YSU tuition to increase by 9.4 percent

By MICK GEORGE
Jambar Editor

For the second time in nine months, the tuition will increase at YSU.

The Board of Trustees unanimously passed a $189 increase (9.4 percent more) starting this summer. The increase will raise tuition from $2,001 to $2,190 for full-time students for three quarters.

G.L. Mears, director of the budget, said he expects YSU will continue to rank 12th among the 13 state funded Ohio universities. Currently only Shawnee State University is lower.

"We expect the other state universities to have an increase which will keep us at 12," said Mears.

Mears said the reasons for the increase are the lack of state support and the need for improvement of health services at YSU.

The instructional fee will rise $40 per quarter while the general fee will increase $23 per quarter.

Room and board fees for Kilcawley House and Lyden House will also be upped to $3,405 for the academic year, a $405 increase.

The $400 surcharge for out-of-state students will not increase.

The fee for part-time students and undergraduate students who have an excess of 16 quarter hours will increase $46 per credit.

Tuition at YSU has increased each year since 1986-87.

Other business the trustees handled at their meeting Friday included:

* A resolution to hire a part-time physician and full-time nurse practitioner.

* A resolution for early admission of high school juniors and seniors who are in the top 20 percent of their class. Harold Yiannaki, registrar, said 48 superintendents had been notified about the program.

* Accepted gifts and grants totaling $435,998.

* Warren P. Williamson Jr., will be the spring commencement speaker at the June 16 ceremony.

Government resolution may lead to boycott of bookstore

By GARY HALL
Jambar News Editor

A possible debate between next year's presidential candidates and a resolution that may lead to a boycott of the bookstore were just two of the items discussed at yesterday's first Student Government meeting of spring quarter.

In a resolution submitted by Second Vice-President Jim Herrholtz, the body was asked to accept actions that would be taken against what Herrholtz called the "unacceptable, intolerable...incompetence of the (YSU) bookstore to provide adequate service to the students and faculty."

The resolution, which after much debate and anecdotal input was accepted on a vote of 11-3, will be submitted to YSU President Neil Humphrey.

In his decree, Herrholtz asked:

- that the executive director of the bookstore be present for a Student Government meeting to field questions and comments concerning the bookstore.
- that a pricing committee be created on which students sit to determine prices of materials being sold within the bookstore.

- that the students demonstrate their extreme distaste for the conduct of business within the bookstore by protesting and picketing at all doors on April 16, 1990, during regular business hours.
- if no action results from this resolution, be it known the students will boycott the bookstore summer and fall quarters under the direction of Student Government.

"The bookstore is for the students," said Herrholtz, adding that he believes a lot of the problems that occurred this past week, such as the selling of outdated materials and the training of new cashiers during one of the busiest times of the quarter, is due to "poor management."

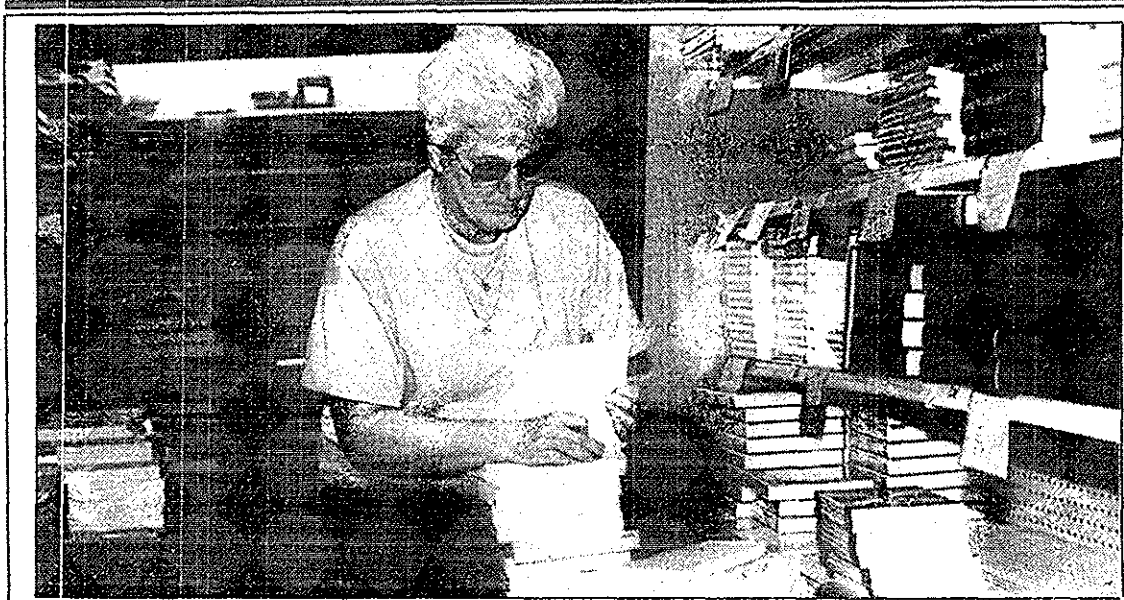

"The bookstore is supposed to be for us instead of exploiting us," agreed Dan Haude, vice-president, expressing his distaste for the high-pricing and low dollar amount on buy-backs.

In other matters, Erin Fogarty, junior, A&S, and Mitch Goodrich, sophomore, engineering, asked the government to mandate a proposal that all candidates for president and vice-president of Student Government partake in a debate.

"There's been a lot of controversy about the elections," said Goodrich. "The best way to eliminate it is with a debate."

Government voted to hold off on the decision pending the proposals examination by the elections committee. If ratified, the debate is scheduled to take place from 1-2 p.m. on April 25.

So many books, so little time

Elizabeth (Dolly) McAndrew, an 13-year employee of the YSU Bookstore, inventories books after the "beginning of spring quarter" rush.

Employee agrees to provide restitution of missing funds

YSU — In January 1990, an internal audit was initiated at YSU based upon concerns that University funds in one of the financial offices were not adequately accounted for.

The completed audit has confirmed that a total of $5,826.75 was unaccounted for.

An employee of the University has executed an agreement with the University whereby the employee will provide restitution of the $5,826.75. In addition, the employee has resigned; has waived all rights to appeal the resignation and separation; has waived entitlement to unemployment compensation; and has released the University from any claims by the individual against the University.

The agreement concludes a variety of issues that otherwise might have required lengthy and costly proceedings for the individual and the University. The individual has made no admission of guilt relative to the unaccounted for funds.

The result of the University's audit and investigation will be provided in full to the Prosecutor of the City of Youngstown for review and action as may be deemed appropriate by the Prosecutor.

University officials will not comment further on the issue.

Lending a hand: Inside Appalachia, part 1

By ANNETTE CANACCI

Over this spring break 10 people from Youngstown made a difference in Appalachia.

Reverend Jim Ray of Cooperative Campus Ministries in coordination with Sally McGreevey of the Newman Center made it possible for eight students to live and work in the Appalachia Region of Eastern Kentucky for one week. Diana Tolen, Ron Thomas, Lisa Kleshock, Kim Reed, Kathy Sapienza, Derek Gyongzois, Renee Markovich, Annette Canacci along with Ray and McGreevey spent the week repairing and winterizing a home in the mountains of Appalachia for a woman and her six children.

The Appalachia Region spans across 13 states, including Ohio; however this group was sent into the Eastern Kentucky area where the standard of living is comparable, said Jim Ray, "to a Third World country."

In 1977 the Appalachia Region of Eastern Kentucky sustained 60 inches of rainfall. Hundreds of farms, homes, and families were devastated by the flooding and mudslides made worse by strip mining.

That year of hardship sparked Becky Simpson's battle for justice.

Simpson is the founder and organizer of the Crank's Creek Survival Center where the student volunteers stayed over the holiday. Since the flood of '77 she has been lobbying coal companies, and the state of Kentucky, to help poor families.

Since 1982 the demands for the services provided by the Center have been growing. The Center provides food, clothing and support for families whose lives are interlocked with coal mining companies that employ them. With only a third grade education, Becky Simpson mobilized hundreds of the

Unnecessary Greyhound strike turns ugly

The Greyhound bus strike took a turn for the worse this weekend when a Southeastern Trailways bus driver was shot in Tennessee.

Greyhound officials have reason to believe the shooting was prompted when the independent Trailways bus operated on a Greyhound route with Greyhound customers.

About 6,300 Greyhound bus drivers have been on strike since March 2. Since that time, Greyhound officials have reported "29 shooting attacks, 70 bomb threats and over 100 other incidents."

After this weekend's incident, if the Greyhound strikers were behind the shooting, they should realize that violence should not be used to make their statement.

Innocent passengers also could have lost their lives on account of the bitter strike.

By reverting to "barbaric" methods, the strikers will not gain sympathy or support from the public.

It is necessary to have peaceful talks and demonstrations in order to resolve the negotiation problem as quickly as possible.

Hopefully, this weekend's ugly incident does not happen again because next time passengers may be hurt.

Physician will be beneficial

The hiring of a part-time physician and a full-time nurse practitioner is a wise move by the Board of Trustees.

The need for a physician on campus is long overdue.

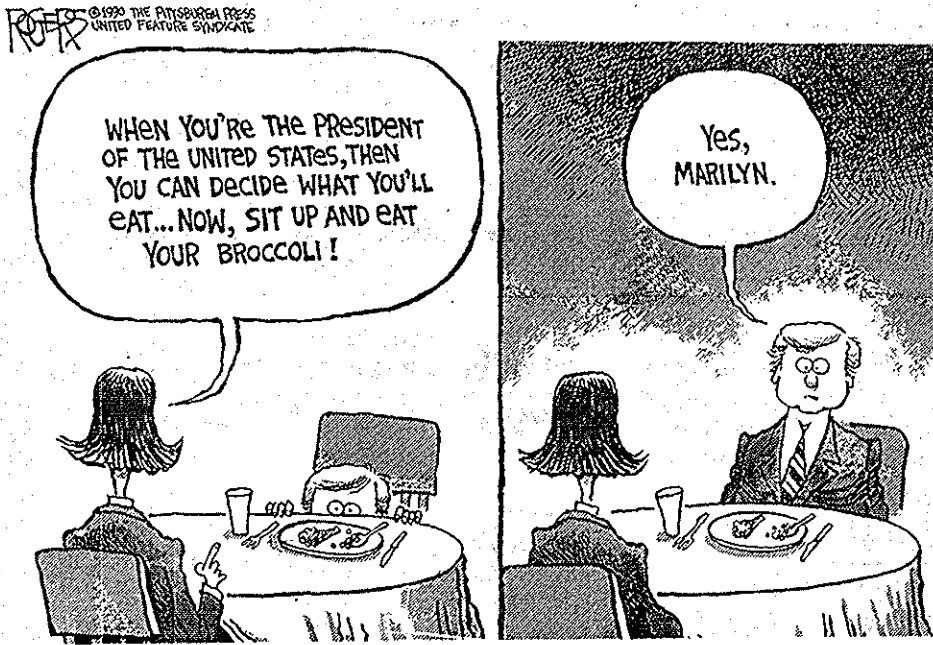

Many students and employees spend all day on campus and at times may need a doctor should they become ill. With the passing of this resolution, there will be someone to take care of their needs.

When the physician begins working on campus, everyone who becomes ill should go and get checked since the University will be paying him or her between $60 and $80 an hour.

The University should also allow students who need a physical permit for physical education class to be examined by the part-time physician.

Many students cannot afford to pay a family doctor for a complete physical or have the time to attend a free clinic. The University physician would be doing a helpful service to the YSU community.

COMMENTARIES

World peace is the point, or is it?

Last week students from a local high school packed the school's auditorium to hear a first-hand account of the World War II bombing of Hiroshima, Japan, by retired Army Air Force General Paul W. Tibbets. Tibbets piloted the "Enola Gay," the B-29 that dropped the atomic bomb on its target Aug. 6, 1945.

According to a report appearing in The Youngstown Vindicator, Tibbets told the students that given the same conditions today, he wouldn't hesitate to do it again. The report also quotes Tibbets as saying, "Nobody knows how many people were killed. But you don't count bodies. That wasn't the point. What you're doing is you're out to destroy a target, you're out to deter or to crush the enemy's will to resist."

Perhaps someone should tell the people of Japan that mourning for the 220,000 victims of Hiroshima isn't "the point".

Spare me the rebuttals, I've heard them all. Yes, I know Japan struck first with the bombing of the "Arizona"; I know that Tibbets' action is credited for ending the war; and I know that President Harry Truman felt the United States was justified in striking back.

I also know that the dropping of the atomic bomb vaporized 62,000 buildings, killed 80,000 people, injured 80,000 more and left radiation effects that ultimately killed another 140,000 men, women and children.

Oh, but how could I forget, that isn't the point is it?

Where does all the money go?

Well once again we are getting raked over the coals by the administration. What's new?

For the second time in nine months, in-state tuition is being increased at YSU. The instructional fee will increase from $510 a quarter to $550, and the general fee will increase from $157 to $180.

You will not be surprised to know that the general fee goes to non-instructional services, inter-collegiate athletics, intramural sports, special lectures and career planning, to mention a few.

A portion of the instructional fee supplies revenue for YSU's educational fund. In other words, a portion of this money goes toward paying teacher's salaries.

You will probably recall the one day faculty strike before fall quarter classes were scheduled to start, which resulted in a pay raise among other things for faculty. According to a statement made by Dr. G. L. Mears, director of the budget, in the March 31, issue of The Vindicator said, "The increase was not directly related to the raises granted to faculty after a one day strike last fall quarter"

TIMMIE'S WORLD

Tim
Leonard

Baldness may be dangerous

The two most frequently asked questions put to me over the weekend were: "Sniff? Sniff? Tim, what's that on the bottom of your shoe?" and "Tim, was that your bald head I saw on Channel 33's news Friday evening?"

I won't answer the first question, but in reference to the second question: "Yes, that was the back of my bald head that you saw on Channel 33's news. Want to make something of it?"

Why was I on television? you ask.

Well, for the first time in my life I decided to attend a YSU Board of Trustees meeting, which took place last Friday afternoon in Tod Hall. While in attendance, I could have boomed, I could have hissed, and I could have thrown tomatoes at the trustees for raising our tuition. But did I? Huh, did I?

No, I didn't.

And for that, Channel 33 showed their appreciation by showing the back of my head—the back of my bald head.

Thanks!

I probably don't have to even mention it, but, yes, I was steamed. My blood pressure went up, up, up.

Isn't it in Cameraman 101 where they teach these cameramen that you're not suppose to focus on the back of a bald man's head.

Channel 33 never showed my face, but two of my relatives knew it was me the second they saw my head.

Then on Saturday, I pick up The Plain Dealer only to see a headline on the front page that stated, "Baldness may raise heart disease risk."

Duh.

It probably took these scientists years to figure this out, and, just think, I could have told them that in second. Heck, bald guys should have high blood pressure with all the ribbing they receive.

Dear Editor:

Over the past two weeks I have heard how unethical WKBN was to air the rescue footage of the babies being pulled from the car in Lordstown. I feel it's time you heard from the videographer who shot that story.

Contrary to popular belief,

Professor admits tornado blunder

Dear Editor:

My enraged letter about last week's tornado drill was a blunder, and turned out to be well suited to your April Fool's issue. Several people have informed me the scheduling of the drill was determined by the state, not the University.

So far as I know, there have been no administrative disruptions of the classroom's tranquility (by hammers, bells, painters, explosive bolt-setters, etc.) lately, and I regret having assumed that the administration was responsible for the untimely tornado-howling.

we are human and have emotions just like everyone else. All I have heard is, "How can you stand to shoot something like that?"

Well, it's very hard, particularly when something as precious as a life, especially that of a child, is lost. It leaves an enormous void in your heart and soul — the pictures of the limp and lifeless bodies being snagged from the half-submerged car and the panic-stricken grandmother watching the attempt to save the two dearest things in her life — that is something I'll never forget no matter how hard I try.

When the decision was made to air my footage. It was to show a dramatic rescue attempt. Unfortunately it ended in tragedy. It was also aired so everyone might need a warning that: no one is exempt from tragedy. This was by no means to look like something out of a tabloid. This was a real life event and it was shown to you that way.

mission to Japan two years ago. The tour of the park was led by a young Japanese girl whose uncle had been killed in the atomic bombing. She talked of building peace; of her country and ours working together to prevent such a thing from ever happening again.

We visited with a hibakusha (survivor of the bombing) who told us, "The Japanese were wrong, we know that. I hold no grudges. It is too late for me, but I ask you, for the sake of the children, to help make a peaceful world in which we can live together."

It was the memory of this experience that sent me into a rage over Tibbets speech. Why does our society regard as heroism such actions like the bombing of Hiroshima? And worse yet, applaud a man who says he wouldn't hesitate to drop another atomic bomb?

I hope that the school district that welcomed Tibbets will also share the book Sadaka and the Thousand Paper Cranes with its students. As a result of the radiation from the bomb, she died of leukemia at the age of ten. A statue in the Peace Park of Sadaka is inscribed with the words that end her book, "This is our cry, this is our prayer: Peace in the world." I think the American students need to hear this story of Sadaka's dying plea for peace.

desensitized. Once in a while it takes something out of the ordinary to make us stand up and take notice. I'm glad that we are able to still feel emotions for our neighbors. I will never be able to block that tragic event out of my mind. If a picture tells a thousand words, I hope some words from my pictures will be that, "Life is too sacred and precious to be lost to a lack of thought!"

minority students and the hiring of a part-time physician and a full time nurse are two items that the increase will help support.

Mears did say that "We don't have any great big program to say, here is where all the money is going." My question is why not? Where is all the rest of the money going?

The faculty know how they will benefit from the increase, as will the athletic department, which is funded by the general fee. Yet, we students paying for this increase would still like to know more about "where all the money is going."

Suspected felon chosen for 'Crime of the Week'

YOUNGSTOWN — Crime Stoppers is asking for the public's help in locating a suspected felon being sought by Youngstown police. This case has been selected as the "Crime of the Week" by the Greater Youngstown Crime Stoppers.

Michael Philip Kosap, a white male, is wanted for aggravated robbery. Kosap is 33 years old, 5'11" tall, and weighs approximately 180 pounds. He has a medium build, blue eyes, and brown hair. He last resided in the 100 block on Howard Street in Girard.

The charge on Michael Kosap stems from an incident that occurred on Wednesday, Feb. 4, 1990, when Kosap robbed a Youngstown resident of $200, at gun point, while the victim was at Steve's Amoco Gas Station located on Mahoning Avenue on Youngstown's upper west side.

Anyone with information on the whereabouts of Michael Philip Kosap is asked to call Crime Stoppers collect 746-CLUE Mon.-Fri., between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. Person(s) with information do not have to give their names. A code number will be assigned to each caller. If the information leads to the arrest and indictment of Kosap, a cash reward will be given as authorized by the Crime Stoppers Board of Directors.

Crime Stoppers is a non-profit organization which offers cash rewards of up to $1,000 for information leading to the arrest and indictment of person(s) responsible for any serious crime in Mahoning, Columbiana, and Trumbull counties.

Contributions to Crime Stoppers Reward Fund may be sent to P.O. Box 4, Youngstown, Ohio 44501. These contributions are tax-deductible and will be greatly appreciated.

Appalachia

forgotten people of Appalachia.

The problems of Eastern Kentucky begin with the biggest money-maker for the area — coal mining. Approximately 80 percent of the land (mineral and surface area) is absentee owned. Thus, the majority of people who live and work in the region do not own the land they live on and could at any time fall victim to mining ordinances, not to mention the destruction of the mountain ecology for the last 15 years.

The effect on the group was obviously profound and many found it difficult at first to put into words their experience of Appalachian culture. In Thursday's Jambar the students will describe some of these impressions.

Free Enterprise team prepares for regional competition

By DORRI AGGER
Staff Reporter

The YSU Students in Free Enterprise (SIFE) Competition Team, under the guidance of faculty advisor Dr. Gary Benson, business, is preparing for this year's regional competition on April 20 in Cleveland.

SIFE develops and conducts educational projects in the area of American free enterprise for the campus and community. These projects are then presented at regional and national competitions.

As a new group, last year the team placed fourth in the regionals, but only those teams placing in the top three were eligible to continue on to the national competition.

Benson said the team has a better chance of winning this year because the team has a better feel for what the judges are looking for, and the top four teams will continue on to the nationals.

The six-person team was required to submit a report by the deadline of March 23, which will be circulated among the judges prior to the competition. During the competition, the team will have a presentation, similar to a debate competition, for a panel of business executives and entrepreneurs.

One of this year's projects included a free enterprise lecture series given in February entitled "Solving the Health Care Crisis in America Before The 21st Century," given by Dawn Sellaro, an expert on health care issues.

The SIFE Team will conduct its second annual Free Enterprise Week during the week of April 9-13 on campus. Some of the activities scheduled include films, guest speakers, lectures, a brunch/tape presentation, a raffle and visits by professional athletes from the area.

The team and Benson are also currently involved in developing and incrementing a program for displaced workers in the Mahoning Valley area. The program's objective is to help provide displaced workers, from such employers as GF Office Systems and the GE Lamp Manufacturing Plant, learn how to start their own businesses. A pilot program for the GM Lordstown Van Plant workers is currently being conducted at the UAW Local 1112, Union Hall in anticipation of the plant's closing.

Other team-sponsored activities will be a presentation on the problems of our economic system by Congressman Jim Traficant on April 9 on campus free of charge; a brown bag luncheon/VHS Tape Series to begin the week of April 17 to make people more aware of entrepreneurship opportunities; and an entrepreneurship bootcamp for teens designed to help young people learn more about the free enterprise system.

The Februarys strive for success with upcoming demo

By DAWN MARZANO
Entertainment Editor and FAITH PUSKAS
Staff Reporter

It may be April but The Februarys are still making music.

The four man band has been busy in the studios and on stage in area establishments.

Since last March, when the band first originated, The Februarys have recorded two promotional demos titled The Februarys and Bridget's Face. According to Scott Hevener, lead vocalist for the group, both demos have helped the band to progress and attain a larger following. "People can definitely see a maturity from the first demo to the second demo. We have our own sound. We want people to look at us as a band, not just a bunch of kids," Hevener said.

Since the demos are sold commercially, they are circulated among fans throughout Youngstown, Hevener added.

Besides Hevener, The Februarys consist of Brent Young, guitar; Joe Berquist, bass; and Chris Mendt, drums.

Berquist mentioned that The Februarys may go on the road this summer and take their music to places such as Cleveland, Akron and Pittsburgh.

Hevener said that at the moment The Februarys have been opening acts for other area bands such as The Infidels and Figure Ground. They also support themselves by renting out halls for their own shows.

Recently, the band was involved in a benefit for Covenant House, a national organization that gives aid and shelter to runaways. "We were approached by the organization and being young people ourselves we are sympathetic to the plight of runaway teens," said Berquist.

Although they perform at a variety of functions, the band feels that they get the most exposure being an opening act. "Right now the best thing for us to be is the opening act for other bands. This way we play for an hour and get out," Hevener jokes. By opening for more established bands, they are exposed to larger and varied crowds.

The band has also changed its set to include more crowd motivating and upbeat songs that would appeal to a larger audience and make the show more enjoyable.

By the end of April, The Februarys may return to the studio to record another promotional demo. Berquist said that the demo should consist of two to eight songs, and it will more than likely be sent out to various recording companies.

In the past The Februarys have recorded their demos at Key Note Studios in Austintown, but for their upcoming demo the band will be recording at Beechwood Studios in Cleveland.

"We work pretty well in the studios. We all come to each other with ideas and work out music from there," Hevener added.

The Februarys can be seen at the Cedar's Lounge on April 7th and April 20th. They will be the opening band for Figure Ground and The Infidels.

Latest exhibitions underway at Butler

YOUNGSTOWN — Duane Michals: Portraits is an exhibition of work by one of America's best known photographers featuring images that explore the conceptual artist's personal reality. The photographs of well known arts celebrities such as Dennis Hopper, Barbara Striesand, Marcel Duchamp, Joseph Cornell, Joan Miro, Warren Beatty, Kim Novak, Jeanne Moreau, Richard Gere, De Chirico, Tennessee Williams, Rene Magritte, Clint Eastwood, and Pasolini combine with autobiographical portraits of the artist to produce an amazing view of the artist's world through the camera's eye. The exhibition, which opened March 25, will run through May 6 at the Butler Institute. The exhibit is sponsored by the Shuring family of Trumbull County.

The works of Vincent LaCambina since the 1930s show a deep and abiding love for the life and people of New York City. His highly personal vision reflects both the every day experience of the busy city streets as well as the glittering tinsel romance of Coney Island at night. The exhibition opened on March 25 and runs through May 6.

The Sweeney Gallery will be filled with the colorful collages of Stephen Longstreet as the Butler presents a new exhibition for children of all ages entitled Cowboys, Indians and All that Jazz from the collection of Joe Erdelac. Included in the show are humorous images from the worlds of Basin Street, New York and Paris jazz cafes, as well as portraits of legendary characters of the Old West as seen through the eyes of this unique talent who has created works of paper for over seventy years.

The exhibition opened March 18 and runs through May 27 at the museum. Watch for information in upcoming months that will detail programming to highlight this wonderful exhibition. For further information or to schedule tours, contact the museum's Education Department, (216) 743-1107.

Malmisur addresses Curbstone Coaches Luncheon

By TIM LEONARD
Staff Reporter

YSU Athletic Director Joseph Malmisur was the guest speaker at the Curbstone Coaches Luncheon yesterday afternoon at the Wick-Pollock Inn. His topics of conversation were the NCAA Final Four and, strangely enough, YSU athletics.

Malmisur was pinch hitting for Dr. Ernest Perry who was scheduled as the luncheon's original speaker but missed the event due to illness.

Malmisur, who returned to Youngstown at 4 a.m., Monday after spending the weekend in Denver watching the NCAA basketball semi-finals, said this year's event was the most exciting Final Four that he has visited. "The contrasts of the teams is what made it so exciting," said Malmisur. Also in Denver is YSU Head Basketball Coach John Stroia and his three assistant coaches. Stroia and his staff remained in Denver for the championship between UNLV and Duke.

After discussing the Final Four, Malmisur spoke about different aspects of the YSU athletic program. Some of the topics were:

•The YSU men's basketball schedule for 1990-91. Malmisur said the Penguins will play host to the Minnesota Gophers at Beeghly Center next season. Minnesota was one of the final eight teams in this year's NCAA basketball tournament. The Penguins visited Minnesota the past two seasons where they suffered two defeats. Malmisur also said the Penguins will play the Ohio State Buckeyes in Columbus next season.

•YSU joining a league. Malmisur said he didn't know whether or not the Penguins would be entering a league in the near future. "I think the OVC was great, but I don't think it galvanized our fans," said Malmisur. "Only the Mid-American could. That's the league we would love to be in."

•YSU's drug testing program. Malmisur said, "I'm extremely proud of it." He said if an athlete fails a drug test, then the athlete doesn't play. According to Malmisur, all YSU athletes are randomly tested. Malmisur said that even he is tested.

Since the birth of YSU's drug testing program, which is supported by Edward DeBartolo Sr., Malmisur said the Penguins have lost only three athletes due to drugs.

Continued from page 12 overall. His ERA is 3.67 and has gone the distance only once.

Coming on strong for the Penguins are Kitchen with a record of 2-1 and an ERA of 5.40 and Krych who has two wins and as many losses with an ERA of 6.63.

Golf

The University of Missouri captured the 54-hole Florida International Invitational with a score of 905. Followed by runner-up Florida Atlantic (933) and third-place finisher Michigan State University (939). The Penguins tied for sixth with the University of Hartford—both team's shooting a 948 for the three-day affair.

The top Penguin finisher was John Lucansky who shot a 223, good enough for third-place honors. Bill Wynn and John Utley of the Missouri Tigers both tied for tourney medalist honors, carding a 220.

The Penguins will next take to the links at the Purdue University Invitational on April 7-8.

YSU baseball looks to Kent for eight victory

YSU — At 7-11-0 YSU's baseball team is looking for its eighth win on Wednesday afternoon when they travel to Kent State to face the Golden Flashes at 1:00 p.m.

This past weekend the Penguins had two games cancelled on account of rain and are heading into Wednesday's contest coming off a 5-3 loss to the University of Akron.

Last Wednesday, the Penguins faced Hiram College in a doubleheader and took both games. Joe Herubin went the distance in the first game and led the Penguins to a 4-1 victory. Avery Krych brought home the second victory 10-3.

Previous to that, the Penguins were on their Annual Spring Trip in Orlando, Fl. where they played nine games.

The Penguins started off their spring trip with a 6-0 win over St. Xavier/Chicago on March 17, giving Herubin his first mound victory in the '90 campaign.

On Sunday, March 18 the Penguins defeated the University of Illinois/Chicago with Sean Price on the mound and came away with win number two, 16-2.

On March 19, the Penguins lost to Long Island University 8-1. Doug Harrah took the loss. YSU won their next two 5-3, and 8-7 with Ron Kitchen and Price getting the wins.

The Penguins then dropped their next three games with Herubin, Harrah, and Price receiving the losses.

In the last game of the week, the Penguins came alive and defeated Drexel University 12-9 giving Kitchen his second victory of the spring trip.

Heading into Wednesday's contest the Penguins will be looking toward their sticks for support.

Leading the Penguins at the plate are Chris Durkin with a team high .333 batting average with 66 at bats. Coming in a close second is Brian Funge with a .283 batting average with 67 at bats.

Rounding out the top three is Bob Janeda with .273 with 66 at bats. Also showing some consistency with the bat is Briar Myers with a .270 batting average with 63 at bats.

On the mound, the Penguins have been relying on Herubin who has pitched in five games to date and posts a mark of 2-3

If I plan to die I'll die with The General at the helm

Rick George

Sometimes I think of some strange things. The other day I was thinking if I had to choose one coach to win one college basketball game for me because my life depended on it, who would I choose?

Well, after doing a little thinking I narrowed it down to seven candidates.

My seventh choice would be Georgetown's John Thompson. Thompson has turned the Hoya program into a consistent winner. His six foot ten presence can be intimidating to players and officials.

But, Big John has not been the same since the Olympics. He should have made the Final Four one of the last two seasons but ended up short.

He lost control and was ejected in the Syracuse game this year after his team had a commanding lead — another strike against him.

I'll tell you, if you love basketball then you have to love UNLV's Jerry Tarkanian.

Those sad eyes and pitiful expression makes you want to root for the Rebels and the Shark. The man loves basketball and he is always a winner despite the allegations of illegal recruiting.

Then we come to Denny Crum of Louisville. Mr. Consistency.

Crum has all the credentials to be my man since he learned all the ropes from the expert himself the Wizard of Westwood, John Wooden.

Crum is a good recruiter and understands the finer points of the game, but like Thompson, he is not the same after losing the Pan American games to Brazil in 1987.

I don't need a man who may be slipping a little when it is life and death.

On goes the search.

Number four goes to Arizona's Cool Hand Lute, Lute Olsen. Olsen left a big time program in Iowa and started another in Arizona.

Without a doubt, Olsen would be an assistant coach on my team.

The Kid comes in third. Mike Krzyzewski has done one heck of a job at Duke. Four Final Four appearances in five years is Wooden-like numbers.

Coach K is a class act who wins without a top star.

He will be the number one man one day very soon.

Nudging Coach K out for number two is his old Atlantic Coast Conference nemesis Dean

Smith of North Carolina.

When it comes down to pulling out all the stops, Smith is the dean.

Just ask former number one Oklahoma.

Smith will always have a bad rap for winning only one title despite all the talent he had. That's bull.

For the last 11 years he has guided the Tar Heels to at least the Sweet 16. The man knows coaching.

By the way, the Tar Heels beat Duke twice this year by 18 and 14 points.

Now comes the man I would have coach the one game if my life depended on it.

The General. Robert Montgomery Knight of Indiana.

He has coached teams that have won three national titles, an Olympic gold medal, a Pan

Golf team pleases Joy

YSU — Head Coach Tony Joy is most pleased with his team's recent showing at the Florida International University Invitational on their recent spring trip. After a fall campaign in which his squad posted a 69-35-2 tournament record, Joy is pleased with the results of the first tournament of the spring, especially since it was the first time his team was on the links competitively in the spring.

"We did well for the first time out," Joy said. "We have a way to go, however, if we are to improve as the season continues. I'm anxiously looking forward to the Purdue University Invitational."
