational French and Conversational French II, Beginning Conversational Italian, Computer Programming for High School Students, and courses in Beginning Piano and Painting.

The other man we talked to was Dr. Paar Kinglot who resolved to take away some of the student influence in governing the University. When we told him there wasn't much to take away, he quoted the French Philosopher Voltage when he said, "I disagree with what you say and I'll punch you in the mouth if you say it again."
