

Dr. Ringer to replace Johnson as head swim coach

With an announcement that "the University can see no useful purpose in holding Mr. (Ralph L.) Johnson to his University commitment as swim coach," President Pugsley yesterday replaced him with Dr. Lewis B. Ringer, chairman of Health and Physical Education. The announcement followed Mr.

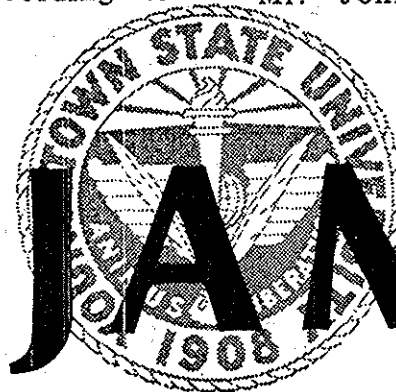

Johnson's resignation of November 4. Although the swim season does not begin until next quarter, Mr. Johnson has had the swim team as part of his teaching assignment this quarter. He has asked to continue his services as a physical education instructor for the rest of the year. Dr. Ringer, according to President Pugsley's announcement, "is not a newcomer in the field of swimming." As an undergraduate, he was a member of the varsity team at Springfield College, and has held the position of swim coach at West Virginia University and at Eastern New Mexico University. Mr. Johnson's resignation, according to the announcement, was brought about by some "personal reasons," and because he "expressed discontent that not enough athletic scholarships had been assigned to swimming."

Mr. Johnson declined comment at this time, but said that he expects (cont. on page 6)

AN EDITORIAL

Student Council: R.I.P.

It is impossible to recognize an election that is in direct violation of its own rules. This week's Student Council election not only violates several specific election rules of the Student Council Constitution, but is the most poorly organized, least effective, and most unrepresentative election we have ever seen.

First, the Student Council Constitution states that it is mandatory for all Council candidates to attend two out of three meetings prior to elections. Last week no attendance was taken at the meeting. Three weeks ago Council did not meet for lack of a quorum. According to Council's own rules, some candidates are ineligible.

Second, the identity of the elections chairman further confuses the objectivity of the election. Chuck Hettler, a candidate for re-election, made all the election arrangements until he was removed from that position for reasons of obvious conflict of interests. Student Council chairman Don Leone, who removed Hettler and appointed himself to that position, told the Jambar to see Hettler for election information and tallies, and only see him if there were any formal complaints. Furthermore, Hettler had access to and supplied the Jambar with the voting results.

Third, Jambar reporters have personally witnessed no less than five campaign violations. There probably have been many more. Candidates have passed out campaign material and vocally urged students to vote for them while standing near voting booths. Campaign literature has also been seen laying on election tables. Council rules stipulate that no campaigning nor campaign material can be within 50 feet of voting booths.

Fourth, we are appalled at the lack of discretion both the election committee and the candidates themselves have displayed. Many voting stations are manned by partisan officials who have, on some occasions, asked students to vote for a specific candidate. Candidates have passed out literature that is intellectually embarrassing. Their lack of maturity has been exhibited by their need to form coalitions and to group themselves.

We have seen few candidates who have run on their own merit. We have concluded that most candidates have little if any merit at all. We can understand why students don't vote in Council elections. Frankly, we agree with them.

This newspaper cannot and will not tolerate such actions. We have questioned Council's membership and found it unrepresentative. We have challenged Council's actions and found them meaningless. We have read Council's Constitution and found it powerless. We have searched for Council's relevancy and found there was none. Now, when we look to the hope of changing all that, Council makes us remember what its all about.

For too long, we have looked far too seriously at what Council has and hasn't done. We're tired of meaningless legislation, personal arguments, and token representations. This University, its problems, and its students have grown beyond the stage of petty politics. Council, we just don't have time for you anymore.

Board of Trustees hikes student fee schedule

Full-time students will pay $190 per quarter if they live in-state, and $350 per quarter if they live out-of-state starting next fall, as a result of action taken by the University's Board of Trustees last Friday.

In explaining the proposed increase in student fees, Dr. Albert L. Pugsley, University president, noted that in the four years that the University has been a state institution, the fee schedule has remained unchanged. He cited the rising cost of operating the University due to inflation, the program expansion, new services and expanded facilities, and improved qualifications of its members as several of the reasons necessitating the adjustment.

For full-time students taking 12-17 hours per quarter, the instructional fee will be increased from $120.00 per quarter to $150.00, and the general fee from $30.00 per quarter to $40.00. This means full-time students will pay $190.00 per quarter, or $575.00 for the regular academic year.

The tuition surcharge for out-of-state students will be increased to $160.00 per quarter while the special non-resident fee charged to those students continuously enrolled from the spring semester of 1967 (except summer terms) will be eliminated.

Part-time students will find an increase to 12.00 per quarter in their general fee as opposed to the former $10.00 fee.

Y.S.U. to share television station

YSU will share an educational television station with Kent State University, and the University of Akron. The YSU Board of Trustees approved the creation of such a Northeastern Ohio television Consortium made up of the three universities in action last Friday.

The three schools would work together on the same channel, sharing and operating facilities that would be located in Alliance, Ohio. Each university would have its own studios on their respective campuses but would share the transmitter (cont. on page 2)

6 to 3 decision on Vietnam-

Supreme Court declines judgment

By BARRY SCHWEID
 Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court declined 6 to 3 yesterday to be drawn into a judgment of the Vietnam war.

Without stating its reasons the court rejected a suit by the State of Massachusetts, that questioned the legality of U.S. military action in Indochina.

The issue now will be fought out in lower courts while the war goes on.

All the court said in response to the Massachusetts suit was: "The motion for leave to file a bill of complaint is denied."

Justice William O. Douglas, in dissent, said the court should not have deferred to the White House and to Congress but should have carried out its duty to interpret the Constitution.

"It is far more important to be respectful to the Constitution than to a coordinate branch of government," the 72-year-old justice wrote.

The six-man majority consisted of Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Associate Justices Hugo L. Black, William J. Brennan Jr., Byron R. White, Thurgood Marshall and Harry A. Blackmun. Justices Potter Stewart and John M. Harlan dissented without subscribing to Douglas's opinion.

The division did not follow liberal-conservative lines. Harlan and Stewart generally are cautious jurists while Brennan and Marshall are usually numbered in the court's "activist" wing.

The ruling was handed down, without comment, with scores of other orders on pending appeals.

The Nixon administration had advised the court not to hear Massachusetts. Justice Department officials said a judicial inquiry into the legality of the war would hamstring the President, insult Congress and embarrass the nation.

In last Tuesday's election, Massachusetts voters overwhelmingly approved an advisory referendum supporting President Nixon's plan for phased withdrawal of troops.

The war question is likely to return to the Supreme Court. In the past few months several federal judges have upheld the government in suits brought by soldiers and civilians, who now will appeal from the adverse rulings.

KSU President says grand jury acted blindly

WASHINGTON (AP) - Kent State University's president said yesterday a state grand jury acted blindly in its probe of the shooting deaths of four students and returned findings which pose a threat to all major schools.

"In the grand jury's analysis," Robert I. White said, "I see a prime example of a brewing national disaster."

"The grand jury report was inaccurate, disregarded clear evidence and, if pursued in all its nuances, would eventually destroy not only Kent State but all major universities in America."

Commenting publicly for the first time since the grand jury returned its indictments last month, White said in a statement:

"Every one of the charges brought against us by the local grand jury has been made generally over the nation. But the direction of the findings transcends the Kent State administration. The charges are applicable to all higher education."

Twenty-five persons were indicted in the grand jury inquiry stemming from the four days of campus disorder last May that ended with the shooting deaths of four students and wounding of nine during a confrontation between students and National Guardsmen.

The grand jury exonerated the National Guard.

The jury, White said, placed the major responsibility for the disorders on the school administration.

"More particularly," he said, "they noted what they called 'general permissiveness' reflected in the nature of speakers, inability to control 'radical elements,' too much shared responsibility with the faculty, ineffectiveness of the student conduct code, tolerance of rallies and emphasis on dissent."

He termed the criticism about campus speakers "naive, fundamentally unworkable and ultimately undesirable."

Astronaut criticizes cut-back in program

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer
CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — As the Apollo 14 moon rocket rolled to the launch pad yesterday, one of the men who will fly the mission criticized the cut-back in America's space program. Astronaut Stuart A. Roosa, the Apollo 14 command module pilot, told newsmen: "I'm personally disappointed in the cut-back. I just don't understand it." "It's foolish after spending so much money on research and development to reduce the space program at a time when it is starting to pay dividends," Roosa said. "With the technology to be gained we could solve many of our problems on earth. But we are in danger of losing that technology." Since the Apollo 11 astronauts achieved man's first moon landing last year, the space agency budget has been slashed heavily and tens of thousands of space workers have been laid off. As a result, the Apollo moon flights were canceled and the four remaining missions stretched out. In addition to the schedule stretchout, the Apollo 14 launching has been delayed an additional four months because of the near-disaster of Apollo 13 last April.

OU employees approve pattern-setting contract

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Non-academic employees at Ohio University have approved a new contract that union leaders say will be used as a pattern for negotiations at four other state universities where contracts have expired. Agreement on the new two-year contract at Ohio University was reached Saturday, one week after the old contract expired. Local 1699 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, which represents 900 university employees, had been given authorization to call a strike if an agreement were not reached. Under the agreement, employees receive increased insurance benefits and the option of working two and one-half hours a week overtime for additional pay. A union demand for an agency shop, requiring all new employees to pay union fees, was settled with an agreement to reopen negotiations on the issue if the Ohio Legislature changes laws banning such shops for public employees, or the Ohio Supreme Court overrules the Legislature. Herschel Sigall, executive director of Council 21 of the federation, said the Ohio University agreement will be used as the basis for negotiations at Kent State, the University of Toledo, Wright State and Central State, where contracts for non-academic employees also expired October 31. A contract covering employees at Cleveland State University expires in January.

For KSU student president-

Clark to act as co-counsel

By THOMAS G. REES
Associated Press Writer

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Former U.S. Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark said yesterday that he would be co-counsel in defense of Kent State University student body president Craig Morgan, one of 25 persons indicted by a state grand jury which investigated disorders at Kent State last May.

Clark, chairman of the national advisory committee of the American Civil Liberties Union, said he was asked about 10 days ago if he would participate in Morgan's defense.

"I am pleased professionally as a lawyer to participate in this case," Clark said at a news conference in Cleveland. "I share the nation's grief and concern for Kent State...I want to see that the rule of law prevails."

It was noted at the conference that Morgan, charged with second-degree riot and active with the ACLU, was the only one of the 21 persons arrested by Monday afternoon who had sought ACLU counsel in his case. Morgan was a member of the charter board of the ACLU in Portage County, where Kent State is located.

Niki Z. Schwartz, Ohio ACLU chairman, is to be Morgan's other attorney, it was announced at the conference, called by the civil liberties group.

"This is a critically important case," Clark said. "About 8 million young Americans are in college today...They're a vital part of our national resource."

Clark described the grand jury's 18-page report on disturbances at Kent "an unusual grand jury report, an unhappy grand jury report." He added: "It's just very important that justice be done at this time...It's an opportunity a lawyer would cherish."

Morgan is charged with second-degree riot, a misdemeanor. The charge is based on four or more persons gathering in "violent and tumultuous" conduct.

The jury's report complained about lack of discipline at Kent State and was highly critical of the school's administration in its handling of students.

Morgan said at the conference that there was a "very dedicated feeling on the part of the students to help the 25 indicted and the 21 arrested so far." He said many students felt protests were now "dysfunctional" and felt the need to use the legal system.

It was announced that the rock music group, "Blood, Sweat and Tears" had volunteered its services to the ACLU and planned a November 14 benefit concert in Cleveland's Public Auditorium to help raise defense funds.

"Pep pill" epidemic started in Japan

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A Japanese scientist said the world's first epidemic of modern drug abuse was triggered by unused stockpiles of "speed pills" used to stimulate Japanese soldiers in World War II.

Presented Report

Dr. Masaaki Kato of the Japanese National Institute of Mental Health made the report in a paper presented at the International Symposium on Drug Abuse at the University of Michigan.

Kato explained that his country was left with huge stocks of amphetamines when the war ended. The drugs, he said, were issued to the air force and other Japanese military units to bolster their fighting spirit.

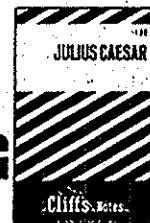

To Inspire Fighting

Kato added: "These companies tried to sell these large stocks of methamphetamines, propagandizing that this was a drug to inspire the fighting spirits in daily life, without knowing it had terrible dependency producing effects."

He said the drugs' benefits were extolled by returning war veterans and its use spread among the social fringe groups, such as "Bohemians, novelists, entertainers, racial minorities and juvenile delinquents."

15,800,000 COLLEGE STUDENTS CAN'T BE WRONG

By conservative estimate more than fifteen million college students have used Cliff's Notes since we became America's first literary study aid. This preference continues to build — for two big reasons:

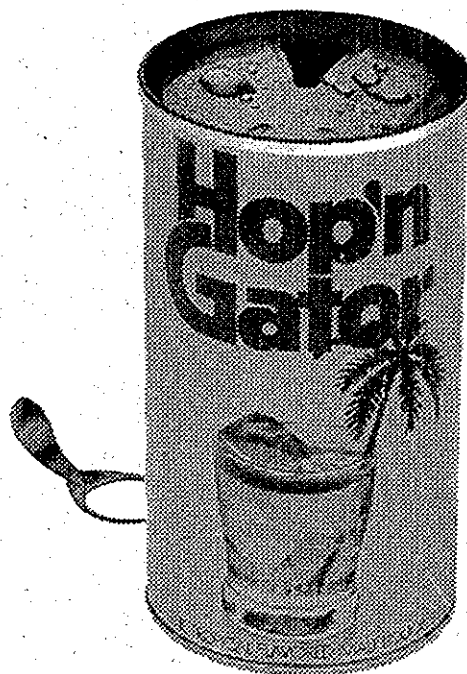

- 1 / QUALITY — The easy-to-understand commentary and explanation you get from Cliff's Notes result from painstaking work by our board of authors. Predominantly Ph.D.'s, these scholars are specially selected for their knowledge of particular works and for their ability to make these works meaningful to you.
- 2 / AVAILABILITY — Cliff's Notes concentrate on giving you all the plays and novels most frequently assigned in college. If your dealer is temporarily out of the title you need, ask him to call us on his special "Hot Line."

Buy Cliff's Notes today — they're a bargain in understanding college literature assignments.

Some light for Dike

Now that Coach Dwight Beede has referred to our editorial of October 23 as a "punch in the dark," we think it is about time to that we present some hard, cold facts.

Fact: YSU has lost seven straight games this season.

Fact: YSU has won five games in the last three years.

Fact: There has been no significant change in YSU football since Dike Beede has been coach.

Perhaps we were too gracious in our previous editorial about Coach Beede. We tried to go easy on the man in hope that everyone would remember the legend for what it once was. That is impossible to do now, for loosing may become legendary in YSU football.

Coach Beede cited "poor public relations" as the cause for the tarnished image of football here. However, the consistent losing of his teams has been the worst public relations of all.

It is not human to degrade things, as Coach Beede says, but rather to improve them. We, as students, as well as many other community followers, would like to see YSU football improved.

No one is impressed by consistent losing. Not recruits, not fans, not other teams, not even coaches. Coach Beede would be foolish to think that he is making YSU into a respected team by scheduling and losing to powerful teams.

We are tired of being subtle. For too long that hasn't changed anything. In the best interests of the students, the community and of the team, we ask that Coach Beede step down.

Letters to the Editor Feels students lose Jambar respect

To the editor of the Jambar:

Just a response to your editorial entitled Losing in the November 3 issue, concerning the "relevant issues" being "shrouded by politics." May I remind you that the debate was centered around the speeches of Michael Harshman and Bruce Steikler, both advocates of allocating funds to the Kent State Defense Fund. Speeches in which every major political figure was ridiculed from LBJ to President Nixon all the way down to the Portage County Grand Jury and even back to Youngstown State University "out in the middle of nowhere." It was not the opponents of the issue that brought in "politics", we were merely responding to what was previously said. There was no pre-meeting coordination of views from the opponents—only honest and sincere response to the questions and insinuations of the two well-written speeches.

As for the idea of losing respect, I feel that the student body lost only the respect of the Jambar. That in itself is enough said.

I would like to close with remarks directed to Michael Miller. The 25 persons indicted (8 were verified students, one is up for his third drug charge) are not victims of injustice. These people were only indicted, that means that the people of the Grand Jury felt that there was sufficient evidence to convict them of the crime with which they were charged. Their guilt remains to be seen, until that time they are innocent.

Financial problems?-

Scholarships, grants, loans available for students

Youngstown State University students having financial problems regarding their education should not despair, reports John E. Wales, III, director of student financial aids at YSU.

According to Wales, there are scholarships, grants and loans still available for students who can qualify. These forms of financial assistance may be used starting with the winter quarter, 1971, through spring quarter.

"If a student has definite financial problems," says Wales,

"a trip to the Student Financial Aids Office could be well worth his time." In determining financial aid, the office gives consideration to each applicant's financial need, academic achievement, character and promise. Except in cases of scholarship awards, the total amount of financial aid extended to any one student does not exceed his established financial need.

Because scholarship, loan and grant funds are usually limited, a student's entire need for funds often cannot be met from one source so that several types of financial aid may be combined. It isn't uncommon for a student, particularly if he has a large financial need, to receive assistance in the form of a combination of the various programs available.

"Since each student's situation is different," says Wales, "every application is carefully analyzed and considered. Requests for financial aid and financial statements are confidential in nature and are so treated within the University."

Wales has one final reminder for students seeking financial assistance. "Do it now," he said. "We have mountains of paperwork to complete on each applicant and the sooner we can get started on the application, the better."

At next Skeggs lecture-

Dr. Rene Dubos to speak

The world-renowned ecologist and winner of the Pulitzer Prize for his book on man and the environment, So Human An Animal, Dr. Rene Dubos will be the next guest speaker in Youngstown State University's Artist Lecture Series:

One of the most popular speakers in the country on environmental problems, Dr. Dubos is scheduled to appear next Thursday, November 19, at 2 p.m. in Strouss Auditorium on the University campus.

Dr. Dubos has been the moving force behind the nationwide environmental Teach-Ins and is a member of The Citizen's Advisory Committee on Environmental Quality to President Nixon.

A professor of environmental biomedicine at The Rockefeller University in New York City, Dr. Dubos is the recipient of numerous awards for his scientific research, including the Lasker Award in Public Health, the American Medical Association Award and the Arches of Science Award of the Pacific Science Center.

In addition to his active concern with the effects that environmental factors exert on human life, he is the man who first demonstrated the feasibility of obtaining germfighting drugs from microbes over 20 years ago. This pioneer work paved the way for subsequent research leading to the development of other antibiotics.

The former president of the Scientist's Institute for Public Information, he still serves as a member of its board. Dr. Dubos has worked continuously at Rockefeller University, except for a two-year period on the faculty of the Harvard University Medical School.

The lecture is free and open to the public.

Registration adequate according to Registrar

Registrar Mrs. Mary Smith thinks that "the system of registration here at YSU is the best possible system for our urban type of university."

Registration material is currently available for students for the winter quarter registration. Late registration will take place on December 5th and January 4th.

Mrs. Smith said yesterday that "here at YSU when you leave the registration line at least you know what classes you have." This gives you (the student) the chance to get your books, plan your rides and job hours for the coming quarter.

At Miami University and Ohio University where they have the new computer registration they are having great difficulty organizing schedules, according to Mrs. Smith. Students are very displeased with the new system because they don't know if they got the classes they wanted or not until they return to school, she said.

To alleviate the congestion at registration Mrs. Smith suggests that the students have all registration material prepared such as permits to register, ID cards, class schedules, bulletins and scan sheets. Students should have their advisor's signature and register on time according to their hours earned.

To freshmen and sophomores, Mrs. Smith suggests that they have a list of alternate classes that they can take in case their first preference is closed.

Geography Dept. to sponsor luncheon meeting

The Youngstown State University geography department will host a luncheon meeting of the Organization of Ohio Geography Chairmen Thursday, November 12, on the University campus.

Representing 20 departments of geography from Colleges across across the state, the members and consultants attending are from Ohio State University, Kent State University, Central State University, Bowling Green State University, Ohio University, Miami University, University of Cincinnati, University of Akron, University of Toledo, Cleveland State University, Wittenburg College, Dayton University, Ohio Wesleyan University and Youngstown State.

Members of the organization are concerned with the role of geography in public schools and universities, and in the development of regional, urban and environmental programs in the state.

Pick The Winner

Games for this week:

	Your Pick
Gus. Adolphus at YSU
Ohio State at Purdue
Kansas State at Nebraska
Stanford at Air Force
Syracuse at West Virginia
Georgia at Auburn
Notre Dame at Georgia Tech
Princeton at Yale
Cleveland at Cincinnati
Oakland at Denver

Professor William Barsh, an Engineering Technology professor, is the second winner and the first faculty member to win the Jambor's "Pick the Winner" contest. Professor Barsh picked all ten winning teams in last week-end's gridiron battles offered in the contest. A total of 99 entries were received.

This week's choices again include some of the most interesting games in the country. Once again arm-chair experts will have a shot at predicting the outcome of several college and pro games.

The rules are simple. Each contestant must submit only one entry. He must designate the winner of the specified game in the box provided. He must pick the point spread of the game designated at the bottom of the form in order to break ties. All entries must be accompanied by name, telephone number and major for students, or position of faculty and administration. Entries are limited to faculty, administration and student body of Youngstown State University. All entries will be checked. Entry deadline is noon Friday of that week. All decisions by the judges are final.

Winners will receive the 1971 Playboy desk calendar.

TIE BREAKER: The score of the YSU-Gustavus Adolphus game will be YSU-----GA-----

to have a statement later this week.

It has also been rumored for some weeks that there has been dissention between the coach and members of his team. Six members of the team quit prior to Mr. Johnson's resignation.

President Pugsley pointed out that "the number of swimming scholarships was known to him (Mr. Johnson) late last spring, and he undertook his coaching responsibilities with that knowledge this fall.

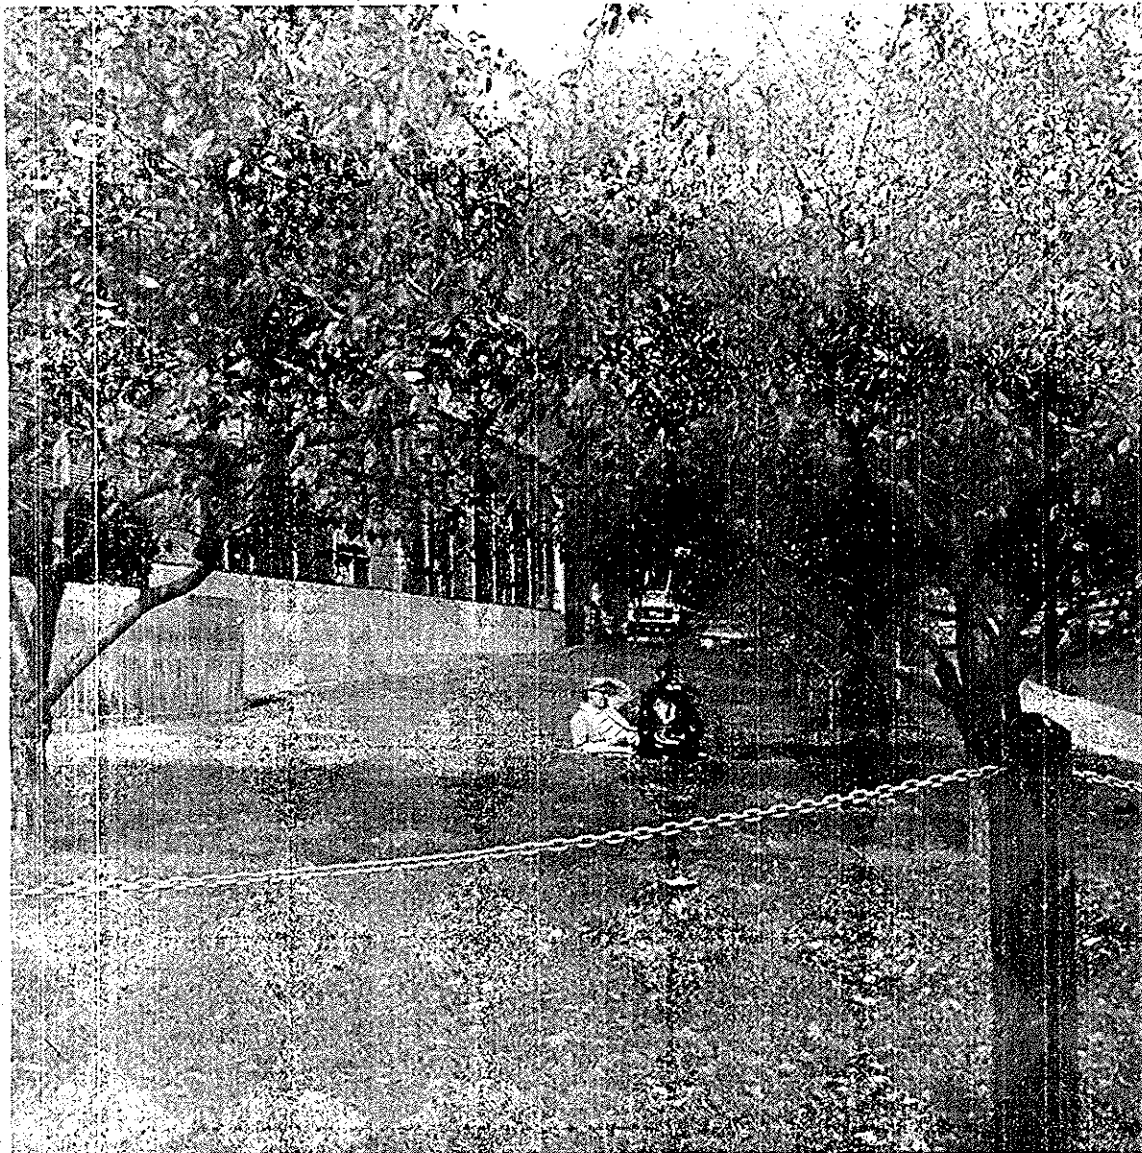

The President made no mention of the rumored dissention. He added, "Mr. Johnson has contributed effectively to the swimming program at YSU. For six years, two as a student swim coach and four as a faculty swim coach, his teams have competed successfully against such major schools as Pitt, Kentucky, West Virginia and Kent. Mr. Johnson now states, "Youngstown State University is not now, nor will it be in the near future, ready to play a major role in a nationally recognized athletic program." With this lack of confidence the University disagrees. The inclusion of the Olympic Pool in The Beeghly Health and Physical Education Center is evidence of the University's support."

The University will employ a new coach effective for 1971-1972, President Pugsley said.

Is that OK?

INDIAN SUMMER - A couple sitting on the lawn outside the university library take advantage of the last remnants of pleasant weather before the onslaught of Youngstown's brisker winter weather.

Soc. Prof. analyzes archaic textiles

The unique and detailed endeavor to study archaic textiles does not daunt Dr. James M. Adovasio, assistant professor of sociology and anthropology at YSU, who is currently engaged in analyzing the oldest archaeological textile materials recovered from South America.

The textiles, which include pieces of baskets, netting, and string estimated to be 8,700 years old, were sent to Dr. Adovasio by Dr. Thomas Lynch of Cornell University, who recovered them while conducting excavations last summer in the Guitarrero Cave in Peru.

Dr. Adovasio will compare these textiles with some from North America estimated to be over 9000 years old, which he previously analyzed under a National Science Foundation grant.

A variety of techniques will be used which he devised while working on the North American textiles several years ago. He will attempt to determine the manufacturing techniques of the textiles, changes through time of the techniques, of what the material is composed, and then correlate the changes from area to area.

After Christmas, Dr. Adovasio plans to publish the results of his findings.

Recently elected a Fellow of Anthropological Association on the basis of his contributions to the field of anthropology, Dr. Adovasio is a native of Youngstown and a 1962 graduate of Cardinal Mooney High School. He received a bachelor of arts and a master's equivalent from the University of Arizona, where he was a Rhodes Scholarship Fellow and an NDEA Fellow. He received his Ph.D. in anthropology from the University of Utah, where his dissertation was concerned with the archaeological and climatological reconstruction of Egypt.

YSU given access to "mud lot" for parking area

Youngstown State University has been given right of access for the "mud lot" parking area bordered by Fifth Ave., Arlington, Elm and the Beeghly Physical Education Building from the Youngstown Urban Renewal Agency, according to Youngstown State University President Albert L. Pugsley.

During winter quarter this area will come under the authority of the security department with controlled access, patrolling and a $15 fee, demonstrating their control. Though the University does not own the land, it will be fully responsible for it.

Students will be able to park in the lot the remainder of this quarter without a parking sticker or the $1.00 a day fee. The sign which was posted stipulating these conditions will come down until winter quarter.

Penguin leaders still unchanged

Youngstown State's statistical leaders remain unchanged according to the seven-game Penguin statistics released today.

Fullback Rosie Blackwell, who picked up 88 yards and two TDs in last Saturday night's 42-14 loss to Akron, has gone over the 500-yard mark with 562 yards. Blackwell, a junior from Cleveland J.F. Kennedy, also leads YSU rushers in attempts (111), touchdowns (6) and average gain per carry (5.1).

Ron Jaworski, sophomore quarterback from Lackawanna, N.Y., is still the top passer with 86 of 177 for 1,191 yards and seven TDs. Jaworski has completed 48.5 percent of his tosses and has been intercepted 10 times. Denny Klembara, junior from Beaver Local, has hit on 52 of 114 tries for 583 yards and three scores. He's throwing at 45.6 rate with four interceptions. Jaworski is also first in total offense with 1,164 yards.

Bob Ferranti, sophomore split end from Boardman, has moved to within one catch of the one-season reception record with 42 grabs for 705 yards and four TDs. Dave DelSignore caught 43 in 1968 and picked up 843 yards on receptions in 1969. DelSignore and Paul Ceremuga are both tied for TD catches with eight.

Grid championship now decided

The football championships in both the independent and fraternity divisions were settled this past weekend.

On Saturday the skies were clear, but the muddy field conditions turned the game between the Vikings and P.E. Majors into a defensive battle, with the Vikings coming out on top 7-0. The only score was a touchdown by Viking quarterback Chuck Bush. Nick Gesacion added the extra point.

On Sunday, games were played to determine the 3rd place winner and champion in the fraternity division. In the battle for 3rd place Theta Xi down by one point at the half, bounced back with 4 touchdowns in the 2nd half for a decisive 33-7 rout of Phi Kappa Tau. The championship game between Alpha Phi Delta and Theta Chi was a close hard-fought contest dominated for the most part by the defenses. Alpha Phi Delta eventually won 12-6 on touchdowns by Bob Terlecky and Tony Saadey. Don Barber scored the only touchdown for Theta Chi.

Classifieds Work

The Penguins set three new one-season marks in losing to Akron including most passing attempts. YSU has thrown 291 times this year to better the former record of 281 set in 1968. The Penguins have also surrendered the most points (289) and lost the most games

(7). The Zips cashed in on three YSU mistakes, forcing the Penguins to play catch-up all evening. Akron took a 37-7 half-time lead after three of the scores were set up by a blocked punt, interception and fumble recovery.

Catch—YSU Penguinman

by Skip Miller and Carl Basic

It was a typical day at YSU, everyone was involved with their own activities that involved simple diversionary tactics of how to avoid going to classes and still graduate.

Clark Barr, a model YSU student, was in his Biology class calmly dissecting the remains of three students that were found in the basement of Kilcawley, apparently the result of last quarter's registration.

With his supersonic hearing, Clark picked up the distant screams of a student in distress. Putting down his scalpel and jumping to his feet, he declared, "someone is in distress." To which the teacher replied, "yes, and it's going to be you if you don't sit down and shut up."

Clark, famous for his quick thinking, then asked to be excused to go to the restroom.

"Is it an emergency?" The teacher asked.

"Sure is."

"Ok then, but hurry back."

Dashing into the men's room, Clark quickly ripped off his clothes and transformed into PENGUINMAN. A fellow student who was observing the event asked what he was doing.

"I'm PENGUINMAN," Clark clamly replied.

"Sure, well how about flushing the toilet fellow, it's guys like you that give YSU a bad name."

"But I must dash to aid a fellow student in distress."

"Excuses, excuses, you probably write all those dirty things on the walls too."

"No, I don't go in for that kind of activity."

Clark rushed out of the restroom and into a broom closet, right into the arms of a 250 pound janitor.

"What do you want?"

"I want to jump out of the window."

"What's a matter, you nuts or something?"

"No, I must aid a student in distress."

"Well, you ain't gonna jump out of any window here."

"Why not?"

"Because there ain't none."

"Good reason. I'll just have to find a room with one."

Searching for an empty room, Clark ran smack dab into the one person that he didn't want to see, Lois Love.

"PENGUINMAN, I want your body."

"Not now, Lois, I have to help a fellow student in distress."

"That's what you always say. How about me, how do you think I feel. Everytime I get you alone and start making passionate love to you, you jump up and run off into the night."

"Sorry, Lois, but this is a real emergency."

Clark immediately turned and ran down the hall, his cape ruffling in the breeze. (Which is very hard to do because there is no breeze in the hall. And besides that, he wasn't wearing a cape.) Arriving at the scene of the distressed student, Clark saw a cop writing out a ticket while a student was down on his knees begging for forgiveness.

"What seems to be the problem here?" echoed the bird man.

The police officer replied, "This is clearly a violation of university policy. This unruly young man doesn't have a parking sticker properly affixed on the windshield of his car."

"But this is an empty lot."

"That's beside the point, a faculty member might arrive at any moment and need a place to park."

"Oh, I see."

Clark turned and started back to his class. It was a pitiful sight to watch as the man of the bird walked sadly dejected.

He mumbled to himself, "What can I do? Me, PENGUINMAN, who can eat in the cafeteria without getting heartburn, register without getting the shaft, and capable of outrunning the bandits in the parking lots, I find myself powerless against the bureaucrats."

"But, I shall rise again. I will make them all respect me. I will get revenge. For body weight and strength do not always win out."

What will PENGUINMAN come up with? How can he hammer the system? Watch for the next exciting, thrill-packed episode of PENGUINMAN!

Minorities interested in Broadcasting-

Training program to begin

A Minority Training Program, a new, experimental, non-credit program for persons of minority groups interested in broadcasting, will begin within two weeks according to the Department of Continuing Education.

Mr. Stephen J. Groevich, Director of Radio Broadcasting at Y.S.U., who developed the program and Dr. Lawrence E. Looby, Chairman of the Department of Continuing Education, who coordinated it, will co-direct the classes as a community service of Y.S.U. and the area Broadcasting Stations.

The program, recommended by the Black Broadcasting Coalition, was underwritten by the area radio stations and is costing them $13,000.

Its purpose will be to train people of minority groups for jobs in Radio and Television with, as Dr. Looby says: "A university caliber program in which students are able to achieve as much as possible but, will not be hemmed in by a grade."

The program consists of 2 different curriculums. One will be a program for the announcing-programming area of broadcasting. The other will be training for first-class licensed technician for radio and television. WYSU and the area stations will provide for training facilities.

Both courses will be broken into 3 quarters with a total of 45 hours. These hours will be distributed over a 30 week period, making classes 15 hours per week.

To qualify for the programs,

Prof. Ives injured in car accident

Associate Professor David S. Ives, of the Department of English, remained last night in serious condition at St. Thomas Hospital in Akron, where he was admitted early Saturday following a one-car accident on the highway from Akron to Youngstown.

Mr. Ives, who teaches the Humanities courses and is a classical scholar, is not expected to resume his classes this quarter. Replacements assigned by Dr. Margaret Pfau, English Department chairman, are as follows:

Humanities 631, (Mythology in Literature), Dr. Robert R. Hare; Humanities 830, (Older Classics A), Dr. Lewis Rosenthal; English 610, (World Literature), Dr. Mary Virginia Hare; and Greek 501, (Elementary Greek), Dr. Robert H. Secrist.

students must be recommended by the Black Broadcasting Coalition, YSU or a commercial broadcasting station in the Youngstown area.

A limit of 10 students has been set for the classes which will be held in rooms 401 and 402 of Jones Hall from 7:00 to 10:00 p.m.

To facilitate area for the record library and production offices, WYSU has acquired an additional room in the Arts and Sciences Building.
