YOUNGSTOWN STATE UNIVERSITY

VOLUME 46—No. 3

Needs Prexy OK—

Radio Show Soon

It now appears that radio will be a reality on this campus within the year. Dr. John Coffelt, Vice President of Administrative Affairs, stated that the proposed station could come about by Spring of 1969.

University officials are currently waiting to receive a final engineering report before completing an application to be filed with the FCC.

A preliminary report indicated that only one remaining F.M. channel, channel 203, is still available in this area.

Before an application is filed, Dr. Pugsley and the Board must approve the contents of the application, which include a preliminary format of the types of programs to be presented.

The programs planned will primarily be cultural. Sports, debates, lectures and news, will also be presented.

University officials must then prove to the FCC that a need for such programs exists in this community.

Deeply involved in the University's radio station plans is Mr. Stephan Greevich, an instructor in the Speech Department.

Mr. Greevich originally established the Struthers High F.M.

station and is currently working with Dr. Coffelt on the University project.

Mr. Greevich said that, with professional supervision, students will be able to handle all the aspects of radio programming such as, engineering, writing, broadcasting, and office work.

Equipment planned for the University station is all new and the latest available.

Plans call for an output of about 28,000 watts which exceeds WBBW's of 17,000 but is less than WKBN's 50,000.

Estimated cost for the facility is $117,000 which includes equipment, antenna, and office personnel expense for 12 months. The location on campus, as yet, has not been determined.

D'Onofrio Answers JAMBAR Charges

In response to a JAMBAR editorial (Tuesday, October 8) accusing Mike D'Onofrio, Acting Finance Chairman of the Student Council, of being "a tiny bit incompetent," D'Onofrio has replied that his actions are on the contrary, "a sign of competence."

D'Onofrio, in a letter to the JAMBAR, defended himself by stating: "I am to present typed copies of the budget for Council's approval. The duty of making the budget lies with the Secretary of Finance, Paul Hura, and I am to assist him in any manner he wishes."

In answer to what the editorial referred to as a "lack of preparation," D'Onofrio stated that the proposed budget "was made in the same manner that the last few years were."

D'Onofrio added, "I was instructed to check over $60,000 in allocations and that certain year-to-year accounts, totaling $15,000, would receive essentially the same amount that they had received last year." He declared that his procedure was in accordance with "the procedure used over the last several years," and pointed out that Council "objected to this and advised the Finance Committee to check ALL appropriation."

The wishes of Council were carried out, according to D'Onofrio, and "the budget will be presented at Monday's meeting."

In order to clarify future budget considerations, D'Onofrio said that he "proposed an amendment to the Constitution which would require all funded organizations to submit estimated operating budgets by no later than May to receive money." This fact, he pointed out, "was never mentioned" in the editorial.

2 Students Disciplined

Mr. William J. Gutknecht, chairman of the Discipline Committee, announced today a student has been expelled for the University for cheating on an exam in a Business Organization course. The student was caught copying answers from the exam of another student.

The action was taken June 7, after school closed. Ordinarily, such extreme penalties are not undertaken at first offense, Mr. Gutknecht said, but in this case the student was completely uncooperative and belligerent.

Another student, a freshman, charged with plagiarizing material for his Communication 507 term-paper, was given an "F" for the course and placed on disciplinary probation for a year.

Is This Face Familiar?

You may not know his name, but if you're a student, you can't help recognizing him. You've seen that smile a thousand times, everytime the old pad and pencil came out of his pocket. Of course, he's just a symbol.

A symbol of the thousands of tickets which have been written, the hundreds of cars that have been towed.

The man above is just about any man doing his job. It's just that there may be some question about the legitimacy of this particular job.

The North Central Board Report

Part II

This is the second in a series on the report made by the five member accreditation board of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools which visited this campus last April.

This section of the report deals with the organizational aspects of the University and with the morale of the faculty and program of instruction.

Organization

Board of Control

In this case, as in so many others these days, it is necessary to say boards of control since Youngstown State University has a board of trustees, and is also a part of the Ohio higher education system under a state board of regents. The Board of Trustees is charged by law with doing "all things necessary for the creation, proper maintenance, and successful and continuous operation of the University."

The Fourth Annual Report of the Ohio Board of Regents states that "... the Ohio Board of Regents is not a governing board for public higher education in Ohio but a planning and coordinating board." Later in the report it is pointed out that "The Master Plan of the Board of Regents cannot be a complete blue print for the operation of every individual college and university of Ohio whether publicly or privately sponsored. The Board of Regents has no such authority. The Board's task is to advise the Governor and General Assembly about legislation and appropriate matters affecting higher education and to make determinations about the chartering of community colleges and technical institutes, about the introduction of new degree programs."

An examination of minutes reveals that the two boards are functioning properly as policy makers for the University. A conference with Chancellor Millett in Columbus was also reassuring as to the supportive role of the state office.

In the past, too many persons reported directly to the President, but this situation is being rapidly corrected. In addition to a very able President, a Vice-President for academic affairs and a graduate dean are now in office. Both are good men and an administrative Vice-President has been appointed to take office before September. The financial affairs and plant management are in the hands of a capable and experienced business manager. Enough other appointments will be made in the near future to round out an effective University leadership team.

Voice of Cantrell

periodic comment from
YSU's Protestant force

Mr. Burton N. Cantrell, the Protestant Chaplain, writes a weekly faculty newsletter. The JAMBAR is reprinting Mr. Cantrell's letter of last week.

"People divide off vice and virtue as though they were two things, neither of which had with it anything of the other. This is not so. There is no useful virtue which has not some alloy of vice, and hardly any vice, if any, which carries not with it a little dash of virtue; virtue and vice are like life and death, or mind and matter - things which can not exist without being qualified by their opposite." Samuel Butler, The Way of All Flesh "Absalom was riding upon his mule, and the mule went under the thick branches of an oak, and his head caught fast in the oak, and he was left hanging between heaven and earth, while the mule that was under him went on." II Samuel 18:9

Long hair has been getting rebels into trouble for a good many generations, if we can put any stock in the old Bible story. Our modern campus rebels aren't the first generation to get hung up on untensured tresses.

I always picture Absalom as I saw him once in a German woodcut from the Sixteenth Century, dangling by his hair from the gnarled oak, the old Joab about to run him through with a spear. Absalom had rebelled against his father, King David, and Joab expected great rewards for putting him to death.

One is tempted to paint the parable to our times too clearly: our young men dangling between heaven and earth, the

Sports Scene

The Penguins' face the Pensacola Navy Goshawks Saturday afternoon in the home-opener at Rayen Stadium. The game promises to be a crowd-pleaser with the air filled with passes from both Klembara and Pensacola quarterback, All-America and Heisman Trophy winner Roger Staubach of Naval Academy fame. The former Midshipman is having a banner final season with the Pensacola squad. In four games he has completed 67 of 106 passes for 1,075 yds. and nine TD's. In addition he has added 90 yds. on the ground to give him a total offense of 1,165 yds.

Pensacola will bring a 4-0 record with them and YSU will be hoping to provide the hometown fans with a victory to avenge last year's 17-14 setback at Pensacola.

The aerial fireworks of the contest will be only part of the highlights of the afternoon game which is slated as the Second Annual Shrine tilt. The Youngstown Shrine club initiated the Shrine event last year and intends to make the event a regular part of the YSU home schedule.

perils and promises of contemporary history. One tempted to name those who hold the spears, and one is even tempted to name the asses who started the whole affair. But the parable is best left vague. Except for its ending).

David wasn't pleased with Joab. Absalom had been a rebel against everything his father stood for, but David loved him. "Would to God I had died for thee, O Absalom, my son, my son!"

David knew his own responsibility. He would have agreed with Samuel Butler. He knew his own faults, and a Psalm attributed to him sings, "Blessed is the man whose transgression is forgiven." In spite of all that had come between them, he loved his rebel son more than life itself. He loved him. That part of our parable should be left very clear.

Surpasses Expectations—

Enrollment Up 1500

This quarter's enrollment of 14,500 has surpassed the projected increase of 1,000 per-year by more than 500.

Although high schools graduated fewer students than in previous years, YSU is one of the few universities in the state with increasingly larger freshman classes. This fall, however, the year's advance enrollment was slow and the number of new freshmen is down slightly.

Despite these factors the registrar, Mary B. Smith said that she was confident that the final total would be 14,500.

She attributed this increase to the University's "holding power." The advanced programs and broadened curriculum provide more opportunities for students resulting in decreased withdrawals she explained.

Secondly, the 800 students enrolled in the University's Technical and Community College have affected the total. A continual enrollment increase is expected for this two-year program.

Enrollment in the new graduate school also has been a definite factor in influencing the final figures.

Although the University expected only 14,000 students, Vice-President Coffield said the increase of 500 could easily be handled.

Straight talk about your future at Ford Motor Company.

As a product engineer. You might walk in one morning and find this assignment on your desk: "Parking lots are places where people bang up car doors. Can you design a door that eliminates this problem?" Or you might be asked to solve cab vibration in semi-trailer trucks. Or design a unique approach to vehicle controls.

As a manufacturing engineer. You might find the following: "We're planning to build a bigger engine at our #2 plant. Could you engineer the changeover economically?" Or, you might be asked to determine the manufacturing feasibility of a new product idea.

As a marketing man. Today's problem might be: "Markets nobody else knew were there made Mustang and Thunderbird a success. Does the growing youth market offer a new potential?" Tomorrow you might be asked to probe the demographic characteristics surrounding multiple car purchases.

As a financial analyst. Today your assignment might require a background in foreign policy. "Currency in a Common Market nation is devalued. How can we protect our automotive investments on the continent?" Tomorrow, we might need an analysis of profit potentials.

Sound like the kind of assignments you'd like to tackle? Then join the Better Idea people at Ford Motor Company.

You'll get all the assistance you need to handle these and other complex assignments. Our people have a giant network of computers at their service. Complete research and testing facilities. The funds they need to do the job right. If you're looking for challenging assignments and the rewards that come from solving them, see our representative when he visits your campus. ## Council Highlights

by Rich Will, Vice-Chairman and Penny Laakso, Secretary

Student Council met Monday at 3:30 p.m. in room 22 of Tod Hall. The first item on the order of business was the seating of the following new members: Tom Sylvester (Lib. Arts), Suellyn Essad (Lib. Arts), Paul Schroeder (Bus.), Patty Richards (Educ.) and Bill Tusaie (R.A.L.). At the present time this leaves only one vacancy on Council.

Budget Disagreements

A tentative Student Council budget was submitted by acting Finance Committee chairman Mike D'Onofrio for an estimated $75,000. However, due to disagreements, the budget will be reviewed by Student Council members and again submitted at the next Student Council meeting. Final approval will come from the Student-Faculty Budget Committee.

Young Democrats

Jim Johns, representing the Young Democrats, was granted permission to organize and reactivate the former Y.S.U. Young Democrats.

Register Activities

Council would like to remind all organizations that every activity must be registered with the Dean of Women.

The Student Council office is located in room 108 of Kilcawley Student Center. It will be open Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 10:00-1:00 and also Tuesday and Thursday from 12:00-2:00.

Milky Way Showing at Planetarium

The Youngstown State University Planetarium has scheduled five public showings of its' current program, "Along the Milky Way."

The program will cover celestial objects which are found in the part of the sky commonly known as the Milky Way.

The galaxy will be shown as it appears from the Youngstown area and throughout the Northern and Southern Hemispheres.

The programs will be presented in the planetarium classroom in the Ward Beecher Science Hall at 2 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 10; 8 p.m. Friday, Oct. 11 and Saturday, Oct. 12; and Friday and Saturday, Oct. 18 and 19.

Reservations for the showings may be made by calling the planetarium between 10 a.m. and noon Monday through Friday.

There is no admission charge.

Grad School Birth Pangs Deliver 365 Registrants

by MINNIE COHEN
staff writer

The Graduate School one of the University's blessed events, the new baby you've been reading about since last spring, took its first breath this October with a howl of greeting to its 365 hopeful enrollees. A bright future can be expected with the spotlight on the new arrival here.

Pleasing Operation

"We are quite pleased with the situation in our first quarter of operation, due largely to the fine cooperation of the graduate faculty in evaluating the applications received and advising and registering the graduate students," declared Dr. Earl E. Edgar, Dean of the Graduate School.

"From mid-summer on, we permitted prospective students to file applications for admission. By the end of July, the graduate school was approved.

"We then began to evaluate the applications, with still more coming in until, by the quarter's beginning, we had received 558.

"The school accepted and admitted 430," he continued. "if which 365 registered for courses. The remaining 65 delayed entrance until a later quarter.

The M.S. in Education program has the greatest enrollment of the various graduate programs with 223 students working for that degree. The second largest number of students for a single program is in one of the engineering programs. Following these are the programs leading to an M.A., M.S. and M. Music.

Delta Nu Alpha, the honorary Transportation Fraternity will hold its first meeting of the year Wednesday, October 16 at 8:00 pm in the Pollack House. The main business of the evening will be the election of new officers.

Alpha Mu Rush Party

Alpha Mu, a national honorary business fraternity affiliated with the American Marketing Association, will have its fall rush party Thursday, October 17, at 9:30 p.m. in the Buckeye Room of Kilcawley Hall.

Students having night classes are invited to come in late.

All business students interested in joining should have a 2.55 accumulative grade average and a 3.00 in your major field.

Officers elected last spring will preside at the brief meeting which will precede the rush smoker.

"There are nine registered non-degree students. Four of these are transients: graduate students in good standing enrolled in another graduate school with permission to matriculate here.

Little Time

"The graduate school was afforded very little actual operation time after the preliminary accreditation—only a couple of months in which to get started," explained the Dean.

Dean Edgar issues a reminder that the Offices of the Graduate School have been moved from the Executive Offices to 218 Arts and Sciences Office Building, formerly the Valley Park Motel.

The graduate programs, which lead to an M.S. in Engineering, and an M.S. in Education, were given the preliminary accreditation by the North Central Association in July.

Several programs are detailed under each degree. These in Chemistry and Mathematics result in an M.S. Programs in English and History lead to an M.A.

Six Music Programs

In Music, six programs are involved: Applied Music, Woodwind or Brass specialization, Sacred Music, Music Education, Theory and Composition, and Musicology.

Four programs take care of Engineering: Civil, Mechanical, Electrical, and Metallurgical, leading to an M.S. in Engineering. Education also has four programs: Master Teacher-Elementary or Secondary, Principalship-Elementary or Secondary, School Guidance and Counseling, and Special Education for the Slow Learning Child.

A graduate catalog, published in August, lists the Administrative, Senior and Associate Members of the Graduate Faculty, including the most recent additions.

How to interview 170 companies in half an hour.

Just talk to the man from General Electric.

He represents 170 separate GE "companies" that deal in everything from space research to electric toothbrushes. And each of these product departments is autonomous. Each has its own management and business objectives.

So a job at General Electric offers the kind of immediate responsibility you might expect to find only in a small business.

Right from the start you get a chance to demonstrate your initiative and capabilities. And the more you show us, the faster you'll move ahead.

As you do, you'll find that you don't necessarily have to spend a lifetime working on the same job in the same place. We have operations all over the world. Chances are you'll get to try your hand at more than one of them.

Our interviewer will be on campus soon. If you're wondering whether it's possible to find challenging work in big business, please arrange to see him. He speaks for 170 "companies."

So if this column isn't obnoxious and smutty someone else is writing the column.

Glad to see that the two leagues for IFC football have been evenly matched once again with the powerhouse ZBT somehow ending up with the easiest league consisting of Theta Xi and Alpha Phi to mention the weaker opponents followed by Sig Ep's, Delta Sig's and Theta Chi. If everything goes right, ZBT has it figured that the Sunday they play Theta Chi that it will rain. Thus Theta Chi will have to use their black umbrellas throughout.

Your two trusty writers overheard a reliable source (ZBT Vice President Charles Daubner) in an exclusive interview state that if ZBT wins against Theta Xi that ZBT will flood the amphitheater with chicken soup and matzo balls. Let Theta Xi's try to beat that.

Speaking before an assembly of local Humphrey supporters, at the Ohio Hotel Wednesday, Robert A. Humphrey, 24, son of Presidential candidate Hubert Humphrey, related his father's support of a Representative Youth Council to serve as an avenue of communication and understanding for college students.

Humphrey, met and spoke with University students while speaking on behalf of his father's candidacy.

In an interview, the younger Humphrey revealed the details of the proposed Youth Council. Remarking that there is a need for a "changed relationship", Humphrey said, "Elected representatives from all of the nation's universities should be able to meet and discuss policy with the nation's leaders. My father is in support of such a forum."

Counseling Center Offers Advice

If you're still trying to find your class at the public library, or wondering if you'll receive an identification card before the football season ends, or even if you'd like to find a parking space within seven blocks of the campus, don't expect to find any help at the University Counseling Center.

But, if all these and the other aspects of campus life have you confused, fatigued, and utterly demoralized, the Counseling Center is probably the first place you should visit.

The Center, located on the first floor of Ford Hall, on the corner of Wick Avenue and Spring Street, offers professional advice to any student seeking vocational, educational, and personal counseling.

Testing services are also available and include vocational and interest, general intelligence, and special aptitude examinations.

Counseling formerly done by the faculty members with limited time and numerous other responsibilities, will now be managed by Dr. George E. Letchworth and Mrs. Mary Ann Dobrich.

An important difference between the counseling now offered and that offered in high school and in the past at YSU is that counseling at the new Center will be kept strictly confidential. No information is released to officers of the administration, to faculty members, to parents, or to outside agencies without the student's explicit advance authorization.

Supervision at the Center is not only competent, but also experienced.

Dr. Letchworth, the Counseling Director, came to Youngstown from the University of Pittsburgh where he was on the Counseling Center Staff and Assistant Professor of the Counseling Education. He did his undergraduate work at Bucknell University and received his Ph. D. in Clinical Psychology from the University of Pennsylvania.

Students wishing to make use of the Testing services available at the Center, need only make an appointment with the secretary at Ford Hall. Office hours are 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. All students are eligible for this ser-

The Yellow-Billed Wordpicker doesn't write words. It helps you remember them.

The Scripto Wordpicker is a marking pen that pinpoints names, gleans words, and highlights them all in bright yellow. You don't use it to write down the words you have to remember. You use it to write over them.

The Yellow-Billed Wordpicker. It reminds you how smart you should be. And for 49c, you shouldn't have to be Scripto reminded to buy one.

CRICKETEER

checks in something new in coordinates

This outfit bridges the gap between something dressy and something sporty. It starts with a three-button natural shoulder wool tweed blazer with patch and flap pockets, hook center vent, leather buttons, patterned lining, and matching pull-out pocket square. A color-mated wool check vest and matching belt loop slacks complete the outfit in style. Try it on in the Red Beam Room nearest you.

who's to blame?

Every year on this campus more buildings go up, more paths of virgin rock are lain, more muddy fields are covered with luxurious sod, and each year, as if it were a religious ritual, thousands of people, in hundreds of cars ride past those new buildings, paths and grassy knolls, eyes focused, minds alert, studying every detail. And they ride past not once, or twice, or even three times, but countless times.

Are these people who apparently thrive on studying our scenic campus architects, or pathfinders, or just strange critters with a thing for grassy knolls?

Not quite. Actually those people are you and I students, and we know we're not just in the scenery. We're trying to find someplace to park all those cars we're in.

Someplace where we can leave our cars for a few hours without having a ticket put under its windshield, or a tow truck hitched to its bumper. Somewhere to park for a few hours and then perhaps leave for a while, come back, and not find that we have to pay another twenty cents.

So we ride around—if the traffic permits, and lately that hasn't been often—and we look for someplace to park. And almost invariably our trips lead us nowhere, because the truth of the matter is that there is no free, or even reasonable, easily accessible place to park.

Every street is a no-parking zone, every lot is a twenty-cents-each-time-you-pull-out lot.

And so we all give in, one way or another. We either take our chances on a ticket or tow, or we park our cars for the day at twenty cents and leave them there, or we pay twenty cents two or three or four times a day, or ride with a friend, or we walk.

And everybody seems quite content with the situation—except the student.

So the time comes to ask who is to blame. Last year we cast the accusing eye at the City. This year, we look around and see that perhaps the monster is not named City alone. Just perhaps it is a two headed beast.

We'll leave you now to guess about that other entity. At least until the next paper.

If you haven't guessed by then, we'll tell you who we think it is.

Inside Out

1968: A Space Odyssey

by Dan Kutsko

These are the voyages of the star-car "Entrailprize," and its four year mission; to search out a place to park before your four years at YSU are over.

Stardate 103.68:

Captain Jerk and his first officer Mr. Spockski, who is half Polish and half Human, were preparing to beam down to the planet Ysu. Here they hoped to take advantage of the culteral and intellectual offerings of the Ysuites. The "Entrailprize" maintained a parking orbit above the planet and while the transporter room was being readied a serious problem became apparent. There was no place to park the "Entrailprize."

Stardate 104.68

With the ship still in a parking orbit, Scottkin, the engineer was preparing the transporter room. Mr. Spockski stopped in on his way to the bridge.

"Scotty. What a time have you got?"

"You've got a Flash Gordon watch, can't you tell for yourself?"

"Yes," said Spockski, "but mine only has twelve numbers on it, and I know it's past noon."

Before a perturbed Scottkin could answer, a call came over the interphone.

"Mr. Spockski to the bridge!"

On the bridge, Captain Jerk was standing next to his navigator, Mr. Nippo. They were watching the scanner. Slowly there appeared on the vast screen a squadron of the Ysuite Space Patrol, with its three wheeled, open space cruisers.

Captain Jerk spoke tersely. "Deflectors on maximim."

This was done. The Ysuites could now be clearly seen in their cockpits. They were all huge, with blue spacesuits and white helmets. "Ready phaser banks. All ahead, warp factor three."

"They're firing, sir!" said Nippo.

"Fire left Phaser bank!"

The bank fired, and the Ysuites disappeared from the screen.

"Jerk to transporter room, prepare to beam down two Scottkin." He turned to Spockski. "Let's go down and have a look at the surface."

And together they beamed down to get the full report on the parking situation.

Stardate 105.68

On the surface of Ysu, Jerk and Spockski has spent the night, due to the latter's poor spelling, in a warehouse. The two of them, diguised as college students, stole a car, parked it, and summarily got a ticket. This was before they got out of the car. They looked at the vast open spaces of Ysu and commented that there really should be more space to park.

Jerk decided that the mechanical population explosion of Ysu warranted, for it had outlived its usefulness and was completely out of control. The Three-wheeled space cruisers were not the answer. They decided to return to the ship.

"Scotty, Scotty, beam us up."

There was no answer. Unknown to Jerk and Spockski, the "Entrailprize" had been ticketed and towed away. They were doomed to spend the rest of their lives suspended in time, as fictitious students in a fictitious university on a fictitious planet.

The Accreditation Board

Until very recent years the faculty was not very much involved in the management of the University. This is now being changed and there is a good array of faculty committees. Not all of them have learned to function with full effectiveness. The University Curriculum Committee, for example, seems to approve almost every request that comes from a college. In the case of requests from the College of Arts and Sciences evidence that a proposed course served the purpose of some students from the Youngstown area was sometimes more persuasive than evidence that it belonged in a liberal arts college and that it was not duplicated elsewhere. This is especially serious since the College of Arts and Sciences, which carries out 69% of the instructional effort on the campus, is a mass of conglomerate parts; it seems lacking in unity and purpose. Faculty meetings should be held regularly, and the faculty should assume greater leadership in the direction of its own affairs.

The faculty Senate seems to be operating effectively and the plan for a graduate faculty and a graduate council elected by the graduate faculty appears sound.

Many of the committees have student members. Among the committees with student members are, Library (2) Calendar (3) Student Affairs (3) Health (2). There is, therefore, considerable opportunity for students to participate in decision making.

Curriculum

The program of studies is sound but rather conventional. Because the University is in a state of transition there is an excellent opportunity to develop bold and dramatic new approaches. There seems, however, to be little effort at exploring new approaches to learning, such as closed circuit TV, even though the University is heavily burdened with requirements that call for heavy commitment of faculty. There is evidence of recent planning along these lines, however, because the new engineering building is so equipped. The University should profit from its flexible position to introduce innovations rather than imitate programs in institutions that are handicapped by rigid traditions.

Quality of Instruction

The new administration is developing sound practice in faculty recruitment, retention and promotion with large reliance on the departments and the schools and colleges. A good start has been made on encouraging professional growth and development through a policy of sabbatical leaves, provision of travel expense and leaves for advanced study.

Academic freedom and tenure are well protected, including tenure for members of the faculty of the previous private university.

Faculty Morale

Morale of the faculty appears to be very good, but there is some feeling among the faculty that communication with the administration is difficult.

Salaries are competitive and are being improved and retirement provisions under the Ohio Teachers Retirement System are good. Full service faculty and other staff contribute 7% of salary and the University contributes a little over 11%.

Fringe benefits include Blue Cross, Blue Shield, Major Medical Group Life, and remission of "instructional fees" for faculty and their families.

Office facilities are very uneven, ranging from what could almost be called plush to very crowded. The situation is generally recognized and progress is being made in improving the bad situations.

Faculty service loads are very heavy and are regulated within the departments. The introduction of graduate work will necessitate a review of the situation and an adjustment of loads.

The third installment, which will appear in Tuesday's edition of the JAMBAR, deals with the committees view on Student Life, Counseling, and Student Achievement at the University
