Franken Says-

'Petition is Dead'

"Your petition is dead," stated First Ward Councilman, John Franken, Wednesday night after the City Council ordinance, because I am blocking such a move."

Only minutes before Franken had finished an address to the city council in which he explained why he felt the City should not open up the streets surrounding the University for student parking.

Mr. Franken followed three area residents who opposed the change in parking regulations. In his statement Franken stated that there has been a great amount of "misunderstanding" in the past, and that Council has been accused of "not doing its job" by not remedying the parking situation in the University area.

Mr. Franken stated that this was not true, and that he had documents proving that the City and Federal government have spent several million dollars for the expansion of the University.

"This City and this administration," stated Franken, "have done everything reasonably possible to help the University with all of its problems."

Mr. Franken stated that private industry in the area is not permitted to use on the street parking and that the cost of providing parking facilities for their employees has been considerable. He added that these industries pay taxes, and that the University is not taxed in any way.

In closing, Mr. Franken stated that society "owes the individual an education, and everything that goes with that education, but not parking."

Later in the meeting, when various council members were asked for closing comments before adjournment, Franken stated that to clarify matters, he is not disappointed in Youngstown students, and thinks that they are among the finest in the nation.

After the meeting, Mr. Franken told Jambor Editor Mark Shutes that he would investigate the feasibility of opening up the one block of Bryson Street from Lincoln to Spring for one side of the street parking, since this land is directly in front of the University and could in no way directly affect his constituency.

Mr. Franken also stated that the parking restrictions on Spring St. were originally meant to be temporary due to the construction of the Madison Avenue Expressway and the fact that School Buses for Ursuline High School had to use Spring Street during the construction.

He stated that this would also be investigated as soon as the planned street connecting Wick and Bryson at a point North of Spring Street was completed.

4 Points Suggested

Hill Offers Solutions

Wednesday night, after the regular session of the City Council meeting, Mr. David Hill, City Urban Renewal Director, offered four alternative solutions that could be implemented immediately to ease the parking situation in the university area.

Hill explained that the problem was one that rested within the realm of university responsibility and not with the city. Consequently one or more of the following four solutions would have to be initiated by the university administration, stated Hill.

Mr. Hill's four suggestions are:

1. The university could lease land that the city owns on McGuffey Road for parking areas and run a shuttle-bus service to the campus on an hourly schedule.

2. The university could lease land that the city owns on Federal Street for parking purposes. Students could then walk the four blocks to campus.

3. The university could initiate a complete survey of all the available, legal on-street parking areas already existing. The results of this study be made available to the student body for their use.

4. The university could hire more men to run the existing parking lots to make them run more efficiently. More entrances and exits to these lots could be added, and the students could be watched more closely to see that they park closer to each other to make more parking space available.

Hill stated that at a meeting last Friday the suggestion was made to Security Chief Paul Cress that an extra man be put on duty at the school parking lots during the peak parking hours (8 - 10) to facilitate entry to the lots. Hill added that Cress refused to do this, because it would be too much to pay the additional parking lot attendant.

Quinn Answers-

Story Is Slanted

Vindicator reporter Larry Quinn, in a discussion with Jambor Editor Dennis Mangan after the Wednesday City Council meeting, stated that he would not deny that there was a "possible" slant to his article in the Saturday Vindicator.

The article in question was one which reported the lack of student interest in the meeting which was held in City Hall last Friday morning, "without the attendance of student leaders."

Quinn stated that he had a deadline to meet when he submitted the story to his editor, and did not feel that it necessary or vital to the story that he attempt to contact the missing students concerning their reasons for not attending the meeting.

Although the story was not eventually printed until the next day, Quinn stated that his editor did not ask him to update it nor did he volunteer to do so. After filing the story Friday, Quinn had returned to the meeting for a few minutes and did see that two more students had arrived quite late.

"I don't care why you came an hour and twenty minutes late," said Quinn, "and I didn't have to know for the story."

Shortly before, Quinn had refused to continue a conversation with Jambor Editor Bill Weimer. Weimer asked him if he (Quinn) planned to submit a supplementary article to cover the one which appeared Saturday, since he had resorted to, in the article, "irresponsible journalism and gross misrepresentation of the facts." This apparently raised Mr. Quinn's ire, and he refused to continue the discussion. After admitting his bitterness toward Mr. Weimer, Quinn continued his discussion with Mangan on a slightly more rational plane.

After an exchange of remarks concerning journalistic responsibility, Quinn asserted, "You college students think you're better than anybody else, don't you. Well, don't you!" Then he flatly stated that he felt that since he had to pay for parking space, everybody else should, too.

The discussion was terminated at this point by Quinn's colleague who impressed Quinn with the necessity of their leaving.

Financial Aid Office—

4000 Students Get Money

More than four thousand students at the University will receive in excess of four million dollars worth of aid this year, it was announced Wednesday by Col. John E. Wales III, Director of Financial Aids.

These aids will take the form of scholarships, grants-in-aid, loans, employment, and GI Bill benefits.

Many of the scholarships are made available by the Youngstown Educational Foundation, stated Col. Wales. Other scholarships are offered by various individuals, organizations, corporations and other groups.

Scholarships are awarded on the basis of the student's academic achievement. The amount involved is relative to the student's financial need, and no repayment is necessary.

The most common grant-in-aid program is the Federal Educational Opportunity Grant Program. Students who have exceptional financial need are eligible for this aid. The program is essentially a matching fund in that its grant cannot exceed fifty percent of the total aid received by the student.

Grants in this program usually range from two hundred to eight hundred dollars.

Prominent among the loan programs is the National Defense Student Loan. The University joins the Federal government in providing loans totaling up to five hundred dollars. Students repay these loans, after leaving school, at a very low interest rate.

Another loan program, used extensively by Pennsylvania students, is the Guaranteed State Loan. Its terms are comparable to those of the NDSL.

More than three hundred students are presently employed on campus. Among other areas, the work in the offices, laboratories, library, cafeteria and on the maintenance crew. Full-time students are limited to twenty hours per week while others may accumulate forty hours.

Among other aid programs at the University are the College Work-Study Program, the Nursing Student Loan Program, and the Law Enforcement Education Program. Students qualifying under the GI Bill are also eligible for aid from the Veterans' Program.

Students interested in aid programs obtain the proper forms from the Office of Student Financial Aids in Jones Hall. Applications for the following year should be submitted before the first of April.

Students presently receiving aid should remember that they are to reapply annually.

Student Poem Published in Nat'l Mag

George Richard Sheets, senior, majoring in English, has had a poem "Summer Sleet" published in the forthcoming anthology of College Student's Poetry.

The anthology, published biennially by the National Poetry Press of Los Angeles, California, is a compilation of the best of over thirty thousand manuscripts submitted for this edition.

Last year Mr. Sheets' poem THE SNOW'S TOO COLD TO GO BAREFOOT appeared in the spring volume published by the same press.

He has had a number of poems published nationally. Two appeared in Poetry Parade last year, one in Pegasus, an anthology made up of the best poetry received by the National Poetry Press from 1964-1968, as well as university publications and various newspapers.

Les Bons Vivants, the YSU French Club, will hold a bake sale from 9:30 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. Friday November 22, in Strouss Auditorium.

Student Politics

The nature of this column has been to report and analyze the actions of the Youngstown State University Student Government. Continually, this column has intended to capture the mood, style and methods maintained by Student Government members. If Student Politics has attained any measure of success, it has done so by giving light to a representative body whose actions are not closely observed by the student body.

The full and part time students of Youngstown State University are now in the position where they must express their judgement of the Student Government. They will do so by voting into office, those candidates who represent their interests and what they believe to be the interests of their school.

Through the efforts of Student Council, Circle K and the JAMBAR, the student body should have available to them ample opportunity to survey the candidates and judge accordingly.

In this regard, Greg Bednarik, Council Elections Committee Chairman has announced that all of the candidates for office (or their representatives) will be available for discussion in the Strouss Auditorium during election hours. At this time, Bednarik stated, the student body will have a chance to question the candidates prior to voting.

A more formal program has been scheduled by the Circle K service organization. They will stage an Open Forum Friday in Strouss Auditorium to allow candidate the opportunity to make a statement and be questioned by the students.

And further, the JAMBAR has adopted a policy whereby students running for Student Government and Senior Class offices will be encouraged to express their views in writing and the JAMBAR will, within pre-determined limits, print their statements.

Due to the confusion which arises when handwritten copy is submitted, beginning today the Jambar will not accept club or activity announcements or letters to the editor unless they are typewritten and triple spaced.

At the time an announcement is submitted to the Jambar an Announcement Form MUST be filled out. This will be necessary for every announcement even though a club may regularly submit announcements.

Deadlines for announcements are 3:00 p.m. Monday for the Tuesday paper and 5:00 Wednesday for the Friday paper.

Cohen Speaks—

C of C Meet

The Community of Concern will hold its weekly seminars at 12 noon and 1 p.m. Friday, November 22, in the Buckeye Room.

Mr. Sylvan Cohen, relocation director of the Youngstown Urban Renewal Program, will speak about several of the attitudes he believes are common to the families that are being relocated in such projects.

Mr. Cohen hopes to present an accurate and impartial picture of the problems surrounding family relocation, said Jim Joyce, spokesman for the Community of Concern.

The C of C attended a discussion and platform hearing of the Coalition of Student Rights yesterday. The candidates were not making election promises, as have past candidates, but were only trying to raise the issues in the campaign, said Joyce.

The discussion, he added, revolved around the "smear tactics being used against the Coalition which has been labeled 'anti-Greek' because they announced that Student Council is 75 percent Greek-run in contrast to the student body which is only 5 percent Greek."

AID Sponsors Christmas Exchange-Visit Seminar

The Agency for International Development (AID) of the State Department will sponsor YSU's second annual exchange-visitation seminar entitled "Community Dynamics" December 22-29, Mrs. Edna K. McDonald, assistant professor of sociology and international student adviser announced yesterday.

The Agency also will award two scholarships to the eight-day seminar each amounting to $16 per day. Six dollars per day will be forfeited for registration, food etc.

Any American students wishing to apply for the two scholarships should submit a short essay on their reasons for wanting to participate by 12 noon, Thursday, December 13, to Mrs. McDonald in East Hall.

To be eligible for the scholarships a student must be willing to reside during the eight-day program in Kilcauly dormitory, which will house all the participants, and must be available to participate in all the AID activities.

Youngstown State University is one of 35 centers throughout the United States chosen to participate in the AID exchange-visitation program. The program was designed to introduce the international students to the community's various industries, cultures, politics, social life and problems, mass media, and redevelopment and renewal programs, said Mrs. McDonald.

She added that the program also was designed to enrich the international students' educational experiences.

Last year the University was invited to participate on a trial basis, Mrs. McDonald said. The seminar program was so successful, she added, that the State Department invited the University to participate again this year.

African students participated in the exchange program, said Mrs. McDonald.

Field trips will be made to an industrial research center, the University's planetarium, the Butler Art Institute, the Arms Museum, a television station, the General Motors plant and other area places of interest.

Students chosen to participate in the AID program will be notified by December 18.

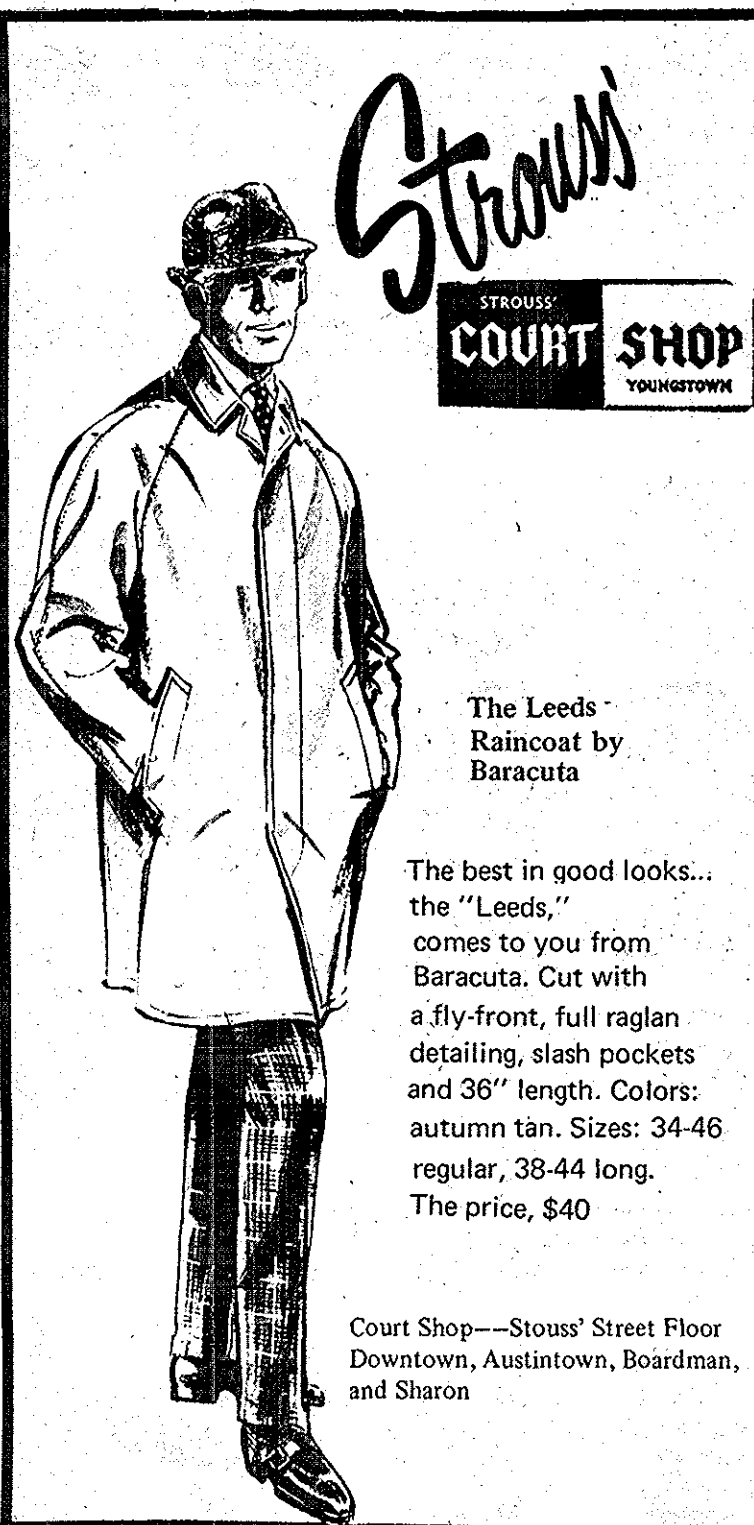

Additional information concerning the program can be obtained from the International Student Office on the first floor

ELECTIONS ELECT

Candidates Speak

In keeping with the new policy announced in a previous edition, the Jambar has solicited statements and answers from the candidates for Student Council and Senior Class Offices.

Candidates for Student Council were asked to list their qualifications for the office they seek, make a general statement on their candidacy, and answer the following question: 1) Does Student Council represent the interests of the YSU student body? If not, what areas are not being represented?

Candidates for Senior Class Offices were also asked to list their qualifications, make a general statement regarding their candidacy.

Cathie Baxter
Office Sought: Student Council
School: Education

Qualifications:
High School Student Council Rep. (3 years); National Honor Society; Commencement Chairman; Pres. of Youth Organization in Church; Bd. of Exec. for American Red Cross; Speech Team. General Statement:

Student Council is essential to fulfill the needs of the student and to express the ideas of the student body. Building a bridge between the students and the administration is necessary for the progress of the university.

Answers:
1) Student Council does not effectively represent the student. They acknowledge the general viewpoint of a large percentage of the student body, but overlook the ideas and needs of the minority.

Pat Richards
Office Sought: Student Council
School: Education

Qualifications:
I am now representing the School of Education on Council and involved in many of their functions including the tutoring program and the Student Research Committee. I am also a member of the SNEA. General Statement:

If re-elected I would try to make Student Government as a whole more efficient and seek the passage of legislation that would be beneficial for the student body with the School of Education especially in mind.

Answers:
1) Yes, I feel that the Student Council policy is representing the interest of the Youngstown student body, but it is difficult to find out what the students interests are since they rarely communicate with Council.

Chuck Schiffhauer
Office Sought: Student Council
School: Education

Qualifications:
I served on my high school Student Council of which I was Chairman of the committee which supervised school-wide elections.

General Statement:
Because of Council's legislative and financial responsibilities, and because the entire student body is affected by its decisions, I would do my best to participate in a way that would benefit the entire University as well as the School of Education.

Answers:
1) If Council does not represent one segment of the student body, it is because that segment has not informed its representatives of its desires. Good representation depends on student interest.

Miriam A. Joyce
Office Sought: Student Council
School: Education

Qualifications:
Coalition of Student Rights. I will represent the school of education, not some other extra-curricular organization when elected.

General Statement:
Students have rights. The first of these is the right to express opinions and have them considered. Council should be filtering and refining these, so that legislation can be presented which deals with the problems of University education, instead of the fringe benefits.

Answers:
1) Council policy does not include any real appreciation of student rights. Council should be leading the fight against teachers enforcing a dress code, landlords who charge an unproportionate rent for their Rattraps.

Ernie Federico
Office Sought: Student Council
School: Education

Qualifications:
I am a junior in the School of Education majoring in elementary education with a 3.04 accum. secretary of Alpha Phi Omega, National Service fraternity.

General Statement:
Student Council has done a fine job and I hope to carry on this job. An active role on my part will be undertaken to find out the opinions of the majority, not just those of the minority of the students.

Answers:
1) Independent students are not being heard. This is the group that I would represent, theirs are the views that I would like to make known to the Student Council.

Donald Leone
Office Sought: Student Council
School: Education

Qualifications:
I have a great interest in student activities and problems, especially the parking problem and the need for more recreational facilities on campus. I will try to remedy these and other problems.

Answers:
1) I think that in the area of the parking problem and recreational facilities Council has failed. But in general the Council does what it thinks is best for the majority of the students.

James Joyce
Office Sought: Student Council
Representative-at-large

Student have rights. The first of these is the right to express opinions and have them considered. Council should be filtering and refining these, so that legislation can be presented which deals with the problems of University education instead of the fringe benefits.

Answers:
1) One area of student interest not represented is the non-organization-student opinion which has no official voice. We hope our campaign will help these find a voice for the first time.

Joel Oles
Office Sought: Representative-at-large
Qualification

Member of Student Council in high school, senior class officer high school, and present Vice-President of the Penguin Ski Club.

General Statement:
The Council is being called upon to play an ever expanding role in the affairs of this growing university and if elected I as an independent plans to explain the importance of our Council to all the students.

Answers:
1) Council is growing more aware of its role in the student's life. Such areas as housing, parking and support of various activities, for example, clubs, should be backed by Council.

Office Sought: Student Council

General Statement:
If elected I plan to try to improve the miserable conditions forced on the commuter student. Parking, dietary habits, and study conditions are at a ridiculous level for the commuter.

Answers:
1) Student Council policies do not represent the interest of the student body. The commuter student is very much looked over and taken advantage of.

The vice president must actively assume the duties of his office and responsibly represent the senior class. I would like the opportunity to serve in this capacity and feel that I can assume the responsibilities involved.

Answers:
1) They can be only as strong as the seniors who actively support the officers. Active senior participation in all phases of senior activities - voting, attending meetings, attending senior functions, etc. - is the answer.

Peter G. Wilms
Office Sought: Student Council
School: Liberal Arts

Qualifications:
It's been noted that 3/5 of the Council members vote without knowledge of the issues. I can and will have knowledge of the issues.

General Statement:
Student Council is composed of 25 individual wishes. These 25 take interest only in legislation benefitting their individual wishes. I can and will take interest and represent the wishes of all Liberal Arts students.

Answers:
1) Council represents only the wishes of 25 people. I can't and won't be representing one of 25 wishes but can and will be representing wishes of all Liberal Arts students.

FORCED FAITH

QUESTION: I'd like to believe in God, but my intellect won't let me. I've even tried to force myself to believe, but I know I'm only kidding myself. How can you have faith, if it isn't there?

ANSWER: Intelligence should be no hindrance to faith in God. The most intelligent men have accepted the simple fact that "Out of nothing, nothing can come," and that this world, with all its mathematical precision of design and function, presupposes a creative and purposeful intelligence behind it.

However, God is more than some vague First Cause or Impersonal Influence whom we come to know by a sort of mystic process of osmosis. He is a definite and personal Being who has told men how He can be known. God who made men with the capability to love must surely love His own creation. Certainly He would not leave them in ignorance about Himself. That is why He gave us the Bible, through men to whom He made Himself known by revelation over the course of the centuries. Nowhere else do you find such a detailed and intimate picture of God in relationship to man. Human notions of God are purely speculative. What God inspired men to record in His Word is an authentic self-portrait.

As for forced faith, it is a contradiction of terms, for faith cannot be forced. It is a gift of God. "If any man will do God's will," said Christ, "he shall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I speak of myself." But you must seek for faith on God's terms. Are you willing to read the Gospels to learn just how to come to Him—in repentance and willingness to do His will? Then you will not have to "force" faith. He will bestow it on you as a gift.

Fun-Loving Neon Staff

Sharing the old Placement Office with the Jambar is the most lively and fun-loving group on campus — The Neon yearbook staff.

Editor Dave Costello has somehow managed to convince almost every beautiful girl on campus to work for him, and this is perhaps why the Neon Office is so active.

In any case, music and laughter can be heard from behind their doors at any time.

But when it's time for work, the Neon is all business. They are weeks ahead of their deadlines, and have completely revamped the layout.

According to John Moritz, assistant editor, an entirely new section has been added. It has been tentatively called the "Editors Section" and will consist of student comment on any aspect of the University — critical or otherwise.

In addition to this, says Moritz, they have expanded the faculty section, introduced continuous copy in the faculty, Greek and editor's section and have added much more color than in previous years.

And so, despite all their antics, the Neon is apparently going to be bigger and better than ever.

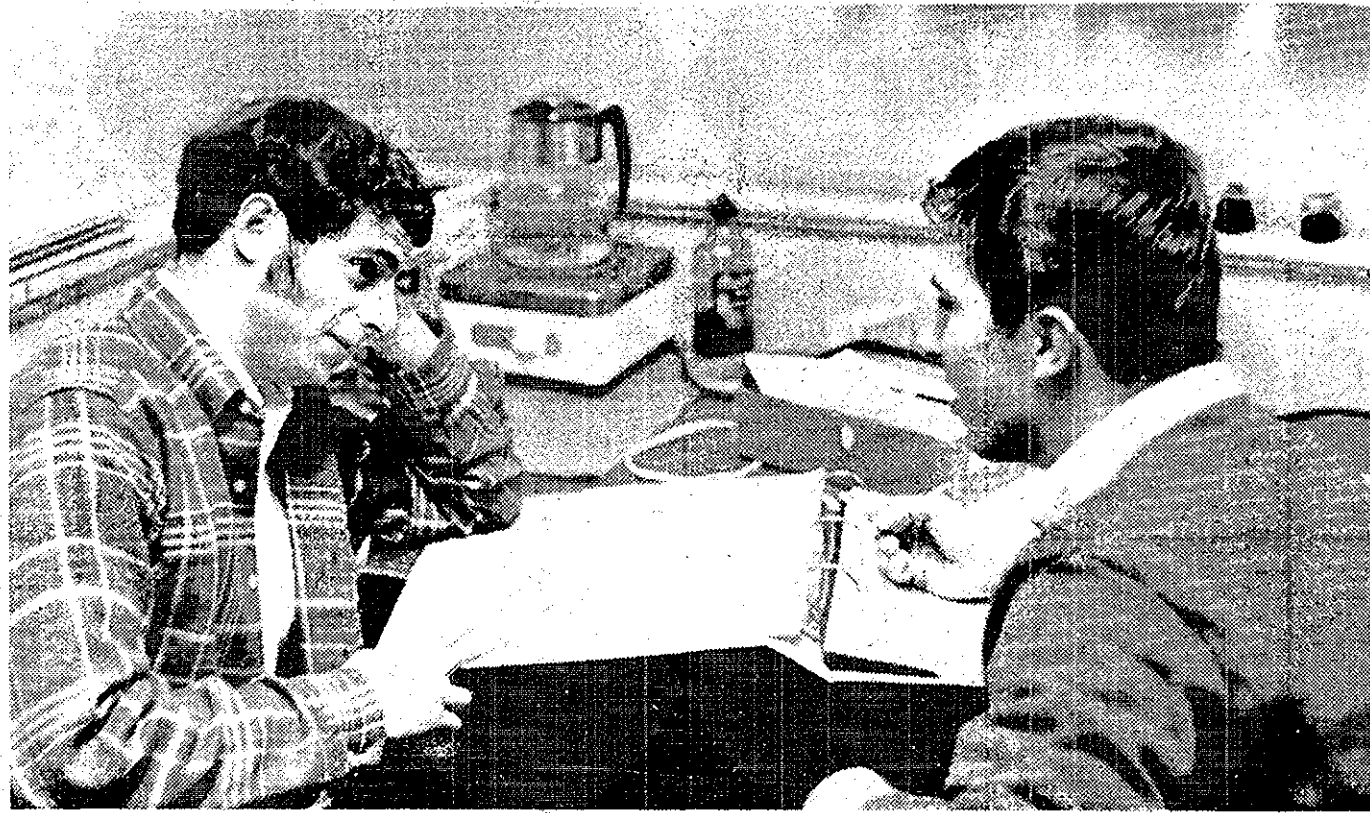

"We promise the students that they will not be indifferent to this year's yearbook," says Moritz, "they will either like it or hate it."

Ellen Toumala works on layout.

'Mind Blowing' is Art Dept.'s Goal

A "mind blowing" happening, containing something from several of the aspects of contemporary art, will be the major project of the Art Department for this year. This was announced yesterday by Aaron Howard, Art Club president. Howard said that "such integrated experiences as electronic music, flashing lights, in process painting, drama, art exhibits, dancing and poetry reading, will constitute this audio-visual program." Aaron is a senior art major, whose psychedelic paintings grace the walls of the Gates of Eden.

lar meetings are occasionally spiced by the interesting presentations of visiting guests. These guests, said Aaron, are usually members of the Art Department, who speak on various subjects.

At one session, Mr. Robert J. Lepard, an art instructor, showed some of his own films. At another meeting, Assistant

Aaron stated that the main objectives of the Art Club are to develop "aesthetic awareness, artistic participation, visual appreciation and a group response to an environmental atmosphere."

Professor Lucas said that he does very little actual advising to the Art Club, as he lets the students take care of almost everything themselves.

In the spring, the student art show at the Butler Art Gallery, is one of the events sponsored by the Art Club. At this show, the Art Club presents a special award for an art work of artistic merit. Both Aaron and Professor Lucas voiced their disappointment in what they called, the "inadequate" Art Department facilities. Aaron said that the rooms are too small for him to paint in, as he prefers to paint large paintings. Aaron also said, "the equipment is not up to date, but the staff is superb, particularly in the area of art history."

Professor Lucas also said the Art Department facilities are terrible. "Students have even dropped courses because of these terrible facilities."

Mary Holsack with Professor James Lucas.

The Art Club also had other projects planned for the year. These include a three day trip to New York City and a visit to the art galleries, plays and an op-art show, which will be presented soon.

Other officers of the club are:

John Skolan, vice-president; Janet Rigney, secretary; Mary Hosack, treasurer; Donna Brown, social chairman and Chris Vancherri, publicity chairman.

The Art Club consists of about thirty students. The regular meetings are occasionally spiced by the interesting presentations of visiting guests. These guests, said Aaron, are usually members of the Art Department, who speak on various subjects. Spotlight On

Police Science Department

by Minnie Cohen

"Probably one of the most rapidly growing programs at the University is the one now taking shape in the Department of Police Science," states Jack D. Foster, Supervisor of the Law Enforcement Programs, yesterday.

"We hopefully await new facilities in special laboratories and equipment that will, by 1970, be part of the Technical and Community College," he says.

Extending an invitation to those interested students desiring to take advantage of the financial assistance recently made available to them in the pursuit of law enforcement careers, Professor Foster urges them to see him at the Engineering Science Building about career opportunities.

"New students will be accepted through December 7, when registration for the winter quarter ends," he adds.

"Our enrollment is up considerably this fall," said Foster. "With so many students taking up Police Science, the program is really expanding."

From a total of 91 last spring, the number of students has risen to 142 with 68 enrolled in the two-year program and 74 in the four-year course. An increase to 300 is expected by 1970.

There are about six women taking the two-year course. The women follow exactly the same program as the men, including practice with firearms.

Two academic programs in law enforcement are offered by YSU. The two-year Police Technology program leads to an Associate in Arts degree in the

for the early 1970's," says Professor Foster. "We are currently awaiting a recommendation in this regard from the Board of Regents, which has commissioned a study of the role of higher education in law enforcement. There is a great likelihood that we will be one of two institutions in the state that will be urged to develop a graduate program. At the present time, no institution in Ohio has such a program — the closest one out-of-state being Michigan State University."

To provide financial assistance to students interested in law enforcement careers at the University, funds are available beginning with the winter quarter, 1969.

The Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Street Act of 1968 authorizes the establishment of a Law Enforcement Student Loan Program and a Law Enforcement Student Grant Program by the U.S. Department of Justice for the purpose of improving and strengthening law enforcement.

Beneficiaries of the grants will receive tuition and fees not exceeding $200 per quarter for enrollment in a 2 or 4 year program in law enforcement.

Following this, they must work full-time for the publicly-funded law enforcement agency for two years, or repay the full amount.

The Office of Student Financial Aids, Jones Hall, will answer inquiries about these two new financial assistance programs.

There are 3 full-time and 2 part-time assistant professors of Police Science. The newest is James W. De Garmo, Jr., who will begin his schedule with the winter quarter. He has a BS in Business Administration and a Doctor of Jurisprudence (JD) degree.

During his service in the U.S. Army, Dr. De Garmo attended various Army Service Schools at Virginia, New York, and North Carolina.

Dr. De Garmo has been, until recently, a special agent of the FBI. He is a qualified FBI General Police School Instructor.

Last October he retired from the FBI to begin his duties at Youngstown State University.

Mr. Jack D. Foster, left, Supervisor of the Law Enforcement Programs, advises Tom Mihaly, right, Junior and Law Enforcement major, of the many new facilities the department hopes to have in the near future to aid technical study.

The Beginning

It appears that the open parking fight has been lost. Exactly why we cannot say. But there is one good guess that can be made and that is a lack of power.

We asked for open parking on several streets and were denied. Yet, every Sunday morning, on those same streets, exists that very thing—open parking.

Are there no fires or heart attacks Sunday morning while church services are in progress? Or is it that the religious experience is so much more important than the educational one? Is the man who goes to church on Sunday morning any better than the student who goes to school Monday morning?

The excuses which were used to deny students the right to park on weekdays just don't seem to stay in effect on the Sabbath.

Perhaps it is that man must rest on the seventh day, and for him it is not reasonable walking distance from Wick Park or downtown Youngstown.

However, it seems more reasonable to view this dichotomy simply as a matter of political power. Churches have it, apparently students do not.

This does not have to be. There is no reason why students should not unite in an effort to build an actual political machine. Students are not islands. They have friends, relatives and associates who could be persuaded to back them.

They are also capable of door to door canvassing the general projects to educate the public to the students' grievances and political preferences.

Witness the effect of the massive student support of Senator McCarthy this year on the national level. And then give just one reason why these same tactics could not be applied on the local level.

If the student does not have the political power of other special interest groups, it is his fault. With unity students could present a formidable political power, but it is not an easy thing, and it does not happen over night.

Such a movement has been long overdue. The time to start is now. Several groups on campus are already in the embryonic stages of such a movement. If you do not belong to such a group, join one soon.

The life-blood of the Democratic process is power and it is not out of reach of the student.

Inside Out

Vote COALITION

By Dan Kutsko

With next week's Student Council and Senior Class elections, the YSU student body will be formally introduced to the Coalition for Students' Rights. This coalition, unlike the notorious Greek organization coalitions of a few years ago, is composed of three members organizations and is dedicated to the rights of the student in the university.

Made up of the Students for a Democratic Society, the Community of Concern and the Black Student Union, the Coalition has been active through these organizations for the past year and a half. It is only this year that the three groups were formally organized into a united effort, namely, the political attainment of their common goal—students' rights.

At first hearing, the word "coalition" carries with it dark overtones of political machinery, underhanded double-dealing and grossly egocentric objectives. This may be especially true if one has been accustomed to the coalitions of old.

Despite the connotation of the word, the Coalition for Students' Rights is concerned not with itself, or the personal betterment of the individuals who make up the organization. It is rather concerned with the student as a whole.

And the function of the organization is not only to provide the student with a sounding board if he feels his rights have been violated or jeopardized, but also to function as a mechanism for the establishment of legislation which will be of benefit to the student body as a whole or at least the majority of the student body.

Previously, Student Council has concerned itself with legislation which benefitted principally the select few, namely the five percent Greek population, this legislation having been voted on by the eighty-five percent Greek oriented Council.

But the Coalition is not anti-Greek in its function or its platform. It seeks merely to represent all of the students, even the egotistic, petty, haughty and often ridiculous Greeks.

Through its platform and program, the Coalition hopes to bring to the forefront of student government the real issues, the things which need to be done, and the people who are capable of doing them. For too long a time Student Council has concerned itself with the sizes of dance announcement posters, a cafeteria bulletin board, the replacement of colons with semi-colons in the by-laws and the all around general to specific mediocrity of grade school type projects.

Any student who wants to be represented should avoid throwing away his vote on faceless candidates of Greek sponsorship, candidates who have nothing to offer but their "social superiority." The Coalition for Students' Rights is what this university needs. Its work in various organizations is noteworthy. It is work which will not cease with its ascension to Student Council. Its members intend to work as close to the students as possible, to provide an opportunity for each student to voice his opinion.

It is time to replace the Greek leadership on Council with student leadership. Every vote cast for the Coalition for Students' Rights will bring each student closer to his student government and help to relieve Council of a malignancy which, by not keeping pace with the growing needs of this university, has outlived the usefulness of its life, if ever, in fact, it was useful at all.
