

Schlesinger,

Richardson

to proselytize

Pulitzer prize winning author Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., and Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, Elliot Richardson will speak tomorrow on campus on behalf of the McGovern/Shriver Teach-In and the YSU Young Republicans respectively.

Schlesinger will speak at noon in the Kilcawley amphitheater at the area kickoff of the nationwide McGovern/Shriver Teach-In. Richardson will initiate campus campaign activities for the YSU Young Republicans and the YSU Student-Faculty Committee to Re-elect the President at 11 a.m.

in Schwebel Auditorium, announced William Binning, advisor to the YSU Young Republicans.

Former special assistant to President Kennedy in 1961, Schlesinger was awarded the Pulitzer Prize for History in 1946 for The Age of Jackson, and again in 1965 for his chronicle A Thousand Days: John F. Kennedy in the White House. He later served as a visiting fellow in Princeton's Institute for Advanced Study, and has taught at the City University of New York as resident Albert Schweitzer professor of the Humanities.

Secretary Richardson, who is one of the "eight surrogate speakers" for President Nixon, according to Binning, has held his position as secretary of HEW since 1970. He is also currently serving on the Presidential Committee on Mental Retardation and the President's Council on Aging. He was the former Lieutenant Governor of the State of Massachusetts and has served as Under-secretary of State.

Schlesinger's delivery will precede a series of brief "issue-talks," also part of the National Teach-In, by area Young Democrats in Schwebel Auditorium. Among the speakers are Jack Dunn at 1:05 p.m. on Prisoners of War, Brad Hardman at 1:15 p.m. on Tax Reform, and Ron Joseph at 1:20 p.m. on Employment and Welfare. Directly following the speeches at 1:30 p.m. will be a slide show, entitled "Automated Air War," by YSU student and Vietnam veteran Joe Schuller. Russ Moore's impromptu guerilla theater piece, "Beyond Nixon," will be presented in the Auditorium at 2:10 p.m.

Camp Fitch conference produces positive suggestions for University

Although 60 members of the university community turned to the traditional means of a committee to decide how to disseminate the results of last Friday's overnight conference at Camp Fitch, the event itself was far from conventional.

Setting out to pinpoint the problems facing YSU and come up with possible solutions, the conferees were divided into six groups. Each group met for two sessions which lasted over two hours apiece. Roberts Rules of Order and parliamentary procedure were ignored for the duration of the event, and faculty/administration and student co-chairpersons were charged with guiding the discussions and presenting the results to the entire group at Saturday afternoon's final assembly.

Lack of communication at YSU and student and faculty apathy were repeatedly cited as widespread difficulties to which many other problems could be traced.

To alleviate such problems, one group suggested student/faculty/administration breakfasts at which issues could be discussed in an informal atmosphere and student representation at administrative meetings. It was pointed out by another group chairperson that the Student Center addition will alleviate some of the apathy perennially present at YSU, and another leader suggested an independent constitutional committee to study student Government and consider the possibility of coordinating it with the new Student Center boards.

The same group raised the possibility of coordinating Student Government elections with registration or payment fees to make it easier for students to cast ballots. Seen by the same group

SC studies functions of Kilcawley addition

The priority of functions scheduled for the new Kilcawley Student Center was re-ordered by Student Council at its weekly meeting yesterday afternoon.

Council surveyed a list of functions prepared by Porter Butts, planning consultant for the Kilcawley addition, and published in his report on the new center.

Student Council, which has been asked for input on the operative procedures for the new center, listed its opinion of priorities. Furthering a campus-centered student life was first chosen as the theme headlining the list. According to Council's consensus, the under-construction Kilcawley Center will serve 1) as a center for self-directed student activity; 2) as the common meeting place and hospitality center of the university, for students, faculty, alumni and visitors; 3) as a service center; 4) as a center for cultural recreation; 5) as the dining center of the university; and 6) as the center for adult conferences.

Along the same lines, Council discussed the implementation of two-board policy for the center. Mr. Butts' report recommends 1) a "general governing or policy board representative of the several university constituencies that use the center and pay for a large part of its operating cost - students, faculty, and even alumni;" and 2) "a board comprised entirely, or largely, of students which has the functions of program planning and program administration (90% of the cases), in which, of course, there also is a degree of policy making at every turn."

Council, after discussing the concepts of variously structured governing bodies, opted for the two board concept. There will be more discussion of Mr. Butts' report at later council meetings.

Under new business, Student Government President Tom Montgomery announced that a "rapid perception art" display will be held in Kilcawley Amphitheater from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. today through Friday. The show, arranged by Steve Kek, will feature "jewelry sized paintings" on ecology and wildlife preservation, which spans a quarter of a century of art influence. Mr. Kek has toured numerous universities with his display van, most recently appearing at the University of Pittsburgh.

Montgomery also listed three YSU students who will attend the Association of College Union's Regional conference in Columbus November 10 through 12th. The purpose of the conference will be to illustrate new campus activities and recreational pursuits. Montgomery said "I feel this is neces-

Home Economics Majors

Maggie Cochran, home economist from the Maytag Co., will speak to Home Economics majors at 1 p.m. tomorrow in Clingan-Waddell room 21. There will be an OHEA regional meeting Saturday, Nov. 11 at Notre Dame in Cleveland. Registration fee is $3. Sign-up closes on Wednesday, Nov. 1.

Republican Club

There will be a meeting of the YSU Republican Club at 7 p.m. tomorrow in the Buckeye Room.

YSU Pre-Law Society

Attorney Paul Dutton will speak to the YSU Pre-Law Society at its bimonthly meeting tomorrow at 12 p.m. in the Pollock House on the "Role of the Recent Law School Graduate in a Legal Firm." All members and interested students are invited to attend.

Testing Center

The Counseling and Testing Center will move from Ford Hall to 615 Bryson St. Thursday. Dr. George Letchworth suggests that anyone needing to get in touch with the staff Thursday or Friday come to 615 Bryson St.

Volleyball Clinic

Dr. Anthony Whitney, assistant professor of health and physical education will conduct an Olympic volleyball clinic from 8:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. on Saturday, Nov. 4, at Liberty Junior High School on Churchill-Hubbard Road. He will be assisted by a group of volleyball players with experience in international competition in presenting an explanation of skills and a game demonstration. Anyone interested is invited to bring four friends to participate in game activities. The event will be sponsored by the Youngstown Area Women's Physical Education and Recreation Association.

YSU Math Club

The YSU Math Club will hold an organizational meeting at 2 p.m. today in Room 255 of the Engineering Science Building. All interested people are invited to attend. Anyone who is interested but unable to attend is instructed to leave his name, address and phone number in Dr. Altinger's mail box in the mathematics office.

SNEA Meeting

The Student National Education Association will hold a meeting from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Thursday, October 26, at the Pollock House. All members are invited to attend.

PhiIiatric Society

The PhiIiatric Society will hold a general business meeting at 2 p.m. Thursday in Room 213 of Ward Beecher. All interested students are welcome. Refreshments will be served.

Feldmiller Awarded

Doctor Ilajem Feldmiller, associate professor of home economics here, has been awarded a life membership in the National Council of Administrators of Home Economics. Dr. Feldmiller has served both as a board member and state membership chairman of the Council newsletter. The honor of life membership goes to those who have served on the Board, and was presented at the fall board meeting of the association.

Debate Team garners win in Akron Invitational

One unit of YSU's debate team copped the Akron Invitational Debate Tournament's highest accolade, a first place trophy in the varsity division this past weekend in Akron.

The winning squad consisted of affirmatives Bill Zorn, freshman in biology, and Jack Fynes, junior in political science, with Barb Bilas and Chuck Wigley, sophomore math majors, forming the negative.

"I feel a lot like Bo Schembecker of the University of Michigan, who's football team beat Illinois 31-7 this weekend: 'We won but I'm still not satisfied,'" remarked Daniel O'Neill, assistant professor of speech and dramatics and debate coach, while summarizing the debaters' exploits.

YSU also sent another varsity unit to the tourney which was not nearly as successful, falling to the verbal assaults of six opponents while conquering only two. This team was composed of John Ostrowski, junior in political science, and Tom Reto, a junior in math. The winless negative was made up of Carl Basic, senior speech and dramatics major and Mike Boyle, senior in English. Reflecting on the slwoing of this squad, O'Neill, understated, "some of our more promising debaters had a rough day."

YSU novice debaters, Judy Nyers and Brian Scarnecchia, both freshmen in Arts and Sciences, garnered a third place trophy in the novice division, arguing to a 3-1 record.

The ruminators next outing will be this Saturday, October 28, at Dennison University.

Chess Lecture

United States Chess Federation expert, James Schroeder, will lecture on chess at 4 p.m. today in Schwebel Auditorium. The lecture will be followed by an exhibition. Anyone wishing to participate in the exhibition must supply his own set. Sets must be of the Staunton Style and have a King at least 3" high. Red and black squared boards will not be used.

Approval granted for YSU student nursing program

The Ohio State Board of Nursing Education and Nurse Registration has granted full approval to the associate degree program in nursing at YSU for another one-year period, it was announced yesterday by President Albert L. Pugsley.

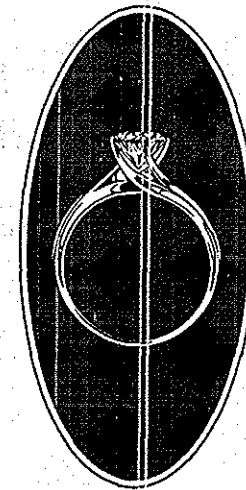

The approval, which YSU has been given every year since the associate program was started in 1967, is necessary to the continuation of the two-year program which leads to the associate in applied science degree. Approval is granted only on a yearly basis.

According to Miss Gilda DeCapita, chairman of the nursing department, graduates of the associate degree program are eligible to take the Ohio Licensing Examination for registered nurses and are prepared to serve as staff nurses in hospitals and clinics, as private duty nurses, and in doctor's offices.

The program consists of 101 quarter hours, 51 of which are in lower division nursing courses. Students who have satisfactorily completed the associate degree program in nursing must obtain the registered nurse certificate before entering the upper division courses.

Ex-lot attendant towed by security

An ex-parking lot attendant was arrested by campus police Friday afternoon after he attempted to strike a YSU security officer, said Paul Cress, campus security chief.

Ray Wall, about 24, of 80 South Hazelwood Avenue, was brought to the YSU Security Office after allegedly causing a disturbance in the Kilcawley cafeteria, at about 3 p.m. Believing the matter to be settled, Cress was going to let Wall leave the university area after a warning not to return. As Wall was leaving the office, he attempted to strike Security Officer Tom McMahn, who was entering the room. McMahn then handcuffed Wall, who was taken downtown to the Youngstown Police Department and booked on a charge of "disturbance." Wall will be arraigned tomorrow morning.

Stuart L. Aubrey, director of personnel, said yesterday that Wall's appointment as a parking lot attendant was a temporary one for the duration of a two-month period and expired June 30.

sary because obviously what we're doing isn't working". The three students who will attend are Tom Salpietro, Regina Farinelli, and Donna Tambolinas. Joseph Lupert, acting director of Student Activities, will accompany the group.

In other business, Montgomery, as a result of input received at the Camp Fitch retreat, exhorted Council to talk to the people they represent and not to lose sight of their constituency. He urged members to remember that they represent over 13,000 students on campus.

At the conclusion of Council's meeting, Pat Morgan, representative-at-large, began to discuss what he considered poor council coverage on the part of the Jambar. Jim Larene asked Mr. Morgan if he would assume chairmanship of Student Council publicity committee on the basis of his feelings about inadequate coverage. There was no response from Mr. Morgan.

Vote No on #2

While only two weeks remain until the Nov. 7 elections, the tremendous impact that the repeal of the state income tax could have upon the citizens of Ohio has not yet been communicated to the general populace to any great extent.

It appears that it will be up to individuals, particularly those involved in higher education, to inform themselves of the consequences of the repeal, which will appear on the ballot as Issue No. 2, and spread the word to the rest of the voters. We say that it is incumbent upon those who are members of an educational community to pass the facts because education will probably be the most drastically and immediately affected. According to Harold A. Hovey, state director of finance, "the implications for higher education in Ohio would be serious indeed" if the General Assembly were to react to a 25% plus reduction in income, the reduction which is expected if the income tax is repealed, with a 25% plus reduction in higher education spending.

In order to obtain revenue at the state level, which would certainly be necessary as repeal would affect state payrolls, school foundation payments, welfare payments and reimbursements to vendors to the state, other means to meet expenditures would have to be found.

It is here that the "little man" would be hardest hit. Possible if the repeal comes about are such revenue-raising means as an increased sales tax, possibly six cents on every dollar, or a flat rate income tax that would tax all households, regardless of income, at the same rate. Either device would be regressive, that is, would more heavily tax lower income families. For example, the Ohio Department of Taxation states that a two-cent higher sales tax would cost the typical Ohio family of four, with a $10,000 income, a total of $82 while an Ohio family with a income of $50,000 would pay only $146. The present graduated income tax puts a greater share of the tax load on those who can most afford it.

According to figures by the Ohioans for Fair Taxation, Issue No. 2 would cut corporation taxes by $148.2 million the first year, more thereafter; repeal the graduated tax on personal incomes; raise property taxes by at least 10 per cent and end the Homestead Exemption funding at an average loss of $105 to qualifying retired householders.

It all boils down to a very simple logic. Ohioans obtain certain services from the state, in education and elsewhere. We must pay for these services or face having them cut drastically. We are now presented with a choice of paying for them with a graduated income tax which taxes citizens on a sliding scale according to income and taxes corporations as well, or facing a flat tax or sales tax which would affect working citizens on the lower end of the income scale, as opposed to the very rich. Think about it. It makes sense. Spread the word. Vote no on Issue No. 2.

Letters to the Editor

Piqued by misplaced priorities

To the Editor of the Jambar:

I am writing to you in regards to the Fine Arts Building that is "under construction." I am very perturbed that in the last two catalogues unknowing freshmen are led to believe that during their college career they are going to take part in a new building. I was told at my addition for Dana that the building would be completed by the Fall of 1973. My high school band director, a Dana graduate, was told he would see the completion of the building and he has been teaching for six years now. I find it disgusting that a library (scheduled third on the priority list) or the Technical and Community College (scheduled fourth on the priority list) would come before a Fine Arts Building (scheduled second after Kilcawley) when the old ones would seem to suffice. We the music students are shuffled from building to building and expected to do adequate practicing in a building we "affectionately" call "the barn." There are 24 "rooms" that must accommodate approximately 300 students. Two years ago a dead dog was found in the basement after having been frozen all winter. And this "shuttle bus" is ridiculous. If one class is held over and you miss the bus, you either miss or walk to your next class.

Classes have to be cut by ten minutes in order to get the kids to and from Stambaugh Auditorium in time. Although this is supposed to be a temporary situation, the only cure, which should have come about last summer, is adding another building to the "Dana Line" to have to walk to.

Why, when music is one of the hardest curriculum to fulfill, do we have to wait until last for anything? The so-called plans for the new building are fast crumbling off the bulletin board due to age. If not for the fantastic quality of both students and faculty, the crumbled paper on the floor could just blow away and be forgotten.

Knocks ethnic 'narrowmindedness'

To the Editor of the Jambar:

Many scoff at the ridicule as "dumb" the idea of Polish, or any other ethnic study at this University. Perhaps their comments are of one uneducated in the cultural revolution which is now taking place in this country and abroad. For this lack of information they can be forgiven; however, to forgive narrowmindedness in this matter is much more difficult.

This narrowmindedness leads them to believe that 3,600 persons who signed a petition for Polish on campus are "dumb." Further, they distrust anyone interested in furthering the cause of ethnic studies. Gradually this narrowmindedness becomes a growing illness which has the infected individuals believing the ethnic jokes which they hear and unjustly stereotyping national groups.

Perhaps the narrowness is further projected by television and commercials which show certain ethnic groups in particular situations. All of the above extends the facade of fatuity typical of narrowness.

As for the comments of these individuals having an effect on the implementation of the Polish courses, one can only state that the Polish can be exemplified by the following proverb: "A Pole never gives out, never gives in and never gives up."

This shall continue to be our motto!

For education courses---

Senate passes CR/NE proposal

Getting a proposal passed in the University Senate at the October meeting was the harvest reaped after over two years labor by two YSU professors.

"Passing the proposal for Credit/No Entry grading system for practicum courses in Education was an educationally liberal decision of the University Senate and a real breakthrough for YSU students," said Dr. H. Thomas McCracken, associate professor of English and co-author of the proposal with Dr. William Hammack, director of student teaching.

Dr. Hammack added, "The proposal was received more openly by the Senate than even the authors had anticipated."

Dr. Hammack began working for a change from the traditional grading system for student teaching over 2 years ago. "Since there were so many variables, there was no way of solidifying a good grade scale; therefore, our campus supervisors, Dr. McCracken included, wanted a change," Dr. Hammack said.

After taking two surveys, Dr. Hammack concluded that the majority of state universities were using non-traditional type grades for student teaching and that employers first consider the descriptive evaluation made by the cooperating teacher and campus supervisor and only then the grade in student teaching and overall point average of a student.

Dr. McCracken said that a poll of 48 undergraduate students working for certification in both elementary and secondary areas and 28 graduate students who were teachers or aides showed they overwhelmingly favored Credit/No Entry to traditional grades in student teaching.

After going through the proper committees in the School of Education, the proposal was approved by 80% of the School of Education faculty and went to the Academic Affairs Committee of the University "which suggested some changes before they would recommend it to the Senate," Dr. Hammack said.

Dr. McCracken stated, "The proposal went to the Senate as Credit/No Credit but after two amendments passed as CR/Incomplete/NE which was what we wanted to begin with."

Drs. Hammack and McCracken pointed out advantages the CR/NE grading system has for a student teacher: he can have greater freedom in using innovative methods of teaching with the chance of practicing and even making mistakes without the penalty of a grade; he can take the practicum more than once without penalty if he needs more time to develop satisfactory skills and if he finds teaching is not for him, the student teacher can withdraw at any time without penalty.

Suddes on Economou

In Friday's Forum column regarding the current administration's handling of the war, the writer mentions his belief that most of the South Vietnamese support the one-man administration of President Thieu. A question comes to my mind regarding that statement: If most of the South Vietnamese population supports Thieu as your wide-ranging poll suggests, Mr. Economou, then why is he so afraid to prove it in a free election? The one-man elections held last year in South Vietnam seem to say that, at the least, Thieu himself doesn't believe in his widespread support among the population. To suggest even more, your polling technique was grossly inaccurate.

Furthermore, words such as Viet Cong and Hanoi probably draw no more fear and hatred in the hearts of the South Vietnamese than the words Lincoln and Yankee drew in the hearts of those living in the Confederacy during our civil war. This hatred and fear does not deny the righteousness of the emancipation of black slaves any more than it denies the righteousness of the determination to reunite a divided country (i.e., Vietnam).

How much time does the Saigon Government need to establish anything remotely resembling democracy or more important, freedom? Eighteen years is a terribly long time, but at least long enough for the impatience of the people to call for the assassination of the tyrannical Diem. As I pointed out in a previous Forum column, to a large degree the political assassination which Mr. Economou suggests might be enough of an excuse for Thieu to curb the civil liberties of the people are carried out by the South Vietnamese Army against opponents of the Thieu government. Stewart Alsop, whom Mr. Economou quoted might take not of the "incorruptible democracy" which is more than what we bleed-heart liberals are suggesting for South Vietnam. A pinch of political freedom and a dash of tolerance for dissenters would be a satisfactory beginning. I think Alsop would have been more correct in suggesting that it is an insult to our intelligence to suggest that we are fighting for the right of the South Vietnamese people to determine their future. More correctly we are fighting for the right of President Thieu to decide his choice of a political future for the South Vietnamese people, even if that includes dictatorial powers.

Regarding religious opposition to the war, perhaps (but only perhaps) North Vietnam is guilty of suppressing it. But Saigon is hardly better. On page five of the October 18th Youngstown Vindicator, note in column one the article about the imprisonment of a Catholic priest for five years only because he printed articles of an antiwar nature. Freedom to express one's religious beliefs as well as freedom of the press are nonexistent in South Vietnam.

Persons in our country accused of treason are given a fair trial. It's too bad for political opponents to Thieu who are discovered by Operation Phoenix that they are summarily executed, whether they are found guilty of treason or not.

Your fears that a bloodbath will occur if the Communists take over stands on shaky grounds, Mr. Economou. If one should occur, it would only complement the bloodbath taking place now as a result of B-52 bombing raids over North Vietnam. As my friend Jesus once said, "Let he who has no sin cast the first stone." The fact that Thieu made it out of North Vietnam following the Communist victory in the early 1950's places doubt on your hypothesis.

I certainly hope that Mr. Nixon can make substance of the present peace rumors circulating. I wonder, if peace comes soon, will it only be coincidental that it happens so close to November 7th? It seems to me that Nixon has worked harder for peace in the last two weeks than he did during the previous three and a half years. If my implications are true, I'm sorry for 20,000 dead Americans that the elections were not held the day after inauguration day back in 1969.

Educators for McGovern

"With the exception of his failure to end the war, there is no darker chapter in the Presidency of Richard Nixon than his exploitation of the difficult questions and emotion surrounding this issue of busing. The President has used the issue to obscure his total failure to check the rapid slide in the quality of our nation's schools. He has stood back and watched classrooms become so overcrowded that children have to share desks, teachers have no time to teach and he's done nothing about it. He has stood back and watched school buildings—especially in our cities—turn into rundown warehouses for young people, and he has done nothing about that. He has watched school systems go virtually bankrupt and homeowners go into debt trying to pay their property taxes, and he has done nothing about that. The President has always been able to find billions of dollars for missiles, but three times in the last years he has vetoed needed funds for education." (George McGovern, Democratic Presidential Candidate, Sept. 23, 1972.)

This record of vetoes of education bills is unsurpassed by any President in living memory. Presidents Roosevelt, Truman, Kennedy and Johnson did not even veto one.

Exceeding my budget recommendations by $1.8 billion, this bill is a perfect example of...reckless Federal spending. What Congress has done is take my...1973 budget proposals ($28.7 billion) and balloon them to fiscally dangerous proportions.

While President Nixon calls increased expenditures for education "fiscally dangerous," he is at the same time escalating defense expenditures.

Our plans next year call for an increase in defense spending. We will proceed with programs to reoutfit our Polaris submarines with the Poseidon missile system, to replace older land based missiles with Minutemen III, and to deploy the SAFEGUARD Antibalistic Missile System. (President Richard Nixon, State of the Union Message, Jan. 20, 1972.)

It is worthwhile to examine the budget figures themselves.

The actual budget (Summary of Budget Outlays, "The U.S. Budget in Brief, 1973," 1972.) contains a "recommended budget authority" of $85.36 billion for national defense in fiscal 1973, an increase over the 1972 estimate of $78 billion. The President failed to make clear by what "secret yardstick" an 8% increase in an already swollen defense budget could be non-inflationary, whereas a 6% increase for a Congressionally authorized HEW appropriation, providing funds for libraries, vocational and adult education and cancer research, is "clearly excessive." (HR 15417 Veto Message, Aug. 16, 1972.)

Senator McGovern, in his address to the AFT National Convention, when he accepted their endorsement for his Presidential bid, commented further on Nixon's lopsided priorities. (Candidate George McGovern, St. Paul, Aug. 24, 1972.)

"The same budget that provides $400 for every person in this country for military purposes provides a $12 contribution for elementary and secondary school education. And I think that's a case of priorities being upside down. For almost a decade now, year after year, we've been willing to spend nearly $22,000 for every single Vietnamese soldier we kill in the jungles of Southeast Asia, and during all that time we averaged about $44 in federal aid to educate the primary school student in this country. And that's a case of priorities being upside down. I think the time has come to stop spending more money killing children in Asia, and start spending it to teach children here in America." George McGovern's specific proposals speak to our educational needs.

"As President I would propose $15 billion to local school systems to assure substantial property tax relief...justice." (Candidate George McGovern, Wall Street Speech, Aug. 29, 1972.)

Highlights of McGovern's legislative achievements in the field of education include:

1. Drafting and managing the National Defense Education Act of 1958; sponsoring or co-sponsoring the following:
2. Fogarty-McGovern Act of 1958 (training funds for teachers of mentally retarded children);
3. Headstart Child Development Act, 1969;
4. National School Lunch and Child Nutrition Act, 1970; and,
5. Department of Education Act, 1971!

The informed educator's choice could not be more clear on November 7th. Nixon's duplicity in this vital area of education, his contemptuous freeze on contracted wage increases a year ago, his failure to accomplish his explicit campaign pledge to end the war, his favoritism toward special interests, his administration's moral malfeasance, all promise us that "Four More Years" spells certain deepening of the American Crisis.

Transcendental lectures tomorrow---

Insight into meditation offered

The first of two free introductory lectures on transcendental meditation will be delivered at 3 p.m. and again at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Ward Beecher Science Hall, Room 212. Janet Matranga, director of the YSU chapter of the Students' International Meditation Society, will speak at both sessions.

Miss Matranga, who is also a trained community instructor for the Society, has studied for several months under the tutelage of Maharishi Mahesh Yogi, and has been teaching the techniques of transcendental meditation for a year and a half. She said recently that the Students' Society, active on this campus since September, was begun as a university-affiliated organization to make use of campus facilities for meetings. She estimates that nearly 25 students regularly practice TM here, and that an increased demand for a Meditation Society was instrumental in the formation of the YSU chapter.

Tomorrow's lecture will examine the history and personal benefits of meditation, and will mark the kickoff of S.I.M.S.' recruiting drive for new members. A second lecture, set for 3 p.m. and 8 p.m. next Tuesday in Room 302 of Ward Beecher, will discuss the mechanics of the practice.

Anyone who is interested in transcendental meditation is urged to attend both lectures. Immediately following the second lecture Miss Matranga will conduct private interviews with prospective TM students. During the following week these persons will receive instruction on a one-to-one basis for four consecutive days. The first meeting will be a private one, while the next three days will be spent in group sessions. Trainees will then return for weekly advanced lessons, after which they will undergo monthly "experimental verifications," or progress checks.

Students' International Meditation Society has its coordinating center at 1449 Ohio Avenue in Youngstown.

Dean's Council makes final plans for engineers ball

Plans for the annual Engineer's Ball to be held Friday, November 17, at the Slovak Catholic Sokol Center, are being finalized by the Dean's Council of the William Rayen School of Engineering.

An Engineer's Sweetheart and Mr. Engineer will be named during the ball by popular vote of the engineering students. Each girl's organization is requested to nominate and support a Sweetheart Candidate during the election. In order to qualify, the candidate must be a full-time student, has good academic standing according to university policy and must show interest in the engineering student.

Elections will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. Monday, November 13, through Friday, Nov. 17.

Application forms may be obtained from Mrs. Davis at the Dean's Office, School of Engineering in the Engineering Science Building until Tuesday, Oct. 31.

Camp Fitch

to become involved was a reorganization of the information from the ACT tests taken by incoming freshmen to categorize each student's interests and supply the information to campus organizations for "recruitment" of members.

Many specific suggestions were recorded by group leaders, including the possibility of discontinuing the Neon with its allotment of approximately $40,000 to be put toward and expanded Placement Center. Improved career advisement and job placement were cited as specific goals.

The improvement of the Health Clinic's facilities was considered, resulting in the suggestion that the Student Affairs office conduct a study of the utilization of student health insurance and obtain statistics on how many students have used the Free Clinic.

Another group suggested that the vice president for administrative affairs create a task force on orientation and that a centralized committee be activated to begin plans for the Kilcawley Center activities.

Following the presentation of each group's suggestions, the assembly decided that each group leader would present a report to Dr. George E. Letchworth, director of the Counseling Center, or Skip Dais, chairman of Student Council, co-ordinators of the event. A steering committee will decide the most effective means of disseminating the results to the university community.

Reverting to a bit of parliamentary procedure, the assembly unanimously voted to urge the defeat of State Issue 2 on the Nov. 7 ballot, the repeal of the income tax.

Attending the conference were approximately 38 students, nine faculty members and 13 administrators, including President Pugsley and the three vice presidents.

Coach fulfills word; riflemen bag Akron U.

Like we said last week, Coach Bob Fairchild wants to win the LEIRC championship in style, and in keeping with his wish, his Penguin shooters downed the defending champs, Akron, 1250-1151.

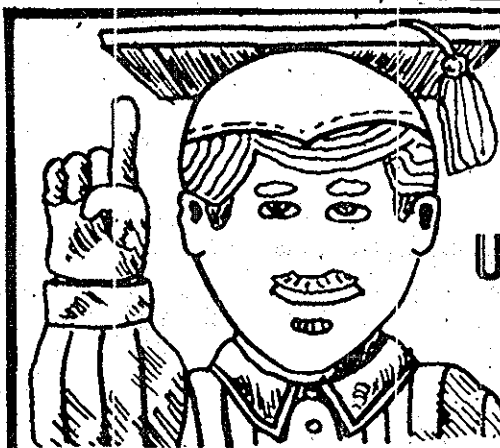

Fairchild attributes his 99 point victory to depth. "Most teams depend on one or two shooters to carry the team. I don't. I depend on eight decent shooters. None of our men had an exceptional night, but everyone did a decent job. The difference is that our decent job is the equivalent to most other team's good job."

At any rate, YSU left the Akronites stunned as all eight shooters shot over the respected

230 mark. Junior Gene Ellis led the YSU scoring with 261 points. Four other top lettermen followed Gene: Rich Blomstrom, 258; Captain Ron Kline, 245; Chuck Ramser and Russ Semchee, 243; newcomer Paul Wyrko, 241; and veterans Rick Adams, 236; and Dave Daugherty, 231

MSG Fairchild may call this a "Humble" start, but it-most definitely is a step in the right direction.

The Riflemen are idle this week, preparing for a meet with another "depth" team, Gannon, on November 3.

Dr. Erik Ritter von Kuehnelt-Leddihn, writer, lecturer, philosopher, teacher and traveler will speak at 1:00 p.m. on Tuesday, October 24th in the Schwebel Hall, Engineering-Science Building, of Youngstown State University campus. His topic will be The World Today: Left or Right? which is an analysis of some of the trouble spots in the world.

Dr. Kuehnelt-Leddihn received a doctor's degree from the University of Budapest in 1929. He speaks 8 languages and has a reading knowledge of 19 others to facilitate his research. He has taught at several American universities including Georgetown University, Chestnut Hill College and St. Peter's College. He taught Japanese at Fordham University for one year. His many experiences include living in a Navahoe Indian Reservation, studying Alaskan urban development, hitch-hiking through the Rocky Mountains and working on an assembly line.

Dr. Kuehnelt-Leddihn has written several books and essays. His novels include Gates of Hell, which was confiscated by the Nazis, Moscow: 1979, and Night over the East. Two of his nonfiction books are: Liberty or Equality and America's Founding Fathers. His most recent book is The Timeless Christian which was published in 1969. In the field of journalism, he has contributed to many newspapers and magazines throughout the world. In the United States, his articles have appeared in, The Southwest Review, The Journal of the History of Ideas, Journal of Central European Affairs, The Freeman and Modern Age.

While in the United States, Dr. Kuehnelt-Leddihn is on a speaking tour arranged by the Intercollegiate Studies Institute. His visit to Youngstown State University is being sponsored by the Libertarian Society, a campus organization. The lecture is free and open to the public.

Jaworski passes Pens past foe

Though it really should not be such a great surprise, a few less than five thousand loyal Penguin followers were stunned Saturday night as Mr. "Rifle-Ron" Jaworski led YSU's gridiron warriors on a 12-play, 91-yard, last minute touchdown drive and a two-point conversion to unzip Akron University's Zips, 22-21.

With three minutes and sixteen seconds left in the game, on a rainy, cold and windy field and trailing Akron by seven points, the Penguins received an Akron punt on their own nine yard line. A fair catch was called and there was no runback.

Seven Jaworski passes, five Dave Garden runs and one 15-yard penalty against Akron and the Penguins were in the end zone, still trailing by one. For the second straight game, the big gamble: they went for the two point conversion. And it was really quite simple.

Penguin tight-end John Toy ran across the goal line, rolled into the right flank and took a perfect strike from Jaworski for the two-pointer.

The Penguins now have a record of two wins and three losses. Statistics show, once again, that the win was no fluke. The Penguins topped the Zips in first downs, 19-13; in offensive plays, 69-60; in total yardage, 302-272 and, of course, in points, 22-21.

Saturday will find the Penguins on the road, in Cincinnati for an afternoon game with Xavier.

During halftime ceremonies, the loyal Penguin followers saw YSU's 1972 Homecoming Queen, Evie Kun, crowned. Sharing in the spotlight were Irene Papadacos, chosen first runner-up and Nancy Little, second runner-up. Miss Kun is a junior business education major, a member of Zeta Tau Alpha sorority and president of the Panhellenic Council. Miss Papadacos is a junior medical technology major and member of the International Student Organization. Miss Little is a sophomore elementary education major and a member of Delta Sigma Theta sorority.

Write in: candidate and puppy dog, O.J., was not present at the ceremonies. O.J. reportedly finished second to last in the balloting.

Galbraith gives pitch at McGovern rally

A McGovern-for-president rally punctuated by symbolic charade, was held in the Kilkawley amphitheater Friday afternoon, featuring guest speaker James Galbraith, district coordinator for the McGovern campaign.

A fake shooting and series of dramatics preceded Galbraith's talk. Approximately 75 students and faculty looked on as a re-enactment of the 1970 Kent killings was staged, and four students symbolically bit the dust on the green grass of Kilkawley lawn. Others in the program then began shouting their vehement opposition to the present administration.

The smoke having cleared, Mr. Galbraith gave his talk, praising Democratic presidential candidate Sen. George McGovern.

Galbraith in his 15 minute talk remarked that the Nixon administration will be remembered in history as the "administration of the secret plan," commenting on the number of "promises made but not kept" by Republican presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon.

Galbraith pointed out the major differences between the two presidential candidates in areas of the Vietnam war, inflation, tax structures and urban problems. In conclusion, he urged the voters in attendance to support George McGovern with both campaign donations and their vote.

Many, many thanks, to my friends and especially to my Sisters of Zeta Tau Alpha - for your enthusiasm and support.

I am very honored and proud. It was a beautiful weekend.

Love always,
Evie

Media center enhances instruction

The use of modern media technology in the classroom of the future is a working reality today on the YSU campus, bringing to students and professors, a "richer way to communicate," according to Dr. Winston H. Eshleman, director of YSU's media center.

The center is an academic service department presently located on the third floor of the library, designed to "supplement and enhance classroom instruction through various audio and visual presentations," says Dr. Eshleman.

One of the services available for faculty and departmental use is that of television production through reel to reel video tape. The taping process, done on location due to lack of studio facilities, involves a VTR (video tape recorder) unit, at least one camera and one mike, plus a monitor.

Several departments have used the available taping equipment in a variety of ways as a teaching mechanism.

For instance, the School of Education has filmed student teachers delivering lectures as device for allowing the prospective teacher to observe and hear himself as he appears to a class. Also, the Department of Counseling and Guidance has taped counselors during the interviews in order to sharpen their techniques in counseling. In addition, sports skills such as swimming and football have been taped and replayed for the participants.

Pianist plans recital stop prior to recording tour

Roman Rudnytsky, assistant professor of piano at the Dana School of Music, will present a recital tomorrow at Ocean County College in Tomas River, New Jersey. This presentation will precede the dedication of the new Fine Arts Center.

On November 5, Rudnytsky will leave for his ninth European concert tour to Poland and Romania. In Poland, he will record the Liszt 12 Transcendental Etudes for the Polish state record company, Polskie Nagrania, and appear as soloist in Rachmaninoff's Piano Concerto No. 3 with the Radio Symphony in the city of Krakow.
