Lieut. Saunders Brings "Butch" Through Attack

Lieutenant Robert A. Saunders, well-known to Youngstowners, now as the efficient pilot of a Flying Fortress named "Butch," has done it again by flying his crippled ship back to an Allied Bomber Station in England after a bombing raid on St. Nazaire. The Associated Press says Lieutenant Saunders "executed a minor miracle" as a German fighter attacked a group of flying fortresses and liberators that pounded the German U-boat base. A German dare-devil flying circus struck fast, knocking out an engine mounting on Lt. Saunders' Fortress. The engine, instead of breaking loose, maintained its balance and kept running all the way home.

"Two pieces of the windshield fell out in my lap after one hit," Lt. Saunders said. "They shot at us while turning. They never did that before. The hits were a mat-

Students Urged To Co-Operate With W. A. C.

The War Activities Committee started their first campaign for student war aid Monday of this week. A drive for coat hangers is well underway and the coat hangers collected will be sent to an army camp where they are much needed.

Students are asked to aid in this drive by bringing coat hangers not in use at home. A box has been placed in the lounge to receive all contributions.

During the next two weeks the committee will put on drives for silk stockings and books for the armed forces. Students wishing to aid in promoting these affairs are asked to see Marge McKinvin, chairman.

ter of luck, but they got some." The raid was Lt. Saunders' second to be reported in cable dispatchers in which he fled the Fortress named "Butch" after his wife, the former Laverne Bowen who is living in Youngstown at 250 Lowell Avenue.

He completed a pre-medical course at Youngstown College in 1941 and immediately enlisted in the air force. He was a member of Sigma Delta Beta Fraternity.

Junior Class Meets Today

There will be a very important Junior class meeting in the college auditorium immediately following chapel. The possibilities of a Junior Prom will be discussed.

Speech Society Debate On War Marriages

Charter members of the Youngstown College Speech Society invited Yo-Co students to join the organization at the initial meeting of the semester last Thursday. After a short business meeting, four members of the organization gave a timely Oregon Style Debate. The question was, Resolved: That War Marriages Are Justifiable. Participants in the debate on the affirmative were Bishop Ramsey McDuffie and Angela Vagnozzi while the negative was upheld by Dina De Blasto and Theodore Lucky.

Angela Vagnozzi, president of the organization, announces that the society is open for new members for the next few weeks.

Dr. Scudder Attends Regional Meet at Columbus

Dr. E. D. Scudder, head of the chemistry department and director of the engineering, science, management, war training program at Youngstown College, is attending a regional meeting at Columbus for representatives of all colleges engaged in the training work. The meeting was called by Dean Charles MacQuigg, war training program director of the eleventh region, comprising the State of Ohio. The meeting is being held at Ohio State University.

'H.M.S. Pinafore' Scores Success

Dana's Institute students presented the comic opera, H. M. S. Pinafore to a capacity crowd Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday night of last week. An excellent cast sent the audience into fits of laughter by their clever acting. Sir Joseph Porter, played by Joe Costarella, Olga Muschuck in the Character of Josephine, Bob Walton as Sir Joseph Porter and Gazella Oros as Little Buttercup are familiar for their fine singing to lovers of former Gilbert-Sullivan, such as Patience, Iolanthe, Trial by Jury and others. A new comer in the show, who deserves high commendation is Jane Wood, as one of the numerous relations of Sir Joseph, in the role of Cousin Hebe.

Eighteenth century costumes lent much atmosphere to the phrase.

Credit is also due members of the Stage Production class for the many hours spent on scenery. Special tribute is due Olga Muschuck and Bob Walton for their four years of brilliant contribution to Youngstown College in a musical way. Both Olga and Bob have taken the leads and thrilled audiences since their first performance.

No Hell Week!

Student Council has deemed it necessary to cancel the traditional Freshman Hell-Week and Court of Honor this semester. Council feels that the students should concentrate their efforts toward War Activities.

Hell Week would be both unpatriotic and unwise as it would interrupt the class schedule.

College To Have Govt. War Classes

Youngstown College is taking applications for new evening classes to start about March 1 under the government engineering, science, management war training program which has been in operation for the past two years. Tuition for the courses is paid by the government, the student paying only for text books and supplies. Enrollment in each class is limited to 30 students. The purpose of the program is to train women and older men for jobs in industry where there is a shortage of trained workers. Applicants must have high school education or the equivalent, and must fulfill the specific requirements of each course to be eligible for enrollment.

Those interested should make application as early as possible to the college offices. Offices are open daily from 8:30 to 5:30 p. m. and 6:30 to 7:30 p. m. daily, except Saturday when they close at noon.

Small Enrollment At Mid-Year

Sixty new students entered the college of arts and science at mid-year. This is the smallest enrollment the college has experienced in many years. President Jones said that war conditions and the army call is the cause of the drop in mid-year registration.

In the new crop of freshmen South and Rayen are well represented while several students are from Chaney, East, Sciencerville, and other nearby schools. Many students are transfers from other leading colleges such as Miami University, Kent, Penn State, Iowa State and Texas Christian.

Men students entering definitely know what they want to do many entering engineering, pre-medical and the technical departments. Most of the girls are entered in the elementary education and business administration departments.

How To Save Money By Not Going To the Dentist

By Sadie Gilch

Since time immortal, or at least since our aged ancestors quit conditioning their molars by munching dinosaurs, skeletons, homonapsions with a determined gleam in their eyes, have marched off to dentists to have their teeth repaired.

It all began "way back when" the Egyptians had their ivories bound together with common garden variety string to prolong their usefulness. The Roman had false teeth festing in a glass of water beside their bed many years before the Christian era. The Chinese, from Confucious right on, have takes strange pride in having the offending teeth pulled instead of repaired.

Now is the time to declare a new era!

Obviously, the only reason a person trips off to the dentist is to keep their dentines in good repair. The main reason that they desire good teeth is to eliminate visits to the dentists. Alas, tis a sad situation. One goes to a dentist so they won't have to go to a dentist.

Now, I maintain that if everyone stopped going to a dentist, in time their molars would collapse of old age and all that sort of stuff. But don't grieve. There is time enough to go and have a plate made.

In addition to time and pain, one also saves real cash money. You see, dentists have a system. First they drill (one fee), next they fill (second fee), then, it begins to ace and they kill the nerve (third fee), then it collapses and is pulled (fourth fee).

Now, let's be sensible. If you wait until the bicusps cease functioning of their own accord, then have them pulled—you can save three fees and lots of time.

We Need the Respect of Our Community

Those Youngstown College students! Just what connection does that expression carry with it in the minds of the older members of our community? Do the people of Youngstown consider us a light-hearted friendly bunch, whose gay chatter aroused pleasant memories of their own school days? Or do our elders think of us as a rowdy, uncontrolled gang of youngsters, trying to hang on to the antics typical of high school students.

Several days ago we heard some people severely criticize the hilarity of some Youngstown College girls in the Lincoln Tea Room. The gayety of these students was not pleasing, but offensive. Their loud laughter and conversation probably annoyed many of the restaurant patrons.

Far be it from any of our older friends to interfere with our fun. But don't they have the right to expect consideration from us? By the time we have reached the position of college students we should be willing to act in such a way that we gain the respect of the members of our community.

In a college such as Youngstown where most of the students commute back and forth to school, it is necessary for us to have the respect of the community of which we are a part.

Lets Get Behind the E. T. P. C. and W. A. C.

At long last the students of Youngstown College are taking steps to aid in the war effort. An organization deserving much of the credit is the E. T. P. C. This group was the first to promote student interest in the war effort through the sale of war stamps. Through the efforts of its leaders the sale of war stamps at the college may well compete with the amount sold at other colleges in the country.

Next, Student Council took steps in the organization of a War Activities Committee, whose duties were to organize drives that would in some way help the war effort. This week the committee is successfully putting on a drive for coat hangers. So far, so good, lets get behind them and make the other drives as successful.

Looking Around

With Norma Malin

Women have apparently taken to trousers—but definitely—overalls, coveralls, slacks, ad infinitum. Have you noticed the aura of egotism surrounding the women war workers? They look fairly puffed up with pride in their job and the place they are filling in a Man's World. But why, Sister—who is really wearing the pants—you or your brother and boyfriend who have marched away in uniform? We must realize that the men who have left us this temporary heritage are really still wearing the pants in this War World; that no matter how hard the job we are doing, they are still doing a harder one. Beyond a doubt women will fill a more important place in business and industry after the war than they did before but the men are still going to have first choice so it doesn't look well to get too stuck on ourselves, does it?

And it is the smart girl who realizes that her greatest power is her pericoat influence, who can look the 'perfect gentleman' and wear a man's clothes like a woman. No man is going to object to dungarees as long as the girl looks attractive in them. Good ads for the affirmative of the question 'Should Women Wear Slacks?' are Jane Peppel, Gail Wymer, and Peg Sedwitz. We personally think that slacks are in to stay if girls don't abuse the privilege and make themselves less attractive by wearing them.

It looks as though we are, all going to be doubly careful about putting that, best shoe forward these days—and making sure the pump with the scooped up toe is carefully hidden under our chair. One very enlightening solution to the rationing problem has been offered by a far sighted individual—the adoption of the dogpatch style—you might paint your toenails to make it a little more attractive. Don't ask us what to do in case of a cold spell, anyhow it's SPRING! And if you seriously object to dogpatching it owing to extremely unpretty bunions and unusually tender soles our only alternative is that of persuading your father that the last pair he bought should last him ten years at least and why be a dog in the manger about things?

Rushing season is getting into full swing and gaining momentum—with the girls anyhow. The fellows show an understandable lack of interest with everyone on the verge of leaving — or already gone! Scads of them leaving this week—Lou Dolan, Joe Sontich, Bill Peltó.

Listening in on a Powder Room Pow Wow might wake a lot of men up to the fact that the Eat, Drink, and Be Merry for Tomorrow We May Die attitude so prevalent now is looking at stuff in the wrong light. Of course you want to have a good time before you leave but you're forgetting the future—these months or weeks are precious and should be put to good advantage while you have the opportunity to do so. Get in all the book learnin' and college credits you possibly can. That "We don't know where we're going but we are on our way" philosophy is definitely harmful in the long run and the girls seem to realize it far better from their seats as interested observers than the boys who are waiting for Uncle Sam's call and have somehow acquired the wrong slant on how to make the most of their time before it's gone.

CARNER THOUGHTS—That the appearance of the lounge isn't aided much by coat hangers—patriotic thought it may be—Connie Taylor—down from Muskingum to see Vernon Hamilton strut his stuff in Pinafore—A call for Philip Morris brings results with Jean Loney around — Helen Humphrey's laugh that warms the very cockles of your heart—Some fan letters would help to make life more interesting, critical or otherwise — How about coming across?

Today the airmen of the world resemble the stout, hardy men that sailed the wooden ships with canvass of yester-years. They gather in the hangars, in saloons, any place that's convenient and pour forth their yarns (they call it "Hangar talk") of humor, courage, and tragedy.

These incidents happen to men that are in our midst. Its not an uncommon sight to see men outfitted in green and marked with CPT in our halls. Here are the men that are part of these glamorous adventures in the air. Let me tell you of a few.

This one is old to most pilots but for the benefit of the very few that don't know it, here goes. A group of Army pilots were flying through a heavy fog one day when their leader spotted a lone civilian plane. The civilian didn't spot the army plane as yet. The leader of the army planes in devitment told the group to fly inverted past the civilian.

As the flight passed the civilian he began to wonder if he wasn't flying upside down for in a fog or clouds it's extremely difficult to realize the attitude of the airplane, so he inverted his plane and flew on.

This corker happened to be a pilot in Cleveland. He was flying a very old airplane (probably one of the OX's) that was held together with bailing wire and matchsticks but to the amazement of a control tower operator later it also harbored as a part of it a two way radio. The operator at the tower gave the normal procedure of radioing the pilot. "If you hear me wiggle wings. The pilot of the beam immediately radioed back, "If you hear me, wiggle your tower."

The pilot's license was suspended.
STUDENT COUNCIL FIASCO

The solution to our war problem is not to be found across the oceans in foreign lands, nor in great battle chieftians but in our own immediate vicinities. Here in our very presence we have been a determining factor that hinders us indirectly in winning victory quickly. Our school is a part of a unit that should aid in building our favorite uncle's strength with its greatest capacity. I'm afraid it is too late in its efforts to do justice that is placed upon its shoulders. The outstanding job of unintentional sabotage is the condition of our student council.

I attended the last few meetings of the student council and honestly speaking it was a terrific waste of time. Student council has been a part of this school for a number of years and yet they know not exactly what is their purpose or power. How can anything be accomplished if they set out in an indefinite direction with their eyes closed. One of the student council members rose at the close of the meeting and asked the question, "What are the powers of the student council?" They didnt know so they appointed a committee to find out, who in turn blundered in their purpose and asked a completely different question: "What are the figures for the basketball returns?" This shows the weak way of handling affairs and their inability to cooperate as a unit.

Cadets Will Train Here

Youngstown College will give secondary flight training to naval cadets under the Civil Aeronautics Administration, war training service beginning today. Dr. Castle W. Poard, co-ordinator, announced. The first group arrived in Youngstown two weeks ago.

This is further expansion of the C. A. A. War Training Service at Youngstown College. Primary flight training has been given to cadets on a full-time basis since July 1, 1942.

Each group remains at Youngstown College for eight weeks, after which the men are sent to other centers for further training. On the present basis, the College will have 30 naval cadets training on a full-time program continuously, in addition to a class in pre-flight aeronautics for secondary school teachers who are teaching this subject in high schools or plan to teach it soon.

Opera Cast Have Party

Dr. and Mrs. Stearns entertained members of the opera cast with a party held in the college lounge following the opera last Wednesday night.

The table was decorated in a spring fashion with Jonquils as a centerpiece, and green tapers on either end.

The cast, in appreciation for the hard work Dr. Stearns had put in on directing the opera, presented him with a desk set.

College Lose Capable Leaders

The armies gain is YoCo's loss. This week YoCo loses one of its most capable leaders and energetic students in the person of Lou Dolan who leaves for the Army Air Corps on the 25. Sigma Delta Beta extends "God-Speed" for a hurried return to their departing Prexy.

Joe Sontich leaves the 25th for Fort Benjamin Harrison and then to Miami-Florida for Pilot Training. The college will miss Joe's warm, friendly smile.

Art Gundry leaves the 25 for Ft. Thomas, Kentucky, then deep into the heart of Mississippi. Kappa Sigma Kappa loses a real asset in Art.

The lounge, William Fiore and his pipe have become synonymous. This week, Bill and his pipe leave for the Army Air Corps. I'm sure we students will miss both.

Sport SLANTS

By Ben Williams

Youngstown College Penguins ended their season last Thursday at the South High Field House. They have scored 11 victories in 16 starts, which is not bad in any fan's league.

Leo Mogus, our star center, was out of the Toledo game due to an attack of grippe which kept him in bed. Yours truly talked with Leo last Sunday and Leo will probably be in school by the time that this column is published. Leo has quite a record for the four years that he has attended Youngstown College. Let's do a little recapitulation:

Season	Games	Points	Average
1939-40	20	307	15.4
1940-41	19	348	18.3
1941-42	20	391	19.5
1942-43	15	354	23.6
TOTALS	74	400	18.9

Our hats are off to you, Leo!

Mogus, for the sortsmanship that you have shown in your four years at YoCo, not only in basketball and football, but in everything that you did. You are an athlete who Youngstown will long remember. You are the type of person who aids in establishing traditions and brings glory to your Alma Mater. We wish you the best of luck in whatever task you are engaged after graduation, you deserve the best.

SPORTS NEXT YEAR?

Now that the collegiate football and basketball seasons are over, how do things look for next season? That is a question that is in a great many minds at the present time and a great many predictions have been made as to what will become of collegiate sports.

Yours truly is not a prophet and so has made no predictions about collegiate sports. He can only look at the fact and ascertain what might happen to collegiate sports. The colleges of the country will probably all be used to train men of the Army and Navy Reserves next year. Some think this will mean that the services of the football and basketball stars who are in these branches of the service. That would be good if it were true, but the Army has stated that the men in the Army Reserves cannot engage in sports of any kind. The Navy has been somewhat kinder towards the colleges and has given its men permission to engage in sports providing that the sport does not interfere with their other work. Who knows just what will be the result of these plans.

Youngstown College may be one of the colleges that will train men for the Navy, but maybe there will not be enough Navy men to warrant the continuance of the sports program. We cannot state definitely what will happen. You cannot be definite about anything these times are the times that try men's souls. We can only hope for the best for Youngstown College and then get out and do everything that we can do for her. Whatever happens let's, as alumni and students of Youngstown College, back her to the limit of our abilities.

W & J Ends YoCo Winning Streak

Outclass Penguins By 61-29 Score

Washington and Jefferson College cagers outclassed the Youngstown College cagers on February 13, scoring a 61-29 triumph over the Penguins to smash their seven game winning streak.

Leo Mogus, suffering from a cold, was unable to hit his stride and scored only eight points in the fray. Brian McCall scored 9 points to lead the Youngstown team in scoring.

Washington and Jefferson started with a 15-4 lead in the opening quarter, and upped the count to 28-13 at the half. In the third quarter Washington and Jefferson outscored Youngstown 30-12 to boost the score to 48-25, and from there on they were on the victory trail.

W. and J. scored 25 field goals and 11 fouls for a total of 61 points. Youngstown scored 11 field goals and 7 fouls for a total of 29 points.

W. A. A. Patriotic Party Scheduled Tomorrow Night

The W. A. A. will hold a Washington Party on February 26, at Y. W. C. A. Plans have been made for an enjoyable evening with dancing and refreshments. Jeanette Gilkes is chairman of the affair and invites all members to attend.

The next meeting will be held on February 24, after Chapel in Room 210.

Toledo University Outclass Penguins

The Toledo University Rockets scored their 16th victory in 18 starts by defeating the Youngstown College quintet by a score of 62-39 last Wednesday evening at South High Field House before a crowd of 2000 fans. The Youngstown squad sadly missing the services of Leo Mogus and many felt that his presence in the two games would have resulted in a Youngstown victory. Leo was resting at home with an attack of grippe which he had before the Washington and Jefferson game.

The game was rather fast with Youngstown and Toledo keeping neck to neck in the first quarter. The score stood at 11-9 in favor of Toledo at end of the quarter. The Rockets then began to hit their stride and show the form that has made them the state's No. 1 aggregation. The score stood at 28-16 at the half.

The third quarter ended with a score of 42-26 in favor of the Rockets. In the last quarter the whole Toledo squad retired in favor of the second string. The second stringers outscored the Youngstown team to win the game at 62-39.

Richetta scored 11 points to pace the Youngstown team while Davage Minor scored 13 points to pace the Rockets.

The University of Kansas is in its seventy-seventh year.

"FLOWERS AND A COCA-COLA ... JUST LIKE HOME"

"You always enjoy it when you connect with a Coke no matter where. There's something about it that's special. All the difference between something really refreshing and just something to drink. Yes, indeed. The only thing like Coca-Cola is Coca-Cola, itself. Bet you've found that out already."
