Debate Team Captures 2nd, Third Places

Speaking October 25 and 26 at Manchester College, North Manchester, Indiana, the Varsity Debate Team compiled 5-1 and 4-2 won-loss records and captured 2nd and third places trophies for their efforts.

The four-man team comprised of Bill McDonough and Tom Zena arguing the affirmative and Ted Cackowski and Jim Lanz, arguing the negative, debated against universities representing the entire midwest.

The Novice four-man team comprised of Harry Krell, Larry Slifka, Candy Brill and Shelley Solomon compiled a 4-4 record, breaking even in the tournament.

All Freshmen women students who have not met with Dean Painter, please stop in the Dean of Women's office Jones 210 and fill out a personnel folder. This also applies to transfer women students.

Review Mag Is Seeking 2 Positions

Application for editor, business manager and editorial staff of the Penguin Review are now being accepted by Mrs. Jean Kelly, Penguin Review Faculty Advisor, in Room 320 in the Arts and Sciences office building.

Applications should include qualifications, name, address and phone number.

Wholehan:

Council Acted Unjustly

by Mark Shutes

(Editor's note) Michael Wholehan was recently relieved of his duties as Secretary of Major Events because he lacked the necessary 2.5 accumulative point average. He was, however, permitted to carry out his advisory duties for the Homecoming weekend before being ousted. Yesterday, Wholehan was interviewed in the JAMBAR office, and he voiced some very candid opinions about the actions of Student Council in their decision to maintain the 2.5 requirement.

It was a very tired Michael Wholehan who walked into the office today. Tired, and even a bit dejected, for he had just completed a long and hard weekend and had very little to show for it. Despite the fact that he was the force behind what proved to be the best attended Homecoming in recent history, he was out of a job.

"I felt the action of Student Council in removing me was unjust," said Wholehan, "for I don't think that my lack of a 2.5 average (Wholehan has a 2.39) has hindered my effectiveness as Secretary."

He went on to say that his point average had, in fact, risen since he joined Major Events last year.

"I had a 2.18 when I joined," he said, "and since then, I've brought it up to a 2.39."

When asked about the future of the Major Events Committee, he stated that he believed he had acquired a great deal of experience as Spring Weekend coordinator and Events Secretary, and that he would remain on the Committee to aid the yet-to-be-appointed new Secretary.

Wholehan added that he hoped Council would reconsider their decision to keep the 2.5 requirement, for he felt that it deprived a lot of capable students from the right of becoming involved in Major Events.

He thanked the entire Committee for their support throughout the weekend, especially the Coordinator, Howard E. Zecher, and also pointed out that this Homecoming weekend netted the Council budget $4,000, which will be applied to the upcoming weekends and special concerts.

As Wholehan left, this reporter couldn't help feeling a little sorry for him, for he had worked so hard, and, because of one-tenth of a point, could no longer hope to continue.

Says Not Authorized—

Napalm Leaflets Halted

Three members of the Community of Concern were forced to stop distributing literature on "the nature of napalm" to students who had interviews with representatives of the Dow Chemical Company in East Hall yesterday at 3:30.

Paul H. Cress, Chief of the Campus Security, stated that the students were evicted because they did not have the proper authorization to be distributing literature, and because Mr. Alfred J. Minotti, Director of Placement Services, complained that the students were disturbing the interviews which were going on in second floor offices by making too much noise.

A spokesman for the group, Patty Orr, stated that she had arrived at the site moments before the security guards, and that she was not aware of a great deal of noise at that time. The lobby is generally occupied by students who use a large table there for studying and congregation.

Miss Orr stated that there were other students in the vicinity at the time of Chief Cress' arrival.

Last week the Community of Concern experienced trouble regarding their status as an organization when President Pugsley questioned the fact that the organization, which had formerly been the Students and Faculty for Peace, did not apply for a new charter after the name change, and a general expansion of aims.

This was cleared up when the group agreed to apply for a new charter immediately, and Vice-President Coffield gave them permission to carry on with their activities - a Homecoming float and sponsoring Virgil Musser, a democratic candidate for congress in an address today, which they had planned.

The distributing of literature was not mentioned at that time. The President of the Community of Concern, James Hagan, stated that he had cleared the distribution.

5th Skeggs Lecturer—

Parkinson Soon

A noted humorist, author, lecturer, historian, and educator, Dr. Parkinson is a man who has been able to deal with the seeming trialities of life and come to some solidified conclusions.

C. Northcote Parkinson, the often hilarious, but astute, analyst of the laws governing business operations will present the fifth in the University's series of Skeggs Lectures on Friday, November 1.

As the former of "Parkinson's Law," he explains how work expands so as to meet the time and personnel available for its completion. In this book, "In-laws and Outlaws," he explores corporate climbing through such methods as marrying the boss's daughter.

Professor Parkinson's lecture will be held in Stambaugh Auditorium at 8:30 p.m. Tickets are available at the Public Relations Office, Offices of the Deans, Admissions Office, Student Council Office and the Kilcawley Lounge. Tickets, however, are not necessary for admission.

Music on Campus

by Nick DeToro

Students are beginning to get into the swing of things-musical. Up-coming performances, homecoming games, Jazz concerts—the whole bit!

This past Thursday afternoon, the first "general student recital" was held in the Dana Recital Hall. Although poorly attended by both faculty and students alike, the two performers, Judy Darling, pianist, and Joan Jacobs, soprano, were excellent, even at such an early date in the quarter. Perhaps in the future even the piano department will show to hear a piano recital.

Nevertheless the brass and woodwind people were well occupied preparing for the weekend's homecoming game at Rayen Stadium. Their effort was well worth the miserable weather and the defeated football team.

The marching band, under the direction of Mr. Fleming, was terrific! Sound was exciting and quite musical, while the marching was precise! May I say a word to those students who seem disappointed with the band's preference in facing the older crowd at football games: that's where the people are! Where were you? Yours truly was "hurt" that his long hoped-for performance of the YSU Alma Mater was cut from the half-time activities at the last minute, but who can compete for time with a hand-shaking penguin?

Of course, the majorettes, Judy Mack and company, although cold and shivering, made an impressive sight with their dance routines to a Latin-tempoed medley of "Moon

Butler School

The first of a planned series of educational and recreational projects, sponsored by the Circle K service organization, was held Saturday, October 19.

Six members of Circle K directed twelve students from The Butler School for Retarded Children in a day of conversation and recreation.

The Butler School students are aged 15 to 24.

The Circle K members feel that the first project proved very successful and hopes to include the school in future service project plans.

River", "Fly Me to the Moon", and "More".

Opera anyone? The Opera Workshop people are getting ready to hold auditions for Johann Strauss' operetta, "Die Fledermaus". There will be two auditions, Thursday, Oct. 31 from 4:00 to 5:00 p.m., and Tuesday, Nov. 5, same times, at the Dana Studio Building—that's the old gray house north of Buechner Hall.

From a flyer: "All voices are needed for principal roles. Persons auditioning for principal roles should be prepared to sing an aria or song appropriate to its advantage....Bring your own accompanist."

Twenty voices are needed for the chorus—equally distributed among S-A-T-B. Those interested please see Dr. Vogel, (Dana Recital Hall), immediately."

Lastly, the brothers of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia Professional Music Fraternity, trying to overcome a financial defeat in bringing a big jazz band to town last Spring, (they were responsible for all the Count Basie music that was all over campus last year), are organizing their own group for a concert to be held as soon as a program is in shape.

This year, however, a little bit of everything will be offered: jazz—big name and small ensemble—, soul, rock, soft rock, (Four Seasons type thing), and perhaps even some contemporary "classical" stuff, the kind of music that education majors try and learn to appreciate in the excursions to Dana's listening rooms. But as far as the bands are concerned, if any non-Sinfonians, anywhere on campus would like to play good sounds, especially sax/or trumpet and bone, make yourselves known at the instrument room in Central Hall.

All this may succeed in putting the Dana Artists' Series out of commission.

Brown Retires—

Diederick New Chairman

Mr. Terry Diederick has been appointed Chairman of the Merchandising Department following the retirement of Mr. McKinley Browne. Mr. Diederick has been an instructor in the Business school for five years, and for the past year has been in training for his new position.

Mr. Diederick studied business administration at Ohio State University and Youngstown State, and received his Masters degree from New York University. He plans to begin work on his Doctorate there next summer.

Mr. Diederick stated that the Doctorate degree in Business Administration is relatively rare; there are approximately 500 given each year in the United States. This shortage, plus the stiff competition, accounts in part for the fact that there is only one Ph.D. in the Business Department here.

The department does have a staff of 8 full-time instructors and 15 part-time lecturers. These are business professionals drawn from the Youngstown area, and are thus able to give valuable, practical pointers concerning the world of business.

When Mr. Diederick was a student here he was a member of Alpha Mu, business honorary fraternity. Presently he is serving as their advisor. Alpha Mu is the oldest honorary on campus, and has recently become affiliated with a national business organization, the American Marketing Association.

This affiliation will enable Alpha Mu members to participate in a program entitled Intro '69. Meeting in 8 major cities across the U.S., this program will

GREEK NEWS

By Huck and Schmuck

We would first like to congratulate the Major Events Committee on their outstanding job this weekend with Homecoming festivities. We would like to give special recognition to Mike Wholehan, Phi Sigma Kappa and Howard Zecker, Sigma Alpha Mu, for all their hard work.

We hope everybody enjoyed this weekend because Huck and Schmuck did. Friday night we attended the stupendous weiner-roast in the parking lot. We then followed the yellow brick road to the Chuck Joseph Memorial Dormitory for underprivileged Lebanese Lovers where we attended a sock hop decorated smartly in Early Viet Cong Camouflage.

We hope everyone enjoyed the concert Sunday night. The winner of the "Schmuck of the Week" award goes to the girl who jumped up on the stage Sunday night.

Engaged:
Shamel Rushmin (ZBT) to Sherry Kish.

Pinned: Bill Weimer (SAM) to Sally Novicky (AOP).

Congratulations to all organizations who entered floats in the Homecoming Parade. Especially to Alpha Phi Delta, first place winner, Sigma Phi Epsilon, second place and theta Xi, third place.

YSU Challenged

Five of the top players of the Youngstown State University Chess Club are issuing a challenge to the entire school as a part of the membership drive, it was announced today by the Chess Club President David A. Rosenberg.

The tournament will be held October 30 in the Cardinal Room of the Kilcawley Student Lounge at 4:00 p.m.

Anyone interested in either joining the chess club or participating in the school challenge, please write your name and telephone number on a piece of paper and drop it off with the receptionist at Kilcawley Student Lounge.

The club's membership drive will last through the weeks of October 28 and November 4.

Anyone is eligible to join and some of the better players will be on hand to instruct those who decide to join.

Activities of the club will include chess tournaments in Chicago and New York and several parties.

Membership dues for a year are $3.00.

Stipends Granted—

YEF Aids Faculty

The Youngstown Educational Foundation has announced that it will grant supplementary stipends to married full-service faculty members who are given a leave of absence to pursue their doctorate degrees. The stipends will be granted upon recommendation of the President of the University.

For persons granted a leave for one quarter the amount will be $750, for two quarters, $1,500, and for three quarters $2,250. A ten percent supplementary will be given for each minor child or legal ward of the doctoral candidate.

The stipend is subject to the same conditions of repayment that are required for the leave and does not allow for the married faculty member to live in the Youngstown area during the time a supplementary payment is being made.

Unmarried faculty members are not expected to be eligible for the stipend under normal circumstances.

NEON News

The NEON asks that all fraternities and sororities please select one of their members as a NEON representative, who will serve as a contact with them for any future information they may need.

The first meeting for these representatives will take place at 7 p.m. Thursday, October 31, in the NEON office.

Fraternity and Sorority sign-ups for for Greek pictures are currently in progress and will continue through November 1. If Greeks fail to get their pictures taken, they will be omitted from this year's NEON.

The appointment schedule for pictures is posted next to the Student Council office door in Kilcawley. Greeks are requested to be on time for their pictures.

All Greek seniors must sign up for their senior pictures as well.

ITALIAN CLUB BAKE SALE

The Youngstown State University Italian Club is sponsoring a bake sale to be held on October 30 from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Strouss Auditorium. Many homemade Italian pastries will be available.

The bake sale is one of several projects planned to enable the club to sponsor service programs and social functions.

The club studies American-Italian culture and aspects of world affairs as they concern Italy and the American-Italian culture. They welcome any students interested in the Italian Club to inquire about it at the bake sale.

NAPALM LITERATURE HANDOUTS STOPPED

tribution of the leaflets Friday with the Student Council Advertising Chairman, Rick Brienza, and that he (Hagan) believed this was all that was necessary.

Dr. Coffield, however, stated that such action as distributing materials must be cleared through the administrative offices and through the Dean of Women.

Miss Orr stated that two security guards had approached her and another C of C member shortly after nine o'clock A.M. when they began distributing the literature, and informed them that they would have to leave the second floor of East Hall where job interviews are conducted, since they would be considered loitering there.

However at three-thirty the second complaint, this one concerning the noise was made, and by the noise was made, and by this time Chief Cress had checked and found that the group did not have the permission of Dean Painter's Office.

Chief Cress stated that the Community of Concern members left peacefully, stating that they might try to get the proper permission to carry on distributing the leaflets for the rest of the day. This was not done.

A university security guard was stationed in the building until after the Dow Chemical job recruiters had left.

Editorial Comment—

Student Politics

An interesting divergence from Student Council procedure occurred at their Monday meeting. Where normally, Council members do not discuss the manner of Council operation, two members principally castigated Council for its recent procedure.

Paul Dutton, representing the College of Arts and Sciences, indicted Council members for not taking a "more informed attitude" toward Council business.

In an interview following Council's meeting, Dutton discussed Council procedures. Qualifying the indictment he made earlier, Dutton pointed out that "sixty per cent of the Council members don't consider the proposal being argued." When asked for recommendations that would rectify the problem, Dutton suggested that Council members should "talk to their constituencies... (they should) find out what they want."

Dutton further suggested that Council members should "research all of the alternatives." This, Dutton asserted, would better prepare Council members for the meetings.

A more vehement viewpoint regarding Council reform was taken by Rich Will, Council Vice Chairman. Speaking before Council, Will stated, "Council is not doing its job. No one knows what they are doing." Reached by telephone later yesterday, Will elaborated on his own position. Admitting his own guilt, Will pointed out that "100 per cent of the Council members are not doing their jobs."

Referring to the platforms that some of the members ran on, Will asserted that "members should do what they said they would do when they ran for office." Suggesting that many Council members do nothing but vote on the proposals, Will stated that, "Council should take the initiative and create something."

In particular Will referred to the parking problems, asserting that Council should have taken the initiative, as opposed to relying on the JAMBAR.

Following Council's meeting, Chairman Bob Zirafi and Council Advisor, Mrs. Christine Dykema, were asked for their reactions to Dutton's and Will's statements. Although both said that the statements somewhat exaggerated the situation, Mrs. Dykema expressed the belief that "outside factors" must share the responsibility for Council's confusion.

In particular, Mrs. Dykema referred to the fact that the present form of government is new to Council and that many Council members are not familiar with the functioning of student government. However, Mrs. Dykema supported Dutton's and Will's statements to the extent that "Council does not anticipate problems that are likely to arise, and that Council has the tendency to 'close the barn door after the horse has run away.'" Zirafi agreed with Mrs. Dykema's appraisal of Council.

One reaches some sort of an impasse when the only information available for consideration is the conventional wisdom of Council members and advisors. Further, one can only hope that the concerns expressed by Dutton, Will, and Zirafi will be translated into programs that can change dialogue into action. Talk, actually is not cheap. It often precedes the formulation of programs and often is used as the instrument of communication that first establishes the programs and secondly administers them.

Thus, one can only commend those Council members who have introduced the idea of reform and can only encourage the translation of ideas into action.

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor of the JAMBAR:

In response to the letter from senior Charles E. Scholten in the Letters to the Editor column, may I make the following statement:

The Youngstown State University Band is now, and to my knowledge, has always been for the students of Youngstown State University. Mr. Robert Fleming, its director, called together those interested in this ensemble before school started and had a tremendous response in having them available for three long, hard days of training prior to the beginning of school. These were not personal ambitions on the part of the band of Mr. Fleming, but they were ambitions aimed at the finest possible group we could have representing Youngstown State University. This group of men has tremendous morale and they and the director go to great effort under the most trying circumstances to present to Youngstown State University students, and faculty and guests, and alumni as well, the finest possible half-time entertainment that time will permit them to do.

In the Shrine event the half-time was limited in order to make time available for the Shrine presentations. The show was geared to what we could do in approximately five minutes that would show the band at its best to our audience. A football field is not an ideal stage and could be compared somewhat to the theatre in the round, in that backs are always going to be somebody as the performance goes on, and quite obviously this somebody has the full right to assume that this is disrespectful, but the performer makes every effort to remain respectful in whatever presentation is made. For the past five years, I was the director of the YSU Band and I can recall every occasion in which a chairman of Homecoming spoke to me about the half-time, and his major concern was always, "How can we make the setup so that the maximum number of people can see?" We have done this each time and, as I have stated, each time the committee has been very aware of this. As we are permitted more time so that we can do a portion of the show to both sides of the field, we will solve this problem, but I hope that the readers of this column will understand that time, so far at least, has prevented this.

May I state further in regard to my opening statement that this is for and of the Youngstown University student body. Student Council has continually given its support to the YSU Band's activities and this support is greatly appreciated. Without such support it is doubtful that the band would have reached the quality that it is today—truly one of Ohio's finer University bands.

Econ Honorary

The YSU Department of Economics is now in the process of organizing Omicron Delta Epsilon, honor society in Economics. The ODE is a national honor society with 117 chapters and over 28,000 members.

Membership in the fraternity has considerable advantages to the university, faculty members, and the students. To be accepted in this society one must have at least a 3.0 accumulative average and at least 12 hours of economics with a 3.0 average. Acceptance is considered an honor and does not conflict with any other organizations.

Interested students may apply by completing the attached form and returning it to Dr. T. Kermani, Department of Economics at the Arts and Sciences Offices (Valley Park Motel). The meeting date will be announced at a later date.
