

Board Sparks Student Protest

A meeting of 200 students at the Gates of Eden on Wednesday to organize protests at the Board of Trustees refusal to grant an investigation of the dismissal of Dr. William Hunt, turned into a militant protest rally that demanded immediate University reform.

Black students presented a list of prepared demands and invited both campus activists and Hunt supporters to join them in a demonstration forcing the administration to meet with their demands. A steering committee of four Black students and four students in attendance was established to determine a course of action to initiate the varied demands.

Students attending the meeting in support of Dr. Hunt expressed disappointment and disgust at the discussion that only alluded to the issue of Hunt's dismissal.

Discussion centered on the techniques and methods of taking over a university building. The general consensus was that a YSU building should be occupied and its occupants be held until the administration complies with the demands that will be enumerated by the steering committee.

It was decided that information of the proposed occupation would be passed by word of mouth.

Students React To Board

Momentum for the mass meeting at the Gates was stimulated by student reaction to the Board of Trustees' decision not to re-open the Hunt case last Tuesday.

About 60 students crowded Pollock House and listened to Dr. Hunt, four student representatives, and Dr. Elizabeth Stenberg, associate professor of political science and president of the local chapter of the AAUP, addressed the Board in hope of an investigation of the controversy.

After the speeches which aroused student emotions, the Board returned to its agenda.

Students began calling for a response from the Board, and demanded an investigation.

To these demands, Clarence J. Strouss, chairman of the Board, and Dr. Albert L. Pugsley, University President, replied that an investigation had already been conducted and that no public investigation would occur.

Aroused students rose and demanded action. Mr. Strouss promptly rose and adjourned, saying the meeting had deteriorated.

Board OK's Decks Postpones Rules

The allocation of funds for a four tiered parking deck, the approval of a $19 million budget for next year, and the postponement of University Senate endorsed social regulations, were the primary consideration of the Board of Trustees business meeting last Tuesday.

Revised University social regulations were presented to the Board of Trustees for approval, but were not acted on. When questioned about the lack of action Dr. Albert L. Pugsley, president of the university, replied that the Board will not act on the new regulations until the complete program has been presented to them.

The University Senate is expected to present the remainder of the new social program to the Board within the next two to three weeks.

The revised regulations do not apply to the University proper but rather to social organizations who operate under the University seal of approval.

The Trustees also approved the use of 2.3 million dollars for a three to four tier parking lot to be located at the corner of Fifth and Lincoln Avenues. The funds for this parking garage will come largely from the General fee collected each quarter from the students of YSU. These funds will be supplemented by revenues from the University parking fee and the daily 20 cents paid by all students who park in YSU lots.

The new tiered parking facility will occupy approximately two-thirds of the present Lincoln Avenue lot, with the remaining one-third to be used by the projected Technical and Community College buildings. The present capacity of the Lincoln Avenue lot is 600 cars while the new lot will have spaces for 1,100 to 1,500 cars depending on the final number of tiers.

One of the major advantages of the new Lincoln Avenue lot, aside from the obvious 900 parking spaces, is that the projected garage can be taken apart and moved to another location if the University so desires. Although such a move is not included in present plans the long range monetary effect can be considerable.

Peskin Named New Editor Of Jambar

Acting editor Dale I. Peskin was officially named editor-in-chief of the Jambar by the Publications Board yesterday. Peskin succeeds former editor John F. Greenman who resigned last March 30 to work for the Youngstown Vindicator.

Also named by the Publications Board to the editorial staff were Karen Epperson, associate editor, and Marilyn Klingensmith, assistant editor.

Miss Epperson was also named as editor-in-chief of the proposed weekly summer edition of The Jambar.

Peskin, who has served as acting editor since Greenman's resignation, has been a full-time staff member since October 1969. He served as assistant editor of The Jambar from October to November 1969, and was associate editor from November 1969 to March 1970.

Peskin, majoring in English and minoring in journalism, will serve for the next year. Misses Epperson and Klingensmith, both senior English majors will serve on the staff until graduation.

-Correction-

It was reported in last Friday's edition of the Jambar that faculty members on the University Promotions Committee are appointed by the administration. The Jambar regrets this error and wishes to set the record straight, as follows:

The two faculty members are elected by the University Senate Executive Committee to serve staggered two year terms. Faculty committeemen who will serve for the 1970-71 academic year are Mr. Edward Reilly, professor of accounting, and Dr. Paul Vanzandt, of the biology department.

Administrators on the committee for 1970-71 will be Dr. Earl E. Edgar, vice-president for academic affairs (effective July 1), the dean of the graduate school (as yet unnamed), and Dr. M. Jean Charignon, dean of the school of engineering. The dean of one of the schools of the university serves on the committee each year; this seat rotates on the basis of alphabetical order of the schools.

Astronauts Due At 1:07 p.m. Today— Apollo 13 Heads Homeward

SPACE CENTER, Houston AP — The Apollo 13 pilots, four harried days behind them, sped into the last 100,000 miles home Thursday, their cold and ailing spaceship aimed at a Friday splashdown in the Pacific Ocean.

Their speed was picking up in answer to earth's gravity—and they ironed out plans for a possible last minute thruster jolt to aim their ship more precisely for landing.

For the astronauts, James A. Lovell Jr., Fred W. Haise Jr. and Jack L. Swigert Jr. the small course correction scheduled for 7:53 a.m. EST Friday is intended only to refine the ship's aim. It is already on a path that would land it in the Pacific without further adjustment.

The crippled Apollo 13 came within 100,000 miles of earth at precisely 5:13 p.m. EST Thursday.

The 50-degree chill forced the astronauts to put on extra underwear and sleep huddled on the floor of the lunar lander, the warmest place they have. With their home planet looming larger in their windows, the astronauts kidded about the cold in the cabin now reaching to some 45 degrees.

Mission Control assured them lightly that "you'll have some time on the beach in Samoa to thaw out after this cold experience."

The experts in Mission Control continued to refine the last minute procedures to bring the Apollo spaceship home safely.

The aircraft carrier Iwo Jima set out from Samoa for the recovery site. It is the prime recovery ship in a fleet of ships in the area. The carrier was expected on station early Friday.

The lot on Wick Oval, to be sold to the University for $8,300, will be used primarily for student parking. When this space can begin to be useful depends largely on how soon further land on the Wick Oval can be obtained.

Dr. Pugsley has guaranteed that there will be no increase in tuition for the 1970-1971 school year but says that an overall increase in fees will undoubtedly be necessary in the fall of 1971. YSU is one of six state universities that have been able to hold the line on tuition increases for next year but the 1971 increase is inevitable. Although previous tuition increases have been applied only to new students and students who have been out of school for one quarter or more, the 1971 increase will apply to everyone.

Tuesday's Board of Trustees

meeting was shortened by frequent interruptions from the gallery of students and faculty but according to Dr. Pugsley nothing important was excluded from the meeting.

The Board of Trustees will meet again on June 25th.

SOS Group Will March For Clean Environment Mon.

Campus concern over pollution will be translated into action Monday, with a downtown march scheduled to begin at 11 a.m. Jon Rawson, SOS Student Coordinator for the march, stated that the purpose of the march is to publicly express concern about the problems of air and water pollution, and to raise interest for the Teach-In scheduled for April 22 as part of nation-wide earth day activities.

Marchers will gather at Kilcawley Amphitheater for introductory remarks by Rev. Burton Cantrell and then proceed to Central Square downtown for the main speeches. Music will be provided at the Kilcawley gathering by the Village Green, and march coordinators said that a limited number of surgical masks will be available for marchers to dramatize their concern.

Plans for the march will be finalized at an SOS meeting to be held at 4 p.m. today in Ward Beecher, room 422. Following the meeting, members will hold a poster party to make up signs for the demonstration.

In conjunction with the SOS activities, Newman Student Organization will hold an ecology Mass Sunday night at 7 p.m. in the Newman Chapel, corner of Wick and Rayen Avenue. World aspects of pollution will be discussed in a dialogue sermon.

SOS also has for release books, buttons, and pamphlets. Unlimited copies of "The Environmental Handbook" are available at $1 per copy, Earth-day buttons are available at .10 apiece, and information pamphlets are free for the asking. These items may be obtained by coming to the SOS office in the biology department, Ward Beecher, room 426.

To Discuss Hunt Firing

The Student Affairs committee will discuss a possible investigation into the Hunt dismissal at today's meeting, 12 noon in the Carnation Room, Kilcawley, it was disclosed yesterday by Student Council president Pete Isgro.

Committee member Dan Crishon expressed sentiment yesterday that he hopes the committee will decide to refer the investigation back to the University Senate which will send it to be reconsidered by the Board.

Faculty chairman for the Student Affairs committee is Miss Ivis Boyer.

Sensibility

The failure by the Board of Trustees to recognize and/or consider student and faculty support of Dr. William Hunt has raised interesting questions. The relevant question, however, is what procedure, if any, should be taken now.

The Trustees made a significant blunder by not responding to the overwhelming demonstration of student support and concern for Dr. Hunt. They allowed the student speakers to raise questions that the Trustees had no intention of answering. It was obvious that the questions demanded explanations. The Board responded by ignoring the entire issue. Chaotic reaction to the Trustees decision was justified and expected by students.

The next move should be carefully considered. There are still legitimate and practical courses of action available. The Student Affairs Committee is beginning an investigation of the Hunt controversy, and the local chapter of AAUP is asking for an investigation by their national organization.

It is important to define the terms of planned protests. Support for Hunt should not be confused with demands calling for immediate University restructuring. Nor should the Hunt controversy serve as the testing ground for the student militancy.

In all respect to Dr. Hunt and his cause we hope that the true purpose of his case is not lost.

The real issues of the Hunt controversy are of ethics, morals, and values. We urge students not to lose sight of these ideals now.

Letters To The Editor

Bids Reverend Cantrell Farewell

To the editor of the Jambar:

When I read of Cantrell's resignation from his position at YSU I couldn't believe my eyes. Any further events in my day would have been anti-climatic, except perhaps the resignation of Justice Douglas from the Supreme Court.

I believe SANE should in all confidence put the necessary postage on Cantrell's forehead and send him to Red China where he can preach and possibly convert several hundred million Chinese, from Mao on down, to the cause of peace. I am sure the Chinese will welcome him with open arms and after once listening to his SANE message gladly destroy their nuclear bombs, and definitely not on another country, cease supplying weapons and money to revolutionaries the world over, and demand, yes I said demand, that the entire world follow suit.

And if by some chance the Chinese wouldn't listen I imagine that the North Vietnamese or the Russians might. And if they wouldn't, he can always try the East Germans, the Poles, the Hungarians, the Czechs, or any of the idolized free states under Soviet supervision in Eastern Europe.

I don't think Cantrell should waste his efforts in America because SANE has been around since the 1950's and hasn't accomplished that much here, maybe the other side will listen.

I pray that Cantrell will not take offense at this letter and I seriously say that I respect him for maintaining his position in the face of determined opposition. If I show half of the courage and resolution in my life that he has I will consider that an accomplishment.

We all tend not to face up to life and if by chance we do, quite a number of us leave things half done. Mr. Cantrell never did satisfactorily answer my questions back in October 1969, but nevertheless I'll bid him farewell and shed no tears in doing so. Peace Reverend.

Proposes Grievance Board

To the editor of the Jambar:

Few professions outside of show business seem as precarious as that of the university professor. He may find himself unemployed for something as ambiguous as "lack of moral turpitude" to a kafkaesque unmailed contract. In a time that calls for the democratization of our universities, one finds them bent on preserving institutional structures which have become meaningless. In such an atmosphere, it is not surprising that there is a growing malaise between faculty and administration. It is time the democratic ideals we supposedly adhere to be applied to reality. I suggest the administration, as a demonstration of goodwill, establish a fully powered grievance board of elected faculty members. This would afford a sorely needed recourse to the faculty as well as serving as a safety valve for the strong emotions which accompany grievances. Furthermore, a grievance board would aid greatly in creating a positive administrative-faculty relationship.

Mr. James Lucas
Assistant Professor of Art

Poses Questions On Hunt Case

To the editor of the Jambar:

One wonders what value is placed on education at YSU when personal differences and administration apathy result in the firing of a teacher that not only is well-qualified for his position but has an excellent relationship with his students.

Several questions come to my mind over the handling of Dr. Hunt's case -

What is the President of a University supposed to do?

Is it too much to ask that he knows about actions of the various department heads?

Shouldn't each department be headed by a PhD?

If all the trustees do is formally approve budget items then their only purpose is as a rubber stamp?

How much influence do local political personalities have at YSU?

I don't expect these questions to be answered but the administration has proven to me that the welfare of the students or their views is of no concern to them. Education (quality, that is) is NOT the number one priority to the administration of YSU.

Highly disgusted,
Phil Dean
Jr., Pol. Sci.

From any brazen throat
For how can you compete
Being honour bred, with one
Who, were it proven he lies,
Were neither shamed in his own
Nor in his neighbor's eyes?
Bred to a harder thing
Than Triumph, turn away

Compares Vietnam To Apollo 13

To the editor of the Jambar:

Shouldn't President Nixon be commended for his deep concern over the fate of the astronauts aboard Apollo 13 after their tragic misfortune which placed their lives under such great danger?

Didn't Michael Collins report that "the President was primarily interested in making sure that everything humanly possible was being done by the team in Houston to get the astronauts back safely"?

I will not deny that such concern is deserved, but the point I would like to make is that this same concern should be shown for the lives of the U.S. soldiers in Viet Nam who are involved in a war that places their lives in just as much peril. If three lives have caused our Commander and Chief so much anxiety, shouldn't 430,000 lives cause him at least as much?

The American flag at Tranquility Base represents a courageous and valiant effort by a group of men in behalf of the United States. Would any true war hawk deny giving the same value to the countless flags placed on obscure battle hills by our soldiers in Viet Nam? I think not.

If this is the case, each man who acts in the name of his country deserves the same amount of concern.

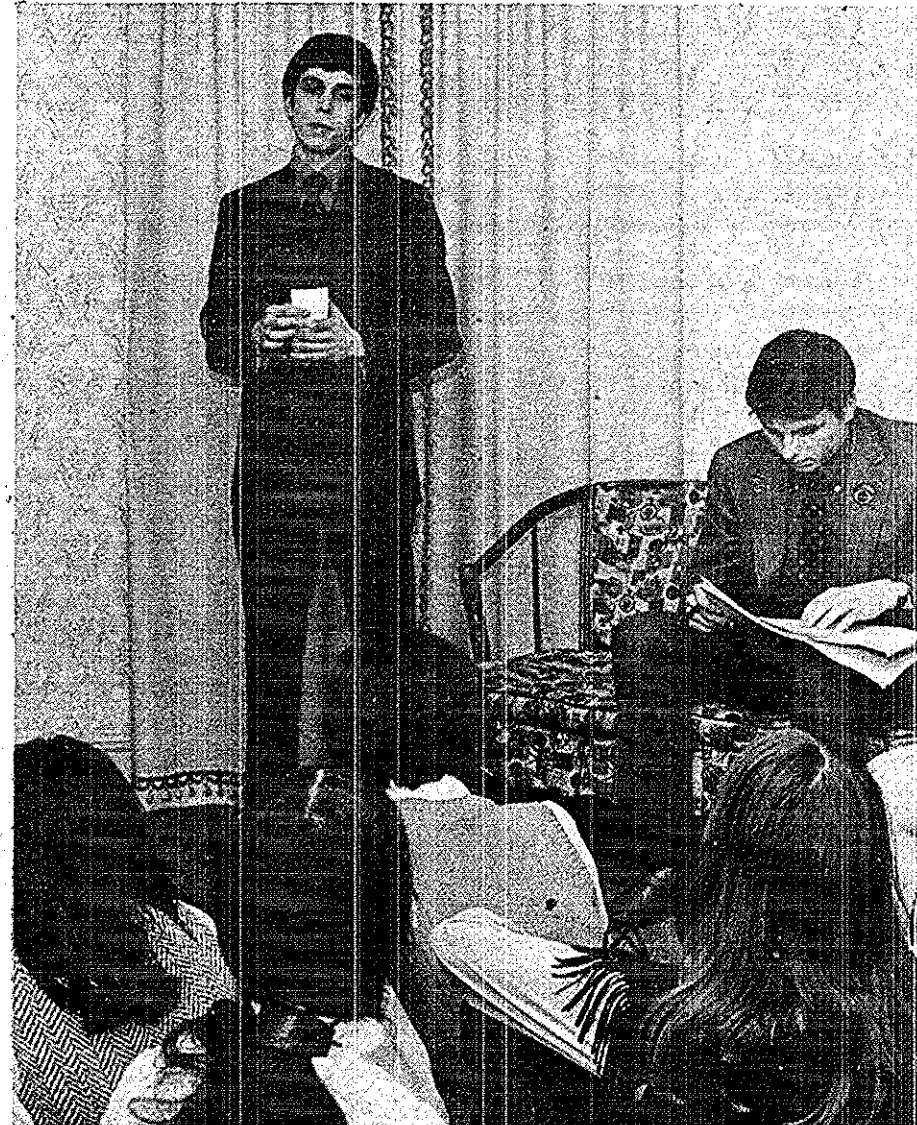

Not appointing a representative to replace Lodge at the Paris Peace talks is not doing "everything humanly possible" for the safety and return of our soldiers. And delaying a Viet Nam report, which would have been just as important to the families of the 430,000 soldiers in Viet Nam as are reports on the astronauts to their three families, does not show the same intensity of concern.

Endorsements

We approach our 1970 Student Government endorsements with a sincere concern of the problems of last several weeks and with the foresight to acknowledge that the future problems at this University can be expected.

There is little question as to whom we support for the presidency of Student Government. Crishon's awareness of student problems coupled with his credible record on Student Council, Student Affairs, the Discipline Committee, and the University Senate make him the logical choice of candidates.

Crishon has been closer to the question of student rights than any other Council representative. He has gained the rapport of faculty, the respect of the administration, and the image of leadership on campus.

For vice president of Student Council our support goes to Larry Simko. As a Student Council RAL and as instrumental worker in the faculty evaluation, Simko has practiced the politics of pragmatism.

Although Simko does not claim to be as polished a politician as does his opponent, he has sincerely devoted himself to working for the students. We have faith that both Dan Crishon and Larry Simko can represent and work for the interest of all students.

SG Elections Are Next Week

Elections for Student Government President and Vice President will be held April 20 and 21 in three campus locations, it was announced yesterday by Bill Mahoney, Elections Committee chairman.

Two voting booths will be at each of the following locations between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.; 6:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m.: Jones Hall, Kilcawley Breezeway, and Engineering Science Building.

Candidates running for the presidency are Don Leone, newly elected chairman of Student Council and Dan Crishon, previous Student Council member; running for vice-president are Larry Simko and Chuck Hettler, both members of Student Council.

Students voting will be required to present their ID cards to polling officials who will then present the student with a ballot. Mahoney explained that the IBM ballots will be counted on the computer and each candidate drew by lottery for his position on the ballot.

The victors of the election will be announced Wednesday.

What's so special about Beechwood Ageing?

We must be bragging too much about Beechwood Ageing.

Because we're starting to get some flak about it. Like, "Beechwood, Beechwood... big deal." And "If Beechwood Ageing is so hot, why don't you tell everybody what it is?" So we will.

First, it isn't big wooden casks that we age Budweiser in.

But it is a layer of thin wood strips from the beech tree (what else?) laid down in a dense lattice on the bottom of our glass-lined and stainless steel lagering tanks. This is where we let Budweiser ferment a second time. (Most brewers quit after one fermentation. We don't.)

These beechwood strips offer extra surface area for tiny yeast particles to cling to, helping clarify the beer. And since these strips are also porous, they help absorb beer's natural "edge," giving Budweiser its finished taste. Or in other words, "a taste, a smoothness and a drinkability you will find in no other beer at any price."

Ah yes, drinkability. That's what's so special about Beechwood Ageing. But you know that.

Budweiser is the King of Beers.

(But you know that.)

Candidates View Campus Issues

Candidates	Dismissal Of Dr. Hunt	Student "Power"	Social Regulations	Students On Trustees Board
 Don Leone	The issue of the Dr. Hunt case is in that it is confusing to a great number of people. Many rumors and accusations have been made. I think the Board of Trustees made a mistake by not investigating the case, knowing the support that Dr. Hunt had from students and faculty members. I think that students should investigate the case and get all the facts before acting. On the bigger issue of the hiring and firing of instructors, I think students should definitely have a voice.	Students in being a part of a university should have certain rights in determining the policies that effect them directly. If this is what is meant by student power then I would support it. Student power should not be student domination of the university, because there are many facts of the university that students would not be qualified to handle. Student power in the university should be in affairs that concern students and leave faculty and administration issues to the faculty and administration.	First of all, the changing of social rules was a needed step for a long time. It was first brought up in IFC last spring and acted upon by student government winter quarter. The proposed rules are not radical or a threat to the administrations authority or control of social activities. I object to the way the students proposing the regulation tried to get them passed in student affairs, University Senate, and by the Board of Trustees.	The Board of Trustees decide major policies of the University which in many ways affect students. Also its job is to make sure the University stays within its budget, another matter students should be concerned with. For these reasons a student representative on the Board of Trustees would not only be beneficial to the student, but to the Board of Trustees themselves in keeping them aware of student problems. Since the Governor appoints the Board of Trustees it could only be through him that a student representative could be obtained.
 Dan Crishon	It is truly an unfortunate situation when a man of this quality is fired. What makes it more appalling is the fact that he was not given a good reason for his dismissal. This, added to the fact that the Board of Trustees would not even conduct an investigation makes the situation even more questionable. I feel that even if the administration dismissed Dr. Hunt for legitimate reasons (although I am not aware of them) the students should have been consulted because they are the groups most affected by his dismissal.	The term "student power" has taken on many different mantles in the past few years. Everyone seems to have their own definition, but my definition is this: Student power is an outgrowth of three basic principles: concern, maturity and responsibility. Although the first concern is the most important, none of the three can lead to student power itself. Adhering to these three principles, students will assume the power and voice to regulate and supervise themselves as responsible adults on the campus.	It was I who proposed the change in the Social Regulations at the beginning of Winter Quarter. Pete Isgro and I then followed them through Student Affairs Committee and the University Senate. A great deal of progress was made with the Social Regulations. It was the first attempt by students to make the rules that govern themselves. They should not be considered an end but a beginning. A precedent has been made. From now on the responsibility for governing the University rests with the students and administration jointly.	The Board meeting Tuesday is evidence that something must be done to give the students a voice. At least one student must sit on the Board if the body is to accomplish its purpose. It is unrealistic to believe that this group can successfully make all decisions concerning the academic community when they are not members of the community. The administration is represented on the Board by the President of the University. It is imperative that a position of student liaison be created so that all points of view can be considered by this group.
 Chuck Hettler	As a political science major I have had the opportunity of having Dr. Hunt for class and I can attest to the fact of his academic capabilities. I feel this is a most unfortunate situation for both Dr. Hunt and the University, and I would wish to see the matter further studied and clarified to the satisfaction of all parties concerned. Doctor Hunt is an academic asset to the University and his loss would be ours.	Student power must come through and be a direct result of student responsibility at all levels of student government. I think some constructive measures to initiate real student power are: the initiation and establishment of a President's Council which would consist of all of the presidents of all chartered student organizations to provide a basic network of communications between Student Government and Student Organizations. Also for the development of student power is needed the establishment of a Quarterly Information Table	Social Rules represent a most significant step forward for the students. Perhaps these social regulations can provide a basic groundwork for future cooperation in the area of student development. This represents the initiation of a mature and meaningful working relationship between the members of the Student Body and Administration.	I believe it would be very helpful not only to the student body but to the University as a whole to have members of the student body, faculty and administration actively participate in the meetings of the Board of Trustees. With this active participation there could develop a better understanding between students, faculty, administrators and Board.
 Larry Simko	To the issue of Dr. Hunt. Along with the "right" of Dr. Hunt to know why he wasn't reinstated goes the right of students to say who should be hired and fired. Considering the needs of YSU and the Political Science Department, I feel that it is a shame that a man of such a high calibre as Dr. Hunt is not appreciated by those in power.	The problem now is, how does one get these rights? Any way you can, just be sure you are getting the real rights and don't forfeit the long range objectives for immediate satisfaction. For instance, if students rioted to have a lounge in Elm St. School they may get it, but the backlash against them by the administration will be so great that they can have no hope of ever working "through the system." It is my belief that there is still hope of working "through the system."	In regards to the social regulations I feel that it is unconstitutional for any group (administration) to regulate the social activities of any other group (fraternities and sororities).	The board, I feel, doesn't have enough contact with the students, nor enough sensitivity to the student's real needs (other than parking.) The proper student on the Board of Trustees would at least be able to give the members a student's view of any matter. In order to further student rights, I am also striving to get equal representation on all student-faculty committees and hopefully voting rights in the Faculty-Senate.

Campaign Letters

Challenges Hettler's Campaign Boasts

To the editor of the Jambar:

In writing this letter, we are publicly responding to a challenge presented by Charles Hettler to the Newman Student Organization for this organization to become more deeply involved with campus elections. Let us respond by saying that this organization enthusiastically encourages participation and involvement by its members in campus affairs. It should please Mr. Hettler to know that we will do everything possible to show that student body on this campus just what they are being offered in this election.

This organization has been saturated with Mr. Hettler's political ambition. While pretending to be our RAL and a man so sincerely concerned with student involvement, he harassed members of this organization for Newman's endorsement of the Student Independent Party in recent council elections - a party which offered a candidate in opposition to Mr. Hettler's girl friend.

While presenting himself as a "dedicated individual," as a paid member of this organization, Mr. Hettler failed to respond to any of our many service and community projects throughout the past year. Perhaps Mr. Hettler could see no political advantage to be gained through participation in such unpublicized activities. Moreover how can the Representative at Large, on one hand endorse Senator Carney, and yet fail to take a stand on the Dr. Hunt issue. Perhaps Mr. Hettler fears such commitment would strain his connections among the administration and thereby endanger his potential postgraduate political career.

We at Newman want to see service from our representatives, not politics. We are pledging our support for Larry Simko as vice president of Student Government. We know Larry's record on council is not fictitious and we know Larry has something definitely concrete to stand for.

Fred Kurz, NSO President
Ed Thomas, NSO Vice President

Outgoing VP Endorses Candidates

To the editor of the Jambar:

On Monday and Tuesday, the student body will elect a new president and vice-president of Student Government. Since these are the highest elected student offices at YSU it is important that each voter consider the candidates before voting.

After careful consideration of the candidates, I realize that Dan Crishon and Larry Simko are the best qualified to serve as president and vice-president.

Dan Crishon has served on Student Council as chairman of the discipline committee. He has been an influential member of the Student Affairs committee where he initiated changes in the social regulations.

Dan also is a student member on the University Senate. There he has been able to gain an understanding of our university which few students possess.

Dan has served on numerous student-faculty committees and so is well acquainted with the present committee structure. There is no one better qualified than Dan Crishon to serve as president.

Larry Simko, in my estimation, is the most devoted worker Student Council has ever had. In addition to his Council responsibilities, he serves on the Academic Affairs committee and the discipline committee.

He worked on the off-campus housing committee. Larry is also studying the possibility of a pass-fail system for elective courses. He worked on the comprehensive fee investigation.

Furthermore, he has excelled in his work on the faculty evaluation. Not only did he help develop the questions, but he also designed the scan sheet, and developed the system of numbering the envelopes. Also, in consultation with Dr. Jonas of the computer center, Larry has written the computer program which will make the evaluation a reality.

Student Council voted that the faculty evaluation will be the responsibility of the vice-president next year. There is no one better qualified than Larry Simko to accept this responsibility.

Both Dan and Larry are well acquainted with Student Government. They are devoted members who are not afraid to work. They have never tried to seek personal glory.

I am certain that if elected, they will serve the students at YSU well. I endorse each of them and will cast my ballot Monday. I hope the students will consider the best qualified candidates Dan Crishon for president, and Larry Simko for vice-president.

Student Government

Prexy Isgro Backs Simko And Crishon

To the editor of the Jambar:

Reacting to certain allegations found in campaign literature that is presently being circulated, I feel compelled to speak out clearly on the following points. In an earlier article appearing in the Jambar, I referred to "out right lies", by an unnamed candidate whom I now identify as Chuck Hettler. He prepared a very nice piece of propaganda referring to actions that couldn't have taken him more than half an hour to perform in Council.

It is apparent that he is trying to steal credit for the ideas and work of others. I sight a few examples of his tactics: He stole the idea of creating a Secretary of Student Grievances. The complete bill was written by Mike Foley and me not by Hettler, yet he would like to get the credit, for 10 seconds work and the raising of his hand in Council. Has Hettler forgotten that it was Mike Donofrio and I who rewrote the new Student Government Budget Procedure? The lowering of grade requirements, an idea originated by an earlier council member, was only reintroduced at a later date by Hettler; I did most of the defending, not Hettler.

His so-called investigation ended up with a meeting with Mr. Rook, yet Hettler, for all his claimed interest in the Activity Fee investigation, never attended this meeting. When it came time for Hettler to work with the landlords on the housing Commission, Hettler also never attended this meeting. In short, he talks alot and never gets anything done, nor is he willing to invest the time in completing a job. Despite his apparent willingness to help on the Faculty Evaluation Committee, he gave me only a list of questions he had prepared in the summer; when Penny Laakso, Larry Simko and I got down to the real work he did nothing. Is this the kind of man who keeps his promises, who (and I quote) "invests the time, energy and effort needed to get the job done"? I say No! He says his record speaks for itself, and of course it does, but it only proves that he speaks a lot, steals others' ideas, and finishes nothing. I have held the office of Vice President, and know what it requires; in no way, shape, or form could I endorse such a petty propagandist.

The Vice President of Student Government has really two main functions: to perform those duties delegated to him by the President, and be responsible for the Faculty Evaluation. Whatever Hettler's dubious talents may qualify him for, it does not seem to be the vice-presidency. I see only one person who is qualified to perform these duties; this person is Larry Simko.

Larry has spend well over 100 hours helping Penny and me develop a system of identification for faculty members, finalize and circulate the questionnaires. He programmed the computer for the copy-ready print. This, I feel, is in itself enough to qualify Larry for the position of Vice President since this shall be one of his main responsibilities.

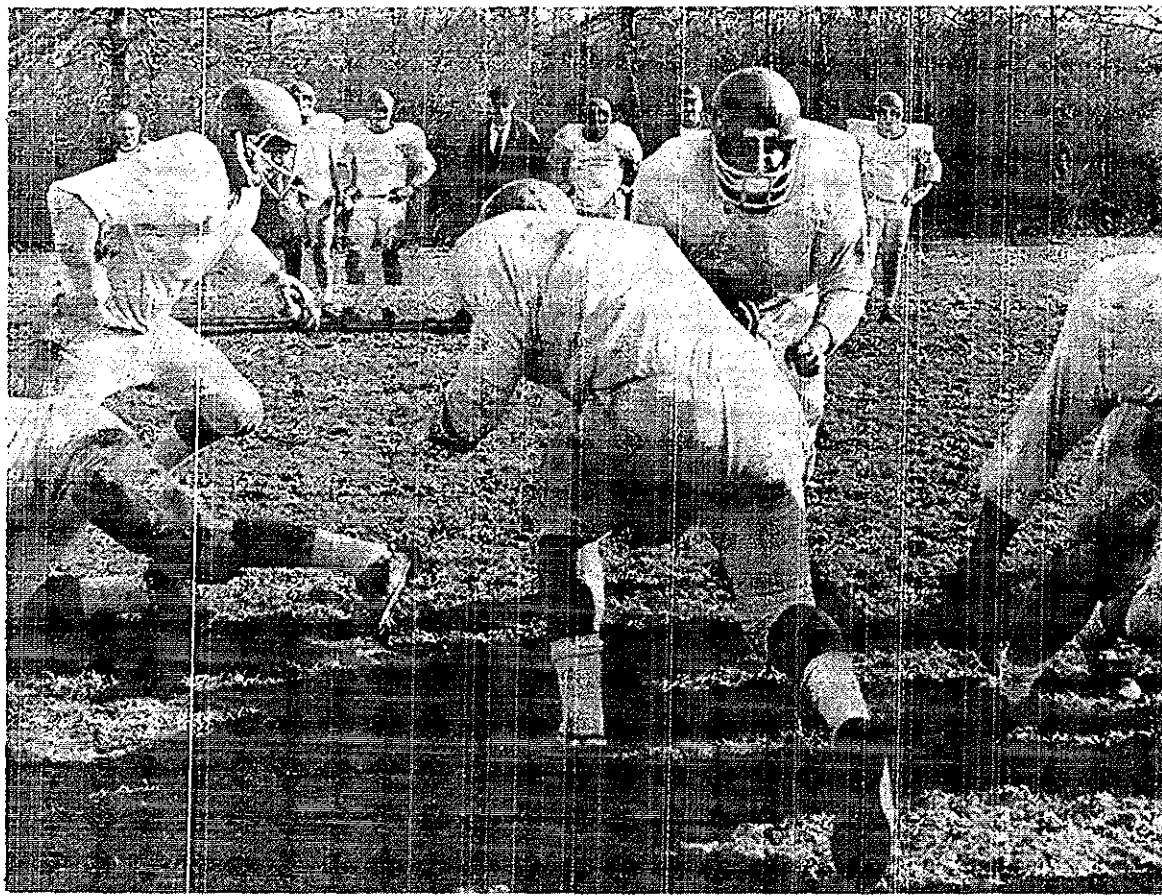

Larry's stressing of student rights on the Academic Affairs Committees has been of great service. Concerning the repetition of classes Larry fought for recording only the most recent grade rather than an average of grades. Larry has also fought continually for the removal of class attendance as a factor in computing final grades. He is now serving on an ad-hoc committee to study the merits of a pass-fail system.

There is only one candidate that I could possibly endorse for the position of President of Student Government; he is Dan Crishon. Dan has been selected the outstanding old member of Student Council; he is a student observer of its University Senate, post chairman of the Discipline Committee, and a member of Student Affairs. He has always been willing to uphold student rights, which is evident from the amount of work he has performed.

After two and a half years as one of your Student Leaders, I cannot stress too strongly the importance of electing people who are both capable and dedicated to STUDENT RIGHTS.

Students Nationwide Demand Rights

Student demands on this campus for a more active voice in administrative decisions is somewhat of a phenomenon in light of the fact that students are attaining increasing roles both as government and university advisors and administrators. The trend is so apparent that the image of dissent that has long characterized the student revolution can, in fact, be more precisely defined as an image of student awareness.

According to a series of articles that have appeared during the last two weeks in the New York Times, the student development has been initiated by university and government officials who want to bring students into the administrative and political mainstreams. Reasons for this concern can be attributed to efforts to curb student protests and involve students in the "process of the establishment."

The Times reported that governors in a number of states have created youth advisory councils, and referendums on constitutional amendments to lower voting ages will be held this year in 11 states.

Students serve on such government organizations like the State Commission on Laws Enforcement in Nebraska, the State Youth Commission in Washington, the Councils of Drug Abuse and the Council on Environmental Problems in Massachusetts, and the Governors Commission on Youth in Oregon.

On the university scale, student influence has had a significant effect on numerous Board of Trustees across the nation. The governing boards of America's universities have taken on a new look according to a study by the Educational Testing Service, a non-profit research agency in Princeton, New Jersey.

The study indicates that where once trustees were predominantly made up of elderly, white businessmen, since 1968 a significant number of institutions have added Blacks, women, and students. Today, nearly one-third of the universities in the survey reported that one or more trustees under 30 had been added.

CD Shelters And Supplies Are In Poor Condition

The poor condition of campus Civil Defense shelters has endangered the lives of YSU students in case of a nuclear attack, claims Betty Beconder, former Civil Defense shelter inspector. Mrs. Beconder describes shelter supplies as "deteriorated and putrid."

Mrs. Beconder is currently filing reports with city and state officials that describe the condition of the Civil Defense supplies throughout the city. She claims that her efforts to keep the facilities sustainable were unheeded while she worked within the program itself.

"People started asking me questions that I couldn't answer about the shelters in their buildings," she said. "They even blamed me for the conditions things were in and that the program hadn't started yet. This is what got me started." Mrs. Beconder began checking on reports that she had turned in. She discovered that equipment she had reported as damaged or missing had not been replaced. "I got disgusted with the director of the program so I quit working for him in March of 1969. But," she explained, "I kept investigating on my own. I've spent over 400 hours in shelter checking."

Mrs. Beconder points to the inspection dates on the cartons as proof of their lack of attention. Yesterday on a tour of the shelter facilities in the Library, Ward Beecher, Dana Recital Hall, and Elm Street School buildings she noted that her last authorized inspection was in April 1968. Since that time there have been neither listed inspections nor improvements.

"I reported that these water cans were open and dented, and that these buildings medical kits were missing," she said in Elm Street School, the purity of the water is questionable when the cans are dented, she explained. "But nothing has been done about it."

Mrs. Beconder expressed dismay over the condition of the food stored in the Library shelter. The carton containing crackers had been opened and one of the metal cracker tins ripped open. Two packs of crackers were exposed on top of the box.

Pass-Fail System Still In Question

Action on the pass-fail system, under the consideration of a special ad-hoc committee appointed by the Faculty Senate Academic Affairs Committee last spring, is at a standstill according to Ed Czopur, committee member.

Organized support for a pass-fail system began early in last year's spring quarter. At that time the Community of Concern decided to call for the adoption of the pass-fail system and distributed a petition asking the administration to consider the system.

Dr. Robert R. Hare, Associate Professor of English, and faculty member of the ad-hoc committee, said the committee had not yet met but that he expects it to meet in the near future to consider the system.

Dr. Hare added that one of the problems to consider about the pass-fail system is that many of the universities which introduced the system have since abandoned it because it has not proved successful.

When pass-fail grading system is applied to a course, a student receives either of two grades, a pass or a fail. The usual grades of A, B, C, D, and F are not used.

The type of courses to which the pass-fail system can be applied is normally limited. The C of C proposed last year that all non-major and non-minor courses be eligible for the pass-fail system, but only on a voluntary basis.

CD Shelters And Supplies In Sad Shape

One of the sanitation unit boxes was opened with half its contents missing. "There is supposed to be a portable commode seat, a curtain and some other materials in this box," she explained. The only thing that remained in the box was a few rolls of tissue, disinfectant, and rubbish that students had thrown into the box. Inattention to shelter facilities is not the only facet of Mrs. Beconder's investigation. She claims that the shelters themselves are inappropriate throughout the city.

"Some places aren't really shelters at all," she explained. She claims that though money has been allocated for the use and upkeep of shelter areas, it is obviously not being used.

The areas on campus are not as bad as some of the shelters she found in the city. However, school facilities did not pass her inspection either.

"This room couldn't hold fifty people," she said at Dana Recital Hall. "The furnace in the center of the room also violated Civil Defense standards on the footage that must be between occupants and potential explosive equipment."

In all the buildings she examined Mrs. Beconder questioned the safety of huddling people among heavy work equipment, since all the shelter locations were either in boiler rooms and shop areas. She also noted the lack of appropriate markings as to the location of the shelters. Some areas had one sign that stated a shelter was in the building. But it would be up to the student to find the exact location. The shelter in Dana is completely unmarked and almost impossible to find, being located in the basement behind a classroom.

Mrs. Beconder said she intends to continue her investigation to find out what is being done within the program and where the money is going after it reaches the Youngstown Civil Defense Office.

Moratorium Today Reeves Will Speak

Moratorium activities on campus will reach their peak at 12 noon today when Mr. Thomas Reeves, the head of the National Council to repeal the draft, will speak before the student body at the Kilcawley Amphitheater.

Sponsored by the Community of Concern, Mr. Reeves has just returned from the Stockholm International Peace Conference. He is the author of "Feasibility" of Freedom," an International Peace statement designed to end the draft in all countries.

If weather doesn't permit an outdoor lecture, Mr. Reeves will speak at the Gates of Eden Coffeehouse.

Greeks Compete In Sing Tonight

Eight fraternities and eight sororities, the largest number to participate in YSU history, will compete at 8 p.m. tonight in Stambaugh Auditorium for the 18th Annual Greek Sing Contest.

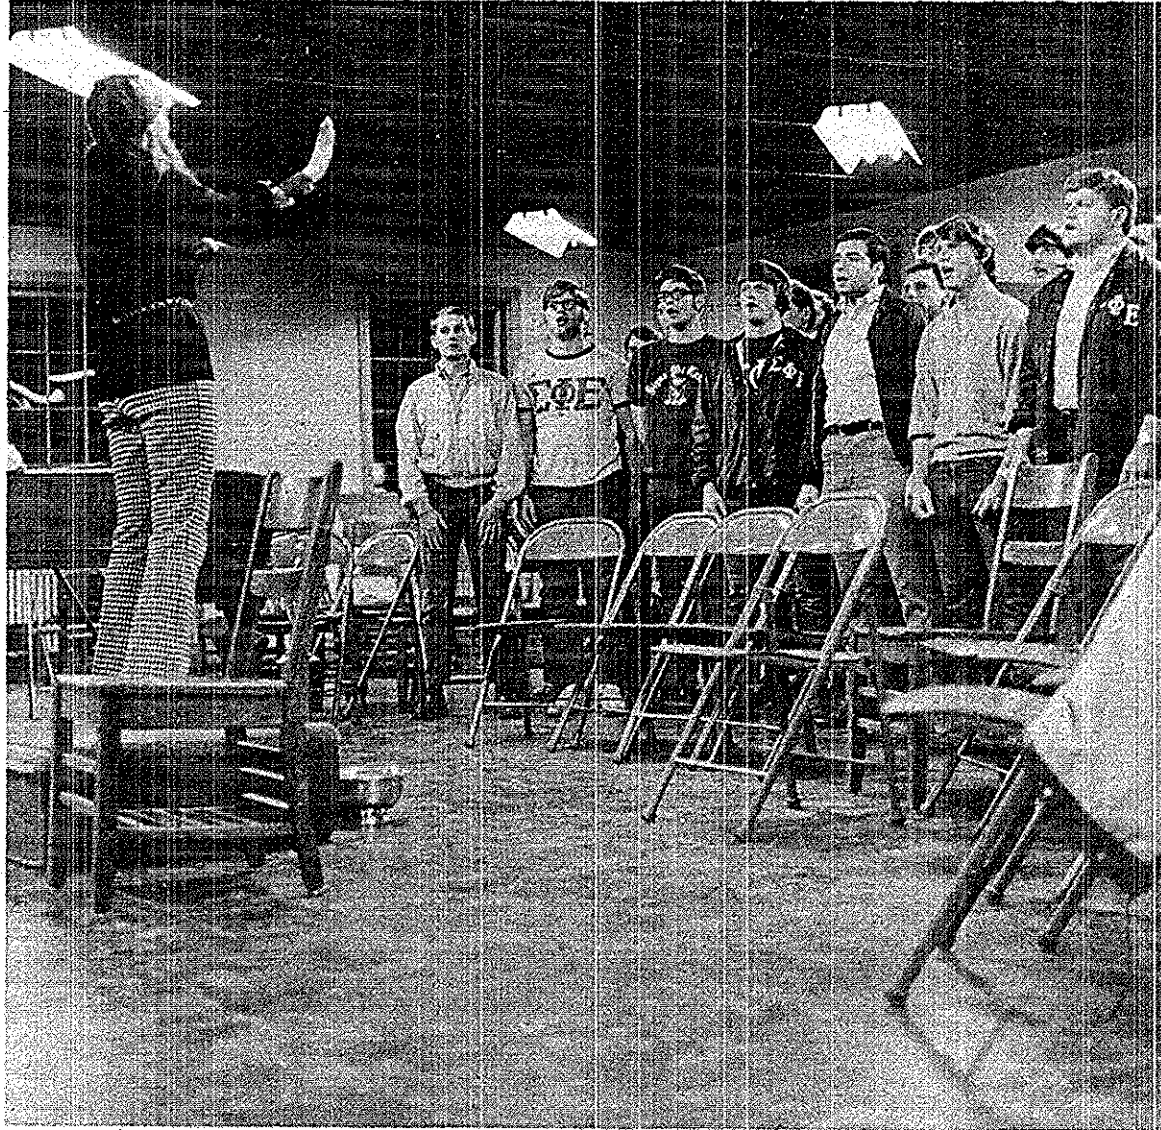

This year's Greek Sing, which is co-sponsored by Interfraternity Council and PanHellenic council, have dedicated this special event to John P. Gillespie, Dean of Men, who will be retiring this year.

Three trophies are awarded in the fraternity and sorority division of the event. Also to be presented tonight will be the group and individual scholarship trophies for both fraternities and sororities, IFC and Pan-Hel delegate citations, and the IFC All Events trophy for the fraternity which has amassed the most points in this year's various competitions.

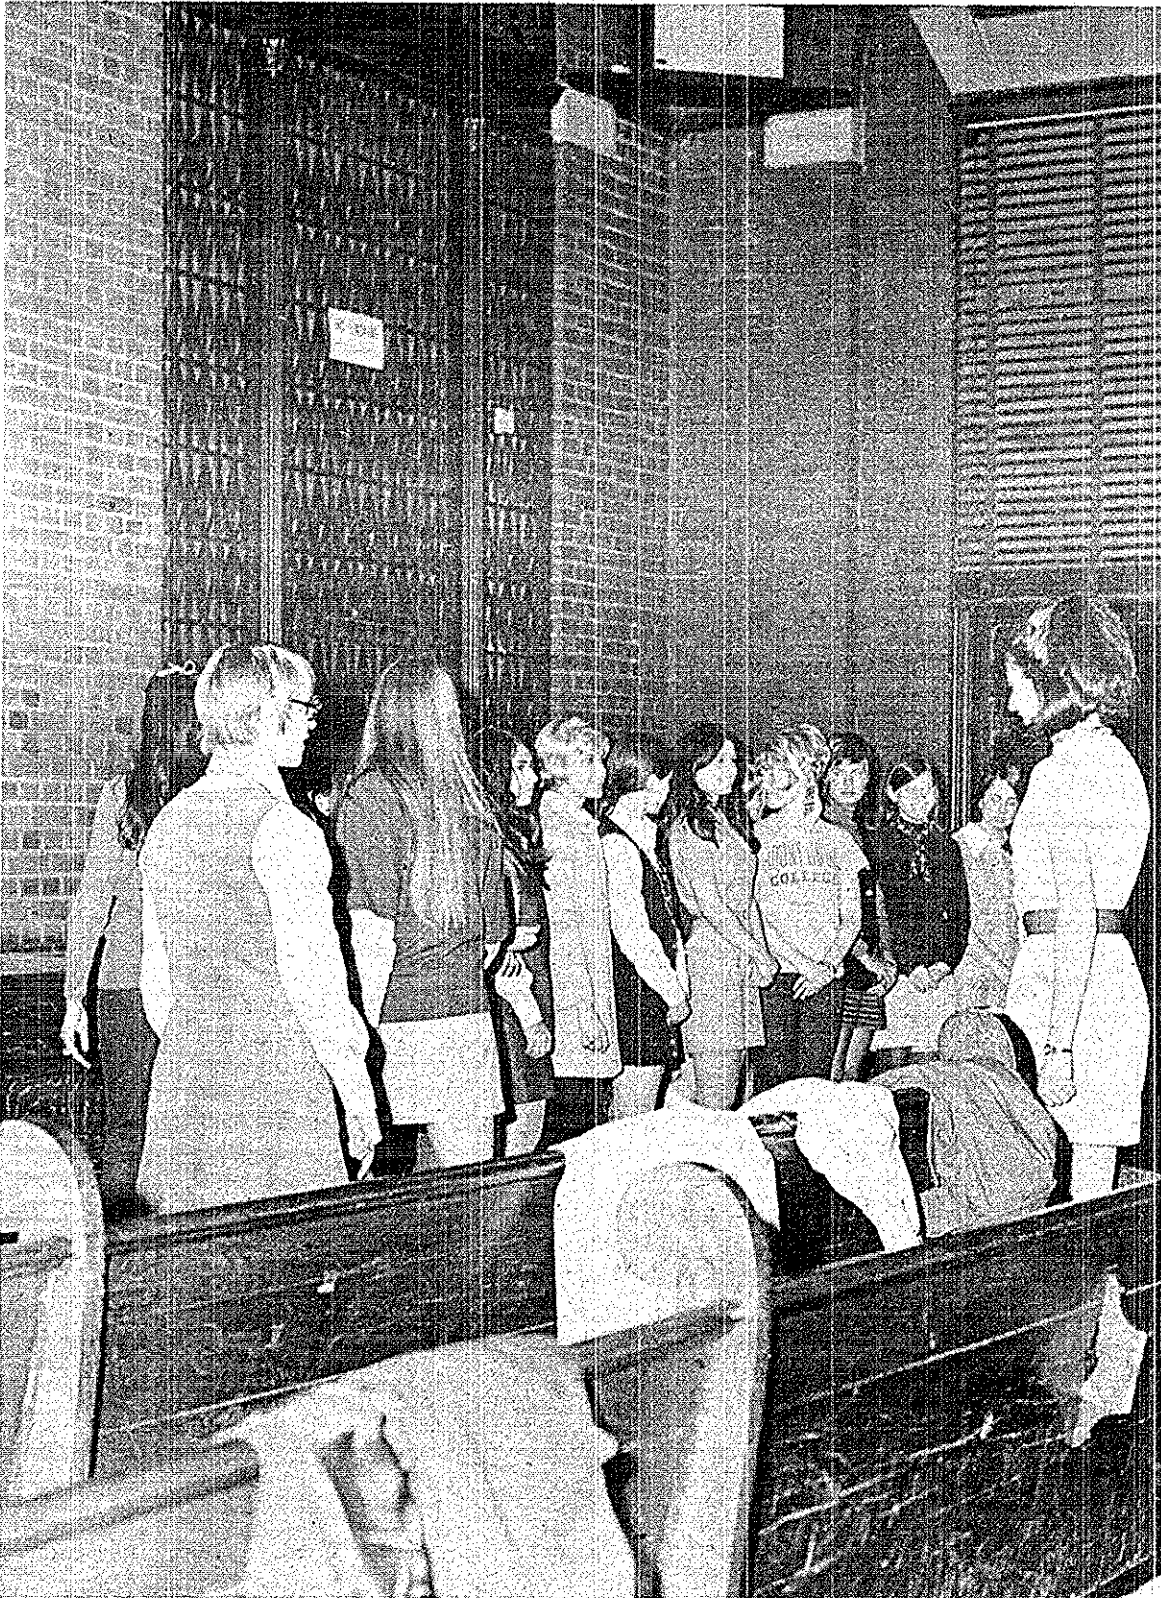

Masters and Mistress of Ceremonies are Albert Miller, Stephen Pernotto, and Sue Litz.

After the fraternities and sororities complete their presentations, the Joe Augustine Trio will play several selections while the judges complete their tallies. Each group will sing only one song. The warm up song has been excluded this year. The complete program follows:
