Name Junior Prom Committee

Stewart and Thomas to Plan Spring Event

Frank Stewart and Dick Thomas received appointments from Student Council as co-chairmen of the Junior Prom, it was announced today.

A complete list of Prom committees, submitted by Junior President Charles Zellers and approved by Council is as follows:

Publicity: Dave Mackil, Marion Parmenter, co-chairmen; Rose Rosapepe, Ellen Evans.

Orchestra: Thompson Roberts, chairman.

Tickets: Miriam Jones, chairman; Stan Sylak, Dale Slesman, Margaret Olds, Jean Zabroski, Woodrow Van Court, John Scott.

Arrangements: Francena Moore, Coletta Hussey, co-chairmen; Sylvanus Devine, Katherine Jones.

Social Calendar Now In Office

Because of so many conflicts in the activities of the various organizations of the school, the administration and Student Council recently devised a new system for keeping the social calendar.

In the future all dates for the activities of any organization must comply with the social calendar of the school. This means all activities excepting those which include only members of the organization—that is, every party, dance, etc., at which non-members will be present.

A calendar has been posted in the office which will list every date. It not only shows which dates are taken by school activities, but also what nights the auditorium is to be occupied. Some of these include organizations which are not in school. If this is so, the date is still open for school activities not to be held in the auditorium.

All dates must be approved by Marjorie Wighton, Secretary of Student Council. If any organization does not comply with these rules, the administration will take action.

Five Attend Lake Erie Convention

Youngstown was represented by five delegates at the Conference of Ohio Colleges on International Affairs conducted at Lake Erie College on February 11-12. The convention featured an address by Salvador de Madariaga, noted author, lecturer, and formerly Spain's ambassador to United States. Other speakers were Spencer Irwin, of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, Professor Jacob C. Meyer, and Professor Wilbur W. White of Western Reserve University.

Besides Youngstown College, ten other Ohio colleges and universities took part in the conference. The Youngstown group included Betty Church, Richard Thomas, Paul Maloney, John Middleton, and Frank Jaczko.

Coeds Initiate Grid Uniforms

College football becomes a tangible reality as the first shipment of football equipment arrives at Youngstown. The helmets and the pigskin have the seal of approval of these five charming coeds who wish to see that our gladiators are correctly attired. In the huddle are Bety Hossel, Maxine Morton, "Peg" Kirchnerfi "Dimp" Jones, and Betty Brown, who are not part of the equipment.

Barclay Atcheson To Speak Here Friday

Chapel will be delayed until Friday this week to enable Barclay Atcheson, associate editor of Readers Digest to speak to the student body.

Mr. Atcheson is in town to speak before the Kiwanis Club, where he will appear immediately following the chapel.

College Choir Presents Concert at Canfield P.T.A.

The Youngstown College Chapel Choir, under the direction of Dr. Henry Stearns, gave its third concert of the year as part of the Canfield Parent-Teachers Association program, Monday, February 14, at Canfield High School.

On the same program was Mrs. Semans, Dean of Women, who lectured on "Normal children and their behavior." Mrs. Wilcox of Canfield was in charge of the meeting.

Two Appointed to Student Council

Drop One, Add Two In Council Shuffle

Two representatives, one Senior and one Freshman were added recently to the Student Council roster. Frank Jaczko is the Senior representative and Paxton Jones is the representative from the incoming Freshman class.

Mr. Jaczko fills the vacancy created by Theodore Holz who is not attending the college this semester. The new appointments complete the Council quota of eleven members.

Pro Smith Opens Season

Dr. J. Smith, head of the Social Science Department, took advantage of the warm spring day recently by playing golf at the Warren Muny Course. Dr. Smith shot a 79. "I am in mid-season form," said the prof.

Peanuts!

Most people can't be satisfied with the handful of peanuts the Canteens give for one cent. But it's a matter of honor not to put in another penny. Someone has figured out a way to get the most for your money. First shake the peanuts well into the neck of the jar. Insert a penny while you keep tapping the jar. Pull the trigger and hold the outlet shut. All of which takes about three people to get two more peanuts for one cent!

Junior C. of C. Sends Thanks to College

A letter of appreciation was received recently by the College from the Junior Chamber of Commerce. William A. Williron, Chairman of the Art Week Committee wrote in part:

"The members of the committee feel that the attendance of the Youngstown College students contributed greatly to the success of this project. The balloting of the students for the most popular picture certainly helped to increase the interest in the show."

Ideal Man Need Not Look For Similar Qualities In His Ideal Wife -- Marriage Class Reveals

What do girls look for when they're contestants in the field of matrimony? You're right, fellows, the old adage about "goldiggers" found some basis in fact when the girls in the Marriage course voted—earning power as the first and major requirement when looking for a man.

Were the male students as mercenary? The poll didn't make it look that way. The poor, misunderstood males wanted only—companionship!

These astounding revelations were brought to light when Mrs.

Frank Semans, Dean of Women, took a poll to determine the five most important factors in the minds of students just before they took the "leap." The fact that neither male nor female students' answers agreed in their first five choices, makes it look as if the chances for a fifty-fifty, partnership marriage between any two students in the class is nil, void, and a mathematical impossibility.

The tabulated results of the poll written by the female students of the class were: First choice, earning power; character, sense of humor, affection, intelligence, and health all tied for second; third, personality; ambition and emotional balance tied for fourth; appearance or good looks came last!

Here's what the men look for—
1. Companionship. 2. Personality. 3. Family background. 4. Education and ability to handle money. 5. Last but not least the men look for—intelligence.

The fact that the men voted to look for intelligence, last, may have experiences; but the girls' first choice has resulted in just one thing—the men are all seeking membership in batchelors' clubs.

Drive Opens For Subscribers to 1938 Yearbook

Subscriptions Will Limit The Edition

The subscription campaign for the 1938 Neon will begin Thursday, February 17, in order to give all students ample time to make preparations for obtaining a copy of the Neon. All students are urged to subscribe early because the number of annuals is limited. In previous years there has been an over-supply of Neons but this year the staff desires to eliminate this difficulty.

A subscription desk will be placed near the main entrance to accommodate students wishing to subscribe for a Neon.

The cost of the Neon will be Two Dollars ($2.00). A deposit of fifty cents (.50) will hold a subscription for a student, the balance to be paid anytime before publication of the book, or at the time when the Neon is secured.

In case of a shortage, those students who subscribed early will be given preference.

In case a second order is placed with the printer, an additional charge will be made to the late subscriber.

Open Roaders Visit Niagara Ice Jam

Members and guests of the Open Road Club took the special excursion train to Niagara Falls during the cold spell here recently. The wrecked Honeymoon Bridge and the 70-ft. ice pack at the power house were the main attractions.

It is estimated that about 1200 Youngstown people in 19 coaches made the trip to see the falls covered by ice. The train left Youngstown at 8:45 A. M. and arrived in Niagara Falls at 2:30 P. M. The students from the College spent the afternoon viewing the ice jam and taking pictures.

Mimes to Help In Coming Operetta

The Mimes Dramatic Society will cooperate with the Music Society in producing the Gilbert and Sullivan opera "Pirates of Penzance" to be presented in the near future by the Youngstown College Students.

It was decided at the meeting held recently that the Society will plan and build the scenic settings of the opera.

The Mimes is searching for a suitable play to be presented this spring. "Ah Wilderness" is considered but not definitely selected. Any play suggested by a member of the student body will be appreciated and considered for the coming Mimes production.

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

This week the Inquiring Reporter seeks the opinion of the student body's likes and dislikes of the Chapel Hymns.
 Tut Roberts, Junior Musician, says: "I think we should sing hymns everybody knows and then all the students would join in."
 Betty Brown, Sophomore, states: "I don't know any of them. They are not the ones I was taught when I was young."
 Carl Rosapepe, Sophomore, says: "I like the songs the choir sings, but the ones the student body sing are better."
 Bea Snively, Sophomore: "Most of us do not know the the hymns. I think we need a new hymn book."
 June Wymmer, Senior, avers: "The songs are not well known enough to be enjoyed by the student body."

...hobbies are badminton and bowling... however, bemoans fact that he doesn't get enough exercise... is determined to "cut down" on meat and pastries... on the stage since 1921 and loves his work... he is a neurologist and astrologist... interested in writing... cultured, educated, intelligent... a fine artist... VINCENT LOPEZ...

ONE MAN'S OPINION
 The applause accorded the brief appearance of El Brendel in "Happy Landing" more firmly convinced me that the Swede comedian and former star still has a huge following and should be given bigger and better roles.
 Hugh Sothern, as Andrew Jackson, matches Frederic March's portrayal of Jean Lafitte in "The Buccaneer." "The Bad Man of Brimstone" offers Wallace Beery a fine opportunity for another of his beloved characterizations.

Two delightful pictures should open an easy pathway for further college films. "Navy Blue and Gold" is a grand story of three friends at the Annapolis naval academy with bright dialogue and fine dramatics capped by a thrilling pigskin fracas. "A Yank at Oxford" is the gay story of a conceited but likable Yank bucking the staid traditions of picturesque Oxford. And it is, by far, Bob Taylor's best picture.

CAMPUS COMMENTS

BY FRANK JACZKO

INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS

We never suspected that our interest in foreign relations would be responsible for a most pleasing interlude in the day-after-day college routine. We were one of a party of five that Pontiated to Lake Erie College to take part in what was officially termed a "Conference of Ohio Colleges on International Affairs." Besides increasing their knowledge of current events the Youngstown College delegates had an enjoyable visit. Be it known that Lake Erie College is not coeducational, being limited to women students, a fact that did not detract from its attraction for the male envoys. Several of the charming ladies, Billie Garland, Ruth Stark, and Betty Wiltzie, to name a few, personally looked after the Yoco delegation—for which in the hope that they may read this sometime, we thank them again. Schools, like individuals, seem to possess specific characteristics all their own and even so Lake Erie College left some very definite impressions of itself and its shapely student body.

The ladies, to use the vulgar but expressive, are a classy bunch of dames. Personally we look for background and breeding in the other sex and there is plenty of both in the Painesville cloister. Despite their Mayflowerish tendencies, however, the girls are not above a few bourgeoisie tricks, like the raising of the left index finger, the meaning of which is better described verbally. Furthermore the Eriettes positively ooze pep, music, and rhythm. We heard a trio in action on "Swing High, Swing Low," and we'd back them against any in the country, professional or otherwise. Bulletin boards give a more or less interesting bird's eye view of a college, so we brought back a couple of notices that appeared on the "Convent's" information cork.

"Notice!! Junior candy now being sold in Room 73—(Bunny Bademans). Please buy; but try not to run up large bills. It is not being sold in No. 33."

"Calm your nerves with a jig saw puzzle. For rent very cheap. Apply room 11. Act Now."
 Incidentally we might mention another angle to this convention attendance. It can provide invaluable publicity for a school. By sounding off wisely and at opportune moments, and by getting into the swing of activities, the delegate can make all conscious of his constituent. This of course necessitates careful selection of representatives. It is obvious that shy and wall-flower-like individuals would defeat the intent.

MISS YOUNGSTOWN COLLEGE 1938

The line forms right in back of us for the receiving of cigars from William Beckman. Mrs. Beckman presented the well known chemistry student with a lovely little girl who will be expected to respond to the name of Elsie Jane.

A blessed event is a unique occasion among the student body and hence calls for an unusually hearty "Congratulations, Bill."

PETEY PENGUIN BROADCASTS

"I think the following, contributed by Dave Mackil, is foul, but it takes up space, so you can have it. If you gave Ed Lynch the Bronx cheer, could you say that you were in Budapest? ... Who are they? Two business school girls who traded my good opinion of them for the price of admission to the Freshman Reception ... It's too bad that what could be the most interesting class is allowed to become the most boring by the ramblings of a few immature minds ... The Valentine spirit was pretty flourishing on the 14th. I understand that Taylor and Balmuth headed the recipients with about ten each. Lucky boys ... I see where Jerry Holmes and Bob Anderson are getting in on the ground floor with the very lovely Peg Kirchner. Nothing like a good start in what will turn out to be a muchly contested race. And the boys aren't the only ones that jumped the gun ... You notice I'm not pairing them off this issue. It seems that my matings either never existed or go on the rocks immediately after appearing here.

Want a Neon?

Tomorrow marks the beginning of a drive for subscriptions to the Neon. This drive will be one of the most important, most decisive, and hardest tasks that the Neon staff will encounter.

The size of the edition will depend upon the number of subscriptions received in the next week, as it is the plan of the editors and business manager to limit the number of copies rather than overstock as has been done in the past.

The amazing growth of the college scholastically, in sports, and (we hope) in the Jambar, will be portrayed to an even greater extent in the Neon. However, we are not attempting to sell the annual further than to say that it will be worth the money and will surpass any yet published by Youngstown College.

It should not be necessary to use sales talk on an item such as a college yearbook. Everyone in the liberal arts college will want a record of this year of his college career which is approaching an end too, too fast. The problem is not to sell the annual, but to get the student body to drop its indifferent attitude long enough to sign a subscription slip.

So will you, tomorrow, stop at the desk and sign for an annual, lest you find yourself without at the end of the semester.

Modernize the Sticker

Wanted: Some new sals. Not the flipped variety, but the common collegiate type, to advertise YoCo on windshield, luggage, notebooks and places. How about a new edition of that Youngstown pennant with a "rich-hued red" that's really your own? Why not make use of the official school seal that so far ornaments only the catalogue? And wouldn't Petey Penguin look good with a Youngstown Pennant smiling from somebody's windshield?
 —J. W.

The Final Fling

The closing game of a grand basketball season will be played at East Palestine. There, the greatest team to ever wear the red and gold will make its final stand against the powerful Westminster Titans.

This game is one of those things that is made to order. It has as its setting the modern new gymnasium with an extra large seating capacity. The opposing team is the oldest and most formidable foe on the Penguin schedule. As a sidelight—two of Sweeney's men will be ending their college basketball careers on this night. The spectacular Jimmy Smith and the steady Tom Robinson will make this their final game. To top it all, money from the game will go toward college football.

Every true son of Youngstown who can borrow or steal a car should plan to see this game. Not only will he personally enjoy a whiz of a match, but his cheers are needed to bring home victory over those Titans.

The Collegiate Angle

by Lenny Evans

It was inevitable, of course, that eventually Austria should come in to either the German or the Italian fold. Lately the signs pointed unmistakably toward a union of some sort with Nazi rather than Fascist forces. That Austria is to be regarded as an independent state (per the 1936 Austro-German treaty) is of very small significance. Out of the fourteen men composing the Austrian Cabinet at least five can be depended upon to fervently promote any and all Nazi proposals, and included in the list of Nazi exponents is the new Secretary of the Interior who controls the police.
 Nazi Invasion
 This surrender was certainly not the desire of Chancellor Schuschnigg, who has valiantly resisted the invasion of Austria by either Fascism or Nazism. However, under the recent pressure he found it necessary to choose between concurrence to Herr Hitler's demands or subjection to a Nazi reign of Terror worse than that of 1934. There was no choice in the matter, for Nazi triumph was certain whichever course was followed.

Great Britain held out hopes that Schuschnigg would be able to overrule the Nazi element in his Cabinet and preserve Austrian independence. Great Britain also pooh-poohed the gravity of the Italian invasion of Ethiopia and the Japanese attack upon China.
 The real heart of the situation is not the plight of Austria, but the fact that the dictatorships will soon have an unhampered stretch of territory from the Mediterranean to the North Sea. This could easily, and if nothing happens to stop it undoubtedly will, involve the little nations west of Russia.
 Hitler vs. Mussolini
 If this happens the Democracies will really have something to fear, for Italy and Japan have already proved to them the amazing ability of the Dictatorships to wage successful war on a shoestring. However, there is one outcome which seems to this writer, at least, to be very probable, and that is war between Italy and Germany if one or both of the governments do not break down first. Hitler and Mussolini each has elected himself to be the one master of Europe. Under these circumstances it seems very improbable that the present friendly relationships can long be preserved.

Penguin Quintet Snowed Under

Yoco Bows to Titans in First Game of Series

With a burst of speed which completely baffled the Penguins, the Westminster Titans downed the Youngstowners 55 to 27 at New Wilmington, Pa., Monday night.

Toward the end of the first half, the Westminster regulars were replaced by the second team who proved themselves to be a good match for the visiting outfit. The half ended 26 to 7.

Jay Cashon took the lead in increasing the points for the Red and Gold at the beginning of the second period. Westminster's high point man, Andy Demo, continued his sensational playing by amassing a total of twenty points before the final whistle blew.

Though the Titans proved themselves to be the better team, Penguin coach Sweeney predicts a much closer battle when the two rivals meet at East Palestine on Feb. 28. Tickets may be secured from Paul Maloney.

Penguin Squad Is 180th In National Collegiate Rating

Youngstown College Penguins rate 180 in national college basketball according to latest reports.

The Penguins are rated higher than nine of the teams played so far this year. Long Island U., a former opponent, is listed in seventh position. The Westminster Titans are placed in position number 43.

Youngstown is given a percentage of 65.7 according to a Difference-by-Score System. The ratings are a mathematically correct standing of the teams in relation to the power of every other team in the country.

Coed Fencing Team Making Progress

Penguins Tame Akron Zippers 32-31

In what proved to be one of the greatest games in YoCo basketball history, the Penguins proved themselves to be too much for Akron's highly rated defensive ball club.

Under the leadership of diminutive Tony Vivo, the Penguins took the lead and kept it with the score being 19-15 at half time.

In the second-half Akron was forced to change their defense to a man-system rather than a zone defense. The score zig-zagged back and forth and the roughness of the game was such that Vivo was forced to the side lines on personal fouls.

With only a minute to go, Captain Joe Zonola of Akron tied the score at 31-31, only to have one of his team-mates commit a foul in the last ten seconds.

Red Pugh was placed in the position of winning or losing a ball game with a foul shot. Playing his usual steady ball, Red came through to give Youngstown its seventh straight victory by the score of 32-31.

Thiel Routed On Home Court

Sweeneymen Run Wild, Trounce Tomcats 44-27

As Thiel ran up a 24-18 lead at half-time, they saw a complete reversal of form in the last half as the Penguins won 44-27.

Thiel was permitted only three points in the last half when the first five Penguin stars were in the game. Youngstown made 20 points before Thiel was able to connect.

Corletzi again looked best for the Red and Gold with 12 points.

Corletzi Scores as YoCo Defeats Hiram

Corletzi and his first string team-mates came to the rescue of the freshmen team as the Youngstowners downed Hiram to the tune of 44-27.

With the score at 8-0 in Hiram's favor, Coach Sweeney was forced to send in his first stringers, who at half time, led 20 to 14.

Corletzi played the best game of his college career as he made 14 points. All members of the squad saw action and turned in a creditable performance. Day was the best bet for Hiram with 8 points.

Will End Season Against Westminster At East Palestine

With the odds very much in favor of making this season the most successful in the history of Youngstown College, the Penguins are primed to give their very best performance when they play their last games with West Liberty and Westminster.

West Liberty visits the Y gym tomorrow night with a former victory of 50 to 29 held over the Yocotes heads. The West Virginia State Teachers have repeatedly given the Penguins a battle which is determined by one or two points in the long series of relations with West Liberty, the Penguins find they must win on Thursday in order to tie the number of wins and losses.

Westminster has never lost to Youngstown, though they are always given a good battle. Penguin coach Ray Sweeney, former Westminster star, expects his charges to come out on top in this last game of the season.

The site of the Feb. 28th Westminster fracas is to be at the beautiful new E. Palestine gym, which has a seating capacity of 1200. Proceeds of the game above expenses are to go into the Penguin football fund.

St. Vincent Breaks Penguin Win Streak

With the pleasant sound of the Akron victory still ringing in their ears, the Youngstown cagers bowed to St. Vincent 46-32. The fast breaking Pennsylvania team gained so many points in the first few minutes of play, that the handicap was too great for the Penguins to overcome.

The first half ended with the Latrobe outfit leading 18-13. At the beginning of the second half, Youngstown returned to their usual form by going into the lead 22-20. But from this point on, St. Vincent completely predominated until the final whistle was blown.

Evans, stellar St. Vincent forward, was the high point man of the evening with a total of 19 points.

FATHER-SON BANQUET

The dads of the Phi Gams were on the receiving end of things when the fraternity held its annual Father and Son Banquet at Ravers' Wednesday, February 16. The place was "all lit up" with green and white candles that emphasized the colors of the fraternity.
