

Majority Silent In SC Election

Bring Losers Back

By Ed Czapur

When one ponders the worth on Monday and Tuesday's happening in Strouss auditorium one cannot help returning to the consideration that the YSU silent majority ignored the election in the first place.

Walking among the losers Tuesday night this reporter repeatedly heard exclamations like "Boy, did I learn a lot!" and "Was I idealistic!" The elections sobered many candidates. One can only hope that this experience proves to be beneficial in some

The small minority of people who care about student government on this campus will deplore the small number of students who showed up to vote in Strouss Auditorium last Monday and Tuesday. YSU-Oxford Debate Set For Tonight

YSU students will debate the topic "Student Power is an Over-rated Pastime" against debaters from the Oxford University Debate teams, at 8 p.m., tonight in the Engineering Science Building Auditorium.

Supporting the affirmative are YSU students John F. Greenman, a junior majoring in American Studies and editor of the Jambar, and James Lanz, a junior history major.

The negative of the question will be upheld by the British debaters Kevin John Pakenham, a 1969 graduate of Oxford, and Eric Parsloe, a modern history and economics major currently enrolled there.

949 Cast Ballots—

Low Turnout Marks Elections

As a result of Student Council elections last Monday and Tuesday, 15 representatives from all six of the University's schools were elected to office.

Don Leone, Student Council election chairman, disclosed that Joe Jennings, Spring Street parking lot attendant, obviously has the safety of the students' car in mind as he rakes gravel into one of the many potholes found in the parking lot.

929 students cast ballots in the elections.

Winners in the School of Education were Barbara Ropar, Nancy Hedlund, Jo Ann Flask, and Marilyn Guerra.

Only three seats were originally up for election in the School of Education, but the resignation of representative Chuck Schiffhaur opened another seat for election.

Elected from the School of Business were Ron Orenic, William E. Mahoney, Dave Fleisher, and Henrietta Caruso.

Representative from the College of Arts and Sciences will be Garry L. Johnson and Charlene Carasi.

Cynthia Anderson and Cathy Ann Ruane were elected to represent the Technical and Community College.

Rod Wollam and Robert Berquist will represent their respective schools of music and engineering.

The opening for representative-at-large will be filled by Patricia Galterio.

Cagers Bid For NCAA Tourney

Youngstown State University's basketball squad will meet its most important opponent of the season next week, and it won't be on the basketball court. According to the Associated Press, the Penguins will battle with Capital University for the only remaining berth in the NCAA's Small College Midwest Regional Tournament.

Bids for the Midwest regional tourney were extended and accepted yesterday by Cheyney State, Ashland, and Philadelphia Textile. Only one remaining spot is open for the regional event to be held in March at Albright College in Reading, Pa.

William Taylor, sports information director at YSU, contacted NCAA officials yesterday and learned that the decision on the remaining berth would be made by the NCAA Tournament Committee at their meeting one week from today.

Youngstown has the statistical edge for the open spot. The Penguins have a season record of 20-2 and are ranked in the top ten in both wire service polls.

Game Rescheduled

A schedule conflict has necessitated a time change in the YSU-Alliance game on Saturday. The game will now be played at 1:30 tomorrow afternoon at Austintown Field House.

Capital has a 17-2 season record, and a 10-0 Ohio Conference slate. Capital is not nationally ranked in either poll, and still must play in a post-season conference tournament at the end of February.

Einstein Services To Be Tomorrow

Private funeral services will be held tomorrow for Mr. Sylvan Einstein, former YSU advertising and public relations professor, who died of cancer of the liver Wednesday morning in North Side Hospital.

Mr. Einstein had been a member of the faculty since 1954. He taught as a Fulbright professor at the National Chen Cahi University at Taipei, Formosa, in 1966 and 1967.

Mr. Einstein had a deep interest in international students at YSU, and served as counselor to many foreign students. The family has requested that material contributions take the form of donations to the International Student Loan Fund.

Mr. Einstein was an advisor to Zeta Beta Tau Fraternity, and was an honorary member of Circle K service fraternity.

Besides his wife, an instructor of English and communications at YSU, Mr. Einstein leaves three brothers Arthur, of Youngstown, Raymond, of St. Petersburg, Fla., and Leonard, of Newton Center, Mass.

Tri Sigs To Hold Robbie Page Dance

Sigma Sigma Sorority will hold its annual Robbie Page Service project Tuesday, February 24 and Wednesday February 25 on campus with a dance 8:00 p.m., February 25 at Kilcawley student center.

The dance will feature four bands; "The Roadshow," "The Insights," "The Soulsations," and the "Citations", appearing in that order from 8:00 p.m. The dance will be open to the public as well as YSU students.

Solicit Contributions

The sisters of Tri Sigma will be taking contributions all over campus to be added to the other Sigma chapters collections from the entire country.

Fatigue Affects Verdict In Conspiracy Trial

CHICAGO (AP) — Some of what went on during the riot conspiracy trial jury's 40 hours of deliberations emerged yesterday from a number of sources. As the jury retired Saturday, it was learned, eight of the jurors — six women and two men — were convinced the seven defendants were guilty of all charges. Three other women jurors felt the defendants were innocent of all charges, and the 12th juror, also a woman, reportedly switched from side to side.

Sources in the Federal Building said one of the eight who originally voted for an all-guilty verdict — a woman — eventually brought the opposing sides together on a compromise agreement.

The agreement on a split verdict, one source said, was reached in a late night conference among the jurors Tuesday in their overnight quarters in the Palmer House Hotel. The official vote on the verdict was taken Wednesday morning after the jurors returned to the Federal Building.

The juror who acted as negotiator between the opposing camps was quoted in published reports as saying that fatigue and the desire to get home, rather than the arguments of the majority jurors, wore down the three hold outs who were insisting on acquittal of all defendants on all charges.

The compromise acquitted all seven defendants of conspiracy and convicted five of inciting rioting.

Two of the defendants were acquitted of all charges.

Verdict Causes Massive Protests

(AP) — There were demonstrations from coast to coast Thursday to protest the verdicts in the trial of the Chicago 7.

The most violent were in Boston and Washington.

In Boston's Hub, police clubbed a dozen demonstrators to the ground when they marched up Tremont Street after a rally of 5,000 persons that began on the Common.

Four ambulances took away the injured and a least a dozen arrests were made.

In Washington, police dispersed about 300 persons who had gathered outside the apartment complex where Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell lives. The demonstrators moved into side streets where they disrupted rush hour traffic and pelted police with rocks, bottles, and snow chunkk.

At least 50 persons were arrested.

In Los Angeles, at least five persons were arrested after they clashed with police near the UCLA campus and smashed windows in branches of the First Western bank and brokerage house. The five were part of a crowd estimated at from 500 to 1,000.

There was a peaceful gr athering of 300 students at the University of Colorado. About 50 persons, mostly white, gathered outside the Baltimore courthouse chanting "power to the people." There were no arrests.

In Madison, Wis., about 100 students at the University of Wisconsin marched on the state capitol and then to the federal building where U.S. Atty. John Olson met them and told them to "go back and study and see what makes the system work."

In New York, 26 Democratic party leaders said they would file a motion to appeal the Chicago verdict.

Unions Say "No Choice" In Pay Hikes

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — AFL-CIO leaders said Thursday workers and their unions have no choice but to demand heavy wage hikes in this year's big bargaining battles in an effort to beat the nation's steepest rise in living costs in 20 years.

"It seems there's no catching up," said 75 year old President George Meany of the 13.6 million member labor federation.

McCarthy Says US Still Misled On War

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy charged yesterday "the nation is being misled over the issues at stake in Vietnam as it was in 1966 and 1967."

Furthermore, the Minnesota Democrat said in prepared testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, "a negotiated settlement of the war is possible and the time to seek such a settlement is now."

McCarthy, who recently conferred with North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegates to the Paris peace talks, said the United States must make "a basic change in policy. Serious negotiations cannot proceed unless we are willing to support a coalition government to control the process of transition."

"My conversations with the National Liberation Front and the North Vietnamese delegation in Paris lead me to believe that a political settlement of this kind is possible," he said.

Syracuse Students Seize Buildings

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Fifty students—including the student government president and several student body officials—occupied Syracuse University's administration building for about 3½ hours yesterday to press demands for a campus referendum of ROTC.

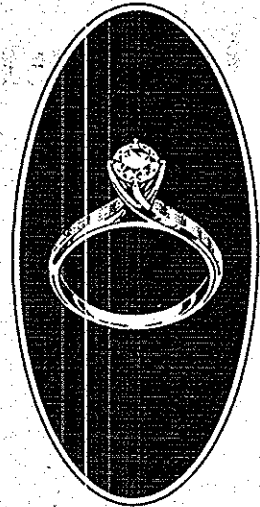

The seizure ended after Chancellor John Corbally met with a student delegation and agreed to address a mass meeting of students shortly afterward.

The main issue appeared to be Corbally's decision to take the ROTC matter out of the hands of the University Senate. The senate, composed of students, faculty members, and administrators, has been considering the Army and Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps programs for several years.

At a meeting Wednesday night a senate committee recommended that credit for ROTC courses be dropped as of 1973 and that military personnel teaching courses in the programs lose their faculty status at that time.

But Corbally rejected that idea and said further consideration of the problem by the senate would not be productive. He said he would establish a university committee to consider the future of the military programs.

McLain Suspended On Book-Making

NEW YORK (AP) — Denny McLain, ace pitcher of the Detroit Tigers was suspended indefinitely by baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn Thursday.

In a statement, Kuhn said, "I have decided on the basis of facts developed at these conferences that Mr. McLain's involvement in 1967 book-making activities and his associations at that time leave me no alternative but to suspend him from all organized baseball activities pending the completion of my review of his situation.

"It should be made clear that action taken today is based substantially on certain admissions made candidly to me by Mr. McLain and not on allegations contained in a recent magazine article, many of which I believe will prove to be unfounded.

"I cannot at this time indicate when that review might be completed."

Rep. Larry Nord Takes Stand On Demonstrations

Does locking the Dean of Men in office or taking over an administration building by force serve any constructive purpose in helping students obtain solutions for their complaints and demands? In most instances, the answer is no, according to Larry Nord, state representative of the 98th district of Ohio, which covers western Trumbull County.

Nord, who also serves as YSU alumni secretary, feels student demonstrations many times have the opposite effect by influencing elected officials to be unsympathetic when it comes to enacting legislation which might effect issues students are demonstrating about.

"In most cases, demonstrations by students produce a negative effect," he says, "especially when the demonstrations involve civil disorder and property damage."

"The public sees students participating in a disorderly demonstration and many of them immediately contact their government representatives demanding that action be taken to stop them," he continues.

"Don't get me wrong," he adds. "Many beefs that students have are legitimate but I think there are better ways to find solutions than demonstrating."

Nord feels there are normal channels a student or group of students can go through to find solutions to complaints. "I think the lines of communication between students and the administration are more open today than ever before," he says. Nord suggests students should first take complaints to their respective deans and, if necessary, continue up the chain of command to the University vice-president and president level. He also points out students can make their feeling known by contacting their own government representatives.

However, he doesn't favor government intervention, on any level, in solving student problems or establishing college policy, if it can be avoided. "I think the University knows its community well enough," he says. "The University should deal with the problems as they see fit."

In regard to demonstrations, Nord says "many students who participate in demonstrations (cont. on page 8)

Student Heads Vets On Campus

Steven Lambey, sophomore public administration major and Vietnam veteran will head the YSU chapter of the Committee for Veterans on Campus and in Ohio (C.V.C.O.).

This group is actively supporting the G.I. bill in the U.S. Senate which calls for a 46% increase in benefits for veterans as compared to the 12% increase that the Nixon administration has proposed.

The group feels the President is trying to enlist veterans for his Vietnam Policy and at the same time is opposed to the greater increase in benefits because it is inflationary which thus makes these people who fought victims of inflation which was caused by the war, Lambey said.

The group is trying to reach the 1300 full time student veterans and the unaccounted vets on this campus. It wants signatures on petitions and sent letters to Ohio senators and congressmen.

If Nixon vetoes the Senate bill, Lambey said the group will work against opposing Republicans in the fall, 1970 elections.

Lambey said that he will set up a table in the Kilcawley lobby today to answer questions. He will have petitions available for signatures.

showed up to vote in Strouss Auditorium last Monday and Tuesday. As of 5:00 Monday, only 208 students had bothered to vote and by the time the polls closed at 7:00 on Tuesday, a mere 929 students of a possible 14,000 had expended such an effort. It was a typical Youngstown State Student Council election and it is to the credit of those who stayed away from Strouss Auditorium that they did so.

I say this with no conscious sarcasm. Consider the following statistics: In December 1966, 934 students voted in SC elections. The following May, the turnout was so poor that the Elections Chairman did not release the number of students voting to the Jambar. Because of a constitutional change in Student Government, no elections were held until the following March. Then all of 800 students voted. In the SG President-Vice President race of the following May, 2,200 students voted. It should be pointed out, however, elections were held in conjunction with the Spring Weekend Queen elections and that 300 students did not bother to vote for President. (The Vice Presidential candidate was unopposed.) It would appear that student interest was greater in who would be elected SW Queen than in who would "govern" them the following year and that many voted for President as an afterthought. In the December 68 elections 800 students participated. The increased interest in this election was aided by the fact that Senior class elections were held in conjunction with the SC elections. (Sarcasm intended) In May 69, 1583 students voted in SG elections. Here candidates for SC ran at the same time the unopposed candidates for SG President and Vice President ran. And now, in the latest elections, 929 students took the time to vote. One can only ask, "Why?"

Perhaps the "silent majority" is trying to tell Student Government something. It would appear that they are saying, "We don't care whether you exist or not because you don't affect our lives." Student Government cannot deny the fact that is has little influence on what students do or don't do and even less power in controlling or regulating the students it pretends to govern. So why does it continue to exist and go through the motions of functioning as a viable institution? Anyone who has either witnessed or participated in a student Council meeting can see the SC is more concerned with matters of procedure than substance. This is nothing new. The only difference between the student government of today and that three years ago is that the present one has no excuse to fall back upon for its lack of achievements. Three years ago, many believed that SC was unable to function effectively because it did not have two branches. Thus, under the prodding of that semester's president a new constitution was drawn up.

Not only that, it was ratified. And lo, SG embarked upon a new era, dedicated to the proposition that with a new constitution and longer Council terms allowed by the quarter system, it would function and function effectively.

Somewhere, somehow, this did not occur. Sweetness and light did not descend upon SG. It remained in the abysmal morass it had always occupied, scorned by the majority of the intelligent students and ignored by the rest.

The reason is not difficult to discover. SG is still more concerned with matters of form and procedure than substance. Not only that, most, if not all of the issues which candidates for office ran on were accomplished or removed from student control: more and better concerts, the creation of a major events committee, a new constitution, parking, etc., ad nauseum.

So what is left for SC (for that matter SG) to do? There is no doubt in my mind that SG does not express the popular will. SG could abolish itself next Monday, the Business Office could hire two new clerks to take over the financial functions of SG, and no one would know the difference unless they were told that at one time a student government had existed. Student Council does not address itself to the issues that other SG's at other colleges are at least discussing: the immorality of the war in Viet Nam and helping to organize demonstrations against it, the use of college facilities for government contracts in the war effort, the problems of black students on campus, the rising costs of books and other educational fees. No, this Council studies problems and then has to restudy them because they were not examined thoroughly enough the first time, it buys penguins, it answers to its chairman, "No report" when he asks the standing committees what they have to report. Need I go on?

It has been suggested that being elected to Student Council is an honor. If so, it is a dubious one. The 15 newly elected members would do well to remember what I was told by a former president of SC after I was first elected. "Happiness is being elected to Student Council. Misery is serving." It's not even a splendid misery.

Sylvan Einstein

Among the University faculty, professor Einstein was probably our staunchest defender. He not only encouraged students in his advertising classes to join our staff, he allowed class credit for their work in the Jambar advertising department.

He understood how desperately we needed competent advertising people and realized the significance that actual experience in advertising would have for his students.

He did this quietly without credit because he felt it was right and a part of his profession.

We appreciate his support, and we shall miss his presence.

When the Republicans or Democrats have a good fight at a convention the winners always try to bring the losers back into the fold; when small organizations elect officers some place is usually found for the losers because of their demonstrated dedication. But at YSU in the past, the people that don't place high may never be seen again. This is unfortunate since these people with added experience could possibly make a contribution to the quality of students on student-faculty committees where many significant decisions are made.

In the beginning of this election, as in many others in the past, there was talk of "representation" and "listening to anyone who has anything to say." This onlooker feels the turnout of 929 voters again proves that it doesn't matter how much one protests that he will listen; students will not take the effort to say "anything." Increased participation has not and will not swell up from the student body.

If Student Government feels that increased student participation is to be valued, the participation will have to be stimulated from the top. If SC wants to "listen to students" they will have to go out and ask them what they have to say.

If they want better communications they will have to build a structure of one-person-talking-to-another themselves. If SC wants the best people on student-faculty committees, they will have to go out and find them themselves, rather than posting an article in the Jambar. Unless there are radical changes in this commuter university improvements will only come from one place - the top.

two to be placed in Kilcawley either in the breezeway, Student Council office, or the Cafeteria itself, and two to remain in Jones, thus avoiding any use of the excuse of locational inconvenience.

2. Lack of Publicity. Youngs Repts and Assn. of Polit. Scientists conduct a get out the vote campaign informing the Student Body as to who is running and when elections are and the procedures to be followed.

3. Lack of Campaign on Part of Candidates. Few candidates literally went out and expounded their ideas or beliefs; some candidates did conduct respectable campaigns and these competitive ventures are beneficial to the Student Body.

4. Lack of Interest on part of Faculty. I believe that in such classes as Communications, Soc. Sci, Polit. Sci, and other related areas class discussions can and should be conducted. One class period would not be missed but act as perhaps a forum for the exchange, discussion, and encouragement of the development of ideas and a regular voting pattern especially on the part of the Freshmen. Even just class announcements would have aided election publicity. Better locations, more publicity, a get out the vote campaign, more campaigning on part of the candidates and an active interest taken on the part of the faculty can not alone produce better voting turnouts. Only you the individual student can do that. A better student government can only come through and be a direct result of student participation.

"Say It Again Spiro"

To the editor of the Jambar:

Allow me to congratulate you for making the Jambar a shining example of the correctness of Agnew's speech slamming the news media. I inferred from the speech that Agnew was charging the news media with being slanted toward one opinion.

I must admit, occasionally you do slip a pro-American article in' the Jambar, but most of the issues of the Jambar contain only biased articles which are slanted to the liberal left. It is the right of an editor to publish what he wishes, but a good editor will try to present unbiased facts from which the reader may draw conclusions.

You may say that there are no writers on the Jambar staff who will submit articles of another opinion, but I have observed that you take complete articles from the AP and the state wire services. There, at least, is another source.

Thank you for upholding Agnew and proving him right.

Considers #%#@#% Caf Language Foul

To the editor of the Jambar:

As students of this University, we are appalled and dismayed at the language used in the cafeteria. It is getting to the point where we are ashamed to sit there with a girl because of the suggestive conversations going on all around us.

It seems that chivalry is dead among today's students. The common language of the cafeteria is not fit to even be written on restroom walls.

We are asking all decent students of Youngstown State to please call on their decency, and refuse to associate with these foul-mouthed show-offs. We must start somewhere, and we believe that now is the best time to begin a clean-up campaign.

ADS Holds Annual Advertising Seminar

Alpha Delta Sigma, national professional advertising fraternity of Youngstown State University, will hold their second annual advertising seminar Friday, February 27, as the culmination of Advertising Recognition Week which runs February 23-28. The seminar will be broken down into two sessions: an afternoon session featuring a panel of five advertising experts starting at 1:15 p.m. in the Engineering Science Building Auditorium and a dinner meeting slated for 6:30 p.m. in the Mural Room in downtown Youngstown with the national president of Alpha Delta Sigma slated to speak.

The guest of honor and main speaker at the dinner session will be Lee Fondren, station manager and director of sales, Time-Life radio station KLZ, Denver, and the national president of ADS. Fondren's topic, "Advertising - 1980," is written and prepared especially for advertising seminars.

"Advertising - 1980" prompted congressional debate about advertising and is being used as class material by more than twenty universities.

Included in the afternoon session will be Mrs. Fred Friedman, advertising manager and publicity director, McKelvey's "Retail Advertising - Who Needs It?"; Joseph E. Gurley, director of advertising and sales promotion, Commercial Shearing and Stamping Co., "Industrial Advertising Is Different"; Robert M. Dana To Host For Ensemble Contest

The Dana School of music will host more than 2,000 young music students from 47 high schools in Northeastern Ohio during the District V solo and ensemble contest of the Ohio Music Educators Association, Saturday, February 21.

According to Donald W. Byo, acting dean of the Dana School of Music and contest chairman, this year's competition not only has a record number of participants, but marks the eighth consecutive year that YSU has been chosen as one of the 15 host sites in Ohio.

Students from high schools in Mahoning, Trumbull, Ashtabula and Geauga counties will vie for ratings 1-5 with all superiors (1) and excellents (2) to receive recognition in the form of a certificate and medal by the OMEA.

Senior Examinations: There will be no separate period for senior examinations. Seniors will take their final examinations according to the schedule given above.

Notes:

1. A fee of $5 may be charged for a final examination taken at any time other than the scheduled time. A Late Examination Permit may be secured in the office of the appropriate academic dean.
2. If the regularly scheduled hour for the class does not appear on the schedule, the instructor will set the time for the examination.
3. If a student has three or more examinations on one day he should attempt to reschedule one or more of those examinations on another day when the teacher has an examination.

Student Biologists Plan For Teach-In

YSU student biologists meet today to plan their participation in the "Environmental Crisis Teach-In" slated for April 22 on campuses throughout the nation.

Jon Rawson, a spokesman for the local student chapter of the American Institute of Biological Sciences, said the organization will encourage other campus groups to join the pollution protest and urged other groups to have representatives present at the AIBS meeting at 3:30 p.m., Room 407, Ward Beecher Science Complex.

Already planned for the April program is a demonstration in downtown Youngstown on April 18, followed by an on-campus teach-in, Rawson said.

What's so special about Beechwood Ageing?

We must be bragging too much about Beechwood Ageing.

Because we're starting to get some flak about it. Like, "Beechwood, Beechwood... big deal." And "If Beechwood Ageing is so hot, why don't you tell everybody what it is?"

So we will. First, it isn't big wooden casks that we age Budweiser in.

But it is a layer of thin wood strips from the beech tree (what else?) laid down in a dense lattice on the bottom of our glass-lined and stainless steel lagging tanks. This is where we let Budweiser ferment a second time. (Most brewers quit after one fermentation. We don't.)

These beechwood strips offer extra surface area for tiny yeast particles to cling to, helping clarify the beer. And since these strips are also porous, they help absorb beer's natural "edge," giving Budweiser its finished taste. Or in other words, "a taste, a smoothness and a drinkability you will find in no other beer at any price."

Ah yes, drinkability. That's what's so special about Beechwood Ageing. But you know that.

Budweiser is the King of Beers.

(But you know that.)

Near Season Victory Mark - Cagers Host Alliance Saturday

Nationally-ranked Youngstown State hosts Alliance this Saturday (Feb. 21) in search of its 21st victory, the second highest regular season win total in Penguin history.

The Penguin-Eagle clash has been switched from a night game to a 1:30 p.m. tip-off at Austintown Fitch High Field House. There will be no junior varsity contest.

YSU, 20-2 on the season, is closing fast on the best regular season record in Penguin history, the 23-2 slate of the 1963-64 club. Youngstown State's 20 wins tie the number recorded by the 1964-65 squad. The Penguins are currently ranked 6th on both the AP and UPI small college polls.

With stellar sophomore Bill Johnson back on the beam, YSU rolled by St. Vincent, 87-70, Wednesday night. Johnson popped in 35 points, his second highest output of the season, to bring his season total to 498 points. He is only 54 points shy of becoming the highest sophomore scorer in Penguin annals.

Johnson, who had 28 points in YSU's earlier 93-66 conquest of Alliance, will probably be joined in the starting line-up by fellow guard Jeff Skeeles (2.1), forwards Ron Smith (12.3), and Bob Patton (7.0) and center Will Teague (11.9). Teague is leading Penguin rebounders with 10.8 per game followed by Patton, 9.4, and Smith, 7.6.

Nord's Stand On Demonstrations

haven't first gone through all the normal channels available to them in attempting to find a solution."

Nord feels administrators, legislators and the public would be more sympathetic to student demands if the students could suggest solutions to the problems themselves.

"Demonstrations have pointed out the problems in many cases but I don't think it has resulted in any real solutions," he says.

He also feels students should re-evaluate their demands if they can't get satisfaction on the University level to determine if their complaints are legitimate. "If there are few people sympathetic to the demands and if it's not something that affects a lot of people, then it may not be legitimate," he points out.

"If students would use more of their energy towards trying to find solutions to their problems instead of expending it in demonstrations and protests, in many cases they might find their problems could be solved without revolt," Nord concludes.

Alliance, 8-10 on the year, has won five of its nine outings since bowing to YSU. During that stretch the Eagles have lost to Gannon (73-69 and 89-80), Steubenville (74-71) and Indiana (92-62), Edinboro State (77-64) and Grove City (96-78).

The Eagles are led by junior Jerry Droleski, 6-4 workhorse center, who is averaging better than 24 points per game. Droleski had 20 in the first meeting. Par Carr, a 6-2 forward, also hits in double figures with 10.0 p.p.g. Guards Tom Accamando, a 6-0 junior, and Mike Bardasy, a 6-0 sophomore, and forward Ken Rector, a 6-3 junior, round out the first five.

YSU holds a 33-7 bulge in the series and has won 12 of the last 13 meetings with the Eagles. Alliance last won in 1967-68 (67-65).

The Penguins close out their home season next Tuesday night (Feb. 24) by hosting Steubenville (4-16) at 8 p.m. at Austintown Fitch. The two junior varsities will clash at 6:15 p.m.

The Barons, an 86-52 loser to YSU late last month, have posted a 2-3 mark since. Steubenville dropped both Alliance (74-71) and Walsh (79-71) while bowing to Wheeling (75-73), St. Francis (76-45) and Fairmont State

The Barons will floor the tallest line-up to face YSU in Ernie Coffey, a 6-4 freshman, and Al Canty, a 6-6 junior, at forwards, Reg Wood, a 6-10 junior, at center, and Brian Wing, a 6-4 sophomore, and Pat Mulligan, a 6-2 senior, at guards.

YSU holds a 15-12 lead in the series and last lost in 1964-65 (62-49).

Penguins Slip To Sixth In AP Poll

The Youngstown State University Penguins, after suffering their second consecutive loss of the season, dropped to the sixth position among Associated Press' Small college ratings yesterday. The Penguins lost their second game of the year to Thomas More a week ago Monday, and have since defeated Akron and St. Vincent convincingly.

Stephen F. Austin continued their winning ways, as the Lumberjacks stayed on top the ratings with two victories last week to boost their season record to 22-0.

Ashland College held down the number two position for the second straight week, but Cheyney State, Maryland State and Howard Payne all advanced in front of Youngstown with victories. Two of Howard Payne's losses have come at the hands of Stephen Austin.

Old Dominion appeared in the top ten for the first time this year advancing their record to 20-2. Central Washington, South Dakota State and St. Mary's of Texas round out the top ten teams.

Of the nation's top six small college teams, three, Ashland, Cheyney State, and Youngstown, could pair off in the NCAA's Mideast Regional Tournament at Reading, Pa. early in March.

YSU Attends Wayne Commuter Seminar

Members of the University's administrative and student body attended a commuter campus conference at Wayne State University last Monday and Tuesday, February 16 and 17.

Administration officials Dr.

Darrell Rishel, dean of student affairs, and Hugh Frost, advisor to the president, and students Pete Isgro, president of Student Government, Greg Bednarcik, chairman of Student Council, and Dan Crishon, Student Council, attended the two day conference to discuss problems concerned with commuter campuses.

More than 300 persons from over 100 universities were involved in the informal conference that was broken down into panels and discussion groups dealing with specific campus problems. Individual discussion groups were held for administrators and Student government leaders.
