The Rev. Burton Cantrell

Funds Threatened —

Cantrell Under Fire

The Rev. Burton N. Cantrell, Protestant chaplain at Youngstown State University and mentor of liberal social and political causes, is in immediate danger of losing his appointment as chaplain from the Youngstown Council of Churches which employs him, it was learned late last night.

Cantrell, however, expressed complete confidence last night that the University Work Committee and the Executive Committee (both of the Council of Churches) will support him, and that "those who have tried to have me fired won't be successful."

Cantrell wouldn't discuss the issues surrounding the controversy. According to a member of the committee appointed to evaluate his work at YSU, where he has served for the last three years, and who has access to the issues which brought about the controversy, the Council of Churches is attempting to alleviate its financial troubles by having the controversial chaplain removed.

One of the problems, according to this member, is that several local churches, which support the Council, have threatened to withhold funds if Cantrell's contract is renewed.

It was learned from another source that one church has already acted along these lines.

The Council's Executive Secretary, Dr. Norman Parr, was reported in Washington yesterday and could not be reached for comment.

Though official "charges" have not been specified, sources close to the Council have suggested that the complaining parishes are opposed to Cantrell's open association with local politically active groups.

Cantrell, as one of the sponsors of the Gates of Eden Coffeehouse, has encouraged liberal and conservative individuals to speak at the student-minister run coffeehouse.

In recent weeks, the Gates has sponsored conservative David O'Neil, a local proponent of "stricter moral codes" and Mr. Fred Alexander, a California-based liberal who is involved in the Black Panther movement.

Prexy, V.P., Council, and Queen Elections to be Held April 28, 29

Elections for the President and Vice-President of Student Government, Spring Weekend Queen and twelve seats on Student Council will be held April 28 and 29, in Strouss Auditorium, it was announced yesterday by David Hensel, the chairman of the Elections Committee.

Hensel also announced that there will be a mandatory meeting for all council candidates at 10:30 a.m. Monday, April 14, and that candidates' petitions must be submitted by 5:00 p.m. April 18. The location of the meeting is to be announced at a later date.

The twelve open seats on council include: 2 for the office of representative at large, 1 in engineering, 3 in business, 3 in Liberal Arts and 3 in Education. A candidate must be a full-time student in the School which he is to represent. The RAL candidate may be a student in any school, but according to council by-laws, may not be a member of a Greek social organization.

Cantrell Gets AAUP Support

Support for Rev. Burton Cantrell, YSU Protestant chaplain whose position is under fire from the Youngstown Council of Churches, was voiced Wednesday evening by the YSU chapter of the AAUP as they passed unanimously a resolution endorsing the chaplain's work on the Youngstown campus.

Noting the criticism in the community and the "desire of some persons that he be removed from his post by the Executive Committee of the Youngstown Council of Churches," the resolution read that the chapter "expresses the highest confidence in Rev. Cantrell as chaplain."

It continues that it "appears to us that he (Cantrell) has established a rapport with a wide variety of students on campus, and has helped to make the principles of Christianity relevant to their lives."

The resolution concludes, "We therefore consider that his removal would constitute not only a serious loss to the University community, but a grievous injury to the educational process to which we are committed."

Bids Open On Radio Station Equipment

Bids are now being taken for the radio station equipment package, announced Mr. Stephen Grceovich, instructor in the speech department.

Mr. Grceovich said bids are due April 18 and delivery of equipment could come two weeks after acceptance of a proposal.

While waiting for equipment delivery he said remodeling of rooms for the radio station will take place, and when the equipment arrives installation can begin immediately.

The speech and drama department is now taking applications for chief engineer, news and public affairs editor and Council candidates must attend two of the last three Council meetings which are held at 3:30 p.m. on Mondays in Room 301 of the Science Building before the election. There are only two such meetings now remaining.

Spring Weekend queen candidates must attend a meeting in the Student Council Office Wednesday, April 16, at 10:30 a.m.

Curriculum Changes OK'd By Senate

The Faculty Senate in its regular meeting Friday passed several Curriculum Committee recommendations affecting the science, mathematics, social studies, humanities and communication requirements for graduation with the degree of B.A., B.S., B.S. in Ed., B.S. in B.A., B.E., and Mus.B.

Under the new regulations, which will go into effect in September 1970, candidates of any of the specified degrees will be required to complete a total of 58 quarter hours in the given areas.

This is specifically broken down into 16 quarter hours in a science or mathematics, 20 quarter hours in the social sciences, 12 quarter hours of communications and 10 quarter hours in the Humanities.

Also passed at the meeting was a resolution which reduces the required quarter hours in health and Physical Education activities from 6 quarter hours to 3 quarter hours. This will go into effect in the fall of 1969.

Isgro and Laakso Declare Candidacy

Pete Isgro, Vice-President of Student Government, and Penny Laakso, Chairman of Student Council, announced yesterday that they intend to run together in April for the offices of Student Government President and Vice-President respectively.

Isgro, from Philadelphia, is a junior majoring in philosophy and psychology. Miss Laakso is a junior from North Jackson, Ohio, majoring in mathematics.

They both declared that their present jobs with Student Government and past positions give them much incite into the actual functioning of the Student Government at YSU.

They are running together to alleviate the problems created when a president and vice-president are elected who ran on different platforms.

Isgro stated that their similar views on many issues would allow them to function more efficiently as a team rather than office holders with different goals.

"The authority of the vice-president comes directly from the president," stated Isgro. "If elected, I will not hesitate to delegate authorities to and work with Penny. This has just not been the case in the past."

Miss Laakso explained that in their campaign they would make an effort to talk personally with

as many of the YSU organizations as possible.

As of yet no other students have declared their candidacy for either position. The elections are scheduled for April.

NEWS BRIEFS

Compiled From The Associated Press

International

MIDEAST—The guns and tanks of Egypt and Israel blazed away from dawn to dark along the Suez Canal Thursday in the third and longest duel across the 103 mile waterway in the past seven days.

PARIS—The Viet Cong accused the Nixon administration Thursday of spreading rumors of private Vietnam peace talks as part of a "perfidious maneuver" to deceive the U.S. public and calm antiwar sentiment.

GENEVA—The 17 nation disarmament talks returned to a familiar pattern Thursday as the Soviet Union rejected an American compromise offer on curbing the nuclear armaments race and insisted on an old Russian proposal repeatedly termed unacceptable by the United States.

AMMAN, Jordan—Two Arab guerrillas who launched a rocket attack on the Israeli port of Elath Tuesday were arrested on the spot by the Jordanian army and at least two more were rounded up later in the Aqaba area, security sources reported Thursday.

TEL AVIV—Another battle broke out along the Suez Canal yesterday between artillery and tank units of Israel and Egypt. An Israeli army spokesman said Egyptian gunners opened fire on Israeli troops near Ismailia in the northern sector of the 103 mile waterway and near Port Taufiq at the southern end. About a dozen shells had been lobbed from Egypt at Israeli troops two hours earlier, but the Israelis did not return fire, he said.

National

DETROIT—Detroit police announced yesterday that two of the men rounded up after a midnight shootout at the New Bethel Baptist Church last month have been charged with the murder of one policeman and wounding of another.

WASHINGTON—The government is stepping up its efforts to stimulate perfection of an artificial heart capable of being implanted totally and permanently in the human body, it was learned Thursday.

This would contrast with the externally powered one tried by a Texas surgeon last week.

WASHINGTON—King Hussein of Jordan, winding up an official visit Thursday, said Israel can have either peace in the Middle East or territory, "but she can never have both."

In a speech before the National Press Club the monarch offered a six point program for a Middle East peace settlement, including the end of all belligerency and respect for the territorial integrity and political independence of Israel and other states.

Campus Disorders

STANFORD, Calif.—Nearly 400 Stanford University students held a campus electronics laboratory yesterday in a sit in protest against scientific research done for the military.

Targets of the protest are both the classified research done on the campus in the university's Applied Electronics Laboratory and at Stanford Research Institute, an off campus organization owned by the university.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa—Liberal, English-speaking students at Witwatersrand University launched a nine-day "confrontation" of apartheid in education Thursday. Police arrested six picketing students and confiscated their antigovernment posters.

Officials had set aside an area for demonstrations and also approved signs to be carried. Apparently the six arrested were in another area and carrying signs that were not approved. Several of the posters bore was tikas. One had the slogan, "All white is not all right."

CAMBRIDGE—State and city police, some swinging billy clubs and all disregarding a hail of bottles and other objects, threw about 200 protesters out of Harvard's University Hall and arrested them Thursday, setting of a call for a three day student strike.

More than 1,200 attended the rally which led to an overwhelming vote to strike after several hours of heated debate. But there was no way of telling how many of Harvard's 10,000 undergraduates and 5,000 graduate students might join the protest.

The sit ins, led by the Students for a Democratic Society, had demanded abolition of the Reserve Officers Training Corps on campus. Other demands included reduction of rents in Harvard owned buildings and a revolt against and asserted plan to tear down dwellings for medical school expansion and the building of a John F. Kennedy Memorial Library.

Skardon to Publish Muhlenberg Biography

Dr. A. W. Skardon recently announced that his new book, The Biography of William Augustus Muhlenberg, Urban Church Leader, is scheduled for publication in the fall of this year by the University of Pennsylvania Press. It is the first full biography of Muhlenberg to be published since 1890.

Muhlenberg was a Christian clergyman who lived during the middle nineteenth century and was one of the first to recognize the present and future problems of the U. S. cities of his day. The book is an off-spring of Dr. Skardon's dissertation for his Ph.D. which he earned in 1960 from the University of Chicago.

Dr. Skardon's specialty is urban history. Besides teaching full time at the University he also serves on the Committee of Urban Study in Youngstown and has been faculty advisor of the Young Democrats on campus for the past three presidential elections.

He realizes that this University is experiencing certain problems, one of the biggest being automobile parking and traffic; and, he noted that one possible solution to this situation may be to prohibit parking on campus altogether and to utilize a regular and efficient bus service on and around campus, a solution which is now in effect at Kent State University.

Generally Dr. Skardon believes that most of the problems are just growing pains, and that solutions will be worked out by active and open student and administration cooperation and communication.

He has watched the enrollment grow from 5,000 to 15,000. He has watched his own department grow and improve, and as far as new professors are concerned, Dr. Skardon believes that "new blood" adds to the department status.

Professor Skardon received his bachelor degree from the College of Charleston, Charleston, S.C., which he said is the oldest municipal college in the United States. He has been with Youngstown State University for twelve years.

The KNIGHTS will hold a meeting to organize their spring plans most likely this Saturday. Members should attend, because of a possible purge due to Dr. Ertas' recent statements.

Entries are now being accepted for an international photo contest sponsored by The Foundation for Spiritual Understanding. The winner in the color category will receive a trip to Hawaii. First prize in the black-and-white category is a week at Val Morin Yoga Camp in Montreal, Canada. In addition to these major prizes, eighteen cash awards will be made.

The judging panel, headed by Life photographer Ralph Crane, will include outstanding photographers as well as representatives of the world's major religions. Pictures will be judged on the basis of technical excellence and their significance in terms of spiritual understanding, a concept defined by Dr. Marcus Bach, director of FSU, as the spiritual quality to be found at the heart of all life's positive experiences.

Details may be obtained by writing to Photo Contest, FSU Box 816, Palos Verdes Estates, Calif. 90274. The contest closes July 1, 1969, and winners will be announced on or before September 1, 1969.

TEST-TUBE PROOFS

Science has made such great strides in the past few decades that this is hardly the same world any more. Notice just one specific area of change. Once science began promoting the theory of evolution, many people felt it was no longer necessary to believe in God. Up to that point, they had believed in Him because there had been no other explanation for the universe. Today, because of its great achievements, many have defied science. They will believe nothing unless it can be proved by the so-called scientific method. Yet the answer to everything cannot be found in a test tube.

When her baby brother died, a six-year-old asked her mother, "Where did Billy go?" "He went to heaven," was the mother's reassuring reply. A few days later, the child heard her mother speaking with a neighbor of the loss of her son. Perplexed, she asked, "Is something lost when you know where it is?" "No, of course not." "Then why do you say Billy is lost, when you know he's in heaven?" The mother hugged the child and said, "You're right, Honey, we do know where he is." Science doesn't help us to know this. Nor can it disprove it. On the contrary, scientific discoveries, as far as they go, prove the soundness of the truths that can be learned only by divine revelation in the Bible.

Take the resurrection of the dead, for instance. Though this is taught only in the Bible, it is in harmony with sound scientific principles regarding the indestructibility of matter. If seeds found in the tombs of the Pharaohs didn't die over the centuries, but germinated when planted by archaeologists in this century, why should it be thought incredible or unscientific that God should raise us who are the special objects of His love and care? His Word says that you will rise. The only question I would leave with you is, will it be to judgment or to eternal life?

Student Work At "Galerie"

Galerie 1132 will show the recent paintings and sculpture of university students at 1132 Wick Avenue. The show will run from April 12 to April 19, from 7 to 10 o'clock, nightly.

The works are indicative of the modern art being produced here at the university. A wide variety of media is displayed in the sculptures -- including mirrors, car parts, plumbing pipes, etc. Refreshments will be served. Admission is free.

YSU FRENCH CLUB

Les Bons Vivants, the YSU French Club, will hold its annual recitation contest tonight at 8 p.m. in Pollock House as part of the monthly meeting.

The recitation contest, in which area high school students have been invited to take part, will consist of readings from French literature. Winning renditions will be rewarded with trophies. All interested students are invited to attend.

Bright To Open Show

Mr. Alfred Bright, assistant professor of art, will begin a one-man show at 8:30, Sunday, April 13, at the Jewish Community Center on Gypsy Lane. The show will run for three weeks.

The opening lecture will be given by Mr. Jon Naberezny, chairman of the art department. His topic will be "Pop and 3-Dimension Art."

The show is free and open to the public.

Canadian Chemistry Professor Appointed

Dr. Abdul B. Lateef, a post-doctoral fellow at the University of Calgary, Canada, has been appointed an instructor in chemistry at YSU, it was announced yesterday by Dr. Albert L. Pugsley, University president. Dr. Lateef's appointment is effective with the spring quarter, 1969.

Dr. Lateef, a native of Pakistan, earned his Bachelor of Science and Master of Science degrees from Punjab University Lahore, Pakistan, and his Ph. D. in physical and organic chemistry from Newcastle University, England.

A member of the Faraday Chemical Society, Dr. Lateef has studied kinetics and chemical reactions under high pressure, and is the author of four research papers in these areas.

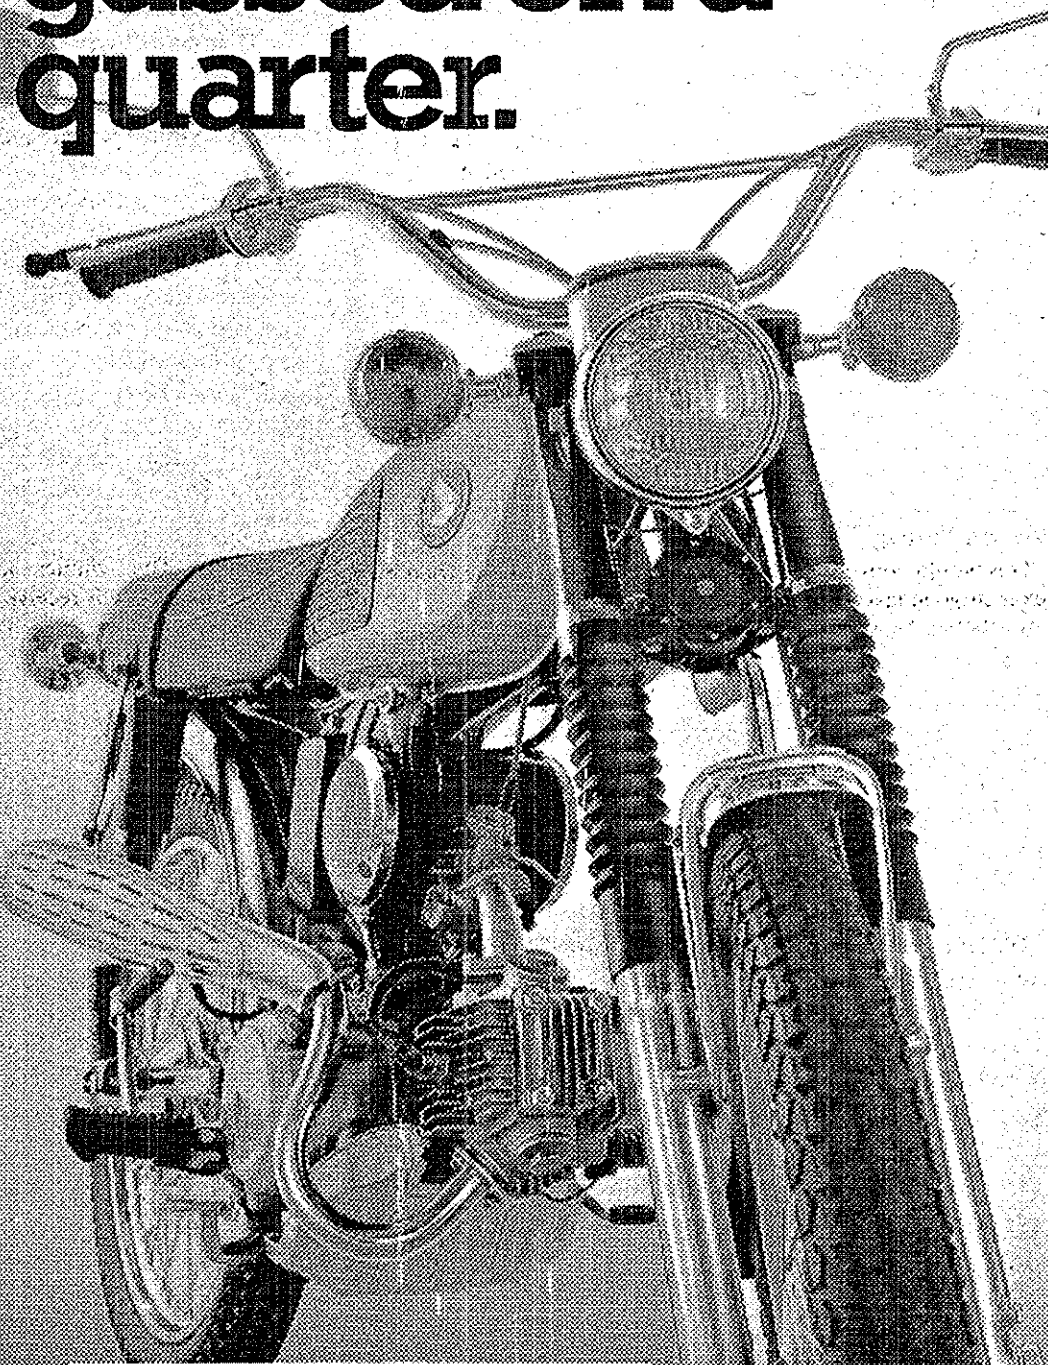

Dr. Lateef will spend at least a year working on research with Dr. Leon Rand, professor of chemistry and chairman of the department at YSU. The research will be to study the kinetics and mechanism of the urethane-alcohol reaction.

The work is being supported by a basic research grant from the U. S. Army Research Office, Durham, North Carolina. Information gained from this study could have an important bearing on the production of polyurethanes, a plastic that is gaining importance in automobiles, furniture, construction and many other areas.

Expedience

Though Rev. Cantrell is not employed by the University, his presence provides a spiritual and moral conviction not readily found in the nation's universities today.

It would indeed imperil the moral and social conscience of the University should his demontors be successful.

By its very nature the administration of Youngstown State University could have a significant impact on the Council of Churches should it make known the importance of Cantrell's position as chaplain, and the very positive effect Cantrell has made on the student body.

This is not a time when neutralization for political reasons can be rationalized.

We look forward to printing in the very immediate future a statement of the administration's attesting to the necessity for Cantrell's continuance as Protestant chaplain.

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor of the Jambar:

Where is the money going? We won't know until Student Council decided who and what receives any monies! This is only right. It should be the power of Council to decide this — not one man. (This is my objection to Johnson deleting or deciding who gets what before Council can act on it.) But,

Council should use the power it has to remedy this situation by setting up guidelines for the student government Secretary of the Treasury to use to break down into a satisfactory budget money which will be allotted to those extra-curricular activities deemed most beneficial to the majority of the student body.

This is take the power from one hand and place it where it should be — into the hands of Student Council. It will also save time and wrangling, when its budget in nothing to sneeze at ($90,000 this year) is proposed on the floor.

Paul Hura,
 Sec'y of the Treasury

To the Editor of the Jambar:

It should be obvious from the letters in Tuesday's Jambar answering my letter in last Friday's issue that American military officers are not the only Americans who are presenting misinformation on Vietnam to the public. Mr. Yost begins his letter with Dean Rusk's unsubstantiated claim that the North Vietnamese were the original and principal violators of the Geneva Accords of 1956. In fact, the International Control Commission, which was established to oversee the implementation of the Accords, reported few violations by the Hanoi government. In 1956 the Commission reported that while it "has" experienced difficulties in North Vietnam, the major part of its difficulties has arisen in South Vietnam."

Yost ignores my point, for which there is evidence from everyone from President Eisenhower on down, that had the political terms of the Accords been implemented, Ho Chi Minh would have won the elections called for in 1956, and become the undisputed leader of the Vietnamese nation. It was the effort by Diem and the Americans to create a separate nation in the southern zone of Vietnam, in violation of the Accords, which was the starting point of the present war. Since Vietnam was one — and not two countries (see Articles 6 and 7 of the Final Declaration of the Geneva Accords — any military actions which the Ho Chi Minh government might have taken against the Diem government were no more a case of international aggression than President Lincoln's actions against the government of Jefferson Davis during the American Civil War.

But despite the claims of both Mr. Yost and Mr. Giannini, the evidence indicates that Hanoi did not initiate the revolution against the Diem regime. Because of government withheld endorsement of the revolutionary struggle in the South throughout the 1950's. According to the French correspondent, Jean Lacouture, the southern rebels demanded of the North Vietnamese emissaries sent to study the situation: "What are you waiting for to help us? If you don't do anything, you Communists, we will rise up against you too." In 1960 the Hanoi government agreed to help set up a National Liberation Front in the South, and then began to send back southerners who had been regrouped in 1954 under the Geneva Accords to fight with it. But Senator Morse has revealed that officials of the Johnson administration testified before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that virtually no native northerners were sent south until after the American bombing attacks on North Vietnam in the summer of 1964. One can get some idea of the extent of Hanoi's support for the revolution in 1963, when the U.S. already had 17,000 troops in Vietnam, from a statement made at the time by the American commander in Vietnam, General Paul D. Harkins: "The guerillas are obviously not being reinforced or supplied systematically from North Vietnam, China, or any other place." According to figures Senator Mansfield obtained from the Pentagon in 1966, there were only four hundred North Vietnamese regular troops in South Vietnam in the spring of 1965, at the time of the massive American escalation of the war, yet there were already before that escalation about 25,000 American troops.

The degree of influence of the North Vietnamese over the N.L.F. is a more complicated question. Giannini's claim that the leadership of the PRP, which is the Communist organization within the NLF, is composed only of North Vietnamese is false, as he would discover by consulting the definitive study of the NLF, Viet Cong, by Douglas Pike. Obviously, as North Vietnamese participation in the war has grown, so has their influence in the NLF. Yet writers like Pike and the late Bernard Fall are in agreement that Hanoi does not control the NLF.

Yost tries again to sell us the myth of how happy Vietnamese civilians are to be incarcerated in our concentration camps with their "better living conditions." Since he apparently doesn't watch television or read the news (or at least didn't last year when the conditions of the camps were still being reported on) I advise him to read Jonathan Schell's account, The Military Half. It is even more difficult to believe that Yost is totally unfamiliar with the South Vietnamese and American mistreatment of prisoners of war, especially since he claims to be familiar with the work of Bernard Fall. Fall discusses the subject extensively in the last book, Last Reflections on a War. There is also a full chapter of documentary evidence from a variety of sources in the book, In The Name of America. Incidentally, the prisoner whom General Loan shot down in cold blood was a regular Vietcong officer, not a spy. But even if he had been a spy, murdering him after he was captured, a practice which Yost recommends as "the duty of a soldier," does not strike me as the kind of "civilized judicial process" which the ROTC officers were claiming for South Vietnam.

I did not, as Yost claims, accuse Capt. Solenberger of lying about the morale of American soldiers, a fact which was clear even though the relevant sentences in my article were somewhat garbled in the printing. What I said was: "The ROTC officers might respond 'war is hell,' but they try to give the erroneous impression that we and our South Vietnamese allies are not helping to create this hell. I think many American servicemen are aware that we are, and that explains why, despite Capt. Solenberger's claim that there are no morale problems, the Senate Armed Service Committee has just reported that American desertions from the military have reached an all-time high, 53,000 deserters in the year from June of 1967 to June of 1968." Nor are these bloated statistics, as Giannini maintains. The committee figures do not include AWOL's. The AWOL figure was 155,000 (New York Times, March 6, 1969).

Neither writer seems to have read what I said about Vietcong terrorism. I did not deny it exists as Yost states, nor did I condone it, as Giannini suggests. I did point out that it is a tactic commonly used on both sides in revolutionary struggles. In fact, I personally oppose the use of terrorism even in a just cause. But I do not believe that justifies our own actions in Vietnam, for which I as an American citizen am responsible.

It was not my intention in writing my letter to downgrade our fighting men and officers, many of whom I have just marched with in Chicago to end the war. One of the most encouraging signs these days is the number of servicemen, including Vietnam veterans, who oppose the war. Many retired Generals and Admirals have eloquently denounced it, as the former Commandant of the Marine Corps General David M. Shoup does in the most recent issue of the Atlantic Monthly. Of particular importance is a biting indictment of the war entitled The Betrayal by a marine Lieutenant Colonel named William Corson. Although Corson, who is an expert in Asian affairs, ran one of the few successful programs in Vietnam, pacification effort in the I Corps area, he castigates the war as a betrayal of the Vietnamese and American peoples. In spite of the brainwashing of the military and the inevitable emotional commitment for one's own side which one develops in fighting a war, men like Corson have had the courage to speak out against American involvement in this tragic conflict. To my mind they are the real heroes of America. But whether American soldiers oppose the war or favor it, I hate to see their lives sacrificed to maintain in power a corrupt, tyrannical dictatorship in Saigon which is too unpopular to sustain itself in spite of its repressiveness.

YSU Students Appearing at Playhouse

YSU students Wynn Hall and Gary Banks, and Dana School of Music junior John Cole are playing featured roles in "You Can't Take It With You" which opens its 12-performance run at The Youngstown Playhouse tonight under the direction of Ella Gerber.

Packard Music Hall Presents Johnny Mathis

Coming to Packard Music Hall the night of April 16, is one of the finest musical shows to hit the Youngstown area, The Johnny Mathis Show. This is one evening that should prove to be a major entertainment highlight of this year. The show naturally stars Johnny Mathis and as his co-stars, he has the Craig Hundley Trio. There will be only one show that night at 7:30 p.m. and the prices are $3.50 and $5.00 in advance and $4.50 and $6.00 the day of the show.

Great jazz and fabulous singing are a hard combination to beat, and the Johnny Mathis show should provide enough of each for any hard-core music enthusiast.

Seats are still available and may be purchased at the Packard Music Hall Box Office.

Performances are tonight and Saturday at 8:30 and Sunday at 7:30 this weekend and the run will be resumed next Thursday for two more weekends of performances through Sunday, April 27.

Also featured in the cast are Rod MacDonald, instructor in the communications department; John Baker, Helen Moyer, Paul Herman; Richard Bartholomew; Betty Owsley, Cheryl Locke, Jerry Goff, Callie Buie, Charles McCreary, Jim Kruser, John Stubbs, Bob Vargo, Myrtle Grist, Alice Weiss and Charles Young.

YSU students who get tickets through the Athletic Department Ticket Office are admitted to all performances for 50 cents.

Romeo and Juliet-

A Classic Retelling of a Classic

by Dennis B. Mangan

Barely a student has survived the rigors of high school literature courses without becoming at least acquainted with Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet."

The rivalry of the Montagues and the Capulets and the tragedy which resulted has been painstakingly recounted by teachers around the world. The Elizabethan English, and some of the subtleties which it can hide from the student, has been explained by hoarse teachers to millions of students who just couldn't understand how "Wherefore" could mean "Why."

And now, in fact not again (this is the third attempt) the play has been made into a movie. One might even claim that this is a case of over-exposure - one might, but after viewing, the film I seriously doubt it.

Franco Zeffirelli has taken two teenagers, thousands of feet of celuloïd, a very talented composer and a 370 year old play, and produced a modern masterpiece.

The movie shares with the play more than just the plot line and some dialogue. It too has the mark of a classic, universality.

Just as the original Shakespearean production was enjoyed and understood by both the commoner in the one penny seat and the aristocrat with a lace handkerchief and an orange under his nose, the Zeffirelli version is neither above or below anyone.

The movie is so skillfully done, that even the most insensitive individual must feel what the two young lovers are going through as the somewhat unfathomable world of the adult

Placement Office Has Summer Openings

Approximately 1,000 summer jobs are available to YSU students through the Placement Office reported Carolyn Bates, interviewer in charge of part-time and summer employment.

Mrs. Bates stated that approximately 400 positions in area mills will be open to the students this summer. She also revealed that other positions available to students with experience or training are: civil engineer, stockboy, rate clerk, gas station attendants, office clerks, and bookkeepers.

According to Mrs. Bates, the positions which are available for women only are: a good typist and experienced waitresses and cashiers.

The YSU Placements Office services college students who live in the Youngstown area, not just those who attend YSU. She commented that this is a common practice among the universities. The Placement Office has job openings on file not only for Youngstown but also for Warren, Niles, Wheatland, Pa.; Sharon, New Castle, and Salem.

Mrs. Bates said that while the Placement Office's main purpose is to find jobs for the students, it also keeps an eye on wages and working conditions of the companies on file.

The Placements Office, whose director is Mr. Alfred J. Minotti, is located in Room 24 of East Hall. The teacher placement office is also located in Room 24 and is directed by Mrs. Isabelle Miller.

Dr. Morris Slavin of the YSU history department will deliver a lecture at the Jewish Community Center, Gypsy Lane, April 17, at 8:30 p.m.

The lecture is entitled, "Isreal and the New Left." The lecture is open to the public and admission is free.

Biology Dept Will Host Open House

The welcome mat is out at the biology department Saturday, April 12, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. for interested area high school students and adults from Ohio and Pennsylvania.

The open house, first since long before the recent addition of the new wing to Ward Beecher Science Hall, is being sponsored jointly by the biology faculty, Omicron Lambda Honorary and the American Institute of Biological Sciences.

Visitors will have an opportunity to inspect the facilities and equipment on the fourth floor, become cognizant of many changes which have been taking place in the field of biology, and evaluate the career possibilities inherent in the biology department of YSU.

Each of 12 laboratories will feature a different display, with the professor in charge giving a short presentation.

Among the many subjects to be covered during the course of the tour are: Analysis of the Cardiac Cycle Using the Physiograph, Methods and Techniques in Making a Scientific Insect Collection, and The Making of a Microscope Slide.

Demonstrations of actual student work in non-vascular botany, microbiology, and environmental biology will also be on view.

Careers in Modern Biology is the topic of the speech to be delivered at 2 p.m. in the YSU Planaterium by Dr. Cornell Johnson, Director of Research at the Hess and Clark Pharmaceutical Company of Ashland.

Parking has been made available for the visitors in the University lot, corner Elm and Arlington Streets, north of the Engineering Science Building.

Those who cannot stay for the entire program are urged to attend at their own convenience.

SBP To Use Machines To Raise Vote

The use of voting machines will highlight a campaign on the part of Sigma Beta Phi social fraternity to "Get Out the Vote" in the up-coming Student Council and Student Government elections.

The four voting machines will be used for the first time on campus in an effort to raise the number of voters from the low of 800 last year to a figure more in keeping with YSU's 14,000 enrollment.

Voting will take place Monday and Tuesday, April 28, 29, from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. in Strouss Auditorium. Two representatives from the County Board of Elections will be on hand to assist students.

Students are advised that the turnout at this election could affect the current consideration by the Ohio State Legislature of the possibility of lowering the voting age to 18.

Problems in Communication

An inability to communicate, rather than a definite communication gap, is termed by Dr. Taghi Thomas Kermani as a major problem in student-faculty relationships. The YSU economics professor pointed out that it is not so much what students have to say, but their method of saying it.

Dr. Kermani used the example of an economic student protesting against the necessity of taking an examination. The student ignored the entire exam and merely stated that he "didn't believe in the test," asking whether the purpose of education was to "cultivate" what the student already knew, or "to introduce new materials."

This, according to Dr. Kermani, was not a proper or meaningful way for a student to communicate about general education to his professor. He commented that if a student's attitude is belligerent or antagonistic, an instructor will generally react in the same manner, even if the student has a justifiable complaint.

Dr. Kermani interjected here that "the common difficulty between faculty is nothing new, and will probably continue in the years to come."

Another problem noted by Dr. Kermani in student-faculty relationships is that a "contest where one tries to outsmart the other" has been known to evolve, and the necessary co-operation between students and faculty does not result.

Dr. Daiches Will Speak This Monday

David Daiches will lecture on the topic, "Literature and Society," on Monday, April 14, at 7:30 p.m. in the Engineering and Science Building Auditorium.

Dr. Daiches is Professor of English and Dean of the School of English and American Studies at the University of Sussex. Educated at Edinburgh University, Oxford, Chicago, Cornell, Indiana, Cambridge, and the Sorbonne.

He is author of some twenty books, including The Novel and the Modern World; Robert Burns; A Critical History of English Literature, and works on Virginia Woolf, Robert Louis Stevenson, and George Eliot. He is also one of the editors of The Norton Anthology of English Literature.

During April, 1969, Dr. Daiches is on the campus of Ohio Wesleyan University as the first lecturer in their newly-established Carpenter Humanities program.

There will be a reception for the faculty members following the lecture in the Faculty Lounge, Kilcawley Hall.

He placed some of the blame on the faculty due to its lack of involvement with the student outside the classroom. When the instructor's only function is to paraphrase the book, he explained that students will hold little or no respect for the instructor and are likely to turn the class into a battle of wits.

Dr. Kermani also stressed the overall need for empathy both on the part of the students and the faculty.

Dr. Kermani came to America in 1950 from the University of Tehran, Tehran, Iran, with a Licenciante in Law, to begin post-graduate work. Having little knowledge of the English language, he experienced firsthand many communication problems. Dr. Kermani commented that instructors and students sometimes tend to view the foreigner as incapable of writing a simple sentence correctly. He cited a paper he wrote

Dr. Kermani received his M.A. and Ph.D. from the University of Nebraska in 1953 and 1959 respectively, with post-doctoral work at the University of Indiana in 1964. Two years later he served as a new graduate program in this area. As both student and faculty member, he has seen the problems of student-faculty relationships from both sides.

Dr. Kermani's publications include, ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT IN ACTION; THEORIES' PROBLEMS AND

PROCEDURES..., published in 1967, "Retail Trade Activities in the U.S. Cities," and "The Economy of South Dakota."

Dr. Kermani and his wife Shirley reside at 255 North Heights, Youngstown with their two children, Venus seven, and Thomas, three.

Murphy to Speak on Middle East

Middle-Eastern specialist Mr. Richard W. Murphy will discuss "The Arab-Israeli Question: Is It Soluble?" on Thursday, April 17, at 2 p.m. in Room 213 of the Ward Beecher Science Complex.

Mr. Murphy, who will speak as a representative of the State Department will appear on the YSU campus under the Special Lecture Series, and while here he will be hosted by the history department.

Mr. Murphy is well-qualified to express an opinion on the Middle-East situation. He was commissioned as a Foreign Service Officer in July, 1955.

In February, 1959 Mr. Murphy began receiving training for service in the Middel at the Department of State's field school in Beirut, Lebanon for training in Arabic language and customs.

When his training ended in September, 1960, he was assigned as an economic analyst to the American Consul in Aleppo, Syrian Arab Republic.

Richard W. Murphy

Mr. Murphy's second assignment in the Middle-East was in March 1963, to the American Embassy in Jidda, Saudi Arabia.

Dr. Slavin Will Attend Inauguration

Dr. Morris Slavin, associate professor of history at YSU, has been invited by the American Historical Association to serve as its representative at the inauguration of Dr. Ronald G. Weber as president of Mount Union College, Alliance, Friday, April 25.

Dr. Slavin, a former instructor at Wilson High School, joined the YSU faculty in 1961. He received his Bachelor of Science in Education degree from Ohio State University, his master of Arts from the University of Pittsburgh, Pa., and his Ph.D. in history from Case Western Reserve University, Cleveland.

A member of a number of professional associations and societies including the American Historical Association and the Ohio Academy of Science, Dr. Slavin has published several articles on the French Revolution.

INDIAN MOVIE

The Indian students of YSU will sponsor a movie on this coming Saturday April 12 in the engineering auditorium at 7:00 pm.

The movie titled "Milan" is a color Indian picture with English subtitles. Booklets explaining the plot of the movie will be distributed. The donation is $2. Everyone is welcome.

While in Jidda his job was to analyze and report on internal political developments.

From August, 1966 to July, 1968, Mr. Murphy served as head of the Political Section at the American Embassy in Amman, Jordan.

Currently, Mr. Murphy is a Personnel Officer at the Department of State's Bureau of Near Eastern and South Asian Affairs.

ACS To Hold Symposium Tomorrow

The YSU chapter of ACS Student Affiliates will host the annual chemical symposium of local colleges in the auditorium of the Engineering Science Building Saturday, April 12.

Attending the symposium will be students and faculty from Westminster College, Grove City College, Slippery Rock College and Hiram College. The students will present talks on their individual research.

Registration will be at 9:30 a.m. outside the auditorium. Speeches will be scheduled from 10:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. with a luncheon in Kilcawley Student Center from 1:00 p.m. to 2:00 p.m. A tour of the campus will follow the luncheon.

SNEA Elects New Officers

The Student NEA officers for the 1969-70 school year were elected at a meeting on April 3 at Dana Recital Hall.

The new officers are: President, Sue Gates; 1st Vice-Pres., Gary Kauschenburg; 2nd Vice-Pres., Richard Dell; Recording Secretary, Pat Yaniglos; Corresponding Secretary, Jean Hanuschak; Treasurer, Mary Garcar; Historian, Barb Voytilla; Editor, Mary Ann Napolitan.

The Intramural Softball meeting, originally scheduled for Monday, April 14, has been moved to the following day, Tuesday, April 15. The time and place remain unchanged: 12 noon at the Athletic Office.

Circle K Looks For New Members

The brothers of the YSU Chapter of Circle K are holding their annual membership drive from April 8 to 18. The membership table will be located throughout the two weeks in Jones Hall, Engineering Lobby, Elm Street School, and the Kilcawley Lobby, from 10:00 to 2:00.

Circle K is men's service organization on college campuses throughout the United States and Canada. The club is sponsored by the Downtown Kiwanis Club of Youngstown and has been active since 1960. The purpose of the organization is to serve the campus and the community as well as to build character, citizenship, and stability in its members in the unified spirit of brotherhood.

Besides various projects, the club participates actively in all phases of student functions on the campus. Various projects and activities have led the club to the distinction of being named the number one club in Circle K International and in the Ohio District of Circle K.

Circle K meets every Monday night at 8:30 p.m. at the Pollock House. All male students who are full-time students in good academic standing with the University are invited to attend our meetings.

YSU To Host Social Science Conference

Area secondary school social studies teachers are being invited to attend the First Tri-County Social Science Conference to be held here Saturday, April 19, Professor Hugh Earnhart, chairman of the department of history and conference coordinator, reported yesterday.

The one-day conference, beginning Saturday morning at 9, will feature lectures and informal discussions conducted by area university professors.

At 10 a.m. in the Engineering School auditorium, Carnegie-Mellon history professor Dr. Barry K. Beyer will discuss the "Teaching of African History."

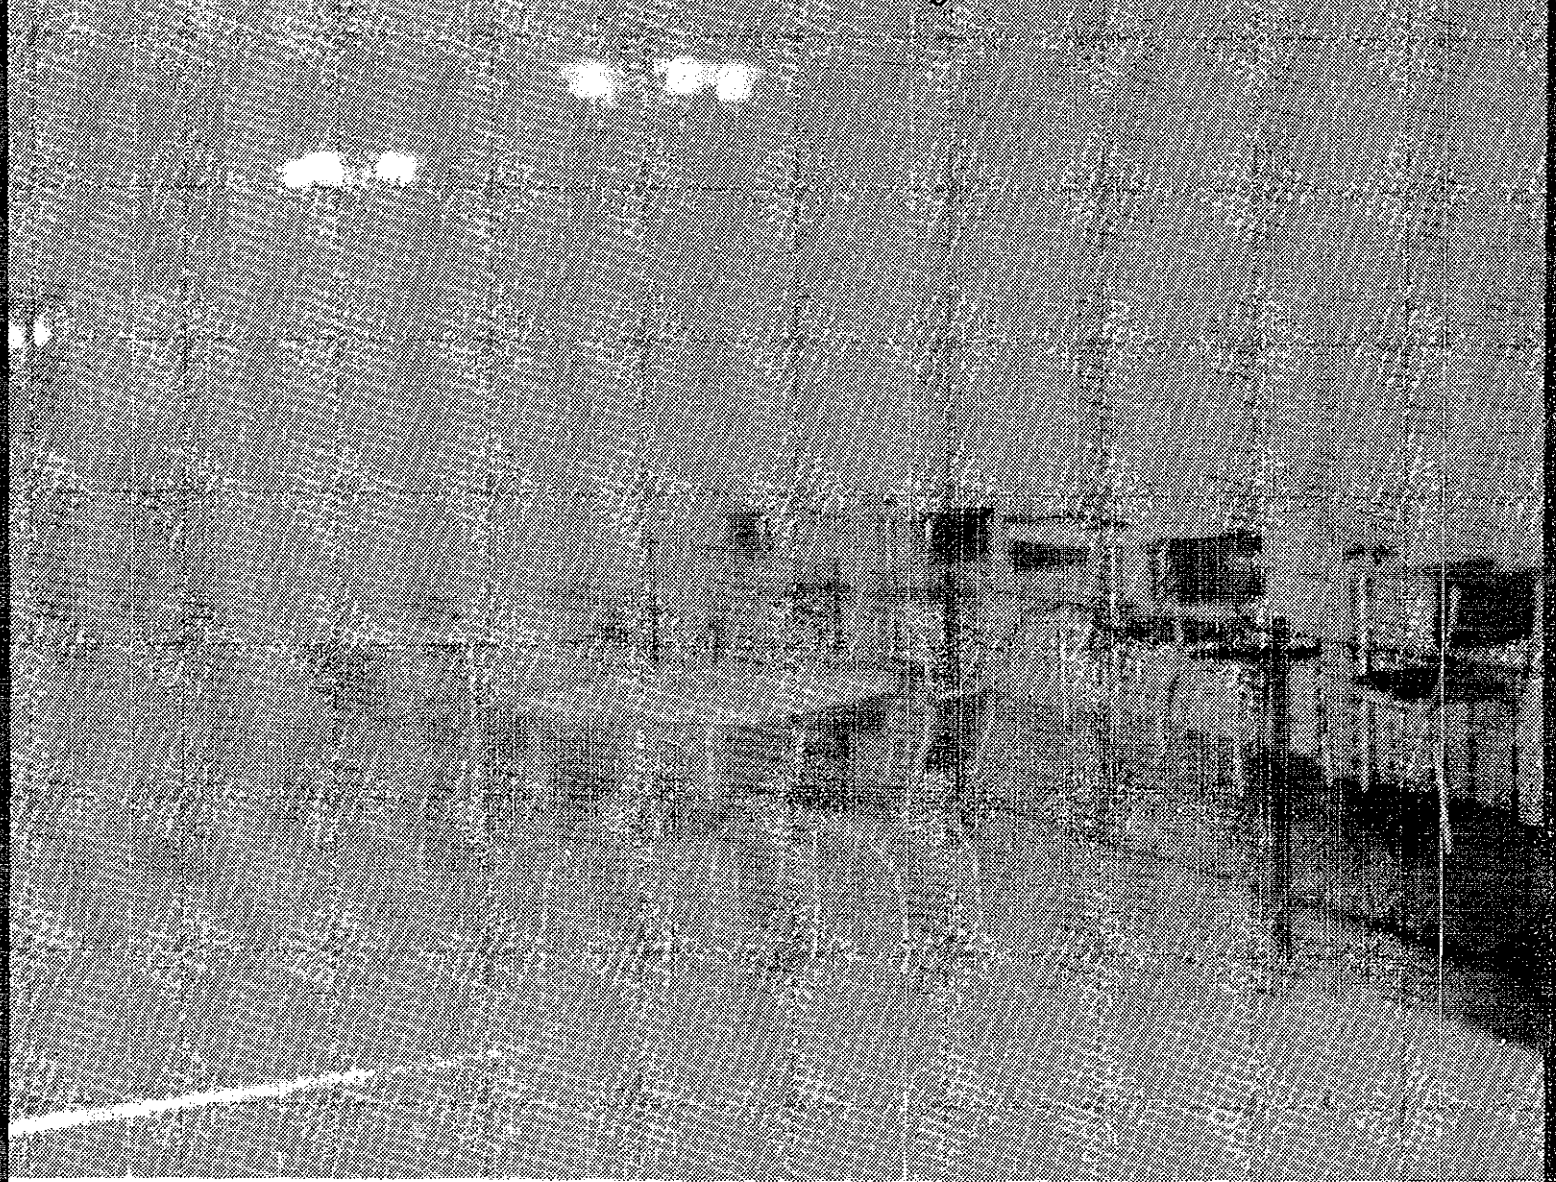

During lunch at noon, YSU vice-president of academic affairs, Dr. William H. Coffield, will officially welcome the teachers to the YSU campus.

YSU philosophy chairman Dr. Martin A. Greenman will speak on the "Role of Knowledge in Authentic Understanding" at 2 p.m., also in the Engineering School auditorium.

The conference will close with an informal smoker in the Faculty Lounge at 3:30 p.m.

Confused Students Find—

Changes Mark Transition

Since YSU became a state-affiliated university, numerous changes have taken place — particularly in housing. Among other problems for the student (new as well as the old, established ones), is namely — where is that office or building that used to be there before?

Before the Valley Park Motel became the home of the College of Arts and Sciences, its department was spread all over campus, with a major portion of its offices being located in Jones Hall. Today the Arts and Sciences Building has sixty-five new offices, housing 130 faculty members plus a number of limited-service instructors. It is also the future site of the YSU radio station.

Within the last few years some of the major office-hopping and department movements have been: The Admissions

Department has changed floors in Jones Hall, and the Alumni Office was moved from Jones Hall to Kilcawley.

The School of Business was transferred from Bryson Street,

The Jambar has been bounced from East Hall to Kilcawley to its permanent home (we hope) on Spring Street. The Accounting Office is now found on the second floor of Jones Hall, not the first. Neon and Penguin Review are now located in Jones Hall. The library is taking over the basement floor — a portion of their enlargement plan. This exodus of offices helps add to repairs, and the development of the YSU campus. The main planners for the proposed 88-acre campus are from Texas.

"What we want to avoid at Youngstown State is a black-top campus," Mr. Leonelli said. He also said that there are "less square feet of land per student at YSU than any other university in Ohio."

Demolition will begin soon on the Lincoln Hotel. The new 70-office, 30-classroom building will also contain the School of Business. The main project of construction at YSU this year, the Beeghly Health and Physical Education Building, is still awaiting a Federal Aid decision from Chicago before actual construction begins.

So...in the future do not become disgusted with life just because you cannot find the business manager on the second floor of Jones Hall (because he is now on the first floor), the ISO in Kilcawley (because it is now found in East Hall), or Dean Painter — she is now in 212 Jones instead of 210, separated from Dean Gillespie, who is on the first floor.

Stick with it YSU students — things are shaping up!

The YSU maintenance force busy helping to relocate one of the offices in Ward Beecher.

near Ward Beecher, to the second floor of Kilcawley. The Dean of Men and the Dean of Women have been separated.

The Art Department was moved from West Hall to Kilcawley, to its present location in Clingan-Waddell. Financial Aids departed from Jones Hall to East Hall.

the general confusion of the student, not to mention the shock of going to a class room building to find that it had been gutted by fire the previous day (St. Joseph's).

Play Tryouts To Be Held April 14, 15

Auditions for the drama Summer and Smoke by Tennessee Williams will be held at Strouss Auditorium on Monday evening, April 14, at 7:30 and Tuesday afternoon, April 15, at 3:00. The production will be produced by the YSU Drama Department under the direction of Professor Donald Elser and student director Jeanne Elser.

The play will go into rehearsals immediately and will be presented during the end of May in Strouss Auditorium.

The play is a love story of a puritanical southern girl and an unpuritanical young doctor. There are 17 parts for men and women of various ages and talent. People who are interested in technical work are also welcome. Everyone is encouraged to try out.

Mrs. Lev Addresses A Kappa Psi

Recently the brothers of Alpha Kappa Psi, Professional Business Fraternity at YSU were addressed by Mrs. Alice Lev, associate director of the Mayor's Human Relations and Fair Employment Practice Committee.

Mrs. Lev, a cum laude graduate of YSU and a holder of a masters degree in social work from the University of Pittsburgh, has an extensive career in social work and has a particular interest in civil rights work.

Mrs. Lev explained the work of the Human Relations and Fair Employment Practice Committee, and how as future businessmen the brothers could and should become involved in some of the many areas of need in our city. An informative period followed her address.

Retarded Center Seeks Volunteers

The Mahoning County Council for Retarded Children is seeking volunteers between the ages of 17 and 25 to join their newly organized Youth Association to Aid the Retarded, Mrs. Anthony Infante, parent-advisor to the group, announced yesterday.

The volunteers will help the mentally retarded children of the Youngstown area by engaging in such activities as: teaching good grooming and dress, giving teenage parties, acting as big brothers in the scouting programs, musical direction and working in the day care center and pre-school nursery.

The volunteers will also help prepare the children for the Olympics for Retarded Children, soon to be held in Akron.

Mrs. Infante said the purpose of the Youth Association program was two-fold. "First, to instill new hope into the children and their parents through the vitality of the young volunteers and second, to help the community better understand that the mentally retarded can become socially acceptable."

An organizational meeting for the Youth Association will be held at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, April 13, at the School for Retarded Children on Woodridge Drive in Austintown.

All interested parties are invited to attend the meeting being held in connection with the school's open house which begins at 2 p.m. Further details may be obtained by calling Mrs. Infante at 792-2280.

They are both so totally convincing that even some of the rather incredible parts of the play such as the 42 hour sleeping potion, and their more than hasty decision to wed, fail to bother the viewer.

The score by Nino Rota is beautifully done and accents both the mid 15th century Italian setting of the play and the tenderness of the young love situation.

It is now no secret that "Romeo and Juliet" has been one of the five motion pictures nominated this year for "Best Picture of the Year" by the Motion Picture Academy. and after seeing this film, it is no surprise, either.

Tennis Campaign Will Open Today

YSU's rendition of the "good old days" will hopefully unveil itself this afternoon with the Penguin racketeers opening their 1969 tennis campaign by hosting Miami University. The avenging Penguins recollect last year's opening-season ambush by the same Miami sextet, 7-2.

In the midst of April's constant threat of showers, Coach Bob Thompson is once again faced with the cancellation of matches, which last year accounted for seven contests never played.

After yesterday's brief encounter with the rain clouds, the weather has blossomed into the sunshine and hopefully will stay until the duration of the Penguins opening season debut, which begins at 2:00 at Mill Creek's Volney Rogers Courts.

Three returning racket-toting veterans have formulated the nucleus of Coach Thompson's bid for an improvement over last year's 4-4 mark. Bill Glaser, a junior from Pittsburgh, is slated to be the Penguins top gun with ranking in the Middle States Association and a solid tennis background.

Bob Elias, YSU senior and Penguin No. 4 member from last season's squad, has moved up with experience and will ride "shotgun" for this year's Penguin six. Steve Wilt, a junior from Geneva and fifth man from last year's break-even club, is expected to be driving the Penguin "hot" winning wagon with his workhorse abilities and vital tennis capabilities.

Carson Unveils Golf Season Monday

Coach Bill Carson, coming off a 19-2-1 previous year mark, will chaperone his golf squad to Toledo University for the season's opening match. Toledo and Clarion State were the Penguins only setbacks for the 1968 campaign.

Losing only two member from last year's fantastic winning squad, YSU's golf mentor, Bill Carson, feels that this 1969 entry should surpass last

Sigma Beta's Easter Project Is Successful

Sigma Beta Phi social fraternity held its first annual Easter project Saturday April 5. The project included the distribution of Easter baskets and hams to underprivileged children and needy families.

Names of recipients were obtained through the cooperation of the Association of Southside Churches, the Uptown Kiwanis, Clarence Robinson Center, Ford Crandall Rehabilitation Center, and several East side churches.

year's excellent winning team. Led by Jim Miller, a senior and former Boardman ace, who finished last season with an individual mark of 17-2-2 and an average of 73.6, southpaw Rusty McDonald and Gary Hathaway, the Penguins own the bulk of last year's winning formula.

Coach Carson, beginning his eighteenth campaign here at YSU and tasting a losing season once in those 17 years, hopes to crash the exclusive "200 Wins" club at the conclusion of this year's campaign. Carson presently is the proud owner of 193 triumphs against 55 setbacks and nine deadlocks in his YSU career as golf mentor.

This young lad seems to have other things on his mind than the baseball game.

Pete Penguin or Mrs. Pete Penguin?

Did you ever think that Pete Penguin, YSU's timid mascot, could well be Miss Pete Penguin? Oddly enough, one interesting characteristic of penguins is that it is impossible to distinguish between the male and female until death occurs.

The first literary recognition of the penguin is found in a 1536 poem concerned with the Seas of Newfoundland. Although those flightless birds, members of the Spheniscidae family, establish their dispersal center on the Antarctic continent, they are not confined, however, to this frigid region. South Africa, South America, Australia, New Zealand and even parts on the equator are various homes for certain penguin species.

Some species do not attempt to construct a formal nest for their young, but instead incubate the single egg by holding it on its feet for the entire incubation period, which sometimes lasts around 52 days!

The Case for School Spirit

Editor's Note: This second part in a series of weekly editorials dealing with YSU's "school spirit" problem received the bulk of its material through the courtesy of an interview with Youngstown State's Athletic Director, Mr. Willard Webster, conducted by Jambar Sports Editor, Terry Lawrence.

"Basically, YSU is a commuter school..." replied Mr. Webster in answering the question of the cause of YSU's student support program. "Most of the students interests lie outside of the university due to working limitations or simply commuting status, and their only interest in school is school itself!"

Mr. Webster tends to sympathize with the YSU students because of the Penguins constant "gysying" around the immediate area in search of housing the present sport for their "temporary home." After having spectators travel to Struthers or out to the South High Fieldhouse, there's a lot to be said for sport activities held on campus...

Although this would be an appropriate excuse for YSU students to fall back on, the fact still remains that YSU employs one of the most well-rounded schedules, for all their sports, in a vast area. Examples of school spirit were shown when John Rinka came to the South High hardcourt one week last winter, then a couple of days later the Penguins home attendance drastically dropped almost 1,800.

Opening game of the Penguin roundball campaign found a 3,000-plus crowd on hand to view the unveiling, while three days later a sparse 1,200 fans turned out to see the Penguins capture their second triumph. After winning seven consecutive contests, it took a John Rinka to once again fill the South High Fieldhouse, despite the All-American performances of Mac.

be housed there (just think, no more Pearl St. "fieldhouse"!), the gymnasium will be so constructed that it will be able to run three basketball intramural games simultaneously, instructional classes in almost every sport will be available to the students, and track and field events will once again return to YSU in the University's Phase III program.

Mr. Webster commented, "...through this student participation, a natural interest will arise in YSU sports program." Mr. Webster is not surprised if the new building will be open day and night for physical education purposes, much in align with the YMCA's program.

One minute point bloomed this past week when requests were asked to the students to voice their opinions on school spirit: Result: NONE. It is my belief that school spirit is so poor that the students can't even write about it... incidently, the request still remains.

Over a month passed before another vacancy crowd stood by the Penguin basketeers, motivated by the awarding of a "spirit trophy." Swimming constituted two All-Americans, who performed before crowds made up of 80% foe - 15% friend - 5% wanderer.

Mr. Webster is, however, awaiting the coming days of YSU's own physical education building, which means "permanent" homes for YSU's sports programs. "The new physical education building will definitely cause an increase in support..." said Mr. Webster, in describing the proposed luxurious interior housing of the building.

A strong and long-time believer in "Sports on campus equals better school spirit and support," Mr. Webster briefly outlined the facilities of the new building, which expected to break ground this summer and completed approximately 20 months thereafter.

Youngstown State will engage in two new sports upon completion of the physical education building: gymnastics and wrestling, the latter described as the "fastest growing sport in the area" by Mr. Webster. "Student utilization will be foremost in the athletic program initiated by the physical education department into the new building." YSU's Intramural program will
