LAYING DOWN ON THE JOB — A crane owned and operated by Charles J. Shutrump and Sons tipped over on Spring Street directly in front of the new Beeghly Physical Education Building late yesterday afternoon. The driver of the crane working on the new Kilcawley Student Center addition, said that the wheels were muddy and caused the crane to slip off the trailer as they were loading it.

Concerts begin tonight---

Dana festival goes for Baroque

The weekend festival of Renaissance and Baroque music, to be held this weekend by the Dana School of Music will begin this evening rather than this afternoon as previously planned.

Professor Richard R. French, a distinguished musicologist, will be unable to appear on campus to deliver his previously planned speech on "Music, the Church, and the Renaissance."

The weekend will begin with a harpichord recital by Dr. Robert E. Hopkins, associate professor of music. The recital will be held at 8 p.m. in the Dana Recital Hall and is free and open to all those interested.

The New York Pro Musica concert will be held at 8 p.m. tomorrow night at Powers Auditorium. The program will feature the music of Josquin des Prez (c. 1450-1521) and his contemporaries.

The Pro Musica will feature the use of the instruments of the period.

Tickets are available through the Athletic Business Office, Kilcawley Center, and are $.50 for YSU students, $1.00 for faculty and staff, and $2.00 for the general public.

The series will close with a seminar-workshop by the Pro Musica centering on "A Demonstration of Early Instruments" at 3 p.m., Sunday, in the Dana Recital Hall.

The seminar is sponsored by the department of continuing education. Tickets are $1.00 for YSU faculty and staff and $2.00 for the general public, with YSU students admitted free.

Painters picket Beeghly; protest carpenters painting

"Carpenters are in violation of a decision rendered by the National Labor Joint Board," said Donald House, a picket for the Painters Local 476, who have been on strike since Monday at the Beeghly Physical Education Center.

House said that the painters have always painted stripes on gym floors and have done painting necessary on wooden floors. "The carpenters have taken over the painters' jobs and they are taking work away from us," he said. House stated it is expected that the strike will last only a day or more and negotiations are going on now. He felt that the

New decks, guidelines ease parking squeeze

The parking situation at YSU will be alleviated somewhat when the new parking decks open Thursday and regulations proposed by the Traffic Control Board go into effect on Monday.

Starting Monday, students will be permitted to park their cars with parking stickers in either student or faculty and staff parking areas from 5:30 p.m. to 7 a.m. weekdays and all day Saturday and Sunday. Faculty and staff will be allowed to park cars with stickers in either lots designated for them or student lots during those hours.

These recommendations were made by the university's Traffic Control Board and were given immediate approval by President Albert L. Pugsley.

The new parking decks, bordered by Elm and Arlington Streets and Lincoln and Fifth Avenues, will be available for student parking following ribbon-cutting ceremonies at 10 a.m. Thursday. The three-and-a-half deck structure is capable of holding 1,250 cars and costs approximately $1,860 per parking space.

After the opening of the decks, the total number of student parking spaces available will

Jambar editor Wilms resigns; Miss Sherlock takes over

Marie A. Sherlock, Jambar news editor, will become acting editor-in-chief of the Jambar Monday replacing Peter G. Wilms who has held the position since last spring quarter.

The Publications Board is expected to approve the appointment at their next meeting.

Wilms, a senior English major, has accepted a position on the Niles Suburban Newspapers as a reporter-photographer.

Miss Sherlock, also a senior English major, has been on the Jambar staff for a year and a half. She has been news editor since last fall and was copy editor last winter and spring quarters. Last summer she worked as a general reporter for the Youngstown Vindicator.

Working with Miss Sherlock will be Claudia McIlwain, sophomore business major, as make-up editor and Jack Hagan, Arts and Science junior, as copy editor.

Wilms will remain on the Jambar staff until the end of the quarter.

Volunteers Meeting

The Student Volunteers Service Program will hold an organizational meeting at 3 p.m. tomorrow in the Cardinal Room of Kilcawley.

All interested students and faculty are invited to attend.

Man of Year

Dr. Matthew Siman, associate professor of Electrical Engineering, will be awarded "Orthodox Man of the Year" for his numerous activities in religious affairs as a layman. The award will be presented by Dr. James W. Kiriazis, chairman of the Sociology and Anthropology department, Sunday February 20 at 1 p.m. in St. Michaels Church.

CCM Student Board

The Cooperative Campus Ministry student board will meet at 2 p.m., Monday, in the Newman lounge on Rayen Ave. Officers will be elected and any one interested in becoming a member is welcome to attend.

Physics Films

"The Distinction of Past and Future", a physics lecture film sponsored by the YSU physics and astronomy dept. will be shown at 3 p.m. today in the YSU planetarium. A second film, "Probability and Uncertainty-Quantum Mechanical View of Nature" will be shown at 3 p.m. and 8 p.m. Thursday Feb. 24 and 3 p.m. Friday Feb. 25. This film will also be shown in the YSU planetarium.

One-Man Show

James G. Lucas, assistant professor of art will have a one-man show of his paintings at the Phoenix Gallery in Philadelphia, Pa., March 4-13.

The exhibition includes Lucas' paintings from the last nine years and consists of some 12-15 acrylics.

Organ Recital

Frank Mento, senior music major in the Dana School of Music, will present an organ recital at 8 p.m., next Tuesday, at the First Presbyterian Church, 201 Wick Ave. The recital is free and open to the public.

The compositions to be played in the recital are "Pagent", by Leo Sowerby; "Prelude and Fugue in B Minor, Symphony 544" by Johann Sebastian Bach; and the "Sixth Symphony, Opus 42, No. 6 by Charles Marie Widor.

Public Administration Fellowships

The Southern Regional Training Program in Public Administration is offering fellowships for YSU students interested in Public Administration careers.

For more information and applications write to Coleman B. Ransone, Educational Director, Southern Regional Training Program in Public Administration, Drawer I, University of Alabama, 35486. The deadline for submitting applications is March 1, 1972.

Ohio Bell seeks suggestions for improving service

Student suggestions on how to improve the pay telephone service on the YSU campus are being sought by Ohio Bell, reports Chuck Conway, manager of Ohio Bell's coin telephone department in this area.

He said that 42 pay stations are dispersed throughout the campus. Their locations were researched by Ohio Bell to provide the best possible service and convenience to the students, he noted.

Student suggestions for improving service and possible new locations should be directed to, Ohio Bell, Coin Telephone Department, 945 Grant St., Akron, Ohio 44311, Attention Mr. Chuck Conway.

Dr. Joyce Brothers will appear at open meeting today at Lincoln

Noted psychologist, Dr. Joyce Brothers, will discuss subjects of interest to students and answer questions today in an open meeting at 2:30 p.m. in room 205 and at 3:00 p.m. in room 203 in Lincoln Project, Dr. James W. Kiriazis, chairman of sociology and anthropology, announced.

Her meeting at 2:30 p.m. is with Syretha Cooper's social class and the following discussion is

Security reports alleged attack on YSU coed

A YSU coed was allegedly attacked about 10 p.m. last Tuesday night in the Citgo parking lot next to Clingan Waddell hall, according to YSU security.

Jim Evans, assistant director of security, said that they received the report from the university health service where the girl reported the incident. He said that she was unwilling to talk to both his department and the Youngstown Police Department.

Evans encouraged all students to park in or near university parking lots noting that they are patrolled frequently by the university security.

*Individual salaries are not shown.

In studying Y.S.U. Faculty salaries for evidence of differences that reasonably could be attributed to salary decisions based upon sex, only 9-months full-service faculty salaries during the 1970-71 academic year were studied, and those were separated into two groups, (1) returning faculty, or those who were on the Y.S.U. faculty prior to the 1970-71 academic year, and (2) faculty who began their service at Y.S.U. on September, 1970. Only the factors of academic rank, degree attainment, and length of service at Y.S.U. were taken into account in the study, although a number of other factors were recognized as legitimate influences upon salary differentials: research activity, publications, student advisement, promotion, lack of availability of teachers in certain fields, nearness to terminal degree, salary differentials in the market for different professions and different fields of study, and salaries in these fields in the non-educational market, for example. Additional studies that take these and other relevant factors would provide greater insight.

The relatively raw data, however, show in the case of returning faculty, that although women present fewer earned degrees, for the degrees held, length of service, and rank they are lower in average salary than men. In the appointment of new faculty members in 1970-71, however, differentials in the salary of men and women were minimized or disappeared completely.

Sex discrimination exists in YSU faculty salaries

Some discrimination on the basis of sex exists in salaries paid to YSU faculty according to a survey released yesterday by the office of Dr. Earl E. Edgar, vice president for academic affairs.

Women faculty who came to YSU prior to the 1970-71 academic year are on the average paid less than men even though degrees held and length of service and rank are the same. The "relatively raw data" was compiled by the office of institutional research and was sent to all department chairmen and deans.

The factors studied in the survey were academic rank (instructor to professor), degree attainment (bachelor's to doctorate), and length of service of YSU. The study, the introduction states, does not take into account such factors as "research activity, publications, advising of students, lack of availability of teachers in certain fields, nearness to terminal degree, salary differentials in the market for different fields and salaries in these fields in the non-educational market."

The catalog issue of the YSU bulletin says that YSU "is in full accord with both federal and (Cont. on next col.)

reach 3,436. There are presently 693 faculty and staff parking spaces on campus.

When construction on the Technical and Community College begins next month, parking lot S-6 will close, with a loss of 208 parking spaces. As construction for the library, steam plant and music and fine arts buildings gets underway, parking in those areas will be reduced or eliminated. state laws prohibiting discriminatory practices with respect to equal opportunity." Dr. Edgar said yesterday "We expect that we will live up to this policy in all aspects of university operations. If we are not doing so I expect the situation to be corrected as soon as possible."

Dr. Edgar was not sure of the effect the survey would have on the budget for the upcoming year because the budget is nearing its completion date.

Letters to the Editor

Calls YSU students 'most untidy'

To the Editor of the Jambar:

I have been involved in the collegiate educational process at four different institutions. I can say without equivocation that a certain segment of the student body at YSU are among the most untidy individuals with whom I have yet to make contact.

Never before have I observed such filthy stairways, stairwells, restrooms, and snack areas. Cups of coffee sitting in corners on floors, cigarette butts everywhere but in the appropriate (and usually adjacent) receptacle.

"Pigs off campus" should be the cry of every tidy individual on this campus. But perhaps it is an injustice to that member of the animal world to use his name to describe the habits of some individuals here, since it is a known fact that pigs are actual extremely fastidious animals, and only their environmental conditions contribute to their appearance. In our case, the 'pigs' at YSU have created the unsightly situation themselves.

Another bone of contention I have is the attitude exhibited by one of the parking lot attendants. I do not know his name, but he is there at the Student Lot (corner of Lincoln and Elm) on Monday and Wednesday evenings when I attend night school.

After putting in a long hard day, then driving 35 miles to come to school I am invariably greeted by an attitude that would do justice to an East German border guard. He is consistently bellicose and belligerent to me, no matter what I do to attempt to placate him. I have taken much from him without comment, so as not to jeopardize relatively convenient parking for my class.

I fully realize life is not all

'sweetness and light' for everyone all the time, but, considering I am one of the taxpayers responsible for his employment, I wish someone would give him a Happy Pill. Since we must be subjected to a $15.00 per quarter fee for the 'privilege' to park, while faculty park for the same fee per annum, I believe we are entitled to a little compassion.

In closing, let me say, overall I am enjoying my educational experience at YSU and only hope that my comments can help to make YSU even better.

William K. Krutz
Graduate School
Mathematics

The completion of my position as editor-in-chief of the Jambar leaves me with varied emotions of both success and failure.

The paper was not all it could have been but close to what I wanted it to be. It, as should all newspapers, reflected the editor's judgement of what was newsworthy and what was not.

Articles printed in the Jambar were those that had important significance to the university or a large portion of its faculty, staff, or students.

Most editorials were directed towards the faculty and administration since only they could change and formulate policy. Unfortunately, students have had very little real say in directing their education and expenditures of their tuition and fees.

I have several times editorialized on the publicizing of the entire university budget and would hope that in the near future it becomes a reality. Like trustee Al Shipka, I feel that it is most unfortunate that taxpayers and students funds are being expended to preserve the secrecy of the budget.

I am indebted to my term as editor because it enabled me to develop a sincere and candid relationship with many members of the administration and faculty of YSU. The most important value realized out of these relationships was the development of the ability to see both sides of an issue.

The dogmatism of the "we-they" syndrome of confronting issues and problems were destroyed very early in my association with the Jambar. I learned quickly that there were always two sides to issues and they were held with equal proportions of dogmatism.

The Jambar editorship has been the most significant and meaningful part of my education at YSU. Unfortunately, only a few students have the opportunity to view the inner workings of the university and to actually know why and how a lot of decisions and policies are formulated.

The only challenge I have for the students, faculty, and administration, is to take the time to know each other and to try to understand what causes a man to act or react the way he does.

In closing, I would like to thank all members of the Jambar staff, past and present, who have both tolerated my editorship and encouraged it to be more than it was. Finally, a special thanks goes to Dr. Robert Hare and especially to Dr. Taylor Alderman for their inspiration and demand for "good journalism."

Comments on YAF peace plan

To the Editor of the Jambar:

The Young Americans for Freedom recently requested signatures for a petition to be sent to the North Vietnam delegation in Paris. The petition would read as follows:

We the people of the United States of America, call upon the government of North Vietnam to: 1) Renounce military victory in the South; 2) Agree to negotiate cease-fire under international supervision; 3) Agree to free elections in South Vietnam under international supervision; 4) Declare that they will abide by the political decisions that result from free elections and renounce as we have, all military bases in the South; 5) Support the right of South Vietnamese to determine their own future without outside interference. Our government agrees with and supports these points. We ask you to join us in our desire for the peaceful conclusions of the Vietnam war.

The basic purpose of this petition, is to hopefully influence the North Vietnamese to surrender in South Vietnam. The YAF idealistic school of thought must have been waving the American flag too vigorously as to upset their balance of intelligence. For it is very easy to realize that less demanding peace proposals of the United States vis-a-vis North Vietnam have been made producing nil results. Realistically the YAF's proposal would be viewed less seriously and rightfully laughed upon by North Vietnam, which could possibly be detrimental to future peace negotiations.

Defends YAF position --again

To the Editor of the Jambar:

William Rowe's letter on Tuesday stole much of my thunder. I agree thoroughly with what he wrote-I only wonder about his aversion to YAF. Perhaps he, like so many others, believes it to be a Birchite organization, which it is not.

But I wish to get back to Mr. Adams' letter of a week ago. He echoed a rumor that a YAF spokesman said we should "make America Beautiful by stamping out queers." Even on the wild assumption that a YAF member seriously made such a statement, he was certainly not "speaking for YAF."

Also, Mr. Adams stated that he did not know who Edith Efron is. Well, she was (and still may be) a reporter for TV Guide-but more importantly she is the author of The News Twister, a book providing documented evidence of a severe left-wing bias in national television news coverage. Incidentally, her study was conducted just before the 1968 presidential elections, and thus, before Agnew's comments on impudent snobbery.

Finally, those people who haven't become totally bored with the "piffle-fight" between Mr. Adams and myself may wish to see a debate between us on Wednesday, March 1, at 4 p.m. in the Pollock House. It will be held courtesy of the History Club.

Forum and Letters Policy

The Jambar wants students, faculty, and staff to express their opinions on university subjects and issues. To this end the Jambar offers two avenues of expression, Letters to the Editor and the Forum.

The Forum is intended to permit comment on matters that are broader than immediate campus issues. The Jambar will print only those manuscripts which conform to accepted literary standards and which do not exceed 700 words. The author should identify himself.

Neon, YSU's yearly "memory" book, is facing extinction. The precarious position in which the Neon now finds itself can be better understood when one realizes that the lagging sales and possible demise of the yearbook here at YSU can be correlated with a nationwide trend facing college yearbook publications throughout the country.

Yearbooks are fast becoming passe on America's campuses, and our preoccupation with nostalgia will not save them. Yearbook sales continue on a downward spiral while the sales of other memorabilia items, pee chee folders, Ricky Ricardo pencil sets, and Rin Tin Tin lunch boxes are on a steady rise.

The traditional yearbook, a mere record of campus activities, has become an outmoded form of student expression, a relic of times past. Interviews with campus sages (BMOOC's) and queens (hubba hubba), in depth character profiles of our Miss Brooks and Mr. Conklin, and photos of Beaver and Wally at the malt shop no longer amuse the majority of the students who now attend our vulnerable institutions of higher education.

A profound cultural change has taken place on college campuses, Dobie Gillis and Maynard G. Krebs have come to the fore.

Students can no longer separate the dreamlike reality of college existence from the reality of the nightmare which lies outside of the closed campus community. The serious student demands realism and relevancy, especially in a chronicle of his university experience. He also demands of a yearbook aesthetic qualities which exceed those of a slick situation comedy of the 50's ilk.

The traditional yearbook offers him nothing but an endless file of faces and names, and is relevant only to those who appear on its pages. It has been nothing more than an ego trip for a selected few.

In an attempt to remedy this situation, the Neon staff has changed the direction and character of the yearbook in its 1972 volume, while at the same time retaining the basic essence of a traditional yearbook. The 1972 Neon strives to realize the potential of the yearbook as a medium of artistic and journalistic expression by combining the traditional memory book elements with the hard fact reporting, editorial comment, and photo journalism of a newspaper and the fine art photography, poetry and artwork of a literary review.

The Neon is introduced by a 32 page, full color, photographic study of the mellow beauty inherent in our campus and community; ends with an avant garde comic book satire of the terminal ugliness also inherent in this campus and community. The intervening pages should please even our most vehement critics, although we have not changed format to silence critics. Our problem is the lack of criticism, or any other form of response, from the YSU student body. Student apathy is all pervasive at YSU and may be the only campus characteristic that unifies all members of the student body.

The extent of student apathy here can, in part, be measured by the per cent of students who will receive the 1972 edition. To date, only 10% of the student population has signed up for a yearbook they have previously purchased (the Neon being paid for by monies allocated out of student activity fees). The sign up process simply entails a short trip to room 104 of Kilcawley Hall with a student I.D. and a dollar to cover mailing cost.

If student sign ups do not quickly increase, the Neon will die. The in depth look at campus life that a university newspaper or literary review cannot provide will be lost. Students who want practical experience in the fields of journalism, photography, and art will lose a medium that can be responsive to their creative drives, a medium that has yet to realize its full potential. The yearbook as a new mode of student expression has yet to reach infancy. Its premature death can only be called abortion. If Ozzie and Harriet had held the YSU students' metaphysics of life and death, David and Ricky wouldn't be with us today.

Youngstown Playhouse aids YSU communication classes

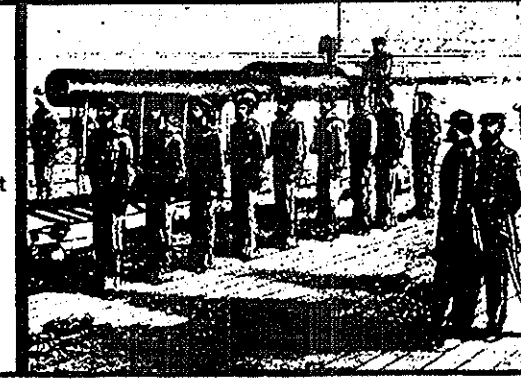

Through the cooperation of the Youngstown Playhouse, an innovative instructional tool is being employed in YSU's communication classes.

The Playhouse has donated 2,000 complimentary tickets to the English department's Communication 526 and 507 honors classes for YSU students to attend the current production of "Dark of the Moon" which will run through Sunday at the Playhouse.

Faculty members are incorporating the play into their class work, either as a basis for class discussion, analysis, or oral and written assignments.

Selected for this venture was the classic American folk drama and musical "Dark of the Moon" written by Howard Richardson and William Berney. The play will be directed by Bob Gray, Guest director from New York.

Evaluation says students satisfied with interdisciplinary course

An evaluation of the course, "Man and the Technological Society"-789 offered this past fall quarter, recently completed by Dr. Kenneth H. McKinley, the director of Field Services and Research in the school of education, concludes that students involved were satisfied with the class.

The interdisciplinary course, offered the first time last quarter, was team taught by Dr. Guido A. Dobbert, associate professor of Sociology and Anthropology, Dr. Lauren A. Schroeder, associate professor of Biology, and Dr. Henry P. Sheng, associate professor of Chemical Engineering. The course dealt with such topics as the current sociological and environmental problems of man, movements such as those of a political and power nature, and aspects of automation and technology. The course was listed under Sociology, Biology, and Engineering in the catalogue.

The evaluation was constructed with twenty objective items to be answered from "strongly agree" to "strongly disagree" and thirteen open-ended completion type questions about the course, from teaching methods to subject material and the required term paper. Thirty-seven students, which constituted sixty-two percent of the class completed and returned the questionnaire to Dr. Sheng for analysis.

Specifically, the students favored the team teaching method, the related materials, and the term paper required for the course. Minor complaints centered around the textbook as meaningless and that the class was too large for open and informal discussion of the varied topics.

Aquatic Birds split dual meet; Gavolas sails to pool records

Penguin mermen split two matches Tuesday in a double dual meet with Allegheny and Edinboro State at Meadville, Pa. setting the Penguins log at 6-5 for the season.

Bob Leahy's tankers dropped the last event bowing to Alle-

Cagers top

CSU; 79-62

The Penguin cagers toppled the Cleveland State Vikings, 79-62, Wednesday evening before 2,100 fans in the Struthers Field House.

Tomorrow night will be the last home game for seniors Chuck Montgomery, Billy Johnson, Gregg Merrill, Ron Smith, Rich Denamen, and Jeff Skeeles as the Pens face the Steubenville Barons at 8 p.m. This is also the last game to be played in Struthers as they will be playing in the new Beeghly Physical Education Center next season.

Coach Dom Rosselli's Birds hit 43.2% of their field goals and 71.4% of the shots from the charity stripe, compared to the 37.7% field goal percentage and 50% free throw margin of the Vikings.

Billy Wells led the scoring for both sides as he made 21 points, followed by Phil Gaston with 18 points, Ron Smith with 16 points and Billy Johnson with seven markers. The scoring was rounded out by Dave Burkholder, Gregg Merrill, and Ron Romine each with four points, Chuck Montgomery with three points and Jeff Skeeles who made one field goal.

The half time score was the Penguins 37 and the Vikes 32 as YSU was never in serious trouble. The Pens post tournament bid is still in question as anything could happen. The Pens are 17-5 as they face Steubenville tomorrow night, Gannon Feb. 23, St. Vincent Feb. 26, and close out the season Feb. 29, meeting the University of Pittsburgh.

Nine students will compete in ACUI play-offs

Nine YSU students are competing in the Association of College Unions-International region seven, play-offs at Kent State University today and tomorrow against 31 universities and colleges.

This is the first time that any one from YSU has competed in this intramural-inter-varsity type competition. The winners of this contest will compete in Long Beach, Cal. this summer.

YSU will be represented in three fields; table tennis, chess and bowling.

All of the players were determined from intramural competition.

gheny, 62-49, but outclassed Edinboro State as expected, 77-31. Allegheny sunk Edinboro, 83-31, to dominate the meet and boost its record to 6-5, Edinboro falling to 2-3.

Nick Gavolas, Dick Tatsch and Chuch Nienhuis each won two events for the Penguins, whose 400-yard freestyle relay team lost by 4.1 seconds in the match-finale to Allegheny, giving the hosts their triumph.

Gavolas, who is pointing towards nationals, garnered first in one-meter required and optional diving events, collecting 181.3 in the required and 208.3 in optional, both Allegheny pool records.

Tatsch continues to impress in the sprint events as he outsped the field in the 50 and 100 freestyles, covering the 50 in 22.8 seconds and the century in 51.6 seconds. Nienhuis outdistanced foes in the 220 individual medley and 200 backstroke, doing the IM in 2:13.5 and backstroke in 2:15.8.

The Penguins' next travel to W. Va. Friday for a dual meet with Fairmont State. The aquamen conclude the busy week on the road Saturday against a strong Ashland squad.

Catch YSU—
The Apathetica Strain
 by Carl Basic

Last Sunday the Ike and Tina Turner Review appeared in concert at Struthers Field House. As usual the concert did not begin on time. Ike and Tina Turner are reportedly the most punctual recording group in the United States. They are supposedly even more punctual than the Strategic Air Command. Yet, they came to Youngstown and they were late for a concert. I wondered why.

I thought at first that the late starts were part of the administration's machinations to keep the student body off balance, or just a usual Student Council foul-up.

I found that the lateness of the concert starts is actually due to a malady common only to the Youngstown area. The malady is caused by a rare virus known as the Apathetica Strain.

This virus, in addition to making recording groups late for concerts, has caused many usually efficient people who have visited the Youngstown area to behave in a rather erratic manner.

Neil Armstrong was part of a three man crew who piloted a spacecraft all the way to the moon, landed within a few miles of a prearranged landing site, took off from the moon, accomplished a rendezvous space between the lunar landing craft and the space vehicle, returned to earth and landed within three miles of a predetermined splash-down point. Armstrong came to Youngstown and got lost on West Federal Street.

Graham Kerr, the Galloping Gourmet, was once scheduled to do a show in Youngstown. He canceled out at the last minute, however, because while making his breakfast he burned his toast.

Timothy Leary, the well-known drug culturist, came here and ended up in the van of the Hunter for Mayor campaign.

Jerry Rubin stopped at YSU while he was hitchhiking across country. After just three days he was pledging a fraternity. He managed to escape the effects of the Apathetica Strain when the brothers of the fraternity he was pledging dropped him and seven other pledges off thirty-eight miles the other side of Tidioute, Pennsylvania with a six pack and a dime.

Twiggy was here for two weeks and during that time she gained forty-five pounds. She discounted the theory that the Apathetica Strain was responsible for her phenomenal weight increase. She attributed the gain to the fact that there is nothing to do in Youngstown except eat.

In addition to causing erratic and unusual behavior among visitors to the area, the Apathetica Strain has some rather weird effects upon the regular inhabitants of the Youngstown vicinity.

One of these effects is atrophy of all thought channels and at the same time cancer-like enlargement and increase in emotional response patterns.

One of the most common effects of the Apathetica Strain here at YSU is the creation of an ambivalent attitude in students concerning chills, colds and low temperatures. That is many people in Youngstown avoid the draft while, at the same time, spending every waking moment trying to be cool.

YSU Theatre to present 'Madwoman of Chaillot'

The second major production of the Youngstown State University Theatre's 1971-72 season, the Maurice Valency adaptation of Jean Giraudoux's "The Madwoman of Chaillot," is scheduled to run Tuesday, February 22 through Saturday, February 26, at 8:30 p.m. in the Spotlight Theatre, Strouss Auditorium.

Cast in the title role of Countess Aurelia, the Madwoman of Chaillot, is senior speech and drama major Patricia Ennis. The roles of the three other Madwomen will be played by freshmen speech and drama major Rose Marie Rokus as Madame Constance; junior speech and drama major Debby Coots as Mademoiselle Gabrielle; and senior speech and drama major Donna Smith as Madame Josephine.

Leading male roles in the production will include senior philosophy major Gary Solomonson as the President; freshmen pre-law major Richard Remley as the Prosector; senior English major James Villani as the Baron and senior philosophy major Bob Marty as the Broker. Two other male lead roles will be played by Gary Banks, a former

YSU Dana Brass Quintet to perform at Mount Union

The YSU Dana Student Brass Quintet has been invited to perform at Mount Union College in Alliance next Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Cope Music Hall.

The Brass Quintet is composed of students from the Dana School of Music and lists as its members Kirby Reese, trumpet; Lou D'Angelo, trumpet; Gordon Campbell, horn; Ronald Krauss, trombone; and John Krauss, tuba.

The group will perform "Sonata from Die Bankelsangerlieder," Pezel's "Sonata No. 22 from Hora Decima," "Canzona Bergamasca" by Scheidt, "16th Century Carmina," Bach's "Contrapunctus IX," Cheetham's "Scherzo," "Exhibition" by Tull, Ewald's "Quintett, Op. 5," and Beversdorf's "Cathedral Music for Brass and Organ."

Reese is a senior at Dana and has played with the Youngstown Symphony and plays first chair trumpet with the YSU Symphonic Wind Ensemble.

D'Angelo plays trumpet in the YSU Symphonic Wind Ensemble, and has performed with various other groups on campus.

Campbell a graduate student, graduated from Dana in 1968 and

A sophomore at Dana, Ron Krauss has performed as a soloist for the Concerto/Aria concert in 1971 with the YSU Orchestra and is a member of the Youngstown Symphony.

John Krauss, junior at Dana, has played with the Youngstown Symphony. He is a student of Ronald Bishop, tubist with the Cleveland Orchestra.
