Hostility rules at Government meeting

By MARALINE KUBIK
Jambar Assistant News Editor

The political atmosphere at YSU closely resembles that of Youngstown's latest mayoral primary, as evidenced by the hostility demonstrated during Monday afternoon's Student Government meeting.

A controversy over the dismissal of a representative, the validity of last week's Student Government election results and the legality of write-in candidates all spurred debate.

Going into executive session to address grievances, Student Government voted to dismiss Chris Owen, A&S representative, for undisclosed grievances filed against him.

Owen later told The Jambar grievances were filed against him by at least two organizations and an individual or group of individuals involved with Student Government. According to Owen, grievances filed claim his conduct was not appropriate for a representative; that he used an inappropriate tone of voice during a committee meeting and that he tried to allow a student on the Financial Appropriations Committee, the committee Owen chaired, to vote during committee although that student was not yet an official member of Student Government.

Following Owen's dismissal, the discipline committee called for another election for Student Government president and vice president, a recommendation which spurred a heated discussion between Student Government members.

The dispute centered on the validity of last week's Student Government election results.

Regulations stipulate that 50 percent plus one of all valid votes cast are needed for a presidential and vice presidential team to win. Incumbents Amy McFarland, Student Government president, and Bob Walls, Student Government vice president, received 636 of the 1,308 valid votes cast. Write-in candidates Brian Fry and Dan Haude, who ran for president and vice president respectively, received 652 votes, three votes short of the 655 necessary for a victory.

Battle raises question of election policy

By DEBORA SHAULIS
Jambar Editor

Monday's chaotic Student Government meeting left many people angry and confused over the events of the day, in which adherence to the body's Constitution was repeatedly cited, analyzed and criticized.

For Amy McFarland and Bob Walls, current president and vice president, the crux of the matter was the constitutionality of write-in candidates in Student Government elections. At the same time, challengers Brian Fry and Dan Haude said they did not knowingly break any rules, and many people commented on the ambiguity of the current Constitution and Bylaws.

"No one's above the Constitution," said Walls following the meeting. "You just can't throw them [rules] out at one's convenience."

"Either that, or we take this book," he said, reaching across

Senior job search

YSU graduates face "real world" — or do they?

By TIM LEONARD
Jambar Sports Editor

So you're graduating this quarter. You're ready to enter the "real world."

For some, the mere mention of those two words — the real world — brings anger.

But many don't find it at all demeaning to be told they, the college student, aren't in the real world.

Amy Darnell, a graduating senior in education, is one of those people who feels that most college students don't live in the same world as those who don't attend college.

"We're in a college world," said Darnell. "We're in to college things. So we have a college view of things. Right now we're concerned with making the grade. We're not concerned with the business world."

It is students like Darnell, who is presently student teaching at Howland and is the Neon (the YSU yearbook) seniors editor, who are, as Career Services Director Charles Whitman says, getting a taste of the real world.

"Most students are getting a taste of the real world through a part-time job," said Whitman. "So they're not really in the real world. They're getting a taste of the real world."

"There is a difference [between the world at YSU and the world outside YSU]," said Whitman. "I think this is a more protective environment. When you get into the business community, sometimes they [your future bosses] are not understanding and sympathetic with the need for a flexible work schedule [of the student]."

On the other hand, Whitman says most YSU students are closer to the real world than students at Ohio State, Bowling Green, Ohio U., and Miami, (Oh.). These

School to sponsor workshop about career opportunities

YSU — The William School of Business is sponsoring a symposium about its master of business administration program.

The purpose of the session is to inform prospective and graduate MBA students of the career opportunities an MBA can provide.

The symposium is slated for Monday, May 22 in Room 510 of Williamson Hall. Four successful MBA graduates will relate their personal experiences and insight regarding an MBA degree. Their talks are scheduled from 6 to 7 p.m., and will be followed by a half-hour informal question and answer period.

The speakers include Carol Francisco of Canfield, independent management consultant; Gerald Thomas of Youngstown, Personnel Coordinator, YSU; and James Henshaw of Warren, Pa., Director of Fiscal Services, Warren General Hospital of Pennsylvania.

For further information, contact Linda Mohn, MBA program coordinator at (216) 742-3069.

Kinko's faces photocopy lawsuit

By BRIAN J. MACALA
Jambar Managing Editor

The system of "professor publishing" used by many educators through Kinko's copy service may come to an end if eight publishing houses have their way.

Kinko's Graphics Corporation, based in Ventura, Ca., has been named in a federal suit in the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York for violations of federal copyright law.

Kinko's is a nationwide chain of copying stores that center around college campuses. The YSU branch is located on Lincoln Avenue.

Among the services that the printing company provides to students and professors is a "professor publishing" service. In this service, Kinko's photocopies parts of books and articles for professors to use in their classroom, sometimes in place of textbooks. The service is provided free of charge to the professor.

The basis for the lawsuit is a contention by the publishing houses that Kinko's is not properly paying royalties on the documents it reprints while performing this service.

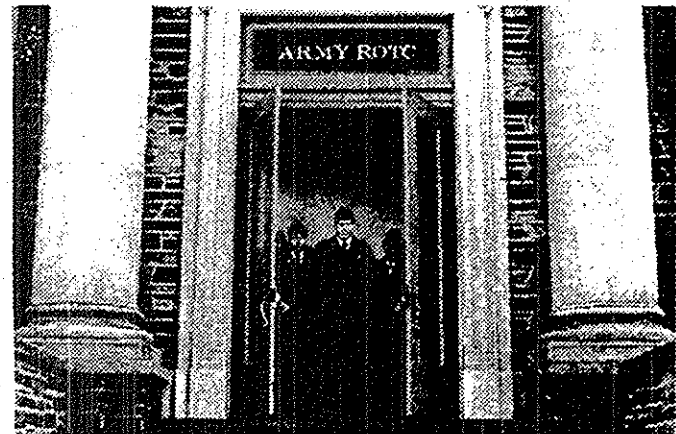

"We are fully within the wording of the copyright act," Scott Tagliarino, a spokesman for Kinko's, said. "We will continue the practice as we always have. They claim that no one had gotten authorization."

The suit claims that Kinko's reproduced portions of 12 textbooks without permission at colleges in the New York City area.

Tagliarino explained the process by which Kinko's clears documents for photocopying for classroom use. He said that according to federal copyright law, there exists a "fair use clause." By this clause, Tagliarino said a copy may be made for classroom, or other specific purposes, without permission from the publisher. Within the law there exists several cases where the "fair use clause" can and cannot be used.

Tagliarino stated that should there be a document that does not fall within the parameters of the clause, or if there is some dispute as to whether it does or not, the document in question is then forwarded to Kinko's Rights and Permissions office who then contact the publisher. See Kinko's, page 10.

Thievery, broken window in report

By JONI DOBRAN
Jambar News Editor

Two thefts and the shattering of a window were listed in the YSU Police report.

On Sunday, May 14, Joshua Williams, freshman, F&PA, told police his 13-inch Sylvania color TV set, valued at $200, had been stolen from his Kilcawley Dormitory room over the weekend.

Williams said he left for home on Friday, May 12, double-securing the door. When he returned at 9 p.m. Sunday, the set was gone.

The victim reported that his roommate, Chuck Thall, freshman, WSBA, was gone over the weekend as well.

In another incident Sunday, the driver's side window of the Parking Services pick-up truck was smashed out.

The report stated that Mike Buchheit of Austin-town, a Parking Services employee, shut the truck door at approximately 5 p.m. when the window cracked then completely fell out.

At 5:28 p.m., an officer was notified to take down the property damage report. The window was valued at $50.

A theft within the halls of Stambaugh Stadium occurred Thursday, May 11, between the hours of 7:40 p.m. and 8:52 p.m., the report said.

Thomas J. Thomas, senior, CAST, and David A. Beck, senior, engineering, were participating in their handball class. They placed their belongings on a chair just outside the classroom door.

When class was over, the report said they left the room, only to find their belongings missing.

Listed as stolen were the following: Thomas lost a green sweat jacket, keys, blue gym bag and his YSU ID, valued at $45, while Beck lost a pair of blue sweat pants, $25.

Government must make clean sweep within group

In two separate incidents, precedence was recalled and made in Monday's Student Government meeting. Precedence must be called upon again to rid the body of a disease that plagues it — individuals who put their own interests ahead of the student population's interests.

Student Government's disciplinary committee cited the way write-in candidates were addressed in previous elections and in presenting grievances against A&S representative and Financial Appropriations Committee Chair Chris Owen. In the first case, precedence spurred acceptance of a resolution that recognized the results of last week's election, thus requiring another election to be held. In the second case, Owen was removed from his position.

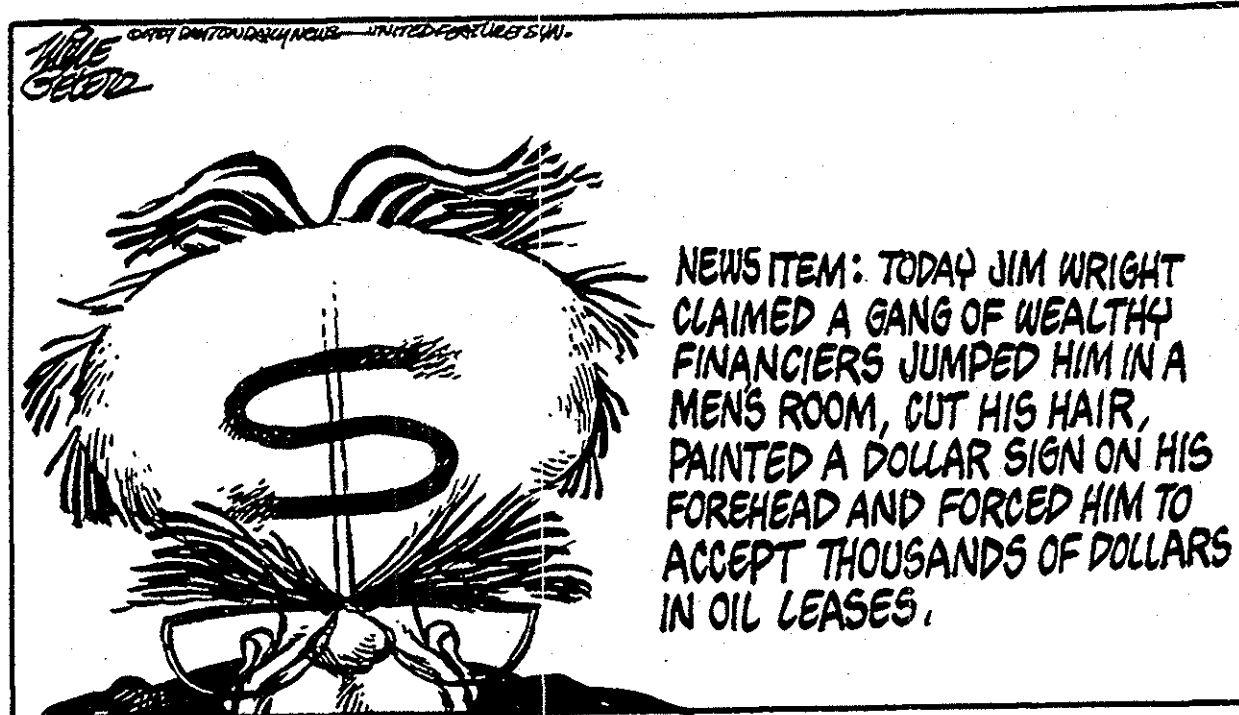

The manner in which Owen was removed from office is highly debatable, since the body discussed the matter in executive session and refused to disclose the reasons for his dismissal. In local or state offices, the public must be informed of the reasons behind removal of an elected official.

Even more debatable and irritating is the manner in which other members of Student Government conducted themselves at Monday's meeting. Take, for example, Parliamentarian Theresa Leslie, who felt it was her responsibility to determine whether or not write-in presidential candidates Brian Fry and Dan Haude were academically eligible to run for office. Information in student records is restricted to certain members of the University community; how Leslie obtained this information is as mysterious as the reasons for Owen's ouster.

As chair of the Constitution and By-laws Committee, Leslie does have the right to "provide interpretation of the Constitution and its By-Laws, if the need arises," according to Section 410.03 of the document. She may reserve that right in the Fry/Haude case, but this does not discount the fact that Leslie tried to assert this power after the elections. It would have been credible to make this observance before last week, since it was obvious prior to the election that Fry and Haude intended to run as write-in candidates. But trying to force this issue now is hardly acceptable; it's a true show of political favoritism on the part of an individual who is actively involved in providing fair, impartial interpretation of the Constitution.

Another area of criticism is the obvious lack of regard for outside comments in Student Government meetings and, again, Leslie was the example. At the end of every meeting gallery comments are permitted by those nonmembers attending the meeting. When gallery comments were made against the current administration, Leslie quickly motioned to adjourn the meeting, thus preventing further comments to be made by legitimate members of the audience.

If Student Government feels it made the right decision in dismissing Owen, so be it. But a precedence has been set; more dismissals should follow. That is why The Jambar is calling for the removal of Leslie as committee chair, parliamentarian and representative. And that is why other members who represent themselves or a select few rather than the entire student body should be removed as well.

Past, present sports editors duke it out

It's hard to believe that in another four issues of The Jambar I'm done as sports editor. I become a member of that long list of people who've held the position.

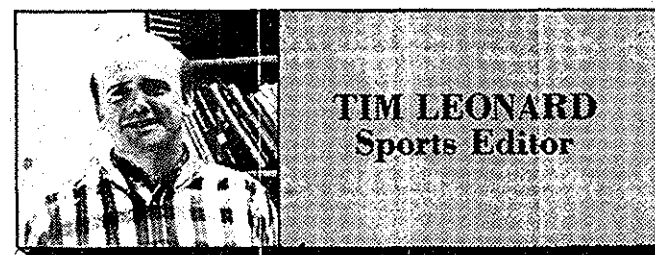

Gone is the power (God knows there wasn't much anyway). Gone is the fame (although I still get mail addressed to last year's sports editor Brian J. Macala, or worst yet, Kim Leonard).

I think my reign as sports editor has been fun and successful.

"Successful?" said Macala, who is presently managing editor and claims to be my mentor because I started as a sports writer under his sports editorship. "Timmie, you couldn't have had as successful as I was when I was sports editor. Look at my football team compared to yours. Mine went to the NCAA playoffs, yours didn't."

Brian, I said, I think it's unfair to compare how our teams in each sport did to show the success of each of our terms as sports editor.

"I don't want to hear it," he said. "I even had Trenton Lykes breaking all those records at the quarterback position. He even broke some of Phil Simms records. Of course, Simms is playing in the NFL now with the Giants."

Brian, Brian, Brian, that doesn't have anything to do with how successful you were at your job. Besides, I don't believe you had any players drafted by an NFL team. Jim Zdelar, of course, was drafted by the Miami Dolphins. He'll be blocking for Dan Marino, the best quarterback in the league.

"Yeah, let's go on to the basketball court, where

Elections notice

A re-election for Student Government President and Vice-President will be held from 10 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday in Kilcawley Center.

Joe Pavlicko, co-chair of Student Government's elections committee, said the exact location of the polling area will not be set until later today but may be centered in the Arcade and Program Lounge.

The committee requires students to fill in ballots properly, including names and positions of the candidates. No labels will be permitted on ballots, and deviations from these rules will result in those ballots being invalid, Pavlicko said.

The election is open to all students, and IDs must be presented at the polling place.

his desk for a red binder containing the constitution, "and throw it in the trashcan."

Members of the Discipline Committee, which recommended that the results of last week's election be accepted, thus requiring another presidential election, cited precedence in support of its decision because a write-in candidate for Student Council president was elected several years ago. McFarland said precedence should not play a role because the current constitution was adopted after Student Council and Student Government were merged three years ago.

One point McFarland cited was that Brian Fry and Dan Haude, write-in candidates for president and vice-president, did not submit a petition with 100 valid student signatures or attend two Student Government meetings prior to the election, which is required of candidates whose names appear on the ballot.

McFarland also said passing out stickers, which Fry and Haude did during the election, would not be considered an acceptable practice in any local, state or federal election and that Student Government bylaws forbid any "gimmicks" in elections. McFarland further stated her complaints to the Elections Committee were not acted upon accordingly.

Fry and Haude maintained, however, that the stickers were not a gimmick but an inducement for students to vote correctly. The duo pointed out that, because of election rules, any votes cast for Haude in the presidential slot instead of Fry were not recorded in their 652-vote total.

Student Government's constitution may be vague in wording "but so are the elections rules. They need reworded very badly," said Fry.

"We did not break any rules," said Fry, who added he thought they proceeded properly because "no one was trying to stop us..."

Bernadette Martyak, who resigned as Student Government's Elections Committee Chair during Monday afternoon's meeting, said she also considered distribution of Fry/Haude ballot stickers acceptable because they were acquired specifically to be affixed onto ballots, not as advertisements for candidates.

Responding to charges that she did not consult other members of the Elections Committee in deciding the legality of the stickers, Martyak said: "I have the authority in the Constitution to take immediate action. I did consult with the advisers [Dr. Larry Hugenberg and Bassam Deeb]...I decided that if the students chose to acquire these stickers with the intent of voting for these candidates, then that was their prerogative. And it made it easier — that's why I decided that way. I didn't see anything wrong with it at that time. They were already at a disadvantage."

Adherence to the Constitution also was discussed in the qualifications for Student Government president and vice president. Dr. Larry Hugenberg, adviser, said the language requiring the president and vice-president to complete 72 credit hours is open to interpretation, and added his interpretation is that the wording applies to the students once they take office.

According to Martyak, the constitution "states qualifications for office, not the qualifications for candidates for office. By that ruling, when they would have been elected to office, they would already have been qualified."

Walls said he feels the 72-credit hour rule should apply to presidential candidates because, in other student matters, the number of credit hours being carried is not included in completed hours.

Fry, meanwhile, said he believes his and his running mate's student files were improperly entered by Student Government Parliamentarian Theresa Leslie.

According to the Code of Student Rights, Responsibilities and Conduct, information contained in student records may be released to "University personnel in response to oral or written requests."

Leslie said she obtained the information from the office of Student Services, and said she was "acting out of duty of my job." She would not disclose the name of the person who gave her the information and refused further comment.

Commentary

Dorothy Bowers finished her career, under my reign as sports editor, as YSU's all-time leading scorer for women's basketball."

Good point, but I have a new star coming up. Her name is Dianne Rappach. You might recall that she scored a freshman high 31 points in one game this season. That same game she hit eight three-pointers.

"Yeah, but Ed DiGregorio's team went 18-10 while I was sports editor. What was his record under your term, Timmie?"

They went 14-14. They had a tougher schedule, though.

"I suppose you're going to say that about the men's team, too. I think my men's team had a better record, too."

I'm telling you, both the men's and the women's basketball teams had tougher schedules due to the fact they weren't in the Ohio Valley Conference.

"And that's another thing, at least when I was sports editor we had a league to play in."

Hey, there's still the chance we could get into the Northeast Conference. Sources tell me it's still possible that YSU could get in the league. Marist supposedly changed Athletic Directors recently and the new one may not have an interest in staying in the league. If Marist leaves, that would recreate an opening for YSU to fill.

"One thing you forget, Leonard, is that the writers you have on your staff, including your assistant editor and your senior writer were carry-overs of my staff. All you've added to The Jambar sports staff is a bunch of dead weight who have problems spelling their names."

I don't want to hear it. I've added some fine capable writers — like Sharon Bueno and Dana Hudran. I don't think you had one woman on your sports staff. When they write The Jambar history book, my name will go down as the sports editor who created the assistant sports editor's position.

"Oh, I don't want to hear it."

And how about my tennis team. Dan Haude is 15-0 in singles play this year. Did any of your players go undefeated? And now it appears he and his doubles partner, Brian Fry, may just be the next student government president and vice president. In fact, I think they just might be the next Jack Kemp and Bill Bradley — athletes who have gone from the playing field straight into politics.

"Oh, you got so much bull." "Hey, get your hands off me. POW. BAM. SLUG."

Student receives outstanding fellowship

By MARLOUISE SOLE
Jambar Reporter

Phi Kappa Phi, a national scholastic honor society, has awarded June graduate John Patrick Aey a $6,000 Fellowship for graduate study.

Aey was chosen for the honor from a group of the nation's outstanding 1989 college graduates. He will also receive a $750 scholarship from the YSU Chapter 143 of Phi Kappa Phi for being chosen as a national fellowship nominee.

Phi Kappa Phi recognizes academic excellence in all disciplines and has chapters at 244 colleges and universities throughout the nation.

Aey plans to attend either the Ohio State University College of Medicine in Columbus or the University of Cincinnati College of Medicine in Cincinnati, both noted for their ample research opportunities.

Aey will graduate from YSU with a double major: science and biology.

He is a recipient of the Karl W. Dykema Scholarship, YSU Foundation Scholarship, Scudder Physical Chemistry Award, as well as a scholastic award from the Clarence P. Gould Society.

An active member of the student body, Aey is president of both Alpha Epsilon Delta (an honorary premedical organization) and the Philiatric Society. He is a member of the YSU Centurians Honor Group and the American Chemical Society. He also was a member of YSU's Marching Band and Basketball Band.

"I chose medicine as my field of study because I harbor a genuine caring attitude for my fellow man," said Aey. "I want to get a Ph.D. in chemistry, as well as my M.D., to do research particularly in the field of AIDS and cancer."

Aey said he is leaning more toward a career in research, "the chemistry professors really got me interested in research." He cited Dr. Thomas N. Dobbels-tein and Dr. Howard D. Mettee, both professors in chemistry at YSU, were influential in guiding him in his career decision.

The YSU student is pleased with his award; "it will allow me to concentrate more on my school work and academics—I won't have to worry about financial things."

Aey attributes his high

First impression vital to interview process

Special to the Jambar

If you want to increase the odds of making a favorable first impression, wear a traditional blue or grey suit.

A contrasting patterned or striped tie is a man's wiser choice than a solid or knit one. Women should avoid noisy, distracting jewelry.

And seemingly little things like freshly shined shoes and well-groomed fingernails can make a big difference.

These are a few of the principles included in the "Image Index," a test designed to help determine a person's potential for getting ahead. The Index is based upon the probability of making the best first impression on the greatest number of people in most business and professional situations.

The Image Index was developed by Kiwi Brands in conjunction with Kaufman Professional Image Consultants of Philadelphia, a firm which specializes in counseling executives on improving their images.

The key to making a favorable first impression is to be sure every aspect of your appearance fits together, according to consultant Donald Kaufman. "If anything sticks out, or calls attention to itself in any way, that can detract from the overall

"It's surprising, however, to see how many people have a difficult time in applying the basic principles of executive dress and good grooming when preparing for interviews and/or presentations," she added.

The Kaufmans believe appearance strongly influences other people's perceptions of trustworthiness, authority, reliability and professionalism. And certain combinations of

Women in the work force

According to the Information Digest from the Business and Professional Women's Foundation, women will account for two-thirds or more of the new entrants into the labor force between now and the year 2000.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics predicts 58.9 percent of all women will be part of the laborforce in 1995 and will account for 46.4 percent of the paid laborforce.

The participation of women in the workforce has been increasing steadily since 1950, which saw 33.9 percent of the female population over 16 working outside of the home. By 1985, 54.8 percent of the female population was employed.

Economic pressures, personal fulfillment and desire to work are a few of the reasons women choose to work. Sixty-three percent of women working have children under 18 and 51 percent have children under the age of three. The recent trend is for women to remain single and usually decide to marry at a later age.

However, women in the workforce are not paid as much for their work. According to a 1986 statistic, women were paid $.68 for every $1.00 earned by men.

The shift from manufacturing and industrial employment to service occupations have been growing steadily.

Career Services offers aid

By ROB CICCOTELLI
Jambar Entertainment Editor

After graduation, do you know what you want to do? Do you wonder where you will be next year at this time?

According to Charles H. Whitman, director, Career Services can help you to answer these questions.

Career Services helps students investigate their post-graduation options in the two major areas of interest to the graduating senior; careers and graduate study.

Regarding the objective of the service, Whitman said, "We don't want to find you a job, we want to find you a career opportunity."

Upon arrival at the Career Services office, located on the third floor of Jones Hall, a student might be overwhelmed by the vast resources available to aid in the job or graduate school search.

First, a student might look to the CPC Annuals. These books provide listings of various companies who hire college graduates. There are editions of the CPC Annuals specifically geared toward both technical and non-technical fields as well as graduate schools. Whitman said they supply students in non-technical fields with both the technical and non-technical editions because there are often opportunities for non-technical graduate in technology oriented companies.

Whitman noted, "We also have a computerized job search program called 'Navigator.'" This program helps students learn to target their job objective, write an effective resume, interview effectively and evaluate job offers as well as with other beneficial job search practices.

He said they also have printed materials or resume writing and interviewing available for students.

Videotaped seminars on both resume writing and interviewing are available for viewing any time the Career Services office is open, Whitman noted.

In addition to providing this information, Whitman said, "We also proof [resumes] and make suggestions on how [students] might improve them."

Whitman said that each year, Career Services brings approximately 250 companies to campus for recruiting.

Often, the Career services facility is used by

Students use network to find employment

By MIRIAM KLEIN
Jambar Copy Editor

Graduating from college may improve your chances, but does not guarantee, a job waiting for you. Therefore, it's important to prepare for that first job or career.

When choosing a career, be sure to not only plan ahead, but make sure you have investigated all available possibilities, matching your interests and abilities with your final choice.

Perhaps a prospective employer's first contact with you will be through your resume. A resume is a concise summary of education, employment experience, personal background and your career objectives.

There are many approaches one may consider when writing a resume and not only YSU Career Services but also the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services can help you design a resume to suit your needs, free of charge.

Be sure to look over your job application for errors and accuracy. It's important that the application be legible and orderly because employers may be looking at several applications. A neat application can help yours stand out!

The interview can be crucial to securing your desired occupation. For a positive presentation: dress appropriately, have some knowledge about the company and the position you wish to fill; keep answers to the employer's questions concise and brief; and prepare your own questions about job expectations, benefits and chances for advancement.

It is most important to connect with all possible sources of information about employment. Friends and relatives are not the only source of information available to you.

The Ohio Bureau of Employment Services has more job listings than any other single source and is available at no cost. To contact OBES offices in Youngstown call (216) 744-5201, and in Warren at (216) 399-2715.

students in preparation for these visits. However, Whitman noted that alumni are also welcome to utilize this service at any time.

Another service provided here is the use of videotaped mock interviews in order to assist the student in fine-tuning their interview techniques.

Whitman noted that often, in an interview situation, individuals do not realize opportunities they might be given to provide information about themselves that would help them to get a particular job. "One thing I point out is although you are asked a direct question, there are many other things that come out in an interview," Whitman said. "Intangibles such as personality."

In a mock interview, He said, "We will deliberately try to ask you tough questions." The student then views the videotape of the interview in order to evaluate their interviewing strengths and weaknesses.

According to Whitman, an important thing to keep in mind when interviewing is "every employer wants to hire the whole person." He added that personality, a good work ethic, and charisma are very helpful when interviewing for a career.

Job market awaits most spring graduates

By College Press Service

Predictions that the Class of '89 would find a welcoming, strong job market for itself this spring are coming true, campus placement officers say.

Nationwide, "companies are offering higher average starting salaries than last year," said Dawn Oberman of the College Placement Council (CPC) in Bethlehem, Pa.

In general, most observers attribute the boom to the current prosperity of big corporations.

"Business is very good," said Jim Townsend, recruiting manager for Dow Chemical USA, which plans to hire about 600 new graduates this year.

Boull Worldwide Information Systems plans to hire about 10 percent more new people than last, reported Gordon Hampden, a consultant in employee and college relations.

This spring, virtually every kind of major seems to be in demand. Technical majors, however, are getting not only the most job offers, but the highest salaries, the CPC's Oberman said.

Dress

clothing and color will convey stronger perceptions than others.

In general, darker, basic colors — such as navy and charcoal grey — are more conservative, and authoritative. Blue actually has a calming effect. Brown is a "friendlier" color, than tan, because it's a lighter hue, and is not as strong. Red, and it's burgundy and maroon relatives, is more active and attention-grabbing.

Black suits are for funerals for most men, yet, black is more acceptable for women because it's "more sophisticated and increases a woman's authority."

Here are some other "do's" and "don'ts" of making a good first impression.

When it comes to men's shirts, white, all-cotton, long-sleeved shirts are the most appropriate because they're more powerful and authoritative. Striped or pastel-colored shirts tend to give a more casual appearance.

Button-down oxford shirts are very popular, and give a sense of friendliness. But this "preppy" look doesn't project much of an authoritative message.

A white shirt, combined with a navy or grey pinstriped suit, accented with a burgundy tie, is the strongest, most authoritative outfit a man can wear.

Women, too, can benefit from the similar outfit — minus the tie — because of the authority it communicates.

However, too many women are still wearing oxford shirts with bow ties under their suits, and instead of conveying authority, "the look leaves the impression that you don't know how to dress yourself," Karen Kaufman said. The outfit also shows a lack of vision, and unwillingness to take on any risk.

She suggests substituting a well-tailored blouse, or opting for a classic-styled dress, with a jacket. "A dress and jacket can be very authoritative," she said.

Many people ignore their shoes without realizing that scuffed or unpolished shoes can detract from their overall appearance quotient. "From our experience, we've learned that unpolished shoes can signal a lack of attention to detail," said Donald Kaufman. "And that message could come through, on an unconscious level, loud and clear."

From a style perspective, dress shoes work best for both men and women. For men, "wing tips are always good," but any kind of basic tie shoe is acceptable. Mid-heel basic pumps should be the first choice for women, although flat shoes that are styled like pumps are okay, too. Anything else — loafers for men or sandals for women — are deemed too casual.

Real World

universities are mostly resident colleges, unlike YSU, Akron, Cleveland State and Cincinnati, said Whitman.

"We get that from recruiters all the time," said Whitman. "They love [YSU's] strong work ethic because we're a commuter school where most students come to school, go to work and go home."

"They don't have free time; they have limited free time. They're disciplined in their schooling, their studying and their work."

Whitman said students should get involved in as many activities as possible so they can get a taste of the real world. He said it's important for students to learn interpersonal skills and communication skills. He said it is these skills that help lead to a successful career.

"You can't learn these skills in the classroom, whether it's Yale, Harvard or YSU. You can be taught about these skills, but learn these skills in the workplace," said Whitman.

Kinko's

Adrianna Foss, corporate communications director for Kinko's, said that each year, Kinko's pays out $1 million in royalties for the use of published works and that the company seeks permission from publishers 10,000 times a month.

No plans have been made to alter the present way in which Kinko's provides its service to professors. Shane Roginski, manager for Kinko's at YSU, stated that the company will continue to take the same care it always has when it comes to providing the service to college professors.

"The publishers are looking to reinterpret the 'fair use' clause," Foss said. "If they are able to, students and professors will be losing out."

Foss stated that professors use the service so students may have recent information on a subject that was not available in text, or so that students would not be forced to buy a text when the subject matter is narrow.

I do my best, I can't second-rate anything," Aey reasoned, "you get out of it what you put into it. You have to do your best." "My parents have been supportive," said Aey. He is the son of Carol and Ronald P. Aey, who is associate director of maintenance at YSU.

Borden leader to give lecture on acquisitions

YSU — "Mergers and Acquisitions" will be the topic of a presentation by Harold J. Green, a Borden, Inc. executive, sponsored by Youngstown State's Economics Club and the economics department.

The event, which is free and open to the public, is scheduled for 4 p.m. Monday, May 22, in YSU's Kilcauley Center Art Gallery. Green, director of marketing and development for Borden, has been personally involved in over 40 mergers and acquisitions around the world.

In his present position, Green directs long-range planning and analyzes critical operating, marketing and financial factors among various other developmental processes.

Green of Columbus holds bachelor's of arts and master's degrees in economics and a master's of business administration in marketing and finance, all from YSU.

In the past three years, Borden has been the most active acquirer of companies in the United States, purchasing 70 companies at a cost of over $1.5 billion. For the most part, these acquisitions don't appear on the front page of the Wall Street Journal, but are targeting companies that fit very clearly into a specific corporate strategy.

Green will discuss the "real" world of corporate acquisitions and growth, from targeting analysis to integration.

Comedy to play at the Playhouse

YOUNGSTOWN — When messy meets neat, sparks will fly at the Youngstown Playhouse when both the male and female versions of Neil Simon's classic Broadway hit, The Odd Couple are staged.

Directed by Artistic Coordinator, David Jendre, who also directed this season's smash hit Dreamgirls, the cast features Michael Morley and Dennis Colla as the fastidious Felix and over-bearing Oscar, and Kathy Gabriel and Terri Wilkes as their female counterparts, Florence and Olive. The poker players in the male version, played by Hugh B. Fagan, David Prosser, Ed Smith and Jerry Gamertsfelder, become Trivial Pursuit players in the female version, played by Gloria Katula, Libby Rodenbaugh, Joanne Carney and Cher Halas.

The male version will be performed at 8 p.m. June 3, 9, 15, & 17, and at 2 p.m. June 11; the

Opera to open next Thursday

YSU — YSU's Department of Speech Communication and Theatre and the Dana School of Music will present a popular Italian opera known for its sparkling music.

Don Pasquale will be staged at 8 p.m. May 25, 26 and 27 in Ford Auditorium in Bliss Hall under the stage direction of Dr. Donald Vogel, music.

The opera's musical director and conductor is Michael Gelfand, music and director/conductor of the YSU College-Community Orchestra.

A good case can be made for the claim of some writers that Don Pasquale is Gaetano Donizetti's finest work. Certainly it belongs with the greatest Italian buffo operas.

The characters are drawn from everyday life and their problems with everyday existence. Don Pasquale contains the quintessential busybody of

Three students perform in Schulz comedy

By LOUISE MARSTELLER
Special to The Jambar

The "Peanuts" gang has invaded the Trumbull New Theatre this season with their comical performance of You're A Good Man Charlie Brown. Featuring three Youngstown State performing artists, the cast of six created an enjoyable mood, especially for the children, with three short skits and a few musical numbers.

Tim Cassidy plays the lead expressively portraying the nervous, inadequate and usually unhappy Charlie Brown. Cassidy excels during his solo "The Kite" and continues to share his disappointment from never getting to meet the little Red Headed girl. You may have seen Cassidy in Play it Again, Sam here at YSU.

Lucy is relentlessly crabby and brilliantly portrayed by Connie Gintert.

She was definitely the most prominent musical voice in the cast and captured the self-centered and silly character of Lucy for all to enjoy.

Mike Guilkey, also of YSU is amazing as well as hysterical playing the loveable beagle Snoopy. Costumed only in a white shirt and black pants, he gave a commendable performance.

Guilkey shines in the second act during his tribute to "Supper time." He has all of Snoopy's moves down so well sometimes you get lost in the comic strip illusion right along with the kids.

Jim Canacci, from West Side Story, is a YSU Theatre major who portrays the thoughtful, artistic Schroeder. When not being sought after by the lovestruck Lucy, Canacci brings unity to the cast and the performance. Schroeder's high point and singing talent comes through in "The Book

Wind Ensemble to present spring concert

YSU — The YSU Symphonic Wind Ensemble and Concert Band, under the direction of Joseph Edwards and Leslie Hicken, will present their annual spring concert at 8 p.m. Monday, May 22 in Stambaugh Auditorium.

Featured in the concert will be John R. Turk, music. Turk will perform Ralph Vaughn Williams' Concerto for Tuba.

Additionally, works by R.

Strass, Mitchell, Smith and others will be performed.

A special combined band will conclude the concert with the coronation scene Boris Godunov by Mussorgsky.

Butler to offer classes for patrons of all ages

YOUNGSTOWN — Art classes will begin again this month at the Butler Institute. A variety of course offerings include classes for adults, children (grades 1-12) and parent/child workshops. Classes at the Butler are unique in that they are based upon observations and discussions about the Institute's permanent collection of American art.

Summer classes for adults include Watercolor Painting instructed by well-known regional artist Tom McNickle, and Pastel Drawing with artist/teacher David Ludwick.

Expanded Horizons: Art and Technology is the first in a series of classes with artist Jim Pernot that will include study in the history and development of video art, performance art, photography, and futurism.

Carol Prelog will lead a series of parent/child classes for children ages 4-9 years. Discovery of art through hands on activities as they relate to museum observation will be the focus of these classes.

Children in grades 1-6 will escape to the sea by drawing, painting and printing seascapes in a class entitled The Sea Escape. Grades 1-4 will discover the work of large and small through experiences utilizing a variety of media. Grades 5-12 will move to the great outdoors to take an architectural walk as they participate in Outdoor Drawing and Painting. These three classes will be presented by art instructor Mary Pat George.

the genre, who sets the intrigue in motion. Present also are the requisite romantic entanglements, serious and comic, which are eventually straightened out to the satisfaction of all concerned.

Although the formula is a familiar one, the music treatment gives the work its originality and distinction, and it contains some of the most wonderful bel canto writing.

The opera's set design is by Dr. Frank Castronovo, speech, communication and theatre. Technical design is by Nicholas A. DePaola, theatre.

Jane Shanabarger, speech communication and theatre, is creating the costumes.

The cast includes graduate student Anthony Rogers, Kristen Wellendorf, sophomore, F&PA and Thomas Martin Conroy, senior, F&PA. Thomas J. Zimmers, freshman, F&PA and David C. Starkey, sophomore, F&PA.

A "first nighters buffet" featuring Italian cuisine will be available at 6 p.m. May 25 in the Wicker Basket Restaurant in Kilcawley Center. The cost for the buffet is $7.50 and reservations must be made through the University Theatre Box Office by May 22.

Tickets for Don Pasquale are $7 and can be reserved by calling the box office at (216) 742-3105. Special rates are available to non-university students, senior citizens and groups. Students are admitted free with a current ID, but must reserve their tickets in advance at the box office.

YSU has success on courts

By SHARON BUENO
Jambar Sports Reporter

With a long and grueling season finally over, Head Coach Don Getz can now sit back and assess it.

He witnessed some bright moments from two relatively young and inexperienced teams:

— The dominant performances from Dan Haude, who completed the season undefeated, has earned him the possibility of selection to the NCAA tournament.

— Sophomore Janet Polish's has developed into an aggressive Division I women's player.

— Scott Orlando and Ray Tomasovich emerged as a strong and balanced doubles team.

"I'm very pleased with the men's performance," Getz said. "Everyone from number one to number seven made improvements."

The men finished 1-19 last season. They ended this year at 5-12, with several matches that could have been won by the Penguins had they had a little more luck.

The women struggled this year, finishing at 2-10, however Getz has nothing but praise for his team.

"I'm very proud of this team," he said. "We didn't have much experience yet weren't intimidated by stronger competition."

Getz lauded the performances of Sandy Cinea, Evanna Neopolitan and Debbie Meyer during frustrating season.

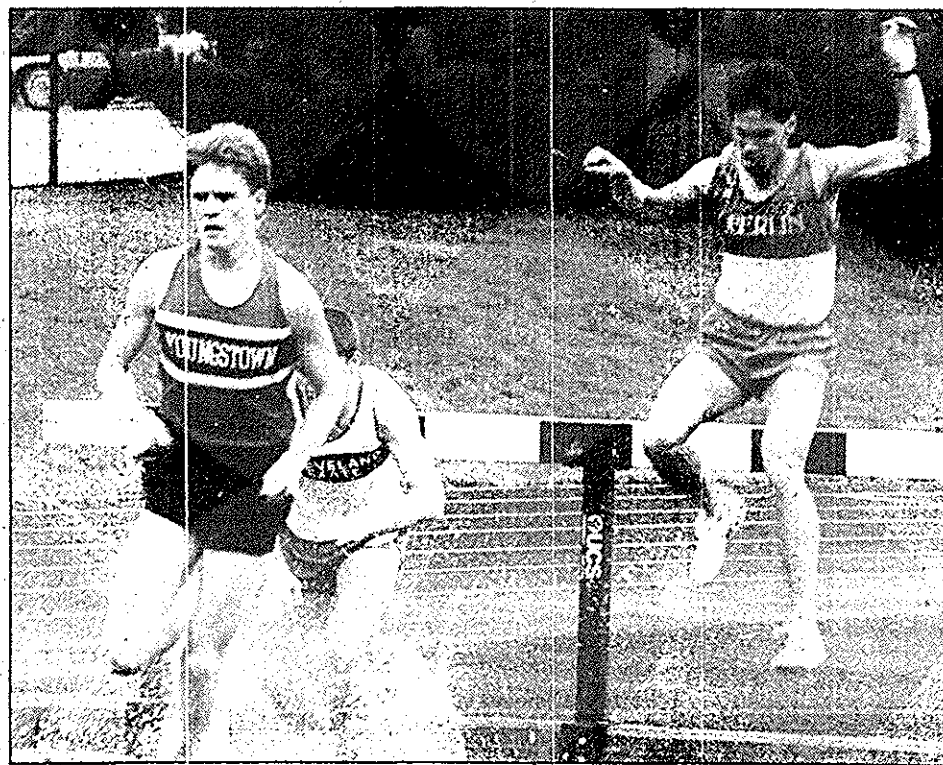

On the men's side, he cited the play of Brian Fry, Rich See Tennis, page 16

Track team has big day

By DANA HUDRAN
Jambar Sports Reporter

Periods of rain and cool weather hampered spectators at the McDonald's YSU track and field classic last Saturday. But according to head track coach Patty Metzler, the meet was successful.

"Though some people decided not to participate, there were competitors from 11 teams who took part in the events," said Metzler.

In the womens track events YSU fared well with Renay and Carol Falibota placing first and third respectively in the 1500 meter run. YSU's 4 x 100 meter relay team came in third with only three seconds behind the leader from Malone.

YSU was also in the top three in the 100 meter and 400 meter hurdle races. Cindy Street place second in the 100 with R. Falibota finishing third in the 400.

The YSU men's track team also showed some winners with Walter "Buzz" Johnson finishing first in the steeplechase event. Gorby placed second in the 10,000 meter run. YSU's Boyd and Huth received second and third place honors respectively in the 800 meter run.

YSU were also winners in the field events. Lori Sickle taking first place in the discus and a second place finish in the shot put events. Paula Vikas also had a first place finish in the javelin with a throw of 111 feet.

Penguins win ninth straight; Herubin wins eighth

By BRIAN J. MACALA
Jambar Managing Editor

What a difference one month can make — particularly in the sport of baseball.

Exactly one month ago the Penguins were 3-13 and coming off a split with Penn State. One month later, YSU is now 17-19 with their victory over the University of Akron, 4-0. The win was the Penguins fourteenth in their last twenty games and their ninth straight victory.

The Penguins were paced by another fine performance on the mound from right-hander Joe Herubin. With the shutout, the Ursuline High product's season record now stands at 8-1; the eight wins he's posted being the most ever recorded by a YSU pitcher.

Herubin tossed a four hitter at the Zips, striking out four and walking two. En route to the win he was never in trouble, never allowing more than two base runners in an inning.

The Penguins jumped out to a quick 1-0 in the bottom of the first. Bobby Janeda reached on a fielders choice, took second on a Jim Sotlar walk and came home on a Brian Funge single.

YSU scored again in the fifth when Jerry Davidson singled, advanced on a Paul Cusick sacrifice and came home on an error by the Zip catcher.

Two runs in the eighth closed out the Penguins scoring as YSU sent eight men to the plate. Rob Armstrong led the frame off with a walk, advanced on a Janeda single, took third after a walk to Sotlar loaded the bases and came home on a sacrifice fly by Chris Durkin. Funge followed him with a single to plate Janeda.

Janeda, Funge and Davidson paced the Penguins with two hits a piece as YSU banged out eight safeties. Funge added two RBIs to his hits with Durkin picking an RBI as well. Janeda scored twice with Davidson and Armstrong picking up the other YSU tallies.

Durkin slugs his way to success

By RUSSELL FARMINTINO
Assistant Sports Editor

Most collegiate athletic coaches feel that "the best thing that happens to a freshman is that he becomes a sophomore." Chris Durkin is definitely an exception to this rule!

Durkin has enjoyed a fine freshman campaign for the YSU baseball team. He leads, or is near the top, in almost every offensive category including batting average (first at .330), base hits (first with 38), stolen bases (first with 11), and RBIs (second with 21) to name just a few.

This success, however, did not catch Durkin by surprise. "At the beginning of the year I set a couple of goals," said

Durkin. "I wanted to lead the team in stolen bases, batting average and home runs and I've succeeded in two of them." Durkin is second on the club with one home run.

Durkin, who enjoyed a fine high school career at Chaney, said college is much less of a pressure-packed atmosphere than high school. This goes for the books as well as the field.

"It is a lot different than high school because no one really pressures you at college," said Durkin. "College is much more relaxed than high school."

The game of baseball is more than just a hobby for Chris Durkin. Rather, it is more of a love affair with the sport since his early childhood. "I just love the game," stated

Durkin. "It's a great feeling to break the huddle before a game and run onto the field."

"I've always had this feeling because of my father," continued Durkin. "He was always pushing me to do my best since I was eight or nine years old. He's my inspiration."

After his scholastic career, it was off to YSU for Chris Durkin. And it has been, according to Durkin, a wise move.

"I love it here at YSU," said Durkin. "The coaches we have (Scott Knox and John Zizzo) are the best coaches we could possibly have. The players are the best bunch of guys anywhere on campus. And the campus is beautiful as well. People around this area don't

"I wanted to lead the team in stolen bases, batting average and home runs, and I've succeeded in two of them."

realize just how nice a campus we have right in their own backyard."

There is, however, one aspect of YSU that Durkin feels must change: fan support and exposure for the YSU baseball team.

"I just don't understand why more people don't come to see us play," said Durkin. "I feel that we need an on-campus ball park, but Pemberton is not that far away. I think that baseball should be given the same attention and exposure as the other sports, such as football and basketball."

YSU signs Juco player

YSU — Wade Renner, a 6'5", 205-lb. guard/forward from Central Arizona Junior College, has signed a national letter-of-intent to attend YSU this fall on a basketball scholarship. It was announced Friday by Head Coach Jim Cleamons.

"We are most pleased to add a young man of Wade Renner's basketball ability to our program," Cleamons said. "He is a player who can contribute immediately, will add depth to our squad, and has the intensity that a coach desires in an athlete. He will be a welcome addition."

Last season, Renner averaged 15.2 ppg and 6.5 rebounds, while shooting 89 percent from the free throw line. The two-year overall record for the Vaqueros was 45-17.

Mayoras and Steve Copperman. The coach is very optimistic for both squads' chances for the 1989-90 season. He is trying to schedule fall seasons as well as a tournament for both teams.

Getz has also hit the recruiting trail, bringing strong prospects to YSU for the upcoming season.

"I do expect a winning season from the men next year," he said.

Government

questioned whether Fry and Haude are even eligible for the positions since Student Government's constitution mandates that the Student Government president and vice president complete at least 72 quarter hours at YSU by the time they take office.

According to Leslie, Fry has completed 66 and Haude 63. "Therefore, they are automatically disqualified because they do not have 72 hours completed at this University," she charged.

A vote to accept the Discipline Committee's report, which would have verified the legality of write-in candidates and called for a new election, was defeated nine to seven.

Terri Richards, Student Government secretary, then made a motion that results of last week's election be upheld and that write-in candidates (Fry and Haude) be disqualified, which spurred more debate.

"Each vote is a voice of a student," insisted Bernadette Martyak, co-chair of the Elections Committee. "Dan and Brian lost by a technicality."

Martyak then resigned her position and walked out of the meeting.

After Martyak's exit, John Kramer, business representative, pointed out, "A majority of students obviously don't want Amy and Bob." He also said that if another election was not planned, he too would resign.

At that point, apparently trying to calm heated tempers, Dirk Hermance, representative from education, said, "This is an uncomfortable situation for every party concerned," and pointed out that the issue being addressed should be determining whether all candidates received fair and impartial treatment, suggesting "If Fry and Haude wanted to run, they would have followed procedure."

According to Hermance, neither Student Government's constitution or bylaws have a provision for write-ins.

At that point, Jim Herrholtz, chair of the Discipline Committee, explained that write-ins have been considered valid in the past and, referring to a poster with voting instructions, pointed out that instructions for write-in candidates are included. That, he claimed, "makes write-ins legal."

Richards then withdrew her motion to uphold the election and disqualify write-ins so the Discipline Committee could reconsider their call for another election.

After a short recess, roll was called to determine if 13 representatives necessary for quorum were present; 14 representatives were on hand, making voting on motions feasible.

Herrholtz then revised the Discipline Committee's recommendations, and called for results of the election to stand, with the stipulation that "the problem of write-ins" be addressed by Student Government next fall.

The motion passed 11 to three.

Because neither team garnered 50 percent plus one of valid votes cast, passage of the motion automatically calls for a run-off election, which is slated for Wednesday and Thursday, May 17 and 18.

The floor was then opened to remarks from persons in the gallery. However, in an apparent attempt to avoid further confrontations, an abrupt motion to adjourn was made and seconded — Student Government members then left without voting on the motion.
