Idora promoter claims Dean Painter prohibited beer

Who stopped the beer at the Greek Week concert?

The answer to this question became more complicated yesterday when Mr. Al Jackson, Idora Park promoter, declared that a person who identified herself as Dr. Edith Painter, was responsible for the "dry" concert.

Mr. Jackson, who handled the arrangements with the Interfraternity Council for the event, said yesterday that he received a second phone call from Dr. Painter, associate dean of student affairs, on Monday, October 5, reaffirming a previous phone call which stipulated that beer should not be served at the event.

Mr. Jackson said that Dr. Painter had called him about three weeks prior to the concert and told him that no beer could be served, but that the second phone call four days prior to the event caused him to shut off the beer.

In a statement last week, Student Affairs Dean Dr. Darrell Rishel, said beer was permissible at the event under current social regulations. Dr.

Rishel said he spoke to his staff on the matter and all denied making the second phone call, Dr. Rishel did say that Dr. Painter made the initial call.

Dr. Painter last week denied making a second phone call to Mr. Jackson, according to Dave Fleischer, IFC president. Fleischer said he talked to Dr. Painter at length about the matter and "she said she did not make such a call."

Fleischer stated that arrangements to serve beer at the function were being completed up until the second phone call preceding the concert.

Beer was served at a similar Greek Week event the night before the concert.

Student Government President Dan Crishon, and special projects chairman Larry Delino, publicly denounced the administration for its interference in Greek Week in a letter to President Pugsley last Friday.

Fleischer termed the action as a "definite detriment to the success of that event."

Pictures represent week-end activities

The pageantry, tradition, and color of Homecoming 1970 is represented in a special four-page supplement beginning on page 5.

Jambar staff photographers John Greenman and Gary Lightner focused on the colorful events which included an informal dance on Friday in Kilcawley, the crowning of the 1970 Homecoming Queen, Miss Suellen Stiffler, and two concerts featuring the Fifth Dimension on Sunday evening.

YSU requests $20.3 million

The University is requesting $20.3 million for the 1971-73 biennium from the State of Ohio for construction and remodeling of several buildings, according to a story in the Youngstown Vindicator.

Plans include: (1) A classroom and office building constituting 145,000 square feet of floor space, west of Elm and north of the new Technical and Community College building to be built next to the parking decks on Lincoln; cost — $8.5 million.

(2) Addition to the ESB to the south consisting of 160,000 square feet; cost — $8.5 million.

(3) A 40,000 square foot University Services Building located east of Wick and north of Spring; cost — 1.4 million.

(4) Remodeling Jones Hall, providing an additional 50,000 square feet; cost — $750,000.

(5) Conversion of the present library building into classrooms after completion of the new library; cost — $1.2 million.

(6) Construction of an environmental science laboratory on the site of the present YSU Arboreum (tree farm) on Warner Road.

Funds requested

Funds are also being requested to acquire and clear land to replace the parking lots that will be lost upon construction of these buildings.

Buildings Planned

$17 million is being requested for the 1973-75 biennium for additional construction on campus.

Buildings already funded by the state and now in design stage include a $7.5 million Technical and Community College, a $6.06 million library and a $5.5 million music and fine arts facility.

Private Funds

With private resources, a $3.5 million student center addition, the $5.25 million Beeghly Physical Education Center, a $2.3 million parking structure, a $300,000 power substation and a $1.2 million air conditioning project are being attempted.

$57 Million Program

The six year construction program of $57 million has been submitted to the Ohio Board of Regents for approval.

Student President, Prof., Booked First at KSU

By JAMES F. SMITH
Associated Press Writer

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP) — The student body president and an associate professor at Kent State University were among the first of 25 persons to be booked Monday in a special grand jury probe of the Kent State riot last May. Two young men already in jail on drug charges also were served with indictments.

Craig Morgan, 20, a senior and student body president, was arrested in student government offices on the campus. He was charged with second-degree riot during disturbances on the campus May 4. Details of the charge were not given.

Dr. Thomas S. Lough, 42, an associate professor of sociology and anthropology, surrendered on a count of inciting to riot May 4, the day four Kent students were killed in a clash with Ohio National Guardsmen.

Morgan and Lough were named in secret indictments handed down Friday by a special state grand jury that investigated the campus rioting. The grand jury, in a report issued Friday, also exonerated the guard with regard to the deaths and said a major cause of the campus disorders was administration permissiveness and laxity in discipline.

Portage County officers began serving papers Monday.

Among the others indicted was Richard Felber, 21, of Akron, a former Kent student, charged with first-degree rioting, attempting to burn a campus ROTC building, striking a fireman and interfering with a fireman at the scene of a fire. Felber was already in Portage County jail awaiting transfer to Mansfield Reformatory to serve a 20-40 year sentence on conviction on three charges of sales of hallucinogens.

Jerry H. Rupe, 22, of Ravenna, serving a three-month sentence in the Stark County jail at Canton for possession of narcotics and narcotics instruments, was indicted for arson, first-degree riot, striking a fireman and interfering with a fireman at the scene of a fire.

Both Rupe and Felber were charged in connection with the May burning of a Kent ROTC building. School officials said Rupe had no record of enrollment at Kent State, at least since fall of 1969.

Kent State President Robert I. White Monday rejected a student demand that the school oppose any indictments handed down by the jury, saying that indictments "are part of our judicial system."

White also turned down demands that ROTC, defense research and a police training program be removed from the campus. He warned that students should not expect formal reception or prompt response from his office on future "demands."

Morgan and Lough pleaded innocent at arraignments. Lough was released on $5,000 bond and Morgan, who was denied release on his own recognizance, on $1,000 bond.

'Frivolous argument'

18-year-old Vote Debated

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1970 Federal law giving the vote to 18-year-olds was attacked in the Supreme Court Monday as frivolous legislation that "does violence to the Constitution."

Speaking for the state of Texas, Prof. Charles Alan Wright said "This legislation flies in the face of the Constitution" and would have been rejected out of hand by the court "were there not respect for the body across the street Congress."

Wright, a University of Texas constitutional authority, said the issue is not whether 18-year-olds are mature enough to vote. They are certain to get the vote some time, he said.

Rather, said Wright, the question is "whether the historic concept of this country, a federal union with sharing powers, is a failure."

Oregon joined Texas in arguing Congress exceeded its authority when it lowered the minimum voting age to 18 across the country. Oregon Atty. Gen. Lee Johnson contended that a 21-year-old minimum, which had been in force in 46 states, was not irrational or discriminatory and hence not a violation of constitutional rights that the 14th Amendment given Congress the power to correct.

U.S. Solicitor General Erwin

Classifieds Work

N. Griswold defended the new law at the all-day hearing, though he relayed the reservations of President Nixon and other administration officials about the 18-year-old provision.

The provision applies to all elections and primaries held on or after next January 1, unless the court declares it invalid.

In signing the law last June, Nixon said he felt Congress had no power to lower the voting age and that a constitutional amendment would be required. Still, Griswold said, "we have endeavored to support the statute as vigorously as we are able."

The solicitor general based his defense primarily on the 14th Amendment clause which gives Congress the power to assure citizens "equal protection of the laws."

Explosion Destroys Research Greenhouse

IRVINE, Calif. (AP) — An explosion destroyed a greenhouse used for research of plant viruses at the Stanford Research Institute today. The Orange County sheriff's department said it appeared to have been caused "by the setting of some type of device."

"We don't know what it was for certain yet," said Capt. James Broadbelt, "but it apparently was placed in a humidifier-purifier next to the building."

He said the explosion definitely was not caused by "normal operations" of the facility, which is located near the University of California campus here.

The Institute is not connected with Stanford University nor Irvine. Headquartered in Menlo Park, the Institute conducts a broad range of research agencies and business. The main activity of the Irvine facility is described as pollution experimentation.

Stanford University severed its affiliation with Stanford Research Institute last January after the Institute became a target of violent student protests against war-related research projects. Before divorcing the university from SRI, Stanford University trustees had also been on the board for SRI and about 50 Stanford professors were SRI consultants.

Richard Wood, executive director at Irvine, said the 20 by 60 foot greenhouse — and an adjacent greenhouse in which several windows were shattered — contained several plant virus experiments, most of which were destroyed.

No damage figure was available. No one was injured and there was no fire, authorities said.

Susan Stetson

Susan Stetson Chosen YSU Student Nurse

Miss Susan Stetson, a senior in the School of Nursing, has been chosen Outstanding Student Nurse of YSU.

Student nurses competed for the title by writing an essay based on nursing objectives and centered on the theme "Bridge Over Troubled Waters," and also by evaluations from nursing instructors, fellow students, and a nursing advisor.

Miss Stetson holds the office of First Vice-President of the Student Nurses Association and is studying obstetrics for her clinical practice at North Side Hospital.

Nixon Visits OSU

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — President Nixon paid an unannounced visit Monday to the sometime-troubled campus of Ohio State University and wound up in a face-to-face debate with students about the Vietnam War.

The so-called Oval in the center of campus was dotted with lounging students when Nixon stepped from his limousine, walked across the lawn, and began shaking hands.

Within five minutes, at least 1,000 young men and women had gathered, completely encircling the chief executive and mingling cheers and laughter with shouted obscenities and anti-war chants.

One young man in a white T-shirt approached Nixon and said, announced, "You can take my draft card."

The youth, beardless, said he did not want to die in Vietnam. "I'm winding down the war, boy," Nixon replied after reciting his record on troop withdrawals, he added, "You want us, boy."

Another young man stepped up and said, "Will you shake the hand of a hippie?"

The chief executive apparently did not hear the remark and the youth continued, "We don't care about Ohio State football — just stop the war."

Virtually all of Nixon's personal conversations with students were friendly. However, a small group of the fringe of the crowd swung into a noisy and obscene anti-war chant with which Nixon has become familiar during his recent campaign travels.

As Nixon and his bodyguards began making their way back to the White House limousine, a male student cried out loudly.

"Come on back, Prez. Talk to someone who disagrees with you!"

Although Nixon spent nearly 25 minutes on the campus, most of the students who clustered around him never got a glimpse of him until he returned to his car and stood on the trunk. Then a cheer went up as he waved and began shaking hands. Even when in the thick of the crowd, Nixon had what could be concerned minimal secret service protection for such an occasion.

Then students stood around until Nixon climbed on the car, shouting their doubts about whether he was actually on the campus.

"It's hard to believe," one remarked.

Another cried out, "is he really in there?"

A third registered his frustration by shouting, "Mr. Nixon, get off your knees."

President Rejects Student Demands At Kent State

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Kent State University President Robert I. White today rejected several demands of student protestors and warned that groups presenting "demands" should not expect formal reception or immediate response from the school administration. "Every experience and advice from elsewhere shows the idiocy of attempting to receive such demands formally, most particularly when presented en masse," White said in a prepared statement.

The Youth International Party Yippies and Kent Liberation Front had demanded that the school end military research, ROTC and law enforcement training, oppose any student or non-student indictments from May violence on the campus and keep various law enforcement agencies off campus. White rejected all the demands.

White said the school was involved in no research contract "directed toward warmaking or defense" and that all research would continue "so long as the work remains unclassified—free in terms of selection and open publication and discussion of results."

He said ROTC and law enforcement training programs would remain in effect until their status was changed through normal university channels.

White said Kent State "will continue to cooperate fully with all recognized law enforcement agencies and that campus police officers would continue to bear sidearms."

"Grand jury indictments, whether they involve persons within or outside the university community, are part of our judicial system," White said, adding that, "no one in the university community has any special privilege or consideration in terms of law enforcement or court action."

"Indictment is not conviction," White said, "all will have their day in court."

For Research

Dr. Steven M. Schilderout, assistant professor of chemistry at Youngstown State University has been awarded a $7,500 grant from the Petroleum Research Fund administered by the American Chemical Society for individual fundamental research in the petroleum field. The three-year "Type C" grant is intended as a "starter" grant to enable a young faculty member with the Ph.D. degree to initiate a program of self-conducted research.

Hanzely Presents Paper

Dr. Stephen Hanzely, assistant professor of physics at YSU, presented a research paper at the Ohio Section of the American Physical Society meeting Saturday, October 17, at Denison University, O.

The paper is entitled "Valence Band X-Ray Spectroscopy at Threshold Excitation."

Dr. Hanzely recently was the first speaker at Kent State University's physics colloquium held earlier this month.

Metallurgy Luncheon

The American Society for Metals (ASM) has invited Dr. S. Ahmed, professor of metallurgical engineering and materials science and chairman of the department, the professional staff, and all metallurgy students at Youngstown State University to attend a luncheon meeting of the Metals and Materials Engineering World Congress and Exposition Thursday, October 22, in Cleveland.

Dr. Mars Fontana, the 1970 Campbell Lecturer and chairman of the metallurgy department at Ohio State University will be the main speaker.

Registrar Receives Award

Mrs. Mary B. Smith, registrar at Youngstown State University, has been presented the Hiram College Alumni Association's 1970 Annual Award for Outstanding Achievement for her many accomplishments during the past third of a century at YSU.

A member of the YSU staff since 1939, Mrs. Smith began doing promotion work at the University, later teaching biology and health and physical education classes. She is generally credited with organizing and developing the health and physical education curriculum now offered by the University. Appointed recorder in 1956, she assumed her present post in 1966.

Sociology Papers

Dr. James W. Kiriazis, associate professor of sociology and anthropology and chairman of the department at Youngstown State University, and Dr. Assad S. Kassees, assistant professor of sociology and anthropology, will present joint research papers at the Ohio Child Welfare Association meeting Wednesday, October 21, in Columbus.

The papers deal with a comparative approach to the study of the problems of family and children. Craig Neuman, executive secretary of the Trumbull County Children's Services and a limited service faculty member at YSU will serve as chairman of the meeting.

Colorful Midis Appearing In NY Spring Collection

New York. (AP) — Chester Weinberg has carried the midi look into his spring collection with bright colors and wider skirts.

Weinberg, who went strongly for the midi in fall-presented skirts with fullness from pleats or gathers, breaking low on the hip, in his showing Wednesday.

The long belted waist was good for daytime, as was the short jacket. Capes continued strong. Coats were wrapped or fitted and belted. Some had cool looking short cape sleeves.

Extravagant border prints brought brilliant colors to evening clothes. Weinberg kept the idea of mixed patterns for a rich, lush effect.

He also showed slit or ruffled skirts, pants with over skirts and long, full sleeves.

Second Thoughts

Admittedly, we become so involved with campus news, issues, and controversies, we sometimes forget that there is fun and relaxation to be had at YSU.

Our editorial of October 13th suggested that Homecoming may not be a relevant event in relation to our problems. Today, following two inspiring concerts by the Fifth Dimension, we offer second thoughts on our statement.

The performance by the Fifth Dimension was masterful. It added a new dimension to our feelings about Homecoming. Never have so many people (close to 8000) been so responsive to any one group on this campus. For the first time, YSU students did not leave a performance early. For the first time, a large number of YSU students responded together.

The spirit and enthusiasm exhibited by students on Sunday evening was commendable. It proved that a majority of students could be stimulated on this campus.

We still believe that valid points were made in the October 13th editorial. Now, we would hope such spirit would be applied to our problems, as well as to our fun.

Letters To The Editor

Considers Administration Egotistical

To the editor of the Jambar:

As former workers of Kilcawley Student Center, we feel that the new administration should be acknowledged because of their many valuable contributions thus far in the school year. Some may feel this is not entirely necessary because their actions have spoken for themselves.

Their duties were undertaken, officially, by removing title plates from office doors and deciding, according to rank, which size desk was more appropriate for what office. Even now, the desk situation is not completely satisfactory, but they are still trying.

Shortly after this, the full staff began to appear in Kilcawley: one Dean of Student Affairs with his private secretary, one Assistant Dean of Student Affairs and his secretary, one Director of Student Activities with a promoted secretary, and one Assistant Director of Student Activities and another secretary. We are sure that it is a supreme relief to all the students to know there are so many capable people managing their many affairs and activities. But from this description, there is a slight confusion as to where one ends and the other begins.

In our brief span of working with the new administration, we witnessed the great transformation of the Men's Residence Hall Office becoming the Student Information Office. Because of this transfer, the new administration saw fit to remove all office supplies, some personal mail being held for a former resident, and the evening and weekend staff. By this move, two facts were overlooked. First, the budget from which the office supplies were purchased, and second that Kilcawley is the home for over 200 men even after 10:00 p.m. and on weekends. The residents of Kilcawley should have been the most important consideration before this change was made, but, as is evident, they were not. If an emergency arises after 10:00 p.m. how are the residents supposed to be notified? Also, on weekends when parents and visitors arrive, they have two ways of contacting a resident. They can stand in the Kilcawley Amphitheater and shout up to the 7th floor, or they can wait in the lobby until someone happens to come downstairs and ask him to go back upstairs to tell a resident to come downstairs because he has a visitor. There is a security policeman on duty, but it is not his duty to ride up and down the elevator giving messages.

With the elimination of the weekend staff, the four student employees had to suffer a cut in working hours in order to prevent two girls from being dismissed. What was once a 17 1/2 hr. work week became a 13 hr. and in some cases a 9 hr. work week. However, good fortune for the three of us lasted only one week until we received notice of our termination. We had exceeded our 800 hr. student employee limit, a rule, which in the past required only a signature for transfer from student employee to part-time employee. The new administration felt it was much easier to hire four new replacements. That's progress!

Students have been criticized for wanting change to come too fast. They have always been told that change will come but it must come slowly and through proper channels. This belief was not followed when change came to Kilcawley. It came rapidly without consideration for all people involved. The inconsiderate and egotistical manner of the new administration has been noticed by other employees of Kilcawley, the residents, and the maintenance staff as well. The warm and friendly atmosphere is gone. What has replaced it?

The Sunday night concert was launched with a performance by the "Byron and Lorraine" dance team. The 5th Dimension's "Up, Up, and Away," "Windmills of your Mind," "Surrey Picnic," "Drink My Daddy's Wine," were old favorites sung in an electric atmosphere at Struthers Fieldhouse. Strobe lights, colorful red, white, and blue outfits, and smiling sour-rhythm lit the way to a successful homecoming evening which was concluded with "Byron and Lorraine" joining the 5th Dimension for an audience participation "Aquarius" finale.

The opinions expressed in the University Forum are not necessarily those of the Jambar staff.

We invite comments on subjects of general interest to the university community. These short essays will be published as time and space permits.

RED CHINA: A PERSPECTIVE

For the past few years, there has been an effort by several groups to change our nation's foreign policy towards Red China. As many students on this campus know, I have been pushing for a Far East Asia Studies Program for over a year. In that time period, I have gathered some information and conclusions about Red China. I wish to share it with you.

First I want to outline some recent developments within Red China. The Sino-Soviet split has greatly widened which resulted in open conflict along the border. Although the actual firing has ceased, the hostilities still remain. Red China is not getting the Soviet technological and military support it once received. The so-called "Cultural Revolution" has failed and has caused much chaos. Then there is also the split between the Maoists and the anti-Maoists over the methods of reaching the Communist Chinese goals.

These weaknesses must not be overestimated. While Red China has suffered many setbacks, it still had received enough materials to build a mighty offensive from the USSR for the future.

Most of my sources agree that the presence of the United States in Asia has been a strong deterrent to Red Chinese aggression not only against its neighbors but throughout the world.

Some people have advocated trade relations between the United States and Red China. However it is apparent that such relations would only benefit Red China and be very harmful to the United States. The Red Chinese only have revolution to export.

In conclusion, I ask that the above factors be remembered when voices are raised supporting trade with Red China.

Dr. Karl A. Menninger, founder of the Menninger Foundation and chairman of the board of trustees, will be the first Skeggs Lecturer to appear at YSU this year as part of the University's Artist Lecture Series.

The holder of nine honorary degrees and a member of several dozen professional, scientific and humanitarian organizations which reflect some of his longtime interests in medicine, psychiatry, mental health, prison reform, music archaeology, art, conservation, ecology and the American Indian, Dr. Menninger has authored nine books, plus participating in writing numerous others. His most recent book, "The Crime of Punishment," appeared in late 1968.

In addition to founding the Menninger Foundation, he has also founded the Menninger School of Psychiatry, the Kansas Psychiatric Society, the Topeka Psychoanalytic Society, and later the Institute, the Central Neuro Psychiatric Hospital Association and many others. He holds five professorships in psychiatry at various universities throughout the nation.

Mr. Menninger will speak Friday, October 30 at 8 p.m. in Stambaugh Auditorium. The lecture will be free and open to the public.

The Skeggs Lecture Series, a semi-annual occurrence, was established in 1966 in memory of Leonard T. Skeggs, Sr., former General Secretary of the YMCA and one of the leaders in promoting the University and its goals.

The Skeggs Lectures bring to the campus outstanding speakers who are authorities in their respective fields. Lecturers are chosen from any of the arts or sciences on the basis of their education and ability to inspire young people. In addition of major public addresses, the lecturers conduct specialized or technical seminars for students and faculty.

Student Council Lacks Quorum For Meeting

Due to the lack of a quorum Student Council today held a committee meeting rather than a council meeting.

Roll call at 3:30 yielded only 14 members and it was decided at 3:50 that a committee meeting would be held. Since only a committee meeting was held no business was transacted but council discussed the possibility of advertising their meetings and holding them in facilities which could accommodate more students who may be interested in attending council meetings. The meetings are now held in the Buckeye conference room in Kilcawley Hall.

Field Trip Planned For Geology Students

YSU students currently taking a course in glacial geology will get an opportunity to consider some of the contrasts of past continental glaciation in northeastern Ohio with that of central New York state on a three-day field trip set for October 22-24 to the Finger Lakes Region of New York.

The students, 20 in number, will be accompanied on the expedition by C. Earl Harris, assistant professor of geology and department chairman, and Everett C. Abram, assistant professor of geology and course instructor.

The group will investigate some of the classic glacial geology of the Finger Lakes Region, lodging at the Cayuga Lake State Park and using it as a base camp for field trips to pursue studies of glacially sculptured terrain. Included in the itinerary will be a stop at the

Berkowitz

Speaks To Biology Group

Dr. Donald Berkowitz, Clinical Associate Professor of Medicine in Gastroenterology at Temple University School of Medicine, will speak on "Malnutrition as a Result of Plenty" at the Omicron Lambda meeting at 12 noon, October 23, in Ward Beecher Hall, room 407.

Dr. Berkowitz received his medical degree at Hahnemann Medical College, where he later became an Associate Professor and Instructor of Medicine. He also held this position at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine. He is presently Editor of Gastroenterology Abstracts and Citations and on the Editorial Board of the American Journal of Gastroenterology.

Dr. Berkowitz is affiliated with several professional organizations including the American Federation of Clinical Research, the New York Academy of Science, the American Gastroenterological Association, and the American College of Clinical Pharmacology and Chemotherapy.

The lecture will be open to the public.

seventh largest working quarry in the US.

The glacial geology course provides students with a study of the glacial succession in North America during the Pleistocene Epoch, with emphasis on the origin, movement, transposition by and deposits of glaciers.

Counseling Center Assists In Testing And Tutoring

"The most important method of assisting students to solve their particular questions or concerns remains one-to-one counseling," says Dr. George W. Letchworth, director of Youngstown State University's Counseling Center, in the Center's second annual report.

Established in the fall of 1968, the Center is concerned with three areas, counseling, testing and tutoring. "The most extensive role of the Counseling Center," according to Dr. Letchworth, "is the counseling of individuals. The number of students counseled increased 185% when compared to a similar period last year. The number of meetings with students increased 197%.

In addition to one-to-one counseling, a number of group meetings were inaugurated last year. One of these was for a group of 50 students of superior academic ability, who met to discuss a wide variety of topics, such as graduate school opportunities, environmental pollution, drugs, and higher education.

During the summer of 1969, the Center also met with 25 young women in their teens and early twenties, recruited from the inner-city and enrolled at YSU with the desire to eventually become urban teachers. It was hoped that through the counseling meetings the young women could make an easier transition from work to college.

Last summer, another group of 25 older women in their thirties and forties were recruited for the same purpose. These women, too, have adjustment problems since they have been out of school for many years and frequently have had to accommodate their studies to their family and work responsibilities. A third series of group meetings was conducted with the Upward Bound program to help the counselors relate to the students and the students, in turn, to express their motivations and concerns about their future.

A fourth group was initiated for older middle class women who return to college and feel isolated when mixed with a decidedly younger group of students and have serious concern about their ability to cope with the college learning experience.

"Through the varied contacts our staff has made," Dr. Letchworth says, "we have noted that the concerns of our students reflect the deep existential problems confronting our culture and our universities today. Students are concerned about the nature of independence, responsibility, parental dominance, and the communications gap. They are concerned about how to get an education and also the reasons for and the value of the education. They are concerned about the meaning of life." Because of these thought-provoking issues, Dr. Letchworth believes a deeper, more involved counseling is needed. "The counselor can no longer be just a skilled psychometrician, vocational guider, and study skills expert. In addition, he must be a person who is willing to become involved in an authentic and personal relationship."

Besides group and individual counseling, the Counseling Center is also involved with intrauniversity and extrauniversity consultation. In addition to meeting with deans, department chairmen and faculty, this year the Center inaugurated a unique consultation program by soliciting opinions from student leaders in a series of meetings.

Barry Russal To Present Poetry Reading At Pollock

YSU'S NEW POET — Mr. Barry Russal will present a reading of his own works at 4 p.m. tomorrow at the Pollock House. He comes to YSU from the University of Wisconsin and has had his poetry published in various academic journals for the past four years.

Mr. Barry Russal, a new instructor in YSU's English department, will present a poetry reading of his own works tomorrow at 4 p.m. The public is invited to attend the reading which follows a coffee hour beginning at 3:30 p.m.

Mr. Russal, who comes to YSU from the University of Wisconsin, has been writing poetry for nearly eight years. His works have been published in the last four years in such journals as Anon, from the University of Michigan, and the Albatross, from the University of Wisconsin. Two years ago, Russal won the Liberman Award for Poetry.

Concerning Rod McKuen, Russal doubts he is a true poet because he writes without the consciousness of language. Russal feels he writes for the public demand, rather than for the integrity of the language.

On the other hand, Russal believes that Bob Dylan, Simon and Garfunkle, and also the Beatles are fine poets and musicians in that they are aware of the language they use, and they expose a meaning that is not ordinarily seen.

Russal would like to bring together the talented writers on the YSU campus with the intention of forming a genuine, hard writing community. His focal point for bringing writers together is his creative writing class.

On this campus, Russal sees potentially talented writers who have an inspiration to write, but need technical help. He believes that through literature and writing classes the talents of the students can be cultivated.

Miss Brooks Speaks At YMCA Dinner

Miss Angie Brooks, immediate past President of the United Nations General Assembly and chief delegate to the UN from Liberia, will speak on Tuesday evening, October 27, at a dinner at the YMCA, 17 North Champion Street. Dinner is at 6:00; she will speak about 7:30. Students are cordially invited to come to listen to the lecture without charge, or to attend the dinner also at a special price of $3.50 (adults pay $5.00). This is the most important speaker that the United Nations Association of Youngstown has ever brought to the community. She is a very dynamic person, and listening to her is likely to be an unforgettable experience.

Reservations for lecture and/or dinner must be in by Thursday, October 22, and may be given to Miss Sterenberg or left in the Political Science office, Arts and Sciences 109. Money for the dinner must be paid by October 22.

Opinion Time For A Change

For the last several seasons the YSU football team has, to the dismay of students and area followers alike, gone drastically downhill. In a time when YSU's athletic department is expanding rapidly, the prestige of YSU football is decreasing.

Doing something about football here has been as discouraging as the team's performance. It seems that YSU football is just like the weather: Everybody talks about it, but no one does anything about it."

The problem with changing YSU football becomes difficult by definition. For YSU football is coach Dwight "Dike" Beede.

It is difficult to replace a coach who has contributed so much to the game of football. Coach Beede is respected by his colleagues as a contributor to the College Football Hall of Fame. He is praised by his team and by his friends. But the fact is that YSU has not had a successful football season in the last ten years.

Some argue that YSU is improving in stature as a football team by playing, but losing, to strong teams. This, in part, is true. Athletic director Willard Webster has scheduled perhaps the toughest independent small-college schedule in the country. But football is a business. And consistent losing is not good for business.

Athletic facilities and programs are drawn from sources made available through ticket sales. Losing does not sell tickets.

Recruitment is successful only when players see the advantages of a successful program, and a successful team. Losing is not an advantage.

Support is based on enthusiasm by the area residents and students. Losing does not breed enthusiasm.

Clearly, it is time for a change when the future of football at YSU is at stake. Coach Beede's contributions will not and can not be forgotten here. But his dated coaching has been the topic of criticism and discontent for a long time.

Homecoming Game-

YSU Penguins Lose Again

YSU's winless football squad found the going a little too rough as the Penguins failed to gain their initial win of the year in the Homecoming game against Northern Michigan. From the pre-game toss of the coin, the Northern Michigan Wildcats seemed to dominate what almost developed into a mismatched contest. Only a strong aerial attack led by Ron Jaworski and an equally solid rushing game by Rosie Blackwell kept the game interesting.

Poor punting, interceptions, and fumbles proved costly, as the Wildcats took advantage of Penguin errors to run off their fifth win against only one defeat. The Wildcats have lost only to powerful Akron and are rated 18th in the UPI small college poll.

Once again YSU had enough offense, but mistakes proved costly. With the Penguins trailing 14-7 early in the second quarter, Northern Michigan reeled off 29 straight points, 22 in the final 2:17, to put the game out of reach. Twice Wildcat interceptions led to scores. YSU defensive backs were fooled on a halfback pass and an end-around pass, both for touchdowns. NMU's initial score came after YSU fumble.

Rosie Blackwell, Youngstown

State's "mini fullback," continued to pile up the yardage with back-to-back 100-yard plus games.

Blackwell carried 20 times for 136 yards in last Saturday night's 43-27 loss to Northern Michigan to boost his five-game total 430 yards in 83 carries. He picked up 131 yards in 22 tries the previous week.

It marks the first time a Penguin back has put 100-yard plus games together since Ken Kacenga did it in 1968. Blackwell's 136 yards is the most gained since Kacenga rolled up 140 against Gustavus Adolphus in 1968. Blackwell sat out the fourth quarter with a bruised knee, but it is hoped he'll be ready for the next game.

The Penguin passing attack, rated 8th in the nation before the Northern Michigan contest, saw its average slip from 249.8 yards per game to 239.6. Sophomore quarterback Ron Jaworski had another big night, tossing for 204 yards and one touchdown on 18 of 37 attempts.

The Penguins have an open date this week before visiting Southeastern Louisiana October 31.

Hanahan, Strollo Named As Project Architects

The Youngstown architectural firm of Hanahan, Strollo and Associates has been named as the project architect for the first phase of Youngstown State University's Music and Fine Arts building, it was announced today by Dr. Albert L. Pugsley, University president.

The Houston, Texas, firm of Caudill Rowlett Scott, architects, planners and engineers and the University's Campus Master Plan consultants, will be associated in joint venture as the design architects for the project. The firms were appointed by the Ohio Department of Public Works upon recommendation of the YSU Board of Trustees Building Committee.

According to Dr. Pugsley, architectural plans for the $5.5 million structure should be complete by summer of 1971, with occupancy slated for the opening of the fall quarter, 1973. The first phase of the Music and Fine Arts building will be constructed on the present site of Ford Hall, immediately adjacent to the Arts and Sciences Office building on Wick Ave.

The Music and Fine Arts building will provide a facility for those three disciplines which share a concern for creativity and performance — music, art and speech and drama. Utilizing 118,318 square feet, the structure will house a 400-seat theatre and the University's current radio and projected television facilities.

The Dana School of Music will have the largest square footage — approximately 36,000 — which will contain offices for the dean, assistant dean and faculty, instructional laboratories, a rehearsal-performance area, studio-offices and practice rooms. The art department will utilize some 30,000 square feet for offices, gallery space and instructional labs, while the department of speech and drama will house offices, instructional laboratories, radio and TV broadcasting facilities and the theatre.

Phase II of the Fine Arts complex will include general classrooms, additional laboratories, additional service space for the theatre and radio-TV complex, and a large auditorium.

Sign-ups Continue

Sign-up for Fall Rush began Monday, October 19, and will continue through Thursday, October 22, in Room 116 in Kilcawley Student Center from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Any female, full-time student who has previously completed 12 hours and has at least a 2.2 accum is eligible to sign up.

Rush parties will begin on Saturday, October 24, and will conclude on Sunday, November 1, with the parties being held only on Saturdays and Sundays. Invitations to the parties will be given out on Friday, October 23, for all girls who have signed up during the week.

Bids will be extended on Monday, November 2, the day after the last party, and can be picked up by the rushees from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m. When the rushees pick up their bids there will be no sorority girls around, which is a change brought about from the Panhellenic Workshop held this past August. Instead, the rushees will pick up their bids alone and then can go to the according sorority house.

YSU Fullback Enjoys Running The Ball

YSU's Penguins are running the ball more often this season and no one is enjoying it more than YSU fullback Rosie Blackwell.

"The more I carry the ball, the better I feel," says Blackwell, who proved that last Saturday night at Murray State. Blackwell rushed 22 times, just two shy of the YSU one-game record. More importantly, he gained 131 yards, the first time a Penguin back has picked up over 100 yards in a game since Ken Kacenga made 111 yards in 24 carries against South Dakota State in 1968.

Blackwell's four-game totals include 63 carries for 294 yards, four touchdowns and a 4.7 yard per carry average. He picked up just 296 yards all last season and the entire Penguin ground game accounted for only three scores in 1969.

"I think this year we have a more balanced attack," says Blackwell. "And the offensive line is doing a great job." Blackwell is the first to recognize this, always giving a pat on the back in the huddle for a good block. "I usually do it as encouragement. Everybody likes a little praise and that's something linemen don't often get."

One of Blackwell's blockers is tackle Harold Nobles, a teammate of Rosie's at Cleveland's J. F. Kennedy High. Another high school teammate, Ron Nelson, starts at defensive halfback.

Blackwell had an outstanding high school career, gaining over 900 yards and scoring 11 touchdowns his senior year. He was named to the Cleveland Plain Dealer Dream Team and the Cleveland Press All-Star Team. Although the 131 yards is his collegiate high, he once gained 205 yards in a high school game.

The 5-8, 195-pound "mini-back" had several offers from larger colleges. "They liked my films," says Blackwell, "but when they found out how tall I was..."

When his Penguin teammates tease Blackwell about his size, he quickly points out the success the Kansas City Chiefs have had with "mini-backs." Once Blackwell gets rolling, he's a hard target to bring down. He was surprising in open field speed, once running the 60-yard dash in high school in 5.7.

Blackwell spent a lot of time in the off season polishing his receiving and blocking skills and it's paid off. He's second in receptions with 16 for 143 yards and is the wrong man to mess with when rushing the passer. "I do enjoy nailing someone with a block," he adds. "I'm on the receiving end so much that if I can give it out, I take advantage of it."

Blackwell's goal of gaining 500 yards this year is a mere 206 yards away. He's even likely to outgain the entire Penguin backfield of 1969, which picked up 684 yards.

Struthers Stampede

by Skip Miller

Sunday night several thousand YSU students jammed into Struthers Field House to see the Fifth Dimension. Some sat on the floor, some sat in the stands, and the rest sat on their feet. The six o'clock show almost started on time, narrowly missing a University record for starting times. At the front entrance there was a mob of screaming, howling, pushing, clawing, intelligent college students (?) standing outside re-inacting the mob scene from Spartacus.

Blanton Collier, coach of the Cleveland Browns, was on hand to observe the proceedings. Coach Collier was reported to have said that anyone brave enough to break through the door was Brown material. One student named Kong, a big, hairy guy from Mineral Ridge, suffered four broken ribs and multiple bruises when he was run down by sixteen sorority girls who had become separated from their dates.

The Jack Webb Drill Instructor award of the year goes to Sammy Whackoe, the humorous replica of a cop, who orderly prepared the students to enter the gym. Sammy, an off-duty chicken plucker, faced an unruly mob (remnants of a Ben Hur movie) and ordered them to get into single file or he would not let them enter the gym. The crowd responded by telling Sammy that they would put him in single file if he didn't open the door. If the students had formed a single line, it would have stretched all the way back to Bryson Street, which is where some of them had to park.

The mob scene could have been avoided had the doors been opened at five o'clock. But, that would have been too efficient. The National Guard, elated from their recent victory at Kent State, volunteered to help, but were not called because no one at the field house had a dime.

Dean Dean was interviewed and asked about solutions to the problem of students crowding at the door. Dean Dean was reported to have said that at the next concert, barricades would be set up 400 yards from the field house and the students would be held there until the door of the field house was opened. When asked if this would get good seats, Dean Dean was quick to remind the interviewer that race does not always belong to the swift.

In case this system proves inefficient, the University is prepared to hire Max Nodifference, a compulsive fruit-picker and champion sardine packer from Lewistown, Maine, to help squeeze the students in the door.

Dean Dean also suggested greasing the door jams at the fieldhouse with whale blubber. (It seems the University just got a good buy on some whale blubber from a one-legged sea captain from Struthers who kept mumbling something about a white whale.)

The Dean immediately dismissed the suggestion of opening more than one door to the field house as "totally ridiculous."

Those students lucky enough to get inside the Field House alive found that many of the choice seats had been reserved for everyone from the major events committee to the Viet Cong.

The most exciting event of the evening was when awards were given. Some of the winners were: The stage crew, for poor construction; the sound crew, for a sound system that worked; and Mike Duquin, for endurance.

YSU Marching Band Appears At Cleveland Browns Game

The YSU Marching Band made its third appearance at a halftime show of a Cleveland Browns football game when it performed last Sunday at a game between the Browns and the Detroit Lions.

Composed of 144 playing members, nine majorettes and one drum major, the band features its 84 brasses, 48 woodwinds, and 12 percussions in a show that was well received by the Cleveland crowd.

Students and area viewers were able to view the YSU band's performance on the nationally televised game. Featured performers were majorettes Charmaine Paduzzi, head majorette Karen Textoris, and drum major Joe Petea.

For two consecutive years, the YSU band recorded a selection for the Ludwig Music Co. and also recorded all contest music for the high school Ohio Music Education Association Competitions. The Band is honored to be chosen to do this recording for competitions again this year.

The YSU band is directed by Robert E. Fleming, now in his third year as assistant professor of music. Fleming graduated for Marshall University, in Huntington, W. Va. with both the bachelor and master of arts degrees.

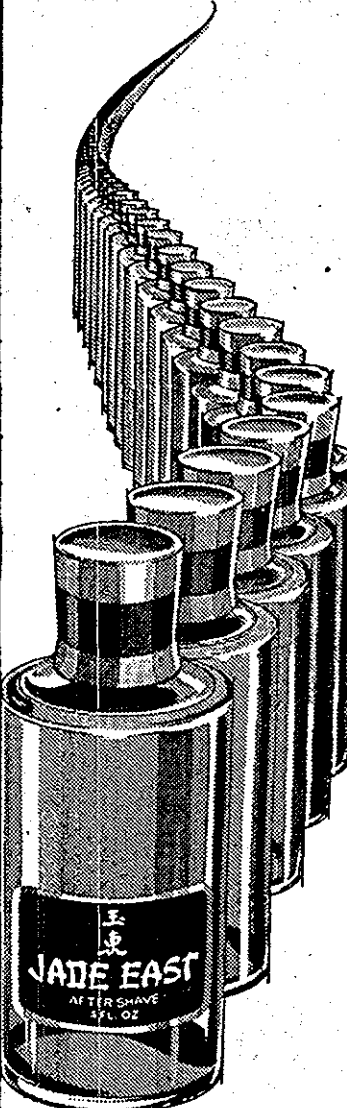

Before coming to YSU in 1968, Fleming was director of the Warren G. Harding Band for 10 years. Under his leadership, the Band performed 8 times for the Brown's games. Also, the WGH Band performed two times for the All-Star Game in Chicago.

Assisting Fleming with the band, for the second year, is Joseph Lapinski, a graduate of the YSU Marching Band. Lapinski also holds a masters degree from Michigan State University. He was director of the bands at Morningside College in Iowa prior to his appointment at YSU.
