Cantrell is Cleared; Given Commendation

The Executive Committee of the Youngstown Council of Churches has gone on record "commending Burton Cantrell for the high quality of work on the University Campus."

The near unanimous vote of the Committee last Tuesday climaxed several weeks of debate on the chaplain's work.

Responding to the Tuesday vote, Cantrell stated yesterday that it "was something more than a personal vindication. It was a victory for all of us who are concerned about academic freedom and the independence of the University."

Acting on the recommendations of the University Work Departments of the Council, the Committee in addition to commending Cantrell's work, voted to make budgeted funds for the chaplain's program available to Cantrell and requested that local churches increase their contributions to the Council so that the costs for Cantrell's programs can be met.

Cantrell stated yesterday that though he had been budgeted $2,500 for this year, he has spent less than $100 of the Council's budget.

During the controversy over Cantrell, several local churches had threatened to withhold funds from the Council unless Cantrell was removed.

According to the April 3 minutes of a University Work Department meeting, the threatening churches had charged that Cantrell's activities on and off the campus had been a "constant source of embarrassment" to the Council and its officers.

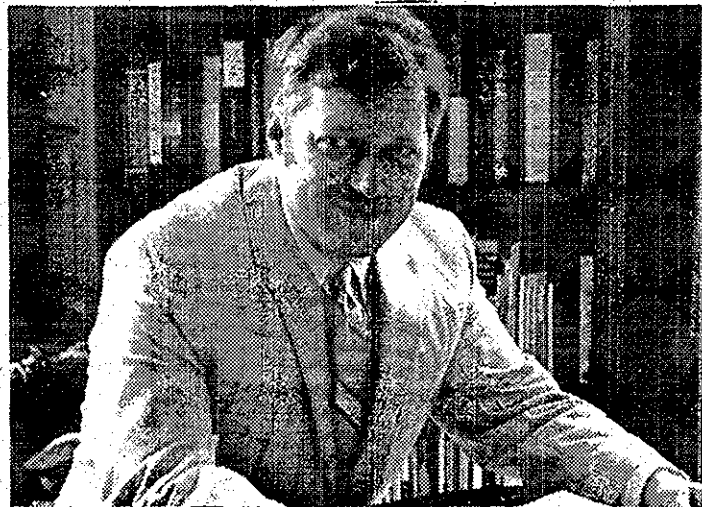

The Work Committee, voting unanimously at its April 18 meeting, exonerated Cantrell of the charges that local churches had made.

A Review Board of the United Ministries in Higher Education that had been assigned to access Cantrell's work at the University found "no documentation or any other evidence that could be considered negative to the Chaplain."

The Work Committee and the Review Board had cited ambiguity in the defined relationship the chaplain has with the Council as partly responsible for the Council's failure to quickly resolve the past weeks' controversy.

Included in its recommendations Tuesday, the Committee voted to place the supervision of the chaplain's work under the auspices of the University Work Department.

Students Vote—

Kent Suspensions Upheld

KENT — In a campus-wide referendum Wednesday, students at Kent State University voted to uphold the suspensions of the 32 students ousted last week and to "take no action" against the University's administrations for its handling of the past week's disorders.

8,606, or 45% of the 19,000 eligible voters cast ballots in the issue election. The Student Government elections held Tuesday attracted only 4,300 students.

The results, announced yesterday, showed 2,459 students in favor of holding a four-day and civil authorities brought trespass charges against the same number.

27 of the suspensions were later dropped.

In Wednesday's vote, 5,151 students and faculty voted to maintain the suspensions and a like number voted to maintain the criminal charges.

3,100 students and faculty expressed opposition to the suspensions and criminal charges.

On the question of reinstatement of the Kent SDS chapter, 3,232 voted for reinstatement, 5,210 voted against.

The only victory for the Concerned Citizens of the Kent State University Community (CCC), a group formed to protest the administration's handling of the week's disorders, came when 5,340 students and faculty voted to have the administration apply the November 1968 discipline code in all discipline matters.

CCC had protested to the administration that it had violated "due process" in the handling of the disorders because of the November 1968 Code had been overruled in favor of civil codes.

Suspensions Announced

Two juniors have been suspended from the University: one for stealing an Economics 602 final examination and the other for acting as an accomplice, William Gutknecht, chairman of the discipline committee, announced yesterday.

Both suspensions take effect immediately and will apply until January 1970, at which time the suspended students will be permitted to make application for readmission.

According to Gutknecht, one of the students was stealing the test to be used by the other.

Both admitted the charges during questioning before the committee.

Weaver To Speak Next Thursday

The Honorable Robert C. Weaver, former Secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, will speak at 8:30 pm, Thursday May 1, in Stambaugh Auditorium on the topic "The Urban Situation."

Dr. Weaver is the sixth lecturer in the Semi Annual Skeggs Series and the second to appear this year.

Dr. Weaver has enjoyed a wealth of experience in the field of urban problems. In addition to being the first Secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, he has served as the administrator of the federal Housing and Home Finance Agency and the New York State Rent Commission.

As the Secretary of HUD, Dr. Weaver faced the task of coordinating the diffused and disorganized federal programs which ranged from sewage disposal research and the location of new inter-city schools to the design and route of metropolitan freeways.

Dr. Weaver is currently serving as the president of Bernard M. Baruch College in Brooklyn.

Honors Interviews Set By Professor Roberts

Interviews for seats in the 1969-70 University Honors seminar will begin Monday, April 28, Dr. Sidney Roberts, seminar director, announced yesterday.

According to Dr. Roberts, the Honors Seminar is a full year course of three quarters for undergraduate students of superior ability, the purpose of which is to stimulate the student's intellectual growth by bringing him into contact with students of similar abilities.

Dr. Roberts stated that, under the guidance of selected faculty members from different academic disciplines, students undertake a one-year program of specialized work of a more advanced nature than is found in regular course offerings.

Students enrolled in the program write reports and an honors essay which they present and defend in seminar.

Those students who complete the seminar with a satisfactory grade, are granted special honors by the University, said Dr. Roberts.

Each quarter carries three credits for a total of nine quarter hours for the seminar and, depending upon departmental chairmen, can be applied towards major area requirements.

Students who will be sophomores, juniors or seniors next year, and who will have completed the Communications

NEWS BRIEFS

Compiled From The Associated Press

International

SAIGON — President Nguyen Van Thieu is making the first big effort to test the strength of his basically military regime in the political arena for the coming grassroots struggle with the Viet Cong.

Elected president by only about 35 per cent of the vote nearly 18 months ago in an election heavily influenced by the military, Thieu is believed to face an uphill fight.

BEIRUT — Egyptian and Israeli forces on the canal clashed with artillery and tanks for nearly two hours Thursday night, an Egyptian military spokesman reported.

The Cairo spokesman said the shooting started when Israelis fired on Egyptian positions south of the Bitter Lakes at about 6:30 p.m. No Egyptian casualties were reported.

MOSCOW — The big May Day military parade in Red Square is being dropped this year in favor of a workers' rally and civilian procession, Moscow television officials disclosed Thursday.

BERLIN — An East German youth and a girl companion braved Communist border barriers and icy water for a midnight swim to West Berlin, police reported Thursday.

The pair were identified only as a 19-year old boy and a girl, 18. They swam a border stream to reach the southern U.S. sector of the city, apparently without being noticed by East German border guards or patrol boats.

Both were hospitalized for exposure.

National

LOS ANGELES — An appeal of Sirhan Bishara Sirhan's conviction and sentence for the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy will take at least a year, his chief defense counsel estimated Thursday.

It could be a year of borrowed time for the 25 year old Jordanian Arab, who was condemned to death Wednesday by a jury.

Attorney Grant Cooper, one of three lawyers who defended Sirhan without fee, had announced plans to withdraw from the case if the defendant was given life imprisonment, leaving an appeal to others.

"I can't withdraw now," he said. "My conscience wouldn't let me."

The 66 year old attorney, who never had a client condemned to death before, said an appeal to the California Supreme Court and perhaps the U.S. Supreme Court would cost the three defense lawyers a total of about $25,000.

Campus Disorders

WASHINGTON — President Nixon asked Congress Thursday for a $635 million increase in postal rates and promised to come up with a plan to reform the postal system which, he said, should be "an example of sound business practices."

Nixon, as anticipated, proposed a one cent boost in the cost of mailing a letter to seven cents. He wants the post card charge hike to six cents but sought no change in the 10 cent airmail rate.

ONEONTA, N.Y. — Officials at the State University College have turned down a demand by Negro students for a $35 weekly spending allowance, it was announced Thursday.

Monday 20 of the school's 55 Negro students presented the administration with demands including the request for funds, "because black spending habits are different."

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — Harvard President Nathan M. Pusey said Thursday that campus revolutionaries, such as those who triggered two weeks of unrest at Harvard, seek to tear down American society.

"It seems to me that their aim can only be to unstructure American society," Pusey said in his first public appearance since police arrested 200 demonstrators April 10, the day after they occupied Harvard's administration building.

Pusey, who spoke before 800 Business School graduate students, was applauded when he said: "Disruption and coercion have absolutely no place on this campus or any campus." Militants violate the "civility" of free academic discussion, he declared.

NEW ORLEANS — Demonstrators of opposing persuasions scuffled in the midst of a military drill by student cadets at Tulane University Thursday while the marching students and their military band did their best to ignore the disturbances.

The disturbance started with a group of about 125 antiwar demonstrators parading onto the field while Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps cadets drilled.

The demonstrators chanted and carried signs saying "Stop The War" and "ROTC Kills."

"Spring Out" Hits Campus With Concert Monday Night

"SPRING OUT," a free, outdoor concert-dance featuring the Mirifics and the Boys & Ivy, will be held from 8-11 p.m. Monday, April 28, at the Kilcawley Patio (skating rink located in front of the cafeteria.)

Sponsored by the Student-Faculty Center Committee, the concert-dance is open to all students and their friends. In the event of bad weather, the affair will be moved inside the cafeteria.

Tom Martindale, administrative assistant-student accounts and chairman of the Student-Faculty Student Center Committee, said "SPRING OUT" was an innovation of senior advertising major T.J. Latona, a student member of the committee.

Mr. Martindale reported that if "SPRING OUT" is a success the committee will consider sponsoring other such events.

The Student-Faculty Student Center Committee is composed of students and faculty members who plan and administer all student center activities. Faculty members of the committee are: Miss Loretta Liptak, Dr. Frederick Blue, Dean Edith Painter and Dean John Gillespie.

Other student members are Carol Thomas, Steve Pernotto and Henri Caruso.

Alfred Frankenstein Lectures—

Butler Art Lecture Is Successful

William Harnett's painting, "After the Hunt" provided the topic for the first of three lectures given by Alfred Frankenstein, critic for the San Francisco Chronicle, last week at the Butler Art Institute. The painting, one of a series of four, was purchased by Butler Institute in 1954. It was painted in the middle nineteenth century, early in the career of the painter.

Mr. Frankenstein spoke at length about Harnett, his life and the influences on him, having worked some time ago collecting information concerning Harnett for use in a book which he was writing.

Mr. Frankenstein said that Harnett's style of painting was a realistic type which was often classified as a form of Surrealism. Very few of his works included human figures with most of his subjects being objects which he found about him such as books, pieces of glass, or materials hanging from or attached to a wall.

Mr. Frankenstein shocked many in the audience with the closing of his lecture. He divided the paintings given to the name of Harnett into two categories, one done in hard technique of painting, and the other a soft technique. It was in the middle 1940's that the art critic discovered the hard paintings had indeed been painted by Harnett himself, but what the soft paintings had been, in actuality painted by a school friend of Harnett's, John Pete.

The second of the lectures given Saturday evening was on "The Sepulchre" by Benjamin West. This painting is considered to be the most significant religious painting in the Butler Gallery.

West was classified among the Romantic painters who painted in the name of reason and nature, as a negative reaction to Baroque "artificiality." West's paintings present a rather academic and almost sculpture-like portrayal of life, stated Mr. Frankenstein.

West's career as a painter was spent in Europe where he became a founder-member and then president of the Royal Academy in London. "The Thames from Bettersea Bridge," by James McNeill Whistler was the final topic chosen for the Sunday afternoon lecture. Whistler was among the first painters classified among the Realists and Impressionists.

Having left the United States in 1865, he spent five years in Paris and his remaining years in London where he painted the city as he saw it, a city of beauty where there was no beginning or ending to anything, but a city where everything fused together.

In many of Whistler's paintings, primarily the portraits done while in Europe, one can clearly see that Whistler, as others, was greatly influenced by the Chinese form of art so prominent during that period of time. A great many of his paintings of London included the Thames River and its harbors. However, in all of his paintings he used "geometric shapes counterpointed by color and subject matter."

The series of lectures was sponsored by the Friends of American Art, the Butler Art Institute, and gallery trustee, Dr. John J. McDonough. Approximately 100 people attended each of the lectures.

Mr. Frankenstein formerly taught at the University of California and is now in New York.

Respond

The Greek Veto is not new to this section of the newspaper. Not too long ago, the Veto was the subject of Jambar editorials for weeks, editorials which Student Council chose to ignore as biased and "Anti-Greek."

After 1,000 students signed a petition however, calling for the rescinding of the veto, Council could bury its head in the sand no longer. They decided to place the Veto on the ballot as a referendum.

Monday and Tuesday of next week will give the students of this University, Greek and Independent alike, an opportunity to repeal this obviously unfair law.

There is much to be said for this repeal. It is of course obvious to anyone that the law is unfair and unjust in that it deprives individuals of this campus to a fair chance at organizing a new social group. This is admitted even by many Greeks.

It is also obvious that the law was passed by a council in the grip of members of various Greek organizations, all with the vested interests of their particular groups at heart.

It is perhaps less evident that the law itself may in fact be unconstitutional. Does a group such as council have the right to dispense a portion of its constitutional power to a smaller and more select group, or is this very dispensation unconstitutional? This is no mean question in itself.

With all that there is against the Greek Veto, it is, in fact, a tribute to Council's arrogance that it was not repealed. The Greek Veto will always stand as a monument to unresponsive representation.

It can only be hoped that the students of this University will see the necessity for their turning out to vote against the Veto.

Do not assume that your fellow students will do the necessary lever pulling. Go to Stouss Auditorium sometime Monday or Tuesday and vote to repeal the Greek Veto.

Take this opportunity to voice your opinion in the best possible way to the oppressive Greek hierarchy which has at this moment a strangle hold on fair and just representative government on this campus.

Letters to the Editor

All letters to the Editor must be limited to 250 words. The Editors reserve the right to edit the letters for brevity and clarity to meet this requirement.

To the Editor of the Jambar:

It appears from their letters in last Tuesday's Jambar that neither Mr. Giannini nor Mr. Bak know what evidence is. A reference to a book or article is not evidence but documentation. Examples of evidence are my quote from General Harkins, the American commander in South Vietnam in 1963, to the effect that the guerrillas in South Vietnam were "not being reinforced or systematically supplied from North Vietnam," and the Pentagon's information that there were only 400 North Vietnamese regulars in South Vietnam in the spring of 1965 when there were already about 25,000 American troops. These are matters of fact, not of opinion.

It evidently does not occur to Mr. Giannini that a dictator can hold rigged elections and yet still be popular, as Ho Chi Minh is. (This is the only point I was trying to establish, please note; it does not mean that I support Ho Chi Minh, nor that I would recommend that American soldiers be sent to aid his war effort, since I disapprove of American soldiers dying to support any dictatorship.) In his Memoirs, General Eisenhower wrote that he had not spoken to anyone knowledgeable about Vietnam who did not believe that in the event of a free election Ho would get 80% of the vote.

It is generally agreed that in spite of the fact that he is a Communist, Ho is a national hero in Vietnam because of his leadership of the anti-imperialist struggle against the French — a struggle in which Thieu and Ky, like Benedict Arnold, fought on the side of the colonialists against their own people. When these two military men ran for office in South Vietnam (in violation, incidentally, of the South Vietnamese constitution), they ruled off the ballot in advance all candidates unacceptable to them. Despite this, and extensive irregularities in the elections, the Generals got only a little over one-third of the popular vote.

Don Luce, who was in South Vietnam for nine years as head of the International Volunteer Services, a program funded by U. S. AID, testified to the fraudulence of the elections in an open letter to President Johnson. Even General Ky himself admitted that they were a fraud. Like many other dictators the Thieu-Ky regime is holding terms of thousands of political prisoners in jail without trial and is currently arresting more, this time intellectuals who are "not patriotic enough."

I am pleased that my discussion with Mr. Giannini has helped crystallized Mr. Bak's previously unformed opinions.

(It is about time he learned something about a war in which he may someday be fighting, but I would recommend that he read some authoritative books on the subject as well as the letters to the editor.) I appreciate the Jambar's making available space for this discussion, but perhaps we should now leave the letters column and continue it in another place.

Since the ROTC officers have rejected my challenge to a public debate on Vietnam, and since I have been unable to fine anyone else willing to take a pro-war position in a public forum, perhaps Mr. Giannini will do me the honor of debating the issue with me. Any time, any place, at shape table.

Arab Students Give Answer To Murphy

Mr. Murphy, a representative of the State Department of the United States, gave his government's analysis of the Arab-Israeli conflict on Thursday, April 17, 1969, in Ward Beecher, Room 213. The Organization of Arab Students at Youngstown State University feels that this is an effort to sell a package to the American public. The label on the package reads: "4—Power Solution to the Conflict at the Expense of the Palestinian Revolution."

Consequently, we feel obliged to declare our solid position, as clarified by the following points:

1. We renew our full support to the struggle of the Palestinian people and the Palestinian Revolution aimed at saving the country from Zionism and imperialism.

2. We refuse all peaceful solutions offered to the problem at the expense of the Palestinian people.

3. We consider all or any Arab government that participates in such maneuvers as traitor.

4. We hail the struggle of the oppressed exploited masses all over the Arab world. Organization of Arab Students Youngstown Chapter

To the Editor of the Jambar:

I am writing to you regarding my opinion of the Coalition for Students' Rights platform. Many of their planks are already being enacted upon by Student Council. I do not want the student body to think these ideas originated with the Coalition.

The Student Council budget is already a public record. Any student can question our finance chairman or our Secretary of Finance and see a copy of our budget.

Student Government already has a committee working on an "extensive, honest evaluation booklet of faculty" members.

The Greek veto is appearing on the ballot. The entire student body will voice its opinion. Student Council placed this on the ballot because it was so controversial.

Student Council has formed a committee to review graduation requirements. The committee is especially concerned with "mandatory attendance at graduation ceremonies."

Student Council unanimously endorsed Reverend Cantrell and each member signed a petition showing their support.

Student Council has already sent a letter to President Pugsley requesting equal representation of all Student-Faculty committees. We are expecting an immediate reply.

I urge everyone to consider candidates' original ideas, not the ideas which they have borrowed from Student Council and Student Government.

Penny Laakso
 Chairman of Student Council

To the Editor of the Jambar:

Thanks! The support of the students and faculty of Youngstown State University has meant a great deal to me in these last few weeks.

I believe that the vote in the Council of Churches last Tuesday was something more than a personal vindication. It was a victory for all of us who are concerned about the academic freedom and the independence of the university. There are a few individuals in our community who would like to censor books, censor speakers, and control the activities of liberal professors and clergymen. We met some of those people head on, and with tremendous support from within the University and within the liberal churches, we defeated them. I hope they will think twice before they try again to apply undue community pressure on the University. I hope it will be a little bit easier for the next man among us to stand up for what he believes in even though his cause may have some bitter opposition. We have shown that, when we stick together, we have considerable strength.

May I give the Jambar my special appreciation. Some of the news media in Youngstown are subject to pressure, and they do not always cover all phases of the news. The independent voice of the Jambar made it impossible to maintain the secrecy and subterfuge which were essential elements in the plans of those who wanted to remove me from my position. So once again, Thanks!

All Star Cast In Paramount's— "Shoes of the Fisherman"

by Patty Jean-Richards

Can you imagine the unruly "Zorba the Greek" (Anthony Quinn) as a Pope? Or "The Fugitive" (David Janssen) staying in one spot long enough to report the story? These two actors of unequal talent are starring in George Englund's production of "The Shoes of the Fisherman" which opened Wednesday at the Paramount.

A good imagination is essential for the audience to get the idea of the movie. The picture attempts to portray a crisis set 20 years from now in which China through her spiraling population rate threatens the survival of the entire world. Capital powers are on the verge of waging war with China unless the problem is solved.

"In a last desperate effort to prevent World War III, a secret meeting is arranged. One man is called upon to succeed where all the world leaders have failed. That man was once a prisoner in a Russian labor camp. He is now the Pope."

Anthony Quinn's acting is tremendous. His magnificent performance as Pope draws the audience toward him and forces them to share his problem.

But David Janssen as George Faver, reporter, gives the audience the impression that he is still running from the police. Dr. Kimble's apprehensive movements and twitches haunt Janssen still, and one almost expects a cardinal to throw his cloaks and reveal himself as Lt. Girard. The only romantic interest in this movie comes from a rather spontaneous affair between Janssen and a Roman girl. This is credible, as least one gets the impression that it is supposed to be credible, because Mrs. Faver is a doctor and coupled with her husband's occupation as a reporter, they have little time for each other.

If there is any connection between this affair and the main plot, real or implied, is not clear and is apparently left to the imagination of the audience.

At any rate, this little romantic interlude brings us to Oskar Werner and his role.

Werner portrays a young priest and a consultant to the Pope, a masochist who beats his head against the philosophical foundations of Holy Mother Church. Of the ten books he has laboriously penned, not one has gotten into print.

But he dutifully plods through the movie, dissenting his views and giving some member of the audience an opportunity to be amused by his philosophical ramblings.

All in all, "The Shoes of the Fisherman" offers the viewer no spectacular action. Blood isn't shed, armies don't march and not torrent love scenes are in the offering. But even through the plot is long and drawnout, Anthony Quinn is worth the entire movie.

“Tony’s” Captures Popularity

“Tony’s Hide-A-Way” is aptly named. If you search for it, walking south along Elm St. past Lincoln Ave., you dodge into a dim alcove, passing by the black wrought iron gates marking entrance to the cellar establishment you used to know so well.

You move on through a doorway constructed of unfinished plywood and walk head-on into a large dark-stained door. No wonder they call it “Tony’s Hideaway” . . . you’ve really got to look for it.

The door opens. Contrast between the crude entranceway and the establishment itself is so startling that most newcomers just stand and look around for a moment or two.

A long narrow bar with wood grain top and padded sides takes up a large portion of the first section of the “Hideaway.” The low, red-glow lights drop from the ceiling on heavy chains. The usual activity is going on behind the bar, with owner Tony Gaglione and manager Tony Cicchi, “rapping” with their customers.

Tables and chairs can be seen a little beyond the bar. Couples are seated, talking quietly and listening to the not-too-loud jukebox. Maybe it’s the red carpeting or the low lights, but there’s something distinctively warm and comfortable about the “Hideaway” that makes you want to stay and just soak in the atmosphere.

Tony Gaglione and Tony “Chick” Cicchi like the quiet atmosphere they have the the “Hideaway” and want to keep it that way.

Gaglione said he thought it was about time an “over 21 only” nite club was provided near campus for college students who wanted something more than loud, blaring music and association with 3/2 alcoholics who stumble over themselves while shouting profanities which, though no longer offensive to most ears, are nonetheless, very boring.

Since its opening in March, “Tony’s Hideaway” has caught on quite well with the over 21 set. “It’s the kind of a place you tell your friends about after you leave,” said one young lady.

Bob Miloszewski and Ted Nestor, both business majors from Ambridge, Pa., and self-proclaimed veteran bar-hoppers throughout the tri-state area, said they thought the place to be “decent” and “a pleasant change.”

Dick Patrus, senior law enforcement administration major, was sitting quietly thinking about his thesis for the University Honors Seminar when asked why he frequented “Tony’s”.

“I don’t know,” he reflected, “I guess I just like the place, that’s all.”

Most people, whether they be students, businessmen or guys getting ready to start the 11-7 shift, say they like “Tony’s Hideaway” because it’s quiet, there’s no trouble and “it’s a nice place to bring a girl.”

You might even say “Tony’s” is the bartenders’ bar, since many young men who work in establishments nearby can be seen at the “Hideaway” on their nights off.

Manager Tony Cicchi tells of plans to make room next door into a draft beer “Tap Room” where stags can gather and meet. They may also bring a soft-tone band in during the summer.

SUPPORT MRS. CURRAN!

We, the undersigned Youngstown State University faculty and students express our shock and dismay at Judge Rigelhaupt’s gratuitous insult to our fellow member of the university community, Mrs. Terrie Curran, for her effort to hold the Youngstown City Council accountable to the law, an effort which the Judge himself decided was valid and proper. We ask how it is possible to inculcate a respect for law among the young when a public official whose duty it is to uphold the law makes his court decision the occasion for a personal attack on a public-spirited citizen because she used the legal processes to eliminate an admittedly unlawful and unjust ordinance.

Dr. Solimine Publishes In Quarterly

Dr. Joseph W. Solimine, Jr., associate professor of English, Youngstown State University, will have his article, "The Idylls of the King: The Rise, Decline and Fall of the State," included in "The Personalist," an international review of philosophy publication.

Dr. Solimine's work, which covers some eleven pages in the journal, studies Tennyson's "Idylls of the King," as a poem about the gradual secularization of Western civilization.

Dr. Solimine, whose major field of specialization is Victorian prose and poetry, is also the author of "The Dialectics of Church and State: Tennyson's Historical Plays," which was published in a 1966 edition of "The Personalist," and "The Burkean Idea of the State in Tennyson's Poetry: The Vision of Crisis," published in the Huntington Library Quarterly.

HOLD YOUR TONGUE!

It has often been said, and with some justice, that what a man says is not as important as what he does. But that doesn't mean that our words don't matter. They matter a great deal. You may never have killed anyone with your hands, but it's possible to kill a man with words, you know.

A peasant with a troubled conscience went to a monk for advice. He said he had circulated a vile story about a friend, only to find out that it wasn't true. "If you want to make peace with your conscience," said the monk, "you must fill a bag with chicken feathers, go to every doorway in the village, and drop in each one a fluffy feather." The peasant did as he was told. Then he came back and announced that he had done penance for his folly. "Not yet," replied the monk. "Go around again and gather up every feather you have dropped." "But the wind must have blown them all away," said the peasant. "Yes, my son," said the monk, "and so it is with gossip. Words are easily dropped, but no matter how hard you try, you can never get them back again."

It is true that the law of the land does not demand imprisonment for killing, a person with the tongue, as it does for killing him with the hand, but in this the law of God is superior. The Christian is expected to live, not merely according to man-made laws, but according to divinely instituted laws. If people were more concerned about staying out of hell than merely staying out of jail, things would be different in this world of ours.

A man who can control his tongue can control his entire body, the Bible says. But we cannot of our own selves do this. It is only as we yield our hearts to God that our tongues will learn how to behave.

Let's Vote Student Council's

University administrators have expressed hesitancy about accepting the proposals of their student government for fear that the government's members do not represent the attitudes and wishes of the students.

They argue that when only 25% or less of the students vote in government elections, the beliefs of the student body are not adequately measured.

No different is the situation here.

President Pugsley has shown the same hesitancy based on the same fear, and when only 7% of the students vote for Council representatives as was the case Fall Quarter, his hesitancy is justified.

It would seem then, that if the students of Youngstown State University desire greater influence in governmental matters, than they should demonstrate that desire by voting in the Student Government elections.

A reversal of the downward trend in voting turnout can only have a positive effect on those elected, the administration and the faculty.

Election Set For Monday & Tuesday

Elections for Student Government offices and Student Council will be held Monday and Tuesday, April 28 and 29, in Strouss Auditorium.

The polls will be open between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. on both days and on Monday evening between 6 and 7:30 p.m.

Though students will have the opportunity to discuss issues and personalities with the candidates in the auditorium, actual balloting procedures have been changed since the last election during Fall Quarter.

Voting machines from the Mahoning County Board of Elections will replace the IBM ballots used in previous elections.

Students voting will be required to present their ID cards to polling officials who will then assign the student to one of the machines.

Since all of the candidates for every office will appear on one ballot, the polling officials, after determining the voter's school, will "lock out" levers for the other schools in order to prevent cross-school or multi-school voting.

A total of forty candidates are seeking the twelve available seats on Student Council.

Students in every school except music will be voting for school representatives.

Economics Society Seeks Members

Omicron Delta Epsilon, the national economics honor society, is starting a membership drive among the student body at YSU.

Minimum requirements for membership in Omicron Delta Epsilon are a 3 point accumulative average and a 3 point average in economics with 12 hours completed in the subject. All those interested in membership in the society should fill out the application below and leave it with the secretary in the economics department located in the Arts and Science Office Building.

Golden Knights Down YSU in 3-2 Decision

Due to the inclement weather, YSU Spring Sports were halted temporarily. Coach Dom Rosselli did manage to get one-half of his scheduled double-header with Gannon College completed, but much to his disappointment.

Under cloudy skies and threatening rain, the Penguins dropped a 3-2 decision to the visiting Golden Knights Monday afternoon on the YSU diamond. Mike Malley, winner in his last seven outings, tasted the ugly ingredients of defeat in an extra inning affair which saw Gannon tag Malley for three consecutive singles in the tenth.

Brad Lawson's two-bagger in the bottom half of the seventh frame forced the contest into extra innings as the Penguins waited until the last inning to do their scoring. The Penguin's ace hurler, Malley, went the route for YSU, striking out nine and scattering ten hits — all singles. The other half of the twin bill called at the end of two innings as the rain made its debut for the week.

Coach Bob Thompson saw his second straight tennis match postponed Tuesday afternoon with an invading Hiram College scheduled on the Volney Rogers courts. Thompson and his Penguins have seemed to have entered the time machine and travelled back into last year's rain-filled agenda.

The Memoirs of Pete Penguin

Editor's Note: Although this animated editorial may be somewhat fictional concerning the interviewing of Pete Penguin, the basic opinions and reasonings are commonly recognized as valid.

Amidst his second departure of the school year, little Pete Penguin, the tarnished, weather-beaten mascot of YSU, neglected to pack several sections of his unfinished memoirs, dealing with his campus residence over the last couple of years.

Chapter One, Scene One: I felt, by the warm welcome of the student body, completely at home on the YSU campus. My coming brought excitement and injected new life into the school's spirit disease. I was the center of attraction for several weeks, under, what I presumed later, was entirely false pretenses.

The students soon lost interest in me while the support for YSU athletic activities weakened severely day by day.

My center of attraction status seemed somehow to become a common and intricate part of the "no-care" attitudes and philosophies with which YSU is now entangled. My occasional "business" vacations would go unnoticed by the vast majority of the students because of this submergence into the desolate and lonely, "Seas of Spirit," where all old mascots and colorful figures drift away to.

Chapter Two, Scene Three: I began to constantly fear my life as each day passed and night reared its ugly horizon. I say this because of the sidewalk conversations I fatally witnessed throughout my stay on campus. Conversations about YSU's school spirit and the macabre opinions which were spoken and exchanged were so frightening that it was impossible to turn my back to match my front.

If the students, almost 15,000 strong, felt the way they did about supporting their alma mater, what would they think of the little Penguins who stood for what they were violently opposed to????of...help!

Chapter Two, Scene Four: From the deepest corner in my homemade abode amidst the land of the giants, I've watched the lack of response and support grow to unlimited proportions. Recently, this past roundball campaign, a trophy went up for grabs for the best group cheering the Rosselli men onto victory. Needless to say, I was quite ashamed to be a witness to this complete spirit fallacy and, moreover, to be seen by hundreds of visiting fans, as YSU's faithful mascot. Oh, the disgrace of it all.

Chapter Four, Scene One: My residence is more and more taking on the delapidated appearance of YSU's typical housing conditions. Neglect from daily housecleaning became a regular mishap as my small home began to blend in with the remaining urban renewal projects. Depressions is becoming foremost in my mind over the attitudes of the people whom I am supposed to be representative and therefore, another vacation, longer in length, must be in order.

Of course, love life could well be a contributing factor to my dismal state here on the YSU campus and my frequent leaves of absences to Pittsburgh help to curb those anxieties.

Chapter Four, Scene Five: I've searched many times for the answer to my failure here on campus and have never come up with a valid reason for the lack of support on my part. I have thought of, however, I might return to my Pennsylvania homeland and undertake the mascot duties of the Pittsburgh Penguins hockey squad - at least I would feel at home in a two-fold way - at the Zoo with my "friends" and on the "ice" mascot a true home town team. I've searched and searched with all this time on my hands to no avail...unless YSU students take heed of school athletic programs, this institution is doomed in the sports world.

IFC Softball Unveils Season

Last Sunday afternoon marked the opening of the 1969 IFC Softball season and the beginning of the year-long conquest of the coveted All-Events Trophy. Seven contests were complete, and the visions of eventual champions were foreseen.

Sigma Tau Gamma, the workhorse frat of IFC sports, opened the new campaign with a 6-3 verdict over Sigma Pi. Heavyweight Sam Fuda and contrasting Ken Scelfo contributed two hits apiece for the Sig Tau cause, while Prexy Cy Shaheen hurled the Blue and White on the defensive attack with an excellent mound performance.

On the next door mound Theta Chi was humiliating newcomer Delta Chi with an eventual 28-1 setback. Ang Ford and Gary Dota led the Theta Chi 31-hit explosion as Ted Thompson received the mound victory in holding Delta Chi to five scattered hits.

The 1:30 contests featured Sigma Phi Epsilon conquering ZBT, 10-2, and Phi Kappa Tau upsetting a traditionally tough Theta Xi nine, 9-6. The Sig Eps put 13 hits together for their ten markers and were led by Devor's home run blast and Didonato's three hits.

On the opposite field, the now favored Phi Tau's collected nine runs on ten hits in defeating Theta Xi 9-6. Ron Delusio and Vic Hanna aided the Black and White's winning cause behind the pitching performance of Denny Baron, who scattered seven Theta Xi hits.

Kappa Sigma won their first IFC game with a narrow 8-7 triumph over SAM in the 3:00 fray.

Meanwhile, Phi Sigma Kappa, the basketball amazement for 1969, handed Delta Sigma Phi their opening game loss with a 13-5 decision behind the slugging of Bill Gallagher and Tom Meinert.

TKE, probably the most highly favored nine for capturing the IFC Softball crown, edged the SAE's in the 4:00 contest, 8-6. Jim Curtis and Ed Pancella led the TKE assault, while Denny Delostrito helped the SAE's in their losing opening game bid.

Sunday's afternoon card: At 12:00 the Sig Tau's (1-0) will meet favored TKE (1-0) on field 5, while SAM (0-1) tangle with Delta Chi (0-1) on field 6. An hour-and-a-half later at 1:30, KS vs. Theta Chi and ZBT will face the Delta Sigs. In the 3:00 contests, Sig Eps will go against the Phi Sigs and Phi Kappa Tau duels Alpha Phi Delta. SAE and Sigma Pi will get underway in the lone 4:00 battle.
