TWO FOR THE COLD — The temperature was sub-freezing, the wind piercing, but this YSU couple seem to be enjoying it all. The prediction of more cold weather and snow make for similar arm-in-arm walks today.

Minor changes to mark 1970-71 faculty evaluation

Minor changes will mark the 1970-71 model of the Student Government faculty evaluation, according to Larry Simko, faculty evaluation co-ordinator.

Questionnaires are expected to be distributed to classes for teacher evaluation sometime next week.

Simko said yesterday that this year's evaluation questionnaire will be divided into three distinct sections. The first includes background information on the student, the second identifies the instructor and the course, and third is the evaluation of the instructor itself.

Simko said a special section to include general student opinion has also been included on the questionnaire. General opinion questions will provide for student point of view on the student activity fee, the parking fee, and

Happy Thanksgiving

With the approach of Thanksgiving on Thursday and a two-day academic vacation all of us on the Jambar would like to extend to everyone our best holiday wishes. We will also celebrate the occasion so that no edition of the Jambar will appear on Friday.

We will resume our normal publication schedule next Tuesday and finish out the quarter with Friday's paper. Final examinations will begin a week from Monday, December 7, and Christmas vacation then follows.

Pugsley clarifies Regents' limited enrollment figure

YSU may face limited enrollment, but not nearly as limited as suggested by a Youngstown Vindicator article last Friday. The article, which indicated that YSU may be forced to limit enrollment at 15,400, revealed a proposed revised master plan by the Ohio Board of Regents.

Dr. Albert L. Pugsley, University president, yesterday told the Jambar that the 15,400 figure represents the FTE (full time equivalent) enrollment figure, not part-time figures. Dr. Pugsley said that University enrollment could probably reach a figure of 19,500 students before YSU would be affected by the FTE ceiling figure.

The FTE figure is derived by dividing the total number of student hours taught at a university by 15, an average academic load. Therefore, two part-time students, one carrying nine hours and another six hours, would be equivalent to one full-time student.

The enrollment ceiling could conceivably affect YSU's open admissions policy, however.

The Vindicator article cited tentative, but specific recommendations of the revised master plan by the Board of Regents which requires approval by the Ohio Legislature. Recommendations in the plan which directly affect YSU are:

1. Repealing the State's open admissions law for State universities and setting enrollment limitations by September 1, 1972.
2. Establishment of areas of health education which would offer clinical education for medical students and residency training for new doctors in Youngstown, Akron, Dayton, Lima, and Mansfield.

3. Creation of medical schools by proposed use of existing educational and hospital facilities (Youngstown was also bidding for a medical college along with Kent).

4. Doing away with the branches at the universities and establishing them as independent institutions with their own trustee members.

5. Freezing education enrollments in colleges of education and asking universities to initiate improvements in teaching education.

6. Limiting special Ph.D. programs to Ohio State and the University of Cincinnati.

President Pugsley said that copies

YSU denied medical school

Confirmation that YSU has lost all chances of establishing a medical school was received yesterday from the office of the Board of Regents.

The Regents recommended last Friday in their revised master plan that Akron, and Dayton Universities establish medical schools by using existing educational and hospital facilities.

The recommendation requires approval by the Ohio Legislature.

YSU and Kent State University have been bidding for the medical school since last year.

State senator-elect Harry Meshel, chairman of the YSU med school committee, was in Columbus securing information on the medical school site decision. He could not be reached for comment.

YAF Freedom Table

There will be a Freedom Table set up in the Engineering & Science Building Lobby this Tuesday sponsored by the Young Americans for Freedom from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Materials describing the purposes and activities of the organization will be available.

Graduate Reference Library

Any senior undergraduate or graduate student planning to continue his education on the graduate level and who needs assistance in determining what graduate schools are available can now consult the graduate school reference library under the directorship of graduate assistant Mr. Uwe Haushalter.

The graduate catalog library is located in the Graduate School Office, the Lincoln Project, Room 409.

This reference service will aid students in their decision regarding institutions to consider for graduate study and also assist faculty members and staff for purposes of comparison studies, surveys, and analysis.

The reference service is open every afternoon on Mondays through Fridays. Appointments can be made by calling the graduate school, Ext 242.

Pratt To Speak

Lawrence D. Pratt, well-known writer, lecturer and political scientist, will be the first guest speaker of the Youngstown State University Libertarian Society next Monday, Nov. 30th at 2:30 in the Audio Visual Room of the YSU Library. The Libertarian Society is a newly organized club with the sole purpose of educating for liberty. It does not engage in any political activism.

Mr. Pratt's topic will be "The Danger of the New Left."

Communists may bar peace talks-

Vietnam spy flights continue

SAIGON (AP) — The United States kept up spy flights over North Vietnam yesterday in the face of mounting protests and a move by the Communists to boycott the Paris peace talks because of the heavy weekend bombing raids over the North.

The reconnaissance flights went out to get photographs of the damage inflicted in the bombing strikes even as the controversy over the raids increased.

In Washington, Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird revealed that U.S. Army and Air Force volunteers made a daring but futile helicopter raid near Hanoi to rescue American prisoners of war. He said the camp was found abandoned and the raiders departed safely. That was the "only operation that took place north of the 19th parallel" in North Vietnam over the weekend Laird said, while some 250 U.S. fighter-bombers were pummeling the North Vietnamese panhandle.

And in Paris, the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegations to the peace talks announced they would boycott the next session scheduled for tomorrow, although they said they would return to the conference table December 3.

While reconnaissance flights continued over North Vietnam, scores of American warplanes roamed over Laos and Cambodia, supporting embattled government troops in both countries and bombing North Vietnamese supply routes running southward.

The American strike force was beefed up by 85 of the fastest and most advanced combat planes from the newly arrived aircraft carrier Ranger, the second largest warship in the Pacific Fleet.

In South Vietnam, ground fighting was at a low level, with only small actions reported.

The U.S. Command reported American troop strength in South Vietnam dropped by 3,800 men last week to 360,000, the lowest total in four years. It is scheduled to be reduced further, to 344,000 men, by the end of this year under the fifth phase timetable of the U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam.

Supreme Court rules tenants may hold rent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court let stand yesterday a ruling that tenants have a right to withhold rents if landlords fail to keep their apartments in decent condition.

The Supreme Court made no comment in declining unanimously to review the ruling.

Enrollment

The ruling by the US Circuit Court for the District of Columbia applies only to the capital. It is a landmark decision in that it upsets a centuries-old legal principle that landlords are not required to make repairs unless they specifically promise to do so in leases.

part-time parking.

The distribution process will vary somewhat from last year's according to Simco. Sealed envelopes containing questionnaires for an entire class will be distributed to instructors, then a student will be designated to hand out, collect, and seal individual questionnaires.

Final date for returning the questionnaires will be December 4.

The completed faculty evaluation booklet is expected to be ready for distribution by the seventh week of next quarter, Simco said.

Simco expressed disappointment at the impact of last year's project. He said that changes in composition and more experience should make for a better evaluation this year.

Students still prefer present grading method

A majority of students prefer the University's present grading system as compared with two suggested system changes now being discussed by the Academic Affairs Committee, according to an informal Jambar poll.

The poll, which questioned 67 students, revealed that a majority of students favor our present four point grading system to either the numerical or a plus and minus systems.

Some 30% of the students polled actually do prefer either a numerical or a plus and minus system, while 8% of the students suggested that a pass-fail program be instituted. The rest agree that the present system is most acceptable.

A variety of comments was expressed by the students concerning the suggested systems. Bruce Beatty, sophomore in accounting, feels that a plus and minus system would only be a disadvantage to the student and merely give him added pressures. However, Susan Sovik, education sophomore, favors the system and comments, "the students need all the opportunities for an advantage that they can get."

Freshman nursing student, Janice Little, maintains that a numerical grading system would seem a lot more accurate and distinctive, and Linda Shimko, a home economics sophomore, agrees that too much of a gap is evident between the grades we now have and that high school grading is more fair. Joan Raley, home economics sophomore, argues that letter grades allow for the human variable.

Although no immediate changes are planned, the Academic Affairs Committee is presently reviewing the present system and alternatives.

Possible presidential candidate-

Sen. Birch Bayh to speak

A strong dark-horse candidate for either the Presidential or Vice Presidential nod from the Democratic party in 1972, will be the next Artist Lecture Series speaker at Youngstown State University.

Senator Birch E. Bayh, Jr., the junior Senator from Indiana, takes the rostrum Wednesday, Enough textbooks now available for Social Science

An ample supply of the hard-bound textbooks currently in use in Social Science 503 courses for the remainder of this quarter and for winter and spring quarter are available at the University Bookstore, according to Miss Ivis Boyer, chairman of the Political Science Department.

The text, entitled An Introduction to Social Science (Calhoun, Naftalin, et. al.), had been delayed in shipping and did not arrive for the first two weeks of the fall quarter, inconveniencing over 1000 students. However, enough copies did arrive before serious consequences developed. Eight copies of the book were also put on closed reserve in the library by Miss Boyer the first week of school for students who were unable to obtain a copy of the text. These books are still on reserve and are available to all students.

December 2, at 8 p.m. in Powers Auditorium.

The former Speaker of the Indiana House, Bayh scored one of the major upsets in the elections of 1962 when he defeated the popular veteran Republican Homer Capehart by a scant 11,000 votes.

The chairman of the subcommittee on the Judiciary Special Committee on Constitutional Amendments, it was Bayh who was the prime author of the 25th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution on Presidential succession. He is now sponsoring a proposed 26th Amendment which calls for the direct election of Presidents, doing away with the Electoral College.

Senator Bayh's lecture is free and open to the public.

Letters to the Editor

Urges students to clean up litter

To the editor of the Jambar:

On April 22, 1970 America received a major clean-up of its polluted areas. On this day many school communities throughout the United States, factories, business corporations, and hundreds of citizens, took part in a national wide program to clean the grim, dirt and eye sores caused by pollution. Their tasks ranged from picking litter from sidewalks to peaceful demonstrations and marches to alarm the general public of the increasing dangers of air, water and land pollution. The day was Earth Day.

What is needed now is a YSU Day, not only for one day but on a daily basis. I do not mean everyday the students of YSU report for a police detail to pick up the litter from the campus streets. What I mean is that absent-minded students show a little extra thought toward other students by cleaning up the mess the absent-minded students leave behind when they finish their snacks and lunches at the refreshment stands throughout the campus.

These areas are for our enjoyment. The vending machines are there for our use—to have a cup of coffee, cold drinks and hot and cold sandwiches. After some students have finished their snack or lunch, they leave behind their mess for someone else to clean up the cigarette butts and ashes, potato chips, empty coffee cups, candy wrappers, etc. Why is it that these inconsiderate students when leaving the snack bars cannot take with them their garbage? Why is it someone else must clean up the mess in order to sit and study or eat in peace? Why is it students carry books and school equipment all day long but are unable to carry an empty coffee cup or paper bags a few extra feet to a disposal container?

What is needed is a campaign to draw attention to these absent-minded students to clean up their mess so that others do not have to do it. A spread with pictures should be placed in the Jambar showing the snack bars condition and a few comments from the Faces and Thoughts section in the Jambar asking other students' views on this matter.

Larry Layn

Blames coaching staff for grid losses

To the editor of the Jambar:

After reading those letters to the editor in the November 20 issue and listening to YSU finish a "perfect" season with a 14-10 loss to Chattanooga, I felt a more realistic approach was needed when assessing our football situation and that blind school pride and baseless accusations should be left out for a change.

I'm tired of hearing about our fantastic passing ability...our great defense...our explosive offense...and that our plays, rightfully labeled "dated" by some, gain good yardage. The fact remains that our record of wins and losses speaks for itself, and with a voice louder than all the glowing reports' voices about our abilities put together.

I support the team, but I am not going to be blindly loyal when something like the miserable record of our team persists year after year. I refuse to believe that "bad breaks" cause us to lose every game. We lose because we don't play as well as our opponent does. And I feel that our coaching staff is responsible. Our team has too much potential for winning. The problem is that the potential is not being developed properly and that is caused by our coach.

The attitude of many team members leans towards support of the coach. That is understandable. Many "old veterans" on the team have known Mr. Beede for years and a type of rapport has been established, which leads to respect and support. But in this case friendship has blanketed the real situation so that it requires "bystanders" to point out the situation and tell it like it is.

I cannot believe that team morale is high. That is simply against human nature. To rise only to be pushed into the dirt again time after time can only result in discouragement and bitterness.

I commend you totally for your interest in this problem of our football program. I feel your writing is excellent and conveys the true feelings of most everyone in this area. I agree with your position on this matter, especially with the opinion that Coach Dwight "Dike" Beede should leave. He has contributed much to football in his time, but his time is long gone and the best thing he could do for YSU football now is to resign and let a coach who could better develop the potential of our team take over.

Signed, a realist,

Students react favorably to Black Studies at YSU

Both Black and White students expressed curiosity, optimism, and enthusiasm this week concerning the development of the new Black Studies program at YSU. An informal survey taken by the Jambar of the YSU student body revealed that sentiment was high for the success of this new program which is to be headed by Mr. Alfred Bright, currently assistant professor of art.

Most polled expressed curiosity and concern for the program. Most believed the university was making an honest attempt to establish informative courses, but they believed the program should be experimental at first.

If the program was declared ineffectual after the trial period, these courses should be eliminated and other methods formulated.

Philosophy Dept. considers adding religious courses

The Philosophy and Religious Studies Department of Youngstown State University is now exploring the possibility of adding courses in the Religious Studies field.

Dr. Earl E. Eminhizer of the Philosophy Department is correlating a survey to determine if there is a definite need for expansion in the Religious Studies field.

A questionnaire is being distributed to all philosophy classes and also sent by mail to all clergymen in Trumbull, Mahoning and Columbiana counties. The information gained in the return of these questionnaires will help Dr. Eminhizer determine what courses students, clergy and laymen feel most important.

So far Dr. Eminhizer says that students are showing a great interest in Contemporary Religious Thought and Eastern and Oriental Religions.

Anyone interested in giving his opinion in this survey is invited to do so at the Arts and Sciences Building room 102N between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. every weekday.

If sufficient interest is shown new courses will be included in the new 1971-1972 Youngstown State University Bulletin, Catalog Issue.

dents felt that courses which stressed the significant contributions of the Black man were a necessary part of the curriculum and could be a very effective means of communication.

Black students pointed out that Black Studies courses were as important to them as courses offered in the language, literature, and art were to members of particular nationalities.

Approximately 95% of the Blacks polled did not feel this curriculum was a token program.

Opinions were mixed concerning who should teach these courses. Approximately 75% of Blacks polled and 60% of Whites polled thought Black instructors would be the better. The other 25% of the Blacks and 40% of the Whites replied that so long as the faculty was knowledgeable and concerned, race was not a question.

White students on the whole were interested in Black Studies courses not only as relating to their major field but as electives. They felt that this should be a bi-racial program which could prove fundamental in cementing and furthering communications between the Black and White communities on campus.

Of those questioned, 90% of Black students and 60% of White students planned to enroll in at least one course in the program as an elective. The other 10% of Blacks and 40% of Whites replied they either had no interest in taking these courses or could not fit these courses into their schedules.

Approximately 30% of the Black students polled expressed interest in a major in Black Studies if one were to be offered. Most White students did not express this interest in acquiring a major.

Several suggestions for courses were made by students to include many major departments especially the humanities, the social sciences, and education.

Ideas for course topics were expressed also by the students polled including the Black man through history, literature, and arts, and the traditions and customs of the Black man in America. Other topics included contemporary Black leaders in politics, religion, and technology, and the psychology of the Black man.

Suggestions were made to include minority opportunity programs in many fields as well.

Recommendations also were made that a course in Black Studies be offered as a pass-fail seminar on one contemporary issue which would be open to the entire YSU community.

Crowned Friday night-- Winners picked at Engineer's Ball

John Costanza, Jr., a senior majoring in Electrical Engineering, and Joan Patton, a junior majoring in elementary education, were crowned "Mr. Engineer" and "Engineer Sweetheart" respectively at the Engineer's Ball on Friday.

The Ball, "A Touch of Autumn," was held at the Mahoning Country Club on Friday, November 20. The Ball was sponsored by the Dean's Council of the William Rayen School of Engineering.

Costanza was chosen from six contestants in an election by the engineering students and was presented a plaque. He is president of the state chapter of the student section of the Ohio Society of Professional Engineers, past vice-president of the YSU chapter, and is a member of the student branch of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers and Sigma Tau honorary engineering fraternity.

PICKING UP REGISTRATION MATERIALS—Donna found the lines longer for picking up registration materials than for entering the registration area. Here, she waits for a permit to register correction.

Registration

The Jambar followed Donna Yurco, a freshman at YSU majoring in merchandising, as she registered for winter quarter. Armed with her registration materials, it took Donna only a few minutes to register.

Advisement and registration for currently enrolled students will continue through December 3.

MEETING WITH ADVISOR—Donna discusses the courses she would like to take and the courses she must take with her advisor. They decided upon a course schedule that her advisor signed.

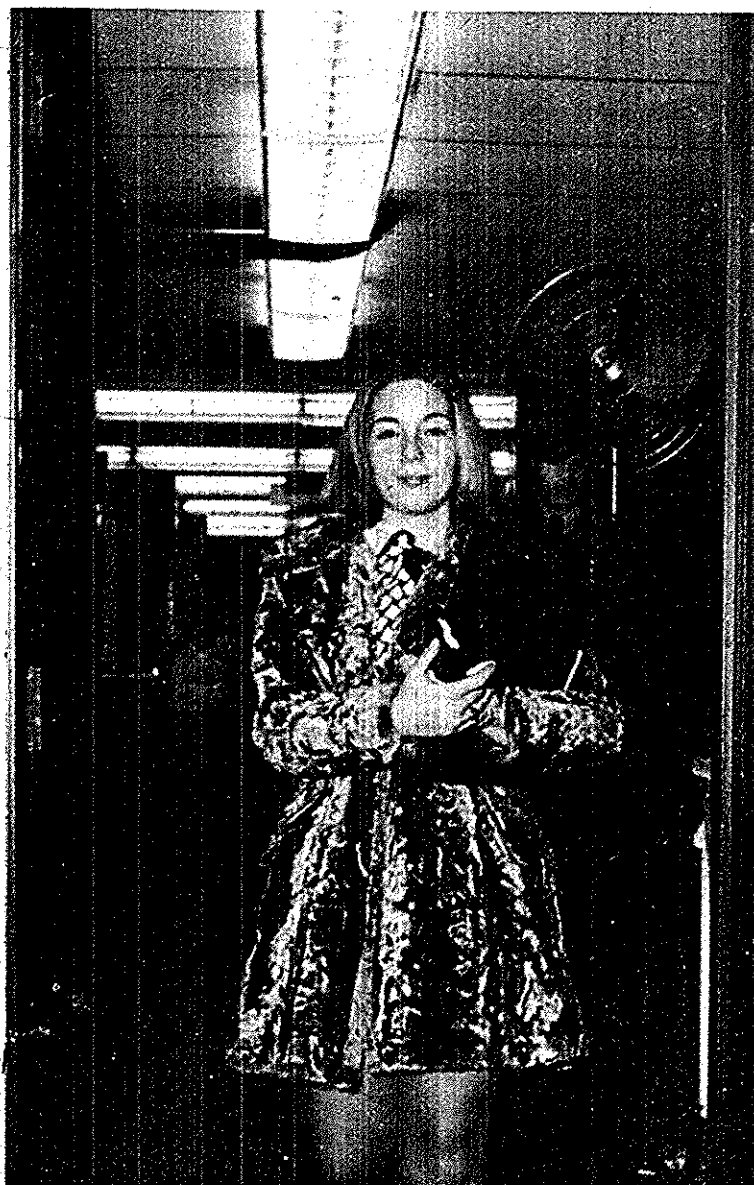

PROCEED WITH REGISTRATION ONLY IF YOU HAVE:

1. ID CARD WITH ^{GRAY} ₂₀₇₀ VALIDATION STICKER
- 2.
3. ADVISOR'S SHEET WITH PROPER SIGNATURE
4. SCAN SHEET PROPERLY COMPLETE IN PENCIL
5. COMPLETE CLASS SCHEDULE IN THE BULLETIN
6. PERMITS FOR EDUCATION
7. HEALTH PERMITS ^{IF} _{DE}

ENTERING THE REGISTRATION AREA—Donna glanced over the checklist posted on the door leading to the registration area in the basement of Kilcawley. She found nothing missing and continued along through the maze.

CHECKING FOR CLOSED CLASSES—The list of closed classes posted in the Kilcawley lobby did not alter Donna's scheduling choices. After carefully checking the list, she proceeded on to the registration area.

EXITING—Donna leaves the registration area after completing her registration for winter quarter.

Catch YSU

Knuckles Hedd

by Skip Miller and Carl Basic

Recently the YSU campus has been the scene of vice, crime and things that go bump in the night. Almost on a daily routine someone is mugged or robbed on the streets in the campus area.

Well, did you ever wonder about the rugged life that one of these muggers lives? The poor guy is forced to work midnight turn every day, has no fringe benefits, and his chances for promotion are very slim. He has to work in all kinds of adverse weather conditions and often risks bodily harm at his occupation.

Last night we had the chance to interview one of these poor souls who went by the name of Knuckles Hedd.

"Tell us, Knuckles, how long have you been at this business?"

"Oh, about five to ten years now."

"Do you need any special training to be a mugger?"

"Not really, but you do have to be patient and careful."

"Why careful?"

"Hey, let me tell you, some of these broads around here are pretty strong. Just the other day I made the mistake of trying to mug a coed that was weight-lifting champ of Bryson Street."

"What happened?"

"She was so desperate for a man that she grabbed me and gave me a bear hug that broke four of my ribs. What a beast!"

"What are some of the other hazards of the business?"

"Well, some of the other muggers used to get mixed up and mug each other, but we solved that."

"How?"

"We formed a muggers' union."

"Do you work in any designated area?"

"We divided up the campus and I got stuck out here by the mud lot, But I applied for a transfer."

"How's business been lately?"

"Not too good, but there are signs that it will pick up."

"Why do you say that?"

"Well, the way that the University's been bilking the students lately, they're forced to carry more money on them. Besides that, when the new Health and Physical Education building opens up, we'll have a whole new area to patrol."

"What do you think of the students here at YSU?"

"I guess you could say that they're typical college students, led around like sheep and afraid to get involved in anything. I used to be one myself."

"Really? Why did you quit?"

"Oh, I got tired of the run-around, at registration, bad food, the hassle of finding a parking space, rising prices, always being broke, and the general incompetence of everyone in authority...besides that, I flunked out."

"Well, what do you..."

"Shhhh, here comes a likely prospect now."

As we ducked down behind the bushes, Knuckles leaped out into the path of an innocent victim. Sure enough, it turned out to be Dean Dean (he sure gets around doesn't he).

Knuckles informed the Dean to hand over his doe, to which the Dean replied by jumping around like an Elk in heat. Knuckles tried to follow the Dean by doing something that resembled a Lapland Folk Dance. It wasn't long before they realized that they had the makings of a great dance team.

Anyhow, they ended the affair by going down to Tony's to catch a beer and talk about their future in show business.

This just goes to show you that muggers have feelings too. They have to make a living just like the rest of us. So, the next time you're confronted by a mugger, tell him that you don't believe that he has the gun that he says that he has. And if he does have it, tell him that you don't believe that it works. But, if he proves to you that it does, you had better give him everything that he wants.

"Don't bother screaming for help because no one will come anyway. (It's part of the University's non-involvement policy.)"

December grads to receive diplomas in March

There will be no formal graduation ceremonies for the December graduates, according to Bernadette Nolfi, secretary to Vice President Edgar.

Students who plan to graduate in December will receive their diplomas at the Spring graduation ceremony which will be held on March 24, 1971. Official graduation date for winter quarter is December 12, last day of finals, but December graduates are required to participate in formal ceremonies in March.
