

Peter, Paul and Mary Here Sunday

Peter, Paul and Mary carry out the "Roaring Twenties" theme of YSU's 1968 Spring Weekend.

Roaring Twenties Is Theme

Peter, Paul and Mary, one of the most popular folk singing groups in the nation, will wrap-up the Spring Weekend activities with a concert on Sunday.

The concert will be held at the Struthers Fieldhouse and will begin at 8:00 p.m. Seats will be on a first-come, first-serve basis.

The fieldhouse, which has a capacity of about 5,000 people, will be open at 7:00 p.m.

The lighting and sound equipment and the stage for the concert are being provided by a Cleveland firm.

Mike Wholehan, Spring Weekend Coordinator, stated that the sound equipment is among the best manufactured and that people in any part of the fieldhouse should enjoy excellent sound reproduction.

The concert will last two hours with one intermission. During the intermission winners of the booth competition in the afternoon carnival will be awarded trophies.

Carnival, Fireworks and Dance Highlight This Saturday Night

Spring Weekend activities for Saturday will begin with a carnival in the main faculty parking lot, and end with free rides, fireworks and a dance at Idora Park.

The carnival will begin at noon with the opening of the booths. Booth judging will occur at this time.

Free Parking
All student parking lots will be open Saturday afternoon for free parking. Bryson Street, however, will be closed to all except those people building their booths.

Booth construction may begin at 8:00 a.m. All booths must be removed by noon Sunday. Any organization not complying with this regulation will be fined $25.00.

At 1:00 p.m. Saturday the Pershing Rifles will present a drill exhibition in the amphitheatre beside Kileawley Student Center.

Contests and Races
At two o'clock the "best dressed couple" in Roaring Twenties attire will be chosen.

The tricycle race for female campus organizations will begin at 2:30. The bed race for male campus organizations will take place at 3:30. The carnival will close at 4:30 p.m.

Arrangements have been made for a tent if it rains as it did last year.

Free Rides
Saturday evening from 7 to 10 p.m. all rides will be free of charge for Youngstown students who are wearing the tags which are given them at the time they buy their Spring Weekend tickets.

A fireworks display will be set off at 9:30 p.m.

Following the fireworks, an informal dance will begin at the Idora Park Kove.

The Groov-U will provide the music for the dance.

Shorts Allowed
Dean Edith G. Painter, Dean of Women, has announced that girls attending the Saturday night dance may wear shorts. This is generally not permitted at University sponsored dances.

Queen Announced Friday At Dance

Spring Weekend will begin Friday night with a semi-formal dance to be held at the Yankee Lake Ballroom when the Spring Weekend Queen will be crowned. The dance will begin at 9:00 p.m.

Music for the dance will be provided by the Billy Lang orchestra which features a "Tijuana Brass" sound. Lang's orchestra is booked this year with the Top Ten colleges as well as Ohio State, the University of Southern California, Michigan State University and the University of Miami.

The decorations will carry out the Roaring Twenties theme of the entire weekend.

Among the many decorations will be a nickleodian which will be in operation in the foyer.

Wishing Well
A fountain, which will be another part of the decorations, will serve as a wishing well.

The proceeds from this will be given to the children of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Witt. Mr. and Mrs. Witt, members of the YSU faculty, died suddenly last year.

Several other campus organizations have held money raising projects in the past to help the children.

Photographer There
A photographer from Abey's Studio will be present at the dance to photograph couples in front of a replica of an antique automobile.

Another of the novel effects of this year's Spring Weekend will be a huge spotlight, similar to the ones used at movie premiers.

The light, which can be seen for thirty miles, was rented from American Searchlight Advertising Co. of Cleveland. This same company took care of the decorations, lighting, and sound equipment for the entire weekend.

Girls Get Orchids
The girls will receive a baby orchid at the dance. The orchids are being flown in from Hawaii to insure their freshness.

Free potato chips and pretzels will be available at the dance. Soft drinks will be on sale.

Weekend Budget Almost Doubles Previous High

The 1968 Spring Weekend budget of $20,000 more than doubles the amount ever spent for such an affair, it was announced by Mike Wholehan, Coordinator of the weekend.

The highest Spring Weekend budget in the past was $8,000. The Peter, Paul and Mary Concert alone is more than $2,000 above that figure.

The three people most responsible for this year's Spring Weekend are J. Michael Foley, Chairman of Major Events Committee; Michael Wholehan, Spring Weekend Coordinator; and Frank Braden, a member of Major Events Committee.

Other members of the Major Events Committee, all of whom helped on Spring Weekend are: Irene Ondo, Major Events Committee Secretary; Tony Peluso, Major Events Committee Treasurer, and Howard Zecher, Patricia Wilk, Marlene Olexa, Frank Braden, Merriam Burdette, Patti Munchin, Joe Marquard, Roseanne Tucci, Rich Will, Kim Foley, Don Allen, Grace Lesorti, Diane DeCarlo, Al Bezilla, Mike D'Onofrio, and Ann Figurelli.

1600 Vote Monday For Queen, Prexy

The unofficial estimate for voters in yesterday's Spring Weekend Queen and Student Government President election was over 1,600 students. The voting was held from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. yesterday and today.

Voting booths were set up in the Engineering building, Ward Beecher Science Hall, Jones Hall and outside the Cafeteria.

Campaigning on a large scale was seen for the first time in a campus election. Both of the presidential candidates had campaign material to hand out.

One sorority gave free pop to students while asking them to consider their candidate and another group sold strawberry shortcake by the booths.

Voting was by student I.D. cards and was done on IBM ballots.

Presidential results and the four members of the queen's court will be announced Wednesday. The Queen will be announced at the dance at Yankee Lake Friday evening.

Coffin To Speak Thursday On "Campus, Culture & Conflict"

The Reverend William Sloane Coffin, Jr., Chaplain of Yale University, will speak to YSU students this Thursday, May 16th in Strouss Auditorium at 2:00 p.m.

Rev. Coffin, who will speak on "Campus, Culture, and Conflict", is being sponsored by the University Special Lecture Series Committee.

Rev. Coffin, an active opponent of U. S. policy in Vietnam, is presently under indictment with Dr. Benjamin Spock for counseling young men on how to avoid the draft.

Known for his provocative sermons, the Reverend Mr. Coffin is active both in this country and abroad in the promotion of interfaith and interracial programs.

He is a member of the boards of the NAACP Legal Defense and Education Fund, "Crossroads Africa", and the Freedom of Residence Fund. He also is a member of the President's Advisory Committee on Civil Rights for the State of Connecticut.

In the summer of 1964, Mr. Coffin made an extensive tour of the Far East where he visited and lectured in universities in northern and central India.

In 1962, he was one of the 100 men in America under 40 years old selected by Life Magazine as outstanding in "the take-over generation."

The Reverend Mr. Coffin has also written articles for The Nation, Saturday Review, Christian Century, Parents Magazine, The Pulpit, and the Intercollegian.

Two of his sermons were anthologized in the 1962 volume, "Sermons to Intellectuals from Three Continents."

Mr. Coffin received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Yale and his Bachelor of Divinity degree from the Yale Divinity School.

Tickets are not necessary for this lecture.

Ohio Riots Bill Discussed By Stockdale and O'Casek

On Thursday afternoon, in the Engineering Building Auditorium, State Senators Robert Stockdale and Oliver O'Casek discussed the Ohio legislature's bill regarding riots on campus with over eighty students and faculty members.

Representative Thomas P. Gilmartin introduced the Senators. 9 lively discussions followed the prepared statements of the Senators.

The bill, of which the Senators are authors, gives the board of trustees of a State University the power to maintain law and order on campus with due process for those found guilty of such action. The purpose of the Bill is to give the universities in Ohio a good public image and make it easier to obtain state funds from the voters by assuring an orderly campus.

This is one of several bills to insure Civil Disorders, Safe Streets and Anti-riot Bills.

The board of trustees is required to publish and make available to all students, faculty and visitors their rules and procedures on campus and assure them of due process of law when accused of violations of their regulations.

According to due process, the accused must be notified of the charge and have the opportunity to appear with counsel and examine witnesses. After a hearing and decision by the University authority the offender has recourse to the civil courts for redress.

The Senators told the audience that a riot was defined in the Safe Streets bill as any physical violence, destruction of property and/or the interference of the rights of others.

In the case of a disorder, the police force would be hired and sworn in by each state university with their own training prevailing.

The individual universities would also regulate the duties and number of special police for each campus. All rules set forth by the board must be constitutional and will vary from campus to campus.

Dean Coffield who attended the lecture commented, "It was a very informative and needed talk. I only wish more people had heard it."

Cheerleaders Chosen For 68-69 Season

Six cheerleaders and two alternates have been chosen for the 1968-69 school year.

The two alternates are, Linda Danner, Junior in Home Ec, first alternate, and Karen Conklin, Sophomore in Advertising, second alternate.

Eighteen girls tried out for the eight positions. The judging was done by Physical Education faculty members Mr. and Mrs. William Poddol, Miss Joycelyn Ramsey, and Miss Lorretta M. Liptak.

All of the girls except Miss Wem and Miss Williams are new to the staff. Judi Welsh and Ilona Johnson, cheerleaders on last year's staff graduated.

Black To Speak On Ohio Politics

Mr. Brady Black, vice president and editor of the Cincinnati Enquirer, will visit the University Friday, May 17, under the sponsorship of the Special Lecture Series Committee and the Political Science Department.

At 10:00 a.m. in Strouss Auditorium Mr. Black will speak about Ohio politics in 1968 and, following his speech, will exchange comments with Mr. Clingan Jackson, political editor of the Youngstown Vindicator.

Mr. Black will meet informally with students at 11:00 a.m. in the Ward Beecher Science Building, room 213 and at 12 noon in the Elm Street building, room 208.

Students and faculty of the University are welcome to attend these sessions.

Mr. Black, who is considered dean of Ohio newsmen, began his newspaper career as sports editor of the Ashland, Kentucky, Independent in 1927, and became city editor in 1938.

He joined the staff of the Enquirer in 1949, became managing editor in 1956, and took his present position in 1964. He is also director of the International American Press Association.

Young Repubs Win Best In Mid-West

The Youngstown State University Young Republicans Club was selected as the best in the Mid-West at the Mid-West Federation College Republican Convention held April 26-28.

The club was presented the Herbert C. Hoover Award because of the club's excellent newsletter, the diversity and scope of its program and the fact that the club is a relatively new one.

The award is annually bestowed upon the outstanding Republican club in the 15 state Mid-West area.

Club president, Robert Coggeshall, accepted the award on behalf of the club.

Runners-up for the award were the University of Missouri, the University of Michigan and Indiana State University.

Over 1200 students representing more than 300 colleges were in attendance.

Those attending the convention were Charles Norton, Program Chairman; Ed Czopur, Treasurer; Jane Kennedy, Peter Wilms and Professor Keith McKean, club advisor.

Fulbright Grant Applications Open

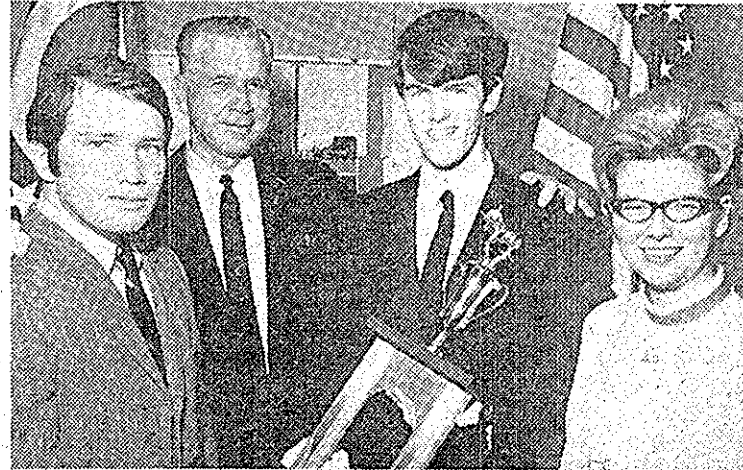

The Institute of International Education has announced that the annual competition for Fulbright student awards for 1969-70 is now open. Application blanks and information can be obtained at the office of the YSU Campus Fulbright Adviser, Professor Ward L. Miner, Jones 401.

Annually about a thousand awards are made to American graduate students for study in various countries scattered all over the world. The grants are under the auspices of the Fulbright-Hays Act of 1961, authorizing the use of foreign currencies and credits for this purpose. To be eligible, an applicant must be a United States citizen at the time of application and hold a bachelor's degree by the beginning date of the grant. Depending on the country applied for, grants are available in most fields.

Special attention is directed to the teaching assistantships available for graduating seniors in India, France (a good knowledge of French is essential), and Italy (majors in Italian preferred).

The deadline for applications is November 1, 1968, except for those applying for Central and South America (competency in Spanish is essential except for Jamaica and Trinidad), whose application must be in by October 15, 1968.

With Best Club Award in Chicago are: (L. to R.) Charles Norton, Program Chairman; Elton Luckhart, Mahoning County Republican Chairman; Robert Coggeshall, President; and Jane Kennedy.

Placement Office Has Summer Jobs

Many students on the YSU campus are currently engaged in, or will soon be engaged in, the task of trying to find a summer job or a part time job that will carry them on into the fall.

One of the first places that the students will go in their search for employment will be the Youngstown State University Placement Office at 39 W. Spring St.

The Director of Student Placement is Mr. Alfred J. Minotti. Mrs. Carol Bates is in charge of Part Time and Summer Placement.

Students applying for jobs will submit their applications and qualifications to Mrs. Bates along with a copy of their class schedule for that quarter. Students are kept on an "active list", which is revised each quarter, as long as the Placement Office has a record of their class schedule.

The class schedule is needed because many employers are willing to work their schedules around that of the student. A student may work a few hours each morning or afternoon or work two or three days a week. The other time may be spent in classwork.

At the end of each quarter the Placement Office notifies the students on the job list that they should send the office a copy of the next quarter's class schedule. Those who do not notify the office of their new schedules are dropped from the active list.

As of April the Placement Office had over 2,000 students registered for job requests. This includes graduating seniors seeking permanent employment.

Mrs. Bates said that she tries to place people into areas that they best fit. In choosing a job for a student she watches the distance it is from his home. This is important, especially with the summer or part time jobs.

If a student lives a great distance from the place of employment, a good percentage of his wages will be spent on transportation.

Employers have found that "the further a student lives from the job, the more apt he is to take time off."

Girls are most hampered in this area. Many of them lack the necessary transportation to get them from one side of town to another.

Some employers, Mrs. Bates said, place certain requirements on their jobs, such as: physical qualifications for delivery jobs. Some employers request only local residents because they realize that out-of-states students do not live on the campus during the summer months.

There are many jobs available to the male student of the campus, such as: delivery, dispatching, truck driving and stockroom work. Mr. Minotti said that the area steel mills are hiring very strong this year.

Although there is an abundance of jobs available for the male student, the female student may find it a little more difficult to find summer or part time work because the variety of types of jobs available is smaller.

Girls can often find jobs in the area of sales. These jobs are fluctuating at the current time.

Most employers of secretaries or receptionists require that a girl know both typing and shorthand. Part time jobs in this area are few, but full time jobs are plentiful.

Often jobs are available that require students in specific major fields. These fields could include: accounting, engineering, drafting, business, etc.

Jobs are available for students to work in summer camps in Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey.

If you are the type of person who is looking for something different to do, the Placement Office may be able to help you. Last summer the Kool-Aid Company was looking for a six foot student, who got along with children, to play Bugs Bunny at Kool-Aid parties. Mrs. Bates found a student to play the part and he had a ball doing it for three weeks.

In special fields summer jobs are available with large companies for seniors. They work for a summer and the companies try to attract them to join the staff after graduation, if the work is acceptable.

Service Groups Meet With Blind Youths

Seven members of the Circle K service organization and five members of Gamma Sigma Sigma service sorority participated in an informal discussion session for blind adolescents at the Youngstown Society for the Blind, on May 10.

Topics covered in the discussion included subjects the high school students are studying, their future plans and their special interests and hobbies.

Mr. Richard Thoma, director for the Society for the Blind, established a six man planning committee of two members from each of the YSU service groups and two blind students; to organize social events during the summer.

The first of these events will be a picnic and boat outing at Lake Newport in Mill Creek Park on Saturday, June 15. Monthly activities will be planned by the committee during each outing. Both Circle K and Gamma Sigma Sigma plan to continue the project throughout the summer and through the entire 1968-69 school year.

YSU's First German Club Organized

YSU's first German Club, Der Deutsche Verein, has been organized on campus under Dr. Robert Ward, Chairman of the Foreign Language Department.

The purpose of the club is to promote the German language and cultural spectrum, and to provide and cultivate a means through which these may be pursued by the students of YSU.

The officers of Der Deutsche Verein are: President, Bonnie J. Mayer; Vice-President, Gisela McKlemmens; Treasurer, Laura Herbst; Recording Secretary, Traudi Ukelhart; Corresponding Secretary, Irene Wojtkowski; and Public Relations, Uwe Haushalter.

The club will establish a meeting place in the near future. The club is open to all German majors and minors and German born students. Membership is $1.50.

Dr. Dobbert Invited To Colloquium

Dr. Guido A. Dobbert, associate professor of history at Youngstown State University, has been invited to participate in a colloquium on quantitative history at the University of Wisconsin, May 15-18.

The colloquium is designed to discuss quantitative and computer-oriented research methods.

Dr. Dobbert received his A.M. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Chicago.

He has also attended the University of Geneva, Switzerland, where he studied sociology and history.

Lectures

At a reception following a university function last year, a fraternity president asked President Pugsley about the possibility of having more "big names entertainment on campus".

The President answered by saying that he was very much in favor of such entertainment for the students, but only if there was a well attended lecture program in operation.

As time has passed the "big name entertainment" has become a reality. You can't get much bigger than Peter, Paul and Mary.

And a very good lecture program has also come into existence. But one thing has not come to pass, and that is the good attendance which these lectures deserve.

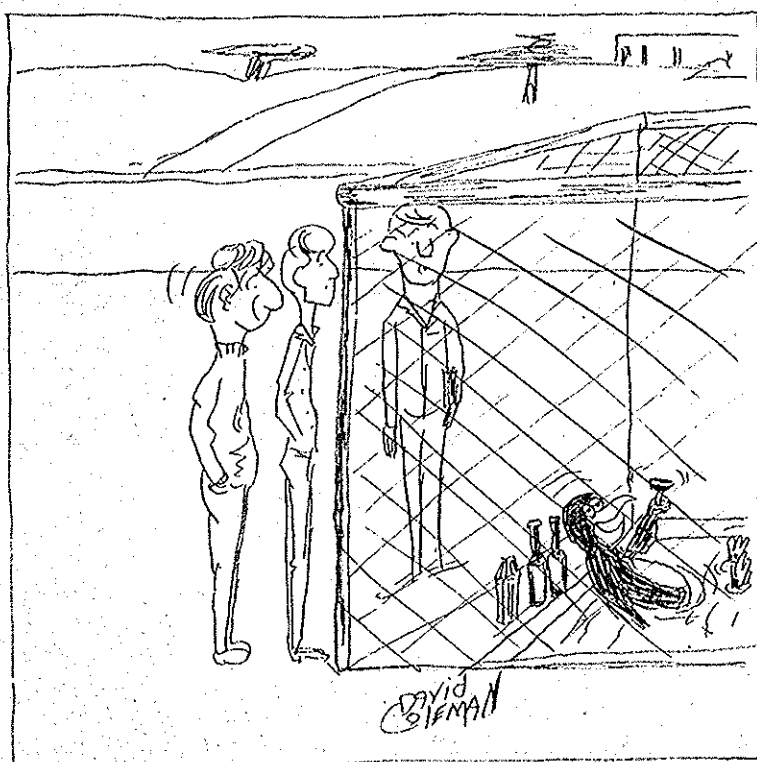

True the Buckminster Fuller, Martin Van Doren and Vance Packard lectures drew large crowds, but the many other fine speakers we have had on campus have gotten very little student support.

This week is a big week both for carefree entertainment (Spring Weekend starts Friday) and for lectures.

Archibald MacLeish spoke today. Rev. William Sloane Coffin will speak Thursday. And Mr. Brady Black will speak Friday.

The student is getting the big name entertainment he has been asking for.

When will the student return the courtesy by attending campus lectures?

"MARTINI POWER!"

Our Man Hoppe

Rocky Makes A Sacrifice

Arthur Hoppe

—Chronicle Features

Good morning, housewives and other shut-ins. It's time for another chapter in our daytime serial, "The Rocky Road to Happiness," which asks the question:

"Can a handsome billionaire of 59, wed to a beautiful young wife, find happiness in the passage of time? And 667 delegates in a hurry?"

As we join Rocky and his bride, Hysterical, today they are cosily curled up, as usual, in the warm glow of Rocky's 16 favorite computers as aides rush this way and that.

Hysterical: Oh, dearest, I was so proud of your speech the other day, withdrawing from the race. It was such a noble self-sacrifice. You made me so happy.

Rocky (modestly): Thanks a thou, fella. Yes, I did it solely in the interests of party unity in these trying times. That and the fact that the computers calculated a Probability Factor of only 4.3 per cent for my capturing the nomination. But I'm glad my self-sacrifice made you happy.

Hysterical: Yes, that and the fact that now you're no longer a candidate I can get rid of this tacky old cloth coat and get my hair done.

Aide (breathlessly): Chief! The computers have just finished their in depth study of the effects of Johnson's withdrawal, Kennedy and Humphrey's entry and the need of the party to nominate a winner. Your Probability Factor has tripled.

Hysterical (uneasily): And now that you're not a candidate, I'll get a nice, new dress and maybe some shoes...

Rocky (frowning): What I said, fella, is that I'm not an active candidate. But this inactivity is certainly dull. What's the latest from the primary campaigns?

Aide: Your Probability Factor just went up another 2.3 points, Chief. Nixon used an old razor blade before making an important speech.

Hysterical (nervously): And we'll go away together, just the two of us...

Rocky: Of course, I am available for a draft, if it's the will of the people...

Aide: Chief! Nixon's been campaigning so hard in the West that he overlooked Massachusetts. There's now a 51.1 Probability Factor that you can capture the primary there and stun the Nation.

Hysterical (desperately): ...and be all alone on a windswept isle...

Rocky (happily): Sorry, fella. I just felt a draft. It looks like Nixon left the door open a crack. Let's see, I'll have to take a position on Vietnam. I think I'll take Romney's. He isn't using it. And then...

Hysterical (desperately): But, dearest, what about your speech nobly sacrificing yourself for party unity?

Rocky: Thanks a thou, fella. I'll get a couple of aides' busy writing one. Let's see. "I have decided to sacrifice my happy home life in the interests of unifying my beloved party. Under me." Frowze up your hair, fella, we're back in the race.

Hysterical (now sitting all alone and disconsolate as everybody rushes this way and that): I wish I were a man and could make sacrifices. It must be fun to be a sacrificer (she looks glumly at her tacky old cloth coat) rather than a sacrifice.

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor of the Jambar:

Students today are voicing themselves in many important and controversial areas. This is as it should be. I find, distressingly, that many of us can find nothing better to do than to point out things that are totally inconsequential when there exists an intolerable situation, here on campus.

Perhaps the reason it has gone unobserved is that it effects students only indirectly. Higher prices and food of poor quality. Here is the root of the problem: The cafeteria is operated under a private contract by a "two-bit" outfit. If you have ever worked for such a company you will immediately see what I mean. For those of you that haven't, I will try to shed a little light in as few words as possible.

The problem is not yours, it is the employees, the girls, who are doing the best they can under working conditions that went out in nineteenth century England. Poor pay, $1.00 to $1.20 per hour for most employees, a spy system among the workers to keep them in line, no job security and lack of full-time work, most girls average 30 to 34 hours per week are but a few of their complaints.

I was told that if they tried to do anything about the above conditions they would be fired. Their hands are tied, but yours are not. Here is a cause worth fighting for. It should be suggested here that the University not renew its contract with this firm and run the cafeteria or contract a firm with union affiliated employees. To do differently would be to promote poverty on campus. The students should, support along with the faculty, any Administration move to rectify this situation.

Students, you can believe, that if humans are so treated to increase profits, how will be food be prepared? Those unfortunate employees are not the only ones being cheated.

John J. O'Malia
 Senior, Liberal Arts

To the Editor of the Jambar:

I've come to the conclusion you feel your paper is dull (at least I feel you should and incidentally, I'm finding your new Tuesday edition about as interesting as your Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday editions), and you are trying to stir some commotion. Well, I'm commotioned.

The issue with two articles, and an accompanying photo, on Denny LaRue's withdrawal from Student Elections and his resigning from Student Council was appalling to me. One of the articles stated Mr. LaRue gave as one of the reasons for his withdrawal was his feeling that most of the programs he had wanted to institute, had he been president, would not have been passed by the Council. The other article stated Mr. LaRue was a champion at times and a goat at others, and that he was getting tired of the latter. Well this "If I don't get my way I won't play" attitude and his resigning just after being re-elected for another year shows his lack of maturity. I'm of the opinion that when a person has shortcomings he should try to face up to them—not try to disguise them as someone else's failures. Could it be that HE failed to make convincing arguments to fellow Council members? Could it be HE failed to instill student support behind his programs? Could it be that his feelings were not those of the majority? Anyway he copped out—and I'll grant him this right, but, I say it's wrong to glorify him, and worse yet to hope or work for a reconsideration on his part.

Also while I'm at it I'd like to suggest you publish some kind of "beef box" (shades of the Joe Pyne TV show) where students can place short, topical, informal and/or pointed comments. For example: Sock-it to instructors who fail, or even neglect attempting, to call his (or her) students by their name, whether through lack of interest or lack of mental capacity. After all this isn't a paper primarily for the bifocled and baggy pants (or as the case may be, long dress) members of the local PTA, Senior Citizens, or University staff — it's for the Young Adult College Student. Why not try reaching them? Put something in it to create their response.
