'Center' report accentuates SC desires

The organizational structure, staffing and operational financing of the new Kilcawley Center were the object of a Student Council report issued at yesterday's meeting.

The report lists area of digression from and confirmation of concepts proposed by the Kilcawley Architectural Consultant, Porter Butts.

Council reaffirmed that the Center should "provide for a rich cultural, social and recreational program, as an integral part of the educational program..." It stressed however, that "primary emphasis should be on furthering a campus centered student life."

When the report differed from Butts' proposals it offered alternatives. Council opted for a one-board governing structure with three permanent subcommittees, rather than a two-board concept. Membership on this board would be determined by agreed upon criteria, including academic standing and the approval of a combination of university administrative and governing bodies, including Student Council and the Senate Executive Committee.

In other business Council members requested response from their constituents regarding Council sponsorship of campus queen elections. Students are being urged to contact their representatives to express feelings on the issue which will be brought to a vote at next Monday's 3:30 p.m. meeting in the Buckeye Room. Any student may attend a council meeting to voice an opinion.

Under new business, Dan Dunmire, arts and sciences representative, proposed that Council endorse Ron Jaworski, YSU quarterback, as a candidate for the Heisman Trophy. The measure passed with the word "enthusiastically" appended to the original motion.

Council Chairman Skip Davis announced that Council is planning another survey on student opinion of YSU. This poll, similar to past Student Government samplings, will have room for listing of positive and negative responses.

In other action, Mark Brunner, elections chairman, said that a meeting will be held at 3 p.m. today in Student Government offices, room 108 in Kilcawley for applicants to Senior class office. The positions include president, vice-president secretary and treasurer.

Senate approves change--

BS language requirement reduced

The Senate approved modification of the foreign language requirement for the Bachelor of Science degree with a near unanimous vote Friday afternoon.

Senate approval, with three dissenting voices, clears the way for immediate implementation of less stringent language requirements for students pursuing a B.S. degree.

The proposal, presented despite the Curriculum Committee's 5-3 opposition vote, incorporates two major changes for B.S. candidates: fewer hours required in foreign language and the addition of lower level courses available for student enrollment. The new courses, designated reading and translating will be presented to the Curriculum Committee for approval before the next academic term.

The report of the Ad Hoc Committee on Pass/Fail grading by the 1973-74 academic year was presented to the Senate by Dr. Matthew Simon. This latest proposal defined non-traditional grading as "Credit (CR), Incomplete (I) and no entry. Credit will represent an earned grade of A, B or C in a course."

One of the proposal's stipulations, Article 2C, limits student scheduling of non-traditional grades: "The student cannot elect for Credit (CR) option more than one-fourth (1/4) of the total credit hours applicable toward the baccalaureate degree or associate degree. (Courses previously deemed inappropriate for regular grades, i.e. student teaching, etc. are excluded from the total credit hours to determine the one-fourth fraction.)"

The definition of "no entry" within the context of the proposed system caused considerable debate. Senate members noted that some record must be kept of student enrollment, even under no entry grading, to verify attendance for educational benefits and university subsidies. Failure to resolve this question played a key role in the measure's return to committee by a 36-35 vote. If clarifications are completed the revised proposal will top the agenda the next Senate meeting.

In other business a Pass/Fail grading system moved closer to implementation as the Senate, ironing out details and definitions, returned the proposal to what appears its final committee revision.

YSU joins in voting today

Some 15,000 YSU students, faculty and staff will be among voters across the nation to choose a president and to vote on state candidates and several issues including an income tax repeal which, if passed, is expected to have a great impact on the future of education here.

Today, 500 YSU student volunteers will be knocking on doors to get out the vote, according to Steven Van Renasselaer, of McGovern Headquarters, coordinator for recruitment to get out the vote in the Youngstown area. With six McGovern storefront headquarters operating in the Youngstown vicinity, the Democratic presidential ticket seems to have received more support from the local student population than did the Youngstown Committee to Re-elect the President.

Dr. Norman D. Parr, Republican candidate for the 19th congressional district, said yesterday that the hours the Nixon headquarters were open for business were in conflict with the work-study schedules of many YSU would-be volunteers.

Congressman Charles J. Carney who has received the support of the YSU Young Dems, has also had many independent student volunteers working at the grassroots levels of his bid for re-election.

State Issue No. 2, which would repeal the state income tax, would, according to state director of finance Harold H. Hovey, cause a 25 percent reduction in state income and a 25 percent reduction in higher education spending, with "serious implications" for higher education in Ohio.

Dr. Philip J. Hahn, professor of economics, when asked about the impact of the repeal, said last night that if it passed, the state legislature would have to raise taxes that would be lost by the repeal. Revenue could be raised, he said, by a flat rate income tax, a higher sales tax, increases in property taxes or a combination of the three.

A reliance on a combination, he said, would have the effect of making Ohio's tax system more regressive, that is, it would take a higher percentage of family income from those in the lower tax bracket although those in the upper brackets might actually pay more in dollars.

Take to the streets Nov. 24--

Students needed to hike for hungry

University students and groups are needed to participate in a hunger hike to raise funds to combat world hunger the Friday after Thanksgiving, November 24.

The hike is sponsored by CROP, the Community Hunger Appeal of Church World Service in Columbus. Local church and community groups are planning the local effort, which is being duplicated in many other communities over the state of Ohio. The proceeds above minor expenses will go through the CROP agency to combat the menace of hunger in a great variety of ways. CROP sponsors irrigation projects, land reclamation, seed development, fertilizer distribution, rodent control, and many other long-term projects in many countries over the world.

Hikers will meet at 8 a.m. on November 24 at the Churchill United Methodist Church, and will hike through town to Boardman. There will be rest stops at check points spaced every two miles. At this point mileage will be verified and any wishing to drop out may do so. A mobile unit will accompany the hikers to dispense needs and to transport drop outs.

Individuals and groups participating will secure in advance a commitment from individuals, businesses, organizations and other agencies to pay an amount, for every mile hiked by the participant. Persons can enlist as many sponsors as possible, and then can collect the contributions when the verified mileage is available. Donors may designate to other relief appeals, such as Catholic Relief Services, Lutheran World Relief and others.

Anyone desiring information or seeking to participate should contact Dick Speicher, Protestant chaplain, at 631 Wick Avenue, telephone 744-8946. Forms are available for securing sponsors. Fraternities, sororities and other campus organizations are especially invited to participate in this worthy project. A hunger meal, promoting the project, is planned for 3 p.m. Sunday, November 12, at Girard Presbyterian Church. Reservations can be made with the church or Chaplain Speicher.

Turned off voters--

Poll predicts low student turnout

DAYTON, Ohio AP - Where are the young student voters that yesterday thought would jam today's polling booths like Times Square on New Year's Eve. They're turned off, man, and they won't be there, the Dayton Journal Herald found out in a tour of Ohio campuses.

Maybe it was silly to expect them to be different from the mine-run of voters in the first place, the morning newspaper speculated.

"Now the kids seem to think they're cool if they have the vote and don't use it," said 20-year-old Karen Heilker. She works with McGovern forces at the University of Dayton. "Yeah," agreed Wayne Phillips. "They say, 'I'm registering a vote of apathy. I'm thoroughly disgusted with both candidates, and I'm not gonna vote.'" Phillips, 20, represents the Young Voters for the President at the University of Dayton. It's almost a fad on the campus scene, a lot of observers agree.

"It's like I'm going to vote for McGovern," said Susan Kaufmann, 20-year-old Antioch College history major. "And I think just about everybody around here will, but not with any enthusiasm anymore."

"I know none of the issues are catching fire around here. I think the biggest issue I've seen the kids get excited about was last year when tuition was raised by $10 by the Board of Trustees."

A major factor, the Journal Herald discovered, was mistrust. "No, I'm not voting," said Bill Plasschaert, 21-year-old University of Dayton psychology major. "The thing I'm saying, I suppose is I have a basic mistrust of anybody that's in politics in general."

Dick Olsen, a bit older at 24 than many, said in a "rap" session at Ohio State: "If McGovern is going to win it, it's going to have to be with something other than the youth vote. It's just not going to be, if this campus is typical."

Michelle Randal, 18, who also works at McGovern's campus headquarters at Ohio State, said: "I think it goes back to Agnew who tried to instill a distrust of reporters, the press, in people."

"Now people don't believe reports in the papers about things like the Watergate espionage. Nixon has destroyed any trust in politicians whatsoever, just destroyed the credibility of anybody making promises of any sort."

The book which is being published by Monday Morning Press, has been in the making for the past two years and contains primarily free form poetry.

Six student members absent at Friday's Senate meeting

Six of the 13 student Senate representatives were absent from last Friday's meeting at which a Pass/Fail grading system was sent back to committee by one vote.

The proposal, with dubious clarifications, will appear as the first item of business at the next scheduled Senate meeting, December 3.

Missing from the meeting were James Larene, arts and sciences; Ron Kessler, school of business; Mary Saulino, community college; Tom Salpietra, engineering; Deborah Meade, Dana and Rosalyn Cannatti, school of education.

Skip Davis, chairman of Student Council and senate representative from the business school, was one of the six students at the meeting and said last night that it was a "shame" that they lost the vote by only one.

"We lost last year by only four votes and we thought we had a good chance to take it this year."

The proposal under consideration outlined a non-traditional grading system to be implemented in the 1973-74 academic year. Lack of one vote curtailed both further discussion and a vote on immediate passage.

The 13 student representatives to the University Senate were chosen from the schools they represent in Spring quarter elections.

Six of the thirteen student Senate representatives were absent from last Friday's meeting at which turned down an opportunity to discuss system proposal by one vote. The proposal instead was sent back to committee for further revision and will appear as the first item of business at the next scheduled Senate meeting, December 3.

Do you use an after shave just to smell good?

If you thought after shave lotions were just to smell good, that's only half the story. After shave lotions help heal nicks and re-establish the skin's proper acid/alkali balance after a shave. (Bet you didn't know that, did you?)

But smelling nice is, after all, the nicest thing about finishing off a shave. So why not smell great?

English Leather has three ways to accomplish this. English Leather Regular, Lime and Timberline. In After Shave or Cologne.

So that even if you do use an after shave just to smell good, you'll smell better than just good.

Exercise in Ennui

The University Senate, a feeble monthly endeavor at combining parliamentary propriety with pragmatic necessity staged its latest revue Friday. It showed signs of a promising beginning when a 5:30 adjournment time was approved to make the get together appear somewhat more cohesive than a Chinese fire drill. This, as later events proved, added to the merriment and joviality.

In truth, the Senate is YSU's answer to the Tower of Babel. Members speak with strange passion in tongues of strange logic. If and when a member succeeds in getting a nominally direct response to his query about any particular piece of business, he has either lost interest, lost consciousness or retired from active teaching.

One member who charged another with being out of order, was himself not only out of order but 10 minutes late with his response to an earlier question. Another senate member asked the same question six times and was responded to by four different professors, each of whom met it at its periphery and then worked their way outward.

Even with the inability to break the communication barrier the quasi-adjournment stole the show. As the magic moment of 5:30 p.m. approached all was in readiness: professors laced their track shoes, unsuspecting Seante members were blitzed by a parliamentary barrage and the meeting dissolved in chaos.

Student Council long has been belittled as showing little decorum and even less usefulness. Its theoretical peer group, the University Senate, takes no back seat to it. For lack of substance and for unintelligibility the Senate is the epitome of insipidity.

Letters to the Editor

Expounds on McGovern's record

To the editor of the Jambar:

Personally, I feel that to reelect the President (his name is never mentioned unless necessary) would be a disaster merely on the grounds of his own record. However, this letter is to expound on the record of the other major candidate for the office of the presidency George McGovern.

Senator McGovern has SPONSORED the following acts: Fogarty-McGovern Act of 1958 which authorized grants to train teachers for the mentally retarded. The Headstart Child Development Act of 1969. The Student Insured Loan Program of 1969. The Department of Education Act of 1971. The Comprehensive Child Development Act of 1971, which was incidentally vetoed by the President. In addition to a score of other acts for the benefit of students and minority groups.

As a veteran I would also like to inform all the other veterans on campus that the note you got with this month's check which indicated that President Nixon has given you a raise is a blatant falsehood. Mr. Nixon vetoed the original wage increase for those under the GI Bill which would have given a married person $360.00 a month and only passed (signed into law) the second bill because it was known to him that the bill would pass over his Presidential veto as did the Social Security raise earlier this year.

As the president of Students and Faculty for McGovern at Youngstown University the only thing I have consistently pushed and still do is that students get the facts from both sides. Read the literature put out by them as well as us, compare this literature to what you have seen happen to what you have seen on the media and to what you have read in the papers then vote for the candidate who has shown that he will do the best job for America. This man is George McGovern, as President Nixon says this is the clearest choice of the century.

An Apology: To the students of YSU, due to a technical error one of our pieces of literature distributed at the McGovern table presented a wrong reference in its text. The piece of literature citing the peace plan of 1969 and that of 1972 cites Current History Magazine January 1969 as the source for the article by Henry Kissinger. The Source correctly is Foreign Affairs magazine January 1969.

Ups Nixon's 'free world' forces

To the editor of the Jambar:

It doesn't take too much effort to discern why Hanoi is surrendering to the free world forces and is urging a pre-election settlement to the war. For four years Hanoi remained intransigent in their peace demands at Paris. Last week, Hanoi dropped all major demands for a settlement. When President Nixon took office four years ago, Hanoi wanted a political settlement before a cease fire. Today, it accepts the U.S. position of ending the hostilities before a political solution could be realized. Four years ago, Hanoi wanted to impose a coalition government on the South Vietnamese. Today, Hanoi has dropped this demand. Four years ago, Hanoi didn't wish to discuss the forces they had in Cambodia and Laos. Today, they agree to abandon these sanctuaries. But why did Hanoi make its astonishing turnaround? There are four basic reasons. (1) Thanks to President Nixon's diplomacy, Moscow and Peking urged Hanoi to settle the conflict. (2) Hanoi realized that McGovern has no chance of winning the election. (3) Hanoi's April offensive was cracked by the South Vietnamese Army. (4) President Nixon's decisive move to bomb the north and mine the harbors. Now McGovern wants to benefit from Nixon's courage and fortitude by claiming that he was for the same proposals. That is Nonsense! McGovern's proposals were identical to those espoused by Hanoi before the mining of the harbors. The only election McGovern could possibly win would be a popularity contest in North Vietnam.

I believe that Americans will back President Nixon's demand for a permanent peace as opposed to a temporary truce.

Recites 'facts' on McGovern, war

To the editor of the Jambar:

I have no desire to condescend to the level of arguing politics. I have always advocated intelligent, rational discussions of political differences. But this presidential campaign has been unlike any in past history. This is why I feel justified in responding to comments made about my Forum article that appeared in Friday's issue of the Jambar.

In submitting the article, I realized that there would be those who would foolishly refute the facts I listed. But this has not been an uncommon occurrence on the part of the McGovernites during this campaign. About the accusations of political heresy: your own article, Mr. Fabian, is an excellent example of the type of empty arguments you charge me with.

Hubert Humphrey has said that there was absolutely no way the war could have been ended four years ago. Who could know better than him (besides President Nixon) the condition of the war at that time? Why desert the South Vietnamese and our prisoners of war now? This means that 20,000 young Americans will have died in vain. Have you no conscience, no moral scruples, Mr. Suddes?

All the major wars in the past fifty-five years happened to have occurred when a Democrat was president. Conversely, there has been peace under Republicans: witness the years 1900-1912, 1918-1932, & 1953-1960. In the past four years, President Nixon has systematically decreased our involvement in Southeast Asia. Can you detect a pattern?

Vote for the G.O.P. candidate in 1972, For a Generation of Peace. For hope of a lasting, effective peace throughout the world.

For McGovern

Listening to the sublime tones of Chopin's B flat minor Sonata, brilliantly interpreted by Dr. Hopkins, I was lifted out of my pessimism to a realization of man's inherent goodness and beauty. All of us have to be constantly reminded of this because too often we see only the wrongs and injustices of human society and human nature. Even as young children we were reprimanded for being naughty, but seldom praised for being good. Thus, we have an unfavorable image of ourselves, and this image directly results in disillusionment, apathy, and a tendency to do things that injure other people. This is called a vicious circle.

If we appraise ourselves honestly and say we have some good and some "bad" in us, that we do hurt each other, but that we can help each other, then we shall be able to better ourselves and our society. It is also important to look outside of ourselves at the world and the other people living in it and to realize that they too are like us and that our world is worth and the good we can do while we are a part of it, a vital part of it. Therein lies our responsibility.

It is true that evil exists, side by side with good, but are they diametrical opposites? Let us examine something universally human: pain, oppression - suffering. It is said that this syndrome is sometimes a cause of violence and war. Yet men have also translated their suffering into works of art. Beethoven Chopin and other composers have written music expressing their feelings concerning not only personal anguish, but also the political oppression and wars of their times and peoples. Their music still lives today, inspiring lofty ideals and goals in us, while the wars only further oppress the people and are remembered as cold statistics.

Thus it is the alloy of good and evil that matters. Becoming more fully human involves employing the evil impulse for an end beyond its own gratification, at the same time gratifying and transcending itself. If we do not satisfy the evil within us, we become impotent. If we do not transcend it, we fall into corruption and self-disgust. Once we start thinking of good and evil as related, we can strive for and accomplish a greater good. We can shape our lives into works of art.

We can!

We can respect ourselves enough, to respect others. We can respect each other enough to be gentle with one another. This involves empathizing, being able to feel what others feel as a consequence of our actions. This is difficult because we have grown accustomed to hearing about and seeing the suffering of people we do not know. A napalmed body and a starving baby have become trite for us. But this is not entirely our fault, and we still can open up our senses and reach through the mask of the electronic media to those who need us, healing their wounds, soothing their minds, helping them find jobs and self-respect, teaching them and letting ourselves be taught.

We can be personally enriched and rewarded through such experiences. We can learn about ourselves as well as others, about the world, our common home, and the spirit, our universal home. We can be at home with ourselves and with all of creation. This is what the gentle admonition of the contemporary poet, Yevtushenko, entails, not an isolationist policy, but a humanitarian ideal. "Come home, America!", not to a place, but to a state of being. We can come home to ourselves and to the world.

But will we?

Let us pleasantly surprise ourselves by fulfilling our potential, our desire, for good. Let us take the preferred hand of George McGovern, the man Bobby Kennedy called "the most decent man in the Senate", and together we discover and make this beautiful world a home we can love.

Urges vote for Richard Nixon

To the editor of the Jambar:

I would like to address the following to our eloquent Mr. Suddes or anyone leaning toward casting their vote for Sen. George McGovern.

It seems that Mr. Suddes has tried to refute, as lies or false political statements, most of the legitimate charges lodged against Sen. McGovern. However, the following is not a lie or a padded pro-Nixon statement, it is fact.

On September 26 there was to be a key vote, in the Senate, in an effort to cut off support for the war in Vietnam. The Brooke Amendment was defeated by the vote of 45 to 42. On the day of the vote there were six anti-war Senators absent from the session, two of whom were your own Sen. McGovern and Sen. Humphery. Both of these key anti-warists were busy campaigning in Los Angeles, Calif. Why were they not in the Senate to vote? Were these two men too busy for petty Washington politics, or did they consider it a lost cause and simply not worth their time to vote? If a man can sell out his own beliefs for a few hours of campaigning time, what then will he do to the country if he is elected President. Sen McGovern is not for the people; he is for Sen. McGovern.

So goes the long list of ever changing McGovern views. Supporters however, argue that his ability to change his views is beneficial. I ask you, could our country withstand a man who cannot make up his mind, or change it when ever a new problem arises?

In short, Sen. McGovern has demonstrated to the American people he can not be trusted now, let alone for four years in the White House. We need a man who is strong and is willing to fight for what is good for America.

Everyone please get out and vote, and consider the best possible choice, Nixon NOW.

Attests to Nixon's environ flaws

To the editor of the Jambar:

It is my God-given right as a human being to breath clean air and drink water free of impurities. I'm voting against the President because he has opposed vital environmental safeguards.

In July, 1971, Nixon reinstated fourteen oil and gas leases in the Santa Barbara Channel. The air quality standards proposed by the Environmental Protection Agency are weaker than those of many states. Nixon attempted to undermine the Water Quality Improvement Act of March, 1970, (the Muskie Bill) and the Water Quality Bill of November, 1971, calling them "unworkable" and "too costly," and accusing them of taking too much authority from the states. He is attempting to dilute strong provisions with weak rationalizations. Can there be any doubt in your mind that the President is not making sincere efforts to clean up our environment?

McGovern has promised a vigorous federal program to clean this nation's air by doubling the amount now spent on implementing the Clean Air Amendments of 1970. Under the Nixon Administration, Congress authorized $1.1 billion but the president has requested only one half that amount.

Concerning clean water McGovern urged immediate passage of the Conference Committee version of the Water Quality Act of 1972 and a congressional appropriation of the full $18 billion authorized over the next three years for sewage treatment plant construction.

McGovern cares, his words and deeds show it; the choice for a better man is obvious.

Don't let corruption and broken promises continue in this country for the next four years. Vote as if your life depended on it. McGovern for President.

Considers Nixon, votes McGov.

To the editor of the Jambar:

Well, today is finally November 7. After over a year of campaigning, election promises, and patriotic appeals, we finally decide who will be our next president for four years. For many of us it will be our first presidential election; for all of us it will be our most important one. That is why I ask you to consider carefully your choice.

Consider our president Richard M. Nixon.

Consider his winding down the Vietnam war and reducing our casualties by 95%. And removed 500,000 of our troops. Yet who promised to end this war and not just wind it down; who has cost us 20,000 American lives as well as 650,000 Vietnamese. Obviously, Vietnamese lives are not important to either Americans or Mr. Nixon because the war wages on to a tune of one ton of bombs a minute. Risks less American lives that way but still allows us to maintain our "honor" at the same ferocious level of 1968.

Consider the man who asks to be president of a "new majority" yet represents the rich. Consider a man who solicits heavy campaign contributions by dropping anti-trust suits, criminal and civil actions against wealthy contributors, who makes privy an impending wheat deal with Russia to wheat barons, allows a considerable boost in milk prices to wealthy dairy men, and ad nauseum: Or a man who bugs and wiretaps and sabotages his opponents' offices and campaigns; who uses our highest law enforcement body, the F. B. I., to gather information on his opponent; yet, as president, he has declared to "scrupulously uphold the law." Honesty is becoming in our highest elective office.

I ask you to think of voting for a man who campaigns as if he were a prince on his way to coronation. Who has constantly refused to debate his opponent in front of the American people, watches TV as the largest peace demonstration ever amassed marches around the barricaded White House, and insults the electorate's intelligence by claiming peace is at hand two shorts weeks before the election. Makes one wonder.

The list is endless and the choice is obvious. If the American people are not aware of the dangers of "now more than ever" than they will by 1976. But by then it could be too late.

If you truly believe in the principles and goals of what America once stood for and what it can be again, then I ask you to Consider President Richard Nixon and

Vote George McGovern

Forum Arab Justice

Fifty-five years ago, the British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, Arthur James Balfour wrote the following: "His Majesty's government views with favour the establishment in Palestine of a national home for the Jewish people and will use their best endeavors to facilitate the achievement of this object, it being clearly understood that nothing shall be done which may prejudice the civil and religious rights of the existing non-Jewish communities in Palestine, or the rights and political status enjoyed by Jews in any other country."

Britain, having no rights to the land, had no right to make this promise and to dispose of Palestine against the wishes of its inhabitants and directly violate their rights to self-determination.

On the anniversary of the unjust Balfour declaration we would like to implore all members of the University community to acquaint themselves with the facts surrounding the Middle East conflict. The Balfour Declaration is only one of a number of injustices against Arabs initiated by peoples having neither ties to, nor concern for Palestine. Similar interferences produced the tragedy of Vietnam. Let us not merely shift the holocaust to another geographic site.

As a result of this declaration, a nation was uprooted and displaced. As a consequence of this declaration, a whole nation was turned to a nation of refugees. As a consequence of this declaration and in the name of humanity, the Jewish problem in Europe was tried to be solved by creating a Palestinian one in the Middle East.

Did you know that...

- 1) When the Balfour Declaration was issued in 1917, the Jews formed 9% of the population and did not own more than 2% of the land of Palestine.
- 2) The Arabs who formed 91% of the population of Palestine were referred to as the "non-Jewish communities" by this Declaration.
- 3) The eldest son of Abraham is Ishmael who is the father of the Arabs.
- 4) (If you're biblically oriented) At that time the law of the land was that the eldest son received all of the inheritance.
- 5) (Again if you're biblically oriented) It was the circumcision of Ishmael that sealed the covenant between God and Abraham.

The Organization of Arab Students, I'm sure, as all other students, know that God is not interested in real estate, but in justice. Justice is our interest.

Ready for Bowling Green Tourney...

Debate team suffers tough tourney

Four members of YSU's debate team compiled a 3-5 record at the John Carroll Debate Tournament last weekend in Cleveland.

The affirmative unit, comprised of Barb Bilas and Chuck Wigley, sophomores in math, turned in another winning performance, earning a 3-1 record. This mark matched the best performance by an affirmative duo at the tourney.

The negatives, who were, according to Daniel J. O'Neill, assistant professor of speech and dramatics and debate coach, "debating negative with very short notice," suffered to an 0-4 showing. This unit consisted of Jack Fynes, junior in political science, and Bill Zorn, freshman in biology.

The tourney's best mark was compiled by John Carroll (7-1) who refused, as hosts, to accept the first place trophy. The hardware was subsequently awarded to Wooster, with Capital and Akron garnering second and third places respectively.

The debaters will travel to The Bowling Green Open Tournament for a three-day stint this weekend. This tourney will be a varsity meet with every unit debating four rounds each of affirmative and negative.

Branton speaks Saturday before Jewish Fellowship

Harry Branton, director of the organization and membership departments of the Zionists Organization of America, will speak Saturday at the second monthly meeting of the Jewish Student Fellowship at 7PM at Perkins Panckake House, Belmont Avenue.

Viennese born and educated, Branton served as a chaluta (pioneer) in his early youth in what was then Palestine. He was a social worker in his native Austria, and after Hitler's aggression went to France, where he was a leading personality in refugee welfare work.

During the war, he saw combat in the Normandy invasion with the Ninth Infantry Division. He served as a U.S. Intelligence Officer in England, France and Germany and commanded a unit of technical experts interrogating German prisoners of war. He was also concerned with the collection of evidence against Axis-war criminals for the War Crimes Commission, headed by the late Justice Robert Jackson. He earned a Bronze Star medal.

After World War II, Branton worked for the "Voice of America," a unit of the State Department. As an American representative of the Organization for Rehabilitation through Training (ORT), he headed a vast program in Jewish displaced person camps in Austria, organizing a network of vocational training centers under the U.S. Army and the International Refugee Organization of the United Nations.

FACT OR FICTION?

You should avoid exercise during your period.

Fiction! The simple rules of good health are always important, especially during your period. Exercise, a proper diet and a good night's sleep go a long way toward relieving menstrual cramps or preventing them altogether. And remember, you're not "sick." So there's no reason not to follow your normal routine.

There's no odor when you use Tampax tampons.

Fact. With Tampax tampons, odor can't form. Odor is noticeable only when the fluid is exposed to air. With Tampax tampons, fluid is absorbed before it comes in contact with air; therefore, odor cannot form.

3
You should not bathe during your period.

Fiction! Contrary to superstition, water can't hurt you. Daily baths or showers are a must throughout your period. Shampoo your hair, too. And don't deny yourself the chance to go swimming. Tampax tampons are worn internally, so you can swim anytime.

Single girls can use Tampax tampons.

Fact. Any girl of menstrual age who can insert them easily and without discomfort, can use Tampax tampons with complete confidence. Follow the easy directions in every package.

Our only interest is protecting you.

4th straight best since '66--

Pens maraud CSU defense 28-6

YSU's gridiron Penguins, now winners of four straight games for the first time since 1966, measured Central State Saturday, 28-6, though they floundered a little during the third quarter.

The Penguins surged to a 15-0 lead in the first quarter on two Ron Jaworski passes, a PAT kick by Fred Bruderly and a two-point

YSU shooters miss mark at Erie, bow to Knights

Despite heroic efforts by Rich Adams, Ron Kline, and Lane Galey in a third relay clutch situation, the Penguins suffered a surprise defeat at the hands of a "hot" Gannon team 1274-1268.

For some reason, in the first relay two Penguins shot below their average, and the second relay did "fair", so going into the third and final relay YSU was down 40 points. Rich Adams readily adapted to the pressure and shot 10 points over his average (257), and Ron Kline and Lane Galey came through with good scores (252 & 248). Other shooters were Gene Ellis, 259; Paul Wytko, 252; Chuck Ramser, 244; and Russ Semchee, 238.

This Friday the Penguins will host Case Western University in their first home match of the season, on their new range.

Saturday the Rifle team will hold a rifle match for All Sports Day in the Beeghly Physical Education Building. All members of the campus student body and faculty are welcome.

YSU aquamaids churn way to Queen's throne

Six YSU coeds competing in the "Queen's Race" will highlight the fourth annual Aquacade Friday evening at Central YMCA.

Sponsored by Sigma Pi fraternity, the aquatic competition will be held in two pools, with the fraternities competing from 8-10 p.m. and the sororities from 9-11 p.m.

The event will feature 150 students in competitions like the backstroke, freestyle innertube relay race, medley race and of course, the Queen's race.

Competing for the title of queen are: Judy Barrett, Zeta Tau Alpha; Sharon Bartholomew, Alpha Omicron Pi; Phyllis Fortini, Phi Mu; Sandra Johnson, Delta Zeta; Diane Kalasky, Alpha Sigma Tau; and Jane Maher, Sigma Sigma. The queen will be chosen that night by the spectators.

conversion on a pass from Jaworski to Rudy Florio. Jaworski hit Willie Packman for a 58-yard pass play for the first TD and then delivered a 15-yard strike to Bob Ferranti for the second.

The Penguins seemed to ease up during the second and third quarters, though the defense did deny the Marauders a score in the second stanza when they had a first down on the YSU 4-yard line.

The Marauders came to life in the third period and pushed the Birds all over the field but lacked the final punch to put points on the scoreboard.

YSU began to grind it out in the fourth, getting two tallies via the ground route, eight yarders by improving scatback Dave Garden. Bruderly missed on one of the conversion attempts.

With 3:48 left in the game, Central state finally got on the board with a 17-yard jaunt by junior halfback Darwin Valentine.

Jaworski only put the ball in the strata 18 times, for 10 completions, 206 yards and two touchdowns, a little under his average. He also got sacked by the big Marauder front line three times for a total loss of 42 yards.

YSU beat the Marauders in total offense, 348 to 264 yards, but Central State's hard-driving, frustrated offensive unit won the battle of first downs, 16-14.

Penguin cornerbacks Denny Latess and Joe Cladwell each picked off a Marauder pass, Latess coming up with several vital defensive plays.

The Penguins didn't show the sharpness and precision of the Northern Michigan, Akron and Xavier games, but perhaps it is a good thing the slight letdown came when it did. If there is any mistake or letdown this coming Saturday, when the Birds take on big, rough and tough Central Michigan at home, it will mean disaster.

Funk in concert

by Mike Mavrigian

A chant...throbbing, pulsing... suddenly strobes flash over a silent stage. Quickening, the aching pulse beats and throbs to build in mass tension. Pounding, pounding; breath-quickened gasps mix in unison...a heart stopping explosion of color and music...and there's Grand Funk Railroad taking up the pulse of the crowd and dishing it back out in good, honest gutsy Funk. The music flowed from the stage in the greatest soul-grabbing hand-clappin' beat I've ever experienced at a concert—any concert.

Last Friday night, in Cleveland Public Auditorium, Grand Funk Railroad busted the heads of a sell-out crowd in sensations of music, fever and visual grandeur. Led by the unbelievable gyrations of Mark Farner, the tremendous trio, accompanied by guest organist Craig Frost literally bust open the Pandora's box of rock and thrust the rock beats of the gods into the eyes, ears and nerves of the ecstatic overflow Cleveland audience.

The effect of this hour-and-a-half musical orgasm was so unbelievably tasty that it's impossible to accurately paint it out for you on the typed page. It was so real that it was unreal! You had to be there — and you should have been, you dolts! Those of you who were there know what I mean.

Funk started their bust-up with "Flight of the Phoenix" and kept going non-stop through several pieces, including "Rock & Roll Soul," "Loneliness," "Captain," "Heartbreaker," "Foot-stompin' Music" and "Upsetter."

Farner then paused to urge the already-wild audience to get into things a little more. "Save the Land" was the cry and also the song, as Farner led the band into that number, off their Pluribus album. They went through, ended, and deserted the stage for the dimly lit backstage area. But the crowd was in no way ready to abandon the trio and end the night. The screams, stomping, and clamoring of the primed-and-ready crowd brought the magical three back onto stage for the

11 faculty named by NRPA

The National Register of Prominent Americans and International Notables has named eleven YSU faculty members to its 1972-73 edition.

The Register brings international recognition to prominent men and women members, deserving of notable mention, for outstanding achievements in their business, profession, community, state or country.

Named from the education area are Dr. Joseph P. Altinger, assistant professor of mathematics; Dr. John R. Anton, assistant professor of geography; Dr. Jean M. Kely, associate professor of English; Dr. Joseph Kirschner, associate professor of education; and Dr. Robert E. Ward, associate professor of foreign languages and chairman of the department.

Those named in engineering are Dr. S. Ahmed, professor of materials science; Dr. John N.

Cernica, professor of civil engineering and department chairman; and Dr. Leslie V. Szirmay, assistant professor of chemical engineering.

Anybody who wasn't exhausted and numb from clapping and groovin' up to this point was most certainly done in with this number. Farner went into one hell of an insane act, complete with twirling guitar, running, jumping, gyrating, harmonica-throwing, screaming and general all-around fantasies. Absolutely great. Fantastic. Insane. Just love-ly!

Fine Arts selected Dr. Mark F. Walker, professor of music; Educational Administration — Dr. T.R. Rama Drishnan, associate professor of management; and Social Science — Mrs. Edna K. McDonald, assistant professor of sociology and anthropology.
