

Nathaniel R. Jones To Speak At Spring Commencement

Attorney Nathaniel R. Jones, NAACP General Counsel, New York City, will be the main speaker at the 48th Spring Commencement of Youngstown State University, Wednesday, June 17, at Struthers Fieldhouse. A graduate of YSU, Jones will also be the recipient of an honorary Doctor of Laws (LL.D.) degree.

More than 1,300 students, the largest graduating class in the history of the University, will be receiving their masters, bachelors and associate degrees. Dr. Albert L. Pugsley, University president, will preside over the ceremonies.

In order to accommodate the large number of students and their guests who are expected to attend, the University selected the Struthers Fieldhouse with its seating capacity of 4,400. The 1,328 candidates for commencement is nearly 300 more than last year.

At the request of the 1970 Senior Class, the University will drop the traditional Baccalaureate services for the first time. The Senior Class voted overwhelmingly to discontinue the optional services, citing a decline in attendance and a feeling that religious services in churches of their choice were more significant to members of the class.

A native of Youngstown, Jones is a 1945 graduate of South High School, where he excelled at athletics, starring as a halfback on the 1944 Co-City Championship Football team. He continued his education at YSU, receiving a bachelor of arts degree in 1951, and a bachelor of laws degree in 1955, which he exchanged in 1969 for the newer Juris Doctor.

Appointed Executive Director of the Fair Employment Practice Committee of the City of Youngstown in 1956, Jones retained that post until 1959, entering private practice for a three-year period before being appointed in 1962 to the position of Assistant U.S. Attorney, Northern District of Ohio, Cleveland. While working under the U.S. District Attorney, Jones became one of the area's top trial lawyers, handling prosecution of various crimes including violations of the Mann Act, Dyer Act, banking laws, tax laws, counterfeiting laws and mail, wire and government fraud cases.

In 1967 Jones was appointed Deputy General Council to the President's Commission on Civil Disorders, Washington, D.C., serving a year in that position. He received his present appointment with the NAACP late in 1969.

While at YSU, Jones was on the staff of the Jambar, the

Ohio Bill To Ease Campus Disorders

Although Governor Rhodes assured student body presidents last week that the campus riot bill would not pass the state legislature, little opposition confronted the bill when it passed the House Tuesday as a means of controlling campus disorder.

The bill consists of seven pages of violations and penalties which cover not only students but faculty and university employees as well.

The "incriminating" acts run the gamut from creating a loud noise and making offensive gestures to "perpetrating harm to persons or property."

Basically, any type of "conduct which is engaged in willfully, knowingly, or recklessly, and which tends to urge, incite, encourage, facilitate, maintain, support, or aggravate riot or other substantial disorder, regardless of whether such conduct constitutes an offense or whether the offender is arrested or convicted of any offense" will bring the offender under some penalty.

The crux of the bill lies in the possible existence of double jeopardy because it provides for both civil and university penalties. A student found guilty of making an "unreasonable noise or offensively coarse utterance" would be fined not more than one hundred dollars and not more than thirty days, or both, in the civil court.

However, when the student returned to school he would find that he had also perpetrated the grounds for his dismissal. In fact, neither arrest nor conviction for disorderly conduct are necessary for suspension or expulsion since the bill calls for these penalties "regardless of whether such conduct constitutes an offense or whether the offender is arrested or convicted of any offense."

Any faculty, staff member or employee of a university found guilty of disorderly conduct shall immediately be

Jambar To Publish First Summer Weekly Newspaper

YSU's first summer newspaper will be published weekly by the Jambar beginning June 25.

The paper will be distributed on Thursday, and will cover campus news and features.

"The summer Jambar will try to keep students informed and give transient students and professors an opportunity to get to know the University," according to summer editor-in-chief Karen Epperson.

The year-round newspaper will also enable the Jambar to continue to recruit and train individuals extensively during the summer quarter, Miss Epperson stated.

The summer staff will be comprised of the Journalism classes and many of the regularly employed yearly staff.

Students interested in working for the summer paper should contact the summer editor-in-chief at the Jambar office.

Amateur Radio operators, Rick White; WA3DYO and Larry Benko; WA3BLE, will be participating in the annual June Field Day operations.

Field Day is a group participation of Amateur Radio operators in the United States whose purpose is to assemble a portable Amateur Radio Station under simulated emergency conditions at a remote location. The amateurs participating will exchange information with as many other amateurs as possible in a 24 hour period.

Ohio University Riots Cause Massive Athens Court Jam

ATHENS, Ohio AP - The student rioting at Ohio University May 13 and 14 and the arrests which followed so jammed the city's court system that special steps had to be devised to handle the problem.

Now, more than two weeks later, the court program has been devised. It may take many weeks to process the approximately 120 cases which grew out of the disturbances.

A special courtroom, a substitute judge, a special assistant to the city solicitor, and lie detector tests will be used in handling the cases. Athens County Municipal Court and the Athens city solicitors' office have been swamped with the large number of arrests, and special methods for handling had to be devised.

Fifty-four persons were arrested during the two nights of disturbances immediately preceding the closing of the university May 15, and most were booked on two charges - failing to disperse and failure to obey lawful orders of a police officer.

Eight others were arrested in connection with the alleged disruption of operations in the university's ROTC building earlier. All eight face charges of trespassing. In addition, six are charged with interfering with an officer, and two are charged with resisting arrest.

Nudes Object Of Artist's Finger Paint

DAYTON, Ohio AP - The model wore nothing but a smile and she shrieked, "Ooh! That's cold!" when the finger of a customer smeared a glob of orange paint on her back.

The model's name was Mitzi and the customer was Dayton Daily News reporter David Scott, a happily-married man making his first - and possibly his last - visit to the LeFemme Art Studio.

The studio, which began operations recently in a two-story building on North Main Street, is open from 3 p.m. to 11 p.m. daily, but never on Sunday.

It's a place where artists and "gentlemen," according to manager Joan Drake, can apply finger paint to nude models. The charge is $15 for 20 minutes, $20 for a half hour, and $1 for each additional minute.

"We don't think that's outrageous," said Joan. "The people who would pay that much are doing it for the entertainment. Somebody is not going to spend $15 and not think about it."

The price, she says, keeps out "every Tom, Dick and Harry," and adds that the only real qualification is that the customer "must be a gentleman."

All those arrested have demanded jury trials on more serious offenses on which statutes permit jury trials. Thus, facing the Athens judicial system are about 70 jury trials and about 50 trials to be heard by the court. Court officials say they are not contemplating any mass trials, so up to 120 separate trials are possible.

The trials are expected to begin by the end of June or early in July.

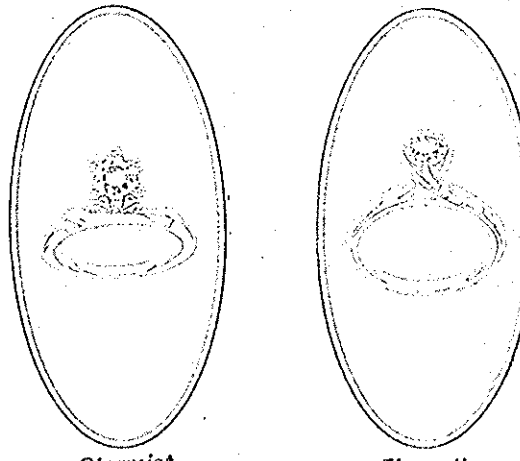

Municipal judge Franklin Shecter will begin hearing the cases other than the ones dealing with the students. The student trials will be held at a place still to be decided upon. Solicitor Gerald Mollica has hired John Stimmel, an Athens attorney, as an assistant.

Solicitor Mollica has agreed to allow those who want to take a lie detector test to do so, and has said if the tests indicate innocence, he is prepared to drop charges against them. He noted that due to the chaotic situation in town during the two nights of arrests, it was possible some innocent persons who were on the streets might have been arrested without violating any laws.

Hijacker Nabbed In D.C. After Six Hour Ordeal

WASHINGTON AP — A hijacker demanding $100 million cash from the US Treasury held 51 airline passengers hostage in a weird six hour drama yesterday before he was lured back to the ground and seized by the FBI. The plane's captain was shot, federal aviation officials said.

Some of the plane's passengers-witnesses said about 20 had scrambled off the plane after FBI agents shot out its tires when it landed for a second time at Dulles International Airport.

Then the co-pilot radioed: "The captain has been shot - get an ambulance."

A radio message moments later said a doctor was in attendance.

The FAA said the injured man was Capt. Dale C. Hupe and he appeared to be all right.

A small caliber weapon has been used against him, the federal officials said. They added that the pilot received an intestinal wound, one shot in the stomach. Messages from the plane were being monitored by The Associated Press in the office of Jet America, which had tuned in the tower frequency.

Disorder Bill

from such college or university and his contract voided and terminated." Later employment at any other state supported institution is prohibited also.

Before university action becomes final, however, a hearing before a special disciplinary committee offers the accused a chance to defend his actions.

Upon announcement of the passage of the campus riot bill, questions as to its constitutionality began to grow. Many await word from the American Civil Liberties Union, watch dogs of the Constitution, as to whether or not they will challenge the strenuous bill.

A voice from the cockpit said "have somebody in communication contact Hupe's wife and advise her in Kansas City he is being taken to Fairfax Hospital. Contact families of other crew members and advise no other injuries."

The Federal Aviation Administration said an FBI agent was shot in the thumb while wrestling with the hijacker.

People started running from the plane - it was not immediately clear how they got out shortly after the plane landed at Dulles for the second time.

A fire truck blocked the runway and other vehicles circled around the aircraft. A few minutes after the plane touched down, persons started getting out.

The hijacker said, "Get these people off the runway. Turn around immediately." The pilot said "he'll kill us unless you let us get out of here."

At 7:20 p.m. the hijacker came on the radio and said, "You're stalling, you're risking the lives of these people."

The airport control tower replied, "Negative, we're not stalling. We're trying to reach these people and get them off of here."

The man had collected $100,759 from the airline the first ransom he forced the Phoenix to Washington TWA jet to land at Dulles International Airport.

But the hijacker claimed he was shortchanged and refused to release the passengers or crew of six. Instead, radioing "you'd better get me the money," he forced the plane to take off on a circuitous route south, then north over New York state, then south back to the Washington area.

British Scholarships

The British Embassy has announced its annual competition for Marshall Scholarships, tenable at a British university for two years. Each award, twenty-four altogether, provides fares to and from Britain and maintenance allowances totaling approximately $3,000 per person, per year.

Application blanks are available from the British Consulate-General, 3100 Massachusetts Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C., 20008. Further information and assistance concerning the awards and the selection of a British university may be obtained from the campus advisor, Professor Ward L. Miner, ASO 303. Applications for 1971-73 should be in Washington by October 22, 1970.

How about foam on your beer?

none? 1 inch? 1 1/2 inches?

You'll hear some people say there shouldn't be any head at all. They say the phoey on the foam... where's the beer?

They shouldn't. Anyway, not when the beer is Beechwood Aged Bud-

Budweiser is brewed so it will kick up a good head of foam. Those little bubbles add to the taste, the smoothness, and the drinkability. So pour your Bud with about an inch-and-a-half collar. Two inches if it's a tall glass.

Now let the foam tickle your nose... and your taste. That's the answer.

Letters To The Editor

Asks To Define Term "Morality" 4

To the editor of the Jambar:

I have read a good deal lately in The Jambar of the immorality of the Viet Nam War. It is very interesting to me to hear certain people speaking of the war and other things as immoral. Immoral? What do they mean by the term immoral?

What is immoral about killing someone if it gives me pleasure? For example, if shooting Viet Cong gives me pleasure, why should I be denied that pleasure? You answer that I am causing him misery, but I answer that the pleasure I get is more than the misery I cause him. Or I might answer that I am really putting him out of his misery. That is, he may be facing a very bleak future of hardship and deprivation. So then, by killing him, I am delivering him from a life of misery, and at the same time, I am getting a lot of pleasure. Is this immoral? Why? Now am I really the kind of person that gets pleasure from killing? No, of course not! Then what am I trying to say? I am trying to find out what we mean by immoral. Before we can talk about morality and immorality, we must have a universally binding moral code. Otherwise, one person's opinion is as good as another's, and anarchy prevails. In such a case we would live under the law of survival of the fittest, and we could not speak of morality and immorality.

Now then, is there such a universally binding moral code? I answer in the affirmative. We call it the moral law. This moral law is universally obligatory because it is given and enforced by the moral governor of the universe, God. Only God has the right and the wisdom to give a universal, unchangeable moral law. That law is given to us in the Bible which we call the Word of God. It is summarized in the Ten Commandments (Exodus 20: 3-17) and is further condensed by our Lord Jesus Christ into two commandments; namely, "You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, and with all your soul, and with all your mind. This is the first and great commandment. And the second is like it. You shall love your neighbor as yourself. On these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets." (Matthew 22: 36-40)

Now, is this what you mean when you talk about morality and immorality? If not, what do you mean? If the above is not true, then I charge you with using words which have no significance when you speak of morality or immorality.

Sincerely,
 Jack O'Brien

DRUNKEN SPEAKING by Phil Henck

THE MORE DIFFICULTY, THE LESS WE KNOW FROM A HAND ON THE PULPIT by Phil Henck

Tells Baldino To Reread Letter

To the editor of the Jambar:

The letter of Dr. Peter Baldino, Jr., appearing in the June 2 issue of the Jambar is an attempt to destroy the clarity of my letter which appeared May 29. The following remarks should correct any misconceptions.

Dr. Baldino's first issue is superfluous. I am certain all readers but Dr. Baldino understood I was speaking only for myself, although the responses already include plans for activating the suggestion included in my letter.

His second issue is as superfluous as the first. This academic community need not be told by the writer the meaning of the stated hypothesis and will not be frustrated by Dr. Baldino's refusal to render proper consideration to it.

Third, readers of the Jambar understand the purpose of the stated hypothesis even if Dr. Baldino does not. Rejection or acceptance, of course, is a result of adequate research.

The fourth issue raised by Dr. Baldino indicates that he does not analyze what he reads. I suggest he reread the letter and correct his irrelevant remarks.

Dr. Baldino make in his final issue the mistake of which no scholar should be guilty when he tried to discredit the hypothesis by any means other than research. His disconnected remarks are out of context. Does Dr. Baldino have "...the faintest notion of the distinction between personal opinion and a valid inductive inference?" If so, why does he criticize the proposed inductive process with mere opinion? Dr. Baldino, where is your scholarship on this matter?

Cordially yours,
 George R. Overby
 Associate Professor
 School of Education

...And Baldino Responds

To the editor of the Jambar:

I wish to express my sincere appreciation to the editor of the Jambar for giving me the opportunity to respond to Professor Overby's letter at this time in light of the fact that this is the final issue of the Jambar for the current academic year.

I have only one request and that is that everyone reread both Professor Overby's original letter and my response to it. I feel confident that the readers of the Jambar will judge the letters on their merits.

I believe a statement made by President Charles W. Eliot of Harvard University at the turn of the century may be appropriate here: "A professorship at Harvard (YSU??) is not intended to limit freedom of opinion and discussion as enjoyed in our society, nor is it intended to shield its holder from the adverse criticism of others."

Respectfully,

YSU Bids Farewell To Gillespie and Cantrell

Gillespie Retires; Cantrell Goes SANE

Two men, one on the side of both the students and the administration; the other, on the side of both the students and God, will be leaving campus this year.

Dr. John P. Gillespie, Dean of Men will be revered as a remnant of the old college days, a man who spoke to students by name and without the reserve of a superior.

Loved by the faculty, Greeks, and students alike, Dean Gillespie with his spectacles and smiles upheld the goals of the university and understood the needs of all young men and women.

The Dean of Men for sixteen years, Dean Gillespie will be the last of his kind. Next year, there will be no Dean of Men, but a Dean of All Student Affairs.

The Reverend Burton Cantrell, Protestant Campus Minister, who once called himself "a fuzzy-headed liberal" was the innovator of the college coffeehouse, the Gates of Eden.

Among one of the leaders of last October's Moratorium and a member of the Major's Human Relations Committee, Rev. Cantrell has striven for peace for all the world as well as within the University.

Resigning to accept a SANE position, Rev. Cantrell will be remembered as a man who stood for the right of the individual, the freedom of the university and the will of God.

We will indeed miss both men and their fight for a better university.

THE JAMBAR'S 3RD ANNUAL QUESTIONABLE MERIT AWARDS

After a year of being straight, serious, and generally wrapped up in the policies, politics, and affairs of a college campus, we were just about to call this whole thing off when we discovered that one, just one of you, is beginning to get his priorities in order. An editor reports that while attending a Scabbard and Blade Installation (of all places!) President Pugsley ended an after-dinner talk by saying that "it is a pleasure to talk to promising military leaders" since he been spending so much of his recent time with "activists." Our associate reports that the Pugsley statement drew a roar of approval from the ROTC boys, after which President Pugsley attempted to sit down in the chair which he thought was behind him. It wasn't.

It is not just the chair that supports, or doesn't, the President's fundamental posture. Activists can be trying, of course, and so can students in general, however safe and sane our future military leaders might be. Let us hope that the President does not see himself merely as their president; all of us claim him too.

So, after presidential edicts, student causes, faculty complaints, many squabbles and numerous disillusionments, we find that we do indeed have much to laugh about here. After all, there were more surprises in this academic year than ever before. Back, then, to the year-end task of making this straight, dull University fun again.

LaRue Who?

To Dr. Saul Friedman and Dennis LaRue we award the Spiro T. Agnew Anti-News Award for their untiring efforts to prove the student press irresponsible, their quest for the truth, and their devotion for life, liberty, and the American way.

George of the Jumble

To Dr. George Overby we give the Irwin Corey Award for his clarity of expression and originality of ideas.

Fun Gun

To the Youngstown police we award one AK-A7 Russian sub machine gun. No clarification is necessary.

Back Again, Huh?

To Chaplain Morrison we give the Douglas MacArthur award for returning.

To the Jambar we award the Objective News award, for never slanting the news.

Pair Extraordinaire

To Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Painter we award the Tweedledum and Tweedledee award for achievement in fashion. The Painters were chosen for their taste in matching red blazers with black and white sequined penguins embroidered on their pockets at this year's Spring Weekend concert.

Why Are These Men Smiling?

The Peter Principle

To Peter J. Isgro, we give the Portnoy's Complaint Award for his ability to run around and holler for nothing, about nothing, and get nothing done in the process.

Don't Rain On My Pomade

The Emily Post Award goes to the School of Business for their concern over dress, grooming, protocol, and dynamic thinking. The School of Business is also awarded the Frank Lloyd Wright award for the architectural specifications of the new business building which fits their personalities: square, functional, and non-descript.

If First You Don't Succeed

To Thomas Gilmartin we give the Methusala award for taking nineteen years to graduate with a C or better in all his conference courses.

Dean Painter is also awarded the Wicked Witch of the West award for her invariable wrist-slapping of sorority girls and her nonsensical control over the male and female students of this University.

Punt

To Chuck Hettler we give the Richard Milhous Nixon award for his lack of perspective on issues, his talent for saying nothing, and his "You won't have Chuck Hettler to kick around anymore" attitude following his defeat.

Politician of the Year

To Student Council Chairman Don Leone we give the Mario Prococchio award.

Inflated Ego

To the YSU Bookstore we award the National Inflationary Spiral award for keeping ahead of national economic trends.

The Reverend Mr. Cress

To Paul Cress we give the George Jessel Toastmaster award for his profound quotations like: "What's the difference between a coin?" "You can't shovel snow before it falls" "...there's too many queers walking around there," and "and I'll throw their asses in jail."

The Thirteenth Commencement ceremony of the Department of Continuing Education of Youngstown State University will be held Thursday, June 11, in the Engineering Science Building Auditorium at 7:30 p.m.

Held in cooperation with The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, the Department of Continuing Education will graduate 23 persons in the Two-Year Course in Technical Education, Maintenance Program, and 43 in the One-Year Course in Metallurgy of Iron and Steel.

Dr. Albert L. Pugsley, University president, will welcome the graduates, while Thomas A. Cleary, Jr., vice president, Steel Operations, The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, will deliver the commencement remarks. The certificates to the graduates will be presented by Dr. Pugsley, Cleary, Dr. Lawrence E. Looby, chairman of the department of continuing education, and Alfred W. Vahey, Supervisor of Training, Youngstown District, The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company.

Representing Youngstown Sheet and Tube will be Cleary; Vahey; T. Bruce Carpenter, manager, Youngstown District; Alfred T. Hubbard, general superintendent, Steel Plant; James R. Thompson, general superintendent, Maintenance and Utilities; Ronald E. Towns, general superintendent, Briar Hill Works; Charles F. Emish, general superintendent, Quality Control; Carl A. Boehme, assistant superintendent, Flat Rolled and Tubular Division; Walter J. Prochak, assistant superintendent, Steel Plant and Struthers Works; and Theodore Patrick, Director of Training.

The YSU representatives will be Dr. Pugsley; Dr. Earl E. Edgar, vice president for aca-

Chem. Prof Gets Conference Grant

Dr. Henry P. Sheng, associate professor of chemical engineering at Youngstown State University, has received a grant from the National Science Foundation to attend the "Engineering and Technological Society" conference July 6 to July 18 at Ohio University.

Sponsored by the NSF, the conference will treat several topics: engineering as a discipline; the philosophy of engineering; the information revolution; the industrial revolution and the post-industrial future.

program will be performed by the YSU Wind Ensemble, while members of Circle K Service Organization and Alpha Phi Omicron service fraternity, will serve as ushers.

A native of Shanghai, China, Dr. Sheng received a bachelor of science degree from the University of Maine, a master of science degree from Purdue University, and a Ph.D. from the University of Oklahoma, all in chemical engineering.

The author of numerous articles for the U.S. Bureau of Mines, Dr. Sheng is a member of Tau Beta Pi honorary engineering fraternity, Sigma Xi science honorary, the American Institute of Chemical Engineers and the American Chemical Society.

Committee Formed--

Reveal Plans For Black Program

An expanded Black Studies program is the goal of a special committee formed to study present courses offered at YSU that contain significant Black content and to incorporate additional Black courses into the present curriculum, revealed President Albert L. Pugsley at a meeting Wednesday afternoon.

The committee, composed of Professors Bright, Blue, Capoci and Conroy, was formed in response to a demand made by members of the SCAR committee on April 23.

The following are courses presently being offered at YSU that contain significant Black content: English 871, Black Man in American Literature; Geography 710, Regional Geography of Middle America and Caribbean; Geography 711, Regional Geography of South America; Geography 712, Regional Geography of Africa, South of Sahara; History 663, African Civilization; History 730, Black Man in American History 1; History 731, Black Man in American History 2; History 801, Select Problems in American History; Political Science 705, Minority Group Politics; Sociology 700, Minority Groups; Sociology 770, Anthropology: African Cultures; Sociology 773, Australian and Oceanic Cultures; and Foundations of Education 880, Inner City Educational Workshops. According to President Pugsley, "these courses could very well form the nucleus of an expanded Black Studies program."

The committee has described the term "Black Studies" as "academically-centered courses taught by knowledgeable, sensitive, and perceptive teachers - black or white - and directed toward both black and white students." However the committee also emphasized that black teachers, with comparable preparation and personal qualities, are preferred to white teachers in the Black Studies Program.

President Pugsley also revealed at the meeting that he is encouraging all department chairmen to give special attention and favorable consideration to filling vacant or newly authorized positions with qualified black faculty members, irrespective of whether those individuals are to be involved in Black Studies programs.

Professor Bright will be studying the Black Studies programs and administrative organization for their implementation at other schools this summer. "The administrative structure needed to expand Black Studies will be brought to the attention of the University Senate next fall," the President said.

Senior Student Combines Metallurgy and Palmistry

YSU, as other universities, has several departments that help students prepare for the future, including the placement office, the counseling and testing office, the chaplain's office, and the advising of many department members. One unique area of counseling for the future -- a student palm reader.

Jitendra Shah, Indian metallurgical engineering senior, reads palms as a hobby, and explains the art of palmistry to any interested student or faculty member.

Shah, called by friends Jitu, began the study of palmistry over two years ago, and since has read the palms of Dr. Joseph Lucas, associate professor of philosophy and religious studies, Dr. Russell Hibbeler, assistant professor of Civil Engineering, several Harding High School students, members of the Jambar staff, as well as many YSU students and acquaintances.

Describing the art of palmistry as a "difficult" study, he discourages amateur palmists from reading palms, as it hurts as well as helps the individual.

"Telling a person that they will die before they're 35 can make them worry so much about a short life that they will scare themselves to death," he said. Shah explained, "It's amazing how well the mind controls the body, and so we must be careful how we use palmistry."

Reading the palms of several members of the Jambar staff yesterday, he foretold their futures, recalled their past accidents, and told them their birthdates.

The 24-year old student from Ahmedabad, near Bombay, has been a teacher of mathematics and physics at the Gujarat University in Ahmedabad before he came to YSU.

Shah explains that mathematics and science are an essential part of palmistry. One of his most astounded Jambar subjects was Dale Peskin, editor-in-chief. "After studying my palm and life lines, he told me that I had an accident at eleven or twelve years old, where I broke a limb. I did fall from a tree when I was eleven and broke my right arm."

Shah is generally impressed with the University and compares campus unrest in Ohio as similar to the dissent in India.

"We too have demands that we would like to see followed."

Shah does not plan to use monetary dividends return, he plans on using it to help educate other students in India.

He reads palms mostly at home or in classes, and rarely ever in a crowded room. Palmistry is just a hobby with me, Shah admitted, "but a very difficult one."

THE FUTURE IS IN THE PALM OF YOUR HAND - YSU senior Education major, Shirley Conway listens attentively as Jitendra Shah reads her palm.

Dean Dykema Has Paper Published

Karl W. Dykema, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and professor of English at Youngstown State University, will have a linguistics paper published in the "Festschrift for Raven I. McDavid."

Entitled "Anglicizing of Proper Names," the paper is based on a study conducted several years ago at YSU of what has happened to some of the non-English names of students. The paper was originally read at a meeting of the American Name Society in Chicago.

The Festschrift, which will include other papers by linguistic scholars in this country and abroad, is named for a distinguished professor of English linguistics at the University of Chicago and a specialist in American dialects.

Another article by Dean Dykema, "Where Our Grammar Came From," which first appeared in an edition of "College English" in 1961, has recently been reprinted in an anthology, "About Language: Contexts for Writers." This is the sixth republication of the article since its original appearance. A member of the YSU faculty since 1937 and dean since 1963, Dean Dykema received a bachelor of arts and master of arts degrees from Columbia University. He has also done additional study at the Alliance Francaise, Paris, and the University of Berlin.

Miss Mary Ann Chaffee has been elected sweetheart of Delta Sigma Phi Fraternity.

Eta Xi Chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi fraternity installed Joe Delfre and Richard Thomas as brothers at a May 31 ceremony. Delfre was chosen as "honor pledge" for the quarter. Also announced at the ceremony was the presentation of the Alpha Kappa Psi scholarship key to Jerry Pastucka, a brother and senior accounting major.

University Forum Lists Basic Rules For Communism

Student Unrest: A Campus Perspective

A serious situation exists today because of mob violence on some campuses and the hysteria whipped up by the news media. This is not a spontaneous "youth rebellion", but an organized demonstration largely incited and exploited by adults who bring together a mixture of motives. These adults include professors, cynical politicians, members of the news media, and frustrated liberals.

These elements combine well. These professors are seeking an avenue to channel their worthless theories. The liberals wish to impose their ideology on a reluctant nation. The politicians are hoping to discredit the President before the electorate. And the news media is right there to put all of this in a nice, "sensationalized" package.

College officials have a duty and a responsibility to maintain order on the campus. In case of violence, student offenders should be expelled. If the college officials cannot maintain order, they should call upon a higher authority who can. It is important that the use of this force be graduated to meet the situation.

It is argued that many of the young who are caught up in this movement are passionately sincere and they must be heard. The worst thing one can do is take advice from one who is seized with passion. The real problem is a psychological one. Calm steps should be taken to bring this disaffected person to his senses. Attempts to appease one who is in such a state will usually result in more irrational demands. The real demand of the organized movement is capitulation - not communication.

Never has so much emotion been aroused by so few. And so far, they have failed to enlist or receive the support of the majority. For example, out of over 1,800 institutions of higher learning, less than 250 participated in the student strike. Many of these strike votes were won by narrow margins and light turnouts. Consequently, many students were unjustly deprived of the education that they had worked and paid for as a result of high-handed pressure tactics on the campus. It is also worth noting that many faculty members were more eager for the strike than the students.

I would like the so-called "silent majority" on this campus to ponder some of the above ideas in mind over the summer months. Let us hope that you will be able to return to campus next Fall to pursue your education without the possibility of violence.

Thomas Anderson

YSU - YAF

To the editor of the Jambar:

In support of Dr. George R. Overby's well-founded suggestion in Tuesday's Jambar, I offer to the bewildered and misguided who would brand any mention of a NATIONAL COMMUNIST CONSPIRACY as shades of the McCarthy Era the following. While reading the list, stop after each item and think about the present-day situations here - and all around our nation. I quote from the "Communist Rules for Revolution" circa 1919:

A. Corrupt the young; get them away from religion. Get them interested in sex. Make them superficial; destroy their ruggedness.

B. Get control of all means of publicity, thereby:

1. Get people's minds off their government by focusing their attention on athletics, sexy books and plays and other trivialities.

2. Divide the people into hostile groups by constantly harping on controversial matters of no importance.

3. Destroy the people's faith in their natural leaders by holding the latter up to contempt, ridicule and disgrace.

4. Always preach true democracy, but seize power as fast and ruthlessly as possible.

5. By encouraging government extravagance, destroy its credit, produce fear of inflation with rising prices and general discontent.

6. Incite unnecessary strikes in vital industries, encourage civil disorders and foster a lenient and soft attitude on the part of government toward disorders.

7. By specious argument cause the breakdown of the old moral virtues, honesty, sobriety, self-restraint, faith in the pledged word, ruggedness.

C. Cause the registration of all firearms on some pretext, with a view of confiscating them and leaving the population helpless.

Doesn't it seem amazing that these rules from 50 year-old basic Communist dogma so closely parallel the events occurring daily in our country? Or is it just coincidence?

Have you ever opened your eyes and noticed how well-organized are campus disturbances?

Cites Problems In Today's Society

To the editor of the Jambar:

I have read the article written in the May 29 issue of the Jambar, by Dr. Overby which I think was in good taste and well stated. I have also read the reply written in the June 2 issue that disagreed with your views. The reply is also a personal opinion and could not be stated as the view of all the school of education.

It has been my own personal experience that many adults are totally unaware of what is happening on campuses through out the country. They are quick to criticize the riots but fail to understand that there is a more serious undertone to the trouble with today's youth. The youth are not totally to blame, for I am of the opinion, after working with hundreds of students of all ages in schools and in outside work, that children need to be told what to do because they have not developed the maturity to judge. Before they can judge they have to have background, no matter what the issue. This is where the parents or older generation has failed. Without strict discipline and guidance it is no wonder that we have raised a generation who lack values and goals. It disturbs me to ask a graduating student what are you going to do and have he or she reply that they don't know. They guess they will live at home or just bum around. What has happened to guidance counselors in high schools whose job it is to help these young people decide what they are best suited for? Or even worse why do parents give young people so much freedom and not know where their child is late at night or what they are doing? These parents in question did not have so much freedom themselves or if they did they were probably the group of war babies who grew up themselves by themselves and don't know how to discipline their own children.

Another problem in our society is that anyone who speaks out against something they are criticized for making a stand. Someone has to start some where. It is too bad that we are criticized for trying to do some good. Many times we see what is wrong but because of criticism we are hampered when we offer a solution. There is no easy answer but anyone who knows a way to help, should be given the chance to do so without being under fire for what he thinks.

Letters Policy

The Jambar encourages all students, faculty and staff to submit letters and forum articles on any subject of interest to the University community.

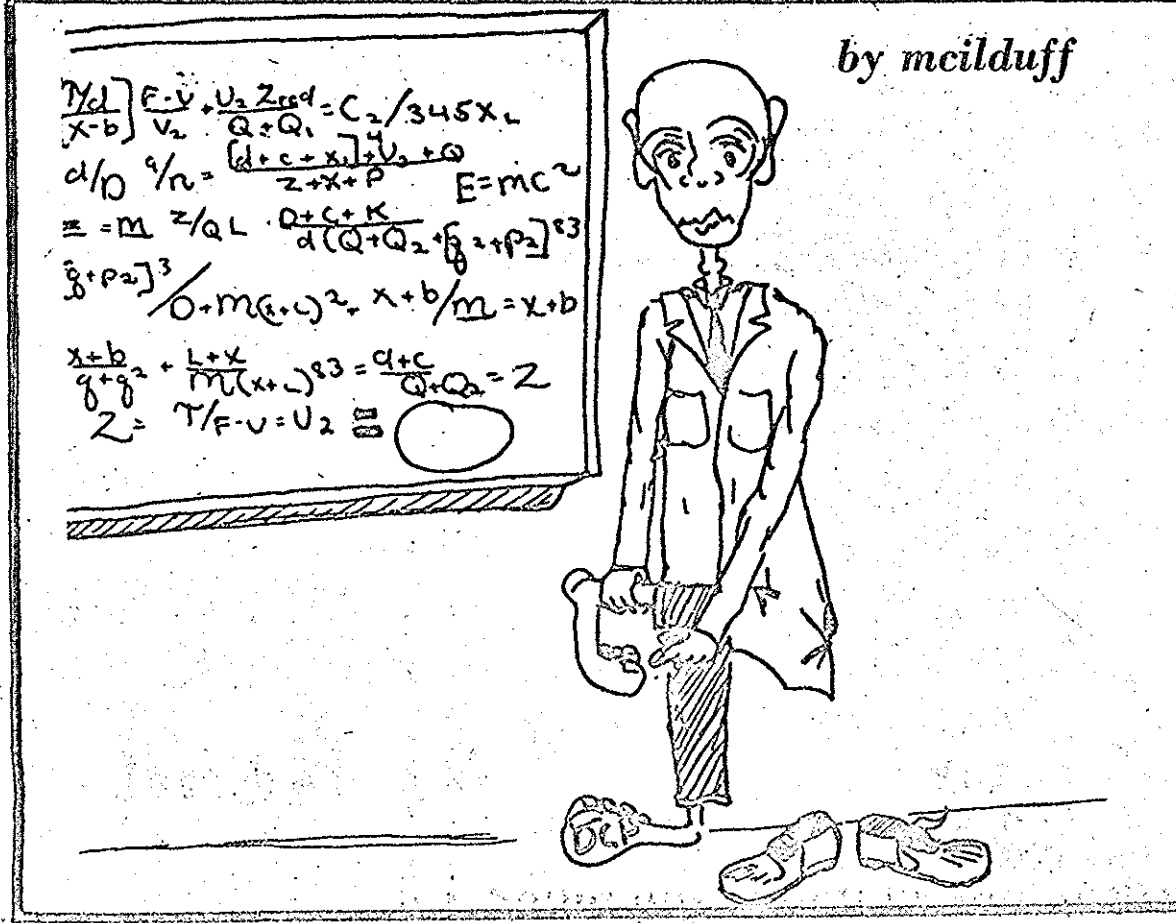

Letters and forums must be typed, triple spaced, and signed in ink. The author must identify himself by school and class or department and position and should include his campus address and telephone number.

The Jambar does not print letters which are libelous or in poor taste, consist of attacks on personalities, are obviously based on factual errors or do not conform to the above requirements.

Because of varying space availability in different issues, we reserve the right to edit, accept or reject letters and forums without consulting the author.

Address or deliver all letters to The Jambar, care of Youngstown State University.

Selected To Play In Tri-State Game

Three Youngstown State baseball players have been selected to play in the second annual Tri-State College Baseball Coaches All-Star Game scheduled for Sunday, June 14, at Forbes Field in Pittsburgh, Pa. Game time is 1:35 p.m.

Chosen were pitcher Mike Malley, a senior from Pittsburgh, Pa., Central Catholic, infielder Nick Gesacion, a junior from Youngstown Woodrow Wilson, and outfielder Brad Lawson, a junior from Boardman.

The trio will play for the South squad coached by Bob Kloska of Steubenville, Bill Hardisty of Waynesburg and Mitch Bailey of California State. The North team will be directed by Joe Knowles of Clarion State, Wally Rose of Slippery Rock State and Bob Lewis of Pitt. Malley, who holds the YSU career win record of 16, was second in the balloting among pitchers. The 6-2, 185-pounder had a 3-4 record this season with a 3.34 ERA. He worked 42 and two-thirds innings, giving up 46 hits and 21 runs, 16 of them earned. Malley walked 13 and struck out 27.

This is the second year Gesacion, who holds four Penguin records, had made the club. He owns the YSU career marks for most stolen bases (84) and most hits (95) and the one-season standards for most stolen bases (33) and most runs scored. Gesacion had 35 hits in 129 at bats this spring for a .271 average. He had 19 RBIs.

Lawson batted .275 for Dom Rosselli's Penguins with 36 hits in 131 trips. He scored 22 runs and was second to Gesacion in steals with 22.

Environmental Consultant

Prof Receives Appointment

The Canadian Government has appointed Dr. Leon Laitman, associate professor of geography at Youngstown State University, as Consultant on a systems approach to Environmental and Regional problems. The appointment is for the Grenoble, France. He received a Ph.D. from the University of Paris.

Prior to joining the YSU faculty in 1968, he served as an economic geographer in the Canal Zone for four years, as an international economist for the Agency for International Development (AID) for two years and as an economic advisor for the Republic of Tunisia. He has evaluated national and regional plans and programs in a number of Central and South American countries.

Later part of June and work on environmental and pollution problems in the Great Lakes Watershed.

Starting in the fall quarter, 1970, Dr. Laitman will also direct a course at YSU entitled "The Geography of Environmental Planning." The course will be the first of its kind in the department.

A native of Paris, France, Dr. Laitman received a bachelor of science degree from Brooklyn College, New York, and has done graduate work at the City University of New York, the University of California, Berkeley, and the University of
