

Night parking on Bryson St.
may present potential danger
for students

If you have trouble parking you might consider going to school at night. Night students may, it seems, park almost anywhere without fear of getting tickets.

It was learned last week that the Youngstown Police Department Traffic Division does not have sufficient personnel to patrol the University area for parking offenders after 6 p.m. As a result night students have been parking on both sides of Bryson Street where it is illegal.

The potential hazards of this illegal parking are many and one was realized the other night when a student who stepped from between parked cars was hit and hospitalized.

James C. Cliff, student in the Technical and Community College, was struck by a car Tuesday evening in the area in question. The driver of the car, who was travelling the line of parked cars on Bryson, said Cliff stepped between the line of parked cars on Bryson and said he simply couldn't see Cliff in time to stop.

Neither Cliff nor the driver was cited. Cliff was released from St. Elizabeth's Hospital yesterday after treatment for minor injuries.

If an emergency were to occur on or near campus where fire and emergency vehicles were needed, it would be nearly impossible to bring in the necessary equipment. As Bryson Street exists with bumper to bumper parking on both sides of the street, only a single narrow lane is available to traffic of any kind. Students have been parking in front

Possibility still exists for med school at YSU

There is an "absolute possibility" that YSU may still obtain the medical school planned for northeastern Ohio, according to Harry Meshel, chairman of the Med School for Youngstown committee.

The office of the Board of Regents confirmed last Monday that they would propose that the facility be located in Akron. Akron and Dayton were named as med school sites in the Regents' master plan.

Meshel stated yesterday that the Board of Regents' Revised Master Plan findings are not conclusive. Although the Board of Regents' suggestions do carry some authority when presented to the Ohio legislature, the decisions on all matters is entirely up to the legislature and the Governor of Ohio, Meshel said.

Meshel said that he and several others on the committee are planning to attend the open hearings scheduled for next week to discuss the Revised Master Plan.

Mr. Meshel intends to present a plan for Medical Education in Ohio which goes beyond that proposed by the Ohio Board of Regents. He also stated that the local committee would suggest the location of the Med School near Youngstown but not necessarily in Youngstown proper.

Crishon to veto measure for NAACP workshop

Student Government President Dan Crishon will veto a bill that would provide a $1200 allocation for a second NAACP workshop.

In an open letter to the students, which appears on page 5 of the Jambar, Crishon said he "cannot, with a clear conscience" let the NAACP allocation become law. Crishon cited poor planning of the initial event and a high per capita expense as the major reasons for his veto. He did say that he would support a more organized plan for the program.

Crishon will also veto a similar request for money by the YSU French Club.

Council passed both measures at their meeting last Monday. The NAACP vote was decided by a tie-breaking vote by former Student Council chairman Don Leone. It was Leone's last session as chairman. Council now has the option to pass the measure by a two-thirds vote over Crishon's veto. Newly elected Council members, who were seated at Monday's session, are not expected to over-ride the veto.

The workshop, which was held November 21, attracted only 60 high school students. About 500 were expected for the program.

Money for the first workshop was included in Council's budget for this year. The budget stipulated that money for the next two workshops would be drawn from the Council's unallocated fund only after Council had evaluated the success of the first program.

Carnegie Commission of Higher Ed. see finance problems as 'depression'

NEW YORK (AP) — American colleges and universities, torn between racing costs and joggling incomes, face financial problems "serious enough to be called a depression," the Carnegie Commission of Higher Education said yesterday.

Putting a national focus on a situation that worries many educators more than student rebellion, a commission report gave this estimate derived from a weighted sample of 41 closely studied institutions:

Some 450 colleges and universities, enrolling 21 per cent of America's student population, are in such financial difficulty that they have had to curtail important services. Another 1000, with 56 per cent of students, are headed for such troubles in the near future.

The report, compiled by Earl F. Cheit, former vice chancellor of the University of California at Berkeley, named some of the country's wealthiest and most prestigious institutions from its test sample, including the University of California at Berkeley and the Universities of Chicago, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, and Oregon. It said the situation was fast becoming worse as cost increases continue to outpace income increases.

Releasing the report at a news conference, the commission chairman, Clark Kerr, said he did not "foresee any of the major institutions in the United States closing their doors." But Cheit said that "several of them will have to change profoundly unless solutions are found," and more governmental aid will be a necessity.

Cheit said the most optimistic administrators see the crisis lasting into the middle 1970's.

Trouble was more likely for private institutions than public, urban than rural schools, universities than liberal arts colleges, the report said. Northern schools were said to be in generally worse shape than those of other regions.

The term "in financial difficulty" does not reflect on a school's academic worth, the report said, and might indicate that the school is doing more than others to bring income and expenditures into line.

Clearly there is as great a danger for emergency vehicles and pedestrians during the night as well as during the day. However, the city police have been unable to provide adequate personnel to protect the welfare of the University personnel at night and students would rather contribute to a dangerous situation than park in nearby lots with available space.

Canadian terrorists surrender British envoy to Cuban delegation

MONTREAL (AP) — French-Canadian terrorists surrendered kidnapped British envoy James R. Cross to a Cuban government delegation yesterday, placing the Briton on freedom's doorstep after 60 days of captivity.

Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau said final details were being arranged for Cross' release and a safe passage flight to Cuba for as many as seven accused terrorists.

Cross, 49, the British trade commissioner in Montreal, was kidnapped October 5 by the Quebec Liberation Front — FLQ — who demanded that the government release a score of "political prisoners" and pay a $500,000 ransom in gold bullion. FLQ terrorists struck again five days later, kidnapping Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte and strangling him Oct. 17.

The dramatic break for Cross came Thursday morning as police surrounded the suburban house where he and two of his abductors were waiting.

They were driven in a police convoy to a rendezvous with Cuban government representatives at the island site of Montreal's 1967 world's fair.

Trudeau told the House of Commons he had spoken with Cross by telephone and that Cross was in the "technical hands" of the Cubans.

Cuba had agreed earlier to a Cross also spoke by telephone with his wife, Barbara, in Switzerland, and with Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa.

Mrs. Cross, who went to Berne to stay with friends during the two-month ordeal, said: "It's wonderful that he's out for Christmas."

Bourassa said Cross was in "excellent shape and excellent spirits" and added: "He told me it's the first time he has seen the sun in eight weeks."

The terrorists who were with Cross were identified as Marc Carbonneau, 37, a cab driver, and Jacques Lanctot, 25.

Carbonneau had been sought for both the Cross and Laporte abductions. Lanctot was wanted in an alleged plot to kidnap the Israeli trade commissioner in Montreal last March.

Trudeau said negotiations for the safe passage to Cuba of the "alleged kidnapers" was proceeding and involved a maximum of seven persons — three men found with Cross, the wife and child of one of the men and two other persons having "immediate links" with the Cross case.

Trudeau and Quebec provincial officials gave this account of Cross' release to the Cubans:

Police and soldiers with bayonet-tipped rifles surrounded late Wednesday a modest three-story house in Montreal

North after receiving a "series of informations."

A pipe containing a message agreeing to negotiate was thrown from an upper window.

Buildings in the area were evacuated and police cut off electricity.

Yesterday morning, two lawyers, Bernard Mergler and Robert Demers, were permitted through the cordon.

Then Cross, Carbonneau, Lanctot and the attorneys emerged.

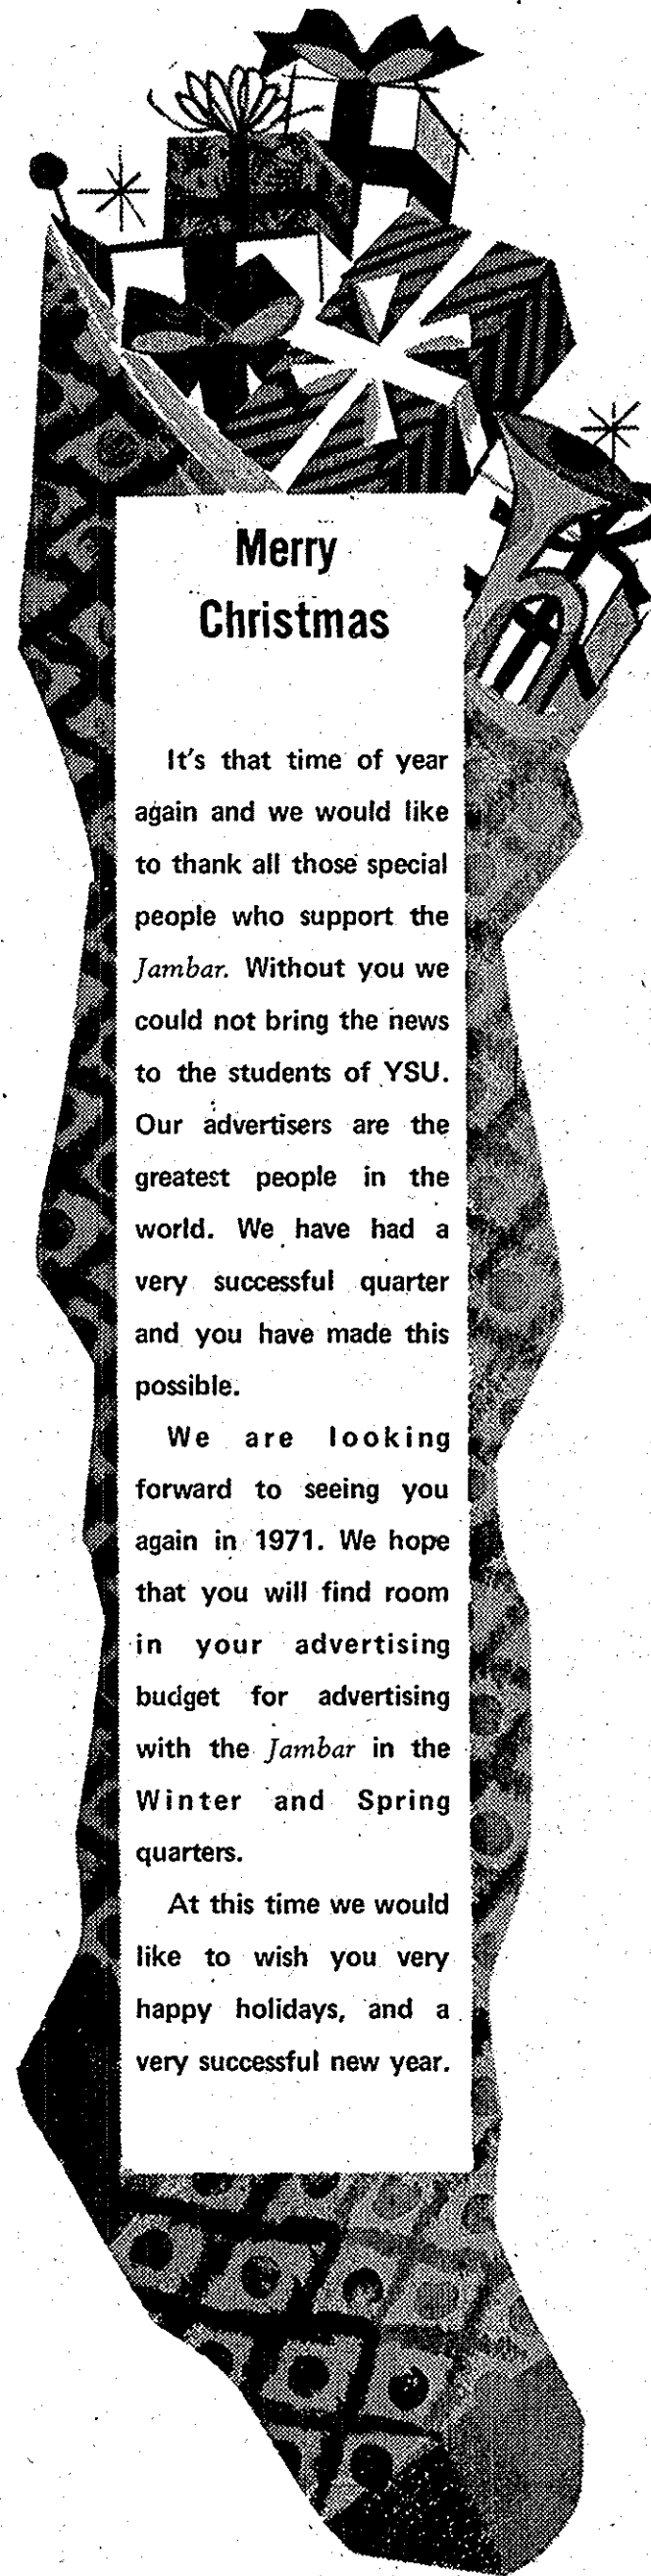

Cross looked straight ahead, but "Carbonneau had a big grin," a police sergeant said, and wanted to use his own car — a 1962 Chrysler.

They climbed into the car and sped toward the Expo 67 site, escorted by 50 to 60 police motorcyclists and with intersections blocked off ahead.

Ricardo Escartin, acting Cuban consul-general in Montreal, was waiting at the Canadian Pavilion when the convoy arrived from the hideout seven miles away.

Justice Minister John Turner said in Ottawa he was "relatively certain" that the terrorists found with Cross had not been associated with the kidnaping and murder of Laporte.

He added that those accepting safe passage to Cuba in return for Cross "are exiles for life" from Canada.

Resolution

The Christmas and New Year's season brings with it an atmosphere of good-natured wishes and well-meaning resolutions. People tend to disregard the problems and issues of the times in the bustle and spirit of the season, and prefer to let the pressing issues "wait til next year."

We can't help being moved by the holiday spirit, but at the same time, we can't ignore some of the existing situations here. At this time we find the need to play Scrooge, so to speak, so that Student Government, the administration, the faculty, and the student body, can all resolve themselves to making 1971 a more meaningful year.

We suggest that the following New Year's resolutions be adopted:

That the University Senate resolve itself to increasing its student membership to 12 and giving students voting privileges. Such action would make for proper representation of a "university" legislature.

That the YSU Library resolve itself to functioning as a university library rather than as a distribution agency for a limited selection of books and magazines.

That University Security resolve itself to the consideration of the security and rights of students.

That the administration resolve itself to taking realistic steps to improve dreadful parking conditions.

That Student Council resolve to dissolve.

That students at this University resolve themselves to anything.

This newspaper cannot and will not be satisfied until these significant measures are taken. It is our resolution to do anything in our power to see these changes through.

Wants action taken on night parking

To the editor of the Jambar:

I have a complaint to air and I'm sure many fellow students feel the same way: the "Parking Problem." About 5000 $15 stickers are sold for 1500 spaces. The enrollment is 15,000+ and most commute. Now, where to park one's car. It is not safe to park far from the main campus - especially at night. There have been several incidents of assault already this year. But, as always, the Police Dept. is efficient in tagging illegal parkers. But, what about the female students? Should we park several blocks away on dark streets and ask to be raped? It seems that this is what our Police Dept. wishes. My question is why can't parking on these side streets be made legal - especially at night.

The time has come for some definite action to be taken. What are the city fathers and our fine administration waiting for - a murder?? Action needs to be taken now before something really tragic happens.

Tells fraternity houses to lock up

To the editor of the Jambar:

Your article "Brothers sleep as frat house is robbed" did not surprise me in the least. It is now a matter of time before these sleeping brothers of most of the fraternities wake up and find they are sleeping on a cellar foundation because their house was moved away during the night. I have on many occasions been called to the various fraternities to answer minor disturbances. And in most instances, I was able to walk through the complete facility, unnoticed, until I could find someone to explain my presence. This particular fraternity was No. 1 in this category.

Every "cheap burglar" has made the Y.S.U. area it's "happy hunting" ground. The student has given an engraved invitation by his apathy, carelessness and laziness. He (or she) leaves clothing, books, stereo cartridges, purses, etc., lying on the seats of their autos inviting theft. Doors are left unlocked. Autos are parked in unlighted areas. Some students are so "stoned out" they cannot remember if they were leaving or coming into the area. Who suffers the result of this laxity? We all do. We suffer in increased insurance costs. We suffer in increased crime statistics. We suffer in reputation.

Another facet of condoning this pilferage is the fact that students are creating a market for merchandise stolen from other students. This is evidenced by the great demand for "hot stereos and cartridges" in the Y.S.U. area. You cannot keep your right hand from knowing what your left hand is doing. So, shape up, sober up and above all, LOCK UP.

Dissatisfied with music on WYSU

To the editor of the Jambar:

Not too long ago on this campus a movement was afoot to gain support for the creation of "The Voice of YSU," WYSU FM. Surprisingly, that movement actually achieved something, we got the radio station. However, in my estimation, since its birth, WYSU, "The voice of YSU," has had a very chronic sore throat.

Considering that the 14000 students are an important part of the University, I find that WYSU is not speaking my language. And, I doubt that it is speaking the language of all but a minute few of the students at YSU through its format.

I would like to suggest that minor "oral" surgery be performed by those in the position to do so. Let's see if WYSU can really speak for and to its backbone, the STUDENTS. This would include the programming of the sounds of today, not yesterday. Perhaps they could sneak in "The Who," "Bread," "Creedence Clearwater,"

"Chicago," "Blood, Sweat, and Tears," "Crosby, Stills, Nash, and Young," James Taylor; Wilson Pickett; et al. in between the hours upon hours of Bach, Mozart, and Handel, et. al.

At least, this would be a step in the right direction in living up to its slogan as being "the voice of YSU."

Open Letter to YSU

An Open Letter To The Students of YSU

Much time and thought has been given to the NAACP allocation which was requested in the amount of $1200.

I have felt and still feel, that the workshop program would be a significant step in the direction of strengthening ties between the University and its surrounding community.

Yet, I cannot, with a clear conscience, let this proposal become law for two reasons.

First, the $20 allocation per student participating in the last program was too expensive. We are not working out of a county or city budget. While I feel that University-Community relations are important, I feel that a $1200 allocation for 60 participants is far too costly when 500 participants were originally assumed.

Secondly, the planning of the last program did not provide the necessary information as to where the money was being spent. I looked the other way as many procedures were violated knowing that this was the first undertaking of this kind and hoping that the end result of the program would make up for these discrepancies.

I would back such a program if a more precise plan for the program were developed. The vagueness of the future and the failures of the past force me to make this decision.

I certainly feel that Student Council made a good decision, but a much too unrealistic one.

Dan Crishon
President
Student Government

Letters to the Editor

Tells Crishon his "day will come"

To the editor of the Jambar:

It has been brought to my attention and to the attention of many other Blacks that the power to hold another workshop lies in the hands of Dan Crishon. I am hoping he has given a lot of thought to his answer on the subject. The workshop is important to Blacks on Youngstown Campus for it is hoped that through these workshops a more aware Black will enter Youngstown State's educational walls.

The veto of such a measure would prove to the 700 or more Blacks on campus that rather than being a service to the University the Student Council is a threat to it. The University has remained relatively calm this year; but if the Student Council no longer treats Blacks as part of this University, then there should be no Student Council or University.

It was said that approximately $19 was spent on each participant at the last workshop, but then how do we judge some one's educational achievement by the amount spent on an education or by how much one learned in receiving their education. If Dan is using this $19 figure then he is guilty of this error. As students at this University, do we measure our knowledge by how much we've learned?

I took part in the last workshop and left with more insight into the problem of obtaining a better education and judging by the response of those students who also participated I can safely say they did also.

As for Dan Crishon, all I can say is either he is an extremely ignorant person or he is unconcerned about the Black man's plight. In either case, I say to him watch out, for your day will surely come.

New bookstore to be 4 times larger

A new bookstore to be located in the YSU Student Center will be four times the size of the present bookstore, according to Dr. John J. Coffelt, vice-president for administrative affairs.

Other recently completed plans of the center will begin construction immediately following the April bidding of area contractors, include social and cultural facilities, food service space, staff offices and seminar rooms in addition to the bookstore.

The three-phase expansion of Kilcauley Student Center will remodel the existing crowded dining areas and construct an addition to house new programs needed by faculty and students.

The new bookstore, 14 thousand sq. ft. of Phase I, connected by a corridor leading from the Center to the store, will have more text books, new paperbacks and complete self-service. Other miscellaneous items such as cards, a smoke shop and candy, have been proposed for the convenience of the students.

Phase II will be an expansion of Phase I and will include a small auditorium.

Phase III will consist entirely of remodeling the present student center to provide more seating area, and additional private dining rooms, service counter and lobby.

Presently, the Architectural firm of Damon, Worly, Cady and Kirk and Associates, is sketching the working drawings of the Center which includes the mechanical organization of the building, materials used in the construction and other important factors. These are hoped to be completed by March 1971.

Because the State will not finance the building of a student center, the building program was delayed until sufficient funds were available from the student general fees, the bookstore, and campus food services.

The expansion of the University Center will be on land known as Urban Renewal Project 87, which is in the process of being acquired from the City of Youngstown through its Urban Renewal Agency.

Mr. Porter Butts, Director of the Wisconsin Union and nationally recognized consultant of Student Centers, was employed as consultant to work closely with the Development Committee to determine the needed facilities and the priority of each.

The original Kilcauley Student Center Development Committee, composed of students, faculties and administrative officials was appointed by President Albert L. Pugsley, January 10, 1968.

Plans are being made by the MTA to make the student fare tickets available at the MTA garage at 604 Mahoning Avenue.

Radio broadcaster must be well-rounded person

Stephen J. Grcevich, Director of Radio Broadcasting for WYSU, yesterday stated that one must be a "well-rounded" person to become a good radio broadcaster.

According to Mr. Grcevich, a WYSU applicant must pass a FCC examination and obtain his third class broadcasting license. However, these are the minimum requirements. Mr. Grcevich went on to say that many individual qualifications are also necessary factors in determining a good broadcaster.

The first and most important necessity is good reading ability. Mr. Grcevich said that this skill stems from pre-school days and cannot be easily taught to an older person. Also, he added, "Broadcasting demands the skill and effectiveness of reading that is required in no other profession with the possible exception of acting."

Mr. Grcevich then consulted a list of qualifications for broadcasting. He read that "the student of announcing needs a broad cultural and informational background. He needs to know at least a little about a great many things. This is because of the wide diversity of subjects the announcer encounters."

Also, Mr. Grcevich said, "A good man must understand the subject he is presenting. Too many announcers are just reading words."

When asked about recommended courses, Mr. Grcevich said that a general liberal arts course is needed. Courses in speech, foreign languages, and public speaking are necessary. Also, general background in the fields of music, history, and science would be helpful.

Mr. Grcevich summed it up by saying that because WYSU has such a large population of potential listeners (about 4,000,000 people—the largest in Ohio), the need for a good broadcaster is increased. He said, "We can't take anyone that comes in here without checking his personal qualifications. We have a critical audience at WYSU. The airwaves are not made to experiment—we have to take the best."

Judith Anderson to star as Hamlet

Dame Judith Anderson will star in the title role of William Shakespeare's "Hamlet" to be presented by the YSU Artist Lecture Series Friday, January 8, 1971, at Powers Auditorium.

Tickets at $2.00 per person will go on sale Monday, December 7, at the University Box Office, Room 104 Kilcawley.

The box office will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily and also from 6 to 8 p.m. Monday and Tuesday.

Currently touring the United States, "Hamlet" opened in San Francisco and will conclude its tour at New York's Carnegie Hall.

Directed by William Ball, founder of the American Conservatory Theater, and produced by Paul Gregory, who also produced "Caine Mutiny Court Martial," "Hamlet" emerges as revolutionary with an unorthodox concept.

Ford Co. gives YSU $15,000 grant

The third annual grant of $15,000 has been presented to the YSU department of mechanical engineering by the Ford Motor Company.

Unrestricted and for the discretionary use of Dr. Frank J. Tarantine, acting chairman of the mechanical engineering department, the grant provides one Graduate School assistantship of $2,600 annually, and four $600 Graduate School annual scholarships.

According to Dr. Frank A. D'Isa, acting Dean of the Graduate School, the $2,600 assistantship is the only assistantship at this time funded by an outside agency that the Graduate School awards to a mechanical engineering student.

Student recipients of the assistantship and the scholarships will be selected later in the year with the awards to begin next fall.

Birch Bayh

Bayh speaks at Powers Aud.

"A great deal is right in America," Senator Birch E. Bayh told an audience of 250 persons at Powers Auditorium last night.

The Democratic Senator from Indiana said that the nation is going through a dramatic change in a basic way. He said that young people of today want to tell it like it is. He explained that many of the nation's young are suspicious of words and would rather use action than wait for words to accomplish something.

Senator Bayh elaborated, stating that the problems of the country were not made in a short time and therefore they can't be expected to be solved in a short time.

Mr. Bayh said that our present system will fail if all of us as individuals don't do more than has been done in the past. But, if Americans are willing to participate to a greater extent in our elections the quality of the results of the elections will improve. Mr. Bayh pushed for direct elections of the president which has been proposed as the 25th Amendment. He questioned the values of a democratic society which would not allow for the people to elect their own president.

He endorsed women's rights, lowering the voting age, and he hopes for a decrease in racial tensions and suggested steps that would make the presidential nominations more democratic.

Concerning foreign policy he stated that we should never have gotten involved in a situation such as Viet Nam. He also stated that the people of the United States must realize that they do not have a monopoly on the "right point of view."

He supported the idea that the average man is not common. He said that the masses of America have been given disrespectful names such as the Silent Majority, blue collar workers and hard hats and that the average American is not common but has a great capacity for dedication.

Senator Bayh explained that Americans should have more faith in the current system because we have had some progress in the movement toward racial equality, "we have become prosperous enough to discover poverty," and that we have begun to realize that our environment is threatened.

He concluded that man should use his technical knowledge to deal with man's problems rather than in destruction. "Americans should stand up and express their concern more with a patriotism of old," Bayh said.

1970 Engineering graduates to earn more in salary

Spring and summer graduates of Youngstown State University's William Rayen School of Engineering are averaging nearly $40.00 more per month salary than 1969 engineering graduates, it was reported today by Alfred J. Minotti, director of placement at YSU.

In a recent survey report compiled by Minotti entitled, "1970 Salary Survey and Placement Reports for Engineering Majors at Youngstown State University," it was revealed that 89 engineering graduates were placed by the University, with starting salaries ranging from $655.00 to $1,010.00 per month. Although the top starting salary remained the same as last year, the base salary was $75.00 per month lower.

A total of 118 engineering graduates out of a possible 132, registered for placement with Minotti's office. Those 29 who did not accept positions with various industries or companies gave the following reasons: entering military service, no report, returning to native land, attending graduate school, remaining on present job and not graduating.

Minotti took the six areas in which a YSU student seeking a bachelor of engineering may major, and gave a concise breakdown on how each discipline fared. Chemical engineers lead the way with the highest salary average per month of $888.00

Toledo group likes YSU registration

Four representatives from the University of Toledo observed YSU's registration procedures this past Wednesday and were "very favorably impressed," according to Dr. James S. Hill, Associate Director of Student Records, University of Toledo.

The 15,000 students at this university, a commuter school, presently register by mail. Under this system, 40% of the students do not receive classes for which they registered and proceed through an open registration.

Mrs. Mary Beck, Assistant Analyst of Data Processing, stated that the system of "walk-through registration" would be less complicated for the University of Toledo's data processing center.

Dr. Hill said that YSU's system works so well because the rules are set and everyone "sticks by them."

He feels that 85-90% of their students would be satisfied.

Other members of the committee were Paul W. Roebke, Assistant Director of Student Records, and Mrs. Corinne Sherman, Administrative Assistant for Registration and Scheduling.

Next are metallurgical engineers with $887.50, up $57.00 per month from a year ago. They are followed by electrical engineers — $882.79, up nearly $57.00 per month; mechanical engineers — $870.68, up $34.00 per month; industrial engineers — $867.08, up $31.50 per month; and civil engineers — $842.43, up some $56.00 per month.

The average monthly starting salary of $867.02 shows 69.66 percent of the graduates receiving an average or better starting salary, and 30.34 percent receiving below average.

The 1970 engineering graduate at YSU is now making nearly $325.00 more per month in starting salary than his 1961 counterpart, who averaged only $542.26 per month. How times have changed!

Student wants to get married

Hassar Sharif wants to get married.

Hassar is a 26 year old engineering student from Egypt. Recently he decided to get married and determined that the easiest way to find a wife would be by placing a classified advertisement in the Jambar. It reads:

26 year old engineering student would like to get married. Requirement: Intelligent girl not older than 24, Virgin, compatible, who is not afraid of traveling. Call 743-0518."

Hassar will be graduating this spring. His future spouse should be fairly attractive and a person of "tolerant nature." Hassar said he wouldn't mind converting from his Moslem faith to that of his wife-to-be and that he is ready to get married at any time.

Hassar grew up in Cairo, the son of a construction contractor. In 1965 he came to Youngstown to study engineering. He has worked his way through school, occasionally receiving assistance from home.

Currently, Hassar is living in the USA under an education visa. He has applied for a permanent visa and hopes to apply for full citizenship in the future.

There is a chance that he may return to Egypt, but he wishes to live permanently in the USA.

To allay any fears a prospective bride may have, Hassar does not believe in polygamy and pointed out that polygamy is against the law in much of the Near-East.

So, if anyone is interested...

Parking deck bids await evaluation

The bids for the construction of the new parking decks were open December 2, 1970, and await the evaluation of the architects and engineers according to Dr. John J. Coffelt, Vice-President for Administrative Affairs.

The parking deck, which will occupy the East section of the present parking lot on Arlington and Elm, will be either a three or four level structure, depending on the bids.

The Regents have authorized $2,300,000 for the structure, which includes architectural fees and contingencies.

Vandalism continues at Elm Street School

Elm Street School continues to be the object of vandalism on the YSU campus.

Tuesday morning the University employees discovered that three exterior windows had been broken and several issues of Tuesday's Jambar had been littered on the lawn outside the building.

One window had been broken in the door and two in the athletic office. A brick and bottle were found among the debris.

Investigation showed that no entry had been made into the building.

Earlier this quarter gun shots were fired into the building. Many of the robberies on campus this quarter occurred in the Elm Street School area.

Catch—YSU

Wizard Wallace

by Skip Miller and Carl Basic

A new-comer has arrived on the YSU campus. He is Mr. Wallace Curtis, the Grand Wizard of the Spiro T. Agnew Public Relations Corporation. He returned just last week from East Pakistan, where he was deported for burning rice.

Last weekend, while on a tour of the YSU campus, he had the dubious good fortune of bumping into two members of the Jambar Staff.

"Hey, watch where you're driving!"

"Sorry, Boy."

"Aren't you Wallace Curtis, the World War Two draft dodger who in December, 1941 made the famous quote 'forget Pearl Harbor'?"

"Not so loud boy, someone will hear you and I might lose my honorary membership to the American Legion."

"What brings you to YSU?"

"I've come to apply for the position of Assistant Associate Athletic Director."

"Why would a man of your background want to become Assistant Associate Athletic Director at a place like YSU?"

"Well boy, I want to build a sense of pride among the student body and create some real school spirit, I would also like to help put YSU on the map by giving it the credit which it richly deserves, besides, I need a job."

"If you want to put YSU on the map, you better talk to Rand-McNally."

"No boy, I plan on instilling the students here with spirit, a devotion to duty, and a sense of divine destiny unequalled since the Hitler Youth Movement. I plan on healing all the old wounds this University has suffered."

"You'd better see Oral Roberts for this one."

"Don't interrupt me boy, children should be seen and not heard—except in the cheering section. When I'm through, YSU will have the best football, basketball, baseball, swimming, and soccer teams the world has ever seen. YSU will have a school spirit that will make all the other schools green with envy and YSU green with money."

"How do you plan on building this brave, new world at YSU?"

"We need more Aryans around here. Blond hair and blue eyes, that's the secret to success."

"But you have red hair!"

"Don't bother me with details boy. When I come into power, I'm going to import the world's greatest coach, Arid Parcheezie, and together we will rule...I mean guide YSU to the top of the heap. My first step is to build school spirit."

"Why is school spirit so important?"

"I want backing for our boys. I want people to support our boys against all opponents, in all situations, at all times wherever the contest may be. It's that kind of spirit that has made America great by doing things like supporting the Vietnam War. I want to train the 'Silent Majority' at YSU to make noise—on Saturday only. Once I have accomplished this, then I'll know that no Communists will dare invade YSU with their propaganda and false ideals."

"Don't you like Communists?"

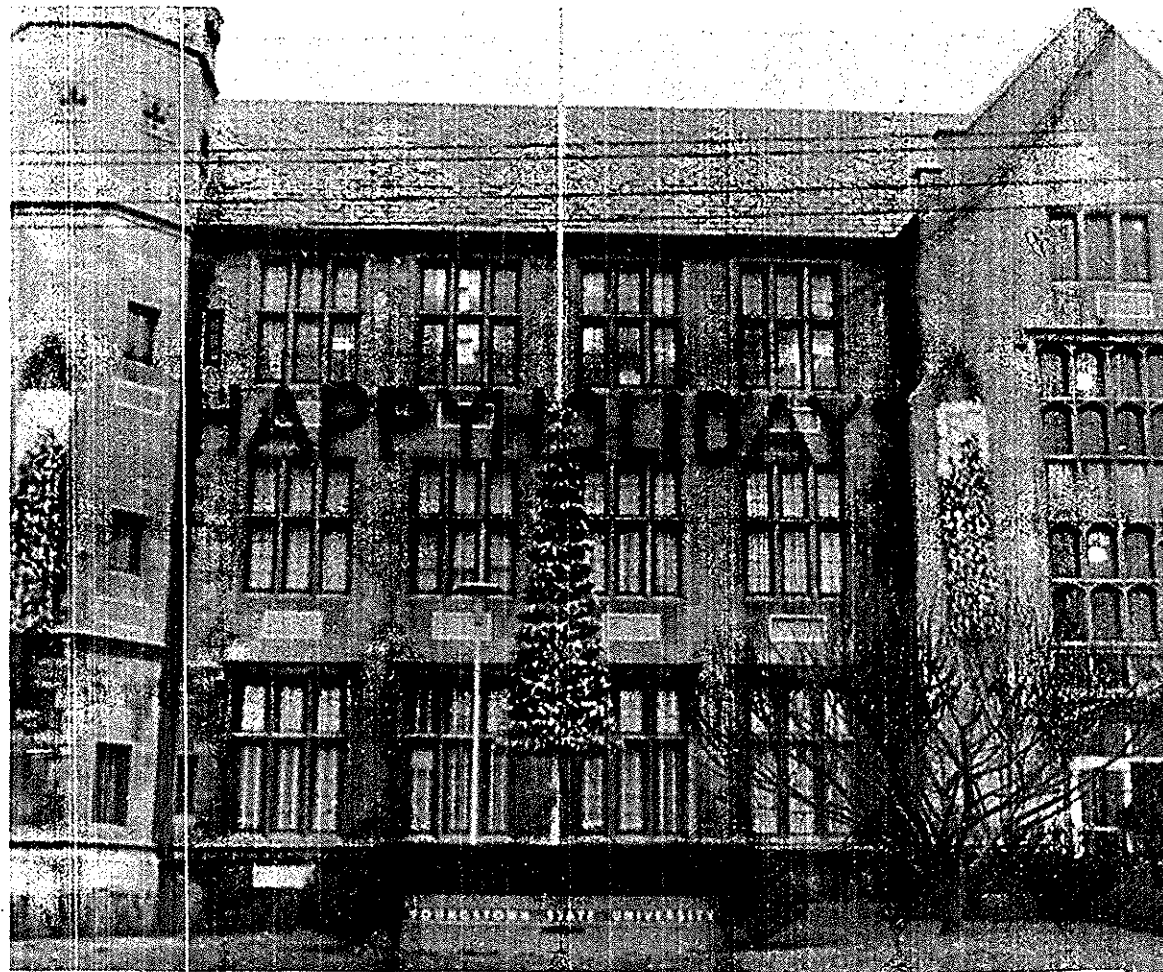

"No sir boy, I hate those filthy commies so much, I even hate the color red—unless it's on the neck."

"Well, Mr. Curtis, I can see you are going to have a few problems with the faculty here at YSU."

"Why's that boy?"

"You're just too liberal."

"I'm not worried son, today YSU, tomorrow Sesame Street!"

SEASON'S GREETINGS- The YSU Administration and staff extend their Christmas wishes across Jones Hall's facade.

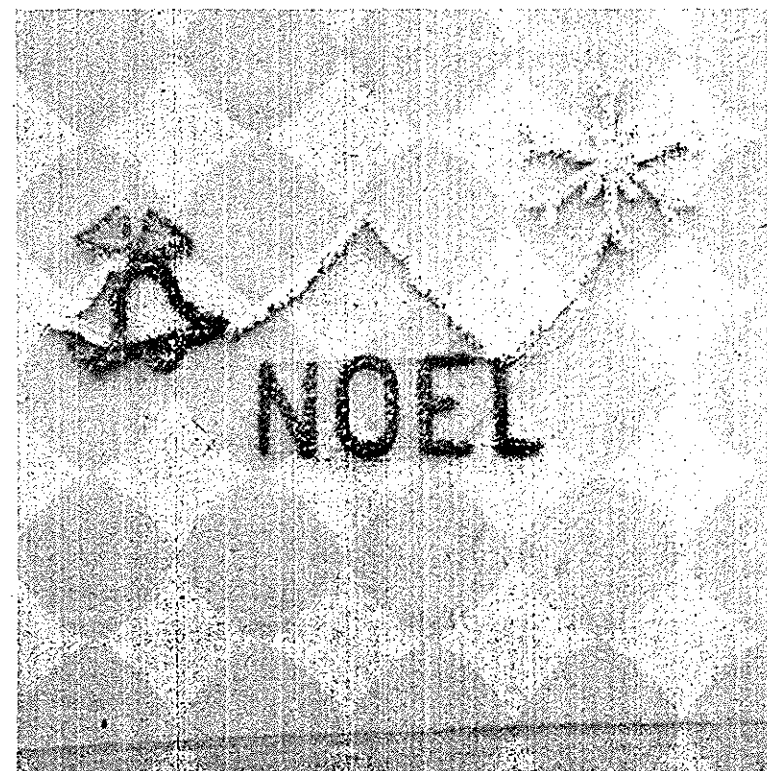

Senior art major given first prize for Canton entries

"Painting is something that I have to do—it's part of my mental make-up," says Troy Tecau, Jr., a senior art major at Youngstown State University, who was awarded first prize for two-dimensional art entries at the Canton Art Institute's First Annual All Ohio Fall Show.

Troy's first prize of $400 was won with an acrylic painting entitled, "New York No. 10," which he describes as a "color field painting" that experiments with stressing the two-dimensionality of the surface while creating an illusionary surface of a two-dimensional plane.

A total of 1,275 works were submitted to the competition by 403 artists, with categories in two-dimensional and three dimensional art, including drawings, paintings, prints, sculpture, enamels, jewelry, textiles, ceramics, and photographs.

The Fall Show, which runs through January 10, represents works of artists, craftsmen and photographers presently living in Ohio, or former residents who have lived in Ohio for at least five years. Featured in the exhibit are 195 works by 123 artists.
