E. T. P. C. Presents Play at Chapel Program

Times have changed since the days when teachers lived by the old adage "Spare the yardstick, and spoil the pupil". Members of the E. T. P. C. are shown in a scene from their one-act play portraying the school room of 20 years ago as compared with our modern classrooms of today.

Education Students Present First Student Assembly

"Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition," and "The Marine Hymn" echoed through the Auditorium as students joined in the singing of popular songs of the last world war and those of the present war, Wednesday, November 21, when members of the elementary education department sponsored the first student assembly this year.

The members of the E. T. P. C. branded themselves definitely as "school teachers" by putting on a chapel program in observance of National Education Week.

Skits were presented to show the progress made in elementary education since the days when our mothers attended school. Students dressed in the clothing of thirty years ago dramatized a typical school of that period, followed by a dramatization of the present day schoolroom.

Thirty-Three Men Enlist When Recruiting Board Visits College

Thirty-three Youngstown College students enrolled for the armed services last Wednesday and Thursday when a joint army-navy-marine corps recruiting board visited the school.

Officers in the party included Lieut. C. M. Franklin, representing the Navy V-7 program; Capt. M. S. Wilkinson in charge of the Army Air Forces; Lieut. Commander Charles A. McNeil, medical examiner for the Army Air Forces.

Lieutenant Commander McNeil complimented both the college and Youngstown youth when he told college officials that the college had the lowest percentage of applicants physically disqualified of any school he has visited so far.

Among enlistees were Michael J. Kirwan Jr., who is in the Army Reserve Corps, unassigned, son of Congressman Michael J. Kirwan; and Arthur T. Gundry, son of ed by a dramatization of the present day schoolroom.

Eve Mehit, a junior in the elementary department, directed the program.

Sig Delts Sponsor Holiday Dance

The Sig Delts will hold their annual Turkey Tangle Dance next Friday night, November 27, in the school auditorium. Starting at 8:30, Jack Jennings and his orchestra will furnish the music for the evening.

See that your Thanksgiving dinner is properly digested, grab your best girl, and come. Be sure that you bring those raffle tickets that you bought from one of the brothers. The prizes will be given at the dance.

Dean Wilcox Announces "Who's Who" Membership

Membership Given To Outstanding Juniors and Seniors in College

Dean Wilcox announced last week that ten Youngstown College students have received memberships in "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges". Who's Who is the only national means of recognition for honor students devoid of fees or dues.

"DIKE" DOODLES

A short time ago a wave of interest in the significance of doodling swept the country. Perhaps that's why some of us take notice of it when we see it. At any rate, we've discovered that Dike Beede must be the champion doodler of them all. He doodles on anything that is handy at the moment. Some of his scribbling shows a definite sense of humor. One of the more coherent ones which was salvaged in the Publicity Office is the following:

I. Publicity Office

a. Athletic Dept.

b. Culinary Dept.

c. Applied Dept. etc.

The purpose of this project is to serve as an outstanding honor in which a deserving student, after displaying merit in college, would be given recognition; and to establish a reference volume of authoritative information concerning the great body of American's leading college students.

Receiving membership this year are Esther Hill, George Garink, Rosa Costa, Robert Ameduri, Angelyn Masto, Brigitta Holstrager, Ann Dolney, Wilfred Foley, Margaret Aubery, and Mike Maruskin.

Henry Bartolo, Nancy Fitori Kubina, Lou Dolan, Frank Kitko, and Roy Passon were on last year's list.

Carolyn Higgins Accepts Position in Chicago

Youngstown College has lost another efficient worker, and more important than that, an endearing personality in the departure of Miss Carolyn Higgins. The charming individual with the provocative coiffure that made her resemble a French doll had been with the college for seven years. She has accepted a position in Chicago with United Airlines as an accountant.

Miss Higgins is a graduate of the business school and also holds a degree from Ann Arbor, Michigan.

Dead Turkey Hop To Be Dec. Event

The date for the annual Dead Turkey Hop has been moved forward to December instead of November, when the dance has been held in past years.

The dance will be held at the college auditorium December 5. Morris Abramovitz is general chairman of the Hop. A local band will play for dancing from 9 until 11; admission will be your activity books.

WE APPRECIATE

We wish to extend a sincere thank you to Station WKBN and the Lyden Oil Company for broadcasting the Geneva game. The broadcast was appreciated by many students who were unable to attend the game.

Cast Begin Rehearsals For "Twentieth Century Lullaby"

The cast for "Twentieth Century Lullaby", first play of the season, was announced last week by Will Foley. The play will be presented shortly after Christmas vacation in the college auditorium.

The cast is as follows: Gizella Oras will take the part of Mary, the mother; Rayma King will play the part of a temperamental bride, and Betty Gleason will play the role of the Madonna.

The Preservation of Freedom

There is one basic requirement for successful development of the educational process, and that is freedom. The unique service of the small liberal arts, co-educational, church-related or independent colleges is in my judgment the maintenance and preservation of freedom.

Perhaps some ideal of the size for a small college may be obtained by considering the size of the "colleges" or "houses" into which the great universities are breaking up their college departments in an attempt to recapture the virtues of the small college. It is believed that the very fact that a college is small makes for freedom and individualism.

The study of the liberal arts in itself means that emphasis is being placed on mental training rather than on the imparting of information or still less on specialization or technical training. To learn "how to think, not what to think," is the goal of the study of the liberal arts; its effect is to train the mind for any emergency.

Coeducation means adaptability. It means doing the same thing for growing young men and women that the skillful forester does for trees, that is to say, growing them as far as possible in the altitude and environment in which they will live. They will work together in life, why not in college? College affords a unique opportunity for the development of mutual understanding between men and women.

A church-related or independent college means first of all a college free from any kind of state school. It is submitted that the maintenance of this type of college is absolutely essential to the preservation of "The American Way."

This is not an attack upon our great state universities or other state-controlled institutions of learning, which are just as essential in our national life as are the church-related and independent colleges. Eliminate the non-state college or impair its freedom, and the freedom of the state institution will disappear and there will be no freedom anywhere. This is not to say that any type of educational institution is absolutely free. Possibly it would not be for the best that any one educational institution should be absolutely free from any influence from any quarter, but it is essential if education is to remain free that no single influence should control all educational institutions.

Finally, a word should be said as to the place of the distinctly church-related college. Such an institution brings its students into contact with what unbelievers as well as believers must concede to be one of the great motivating forces of human life, religion.

It is certain that the Christian college which seeks to produce men and women who love their country so much that they are not only ready to die for it but to live for it, needs to rest, and so far as it properly may, to make it easy and natural for its students to rest upon the "everlasting arms."
 —William Guilen Dennis, president of Earlham college.

Campus Comments

By GENE PLANCHAK
 ONCE AGAIN ANOTHER NAME IS ADDED TO THE PASSING PARADE OF "CAMPUS COMMENTS" COLUMNISTS. HIRAM WALKER, EVERYBODY'S "BOB", SURRENDERED THE "PEN" FOR THE GUN TO BECOME ONE OF UNCLE SAM'S FIGHTESTEST FIGHTING SONS IN THE ALREADY "VICTORY SWEEPING" ARMY OF THE RED, WHITE, AND BLUE.

I was greatly shocked when I heard, by means of the grape-vine the quotation, "If you don't like it here, go elsewhere and eat—we don't want you to eat in the cafeteria." With all my heart I hope this is merely an unfounded rumor. At a football game when I see a student cheering for his alma mater with all his heart and soul, I wonder, sometimes, if his alma mater is doing the mutual thing. Our cafeteria is just as much a part of our school as our books, our professors, and even ourselves. Let's do something about it. (What say, student council)

Now that initiation of potential greeks is in full swing—How's it going, pledge? Not a day passes that the "ever-so-familiar" lounge doesn't see a bright new shiny paddle make its debut, which means that its sister paddle most probably met with a dead end the previous night. Of course, I'm speaking now of the fraternities—the sororities are much more civilized in their initiation; they refrain from the vulgar and take in a good show or a rough game of bridge. The Fraternity pledges will have to admit, though, that with each "crack" received, they are so much more closer to their active brothers. (And I don't mean with the fist)

Seriously now, life with the greeks during initiation has a great number of benefits. One of the most important is that they teach you how to take it, which, sometimes I think, is more difficult than dishing it out. After it's over, all of those happy and sad incidents that occurred during the "testing period" will become part of the most treasured memories of your life.

I read a humorous incident that happened to two football players in the Vindicator that I feel would be worth re-telling for the football fiends that hover in the lounge. It happened that two football players were hurt during a game and were sent to the hospital. They were bored with laying in bed with nothing to do so they asked the nurse to get them a deck of playing cards. The nurse went out and looked for some but there were none to be found. One of the football players got up on an elbow and pointed to the nurse's desk and said, "How about those?" The nurse replied, "You'll hardly be able to use those; they're index cards for the hospital patients." They'll do, said the other player and then they began their unusual game. At the termination of the first period in their game, one player said to the other, "I have a full house, three tonsillitis and two broken legs". The other player responded; "I've got you beat—five enemies, a royal flush".

By JIM ORGILL
 In the fifteenth century in Rome there lived a man named Machiaveli. Among his many and varied vicious characteristics was the absence of human feelings and conscience. I think most of you have heard of him and some of you will be in a position to study first hand, his modern counterpart here at Yocco.

I speak of course of the "bloody" Greek, that diabolical character who bowlessly wields the paddle at initiations and at night upon the cot in his cell tosses and turns the vicious little wheels grinding out his malevolent plans. To the trembling pledge who will ultimately meet this sorcerer I can only advise the maximum in discretion and obedience. Of course I might also caution said sorcerer and advise him to modify his behavior, but you see I'm a trembling pledge.

The modern thinkers latest kick is the grading system. Understand, I don't object to the modern who thinks nor to the ideas produced as in this case the abolition of the grading system, but I do question the source of the thought.

More than once this semester I've been drawn into a controversy on this very subject. More often than not the criticism was far from constructive although the rebellion is justifiable enough. Stripped of its extraneous points their argument is this: The present system is subjective, exams fail to consider the emotional factor involved, and that grades produce inferiority when low and unwarranted superiority when high. All this is very true but you, with head in hand, what are you going to submit in its place?

I SAID BEFORE THAT I QUESTION THE SOURCE OF THOUGHT. IN A FEW CASES THE CRITICISM COMES FROM THE STUDENT WHO IS FAILING THRU INDIFFERENCE OR LAZINESS. HE REBELS AND AS AN EMOTIONAL RELEASE ATTEMPTS TO "STRANGEE" THE GRADING SYSTEM. SOME OF IT LOOKS TO ME LIKE THE COLLEGIATE FORM OF "TEACHERS' PET".

There's a heavy black cloud above the colleges and universities throughout the country and it might at any moment burst emitting a torrential rain of abuse.

John Q. Public, his eye on the Army, Navy, and Marine, reserve students is muttering something about "hiding behind the schoolhouse". This title statement is an admission of John's unfamiliarity with the purpose of the reserve program. Nevertheless, he is muttering and the reservists are going to have to do something about it. It's obvious to me that there is only one thing that can be done, and that is stop the idle loose chatter which only provokes John and throws the school in a bad light.

IF WE, AS STUDENTS, CAN KEEP OUR HEADS DURING THIS EMOTIONAL PERIOD AND SUBTLY TURN ASIDE THE PETTY JIBES OF EVERY LITTLE CONTAMERIOUS CRANK THEN THE SCHOOL AND OURSELVES WILL BE BETTER FOR IT.

On This Thanksgiving Day

Once again we come to that day in the year when we Americans give thanks to God for benefits begot.

Thursday for the first time in many years we will be celebrating a Thanksgiving during wartime. However, we Americans have a great deal for which to be thankful. Perhaps many of us—our brothers, fathers, sweethearts, and cousins—won't partake of this Thanksgiving dinner; perhaps there won't be as many sweets on the table, perhaps we won't take that Thanksgiving ride into the country; but in spite of all this we still have a great deal for which to be thankful.

On this day we'll thank God for the fact that we Americans are still permitted to celebrate Thanksgiving Day; that in spite of the war, we still enjoy our freedom; that our homes and liberty are protected by our men in the armed forces. And most of all we thank God for the courage to look forward to a better, happier, and more prosperous Thanksgiving Day!

Looking Around

With Norma Malin

Thanksgiving always seems to mark the time when all good people get down to work and energetically prepare for a strenuous winter. Football and rushing seasons have gone the way of all flesh; your parents have had a look-see at those first disastrous grades; your latest crush has left for the marines—so-o-o you suddenly find yourself making trips to the library, handing your term papers in on time, almost, and raising your hand in the classes you have now started to attend not infrequently. The worm that was you has turned, your frivolous autumnal days are over till next year, the serious business of winter lies ahead, and you set your mind to work. For this Dear Lord, let us give thanks—and we hope we haven't been too optimistic.

Well, kids, we have an absolutely authentic engagement to announce this time, diamond ring and everything. So help us, Betty Miller, if this one is a joke we shall turn in our copy and retire—and another good journalist shall be lost to newspaperdom forever. My humblest and most public apologies to TR and CY—okay, men?

Since this is Thanksgiving we intend to be properly grateful for all the good things around campus this year. Let's take a for instance—how about Hiram's legs or Valentini's wit—or Mary Dolwick's gorgeous complexion?

Praise be for things like Jim Keffer's hale and hearty hawhaw, the sunshine of Angie Vagnozzi's dimpled smile, and the quiet charm of Rina McKinney's personality. The fun one gets from watching the current hand-holders; they seem cuter every season. Beverly and Tommy, for instance, or Dorothy and George. We can't go away without mentioning a few other items like the sight of Helen deCicco's sable tresses and the sound of Gizella Oraz's voice. All these things and more I do acknowledge and for them I am properly grateful—the Old School wouldn't be the same without them. But here's where we shamefacedly admit that we wish we had a small share of them all to ourselves.

The recent influx of men on furlow, Joe Bevington and Fred Lanz seem to be getting more than their share. One had the feeling there was something lacking, seeing Eddie Rose and George Kalivas minus their drape shapes. It looked like old times with Eddie playing cards in the lounge.

There's lots of new activity around school—Jim Orgill reports that they are starting a new debate club—Alpha Rho Tau—art Fraternity to you—is becoming active. Opera and play practice is eternally going on in the auditorium again.

Goodbye now and be good. Pay heed to these extra pounds a roast turkey adds.

Attend Noon Dancing Sessions

Youngstown College students are asked to do their bit for the War Bond Campaign by attending the Thursday noon dancing sessions.

Student Council urges all students to attend. The student dancing started two weeks ago for the purpose of collecting money to buy war bonds and stamps. All contributions, no matter how small will be appreciated.

Comedy of War

It was the noon hour and a certain dramatic individual was telling this story.

"He hadn't been in the air corps very long when I received a letter saying that he had picked up something nice for me which should be coming in the next mail. It arrived—a bright gold satin pillow case with purple airplanes and best of all a very touching poem. I cried myself to sleep thinking that he had hunted up a poem so appropriate for me. Then an other friend joined the navy and in a short time I received a letter saying that he had picked up something nice for me. It arrived—a bright pink satin pillow case with gold ships and the same touching poem. I was disillusioned—almost. The other day I got a letter from a fellow in the army saying that he had picked up a little something for me. It arrived—a nifty lapel pin and was I surprised."

Ft. Knox Tops Penguins 7-0

Victor Able To Register Only One First Down Durring Fray

Youngstown College's gridders pushed a considerably heavier Fort Knox Armorer eleven around for two quarters, saw their opponent take advantage of a break early in the second half to score a touchdown, and dropped their final game of the season of mud here this afternoon, 7-0.

It was a heart-breaking finale for the Penguins, who after bowing in two of their first three engagements had run up a string of five triumphs over Western Kentucky State, Geneva twice, Illinois Wesleyan and Toledo University.

On every occasion that the Penguins got their attack in high gear it was stalled by the treacherous footing of the post's parade ground gridiron. They outrushed their foe, limiting the Armorer's to one first down during the entire encounter, and had a decided edge in every department of the game with the exception of punting and the final score.

Stopped on 15-Yard Line

Chalking up five of their first downs in the first half and going once to the Fort Knox 15-yard line before being stopped, the Youngstown eleven was pretty well trotted during the second half principally through the medium of Halfback John Spirida's expert punting. It was a long boot by the former Washington Redskin that set up the Armorer's score.

After the Soldiers tallied at the outset of the third stanza, Youngstown was kept well in its own territory. Perl made a good showing with his kicks, averaging 33 yards, but was no match for the more experienced pro star, Spirida.

Penguin Seniors Play Last Game

Alex Wolansky Cyril James John Padach Leo Mogus

Sport SLANTS

By Ben Williams

With this column we herald the ending of the 1942 football season, the fifth season for Youngstown College on the gridiron. Let's take a look at the 1942 football results and see how our Penguins made out.

Youngstown	14	S. Dakota State	0
Youngstown	7	Western Reserve	21
Youngstown	7	St. Vincent	19
Youngstown	40	Western Kentucky	6
Youngstown	20	Geneva	0
Youngstown	35	Illinois Wesleyan	6
Youngstown	31	Geneva	12
Youngstown	39	Toledo	19
Youngstown	0	Fort Knox	7

From the scores we can see that the Penguins lost 3 games and won 6 for an average of .666. The Penguins scored 193 points to 90 for their opponents.

During the five year period that they have been on the gridiron the Penguins have scored a total of 768 points to 380 for their opposition. They have won 28 games, tied two, and lost 14. Eight of the 14 lost were lost during the first two years.

The Fort-Knox game was the last game for Cyril James, Leo Mogus, Alex Wolansky, and John Padach. All four gridders are popular and are great football players. Youngstown will miss these boys and we wish them the best of luck.

Al Perl finished the season with 13 touchdowns to his credit. I wonder if he is superstitious?

Many of the Penguin gridders will be in the armed forces before the 1943 season rolls around. Most of the gridders are enlisted in either the Army or Navy Reserve.

We are sincerely regretful to hear about the death of the father of Matzie Perontoni, former Penguin star. Matzie was a great football player and we offer him the condolence of the whole school in his bereavement.

Now that the football season is over we must turn our thoughts to the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays which will soon be upon us. We wish everyone a happy Thanksgiving. We all have so much to be thankful for that it's difficult to list everything, but let us not forget that we still live in America and that we enjoy freedoms which are enjoyed in no other part of the world.

Basketball season will soon be starting and we hope to have the basketball schedule in our next column. So, we will be seeing you at the basketball games. Come out and cheer for our boys and they will do their best for you.

Harold Teen says—

"On the level folks, we've all got to buy more War Bonds! Let's top that 10% by New Year's."

Penguins Top Toledo 36-12

Youngstown College's football machine continued riding the brain as they bowled over the Toledo University's Rockets 36-12, in a magnificent display of speed and aerial cunning last November 15th at the Rayen Stadium gridiron.

It was the Penguins fifth straight triumph and their sixth win in eight starts for the campaign and marked their final home appearance of the year.

Although Al Perl, the jackrabbit freshman halfback, and Veteran Tony Aiello, whose aerial bombs were striking the mark incessantly, are singled out as the stars of last night's humbling of Coach Speares aggregation from Toledo, the entire Penguins eleven must be given credit for its splendid team play, the combined efforts of all enabling the chosen few to bask in the limelight.

Perl chalked up three of the Penguin markers, racing 55 yards on one occasion, 49 on another and tallying the other on a pass play that netted 64 yards. Aiello in addition to passing the foe dizzy, went over for a score himself, and pitched touchdown passes to Pete Lanzi and Leo Mogus.

On top of it all the Penguins registered a safety and in an effort to show everything in the book, attempted a futil goal.

Ensign Kennedy-Ray former student, was married to June Michaels, Monday, November 23. June is a teacher at St. Elizabeths.

"Facts about wartime"

"I never saw a fighting man who didn't cherish the very thought of a pause with Coca-Cola. That goes for workers in factories, too. Ico-cold Coke is something more than the drink that answers thirst. It adds the feel of refreshment.

"In war, Uncle Sam restricts the supply. But there's still enough for many refreshing pauses."
