

Skip Davis re-elected; leads Council in new term

William "Skip" Davis was re-elected as chairman of Student Council and Rick Crossman was elected vice chairman during installation proceedings of newly elected council members at this quarter's last council meeting yesterday.

Crossman will succeed Jerome Parm who will remain on Council as the representative of the Education School. Barb Busch was re-elected as secretary.

Students seated who were elected in last month's Student Government election are: Skip Davis, senior (re-elected), and Judy Barrett, junior, in business; Roger Gossick, junior, in arts and sciences; juniors Evie Kun and Mike Bongiorno in education; Phil Janecko, senior in engineering and John Thorsby, junior, T&CC.

In old business finance chairman Jim Rak announced that henceforth "an honoraria" would be filled out for all organizations allotted money from Council's Speaker's Fund. This form should be procured by the concerned organization two weeks prior to the speaking engagement. Rak said there is $2,200 left in the Speakers Fund.

In a move designed to widen student interest and knowledge of Student Council, Tom Montgomery, Student Government president, unveiled the "Ask Me" program. Montgomery explained that each member of Council would be asked to wear a T-shirt each Monday inscribed with the phrase "Ask Me" on the front and Student Government annotated on the back. This would help, said Montgomery, to publicize Council, its members, and give students access and knowledge about their representatives. One member, when asked if he was going to vote for the motion retorted, "Hell yes, I need clothes."

The suggestion, when brought before Council in the form of a motion, easily passed. Further details will be discussed at next quarter's council meetings.

Council advisors Dr. C. David Bertelsen and Dr. Sally Hotchkiss expressed their gratitude and appreciation of the efforts of the outgoing Council members. All Members who served a full-term in office were presented pins and charms for service.

Further allocations sought for Bliss

"I'm optimistic that we won't have to make program cuts in Bliss Hall if we can get one half million dollars transferred from that power plant project," Dr. John J. Coffelt, vice president for administrative affairs said yesterday.

The lowest bid for the structure amounted to $5,827,577—nearly one million dollars over the $4,827,855 available.

Dr. Coffelt said the university will approach the Control Board in Columbus for approval of the transfer of funds which are expected to be available from the steam plant project. The architectural firm of Hanahan and Strollo and Associates is currently redrawing the Bliss Hall building

Student vacancies remain open for Senate committee positions

Only 29 of 92 student positions on the University Senate committees are filled noted Rick Crossman, Student Council nominating chairman yesterday.

Crossman, a junior in T&CC, lists the requisites for the committee positions as a 2.25 cumulative point average, sufficient hours to be classified as full time, and undergraduate rank.

When questioned about the abundance of vacancies, (as nearly two-thirds of the seats are unfilled) Crossman held "If the students knew what it's about... how these committees bring change to the Senate floor" then more applications might arrive.

Crossman admits that the committees have only the power of recommendation but insists that they are legitimate vehicles for campus change.

A committee is open to all those fulfilling the above requisites unless their school is already represented on said committee. Only the large committees may have more than one applicant from a given school. Representation, thus, is not proportional, rather it is extended equally to each school on a "first come" basis.

The positions filled contain thirteen Arts and Sciences students, seven from the School of Business, four from the T&CC, three Engineers and two from Education. Dana is unrepresented on the committees. Since membership is voluntary, the lack of representation for any school is by student choice.

Committees presently open to all students regardless of school include: Catalog (2 positions), Public Ceremonial Affairs (3), Health and Safety (2), International Students (4), Computer (2), Calendar and Coordination (3), Athletic Council (4) and Honors Courses and Programs (2).

Positions open to those other than Arts and Sciences students are on the following committees: University relations (2 positions), Radio Broadcasting Station (1), Curriculum (2), and Academic Affairs (1).

Committees with vacancies for those not in Arts and Sciences and Business consist of: Traffic Control Board (1 position), Student Development (1), Student

Committee of nine selected to name Dike's successor

A nine-member search committee representing the administration, alumni community, faculty and student body has been selected to recommend a successor to Dwight "Dike" Beede, retiring Football coach.

The appointment of the committee was announced recently by Dr. Peter A. Baldino, associate professor of Education and chairman of the YSU Athletic Council. Dr. Baldino will serve as co-chairman of the search committee with Willard L. Webster, athletic director.

Search committee members include Dr. John J. Coffelt, vice president for administrative affairs, Mr. Margaret J. Connelly, assistant professor of health and physical education, Skip Davis, Student Council chairman, Hugh A. Frost, assistant to the president, Judge Elwyn V. Jenkins, Mahoning County Court of Common Pleas, Frank W. Knecht, alumni representative to the YSU Athletic Council, and Dr. Frank J. Tarantine, professor of mechanical engineering.

The group is now accepting applications which should be mailed directly to Dr. Baldino at the University. After screening and interviewing applicants, the committee will recommend its choices to President Albert L. Pugsley. The nominations are expected to be made by mid-January.

Beede, who started football at YSU in 1938, completed 32 years and an overall coaching career of 40 years Saturday. He reaches the mandatory state retirement age of 70 in January. Beede will continue to teach a forestry course at YSU until the conclusion of the spring quarter in June.

Gilligan approves students on college Trustee Boards

Ohio Governor John J. Gilligan approved last week a proposal which put students on the Board of Trustees of colleges and universities across the state.

The recommendation was made November 14 in Columbus at the first official meeting of the Governor's Student Advisory Board. The plan will be tested at Miami University and University of Cincinnati. Each will have a vacancy on their Board of Trustees December 31, 1972. If the plan is successful the governor will consider implementing it at all statewide institutions on a formal basis.

In other action taken by the governor, it was approved that a commission of five members each be established at each university. Membership on the Council has been outlined by the governor as follows: one trustee, one administrator, two faculty and two students, and three members of the general public. This Trustee Nominating Council would subsequently submit a list of individuals for potential Board of Trustee memberships. The governor can then select one student to fill any Board of Trustee vacancy.

In a statement released to the Jambar yesterday, Joan Krayanski, YSU representative to the Student Advisory Board, stated that the Board "could prove to be a useful voice for students, as many avenues of communications within individual universities seem to be blocked to the students."

The Governor will begin making appointments to the Council within the week. Miss Krayanski, in consultation with Student Government, will recommend the names of students to be council members.

Student teachers sponsor seminar for professionals

The YSU Student Teaching Office will host an Evaluation Seminar for Cooperating Professional Teachers in the YSU Student Teaching program, at 1 p.m. today in Schwebel Auditorium of the Engineering Science building.

The seminar will open with a program on "Non-Traditional Grading in Student Teaching, Philosophy Supporting and Rationale for Cr, I, n/e symbols" presented by Dr. H. Thomas McCracken, associate professor of English and English-Education Supervisor.

This will be followed by a session on "Descriptive Evaluations Format and Examples," and a feedback session from 2-2:30 p.m.

According to Dr. Wilbert M. Hammack, director of student teaching at YSU, the thrust of the seminar will be toward the frequency and a format for the cooperating teachers to evaluate student teachers.

In addition to cooperating teachers, the seminar is open to all school principals and other administrative and staff personnel.

Field instructors hold student evaluation meeting Thursday

The field instructors participating in new Social Service Field Work course will attend their third and final meeting at 1:30 p.m., Thursday, in room 408 Lincoln Project.

The purpose of the meeting is to evaluate the 17 YSU students enrolled in the new course in their performance at area social agencies. The students receive six credit hours for 14 hours of assigned field work each during the fall quarter.

Representatives from the 14 social agencies who have had YSU students assigned to them will attend.

Commercial advertising deadlines are 11:00 a.m. Monday and Thursday for the following day's paper.

Ask Council

Veterans of Student Council can today begin to proudly wear the pins and charms they received at yesterday's meeting when the old members departed to make room for the new. The jewelry is a symbol — but a symbol of what? What have been the accomplishments of the body of student representatives that meets in the Buckeye Room every Monday afternoon? The end of the first quarter would seem to be an appropriate time to evaluate the actions of this body which has been seated since last Winter Quarter.

Most recently, Council axed the concept of Homecoming Queen. But the Major Events Committee, a body which answers to Council, failed to produce a Homecoming Concert.

Council funded an overnight conference at Camp Fitch. Most of the Council members who participated came back with rather positive feelings about studying the concerns of the university community, but how much of this attitude has carried over throughout the rest of the quarter? Feelings have run toward the negative with a Council member two weeks ago proposing the dissolution of the body and then, inexplicably on the surface at least, cancelling the second reading.

This is the same body that last year brought us the Pugsley referendum. "Be it resolved," the Winter Quarter student ballot motion read, "that President Pugsley resign and or retire at the end of the year." A grand gesture indeed, but what did it produce?

Two penguins sit in the Pittsburgh Zoo, funding approved and then later rescinded by Student Council when it belatedly discovered that the feelings of its constituency ran strongly against having the two birds caged on campus.

Penguins, referendum, a seminar, no Homecoming concert. All among the non-accomplishments of Student Council. No valuable legislation, save the abolishment of the Homecoming Queen elections, comes to mind. "Ask me" will be emblazoned on the T-shirts our representatives will wear each Monday next quarter. Yes, ask them. Ask them when they will finally effect the dissolution of this obviously ineffectual legislative body. A regrouping of forces into another union of students not recognized by the administration, a plan considered feasible by some, is a naive notion which would result in a body with a total lack of legitimate power.

Yes, ask them whether they have plans to dissolve. It's the only logical move.

Letters to the Editor

Dramatizes cultural non-coverage

To the editor of the Jambar:

Presently running at the Youngstown Playhouse is a production of "Jacques Brel is Alive and Well and Living in Paris." This is a unique show — musically exciting and totally provocative in content. It would appeal to the students of Youngstown State University.

The Jambar has refused to do any coverage on the show or even to review it on the basis that it is outside University domain. This is ignoring the fact that within the small company there are five University students, two University faculty members, and a member of the University administrative staff. It seems the only way to inform the YSU student, who is not a Vindicator subscriber, is through a letter to the editor of the Jambar. Publicity and audiences we do not need — the show will sell itself. This letter, I repeat, is simply to inform the interested student of a theatrical offering in this city, off campus.

The question one asks is why the "educated" University mind, as represented by the Jambar, does not feel it necessary to support the cultural functions of this community? Should not one of the functions of a University publication be to broaden the student's interests in all areas?

Judging from last Tuesday's editorial concerning the Bliss Hall controversy, our editor's priorities are coldly objective and totally insensitive to the needs of a significant and viable segment of the University community. These same insensitivities come into play, in some odd way, when we witness the ability of an administration to construct the gorgeous Beeghly Hall complex, and then to create the wasteland that will be left of the not-so-blissful Bliss Hall.

Janice Aubrey
Musical Director
Youngstown Playhouse

(Ed. Note: The Jambar did consider covering the show currently running at the Playhouse, but recent issues have been relatively tight, i.e., a large amount of news had to be fit into the space available, and news of events on campus does receive priority.)

Editorializes on recent editorial

To the editor of the Jambar:

It is perhaps obvious that YSU is an educational institution. It perhaps goes without saying that the creation and publication of each issue of the Jambar is an experience which is part of the education of journalism students at YSU. The quality of the journalism represented in each Jambar is, however, suspect, as all journalistic products should be whether the vehicle be the Jambar or the Youngstown Vindicator or the New York Times. A lapse in quality is easily recognizable in the editorial appearing in the Nov. 21, 1972 issue of the Jambar.

A responsible student journalist should not have considered the actions and reactions of the fine arts students as emotional nor short-sighted nor generated by paranoia had that student journalist sought the causes for the students' conduct — all the causes — and what the cuts in the proposed fine arts building comprise and who was responsible for the priorities of the cuts. The editorial accused the fine arts students of lacking true perspective (whatever that is) and rational thought among other things.

It appears to me that the author of the editorial lacked the proper perspective and logic necessary to deal accurately with the subject. The conduct of the fine arts students is — was — not emotional but organized with the hope of changing the priorities in the projected cuts in the fine arts building. I also question the historico-financial rationale which the editorial presents as parameters for expansion on the campus. Where are the students and academic criteria in the argument?

Scores plaudits for bootsters

To the editor of the Jambar:

With culturally diverse backgrounds and common interest in soccer the only unifying factors, the YSU Soccer Club has recently enjoyed its winningest season percentage-wise. An unlikely mixture of players from Scotland, Germany, Thailand, Peru and the United States produced a team which managed to defeat state ranked teams.

Special thanks must be given to Dr. Hanzely and Dr. Koknat, who sacrificed their valuable time while inspirationally guiding the team to a fruitful season. The Jambar is to be commended for its thorough coverage of the matches, and the publicity it afforded the team.

Perhaps now the future holds promise of an expanded program as a university sanctioned varsity sport. However, numerous obstacles need to be overcome, and increased student involvement and active support is mandatory.

Accordingly, all interested or soccer inclined students are urged to join the YSU Soccer Club to help the team to realize its full potential. Information pertaining to the Club can be obtained either by contacting Dr. Hanzely or attending the next club workout.

With the great interest expressed in the intramural soccer program, I hope a number of players will continue to pursue and enjoy soccer through membership in the Soccer Club. The tools for building a successful soccer program are there; help is needed in providing material which can be used as a firm foundation for the sport of soccer. Lend a foot.

Award

Nestled in the steel mills of Northeastern Ohio lies a non-supported, state-sectarian university known by the many for its indiscriminate awarding of associate degrees in the Arts, Sciences, Music, Business, Engineering, and Education under such titles as Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Sciences.

Known by few is yet another award which this university confers called the "Burning Issue of the Year Award." Of prime consideration when selecting recipients are (1) amount of inconsequential rhetoric produced by the students and faculty of the university concerning the issue, and (2) that nothing much changes, anyhow. Recent titleholders include Chuck Hettler, Pete the Penguin, and the current champ, the Foreign Language Requirement.

This year, the Economu-Suddes Debates within the Jambar Forum and Letters to the Editor and the issue of Student Council were gaining favor with the judges. However, if the two recent articles in the Forum concerning Bliss Hall (which is almost a sure bet for the "Misnomer of the Year Award") are any indication, the one from a Dana representative which obviously should have been screened by the head of the Music Department, and the other, from Speech and Drama, which obviously was screened, if not written, by the head of the Drama Department, the award may yet be up for grabs, maybe.

I say, "Maybe," because recent investigation has uncovered a condition, as yet unmentioned, concerning Bliss Hall which may account, if we are to believe what has been said, for the propped building filled with air-conditioning shafts, a dark, noisy theatre and an orchestral recital room which would have trouble accomodating the "Carpenters." The condition is that the architects of this university, Plain & Simple, along with the Imperial Wizard of the State Coiffers, "Coins" Gilligan, are bound irrsolutely to a pledge made when Youngstown University became Youngstown State University. This pledge, under the code name, "A Box for Their Thoughts," includes four hard and fast rules which cannot, under penalty of gaining individuality, be broken, and are

- (1) Structures will contain classrooms with openings to indoor hallways and air shafts, only.
- (2) Dormitories will house no more than one half of one percent of the student body.
- (3) Structures will have color-coded wings and corridors, preferably white, and
- (4) Expenditures for future buildings at Youngstown State University shall not exceed one million dollars less than the lowest contractual bid.

If this condition is adhered to, no amount of persuasion can help alter the course of events, but, as we all know, in the world of business, hard and fast rules are never broken, they just never exist.

More Letters

Jabs Jambar's jabberwocky

To the editor of the Jambar:

The Fall quarter is quickly coming to a close - - - the New Year will soon be upon us. For those of us who are graduating seniors, the future remains hidden as we head into the unavoidable changes which will occur in our personal lives and into the world. As a senior, it is my one wish that some of this spirit of change will hit the presses of the YSU paper, Jambar.

During the past few quarters, many students have been increasingly disillusioned with the newspaper reporting, editorializing and managing of the Jambar. Supposedly a student paper, the Jambar does not always reflect the feelings of the student body, nor does it give equal coverage to all segments. It seems that the Jambar has adopted a new policy of "news-worthiness" by the staff. It seems they feel that a college student cannot read and evaluate news for themselves.

I particularly do not see the need for a college newspaper to include national news of a non-educational nature which a student has access to through his local or state paper. Surely, YSU in its present size, has enough news for our paper.

Recently the Jambar was rightly taken to task for not reporting "Greek" events. Another letter states their lack of ability in reviewing of the music scene. To these I must add my own displeasure with the Jambar's indiscreet handling of an editorial concerning Bliss Hall. I feel it is not the purpose of a campus newspaper to publically chastise a group of students for seeking to defend their particular discipline in face of a current dilemma. Reporting facts -- not bias should be the goal.

It is evident that the students of YSU are calling for a change in "their" paper, the Jambar. Many students hope that the Jambar will take heed and see the need for change.

I ponder the question as to this letter being published? Does it meet the subjective "news-worthy" standards of our paper????

A special feature this week will be presented tomorrow, from 8 p.m. until 1 a.m., when the station will accept telephone requests which will be played during those hours.

Included in the new schedule of programs are "Wireless," aired from midnight to 1 a.m., Saturday, featuring old radio programs and personalities, "Now's the Time" which has jazz music from 10 p.m. to midnight presented by host Dr. Martin E. Berger, assistant professor of history at YSU, and "Bravo, Brava," a program of opera highlights from the University of Cincinnati, heard at 10 p.m., Thursdays. A request program will become a regular feature of the schedule with "Listener's Choice," broadcast from 11:30 p.m., to 12:30 a.m., Monday through Friday, which plays requests mailed to the station in advance.

The station has been off the air since August 29 for the construction of a new tower which carries not only FM, but a microwave antenna for the new educational television station. YSU is a member of Northeastern Educational Television of Ohio, Inc., (NETO) a consortium which includes Akron and Kent State Universities.

Engineering sponsors contest for area high school seniors

The YSU William Rayen School of Engineering is sponsoring an Engineering Design Contest for high school seniors from 88 high schools in six counties of eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania.

Winners of the contest, which is being held in conjunction with National Engineers' Week 1973, and is based on the theme "Engineering...A Better Environment Through Technology", will be awarded scholarships to the School of Engineering.

Each senior entering the contest will have the opportunity to use his or her initiative and creativity to perform an engineering design. The contestant will design and build a model which will be tested by the student in competition with other students to determine the best design, the one using a minimum of materials for a given task.

A $2.00 entrance fee will be collected to cover the cost of materials and mailing. Application forms or additional information may be obtained by writing Dr. Charles M. Lovas, assistant professor of mechanical engineering, Room 202, Engineering Science Building, Youngstown State University, 410 Wick Avenue, Youngstown, O. 44503, or by calling 747-1492, Ext. 327. The deadline for application is December 15, 1972.

YSU picked to host seminar on AID leadership training

The Youngstown community has been selected for the sixth consecutive year by the Agency for International Development (AID) as a site for their Leadership Training Seminar which will be hosted by YSU.

The program, which will be held from December 23 to December 31, is for international participants from AID's technical assistance program who are professional people living in cities throughout the United States seeking to acquire the knowledge and skills necessary to help carry out their countries' programs for economic and social development.

Youngstown is one of 34 cities in the country selected to serve as centers for the program, which is designed to expose the participants to a different American environment other than the one in which they are currently living.

There are 45 participants this year, the majority of whom are from underdeveloped countries.

They will be housed in Kilcawley Center. The week is highlighted by the opportunity for the participants to spend Christmas Day, Christmas eve, or both, in the home of a "host family." Persons interested in sharing their holiday spirit with an international visitor are asked to contact the International Student Office at YSU, 747-1492, Ext. 378.

Seminar directors are Mrs. Edna K. McDonald and Mrs. Doris Burdman Rinkov, community coordinator for AID.

Problem not lack of space--

Outlying parking areas not utilized

The YSU parking problem, formerly highlighted by a lack of center campus space, is now one of failure to utilize the adequate, though inconvenient, outlying parking areas, said Nick J. Leonelli, director of Campus Planning.

The present availability of nearly 3,000 student and faculty spaces, compared to 1,900 last fall, is primarily the result of the Lincoln Avenue parking decks, which have a capacity of 1,250 cars.

The decks are now filling their proposed potential.

Their utilization was minimal

Poet to present reading of works tomorrow 2 p.m.

Dr. Robert L. Carothers will present a reading of his poetry at 2 p.m. tomorrow in the Audio-Visual Room of the library.

His work has also been published by a number of periodicals including American Weave, Podium, Small Ponds, The Hiram Poetry Review, Poetry Cleveland and Iron.

A coffee hour will follow at the Pollock House. Both the poetry reading and the coffee hour are open to the public.

OEA Meeting

The YSU-OEA chapter meeting will be held at 4 p.m. Thursday, November 30, in room G-11, Ward Beecher Science Hall.

until this quarter, when construction supplanted many of the preferred campus lots and forced the students to take advantage of the multi-million dollar improvement.

Now, the Lincoln tiers reach their full capacity at 10 a.m. on Monday and Wednesday, according to a deck attendant. During these peak periods however, there is still space available in the four lots east of Wick Avenue, the Wade Street lot, the Walnut Street lot and the two lots adjacent to Wick Oval. The combined capacity of these areas is about 300 cars.

Many students however, are reluctant to use these areas because of their relatively great distance from campus and their poor condition. To ease the hardship of the journey, a lit walkway, complete with handrail, has been constructed for student use behind the old Women's City Club.

There are no plans for future paving or improved lighting in the lots.

The conversion of many center campus lots to construction work, points out the future of the parking system at YSU. "The trend in perimeter area parking facilities is going to continue," said Leonelli. With the construction of new buildings, center campus parking will be minimal.

Negotiations are currently in progress for the acquisition of another outlying area to be used for parking, the area north of Elm Street School adjacent to the Crant Street lot. This area, which originally was to be acquired through the state's Urban Project III, is now being negotiated for by the university.

Concert Series presents Dana Faculty String Quartet

The YSU Dana Concert Series will present the Dana Faculty String Quartet, with a special performance by the Dana Octet at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Dana Recital Hall.

The Octet will perform Mozart's "Divertimento No. 11 in D Major, K.V. 251," affording area residents the rare opportunity to hear a favorite type of entertainment music of the 18th Century.

Dana Octet members are Peter Duca, string bass, a Dana student; Lois Hopkins, horn, associate professor of music; Elizabeth Jones, viola, instructor in music; Kathryn Walker, violin, instructor in music; Fred Rosenberg, violin, assistant professor of music; Loyal Mould, oboe, assistant professor of music; Dr. William Wharton, cello, associate professor of music; and William Slocum, horn, associate professor of music.

Concluding the program will be a performance by the Dana Faculty String Quartet, composed of Rosenberg, Walker, Jones and Wharton, featuring a work of Beethoven's maturity; "Quartete in F minor, Op. 95."

The program is free and open to the public.

Computer Center involved with total community effort

What has the YSU Computer Center done for you lately?

If you're not personally involved with computers don't think others aren't because YSU's mechanical monster is currently handling about 700 jobs a day including work for outside concerns, according to Dr. Ronald Jonas, director of the computer center.

Regarding uses by non-university interests, Dr. Jonas said, "The university sells hardware time to non-university organizations or individuals by the hour. The Computer Center has contracts with the Council of Governments and also with the city schools as part of the Center's commercial use."

Approximately 700 jobs are handled per day at the Center. The workload falls greatly on 3 types of machines the processor, core memory, and disc memory. The processing is done by an IBM machine; core memory is a Data Recall Corp. machine; disc memory is a MEMOREX Company machine.

Jonas added that in order for the faculty, staff, students, and outside interests to use the hardware in the Center, as application form is provided at the Computer Center. No charge will be affixed to users for computer services except for federally, state, or municipally contracted research by YSU faculty not directly related to classroom activity. Also a charge will be affixed to non-university organizations or individuals purchasing time by the hour.

In comparing YSU's Computer Center with other university computer centers, Jonas said, "Of the 12 state universities YSU ranks tenth. YSU is the only state university having terminal process of data. YSU ranks in the middle concerning installation and has the fewest employees of any computer center in Ohio.

Recreation Ended
Friday, December 1, 1972, will be the last day for recreational use of the weight room and the gymnasium in the Beeghly Building for the fall quarter. Saturday, December 2, will be the last day for recreational swimming for the fall quarter. Handball courts will be available for recreational use during final exam week at the same hours that prevailed during the fall quarter.

person to person interaction session

A person-to-person interaction designed to counteract the disenchantment and dehumanization suffered by victims of the great "education machine", will be held December 26-29 at Camp Mt. Luther in Millinburg, Pa., said Rev. Richard D. Speicher, Protestant chaplain at YSU.

"Emerge," sponsored by the Cooperative Campus Ministry will try to provide the exhilarating experience of finding the "real community" by featuring provocative films, music with new meaning, small in-depth discussion groups, and activity interests ranging from tours, workshops, yoga and personal growth, to snow sculptures.

The encounter session will try to prove how much can be accomplished with the support of other people who care about the same cause. Emotional support, reinforcement of values, self-assurance and enthusiasm are offered in hope that those attending can become happier and more "turned on" to life.

Cars will leave the Newman Center at 11 a.m. Tuesday, December 26, and will arrive at Mt. Luther by 4 p.m. "Emerge" participants will stay in groups of ten in A-Frame heated cabins, clustered around two lodges with fireplaces. Each person attending is asked to bring his own sheets, pillow and blankets or a sleeping bag. Towels, soap and warm clothes will also be necessary. The session is expected to be finished by 2 p.m. on Friday.

Persons interested in attending the encounter session may obtain application forms from the Newman Center or from Rev. Speicher. A minimum fee of $20.00 is being asked.

Seeking set lineup---

Pens ready for fast break vs. O.U.

"We're looking for teamwork and speed," says Dom Rosselli, veteran YSU basketball coach. "The unit that shows the most in those respects will start."

With the Beeghly Physical Education Center inaugural against powerful Ohio University, favored to repeat as Mid-American champion, Rosselli is still piecing together a starting line-up.

"We're seeking the best-balanced group, too," adds Rosselli. "In the end that will be a big factor, the blend of shooting, rebounding and defense."

Two Penguins certain to be in the opening line-up are lettermen Billy Wells and Bill McMeans. Wells, 6-5 senior center and captain from Williamson, W.Va., averaged 11.1 points and 8.8 rebounds last year. McMeans, 6-6 junior forward from South Range who scored at a 13.6 clip and rebounded 8.4 per game last year, will be counted on to handle most of the board work with Wells. McMeans had 11 points and 12 rebounds in an intra-squad scrimmage.

The other starting forward depends on what Rosselli wants to stress. Senior letterwinner Claude Bentley provides rebounding and speed. The improved 6-2 South High grad tallied 18 points and grabbed 14 rebounds in the intra-squad game. Sophomore Phil Gaston (6-6) of Girard gives inside strength and scoring.

Frosh Bob Gill (6-5) of Canfield and Jim Hood (6-4) of Ash-tabula have been impressive at times. Junior Ron Beaber (6-7) of Columbia City, Ind., sophomore Denver Belknap (6-9) of Hiram, and Greg Hey (6-5) also of Columbia City, also could help.

Four Penguins are battling for the backcourt slots. Letter winners Dave Burkholder (5-11) of Wauseon and Bob Krizancic (6-0) of Girard can shoot, playmake and defend. Junior transfer Bill Hodges (6-4) of Toledo, and Monroe (Mich.) community College is experienced, but has been slowed by off-season knee surgery.

Frosh John Reed (6-4) of Warren Harding shows plenty of potential as a shooter and jumper.

Since losing three regulars and six seniors overall from last year's 22-7 club, Rosselli expects to do some early season juggling until he finds the right combination. In fact, he could change line-ups often should some of the newcomers continue to develop.

Rosselli is being aided in his rebuilding job by former Penguin cage captain and new assistant, Bob Chuey. Rosselli's 28-year record of 445-269 ranks him fourth in career wins among all active coaches.

The Penguins open their 15-game home schedule with OU's Bobcats, Saturday, in Beeghly Center, the first permanent home for YSU athletics. The Pens are at home the entire month, hosting Alliance on December 16, Cleveland State on the 20th, San Francisco State on the 23rd, Eastern Montana on the 28th and Clarion State on the 30th.

Ready for opener---

Tankers vie at Penn relays

Second year swimming mentor Bob Leahy seems to have "grabbed a lion by the tail" as he takes his youthful tank squad to the den of the Nittany Lion this Saturday to participate in the Penn State relays which annually attract some of the best aquatic talent east of the Mississippi.

blitzed the YSU record book with new varsity records in the 1000 and 500-yd. freestyle events. Wade eclipsed Mark Thompson's 1970 marks of 11:18.6 in the 1000 and 5:20.8 in the 500 with near national qualifying times of 11:05 in the 1000 and 5:16 in the 500.

Coach Leahy sees Saturday's meet as a "good scrimmage opener" for his freshman dominated team. Leahy, who has been stressing conditioning in recent practices, says that "if we remain healthy and eligible, with our depth and quality we should be in the running for the Penn-Ohio Conference championship."

The 400-yd. medley team of Keith Landsness and Randy Heckert, both freshman, and vets Rami Yehudai and Tom McGee raced to a pool record and national qualifying time of 3:54, a full second faster than last year.

The 400-yd. freestyle relay team of Landsness, Wade, McGee and Dick Tatsch also set a pool record of 3:30 in Churning to a first place finish.

Evidence of this improvement was shown at an exhibition meet with the University of Pittsburgh held Nov. 18 in the Beeghly natatorium. The Penguins dropped the dual contest by just 13 points and in the process set six pool records and broke two varsity standards.

Junior John Carroll set a pool record in the 200-yd. freestyle with a 1:58.3 clocking, while the diving triumvirate of first place winner John Muchorski, Kim Miller and Marty Sullivan, all freshman, set a pool record off the 1-meter board.

Catch--YSU

Job Dis-placement

by Carl Basic

Many students complain that YSU's understaffed and underfinanced placement service is sorely lacking. The administration obviously disagrees, since they make no move to improve the facility or to aid the overworked, but dedicated, placement director. They claim that students can easily get jobs on their own.

In order to get the true scoop, and to see if the administration's attitude toward the problem is realistic or criminal, I did some research among recent graduates of the school of Business Administration who managed to get jobs on their own.

I talked to one man who was graduated with a degree in Advertising and Public Relations.

"Excuse me, but how did you happen to get a job in spite of the administrations' apathy policy toward placement?"

"I had a little wee bit of pull."

"How's that?"

"My father owns some real estate out West."

"What real estate?"

"Montana."

"I see, and what kind of job did you get?"

"I'm a PR man for the Viet Cong."

"Where are you stationed?"

"Hanoi."

"Sounds really challenging. How do you like the job?"

"It's not bad if you like rice."

"Thank You."

I decided to also trackdown the other employed graduate. I finally located him at the unemployment office on South Avenue.

"Excuse me sir, but aren't you the other YSU graduate who managed to find a job?"

"Yeah, but I quit because I don't like living off the land."

"What do you mean?"

"That job took me so far back in the mountains of Appalachia that the company had to pump in darkness to the plant. In fact the plant was so far back in the forest that when I finally got there it was 1947."

"Sounds bad."

"You think that's bad? It get's worse. That part of the country is so backward that political candidates campaigning in the area influence the voters by giving them blankets, beads and trinkets."

"Wow!"

"As a matter of fact my contract was chiseled into a rock."

"Gee."

"My salary was 25 bushels of corn a week. My fringe benefit was a private cave."

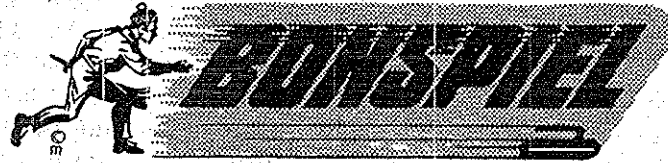

"Really?"

"Yes, and on top of all that I found out that my education didn't prepare me one bit for that type of job."

"How's that?"

"I don't know a damn thing about running a still."

Volleyball team tries serving up improved season

The YSU girls volleyball team travels to Westminster tonight in hopes of bettering their 3-6 record.

While most students have been spending their evenings in front of the TV or behind books, a little known Girl's Volleyball team has been going through a tough extramural season. The team, bubbling with talent and potential, has failed to "get it together" in most of their matches.

Starting out the season on a bright note, the YSU team beat Mt. Union at home despite confusion concerning the game timing. In their next at Geneva however, the team faltered, losing that game and the next two to follow. A squad meet at Allegheny, the YSU girls fell to the home team and a talented Edinboro team before coming back to beat Mercyhurst. Their last game will be a 11 p.m. home encounter Saturday against University of Pittsburgh.

Brush 'em or lose 'em.
