Smoking regulations on campus spark mixed emotions

By KRISTINE HARRINGTON
Jambar Assistant News Editor

Severe restrictions have been placed on smoking on campus as a part of the contract that was recently negotiated between the administration and the faculty.

Article 23.6 of the new Agreement between YSU and the YSU chapter of the Ohio Education Association reads:

There shall be no smoking in any University building except in designated areas that are separately vented.

In conformity with the collectively bargained agreement, effective immediately there will be no smoking in any YSU building at any time except in the buildings and areas listed below.

Beeghly Hall: North Lobby, South Lobby, Room 322(Lounge); Bridge over Wick Avenue; Kilcawley Residence Hall: Residence rooms by agreement of occupants of each room; Kilcawley Student Center: West end of Wicker Basket; Meshel Hall: Computer Center lounge on 4th floor; Physical Plant Building: "New Lunch Room"; Fedor Hall: Room 1036; Stambaugh Stadium: Private Boxes on Press Box level; Williamson Hall: 3rd floor student lounge; Parking Decks.

Smokers are requested to observe these restrictions and, when smoking in designated areas or outside, to please use ash trays or receptacles identified for disposal of cigarettes and cigars.

It is difficult to estimate what the enforcement problem will be concerning this prohibition. It is assumed that since 23.6 was adopted at the request of the YSU-OEA, the union representing all full-time service faculty, that there is a consensus in favor of a substantially smoke free campus. It is noted that the smoking prohibition applies to individual offices and to rest rooms.

Students have expressed mixed emotions about the new restrictions. One anonymous smoker said, "I pay tuition, shouldn't I have a say?"

According to Jain Savage, Coordinator of Substance Abuse Services, students did have a say. She claims that last year a tobacco abuse committee was formed. Savage states that students were on this committee. Also, the committee circulated a survey to students, faculty and staff.

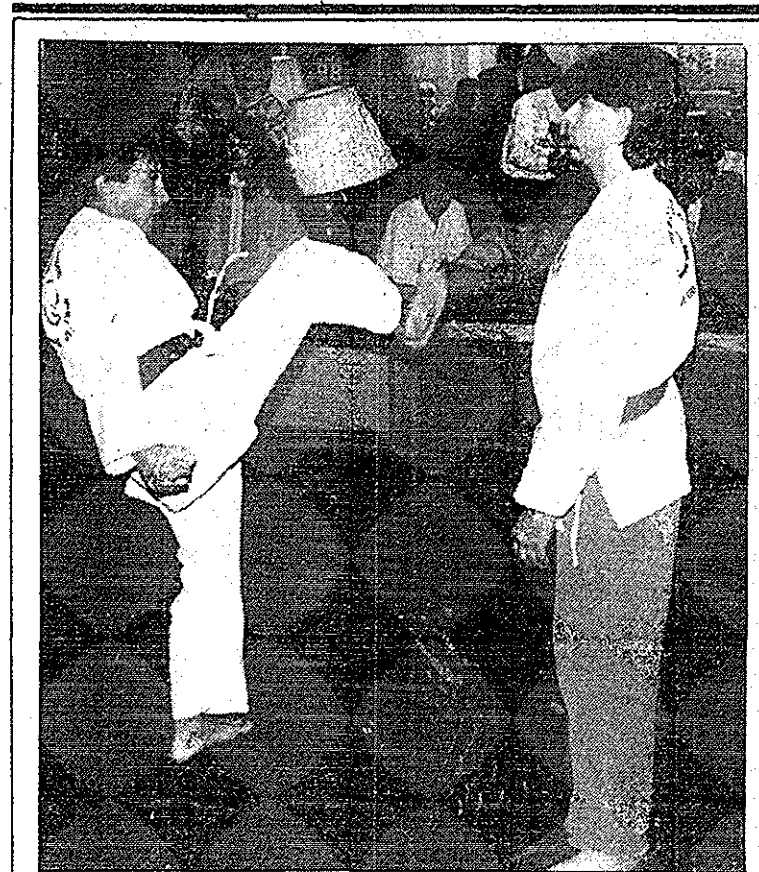

In addition, the committee spoke to architects and people in facilities to find out about the ventilation systems in campus buildings. The findings of this committee, were submitted to Dr. Neil Humphrey, President of YSU. The faculty wanted this issue to be part of the negotiations, according to Savage.

Jean Wainio from the Vice President of Personnel Services office said, "This is not something that developed just See Smoking, page 7

Faculty Forum examines Holistic Health

By NANCY KERTIS
Jambar Managing Editor

Holistic health was the topic of the first Faculty Forum held Thursday afternoon in DeBartho Hall.

The four featured speakers each gave a presentation exploring a different aspect of holistic health.

Speaking first about theory and background was Dr. Joyce Segretto, psychology. Segretto began her presentation with a sobering statistic. She said of the 40 persons attending the Forum that "10 of us will develop some type of cancer, 8 of us will suffer from hypertension and 7 of us will be victims of some type of violence during our lifetime.

Segretto explained that holistic health can play a major factor in reducing these statistics.

Health care costs was another topic discussed by Segretto. She said that between the years 1940-1975 health care costs had increased over 314 percent, and that currently, health care costs are increasing at twice the rate of inflation.

Segretto explained that holistic health is the concept of wellness made up of six factors:

physical, emotional, intellectual, spiritual, social, and occupational well being.

Speaking next was Margaret Horvath, home economics. Her presentation included the Institutional Models of Holistic Health. She cited results from health programs offered by employees through the United States praising the results of these programs.

Companies that had offered health awareness programs to their employees had lowered their health care costs considerably and had higher productivity in their companies.

Continuing the discussion of Holistic Health, Dr. Tony Whitney, health and physical education, spoke about the benefits of exercise.

He explained that exercise was a great tool for dealing with stress control.

He urged people to get involved with some type of exercise and proceeded to show slides of the numerous activities and services available on campus that promote good health and wellness.

Whitney commented that he often sees the bike racks on campus are empty and that "This could be used to alleviate some of the parking problems."

Last to speak was Dr. George Letchworth, director of counseling and health services.

Letchworth spoke about the future of holistic health and the growing number of holistic health committees already on the YSU campus.

Letchworth explained that it wouldn't take much time to attend to our bodies and minds a little more. He suggested perhaps using noon-time a little different than before. Reminding the audience of YSU's

CAST students appeal relocation of math lab

By PHILIP CEPLICE
Staff Reporter

CAST students inconvenienced by the removal of the furniture from the third floor study lounge in Cushwa Hall have joined together in an effort to have the furniture returned and halt the university's plans to convert the space into an enclosed area to be used by the mathematics laboratory.

Originally located in the School of Education, the math lab relocated to the third floor of Cushwa Hall at the beginning of fall quarter 1988 into a space described as "visibly inadequate."

According to Michael Skurich, manager, technical services, the math lab filed a request with Mr. Edmund J. Salata, executive director of facilities, to convert the study lounge into an enclosed area to be used for tutoring and other math services.

According to Salata, the request was approved after "being considered by those involved." Not involved in the decision making process were the students who make use of the lounge area or Dr. Victor A. Richley, dean of the College of Applied Science and Technology.

Because the student body believes that the decision made by Salata regarding the study lounge was made without careful consideration or extensive examination of that space's current use, CAST students are filing an appeal with the Space Allocations Committee so that Salata's decision can be re-examined and reconsidered.

The committee, which is comprised of three administrators and two members of faculty, is an advisory committee to the president and is designed to hear appeals of decisions made by the executive director of space.

Although a formal committee, Space Allocations has never held a formal meeting and has never established any guidelines or procedures to follow for appealing a decision.

"Obviously," said CAST senior Janice Doughton, "the decision making process was done quite informally and did not involve those effected by the decision. The fact that the Space Allocations committee has never held a meeting is indicative that something is wrong." Doughton was one of many CAST students who helped gather over 150 signatures showing student support of the appeal.

"Bring Our Furniture Back!!!" The point is perfectly clear: Cushwa students want the furniture that's been removed to make room for the new math lab returned pronto. For the students pictured here, studying may be a little difficult on the floor, but there's plenty of leg room.

With the exception of the first floor study area, no other area in Cushwa hall houses an open-air, non-quiet study area. With three departments and over 25 classrooms on the third floor, student population is considerable and as stressed by Doughton, "We shouldn't have to walk two flights of steps to relax with our classmates."

Scholarship designed for sophomores in government services

YSU sophomores interested in a career in government service at the federal, state or local level are invited to apply for a 1990 Harry S. Truman Scholarship.

Established by Congress in 1975, the Harry S. Truman Scholarship Foundation operates an ongoing educational scholarship program designed to provide opportunities for outstanding students in the U.S. with potential leadership ability to prepare for careers in government service.

In April 1990, the Foundation will award 92 Scholarships nationally. The deadline for all 1990 applications is Oct. 27.

YSU can nominate two students for the 1990 competition.

The scholarship award cover eligible expenses up to $7,000 per year for the junior year, the senior year, and two years of graduate study.

To be eligible, a student must be a full-time sophomore working toward or planning to pursue a baccalaureate degree, have a B average or equivalent, stand in the upper fourth of the class, and be a U.S. citizen or U.S. national heading toward a career in government.

Applicants are available at the Kilcawley Center Staff Office.

Waldron, Beaubien nominated for Academic Senate Chair

By MIRIAM KLEIN
Jambar Copy Editor

Nominations were at the top of Academic Senate's agenda for its first session of the 1989-90 academic year last Wednesday in DeBartolo Hall.

Nominated for the position of Senate Chair were Dr. Joseph A. Waldron, criminal justice, and Dr. Mary J. Beaubien, home economics.

Seven nominations were accepted by the Senate for six two-year positions on the Charter and Bylaws Committee. Nominees were: Dr. James E. Dale, philosophy and religious studies; Dr. Raj N. Varma, home economics; Dr. Matthew Siman, engineering; Dr. Melissa T. Smith, foreign languages; Dr. James Schramer, English; Bernadette Martyak, junior, A&S; and Dr. Lowell J. Satre, history.

Ballots will be sent by mail to Senators and should be returned by Wednesday, Oct. 25.

In other business, the Senate heard a report from the Faculty Advisory Committee about its progress in researching possible ways to involve YSU faculty in enhancing the success of minorities in college.

In 1988, the Ohio Board of Regents asked state universities to study faculty roles in increasing minority students' access to college and ensuring their success on campus.

In response to this request, Dr. Ikram Khawaja, geology, stated that the Committee has developed a report to be submitted to the Chancellor of the Ohio Board of Regents.

Khawaja said the report stated that this issue should "not be dumped on admissions but require the collaboration of all departments on campus" and that a long term plan be implemented to achieve this goal, perhaps with the faculty playing a key role in recruitment.

Khawaja recommended that the Senate evaluate this issue in order to make recommendations as to a possible course of action.

Academic Senate meetings are held the first Wednesday of every month in Room 132 of DeBartolo Hall.

Theft, homeless man subjects of reports

By GARY HALL
Jambar News Editor

A stolen wallet and a "dumpster inhabiting" man were two incidents listed on the Campus Police Station report.

On Tuesday, Oct. 3, an employee of Arby's Restaurant in Kilcawley Student Center reported to police that her wallet had been stolen from the Arby's manager's office area.

The victim, who said that she along with other Arby's employees do not secure their purses in a locked area, claimed the theft to have occurred sometime between 7:45 a.m. and 2 p.m. that day, the report stated.

The stolen property, which included a white cloth wallet valued at $5, an Ohio identification card valued at $5, $190 in U.S. currency and other miscellaneous items, was said to have been missing upon the victim's return at 2 p.m., the report said.

In another report, on Wednesday, Oct. 4, at approximately 10 p.m., YSU Grounds Employee

Ed Taylor reported that a white male subject had been sleeping in a dumpster in the M-11 parking lot on Walnut Street.

Taylor reported that a woman resident at 235 Emerald, advised him earlier in the evening that she had seen a white male with blonde hair exit the dumpster earlier in the morning, the report stated.

The report also went on to say that Taylor had seen a subject fitting that description on Monday or Tuesday the week before, but he thought the subject was just looking through the dumpster.

Sergeant Gregory Clementi requested a report be made in order to alert the midnight and dayturn shift of the incident, the report said.

Also, as a side note to the report, the subject was said to have fit the description of another man whom he had reported seeing loitering in the Wick Oval area.

Officer Rosemary Marsco and Taylor checked the dumpster, but with negative results, the report concluded.

Smoking ban raises questions concerning smoker's civil rights

A major initiative has taken place at YSU. Smoking has almost completely been banned from campus.

All students, faculty and administration no longer will be permitted to smoke on campus except in ten remote areas, such as the press box in Stambaugh Stadium or the third floor lounge in Williamson Hall.

Because these areas are remote and not open to all the people at YSU, it is actually a total ban on smoking.

The limitation is a culmination of discussions by committees last year and the recent YSU-OEA agreement. Article 23.6 of the agreement said "There shall be no smoking in any University building except in designated areas that are separately vented."

The overall problem with this limitation is the areas where smoking is permitted.

These areas may not be easily accessible to everyone at YSU.

A committee, which was formed last year, did extensive research on where the best areas on campus are to smoke and if smoking should be banned on campus. The committee's results showed only ten areas on campus have enough ventilation for smokers to smoke.

Smokers and non-smokers both have their rights, but this smoking limitation should be amended by adding areas on campus that are accessible for everyone's use.

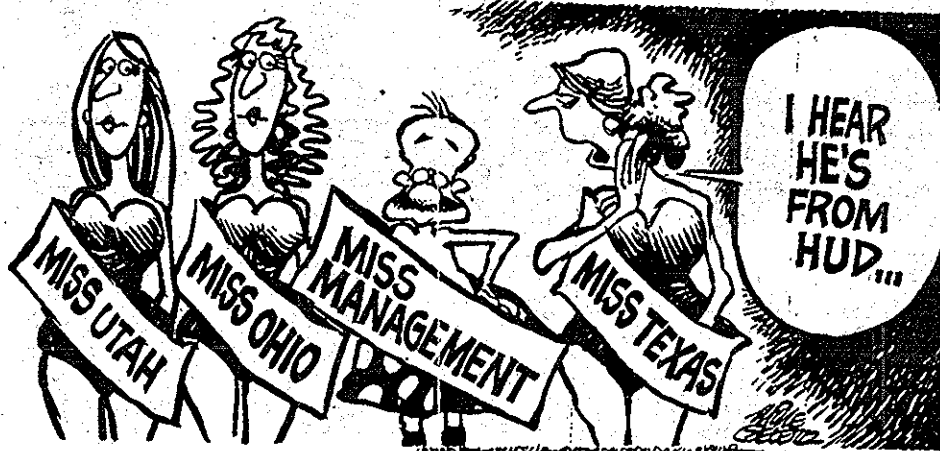

Now the only place in Kilcawley Center where smoking is permitted is the west end of the Wicker Basket. It is well-known that many students do not eat at the Wicker Basket, so why is smoking allowed there and not in the Terrace Room or Arby's where the majority of the students eat?

Even though President Neil Humphrey signed the memo notifying the campus of the limitation, all the burden should not be placed on him. Humphrey went by the reports the committee found and felt it would be in the best interest of the University to initiate the limitation of smoking.

If the University bans or puts limitations on smoking, then the smokers will be upset. On the other side, if smoking is permitted, then the non-smokers will complain about their rights.

A compromise should be made so that smokers will be able to smoke in areas where they will not disturb or annoy non-smokers.

By amending the ban, smokers will be able to continue their enjoyment while non-smokers will not have to inhale second-hand smoke.

COMMENTARIES

Lack of books halts achievement

How can this university expect me to do well on a college level if my books never come in?

Okay, never may be a little harsh considering the fact that it is only the seventh day of the quarter.

It does not pacify me to think about the 33 students in my one class who already have their books. How far ahead of me do you think they're going to be when I finally do get my books. Even worse, it is going to take a lot of extra time for me to catch up.

I have the money — it's the Bookstore that doesn't have the books.

My teachers keep saying read this and read that. How am I supposed to read material that I do not possess. My teachers tell me to make copies of my neighbors text. What is this — high school?

Is it my fault the Bookstore didn't order enough copies? Is it the Bookstore's fault that seven more people were permitted to pick up the class?

Richard M. Jenkins

The questions "Who's fault is it?" and "Where should the blame rest?" I feel need to be answered.

The most discouraging aspect of this whole dilemma is that the blame will ultimately rest on me when my parents, my adviser and my future employer want to know why I did poorly in two of my four classes.

I cannot understand how I am supposed to maintain a decent grade point average if I'm unable to get a book to study from.

All summer I planned on studying real

U.S. needs to redefine drug policy

Drugs. This subject appears to be in style, so I might as well put my two cents forward.

The United States has no war on drugs. The Bush Administration has a good bit of rhetoric and plans on dumping too little money into short-term policy programs that do not get to the heart of the problem.

More jail space and "Just Say No" campaigns do not make for an effective drug policy. It is a question of economic alternatives. South America is always taking a verbal beating from the North. Why can Columbia, Bolivia, et al not control their drug producing populations? Why do these folks not plant respectable crops like corn and wheat instead of cocoa? Would you? These people are victims of the law of supply and demand. Why shouldn't they invest their time and effort in the big cash crops? Given the proper economic alternative, the South Americans would be happier to make their money from soy bean production. When was the last time the United States gave economic assistance to a nation that wanted to eradicate its soy fields?

Justice served in Mack's case

On Tuesday, in the Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court justice was served.

Cleveland Brown running back Kevin Mack was sentenced to serve six months in the state reformatory on one count of drug abuse.

Mack was arrested on June 25 for the possession of cocaine and crack in a Cleveland high school parking lot.

Some may feel Mack received a harsh sentence because he is a celebrity and he was used as an example.

Records indicate that most first time offenders of drug charges receive a suspended sentence and at times community service.

Kevin Mack deserved the sentence he received.

Mack, who was a two-time all-pro at running back, has had a drug problem since the summer of 1985. On Wednesday, Browns President Art Modell admitted he knew of Mack's problem with drugs and tried to get him help through the club's Inner Circle drug counseling program.

Mack had two roads to take. He had the opportunity to rid himself of this problem without the public ever knowing about it. Or, he could have taken the road to continue with drugs.

He chose the wrong road. Gone is a whole football season, his starting job at running back and possibly his football career.

Ten months ago Mack was the star running back for the Browns. New head coach Bud Carson had innovative plans for him and he was hoping for a chance to play on a Super Bowl team. That is now in the past.

Because of ten $50 bags of cocaine and crack, Mack's dreams and aspirations are just that, dreams.

This terrible incident in Browns' history shows that taking or selling drugs will eventually cause a person's downfall.

Maybe Mack will join the prison football team?

Drugs

And those young Americans selling pot and crack on the streets are also getting a bad rap. Imagine yourself as a ten year-old growing up in Washington, D.C. All around you are teenagers with nice cars and a steady supply of cash all provided by drug sales. Are you going to study intensely in order to score well on the SAT or will you follow a career of fast and fairly easy money? Unfortunately, many choose the economic alternative that relies on less effort.

Perhaps it is no coincidence that President Bush chose to focus on drugs and education in the month of September. Our shaky system of education does not encourage its students to choose the more difficult and respectable alternatives. How can an institution that does not appear to care about its students expect its students to respect the institution or its benefits? Many of America's kids are dropping out because drugs provide an exciting economic alternative.

Now I am not suggesting that we should pardon all of the drug dealers because they are simply victims of society's mishaps. But the United States should delve deeper into its conscience and realize that only through a logical, long-term, "big picture" policy initiative can our nation effectively stop the drug crisis. President Bush and the Congress will have to make some tough choices. The United States must make real decisions regarding third world debt and education. Revenue must be enhanced, and some budgets (defense maybe?) will be cut. Perhaps some economic restructuring could provide the economic alternatives that people need. A high school education should be worth more than a service economy job flipping burgers. Maybe the United States just needs a good five year plan — or any plan at all.

Finally, what should be done with the drug users?

Let us sit them down in front of a large movie screen and show them the footage of the thousands that have lost their lives in Los Angeles and Bogota and Youngstown so that they could enjoy their coke or snort.

Then the victims' family members will be introduced, and they can all swap stories. O.K., this is pushing it. But the users need to realize that drugs really do kill. Every American who turns his or her head the other way is responsible.

hard this year so I would do real well in my senior year. Yet, much to my dismay, here I am once again with no books looking at my first tests of the quarter.

All I can say is "Calgon take me away!"

I do not feel that I should have to function under such adverse conditions. College is challenging enough and I'm being forced to combat all this adversity without my weapons.

I cannot help but feel naked in my classrooms without the acquired knowledge in a book of an expert in the subject of my choice.

I would like to say that this problem exists not for lack of trying. I have been to the Bookstore every day this week inquiring as to the whereabouts of the newly ordered books. They seem to be beyond the grasp of mortal beings.

This is insane — it's kind of like a soldier fighting the enemy with no gun.

As for my other class, on the first day my teacher said the books would be in October 2.

Well they weren't and she's still passing out copies of the pages we're supposed to be reading.

Do you have any idea how hard it is to keep this stuff organized?

I have a hard time keeping my notes organized, let alone daily handouts of the text book I'm supposed to have.

The most upsetting part of this whole mess is that I paid $692.00 to attend YSU this quarter and I have no books for two of my classes. I cannot see any justice in this.

It's beyond me — how am I to be expected to make up everything that is being taught now in my class and keep abreast of the future material my classes will be covering when and if my books do come in.

I suggest that there should be more cooperation between the Bookstore and the faculty.

Harrison to speak

On Tuesday, October 10, Patricia Harrison, president of the National Women's Alliance, will be speaking in the Ohio Room of Kilcawley Center at 7:30 p.m.

Harrison, who was a former journalist and syndicated columnist, is a frequent speaker on effective public relations and on economic and career issues concerning women.

Harrison has also served on a delegation to Israel and Greece.

Homecoming court announced; ten students compete for royalty

YSU — The Homecoming Court for 1989 has been announced. Gretchen Bruce, junior, business; Shelly Byers, senior, business; Robin Coney, senior, CAST; Carol Grace, junior, education; and Michelle Knight, senior, education, have been selected for the women.

For the men, Maury Bibent, senior, business; Dean Economou, junior, A&S; Pete Rektis, junior, A&S; Keith Rubenstein, senior, F&PA; and Ken Witherow, junior, A&S, were selected.

Lynn Haug, homecoming advisor said just under 400 ballots were cast which was an increase over last year.

Smoking

Continued from page 1 through negotiations." In 1987 a safety committee was concerned about nuisance alarms going off in buildings because of students smoking in the hallways, said Wainio. She said, "We needed to get the smoke into other areas." Wainio also pointed out the issue of harmful side effects of second-hand smoke.

Most students seem to be aware of these side effects. Tom Kennedy, senior, A&S, said, "I feel that the teacher's association thinks they can stop people from smoking by banning it, they're wrong. There should be smoking and non-smoking sections." Rich Sabatowski, sophomore, CAST, and a non-smoker said, "I'm glad, but it is a bit extreme."

Faculty member David Whitore, anthropology, said, "Things could be a little more convenient for smokers. Healthwise, it's probably a good thing, but they should make more of an effort to get programs to get people off smoking."

Another anonymous smoker said, "This is discriminating against smokers. We aren't the scum of the earth. We are bonded by a bad habit, but we come from all walks of life."

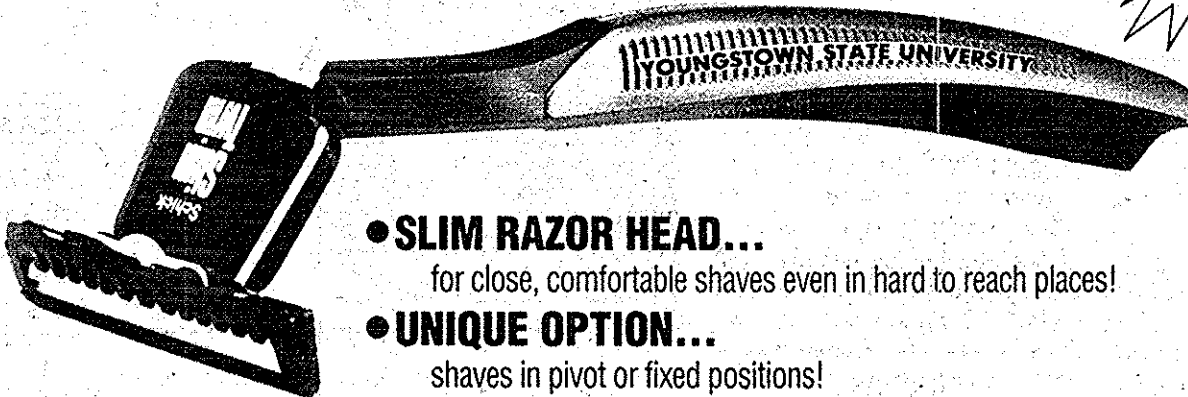

There are other problems resulting from these new restrictions. The candy counter in Kilcawley Center will no longer sell cigarettes. This will provide a great loss of income, according to Philip Hirsch, director of Students Activities/ Auxiliary Services. He said that the candy counter will lose about $12,000 by discontinuing the sale of cigarettes.

In addition, there are three other unions on campus who were not consulted about the smoking restrictions being written into the YSU-OEA contract. Julia Lloyd, Student Developmental Services and a member of the YSU-ACE union, said that her union was not contacted about this issue. She said, "We are currently looking into the matter and deciding what action to take."

Ballet production brings world class dancers

Ballet Western Reserve announces it is presenting the first-ever Youngstown performance of The Superstars of the Bolshoi Ballet and Company at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 24 at the Edward W. Powers Auditorium in Youngstown.

The performance, which features two of the world's finest classical dancers, Ekaterina Maximova and Vladimir Vasiliev, is one of the few appearances scheduled as the prestigious ballet company continues its first North American tour. The Soviet ballet company has a world-wide reputation which brings a tradition of unparalleled lavish and elaborate productions of the classics.

The Youngstown performance will include works from Romeo and Juliet, Bolero, Don Quixote and Le Corsaire.

The husband and wife team of Maximova and Vasiliev have received rave reviews from audiences around the world. Ms. Maximova joined the Bolshoi Ballet at 18, making her official debut in the Peasant Pas de Deux in Giselle. She has had roles in The Nutcracker, Swan Lake, Sleeping Beauty and Romeo and Juliet.

Maximova has appeared as a principal dancer with the Paris Opera Ballet, Rome Opera and La Scala. She is the recipient of many honors including the gold medal in the International Ballet competition in Varna, Bulgaria and the Anna Pavlova Prize in Paris. Her numerous ballet films have been widely distributed on videotape, and she has appeared on Soviet, British, French and Italian television. Maximova's last appearance in the United States was in 1988 when she appeared as a guest star with the Moscow Classical Ballet.

A native of Moscow, Vasiliev studied at the Bolshoi Choreographic School and later joined the Bolshoi Ballet at the age of 18. Before he was 20, he had already won leading roles in several ballets. Among his most famous roles are Basil in Don Quixote, Albrecht in Giselle, and the Prince in The Nutcracker. Vasiliev also won the grand prize at the International Ballet competition in Varna, Bulgaria. He too has appeared frequently on Soviet and European television.

In addition, he and his wife have performed in the film opera of La Traviata by Franco Zeffirelli. Vasiliev has toured with the Bolshoi all over the world and has been a guest performer for many ballet companies. Last April, both Ms. Maximova and Mr. Vasiliev appeared in a new ballet Youth of Nijinsky filmed in Naples, Italy.

Tickets for the one performance may be obtained at all Ticketron outlets. Seats are available at $18.50, $25, $32.50 and $40. Special patron tickets are available at $150 per person, which includes premium seating and a special patron reception attended by the Bolshoi Superstars and Company. Patron seats may be reserved by calling Ballet Western Reserve.

The Bolshoi Superstars program is being sponsored by The Cafaro Company, Phar-Mor, Syro Steel, The Lyden Company, The Edward DeBartolo Corporation and Liberty Steel Products.

Amazing grace: Ekaterina Maximova and Vladimir Vasiliev, world class Soviet dancers, and the Bolshoi Ballet Company will be performing at Powers Auditorium in Youngstown on Oct. 24. The company is on their first North American Tour that has established a world wide reputation.

Johnny Handsome may become hit movie for Rourke

Love or revenge: Johnny (Mickey Rourke) weighs his chance to start a new life and find love with Donna (Elizabeth McGovern) against his need for revenge, in the movie Johnny Handsome.

Johnny Handsome, which opened this past Friday at area theaters, stars Mickey Rourke, Ellen Barkin, Elizabeth McGovern and Lance Henriksen.

Known for his more recent roles played in 9½ Weeks and Angel Heart, Rourke plays Johnny Handsome, a New Orleans crook who was born with a deformed face and has a tarnished past record.

When Johnny's only friend is double-crossed and murdered by two vicious criminals, Sunny, played by Ellen Barkin, and Rafe, played by Lance Henriksen, he is torn between taking revenge on the murderers or leading the normal, law abiding existence that becomes possible after reconstructive surgery offers him a new start in life.

Possessing a new face, a new identity and an honest job in a shipyard, Johnny falls into a passionate affair with Donna, played by Elizabeth McGovern.

Second classical concert for Youngstown Symphony

YOUNGSTOWN — Guest Conductor James Setapen will take the podium at 8:30 p.m. Saturday Oct. 14, when the Youngstown Symphony Orchestra presents its second Classical subscription concert of the 1989-90 season in the Edward W. Powers Auditorium.

James Setapen, one of America's brightest young musical talents, is Music Director of the Amarillo Symphony. He studied at the Eastman School of Music, the Cleveland

Institute of Music, the Mozarteum in Salzburg, Austria, and the Siena Academy, Italy. Mr. Setapen has previously been Assistant Conductor of the Denver Symphony, Music Director of the Alabama Chamber Orchestra and Principal Conductor of the Cleveland Opera Theatre. For his debut performance at the Edward W. Powers

Auditorium, Setapen has chosen three orchestral showpieces that will highlight the virtuosity of the Youngstown Symphony: Rossini's Overture to The Siege of Corinth, The Pleasure Dome of Kubla Khan by Charles Tomlinson Griffes, and Serge Prokofiev's Symphony No. 5. Tickets may be purchased at the Youngstown Symphony Society Office.

Playhouse to host serio-comic play through October

YOUNGSTOWN — Morning's at Seven, Paul Osborn's serio-comic play about four elderly sisters and their families, opens Friday, Oct. 13 at the Youngstown Playhouse.

Directed by Joseph Scarvell, it features M. Joyce Colla, Ellen Wilhelm, Glenda Drotleff and Wanda Lou Jones as the sisters whose backyards and lives are closely joined. Jack Hales, Howard Wise and Andrew Hamady play the husbands of the first three. The romantic interest is provided by the eldest sister's 40-year-old son, Homer, played by Bill Rees, and his fiancée, Myrtle, played by Cher L. Halas, who have been courting for 11 years.

Morning's at Seven was first produced in 1939 and was revived on Broadway several years ago to unanimous acclaim.

Reservations for the performances, 8 p.m. Oct. 13, 14, 19, 20, 21, 27 and 28; and 2 p.m. Oct. 15, are being taken by the Playhouse box office at (216) 788-8739. The Oct. 19 performance will be interpreted for the hearing-impaired.

The box office is also taking separate reservations for a buffet dinner at 6:30 p.m. opening night, at $15 per person, and a Playhouse innovation, a matinee brunch, at 12:30 p.m. Oct. 15, at $7 per person. Both will be served in the Moyer Room.

A new life is within Johnny's grasp, but revenge becomes imbedded in his mind.

The film is directed by Watler Hill, famous for such movies as 48HRS, starring Eddie Murphy, Crossroads, starring Ralph Macchio, and Extreme Prejudice, with Nick Nolte.

Johnny Handsome is produced by Charles Roven.

Airborne: Troy Bishop, a co-captain of the Soccer Club, dives to block a kick during a practice held on Tuesday afternoon.

Soccer Club is on the rise

RICHARD M. JENKINS
Jambar Sports Editor

Entering its second season as a Club Sport YSU Soccer is beginning to come together as a sport on campus.

With 24 members in the Club now Faculty Adviser Steve Hanzely is looking for more recruits in an effort to get Club Soccer turned into a Varsity Sport.

According to Hanzely, the Club is presently under the leadership co-captains Troy Bishop, sophomore, A&S, and Jim Celebrezze, sophomore, A&S.

"They have the respect of the other members of the team," said Hanzely. "They also have the leadership qualities needed to schedule practices and to keep the team organized."

Operating on a limited budget the Club is given enough money for some equipment, traveling fees and for paying their referees.

Being only one of the four club sports on campus Club Soccer must share a $2,000.00 budget with Club Cricket, Club Velo Equipe and Club Triathlon/Roadrace.

At this time the Soccer Club is off to a slow start with a 0-2 record. The team is looking to improve their record in the coming weeks as they continue to sharpen their skills.

YSU's Soccer Club takes the field twice in the coming weekend with matches against LaRoche at 2 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 7 and against Hiram at 7 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 8.

Both matches will be held on the field located within the boundaries of YSU's track.

A touch of Japan has come to the YSU campus; and specifically, the athletic department.

Sveo "Sam" Oyama, executive director of the National Association of Strength and Conditioning in Japan, has been touring the country and visiting numerous colleges, including YSU.

Oyama, who is a certified specialist in acupuncture, has seen many of the injured athletes along with Dan Wathen, strength and conditioning head coach.

Oyama is here to learn more about what is involved in collegiate level program to strengthen and condition athletes.

"Oyama is here on an informational basis. We're getting and learning the new scants on conventional treats for our athletes," Wathen said.

"Typically we use acupressure which entails not penetrating the skin. In acupuncture, you're penetrating the skin. So we're able to get the inside on acupuncture from Oyama," Wathen added.

Oyama has been touring schools across the country like University of Nebraska and Florida State. His main purpose is to visit top Division I schools that have above average excellent strength and condition programs like YSU.

"Like myself, Oyama was one of the first to incorporate the strength and conditioning aspects so I felt he should come up to Youngstown and be exposed to the program."

Not only has Oyama been working on the college level, but the professional level as well. He was the former head trainer for the Tokyo Giants, and while in the United States, he has been working with the Chicago White Sox instructional league.

While touring the country, Oyama has been taking English classes at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln, which is also headquarters for the association.

While Oyama was in Youngstown, he stayed with the Wathen family. "I'm just delighted to have him here. It's his first trip to Ohio and I want to make it a lasting impression."

Womens' volleyball team splits a double header

The YSU Women's Volleyball team split a triangular meet against Mercyhurst College of Pennsylvania and Cleveland State here at Stambaugh Stadium.

In their first outing against Mercyhurst, the Penguins showed no mercy as they fought a three game set to win the match, 15-11, 15-11, 15-6.

The second set didn't prove as fruitful and the Penguins lost to Cleveland State, 15-10, 8-15, 11-15, 11-15.

Against Cleveland State, the Penguins raced out to an early lead to win the first game, but lost the next three games.

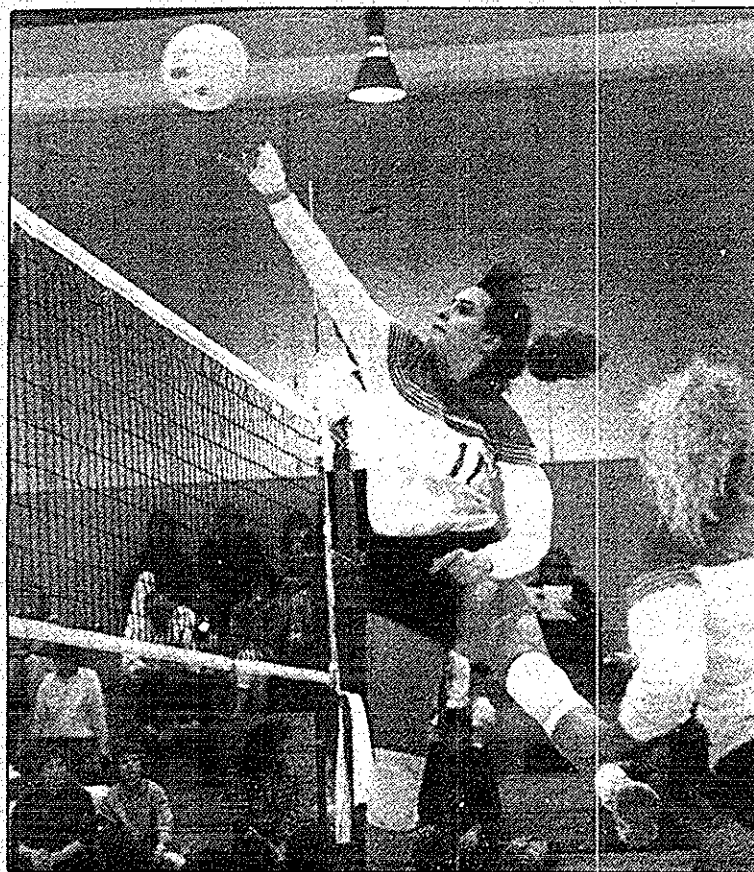

Although the Penguins lost their match to the Vikings, there were many bright spots on the team that pleased Coaches John

McKenna and Joe Conroy. "We played hard the whole match against a tough

"We played hard the whole match against a tough Cleveland State team," said McKenna.

Cleveland State team," McKenna said. "But we're really pleased the way sophomores Sandy Stieber and Chaney Wales stepped in and played. We've showed that we're a very competitive volleyball team," McKenna added.

The Penguins (6-13) will be in action again today as they travel to Buffalo for the University of Buffalo Invitational.
