2,400 questionnaires distributed for this year's faculty evaluation

Approximately 2400 questionnaires were distributed yesterday to faculty mailboxes for the 1971 Faculty Evaluation, although 300 have been delayed, announced Larry Simko, Student Government vice-president.

A shortage of evaluation sheets prevented classes with course codes over 7000 from receiving the questionnaires. Some sixty other classes also failed to receive the questionnaires due to inaccurate information being turned into the computer center. All these classes will have questionnaires by Thursday morning.

Questionnaires distributed on time must be returned to the Student Government office by Friday, December 4. Delayed questionnaires will be accepted until December 11.

Simko said a special section to include general student opinion has also been included on the questionnaire.

Extra vacation day stated in Catalogue

Day-time students and faculty are entitled to an extra day of Christmas vacation according to the University Catalogue and Student Handbook.

Both publications stipulate that classes for Winter Quarter will begin Monday, January 4, at 5 p.m. It is generally regarded that classes begin at 8 a.m. on January 4.

Dr. Edith Painter, associate dean of Student Affairs, yesterday confirmed that classes are scheduled to start at 5 p.m. instead of 8 a.m.

Likewise, final examinations for Winter Quarter will also start at 5 p.m. as will the start of Spring Quarter and Spring Quarter final examinations.

Student job outlook stays bleak for Winter break

A scarcity in student employment can be reflected in the limited number of openings for temporary Christmas help in area department stores and in the number of unfilled spaces on locally organized vacation trips.

Less than 12 students have found temporary Christmas jobs through the University Placement Office, according to Mrs. Carolyn Bates, director of part-time employment. All of those placed were in sales positions in the Southern Park Mall.

Few students have been placed in Christmas jobs in area department stores, according to the personnel directors of Woolco, Strouss', and Penney's.

The Liberty Plaza Penney's has hired 3 YSU students over the long Christmas break, but downtown Strouss' and the new Woolco Department Store have hired no YSU students on a temporary basis. All of these stores have had to turn away numerous applicants.

Between 20 and 25 students will be going to Acapulco, Mexico during the long break, according to Sherry Isgro, sociology senior, local co-ordinator for the "Studentours" trip. These trips usually average 40 students, Mrs. Isgro stated.

News Analysis

That office has been unable to place 250 student applicants for permanent part-time employment in the area.

Prosecutor disclaims knowledge of guardsmen intention to kill students

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — Special prosecutor Robert Balyeat said today he is unaware of evidence that any National Guardsmen went to Kent State University last spring intending to kill students.

Four students were killed and nine wounded May 4 in a confrontation with guardsmen that climaxed four days of student demonstrations and vandalism: Joseph Rhodes Jr., 22, a member of the President's Commission on Campus Unrest, which investigated the incidents, told a church congregation in Northrup, Mass., Sunday that two guardsmen "went there with premeditation — meaning intending to kill students."

"I haven't the faintest idea what he's talking about," Balyeat said today.

Rhodes claimed there were "major discrepancies" between evidence found by the FBI and the commission and National Guard reports of what took place.

Balyeat, who was in charge of presenting evidence to a special state grand jury probe of the incidents, refused to comment on the claim.

He said that although a court order barring participants in the probe from discussing it had been dismissed, he was unsure if counsel were exempt with witnesses.

Balyeat refused to comment on Rhodes' statement that he had no confidence that a federal grand jury would be impaneled to investigate the Kent State disturbances.

"I don't know whether they'll have one or not," Balyeat said.

"It's up to the Justice Department."

Justice Department officials have said they will decide this month if a federal grand jury should be called.

Roman Catholic groups deny plots; accuse FBI Director Hoover

WASHINGTON (AP) — An antiwar group of Roman Catholic priests, nuns and laymen denied yesterday plotting a kidnap and other accusations by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, and accused him of trying to set the stage for more pressure on leftist groups.

The eleven members of the East Coast Conspiracy to Save Lives said a law suit for defamation of character or libel is being considered.

Hoover, testifying before a Senate appropriations subcommittee last Friday, said the group was plotting to disrupt capital utility lines and kidnap an unidentified White House official. Ransom would be an end to bombing in Indochina and release of "political prisoners," he said.

Hoover said the principal leaders of the group were brothers Daniel and Philip Berrigan, two priests presently serving sentences in a federal prison at Danbury, Conn.

The Berrigans issued a statement earlier denying he should "either...prosecute us or publicly retract the charges he made."

A Jesuit priest, Peter Ford, 32, Jersey City, N.J., said in the news conference yesterday many of the members know the Berrigans socially and through church work, but that there is no connection whatsoever between the group and the priests.

"I hope this is far-fetched," Ford said, but Hoover may have been trying "to induce the public to believe all groups acting to counter the status quo are subversive, careless of human life, and not careful of the commandments of human life."

Also, Ford said, "just the forum he used indicates he is trying to create a need for greater surveillance by the FBI for all kinds of leftist groups...He wants to make the FBI a perpetual part of American life." Hoover was asking the committee to approve increased FBI funding.

"We are a militant group, but a militant group respecting human life, taking every precaution known," Ford said.

president, history senior.

Only 15 men and 7 girls have signed up for the trip which had 39 openings. Berardi stated that most of the skiers going on this bus trip are new members of the club.

No one can adequately explain the employment and travel drought in this area, but it seems to be a reflection of situations throughout the country. There appears to be no Christmas invasions of Florida this winter, nor work available for students over Christmas. In fact, the whole economic situation this vacation may make many bored students anxious for academic life again.

Council authorizes $1,200 allocation for workshop

Student Council yesterday authorized an allocation of $1,200 for a second NAACP Workshop. Council chairman, Don Leone, cast the tie-breaking vote to permit the allocation.

The measure came after prolonged debate between Council members and Eddie Simpson, NAACP president and coordinator for the workshop.

The first workshop attracted only 60 pre-college students, and encountered many problems in its preparation.

The measure still needs approval from Student Government president Dan Crishon. When asked if he expected to veto the proposal, Crishon had no comment.

Council ended their present session at yesterday's meeting, and elected Chuck Hettler, Bill Mahoney, and Pat Galterio, to serve as chairman, vice chairman, and secretary, respectively for the new term.

Professors for Academic Order to hold meeting for officer election

The UPAO, University Professors for Academic Order, will hold a regular meeting to elect officers at 4 p.m. tomorrow in Room 220 of the Pollock House.

The current local officers are Dr. George Overby and Dr. William Swan.

Dr. Michael Szaz, national president and former director of the UPAO, was on campus last Wednesday to help form a local chapter. He stated that the points of emphasis of the organization were three-fold: (1) to have the university get back to non-political views, (2) to protect professional and economic interests of non-radical faculty members, and (3) to help to advance the idea of quality education and scholastic interests.

The organization was incorporated last July 3, and now has a membership of over 600 faculty representing 270 campuses, according to Dr. Szaz.

Dr. Szaz feels that the university should be a free marketplace for ideas and not a place for political action. He is opposed to on-campus speakers who have the potential of creating political activity. Dr. Overby feels that YSU's Speaker's Bureau schedules more liberally oriented speakers than conservatively oriented ones. Dr. Szaz said he would oppose speakers on the incidents at Kent State University but not Republican or Democratic Mayoral candidates providing their speeches were educationally oriented. The local group is inviting all interested faculty and community members who are U.S. citizens with a B.A. degree or equivalent to attend the organization meeting.

Evaluating Evaluation

Today, tomorrow, or sometime this week, your instructor will suspend class for a few moments, ask a student to distribute some grey and yellow envelopes, and then ask each student to evaluate him. True.

From there, that same student should collect all the questionnaires, place and seal them in an envelope, and return them to Student Government offices. True.

Computers will then sort and compile information and what will follow is an uncomplicated, accurate, undeniable evaluation of the University's 1000 instructors. False.

This year's evaluation, like last year's, will be nothing short of a second consecutive blunder in finance and judgment. Researchers can question its validity, faculty can question its meaning, and students can question its use. We question its purpose.

Last year, hundreds of man hours and thousands of dollars were spent on the evaluation which was purchased by about 1,000 people. Many of the purchasers were curious faculty. Most of the students who bought the evaluation needed directions to understand it. Few students who did understand it, used it in the registration process.

Last year, we accepted the statement that the "evaluation is in the experiment stage" as an excuse. Today, we think $5,000 a year is a lot of money to spend on an experiment, especially if that experiment is not well received.

Frankly, we can find no excuse for faculty evaluation anymore. Until either the student body takes an avid interest, or drastic changes in format are made, we evaluate the whole project to be worthless.

Number of tutored students increased in 1969-70

"The total number of students tutored during fall, winter, and spring quarters for the 1969-70 year at Youngstown State University increased 53% over the previous year, with 460 students participating in the program," notes Dr. George E. Letchworth, director of YSU's Counseling Center, in the program's annual report.

"Adding 21 students who were tutored during summer quarter, the total jumps to 481 who benefited from the program for the entire year," says Dr. Letchworth.

Three areas are involved in YSU's Remedial Educational program: tutorial services, study skills laboratory and cross-cultural seminars. The program has been made possible by a $30,000 grant from the Ohio

Board of Regents and was administered by Dr. Nicholas Paraska, dean of the Technical and Community College, Dr. Letchworth, and a student-faculty committee on student development.

In the tutorial program, group tutoring was conducted by limited service faculty at pre-scheduled periods and by students on an individual basis. According to Dr. Letchworth, two students coordinators recruited student tutors and actively sought out students with academic difficulties. There were 101 students tutored on an individual basis, with spring quarter leading the way with 53 the number tutored. The scheduled meetings conducted by limited service faculty accounted for the largest number of students assisted, and tutorial sessions were held in English, mathematics, geography, social science, and a reading laboratory.

James C. Kilgore

Of the 380 students involved in group sessions, a breakdown shows that the largest number was concerned with English—174; geography was next with 63; reading lab, 58; math, 44; and social science last with 41.

Supplementing the tutoring program is a study skills laboratory. Through the use of additional funds, new equipment and materials were purchased, certain remedial classes were reduced in size, and advising time to individual students was increased.

Dr. Letchworth feels this supplemental assistance in the study skills area is particularly important since this course and laboratory, available to students during freshman year, enables many students to make an easier transition from high school to college.

The third phase of the remedial education program focuses on cross-cultural seminars, which were developed as a liaison between the various ethnic groups in the Youngstown community and the University. The seminars serve to provide a place where different cultural groups can become mutually acquainted, help members of the community become aware of the resources and facilities of YSU, and to share separate problems of education in general, and higher education in particular. They also provide a non-structured program for free expression and encourage ethnic groups to motivate their own members to the possibilities of higher education.

Professor to present poetry reading at Dana

James C. Kilgore will present a reading of his poetry at Dana Recital Hall on Thursday, December 3, at 2:00 p.m. The reading is open to the public and will be followed by a coffee hour at Pollock House at 3:00 p.m.

Mr. Kilgore, an assistant professor of English at the Metropolitan Campus of Cuyahoga Community College, is the author of Midnight Blast and other Poems. He has also published poems in The Prairie Schooner, the Green Apple and other magazines.

Mr. Kilgore's appearance here is sponsored by the YSU English Department.

Cress considers more crosswalks unnecessary

"There is no need for any additional crosswalks on campus," according to YSU Chief of Security Paul Cress.

Chief Cress made this statement in reply to the question of whether or not crosswalks should be planned for Elm St., Lincoln Ave., Bryson St., and Wick Ave.

In none of these cases, Chief Cress noted, are university buildings more than 50 to 75 feet from an intersection, which, he explained, are natural crosswalks.

"Asking cars to stop twice in a space of 75 feet," continued Chief Cress, "is asking these drivers to get mad enough to run over you."

Chief Cress pointed out that most of the students and faculty alike will not walk the 75 feet to cross safely. However, he further noted that safety involves more than just going to crosswalks.

Chief Cress declared that safety involves paying attention "no matter where you cross," and he commended both motorists and pedestrians who have kept this campus free of accidents.

Summing up the situation, Chief Cress proclaimed, "The whole area is so dangerous that it is safe."

Jazz Ensemble remains alive and well at YSU

It seems that every year somebody, somewhere, writes a musical obituary proclaiming that jazz is dead. Contrary to this popular practice, however, are the real facts that jazz is alive, well, and looking forward to a prosperous future.

YSU's contribution to this seemingly indestructible cultural phenomenon is the YSU Jazz Ensemble, under the leadership of student director Tony S. Leonardi, former bassist with Woody Herman.

The main purpose of the ensemble, according to Mr. Leonard yesterday, is "to expose jazz to the students and to give them the opportunity to learn of and play America's own musical form."

Mr. Leonardi admitted that the group is helping to preserve and stimulate interest in jazz and added that unlike early classical works, jazz helps the students learn something of "the immediate past and future."

The ensemble is confined to Dana students, though as Mr. Leonardi pointed out, "practically everybody in the group is in bands around town."

Due to the increased interest shown in the Jazz Ensemble, two groups were formed this year. Joseph A. Lapinski, Dana faculty advisor to the entire program, heads a beginning "training band," while Mr. Leonardi handles the more experienced group.

A concert held last May before an SRO crowd of approximately 800 in Strouss Auditorium will again be presented in the spring, though possibly in the more spacious Powers Auditorium.

This next concert will feature jazz, but also more rock-oriented pieces. The ensemble will also

Faculty quartet to perform in Recital Hall

The Dana Faculty String Quartet of Youngstown State University will give their first performance of the season Monday, November 30, at 8 p.m. in the Dana Recital Hall.

The program includes Mozart's "Quartet in F Major, opus 96 ('American')."

Members of the Dana Faculty String Quartet are Fred Rosenberg, assistant professor of music, first violin; Mrs. Kathryn Walker, instructor in music, second violin; Mrs. Elizabeth Jones, instructor in music, viola; and Dr. William G. Conable, assistant professor of music, cello.

The program is part of the Dana Concert Series and is free and open to the public.

perform compositions by talented group pianist Bill Tragesser and a special Doc Severinsen arrangement featuring a solo trumpet.

Also in the future is a possible jazz music clinic featuring a noted jazz musician, (perhaps trumpeter Clark Terry).

Sorry, folks. It looks as though jazz is here to stay for a little while longer. Besides, as Mr. Leonardi said, "This is our music, so why shouldn't we play it?"

Concert Choir to present choral program

The sixty-five voice Youngstown State University Concert Choir, conducted by Dr. Ronald L. Gould, associate professor of music, will present a choral concert at St. John's Episcopal Church Saturday, December 6, at 8 p.m.

The program will include performances of Benjamin Britten's Festival "Te Deum;" "A Hymn to the Nativity," by Kenneth Leighton; "Exultate Deo," by Alessandro Scarlatti; Randall Thompson's "Alleluia;" "A Spotless Rose," by Herbert Howells; "Laudate Dominum," by Joseph Goodman; "Psalm 98: Sing to the Lord," by Heinrich Scheutz; and Bach's "Cantata for Christmas: Gloria in Excelsis Deo."

Student soloists will include Linda L. Weisch, soprano; Sheila F. Fluharty, soprano; and Donald J. Rasely, baritone. Professor Lee Dettra, instructor of organ at Thiel College, Pa., will serve as accompanist and organ soloist.

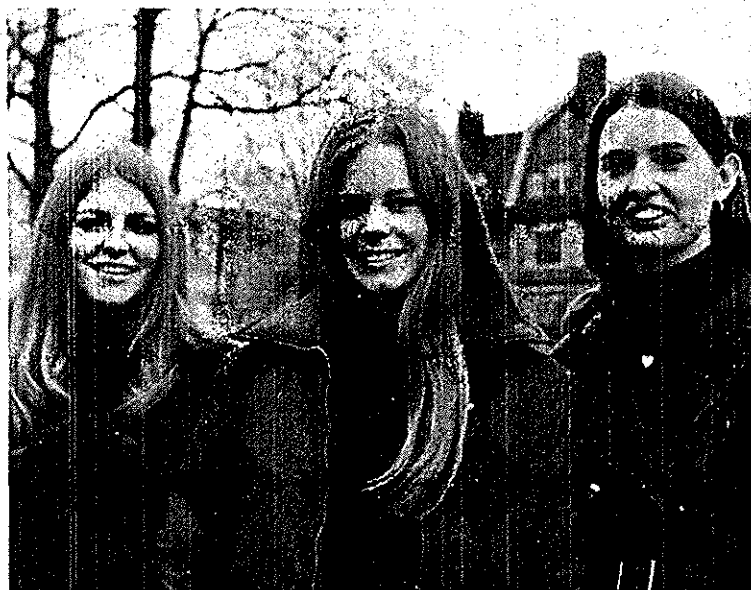

A chamber ensemble, includes Walter Mayhall, instructor in music, flute.

Dr. William G. Conable, assistant professor of music, cello; and student organist, Judy Darling, will perform Bach's "Cantata 191."

Also featured on the program will be "Concerto for Two Organs, No. 3 in G Major," by Antonio Soler, which will be played on a new organ recently purchased by the Dana School of Music. Cage coach decided on starting line-up Dom Rosselli, veteran Youngstown State cage coach, has decided on a tentative starting line-up for tomorrow night's opener against St. Vincent at the Struthers High Field House.

"Right now it looks like Billy Johnson and Gregg Merrill at guard, Ron Smith and Rich Denamen at forward and Tom Cope at center," says Rosselli.

All five are juniors and 5-10 Johnson (Canton Lincoln), 6-1 Merrill (Delta) and 6-3 Smith (North Bloomfield) started last year. Johnson averaged 23.3 ppg., Smith, 11.4, and Merrill, 7.4. Denamen, 6-4 ex-Hubbard star, was a regular as a freshman and has been outstanding in pre-season drills. Cope, 6-5 Warren Harding grad, was the second leading scorer for the junior varsity last year with a 16.8 average.

"Our injury picture has brightened somewhat with the return of Jeff Skeeles who could work into a starting spot at guard or center," adds Rosselli. "However, Bob Patton and Billy Wells are still limping on sprained ankles and it doesn't look like they'll be ready for a while."

The absence of Patton, 6-4 senior from Struthers, and Wells, 6-5 sophomore transfer from West Virginia, and the possible loss of Bill Barnhart, 6-3 senior from Beaver Local, with a re-occurring knee injury which sidelined him all of last year could hurt the Penguin rebounding and bench strength.

Rosselli will be counting on inside depth from Skeeles, 6-4 junior from Canton Lincoln, or should he not start, Bill McMeans, 6-6 frosh from South Range. Rosselli rates Skeeles as "an aggressive defender and rebounder" and says McMeans

"Has shown steady improvement." Joe Ziak, 6-5 junior from Campbell Memorial, and Lindsay Randall, 6-2 junior from Hubbard, are also available.

Hot-shooting Chuck Montgomery, 5-9 junior from Salem, and J.C. Williams, 5-11 Youngstown North sophomore who is a tough defender and shooter, are the back-up men at guard.

The Penguins expect to have their hands full with a veteran St. Vincent club coached by first year mentor Bernie Matthews, ex-Duquesne star. The varsity tip-off is set for 8 p.m. with the YSU and St. Vincent JV's clashing at 6 p.m.

The Penguins will play their 1970-71 home games at the Struthers High Field House located about five miles south of YSU.

The field house is on Euclid Avenue near Sexton Street. It is easily accessible from Youngstown-Poland Road (Route 170) by turning on to Sexton at the Beef and Keg.

Recognized as the best basketball facility in the area, the field house has seating for 3,200 and more than ample parking.

Catch—YSU
History - 901

by Skip Miller and Carl Basic

Last week we celebrated the festive occasion of Thanksgiving. Some of you may have forgotten the real reason why we celebrate this event, so we will now give you a brief review of what happened to cause this celebration.

Many years ago, when beer was only fifteen cents a mug, Carl Elder and Skip Standoff became tired of their way of life (working in the steel mills) and decided to take the advice of their fellow workers and get a college education in the new developing country called Ohio.

Carl and Skip sailed to the new land in their able and trusted ship, Chevelle, and landed at the now famous landmark "mud lot" in the colony known as YSU.

They faced many hazards along the way such as the Hubbard Police Department, female drivers, and a nifty little one-man demolition derby known locally as Bennie Crunch. But, being brave and daring as they were, the two adventurers overcame the elements and landed safely.

Arriving in the new country, they immediately saw that it wasn't much better than the old. The two soon took a dim view of the customs that the natives practiced.

A strange creature on a unique three-wheeled vehicle would often come and place a funny looking paper on the windshield of their ship. The newcomers would always throw these pieces of paper away because they knew that it was unconstitutional to convict anyone without a trial.

One day, a messenger brought the news that the two were ordered to appear before the chief of the natives of the land. Upon arriving, the two were told that they had disobeyed the local customs and that they must pay for their offense.

The Chief said that they must sit in the stands and watch all YSU football games, eat in the Cafeteria for two weeks, pay more for tuition (because they were foreigners), and they were forbidden to park in the area anymore.

The disappointed two were very sad and decided that it was better to return to the old country.

But, as fate would have it, as the two pilgrims returned from this meeting, they spotted a damsel in distress. Sure enough it was the Chief's daughter being mugged by a renegade from a neighboring tribe.

The two responded by rushing to her aid, scaring off the mugger and returning the fair maiden to her father. And as you guessed, they became an overnight success with the tribe.

To give thanks for the good fortune, the Chief planned a big banquet. He invited the two settlers, all the surrounding tribes, and Jimmy the Greek from Las Vegas. The meal was to consist of Broasted Penguin, penguin pie, mashed penguin remains, and a bottle of Thunderbird Wine.

Everyone had such a great time that they decided to celebrate the event on a yearly basis.

In fact, the tribe liked these two strangers so much that they decided to erect a monument that was unequalled in size and composition. This monument was placed on a spot where everyone would see it and remember the deeds of these brave men. And to this very day, the natives still honor and respect the memory of the two pilgrims by painting funny words and letters all over this monument.

Be sure to tune in next week as YSU's Wide World of Anything that resembles Sports will bring you in living black and white, the efforts of a college student who is plagued by the age old wonder, Senior Evaluation.

Students fail to support discount plan

A lack of student participation in YSU's Student Cultural/Entertainment Discount Program has lead constituents of that program to propose a new approach that requires additional funds from the University, according to John Bernacki, director of student activities.

The program, as it stands now, enables a student to buy one $2 ticket for $1 to any performance of Monday Musicals, Youngstown Symphony, Youngstown Ballet, Kenley Players, Youngstown Playhouse, and the American Theater Guild. The student selects and pays for his seat at the athletic Business Office and presents his receipt at the box office prior to the performance. The $1 discount is made up to the organizations from the student government activity fund.

Representatives of the performing groups and of the University met, and, noting "a definite lack of publicity," agreed that "a greater effort and a new approach was needed to promote the program."

Under a new proposal by the group, students would be mailed a Cultural/Entertainment Packet including an introductory letter explaining the program, a "Brochure-Calendar" of events, and a number of discount coupons. The coupons would be worth $1 towards the purchase of any priced ticket. However, under the present budgeting, coupons would have to be good for a limited time unless an additional $1,000 is appropriated.

Christian encounter to be offered at winter break

An encounter with Christian living will be offered to YSU students and faculty during Winter vacation. The encounter is being sponsored by the Cooperative Campus Ministry and offers reinforcement of values, enthusiasm and self-assurance to those who feel dehumanized by the education machine.

The Winter outing will be held December 27-30 in a mountain camp in Central Pennsylvania and will emphasize undirected discussion-in-depth, improvisational theatre and the experience of real community living.

The cost for the four days will be $1500 and will include the eight meals and snacks. Those interested in attending should make reservations at the Newman Center on Rayen Ave. or at Rev. Speicher's office, Protestant Chaplain, in the Council of Churches office on Wick Ave.
