Accreditation Board Visits

A six member inspection committee representing the Accreditation Board of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools was on campus for three days this week.

The committee visited the campus for what Dean Earl E. Edgar, Dean of the Graduate School, termed "An evaluation visit."

They studied the plans for a graduate school, as well as the total program offered by the University.

Here To Judge

"We have applied for preliminary approval of the graduate school program and they were here to ascertain the strengths of the University," said Dean William H. Coffield, Dean of the University.

The team arrived Sunday evening and met with Y.S.U.'s president, Dr. Albert J. Pugsley. They spent Monday through Wednesday surveying the campus.

Areas of Concern

There were a number of areas with which the committee was especially concerned. They included:

1. the graduate program;
2. the curriculum and how balanced it is;
3. the financial structure of the university;
4. the library;
5. the physical facilities available;
6. the general administrative organization;
7. the computer center.

The committee took particular interest in the facilities available for the graduate work, especially in the fields of science and engineering.

Space Greatest Problem

The greatest problem facing the University, Dean Coffield remarked, is the lack of adequate space for offices and classrooms.

In this area, he said, the accreditation team would have to "count on the future plans of the University not on the situation as it exists at the present time."

Concerned With Library

One area of great importance to any graduate program is the quality of the library.

The committee was concerned with the number of books and periodicals available for research in each graduate field.

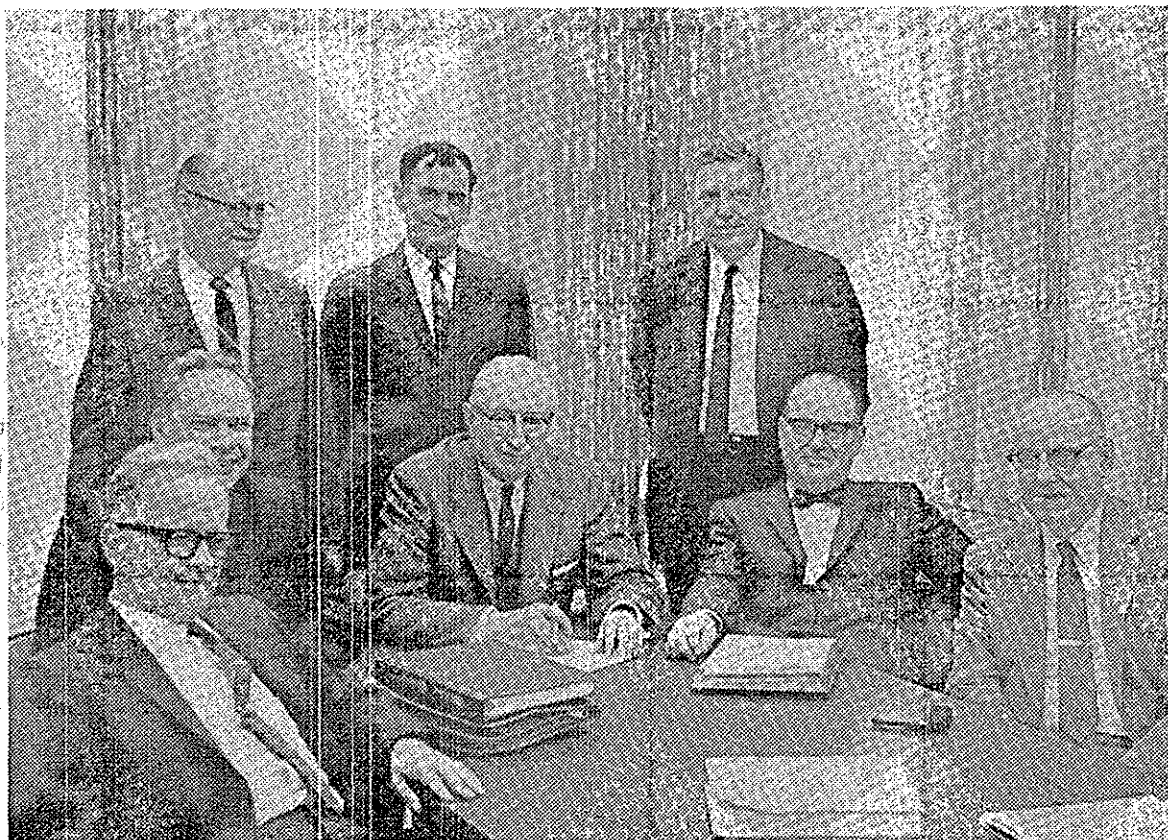

After finishing their tour of the campus the committee met with Dr. Pugsley and officials of the University in the President's Office at 1:30 on Wednesday afternoon.

Will Submit Report

The findings of the committee will be compiled in a report and submitted to the appropriate committee of the Accreditation Board of the North-Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

A committee will review the report and the findings will be revealed at a meeting to be held sometime this summer in Chicago.

Representatives from the University will attend this meeting.

"Sing" Tonite

Beginning at 8:00 p.m. tonight, Stambaugh Auditorium will be filled with song, as six fraternities and four sororities compete for prizes in the 16th annual Greek Sing.

In addition to trophies for the best renditions, awards will also be presented to the individual fraternity and sorority members with the highest academic average for the previous three quarters and to fraternity and sorority with the highest overall average for the same period.

A scholarship award of $150 will be presented to the junior or senior sorority girl with the highest accumulative average, while the two junior or senior fraternity men with the highest and second highest average will receive $200 and $100 respectively.

Co-chairmen of this year's event are Marcia Kasony, James Guidone and Thomas Meehan.

The program is open to the general public, and tickets may be purchased at the door.

Young Republicans Sponsor Three Congressmen Today

Mr. James C. Cleveland

The University Young Republicans will host three U.S. Congressmen at a symposium on Friday, April 19, from 2-5 p.m. in Strouss Auditorium.

The distinguished Congressmen are Frank T. Bow of Canton, William H. Ayres of Akron (14th Congressional District), and James C. Cleveland of New Hampshire (2nd Congressional District).

The topics for discussion will be "Fiscal Responsibility", "Urban and Labor Problems", and "Congressional Reform".

Congressman Bow, whose district includes the southern half of Mahoning County, is the ranking Republican member of the House Appropriations Committee and has served in the Congress since 1951.

Congressman Ayres, the ranking Republican member of the House Education and Labor Committee and the second ranking member of the Veterans' Affairs Committee, has served in Congress since 1951.

Congressman Cleveland has served in the Congress since 1962 representing the Second District of New Hampshire. He is a graduate of Colgate University (magna cum laude and Phi Beta Kappa) and Yale University Law School.

Club president Robert Coggeshall will introduce the guests.

The program will be concluded by an informal coffee hour in the Pollock House.

The students and faculty, as well as the public, are urged to attend.

"Choice 68" Soon

"Choice '68", the national presidential poll organized by TIME MAGAZINES some months ago, will be taking place on this campus Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.

On Monday, Student Council will sponsor a public affairs program featuring three noted speakers: Mr. Tran Van Ding, Mr. Robert Gilligan and Mr. Robert Hagan.

Mr. Van Ding, former South Vietnamese ambassador to the United States and renowned scholar, author, journalist and Asian affairs expert, will speak to the student body in Strouss Auditorium at 3:00 p.m.

Mr. Gilligan, candidate for the United States Senate, and Mr. Hagan, candidate for Congress from the 19th District, will both speak in Strouss Auditorium at 4:00 p.m.

The actual "Choice 68" balloting will take place on Tuesday and Wednesday, between the hours of 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Voting booths will be set up in the Engineering Building, Kilcawley Student Center, Strouss Auditorium and the Library, in an attempt to cover as much of the campus as possible.

In addition to the national presidential poll, "Choice 68" will also include a local campus ballot, which will seek to determine student opinions on such matters as parking on Bryson and Arlington, the quality of the JAMBAR, etc. (see page 7 for complete local and national ballots).

Voting will be done on IBM cards, which will be shipped to "Choice 68" headquarters in Washington, D.C. immediately after the balloting is completed.

The results will be computed there, and will be released by Student Council when TIME publishes the national figures.

Youngstown will be one of the more than 15,000 colleges and universities participating in the poll. (Continued on Page Seven)

"Anti-Riot" Senators Speak Thurs., May 9

Senators Robert R. Stockdale, 31st Congressional District, and Oliver Ocasak, 27th District, who sponsored the recently passed "anti-riot bill", will speak on the subject Thursday, May 9, at 2 p.m. in the Engineering Science Auditorium.

This presentation is sponsored by the Special Lecture Series. Dr. Philip J. Hahn is the chairman of the discussion.

Representative Thomas P. Gilmarin, associate professor of economics, will introduce the speakers.

Dr. Hahn stated that, "The bill is designed to give university boards of trustees, through the president, the initiative to maintain law and order on campus."

Any violation of the rules adopted by the board of trustees in the case of riots, may result in the ejection of students, faculty or visitors.

The Faculty Affairs committee is considering the procedures of due process concerning the ejection of students or faculty provision. The results of the committee will be recommended to the president of the university.

Campus Profiles

Mr. James Adovasio; A Different Man

Mr. James M. Adovasio is one of the youngest and most interesting members of the YSU faculty. At twenty-four years of age Mr. Adovasio has already completed the equivalent of a Masters Degree in Archeology and is planning on receiving his doctorate in the same field within two years.

A member of the growing Anthropology faculty which is a part of Youngstown's Sociology Department, Mr. Adovasio is a member of the American Anthropological Association, The American Paleontological Association, and the Society of Classical Archeologists.

Mr. Adovasio has published works in the University of Arizona Paleontological Abstract Series and the Arizona Geo-Chronology Bulletin.

Mr. Adovasio did his undergraduate and graduate work at the University of Arizona. The main area of his study was in Archeology, with his minor being geology.

The principal concentration of this study is in the civilizations of Arid Lands, specifically Egypt and the Near East.

He has recently accepted a two year grant to study at the University of Utah. He expects to have earned his Doctorate by the end of that time.

Mr. Adovasio explained that one of the reasons he chose Utah was because of their fine facilities for pollen analysis.

By examining the pollen which is found at excavation sites, it is possible to reconstruct the climate which existed at a given period in time. Pollen, explained Mr. Adovasio, is one of the most indestructible organic substances known to man.

The particular climate which Mr. Adovasio is now attempting to recreate is that of the late Pleistocene period in Egypt. For this Mr. Adovasio will receive samples of pollen from excavation sites through the University of Cairo. Next summer he will go to Egypt to complete his research.

Mr. Adovasio described Anthropology and his interest in it by saying "Anthropology is an integrating type of discipline trying to put together all kind of curious studies in a composite of the curious beast called man."

He continued to explain, "The continued study of Anthropology tends to lead one to become cynical. No creature has ever exceeded man in his ability to blunder. Man finds comfort in his own ignorance, whether 3500 years ago in Egypt, or April 19, 1968—ignorance is a comfortable thing."

"Race riots," stated Mr. Adovasio, "are the logical consequence of repression, no matter how illogical they may seem."

"While they may be used or abused by what some like to label 'irresponsible elements,' they are, simply, the bitter fruits of our own culture."

"And we can expect them to continue and increase in frequency until such time as the conditions which produce them have been rectified," stated Mr. Adovasio.

Mr. Adovasio stated that the recent passage of civil rights legislation is a step in the right direction, but that unfortunately these laws aren't being enforced now anyway. "You can't legislate morality, but you can enforce it," stated Mr. Adovasio.

Mr. Adovasio was critical of the war in Vietnam, not so much because it is a war, but because it is being mis-managed. "I hold with war," stated Mr. Adovasio. "It is a logical extension of political aims, however this war is neither accomplishing its ends or its means."

"While war itself might be useful, an inefficiently aimed and directed war is useless."

The "Peace in our time" dream will never be realized, he stated, because, "Man is War."

When asked about an "honorable peace," Mr. Adovasio replied that it is a "Peace in which both parties save face. We will be lucky just to get out, let alone with our collective

He summed up by saying, "I'm not against peace, or all war, but any war as mis-managed as this is useless."

The 'New Morality' stated Mr. Adovasio is a sign of change in our culture. To show that this type of change is by no means new he cited the Egyptian tomb built in the 4th Dynasty (about 3500 years ago) which said, "Lo, the misbegotten youth of our time."

"It is too early to elicit a great trend," stated Mr. Adovasio. "Decay is a nice, slow process. He who is putrefying seldom sees it before his is rotten."

"At any rate," he said, "only when old values are deserted without accepting new ones is a culture in imminent danger."

Mr. Adovasio will be leaving for at least two years. It is not an impossibility that he will return.

But all things considered, right now, the University will be losing a truly outstanding man. A different man.

Dr. Saksena Will Speak At '68 AAPA Meet

Dr. Sudha S. Saksena, Assistant Professor of Sociology at Youngstown State University, will deliver a talk at the 1968 meeting of The American Association of Physical Anthropologists.

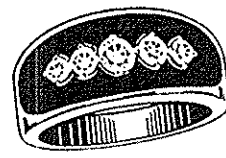

This year's meeting will be held at Wayne State University in Detroit on April 22 to April 24. Dr. Saksena will speak on "Morphological assessment of hybridization in the American Negro."

Dr. Saksena's talk is based on her doctoral dissertation, part of which has already been published. Additional publications are expected in the near future.

P.R. Newsletter Assists Faculty

The Public Relations department of Youngstown State University is now publishing the second edition of the faculty newsletter.

This newsletter, which is the brainchild of Mr. Phil Snyder, public relations director, is designed for the faculty and gives a variation of happenings about the faculty on this campus.

The newsletter is a four page publication which is planned to be published monthly with hopes it can become bi-monthly depending upon the faculty interest.

The reason the public relations department is publishing this newsletter is that it feels the faculty did not have enough time to keep up with the campus newspaper, the regular newspaper, radio and television, and thus were missing much of news of campus events.

With this newsletter Public Relations is trying to keep them abreast of events.

There are many items which are not newsworthy enough to appear in the regular newspaper. Many of these are news about the faculty, so they are put into the newsletter.

Some of the items that are in this newsletter are the publications of articles or books of the faculty, any research or visits which the faculty has or will be involved in or any lectures which they have given or will be giving.

Any new member of the faculty who has been hired during the past month or so is in the newsletter with a thumbnail sketch about this new member.

The public relations department has forms which may be secured by the faculty if they wish to have any information published which would be of interest to the other faculty members on campus.

There isn't too much to report this week, because the fraternities and sororities are putting their finishing touches on their songs for Greek Sing which will be held tonight at Stambaugh Auditorium at 8:00. The price for tickets are $1.25. The general public is invited to come.

But even with the practice for Greek Sing, some people have found time to fall in love.

SENIOR NEWS

All June and August graduates are requested, before May 10, 1968, to pay their required graduation fee of $20. President DiIullo announced that this amount will help pay for rental of graduation cap and gown, rental of Stambaugh Auditorium for commencement ceremonies and also for senior announcements.

Senior class treasurer Ilona Johnson is also requesting that graduates pay an optional $5 for the senior class gift. This amount was voted upon by a majority of the class members present at a class meeting earlier in the year. This optional $5 would then bring the total to $25 for graduation fees payable ONLY at the cashiers office in Jones Hall.

President DiIullo also stated that seniors would be notified by letter as to any future senior activities.

Formal sneakers.

Most sneakers look like sneakers. After all, when you're in action you want performance, not looks.

But there are times when you want looks, too. And that's where Keds Surfers come in. Because they give you appearance as well as performance.

Just take color, for example. Instead of plain white, Surfers also come in six sophisticated colors.

Then take style. You can take Surfers three ways — oxford, lace-toe or slip-on style.

Yet the Surfer is a sneaker for all that. So if you want to use Surfers as purely athletic shoes, feel free.

After all, they're not that formal.

3-Fold Program Offered For Residents of Kilcawley

Residents of the Kilcawley mens dormitory have a three fold activities program offering athletic, social and academic activities to help unite the men in the dorm and instill school spirit.

The resident assistants, whose job it is to counsel the young men on academic, personal, social and financial matters and to aid the resident director, head committees of the dorm men to organize and stage the events.

In the athletic area, each floor has a basketball team and the teams play against each other in games held on Saturday afternoons at the Elm Street School gym.

Friendly Competition

"A friendly competition has developed among the teams and basketball has proved to be the most popular activity among the dorm sponsored events," stated Donald H. Mathews, resident director.

"Many of the boys who would otherwise go home for the weekend stay at school in order to play in the games."

Although football and baseball teams have been organized also they are not as popular as the basketball games.

Social Events Included

Social events sponsored by the dorm include hayrides, dances with live bands or recorded music and parties and dances hosted jointly by the dorm and one of the sororities.

A Campus Night dance was held to encourage all the men to participate in campus sponsored activities and especially to acquaint the new residents with dorm activities.

Academics Stressed

Academic achievement is stressed. At the end of each quarter the point average of all the men on each floor is computed and the floor with the highest overall point average is awarded a plaque.

The student with the highest point average is also awarded a plaque.

Professors from various departments have been guest lecturers at the dorm.

Publish News Sheet

Also the dorm men publish a weekly news sheet called The Resident.

They are allowed to publish what they want to although responsibility for subject matter and responsible treatment of it is stressed.

The paper has printed articles such as a series on getting to know the campus, and interviews with President Pugsley and other University personnel.

A column is devoted to bits of dormitory gossip.

Worked Out Well

"It has worked out very well and created tremendous unity. I think they do a fine job," stated Mr. Mathews.

Dennis Lafferty, junior and a junior resident assistant, is editor of The Resident and has a fluctuating number of reporters.

Five to 10 reporters generally contribute material although there was a one-time-peak of 20.

Special events, such as open house, are also held.

Open House at Christmas

For the Christmas open house held this winter, a decorating competition was held. The floor with the most festive and outstanding decorations won the Elf Award.

The float the dorm had entered in the Homecoming competition won the third place award.

"The men were happy to win the award," stated Mr. Mathews, "since such an award rarely goes to independents."

The dorm will also have a booth for Spring Weekend.

Director Since 1965

Mr. Mathews, who has been the resident director since 1965 when the dorm opened, explained that the dorm is always full in the fall when classes begin and there is a waiting list of about 50.

However as the year progresses some of the residents move to private housing since some of them cannot adjust to group living or prefer the added freedom of living in an apartment.

Vacancies Available

Those on the waiting list have usually found housing by the time vacancies are available so that by spring there are usually several rooms empty.

"However," Mr. Mathews said, "most of the men stay and come back next year."

A curfew is only imposed the first week of the fall quarter.

In the dormitory each room is equipped for two students. Bunkbeds, two desks with chairs, two closets, bookshelves and easy-chairs are in the rooms.

Live On Second Floor

Mr. and Mrs. Mathews, as resident director and assistant, live in an apartment on the second floor of Kilcawley to be on hand at all times in case of an emergency.

Mr. Mathews is also an instructor in the merchandising department of the School of Business Administration.

He earned his Bachelor in Business Administration at Baylor University and his Masters in Business Administration at Southern Methodist University.

He is working on a Doctorate at Michigan State University.

Poverty Programs Create Summer Jobs

The funding by the Office of Economic Opportunity of Head Start and Upward Bound programs locally has created 37 summer job openings for Youngstown State students.

Head Start, an eight-week program designed to help 225 pre-kindergarten children, will be operated by the Youngstown Area Community Action Council. The program begins June 24 and ends August 16.

YACAC is accepting applications for 66 positions, 29 of which YSU students may qualify for. Fifteen of the 29 student openings are on a volunteer, non-paid basis. The other 14 are paid positions. Applicants may apply at YACAC's office at 507 Oak Hill Ave. between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Upward Bound, operated by YSU, is a six-week program designed to help 10th and 11th grade high school students from low-income families continue with their education.

There are eight job openings for counselors, all of the employees selected to be YSU students. The program will commence June 17 and conclude July 26. Application can be made in the basement of Elm Street School.

YACAC is still seeking applicants—especially for 15 volunteers which are non-paid openings. YSU students qualify for volunteer work and 14 other paid positions.

Volunteers will work in the 12 Head Start centers to be established in Mahoning County, aiding in various capacities for eight weeks.

Other openings of which lengths of tenure vary include: Five social worker aides ($64 per week for nine weeks); three cooks ($80 week, eight weeks); one bookkeeper ($80 week, 10 weeks); one clerk-typist ($70 week, 10 weeks); one nurse (registered, $130 week, nine weeks); two nurses' aides ($64 week, eight weeks); and one food carrier ($64 week, eight weeks).

The eight counselors in Upward Bound will live with the youth in Kilcawley Student Center, attend classes with them, help them with personal and academic problems, correct attitudes, and motivate them to continue in high school and hopefully college.

The counselors will be paid $12 a day and receive room and board. However, they must be totally committed to the program on a 24-hour basis and cannot attend school during the interval.

Michael Klasovsky drafted the application for program funds from OEO and was in charge of the program. The School of Education is now in charge of the program's execution.

The School of Education has already chosen a director, Levi Hollis, a part-time English instructor at YSU and head of the English Dept. at Warren Harding High School. It has yet to select a new director to supplant Prof. Klasovsky.

Prof. Klasovsky remarked, "This (Upward Bound) is an indication of the University's willingness to be involved in community affairs." The program, he added, "has been limited to relatively small numbers of students due to lack of sufficient facilities, e.g., playing fields, swimming pools, space on campus, etc."

He pointed out that the $14,000 the University will donate in the form of residence and classroom space, use of equipment, etc., is a sacrifice for it and further testamentation to its interest in the poor of the community.

Upward Bound's grant amounted to $55,724. Head Start received $48,912 from OEO, supplementing $14,106 in local contributions.

ISO NEWS

Tonight, the organization will sponsor a panel discussion presented by the university chapter of the NAACP. The discussion will follow a business meeting during which coming activities will be discussed.

These include a guests day, the ISO annual awards dinner and this year's participation in the International Student Day sponsored by the Akron University Chapter.

The guest day is to honor people in the community that have assisted the ISO. It will take place in the faculty lounge tomorrow at 8 p.m.

What's Happening

Last Tuesday several members went horseback riding. Those missing were, as usual, at the horse races.

There are rumors that Raja hit the daily double. This helped him to break even.

The inadequate number of horses forces us to ride in pairs. Zorba and Vera, Suhail and Linda, Kathiajotis and Brenda, Jammal and his bird, Fred and Joe (Well, you can't win 'em all)

Some time was required to find the people whose horses came back alone.

Joe Fawaz and his girlfriend (Sue, or Kentucky Woman) took one day off from Kent State to check on the little prince. (Sue-Sue)

A Study In Poor Housing

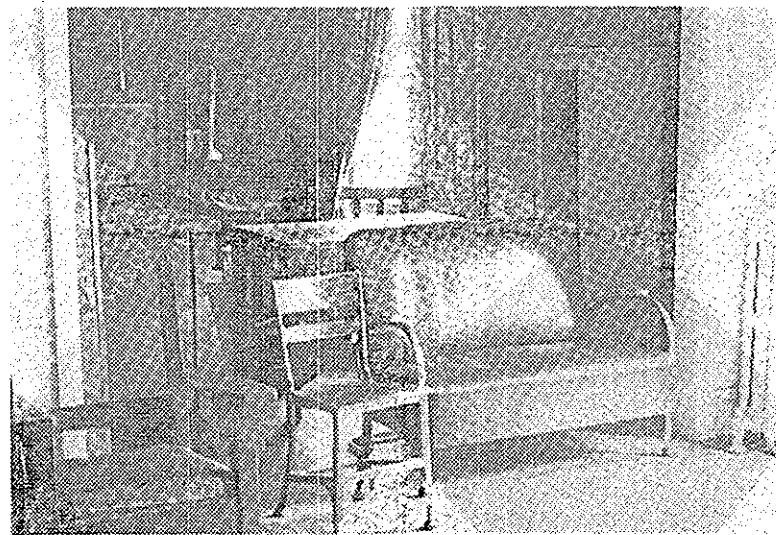

The Lincoln Hotel

The Lincoln Hotel, located at the corner of Lincoln and Phelps Avenues adjacent to Jones Hall, is one of the many residence halls that has been placed on the "Approved Housing" list of the university. Students are sent to the hotel to find living accommodations for the academic year.

Once Acceptable
At one time the hotel was quite acceptable to the traveler, and it even housed many of the old time burlesque players (burlesque before the strippers) when they were in contract, his figure is just an estimate).

Jambar Tours Hotel
Wednesday afternoon, two JAMBAR staff writers took a tour of the building guided by the hotel man-

Inside the Hotel — the Lounge.

Youngstown to put on a show. Today it is basically a residence hotel; that is most of the rooms are rented on a weekly or monthly basis.

The YSU Housing Office indicates on their records that at least 23 students live there.

Due to the fact that the school does not require the use of a YSU ager and Willie, a chambermaid. They were shown a double room with a sink and bathroom facilities down the hall.

Linoleum Cracked
Anyone renting this room would share the bathroom with a middle-aged female resident. The bathroom was tiled in linoleum that was cracked and peeling.

The writers were also shown an apartment in much the same physical condition as the double room. The apartment also had torn window blinds, ripped screens, and a kitchenette that did not meet the city building code.

There is a recreation room on the main floor for the entertainment of the residents. The room is approximately 14 by 20 feet in size, but this is not a totally accurate measurement due to the old furniture stored there.

The room, or the part of it not used for storage purposes, is arranged with chairs and a sofa facing a rather old television. There is a second television, ostensibly older, stored with the furniture in the other part of the room.

Fire Escape Rotten
The fire escape is constructed out of wood. There appears to be more rotten and cracked wood in the fire escape than good, solid wood. One beam was rotted through at least 30 per cent.

Planks Missing
Many of the cross planks used as a floor for the fire escape are either in part missing or are in total missing. Many pigeons have found a haven in the Lincoln Hotel fire escape.

The university uses some of the basement rooms as classrooms.

SPORTS SCENE

By Mike Foley

During the past three weeks a YSU swimmer has gained All-American status, a YSU weightlifter has been named as "The Most Outstanding Athlete," of the year at Youngstown Central YMCA, the YSU baseball team has started the season with two wins over Point Park College, and the YSU football squad has begun spring drills.

Welk Becomes Second YSU All-American

Dale Welk, a product of Youngstown South High, recently became the second YSU swimmer to gain All-American status as he finished an impressive fourth at the NCAA College Division Championships.

Dale, who learned his diving skills under Coach Sherman "Lefty" Law of the YMA Neptune Club, is a former Ohio YMCA one meter diving champ.

Tom Zena

During the regular season Welk set new team marks in both the one meter and three meter diving events. Dale is a sophomore majoring in health and Physical Education.

Zena Named Outstanding Athlete
Two weeks ago, Tom Zena, captain of the newly established YSU Weight lifting team, was presented the trophy for "The Outstanding Athlete of the Year", by H. H. Hunneke Jr., Executive Director of the YMCA.

The selection was made by the Senior Leaders Club which is made up of college students preparing for a YMCA profession.

Zena is a 1967 Junior State champ, Ohio-West Virginia Champ, and 3rd place winner in this year's Senior Competition in Ohio.

Baseball Squad Opens With Sweep

Last Saturday afternoon the YSU baseball squad defeated Point Park College 8-7 and 6-1 as they opened the season with a double-header.

Baseball's Rosellmen should have another fine season because of this year's list of returnees.

Tony Delbane, who had a .369 batting average in the 1967 campaign, and Jim Ferraro, a second baseman who led the team in home runs batted in last year, lead the returning squad.

Last year the team accumulated a 18-6 record with a .296 team batting average.

Last week's game was highlighted by Nick Gesacon's single with the bases loaded in the first game and home runs by Laylock and Budd in the second game.

Mike Malley struck out eight opponents in the second game.

Delbane, Lukaco, and Lawson had two hits each in the first game.

Spring Drills Begin
On April 15 coach Dike Beede opened spring football drills at the YSU practice field at Liberty Township with many returning gridders and quite a few prospective ball players.

The biggest task ahead for the Penguin mentor will be finding replacements for some of last year's keystones.

Graduation losses include a starting center, tackle, two quarterbacks, and halfback Dick Adipotti. However, the return of veteran Ken Kacenga, leading ground gainer last year, and sophomore ace Calvin Mason should provide a very explosive backfield.

Also listed among the returnees is Dave DelSignore an outstanding offensive end and defensive back.

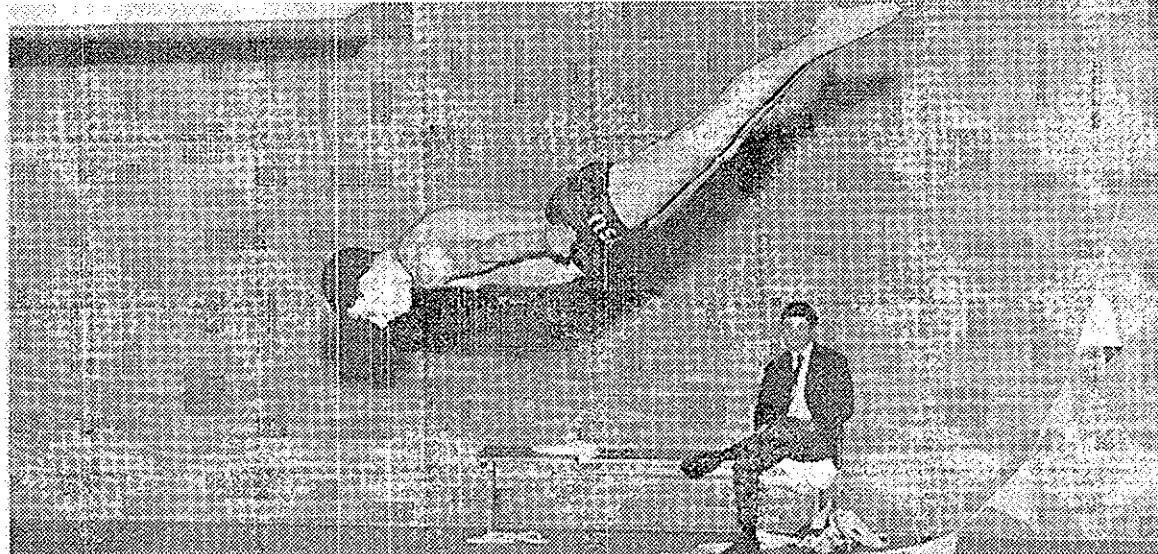

On the defensive squad Chuck Joseph, a standout at the line backer spot for the 1967 Penguins, will lead the returnees.

Cheerleaders Tryouts

On May 9 and 10
Cheerleader tryouts are being scheduled for May 9 and 10 at the Elm Street School gym. Practices will be held on May 6 and 8.

All interested candidates must have and maintain a 2.0 accumulative average, and a 2.0 average for the Winter quarter.

All those interested should contact Miss Liptak in the Women's Health and Physical Education department.

Six Faculty Display Works At Butler Art

Since Palm Sunday, April 7, six members of the Y.S.U. Art Instruction Department have had their works shown in the Religious Art Exhibit now being held at the Butler Art Institute.

To this date, approximately 1500 people have seen the exhibit which includes religious art works from tradition in make-up to the utmost in modern expression of the theme.

Y.S.U. art instructors, Jon Naberezny, Pat Vaccaro, Robert Yalch, and Al Bright have all contributed paintings, while Richard Mitchell exhibited a sculpture in the show.

Along with the art staff's paintings and others, an entire gallery of 60 religious works produced by school children are also being shown.

Mr. Clyde Singer, the show's director, stated that this was the first Religious Art Exhibit to be held at the institute.

He also added that the show, which closes April 28, seems to be very successful.

Student Council Highlights

By Ray Johnson, Vice-Chairman and Penny Laakso, Secretary

Culture Program OK'd

Council unanimously approved a cultural program suggested by President Pugsley. All university students will be able to buy tickets to the Monday Musical, Youngstown Symphony, and Youngstown Playhouse at half price. The discount is made possible through Student Government funds. An announcement will be made when the program goes into effect.

Special Lectures

The Special Lectures Account was given $350 to continue bringing speakers to campus for the remainder of the year. The most recent speaker sponsored by this fund was Dr. Mark Van Doren.

Judicial Defeated

An effort to establish a Judicial Branch of Student Government was defeated. Council felt that the Student Faculty Discipline Committee adequately handles all campus and scholastic disorders. These include cheating, violence, and any matter which might lower university standards.

New Jobs For Attendants

In answer to student complaints, Council suggested that the attendants at the university parking lot between Elm Street and Fifth Avenue direct traffic. By having cars park closer together less space would be wasted.

Miss YSU

Rose Mary Romeo, Miss Youngstown State University 1968, will represent our campus in a beauty contest sponsored by an organization affiliated with the Air Force. Miss Romeo will follow precedent by representing the university in several intercollegiate contests.

Volunteers Needed

Student Government is accepting volunteers for committee members to serve under the Secretary of Student Organizations. Applications can be obtained at the Student Government offices in room 108 of Kilcawley.

Notice

Council has moved again. We are now meeting in the Cardinal Room. The next meeting will be Monday, April 22, at 3:30.

C. Earl Harris, Jr., Chairman of the Department of Geology has been on a year's leave of absence since October 1967 in order to complete his course work towards a Ph.D. at Ohio State University. He will rejoin the Youngstown State University faculty in June of this year.

He is doing his dissertation under Dr. Walter Sweet, a paleontologist. The subject is a study of conodonts in the Ohio Shales that are Devonian in age and approximately 325 millions years old.

Mr. Harris received his B.S. in Geology from Kent State University and an M.S. from Miami University in Oxford, Ohio. He has worked professionally for the United States Geological Survey in various projects located in Denver, Colorado; West Yellowstone, Montana; Grandfather Mountain region, North Carolina; Washington, D.C.; and Alexandria, Louisiana.

WAS KEATS THE BOB DYLAN OF HIS DAY?

Who was the greatest of the English Romantic Poets—Byron, Shelley or Keats? This question has given rise to many lively campus discussions and not a few stabbings. Let us today try to find an answer.

First, Keats (or The Louisville Slugger, as he is commonly called.) Keats' talent bloomed early. While still a schoolboy at St. Swithin's he wrote his epic lines:

*If I am good I get an apple,
So I don't whistle in the chapel.*

From this distinguished beginning he went on to write another 40 million poems, an achievement all the more remarkable when you consider that he was only five feet tall! I mention this fact only to show that physical problems never keep the true artist from creating. Byron, for example, was lame. Shelley suffered from prickly heat all winter long. Nonetheless, these three titans of literature never stopped writing poetry for one day.

Nor did they neglect their personal lives. Byron, a devil with the ladies, was expelled from Oxford for dipping Nell Gwynne's pigtails in an inkwell. (This later became known as Guy Fawkes Day.) He left England to fight in the Greek war of independence. He fought bravely and well, but women were never far from his mind, as evidenced by these immortal lines:

*How splendid it is to fight for the Greek,
But I don't enjoy it half as much as dancing cheek to cheek.*

While Byron fought in Greece, Shelley stayed in England, where he became razor sharpener to the Duke of Gloucester. Shelley was happy in his work, as we know from his classic poem, Hail to thee, blithe stropp, but no matter how he tried he was never able to get a proper edge on the Duke's razor, and he was soon banished to Coventry. (This later became known as The Industrial Revolution.)

One wonders how Shelley's life—and the course of English poetry—would have differed if Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades had been invented 200 years earlier. For Personna is a blade that needs no stropping, honing or whetting. It's sharp when you get it, and sharp it stays through shave after luxury shave. Here truly is a blade fit for a Duke or a freshman. Moreover, this Personna, this jewel of the blade-maker's art, this boon to the cheek and bounty to the dewlap, comes to you both in double-edge style and Injector style. Get some now during "Be Kind to Your Kisser Week."

But I digress. Byron, I say, was in Greece and Shelley in England. Meanwhile Keats went to Rome to try to grow. Who does not remember his wistful lyric:

*Although I am only five feet high,
Some day I will look in an elephant's eye.*

But Keats did not grow. His friends, Shelley and Byron, touched to the heart, rushed to Rome to stretch him. This too failed. Then Byron, ever the ladies man, took up with Lucrezia Borgia, Catherine of Aragon, and Annie Oakley. Shelley, a more domestic type, stayed home with his wife Mary and wrote his famous poem:

*I long to stay home with the missus and write,
And hug her and kiss her and give her a bite.*

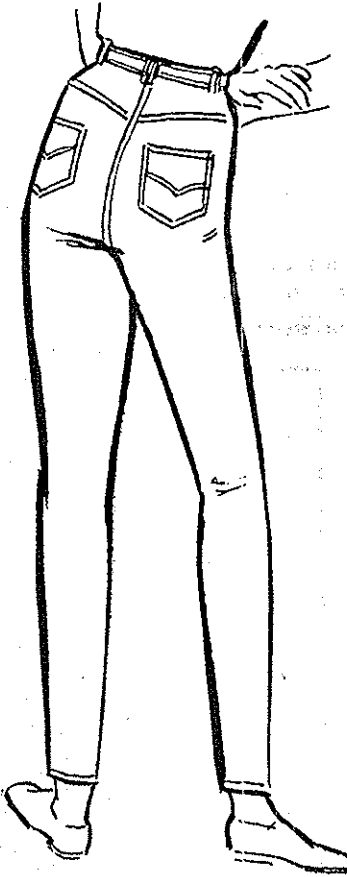

Mary Shelley finally got so tired of being bitten that she went into another room and wrote Frankenstein. Upon reading the manuscript, Shelley and Byron got so scared they immediately booked passage home to England. Keats tried to go too, but he was so small that the clerk at the steamship office couldn't see him over the top of the counter. So Keats remained in Rome and died of shortness.

Byron and Shelley cried a lot and then together composed this immortal epitaph:

*Good old Keats, he might have been short,
But he was a great American and a heck of a good sport.*

Truth, not poetry, is the concern of Personna, and we tell you truly that you'll not find a better shaving combination than Personna and Burma-Shave, regular or menthol.

Joe's A Punk

To the Editor of the Jambar:
 May I start out by stating two facts: I am not related to, or even acquainted with any member of the Youngstown Police force; I will not remain apathetic, as most of campus will

The article in the April 12, 1968, issue of the Jambar entitled "Joe College Parks", in my opinion, was extremely unjust and cruel. I realize that Youngstown was never really mentioned by name, and no officer or other person was actually named, but the inference was extremely obvious.

The author apparently doesn't realize that it was the subject of his "witticism" that kept Youngstown out of a riot condition last summer. He further overlooks the events of the past weeks of trouble which was magnificently handled by the Force.

I would be willing to bet that the author is the same character that wrote the article a while ago that complained of the Police towing away cars that were parked illegally, and then admitted that he owed the City an enormous amount of money in back tickets.

What kind of hypocrites do you have writing for you? How can you allow this out-and-out slander of the Police force?

I don't care if this ever gets further than your hands. At least I'll have the satisfaction of knowing that it was read.

I am terrifically upset with the quality of the Jambar and will probably never read another one.

I feel that you and the author of these ridiculous articles owe the student body, and the city of Youngstown, and the Police an apology.

It's college "punks" like that that give the rest of the students, the sincere ones, a bad name.

No Cheating Here

To the Editor of the Jambar:
 This is in reference to the letter which appeared in the April 12, 1968, Jambar, written by Douglas LeVasseur. He asked, "Can you imagine what would happen if a professor were to leave a class at Youngstown State University in such a situation?" The situation he was referring to was that of an instructor's passing out an exam—then leaving the room. Well, I can answer his question, at least for the classes in my major; for this has happened to me and many other students, not just once, but many times.

I will agree that one or two students have tried to cheat and maybe they succeeded, maybe not. However, the rest of the class worked the test as though the instructor was still in the classroom. Thus, I feel the large majority of the students at YSU would not cheat if they were placed on their honor; at least this is true for the students with whom I am familiar. I may note here that I do not state that the honor system is best; but I do feel that LeVasseur has painted a much too black picture of the honor of YSU students.

Our Man Hoppe

The Preacher No One Heard

Arthur Hoppe

—Chronicle Features

Once upon a time there was a country where most of the people were pink, but some of the people were green. The Pink People were rich. The Green People were poor. And the Pink People thought they were better than the Green People.

Of course, they didn't tell them so. What they told them was, "Let's all believe in peace, love and brotherhood and please don't go to my school, move into my block or marry my sister."

The Green People began to grumble. They said they'd settle for a little less talk about peace, love and brotherhood and a little fatter slice higher up on the hog.

And when they didn't get that, they started talking about burning the Pink People's houses down.

"Burn our houses down!" cried the Pink People nervously. "Oh, why can't these Green People believe in peace, love and brotherhood like us?"

The Green Leader went throughout the land preaching peace, love and brotherhood to Green People and Pink people alike.

The Pink People thoroughly approved. "We can save the country yet," they said hopefully, "if only the Green People will listen to wonderful spiritual leaders like him."

Of course the Pink People didn't listen to him themselves. After all, what could a Green Leader teach Pink People about peace, love and brotherhood? But they certainly did hope the Green People would.

Then, one awful day, a crazy Pink man killed the Green Leader.

The Pink People were shocked. And frightened. And they felt very, very guilty.

They felt so guilty they renounced playing baseball for two whole days. And they gave the Green Leader the most magnificent funeral the country had ever, ever seen. They were very proud of the funeral.

"See?" they told the Green People. "this proves we really do believe in peace, love and brotherhood. So please don't burn our houses down."

After the funeral, the Pink People felt much, much better. In fact they felt so much better they quickly forgot about the Green Leader they'd never listened to and went back to guarding their schools, their neighborhoods and their sisters.

Finally, of course, the Green People grew so embittered they burned the whole country down and everyone in it.

"The one thing I don't understand," said the last Pink Man, stumbling on the last Green Man in the midst of the holocaust, "is why you, who had everything to gain, didn't listen to your own Green Leader."

"How strange," said the last Green Man. "I was about to ask you, who had everything to lose, the same question."

Joe Takes A Physical

"Greetings. You are hereby notified to report to your nearest induction center for your pre-induction Army physical."

This was not the letter Joe College had been expecting. He was waiting for an answer from the girl he had invited to Young City College for Spring Week-end to hear Dieter, Paula, and Murray in concert. This letter from the Selective Service System was neither expected or appreciated.

Joe called his draft board. Naturally the woman who answered the phone had never heard of Joe College, but she knew 011-245-6753 very well. She told Joe that if he didn't show up at the train station at 5:30 in the morning on the appointed day to go to take his physical, four armed Army intelligence officers would get him.

Joe decided to yield to the wishes of the government and see the friendly Army doctors. Now, if you have never taken an Army physical, you are in for a real treat when you hear Joe's story. It is strange!

5:30 comes pretty early in the morning, so Joe decided just not to go to bed the night before. He went out drinking with his friends, and had them drop him off at the train station in time to catch the train.

Joe crawled to a seat on the new, modern coach and promptly slumped down and fell asleep.

"Hey, boy! The Army says you enjoy a nice ride to the induction center, not sleep. You hear that boy—start enjoying," a rather neatly dressed 27-year Army man suggested.

The rest of the trip was filled with this veteran telling stories about W. W. II, Korea, and Vietnam. The sergeant seemed to enjoy recalling the gory battles That's the Army.

The building where the physicals were given was apparently built during the Civil War. The halls were narrow, the rooms were narrow, and the company was really entertaining (for lack of a better word).

"Awright, youse guys. Strip to the waist and get in line."

Joe followed orders, but apparently there was some sort of discrepancy in the orders. The next guy almost had a coronary when he saw all the boys with their pants on.

"Whazza matter wit you guys? You expect to take a physical with your pants on. Take off them drawers, now."

Joe now was standing in a line preparing to have his eyes examined. He was in a state of complete nudity. The real problem was what to do with his hands. He had no pockets. Could you imagine someone standing for several hours and not putting his hands in his pockets? Well, that's a problem we shall leave to the social anthropologists.

"Next." Joe took his place to read the eye chart.

"Do you wear glasses?"

"I wear contact lenses, sir," Joe answered.

"Take them out and read that chart on the wall."

Joe took out his lenses, but due to his poor vision he could not see the chart. His vision was 20/300 in both eyes. Without his contacts Joe was blind as a bat.

"Good, go to the next station."

Next was the hearing test, and it was a doosy. You are supposed to press a little button everytime you hear a sound through a set of earphones. Joe was totally deaf. He communicated via lip reading. Joe never pressed the button once.

"Good, go to the next station."

The next station was the one where they checked to see if anyone had ever had any surgery. Joe had four brain tumors removed, open heart surgery, a leg amputated, and a number of minor operations in the past two years. He told the physician about them. The doctor asked how Joe had been feeling recently. Joe said he had been feeling pretty good.

"Good, go to the next station."

The next station was the one where they checked your feet. Joe had been wearing arch-supports for his flat feet for the past 7 years. He also limped from a prior operation.

The doctor asked him to walk across the room, and if he could make it without stopping, his feet were good. He made it.

"Good, go to the next station."

The entire day was simply repetition of the last four stations. Finally the day ended at 7 that evening. Joe had to visit his own doctor the next day for treatment of exhaustion due to the strenuous Army physical.
