2400 Students Vote; Four Queen Finalists

A majority of over 2,400 YSU students voting in the recent elections cast their ballots for Ray Johnson as the next President of the Student Body.

"I sincerely hope that I will be able to meet the trust that my fellow students have placed in me. My thanks go to everyone who worked so hard with me in my campaign."

These were the victory words of sophomore winner Ray Johnson. He further reassured the student body that he will definitely work hard to push through the platform on which he ran.

Ray's platform included many new programs that all revolved around the central idea of getting our campus really active. The platform included such ideas as a radio station, feature movies on campus, recreation facilities for the Kilcawley residents, and others.

Nancy Eckert (Tri-Sig), Leslie Emery (ZTA), Mary Beth Timlin (Ind.), and Claudia Ward (AOPI) were elected to the 1968 Spring Weekend Court out of a field of eight candidates.

Peter J. Isagro, III was unopposed as the candidate for the office of Vice-President of the Student Body.

The official count of total ballots cast in the elections is 2,432, the largest number of students voting in campus elections at any time. (2,900 did vote in the Choice 68 elections, but that was conducted by Time Magazine and not a campus election) Johnson pulled 1,281 votes to defeat his opponent Rich Will who received 970 votes.

The amount of votes the Queen candidates received was not announced, but the four previously mentioned top vote-getters will make up the court.

The girl who received the highest amount of votes out of these four will be crowned Spring Weekend Queen at the dance tonight at Yankee Lake.

Susan Goodstein (AEPH), Sandy Hoagland (Phi Mu), Elaine Karski (DTA), and Nancy McKinnon (AST) were the other candidates in the queen elections.

This was the first time in recent years that open campaigning was permitted in the elections. Some of the sororities set up various booths on campus passing out items to induce students to support their candidates.

The Student Council and the various candidates deserve much credit for putting on a campaign to get as many students as possible to vote.

The record number of students that did vote reflects on all the work put in by these people.

The Elections Committee of Student Council chaired by Ron Deering handled all the arrangements for the elections.

Controversy Averted—

Daniels March Averted

A peaceful march planned by the black students of YSU in protest of the fact that Mr. Ron Daniels, Instructor in Social Science, contract was not renewed for the coming academic year was averted earlier this week after a meeting of the black students with the school administration. Mr. Daniels has been on the YSU staff since the spring of 1967, and they did not want to further jeopardize his position.

The spokesman for the black students said that there would be definitely more heard from them on the matter, but declined to say in what form. They will meet soon to formulate plans.

Dr. Albert L. Pugsley, President of the University, explained that Daniels' contract stated that it was to be a terminal agreement ending with the present quarter.

Dr. Pugsley continued to explain that Mr. Daniels was hired with the agreement that his year at YSU would just be a one year sabbatical from his graduate studies leading to his Ph.D. The year here was to have helped him in continuing his work in this program.

Mr. Daniels requested that his contract be extended to include the coming summer quarter, and the administration agreed to this. When Daniels requested that the contract be extended to the 1968-69 academic year, the request was denied.

Mr. Daniels suggested to the administration that his growing position in the community—civic and collegiate—warranted his reappointment to the staff.

The administration countered by explaining that Mr. Daniels was hired for one year even though he did not yet have his Ph.D. to help him continue toward that goal.

If he requested an extension of his contract, which he did, the administration could not overlook the missing requirement a second time.

A spokesman for the black students on campus told of their reactions to the entire situation. They feel that Mr. Daniels has been an invaluable figure in their life at YSU.

According to them he has instituted the 'Seminar in Black' among other things for the black students. They said he has provided the school with stimulating classes. He has also helped to encourage students to become more completely involved in the campus activities, they added.

The black students feel a need for Mr. Daniels here because of his knowledge and experience of and with the local situation and people. The spokesman explained that this could not be measured in terms of a college degree.

The black students of YSU said they do not want a mere Negro instructor or professor on the staff, they want a "black" teacher like Daniels—a progressive thinker.

Mr. Daniels was not available for comment.

Kennedy Wins The YSU Ballot In "Choice 68"

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy (D-N.Y.) pulled down 24.45 percent of the YSU students' votes in the recent Choice 68 elections sponsored by Time Magazine on campus. Sen. Eugene McCarthy (D-Minn.) was second (18.98 percent) and Richard M. Nixon (Rep.) was third (16.08 percent).

These are the local results of the national poll.

Following the top three vote-getters were Nelson A. Rockefeller, Lyndon B. Johnson, George C. Wallace, John V. Lindsey, Charles H. Percy, Ronald W. Reagan, and Mark O. Hatfield in that order.

Just over 40 percent of the YSU students feel that a phased reduction of U.S. military activity should be our course of action in the Vietnam situation.

On the other hand over 31 percent of our students felt that we should

Students to be Honored At 9th Annual Awards

A total of 195 university students will be honored for outstanding academic achievement at the Ninth Annual Honors and Awards Program Tuesday, May 21, in the C. J. Strauss Memorial Auditorium at 8 p.m.

The honors list, which will recognize 148 students for class distinctions, is comprised of those students whose cumulative point average places them in the top one percent of those in their respective school and in their class.

The University Awards, which will be presented to 54 students, are awarded to those students who have done outstanding work within their particular department.

Dr. Earl E. Edgar, dean of the Graduate School, is the principal speaker for the event. Dr. Edgar's topic for the program is "Mission of the University."

Other speakers on the program are Dr. Albert L. Pugsley, University president, and Dr. William H. Coffield, dean of the University, who will make the presentation of the special awards.

Spring Weekend Begins Tonite

Peter, Paul and Mary

Our Fifth Annual Spring Weekend begins tonight at 9 p.m. at Yankee Lake with a semi-formal dance. The Queen will be crowned at the dance from among the field of four remaining candidates—Lesley Emery, Nancy Eckert, Claudia Ward, and Mary Beth Timlin.

The Billy Lang Orchestra will provide the music. The Yankee Lake ballroom will be decorated following the "Roaring Twenties" theme.

The Open-Air Carnival will begin at noon Saturday in the Bryson St. Faculty Parking Lot. Again this year campus groups will compete in food and game booth categories.

Highlighting the carnival afternoon will be a best-dressed couple contest, a tricycle race, and a bed race. Awards for all the contests will be presented at the Sunday concert.

Saturday evening between 7 and 10, all rides at Idora Park will be in operation free-of-charge to YSU students. At 9:30 in the park there will be an $800 fireworks display.

A dance will follow at 10 p.m. in the Idora Kove featuring the Groovy-U. They were the popular group that led the Sunday Night Winter Weekend Concert.

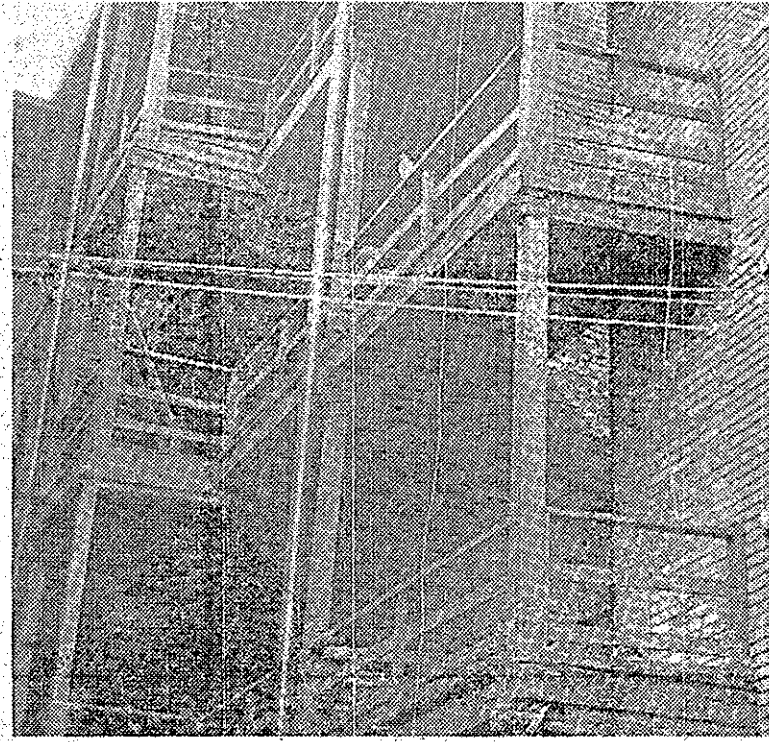

Finally, Peter, Paul, and Mary will be in concert at the Struthers Field House Sunday night starting at 8 p.m. The doors will open at 7.

Michael Wholehan is the Spring Weekend Coordinator.

Staffer Reports—

Major Changes at Lincoln Hotel

A view of the much improved Lincoln Hotel fire escape.

Dear Boss:

This morning you asked me to take another look at the Lincoln Hotel. You said that since we ran that story two weeks ago, you heard rumors about all those improvements they made to help out our students.

Everyone knows that in our modern society, wrongs are very wrong but all that is needed is to point them out, and something gets done right away.

So naturally I knew you expected wall-to-wall carpeting in the lounge, gold-plated faucets in the john, and maybe even some new boards on the fire-escape.

Maybe not really this, because you might expect that University-Approved Housing to be fire-proof anyway.

I thought we could wait till next week for our second look, because all these improvements take time, and the Management would not wish to carry them out at any inconvenience to the tenants.

Well, as I said, I went to look. I didn't see any new paint, right away, and somebody was in the john so I don't know anything about the faucets.

They are probably there, alright, but I couldn't really check this one out.

The wall-to-wall carpeting will be there soon, because the linoleum is still cracked like it was, only worse.

It probably got scratched a little more when the room was being measured.

So you can see that things are moving along.

Still, I thought you might like to know of something I seen with my own eyes, because I know you always tell me that if I can't see it, it might not be there.

The fire-escape is still there, so at least things are safe while all the work is being done. And in on the second floor, the abandoned refrigerator we mentioned in our story has been taken away.

When I came downstairs, I looked into the secretary's office, thinking she would be a real cute chick in culottes, or something, and I could ask her more about how the improvements were coming.

Well, she wasn't exactly the friendly type, if you know what I mean.

"Please, Ma'am," I began, I know you always tell me to be real polite to local citizens. "Could you tell me about the improvements you are making around here?"

"You from the Jambor again? Get back there and stay there!" she said, real unfriendly-like. But I gave her my name when she asked, hoping to thaw her out. But you know what she said?

She said she was going to call Mr. Martindale, who is head of Students Housing and Special Services.

I guess she is going to thank him for all the improvements we suggested. So you can see that our story did lots of good.

Next week I'll tell you about the improvements in East and West Hall.

Sports Light

The University's baseball squad continues to take on all opponents in impressive style.

The charges of Dom Rosselli netted two more victories this week with a double-header rout of the Steubenville Barons.

The YSU team won the first game on the strength of a two-hitter from southpaw Dan Barker (Geneva), and solid hitting led by freshman Brad Lawson's three hits, 15-1.

The second game marked Mike Ceremuga's first full performance from the hill and his first win of the season, YSU-9, Steubenville-2.

Youngstown continues to show strong underclassman talent with Brad Lawson (Boardman, O.) leading the squad in six categories:

Total hits—21, batting average—553, stolen bases 12 in 11 games, total bases—25, rbi's—13 and runs scored—12.

Nick Gesacion, another frosh, has netted 11 stolen bases in 13 games to hold second place in that category. In fact, in 13 games this season, the fleet-footed Penguins have pilfered 34 sacks.

Pitching is no exception to the strong underclassman "rule" on the YSU squad.

Two sophomores and a junior lead the squad in victories and strike-outs! Don Leshnock leads the squad with 35, Mike Malley has 33, and Dan Barker 23 strike-outs, respectively.

The entire mound corps has notched 111 strike-outs in 82 innings pitched for a 10.4 per-game average.

The "three musketeers" have netted all ten of their victories without a defeat.

Malley is 4-0 having completed all three of his starts, Leshnock is 3-0 completing three of his four starting assignments and Barker is 3-0, finishing one of his three starts!

With talent like this, Youngstown State has nailed 11 wins in 13 outings and is beginning to look toward a possible berth in the NCAA College Division Regionals!

Basketball

Dom Rosselli has announced that two Steel Valley Conference stars intend to enroll at YSU next fall.

Lindsay Randall and Richard Denamen, both products of Jack Theil's Hubbard High School 1968 District Championship team will be wearing the Red and White next season.

Randall, a 6-5 forward for the Eagles, was a first-team All-Steel Valley selection and is listed as an alternate on the Ohio North-South All-Star team.

The front court star led the conference scoring list with a 21-point ppg. average.

Richard Denamen, a 6-4 center, can be counted on to give the Penguins extra strength on the boards.

The second-team All-Steel Valley pick averaged 15 rebounds a game while hitting at a 12-point ppg.

Denamen, not only a star on the basketball court, served as the president of the 1968 Hubbard High School senior class.

The addition of these two stars will go a long way toward filling the void created by the graduation of scoring whiz Joe Nigro and top rebounder Frank Fitz.

A Study In Poor Housing—Part 3

205 1/2 Madison Avenue

There is a house located at 205 1/2 Madison Ave. which is on the university "Approved Housing" list that obviously should not be there.

The JAMBAR made a complete inspection of this structure and these pictures will bear out our findings.

The outside of the house desperately needs a coat of paint. The five-room dwelling is appallingly filthy. The bathroom is literally caked with dirt, and the toilet facilities border on being labeled unsanitary. Shades are missing from some of the ceiling fixtures. The floors actually slant in many places. The carpets are worn thin to the rotting linoleum.

Then tenants pay $120 a month for this.

When this reporter remarked as to the filthy condition of the place, one of the two tenants present said, "That's why we don't wash it. When you have a nice place you like to take care of it. When you don't have a nice place . . ."

He then merely shook his head. One of the students remarked that another of the tenants had reported seeing rats crawling under the house. Another occupant told of hearing noises in the walls, pounding on the wall, then hearing the crawling sound move up.

He also told of putting his ear to one of the walls to hear the sound of chirping birds. From one of the windows, one could see rotted beams under the spouting. This was obviously the way the birds got into the walls.

The students also pointed out that you could not afford to let the water sit for more than 24 hours. If you did, it immediately turned rusty. The suggestion was made that the pipe might be corroded.

Some of the windows had broken scaling strips. The students told of a report the housing inspector filed to have a glass panel on the front door fixed. The report was supposedly brought to the attention of the owner. That panel has never been fixed.

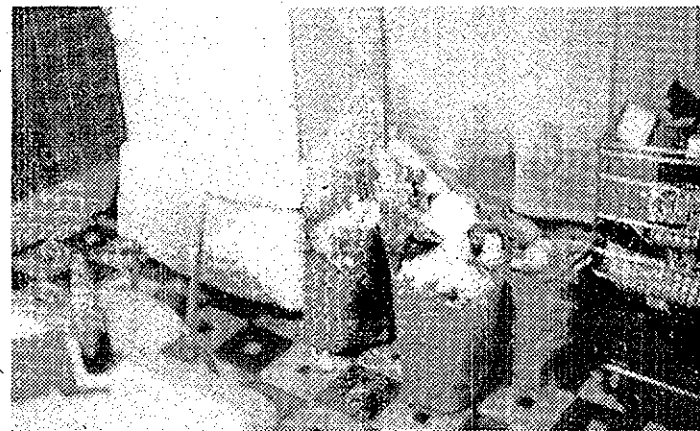

The outside front door had five small rectangular glass panes missing. One of the porch light sockets was not in working order.

The floorboards of the front porch were loose. When pressure was applied to these floorboards, one could actually feel them give way.

The landlord was supposedly to have fixed the supports of the porch. An inspection revealed that he only placed bricks under the supporting beams to make them appear firm.

Both of the students interviewed said that they would not even consider living in the same house next quarter.

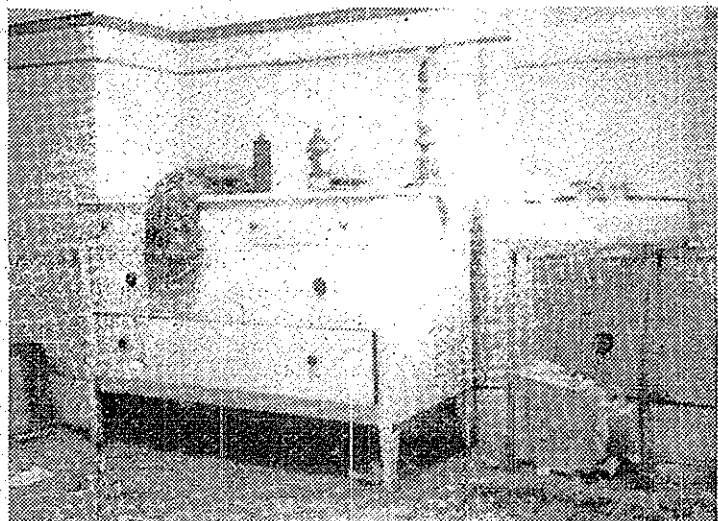

The tenants could possibly put the house in decent shape themselves, but decent does not mean that one's mother would live there. Only the landlord could make the house really livable, but that is not likely.

This shot of the living room is self explanatory.

Telephone Communications Are Effective, Extensive

Recently the Jambor decided to examine the University's telephone communication system to determine its total campus coverage and its effectiveness.

New Switchboard

The switchboard, located on the main floor of Jones Hall was installed in January of 1967 replacing an older switchboard that had become outmoded.

Because of this new switchboard, it has been possible for the four telephone operators to give quick and extensive telephone service to any variety of people making calls to the University from an outside line, making calls to an outside line from a University phone, or making intra-University calls.

300 Extensions

At present there are over three hundred extensions included in the University's telephone system, but due to the fact that the University is growing so quickly, there will be more extensions added for various academic departments and campus organizations that need them.

There are ten incoming trunk lines and five outgoing trunk lines that feed the complicated switchboard in Jones Hall.

A short observation of the complexity and the sophistication of the switchboard serves only to tell any novice that there are some very capable people managing the operation of the University's telephone system.

Service Till 9:00 p.m.

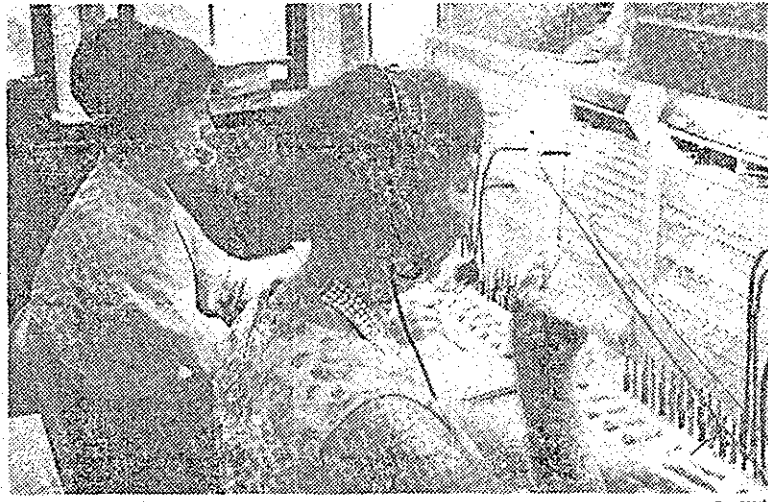

Of the four telephone operators, only Mrs. Lola Cable and Mrs. Jennie Matyi work during the day.

Mrs. Sarah Byrne works in the evenings from 5:30 until 9:00, and Miss Mary Lynn Davis spells the Daylight operators during the lunch hour.

Although there is no University wide phone service after 9:00 p.m., there is however some limited phone service to Kilcawley Hall.

Coverage Adequate

Right now, there seems to be an adequate coverage of telephone calls, but it is realistic to assume that in the near future, as the University grows larger, there will be a need for still more telephone coverage and for more operators to cover the calls on the extended service that will be offered.

Student Council Has New Advertising Laws

The Student Council of Youngstown State University has instituted a new idea which requires all groups or individuals to obtain a number and stamp on all posters which will advertise a coming function, make some type of announcement, or for any other type of advertisement.

The new idea works in this manner. The group or individual who wishes to advertise a poster must obtain a number and stamp or seal at the Student Council office on the first floor of Kilcawley Hall.

When the ad forms are filled out, the individual receives a copy of the by laws which govern the regulations of posters so that no one can state that they were unaware of these regulations.

A fee of one dollar is charged for this reason. If after the date has passed for which the posters are no longer good, a representative may go around and remove all their posters.

He may then go to the Council office and get the one dollar refunded. If the posters are not taken down after a certain period of time then the dollar will not be refunded.

There may be only one poster in each on campus and it must be on a poster board in that building or as in the case in the Main Building, on the wires hanging over the main hallway on the first floor.

During the elections this past week along with the upcoming Spring Week End, this was a frequent offense.

If there are posters without the proper numbers and stamp on them, the Council can levy a five dollar fine for the first offense and can go as high as twenty-five dollars for any subsequent offenses, against the person or persons responsible for these posters.

When the ad forms are filled out, the individual receives a copy of the by laws which govern the regulations of posters so that no one can state that they were unaware of these regulations.

Spotlight On

Alpha Phi Omega Fraternity

(Editor's Note) This is the second in a series of articles dealing with outstanding service organizations and honoraries who have served this campus long and faithfully.

Catching the eye of the passer-by to-day in the lobby of KHCawley Student Center are 12 colorful 8 by 10 photos of the Ugly Man contestants, together with the trophies and the collection jars.

Of prime importance this week to Alpha Phi Omega, National Service Fraternity, is the annual national Ugly Man on Campus Contest it is sponsoring; the proceeds of which are earmarked for a worthy charity.

"We would appreciate any support that students may give to all the organizations, in order to make this contest a huge success," is the urgent request of Ray M. Palmer, Second Vice President.

Really Big Project

"We are involved in a really big thing all this week," he declared enthusiastically. "Twelve recognized student organizations have submitted candidates who were photographed by Alpha Phi Omega—the object being to produce the ugliest portrayal possible.

Each participating organization is collecting money for its own entrant during the week, at the end of which time Alpha Phi Omega will count the money. The winning organization is the one bringing in the largest amount.

All the money, collected by the various organizations, is given to a recognized charity of the winner's choice in the winning organization's name.

Trophies Presented

First, second and third place permanent trophies are awarded to the deserving organizations. Also, a three-foot rotating trophy, previously displayed in the lobby of Jones Hall, goes to the winning group for one year.

Radio Station WHOT is giving the fraternity free publicity for the campaign. Isaly's has donated 120 empty cartons to be used as collection boxes.

The winners will be announced during the intermission of the Peter, Paul, and Mary Concert Sunday (8-10 p.m.), May 19, at the Struthers Field House.

The fraternity has three cardinal objectives: to develop leadership; to encourage participation in community chairmanships and to take active part in all projects; and to foster friendship and brotherhood within Ray M. Palmer the organizations and through social events.

Varied Activities

Social events promulgated by this organization include annual affairs such as the annual dinner dance, hay rides, mixers with sororities, swim parties, stag parties, and beer blasts.

The big area is in service. The main purpose of the national project is to assist the Peace Corp.

Some of the varied services performed by Alpha Phi Omega are ushering for A. C. T. (high school students), distributing the Jambar, ushering at the Greek Sing, and taking part in the Muscular Dystrophy Drive (Wheel Chair Race).

The organization also participates in Sigma Sigma Sigma's Robby Page Fund Drive—an annual national project to give support to a Children's Hospital for Crippling Diseases in North Carolina.

Heart Fund Collections

The fraternity helps gather heart fund collections at each of the headquarters, bringing them to the central collection office at the bank.

The building of the float, a castle, for the Homecoming Queen was one of its projects.

The major money-making project which enables Alpha Phi Omega to do these things is the used book exchange. The student sets a price on his own book. A 12½ percent commission is charged when the book is sold. If not sold, the book is returned.

Three times a year, at the beginning of the fall, winter, and spring quarters, this event takes place. Three hundred dollars of the proceeds, donated in the fraternity's name, is allotted to the University.

Pledging

The organization pledges twice a school year. Before each pledge period there are two rush parties to which all interested persons are invited and given the opportunity to find out about the fraternity in all its aspects.

Those interested in becoming members undergo an eight-week pledge period, during which they attempt to qualify in the fields of leadership, friendship, and service.

An evaluation of each pledge at two pledge reviews, at the middle and end of the pledge periods, reveals those who have fulfilled the requirements. The pledges, having been assigned certain tasks, are judged by this yardstick.

CULOTTES: THE IN-THING

What are short, but not mini skirts? Have legs, but are not shorts? And often have sleeves, but are not blouses?

The answer, my friend, is blowin' in the wind.

They are culottes.

All over YSU's scenic campus attractive coeds are flitting here and there in these fab new additions to the fashion scene.

They come in gay pinks, outrageous oranges, ravishing reds, blushing blues, yummy yellows, gorgeous greens and a multitude of absolutely delightful prints.

In-the-know coeds are wearing culottes from a modest length of just above the knee to the more daring mid-thigh (you nasty little rascals, you).

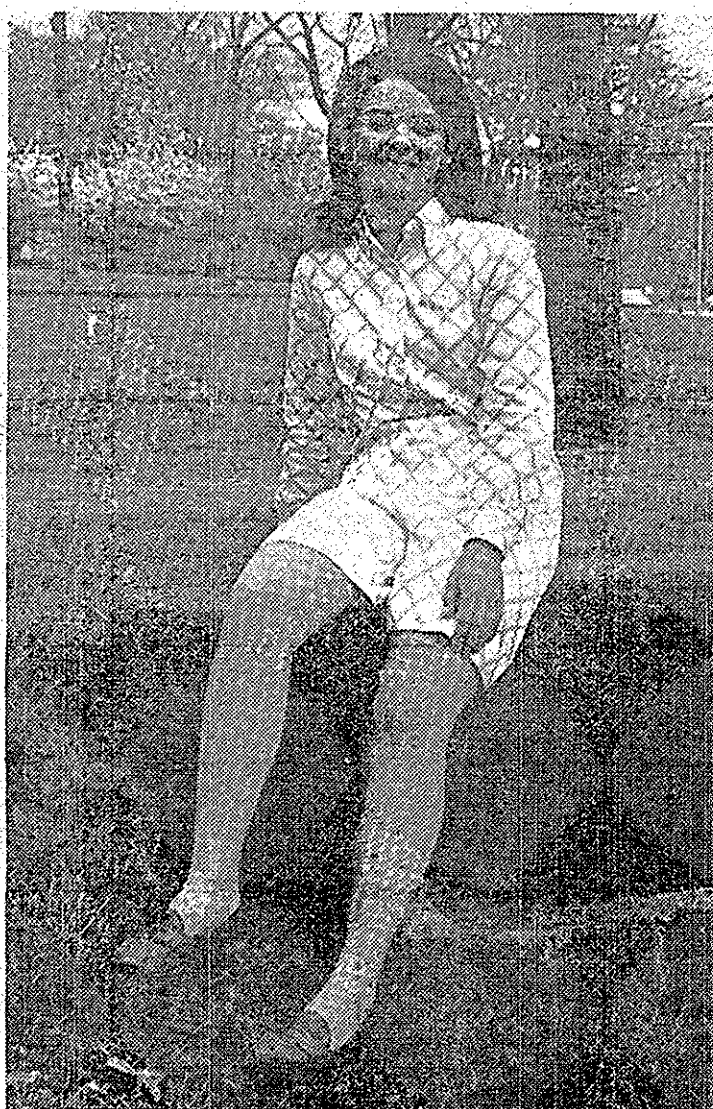

Culottes look just fabulous with chain belts and beads, and dangle earrings and all those other little trinkets we girls just love to put all over our little bodies.

The new square toe flings are just a natural match for the wonderfully informal culottes. And for those carefree afternoons sandals or (horrors) no footwear at all are rreally groovy!

So, girls, just between you and me, for a really fashion-safe summer, don't be caught without your culottes!

Letters to the Editor

As a graduating senior with only several more days remaining in my undergraduate education, I should like to take this opportunity to most graciously thank all of those who have made my stay at YSU so wonderful.

First, to the students: for incredibly bad manners above and beyond the call of duty; for stupidity and ignorance, do I hereby award the 1968 "Look at Me, I'm Picking My Nose" Annual Award.

Second, to the faculty: for dressing so magnificently throughout the year, I hereby bestow upon them the 1968 "Goodwill Industries Fashion Award".

Third, to those members of the faculty who see fit to flunk graduating seniors, and, in fact, brag about the number of students they fail, I hereby grant to them the "I'm Smarter than You Because I'm a Teacher Award" for 1968.

Fourth, to our administration, I confer the 1968 award for looking the other way and displaying the most repugnant attitudes with respect to academic freedom and student-faculty relations.

Fifth, to our cafeteria and bookstore, I gift the title of "Most Likely to Create Indigent Conditions Among Students" award, with a special citation to the cafeteria for its daily production of indigestion.

As a parting note, YSU has been both fun and intellectually amusing—as a legacy to those coming after me, I leave an inscription (to be found in the Kiltcawley first floor men's room): "Seek ye an education and thou shall have smarts."

A Graduating Senior
(Name Withheld by Request)

To the Editor of the JAMBAR,
Dear Sir:

Although I obviously have not observed college audiences on all campuses, I think it safe to state from my limited experience that the Youngstown student body at large must rank among the top contenders for being the most boorish, noisy, and ill-mannered audience. This is in reference to Professor Archibald MacLeish's visit to our university. It would seem that our student body views itself as having the inalienable right to exit and slam doors, to click and flash cameras, to scrape feet, blow noses, and cough out lungs—all of this whenever they wish and are so moved. And to be sure, they have this right. But what a rape of propriety and what a show of uncouth behavior. Doors can be prevented from slamming, feet do not have to shuffle, coughs may be stifled, etc. For some of us, courtesy and respect are yet to be learned. On the other hand, for those who stayed to the end and applauded this beautiful and gentle man (and many did), I say bravo to you. For you others, I say fie on you (with the hope that the printer spells this correctly).

To the Editor of the JAMBAR,

I would like to thank the person who, on May 11, in the Spring St. parking lot, put a note on my windshield informing me of the condition of the radiator on my car.

Also I would like to thank the gentleman who helped me to seal the leak temporarily, which enabled me to drive the car to a place where I had the hose replaced.

Thanks again.
Sincerely,
Helen B. Pachuta

The Rich Are On The March

—Chronicle Features
Arthur Hoppe

Formation of a Rich People's March on Washington has been announced by Mr. Putnam Abernathy, board chairman of the Wall Street investment firm, Putnam, Abernathy, Abernathy (cq) & Putnam.

"We are planning on caravans of limousines to Washington from all over the country," said Mr. Abernathy, a genteel zealotness glinting through his pince-nez.

"We will camp out at the Mayflower, the Hay-Adams and the Claridge until Congress and the Administration quit their stalling and give us rich people what we have so long demanded—specifically," said Mr. Abernathy, looking grim, "a ten per cent increase in our taxes."

The news that rich people have decided to take direct action should come as no surprise to readers of the financial pages.

For months, everytime the tax hike appeared likely of passage, the stock market has soared. And each subsequent time the legislation was stalled, the market plunged.

Financiers, big and small, have been demanding higher taxes. And that notorious firebrand, Federal Reserve Board Chairman McChesney Martin, has been inflaming Wall Street with rich-rousing (cq) oratory.

Nevertheless, the news of a Rich People's March on Washington will undoubtedly raise goose flesh in the Nation's uneasy capitol.

It's no secret that a Riot Control Center has already been set up in the bowels of the Pentagon. National Guard units have been alerted and combat-ready troops stationed within easy call.

Well-dressed businessmen can expect to be stopped and their attache cases searched—particularly those in the area of Capitol Hill or the White House. And insiders say that the FBI, the CIA and the Secret Service are keeping a close watch on such well-known rich people's hangouts as Sans Souci and the Jockey Club, for it is in these kind of places that agitators for higher taxes sow their seeds of dissent.

The first well-to-do pickets carrying placards saying, "Have a Heart, Congress—Raise My Taxes," will undoubtedly be met by swift police retaliation. And plans are reportedly drawn to clamp a dusk-to-dawn curfew on such pockets of plenty as Georgetown, Chevy Chase and other rich people's ghettos.

"These people have to learn that we'll never yield to such despicable pressure tactics," said on angry Congressman, summing up the capitol's mood. "And I say they ought to be horse-whipped out of town to teach them that lesson."

Oddly enough, the Rich People's March coincides with the long-scheduled Poor People's March on Washington.

Of course, the Poor People will undoubtedly be welcomed with open arms in Washington. After all, what they want is more jobs. And, unlike higher taxes, everybody's for more jobs.

As We See It—

THE BIBLE . . . in the beginning Genesis—Part I

by Dan Kutsko

In the beginning, God created Youngstown State University. And all was dark and void and there was an abyss. And in the dark the spirit of God moved over the campus and he said, "Let there be light." And so it was. Great mercury vapor lamps illuminated the darkness so God could see what he was doing. And there was evening and morning, the first day.

And then God said, "let huge buildings spring up all over the place and let these all be made of pink brick, that one might not be better than any other."

And so it came to pass.

And God saw that it was good.

Then God said, "let there be parking lots and trees and one-way streets."

And he created a greater light to rule the day and a security police to rule the night.

And there was evening and morning, the second day.

And God said, "Let there be a single fowl of the air to rule over this place." And he set this fowl in a garden of paradise between the library and the science building.

But God saw that it was not good for the fowl to be alone, and, casting a deep sleep over him, from the beak of his face took matter and created a being.

And he was called "Student."

And there was evening and morning, the third day.

And God looked over Youngstown State University which he had created, and all the furniture in it, and he saw that it was good.

Then, on the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh days he rested from all the work he had done.

And although you may gain admittance readily, you may not find getting out so easy, as required courses for graduation will not be offered.

And God expelled them from the ice-rink and they set to work.

Then God said to the waitress, "For doing this thing you shall wear a red and white suit and crawl the floors of the cafeteria all the days of your life. And you shall do this for meager wages and poor working conditions and no job security. For Lucifer shall be set over you to rule and spy upon you."

And so it came to pass that the beginnings of Youngstown State University were in this manner.

Next week: The sin of Frat and the Great Flood.

Correction

On page 3 of the April 26 edition, the article entitled "Upward Bound Helps 20 Boys Enter School" incorrectly stated that each student counselor would receive $60 a week.

According to Mr. Michael Klovsky, director of the project, each counselor will receive $75 a week. The Jambar regrets this error.
