

Crime wave results in increased security measures

What appears to be a parking lot crime wave at YSU during the past two weeks has resulted in an immediate increase in police and security measures, it was learned last night.

Two armed robberies, an incident of a youth with a concealed weapon, and numerous parking lot thefts have all occurred in a new parking area directly across from the Kilcawley cafeteria and bounded by Fifth Avenue, Spring St, Elm St. and Arlington St. The area is currently an unofficial parking lot for students and is unlit, unpaved in sections, and unattended.

The Youngstown Police Department has assigned two detectives to the University area and the University Security Department placed an attendant in that area as of this morning.

Bob Elias, junior business major, and John Moritz, history graduate student, were both robbed at gunpoint early last Monday evening. Elias, according to police, had parked his car and was walking towards campus when he was stopped by an unidentified man. The man pointed a small black revolver at Elias and told him, "Give me all your money or I'll blow your head off." Elias turned his wallet, containing about four dollars, over to the man, who then fled on foot heading west on Arlington St. and (cont. on page 5)

Bright to head Black Studies program

A Black Studies program headed by Mr. Alfred Bright, assistant professor of art, was announced yesterday by University President Dr. Albert L. Pugsley.

Although no definite time table was released, immediate plans call for the development and promotion of a Black Studies curriculum that would provide a major in Black Studies.

Mr. Bright will administer the Office of Black Studies and serve as a consultant to the various academic departments. All academic work will be offered through the regular departments and schools of the University.

According to Mr. Bright, the objectives of this year will be to develop and promote a curriculum leading to the implementation of an academically sound major in the field of Black Studies; to assist department chairman in the location and recruitment of Black faculty; to inform Black and minority students of the special education opportunities here at the University and to assist the appropriate administrative offices in their further recruitment."

Mr. Bright said that the program has a "bi-racial approach" that such a program will "bring about better racial understanding and lead toward racial harmony."

When asked if Blacks would be given preference in registering for Black Studies courses, Dr. Pugsley responded that no Black Students would be closed out of such classes. Dr. Pugsley explained that registration details of the program had not been worked out yet, but that classes would be open to all students. Mr. Bright added "that registration preference for Blacks would not be a positive step" in the development of the bi-racial program.

Courses in the Black Studies program are expected to be developed in the social sciences, the humanities, and education. The content of present courses will be restructured to include significant contributions of the Black man, according to Dr. Pugsley.

Dr. Pugsley also released a schedule of academic programs that have been submitted for approval by the U. S. Office of Education. The programs, submitted in conjunction with the Black Studies program call for funds of $259,347 of which $173,243 are federal funds. They include a management development program for Black entrepreneurs, an inner city school-community relations program, a teacher recruitment training program, an minorities broadcasting training program, and a community guidance consortium.

All-campus rally called

An all-campus rally to draw support for the Kent State Legal Defense Fund, promote a peace march in Columbus, and air University grievances has been called for noon tomorrow at the Kilcawley Amphitheater by the Community of Concern.

Speakers Set

C of C advisor Dr. Alice Budge said four representatives from the University and the community will speak at the rally. Speakers will include Atty. Michael Harshman, American Civil Liberties Union lawyer, Dr. Elizabeth Sternburg, associate professor of political science, Dr. Morris Slavin, associate professor of history, and Dan Crishon, Student Government president. It is expected that a representative from the Kent State University student government will also speak.

Student Gov't Endorses

Student Government president Dan Crishon has endorsed the rally.

Two bands "My Uncle's Army Buddies," and "the Jug Band," will also play.

Plans call for open discussion on the recent indictments at Kent State, and an open forum on University grievances.

Mass Meeting

A mass meeting to further discuss the KSU indictments and raise money for the defense fund will follow the rally at 4 p.m. in Pollock house.

No Women For 18 Years-

Wanted List Includes Women

WASHINGTON (AP) — An all-male, bastion since its inception 20 years ago, the FBI's "Top Ten" wanted list is making room for women in increasing numbers.

In its first 18 years of existence, the Top Ten contained no women's names at all. But in less than two years, a lady kidnapper, a murderess escaped from death row and four self-proclaimed revolutionaries have been included.

Slots on the list are handed out at the discretion of J. Edgar Hoover, the 76-year-old bachelor who runs the FBI.

The Top Ten, whose wanted posters in every post office, court house and police station in the country make it perhaps the nation's most famous roster, is becoming less exclusive.

Rigidly restricted to only the 10 most wanted fugitives in the country until the addition of H. Rap Brown as No. 11 last spring, it now contains 16 names. Four of them are women.

Two of the six female fugitives ever to make the Top Ten have been apprehended: Ruth Eismann-Schier, a principal in the Barbara Jane Mackle kidnap case and the first to crack the FBI's sex barrier; and Angela Davis, the black Communist sought in connection with a California courtroom shootout.

Miss Davis was arrested by FBI agents at a motel in New York City last week. She disappeared after the August shoot-out and was added to the Top Ten September 5.

The four women now on the Top Ten are:

Bernardine Rae Dohrn, 27, former national secretary of Students for a Democratic Society. A leader of the radical, underground Weatherman organization, Miss Dohrn is sought on federal charges of conspiring to riot and bomb.

HEADS UP - A tree limb which measured up to 3 1/2 inches in diameter lies splintered below the tree it fell from. The tree, a dead one, still stands outside of Tod Hall. Several limbs have fallen from the tree and one just narrowly missed a coed yesterday. When the University's Landscaping Department was contacted about the hazard it was learned that the University cannot legally remove the tree and that it is up to the city to do so. The city has been contacted several times by the University but as of yet has not done anything about removing the safety threat to unsuspecting pedestrians.

Angela Davis Refuses To Waive Extradition

NEW YORK (AP) - Angela Davis refused yesterday to waive extradition to California and her lawyer indicated he would fight to prevent her return to face charges of murder and kidnapping.

Miss Davis, the black militant accused of purchasing four guns used in a courthouse escape attempt in which four persons including a judge were killed in San Rafael, California, August 7, was arraigned before Manhattan Supreme Court Justice Thomas Dickens, who gave her the choice of waiving or refusing extradition.

The basis for the arraignment was an extradition order signed by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller Wednesday night.

"I refuse to consent to the State of California," was the only comment Miss Davis made at the proceedings.

Immediately after Miss Davis answered, her lawyer, John J. Abt, approached the bench and told Dickens he had prepared a petition for a writ of habeas corpus and requested a 30-day postponement on the matter to prepare his case.

Cloud Comments On Kunstler In KSU Trials

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - Republican candidate for governor Roger Cloud said yesterday that "the entrance of the ultra left-wing attorney, William Kunstler, into the trial of the Kent State students and faculty will open up a sad page in Ohio jurisprudence."

Craig Morgan, president of the KSU student body and one of those indicted in last spring's campus trouble in which four students were killed, said earlier this week Kunstler, defense attorney in the Chicago Seven trial, had promised to coordinate a common defense for the indicted persons.

Response

For the last several years, and particularly since last spring's so-called demands, the University has been seeking appropriate and meaningful ways to respond to the concerns of Blacks on campus. Yesterday, the most significant step in dealing with these concerns took place when the University announced the creation of an Office of Black Studies.

There is no question that the Black man has contributed significantly to our society. It is important that his contributions be recognized by the University community so that a better racial understanding can develop. The implementation of a Black Studies program can lead not only to racial harmony, but can provide effective credentials and extended opportunities for employment.

We can think of no better choice for director of the Office of Black Studies than Al Bright. As a teacher, committee member, and now as an administrator, Mr. Bright has distinguished himself as a popular campus figure. His rapport and understanding of students, both Black and white, and his involvement in the Black Studies program make his appointment a gratifying one.

We welcome the Black Studies program as a long-awaited and much-needed addition to our University.

Insecurity

While Youngstown Police and University Security may not recognize the armed robberies and thefts of the last two weeks as a "crime wave," the fact is that there is an obvious threat to the security of students on this campus.

The only measures either of the crime prevention forces have taken is to bicker over who is in authority in the area where the crimes have occurred.

As students, taxpayers, and residents of Youngstown, we demand that strong and immediate measures be taken. The installation of adequate lighting and the fencing in of the area bordered by Elm, Arlington, and Spring Streets is necessary for the protection of students.

Letters To The Editor

Wants Track And Field Program

To the editor of the Jambar:

Through the Jambar I would like to bring to the attention of the student body as well as the faculty, the fact that something has been missing in YSU athletics for years — a track and field program. Yes, an interesting sport which is supported financially with little trouble is almost unknown to this school. The University's reasons to exclude one of America's most exciting and competitive sports are not known to me.

Why can't we field a track team this spring as practically every college you can think of does every spring. With an enrollment of 16,000 students, there are surely enough men interested to go out for the sport. I know myself of at least twenty fellows who starred on track teams in our district and who would jump at the opportunity to run competitively again if they only could.

I do not believe that we are lacking in facilities either. All that is needed are a room to dress in and a place to run. There are several tracks located close to the campus where workouts could be held — Rayen, Chaney, South, and Fitch. So what is the runners must travel a little way to get there? The YSU football team must travel to Campbell and the basketball team to Austintown. Let's finally give track a chance. If we can not have an intercollegiate team, at least let us form intramural teams. There is much interest among us athletes who are dedicated to track and field. Don't let us waste our athletic talents.

The Media Center

A media center was officially established by the YSU administration on April 8, 1970, to provide an audio visual supplement to classroom instruction. The new center, directed by Dr. Winston Eshleman, makes available movies, slides, film strips, graphics, photos, and video tapes for any classroom purpose and under certain conditions to chartered organizations. Films from YSU's own collection and from outside sources may be obtained through the center, or the center can produce materials directly, in terms of film developing and duplicating, movie productions, mountings and layouts, including video taping of specific activities, as well as providing a consulting service.

Presently the center is advised by a faculty committee headed by Mr. J. D. Foster, chairman of the Criminal Justice Department. Currently four students are employed as equipment operators and assistants. The center also has its own maintenance and repair facilities. Aside from the center's main functions it also makes a limited inventory of equipment available for loan when department facilities are inadequate.

Got The Moves -

Ferranti Makes Receiving A Snap

Robert Ferranti, a sophomore on the Youngstown State football team, has caught 29 passes in his first five varsity games and is rapidly developing into one of the best wide receivers in collegiate football.

Head coach Dwight "Dike" Beede says, "Bob has good hands, good speed and outstanding moves." The head coach thinks, "Bob is as good a wide receiver as we have ever had here at Y.S.U. He has already accounted for 521 offensive yards."

"The Blade", as he is known to his teammates because of his slenderness, stands six feet tall and weighs 165 pounds.

He was an outstanding performer at Boardman High School where he received All Steel Valley honors as a split end.

Bob's goals are "never to be shut out in any game" and

Defense Improves With Each Game

It would be easy for Youngstown State's defense to throw in the towel right now. However, if everyone feels like tackle Mike Roman, that's the last thing they have in mind.

Although the Penguins have been outscored 197-111 this year, most people overlook the fact that the defense is basically doing a good job. It's been the victim of numerous bad breaks and the mistakes of inexperience. Of YSU's 18 turnovers, almost half-two fumbles, five interceptions and one blocked punt—have led directly to touchdowns. This doesn't include poor punts which have given foes good field position.

"Our morale is high," says Roman, a Penguin tri-captain. "We take pride in what we do. If the offense gives up the ball, you have to pick yourself up. That's when you have to play harder. You can't feel sorry for yourself."

"I think we have a good defense," adds Roman. "People will realize that when we get a game together."

Coach Dwight "Dike" Beede echoes the same feeling. "We lost practically our entire defensive line from last year and had to start from scratch," says Beede. "The defense has been improving every game. I think what they've done has been a remarkable job."

Beede cites the work that seniors Roman, Carson Brown and Pat Ryan are doing as outstanding, but adds, "Our freshmen are the backbone of our defense. Linemen Farris Scott and Bill Sperlazza and linebackers Tom Perantoni and Marty Willmitch are doing good jobs." Perantoni leads the squad in tackles and assists, Brown is second and Ryan third.

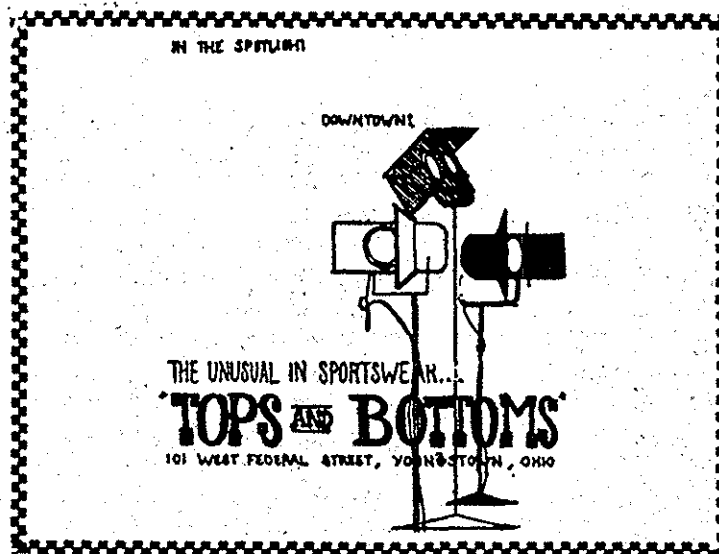

"make four or five catches per game." So far he has accomplished this goal; he has caught at least six passes a game for an average of 18 yards per catch.

Bob models himself after his professional football hero (Gary Collins of the Cleveland Browns).

To Bob the difference between high school football and college football is "college football is a more complicated game and the defenders are physically much stronger."

Bob is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Ferranti of 4617 Weseka Lane, Boardman. This fact plus the opportunity to receive a four year college education influenced Bob in coming to Youngstown State University.

Catch—YSU

No.1 Apathy Team

by Skip Miller and Carl Basic

This week the Athletic Department announced another first for Youngstown State University. This year, the University will field its first Apathy team.

The unit is coached by Dr. Jackson Koehler of the Executive Protocol Department and star of the new State Theatre production "Storefront Wino."

Last year Dr. Koehler shook the sports world by chugging 24 ounces of Pink Pussycat wine in seven seconds.

The Apathy team (better known as the YSU Apathers) has chosen the Yak as its team mascot.

Dean Dean, who is always concerned with school spirit, has already written a special cheer for the apathers:

"Give 'em the Yak, the Yak, the Yak—
Where?

Right on the neck, the neck, the neck."

The Yak's first trial will be on Veteran's Day, when they apathize against the Registered Voters of Youngstown at Cal's Cocktail Lounge and Brothel. Other opponents of the YSU Apathy aggregate will include the Pennsylvania General Assembly, Kelly girls, the fabulous kangaroos, and the Minnesota Vikings.

All Yak home matches will be held at the Kilcawley Apatheater.

Elections Receive

Good Comments

The Homecoming elections have been termed successful by Chuck Hettler, Elections Committee Chairman. 1060 students voted in the contest for Queen. Longer voting hours were used to make it possible for more students to vote. Cooperation by the candidates in observing the new rules adopted by the Pan-Hellenic Council concerning the election was noted.

Several sororities were asked to comment on the elections rules and the election. All felt that the procedure was less expensive, less time-consuming and a more mature manner of running the elections.

Some felt that the rules should become part of the Student Council rules so as to apply to all. The rules presently apply only to the sororities.

HELP THE STUDENTS OF KENT STATE - All those interested in helping to raise money for the Kent State Student Defense Fund, please attend meeting today, 4:00 Pollock House, first floor.

No Parking Problem-

YSU Has People Problem

"There is no parking problem at YSU, only a 'people problem,'" according to Paul Cress, chief of security. Chief Cress cited the senselessness of students and faculty alike who live within walking distance of campus, but insist upon driving.

He pointed out that students complain of no available parking spaces, and yet the far end of the Arlington lot is almost always empty because students refuse to walk from Fifth Avenue. "They would rather park in illegal spaces outside their classes and let their parents pay the five dollar ticket fine."

Chief Cress also noted that those students who park their motorcycles in front of the Engineering building are in direct violation of the YSU parking rule which states that "All two and three-wheeled vehicles shall be registered as four-wheeled vehicles." This would mean that motorcycle owners are to buy a parking permit and to park in designated areas.

Motorcycle owners have thus far been able to get around the law because this property outside the Engineering building is owned by the city. However, Cress suggested that one day the city might come and tow all the motorcycles away.

Bicycle drivers who want to ride their bikes through campus, from class to class have also proved to be a problem. Thus far, Chief Cress has noted only two students who ride bikes to school, but he warns any student who drives a bike or motorcycle on campus to "be prepared to sign a blank check should he be the cause of another person's injury."

Chief Cress recommended that motorcycle and bicycle drivers try to find private homes adjacent to campus which could rent them parking space at a low monthly rate.

Chief Cress also had another suggestion for YSU students who find the parking difficult. "Start a new trend," he said. "Ride a horse."
