YSU to raze many old buildings to provide more area for parking

by Linda Porter

Many of the old buildings on campus will be razed as new structures are built and more area will be provided for parking according to Nick Leonelli, director of Campus Planning.

The long awaited opening of the Technical & Community College building which has been postponed several times, is scheduled for classes spring quarter.

Scheduled to be razed in the future are The Jambar building, the Executive Office building which presently serves as offices for the President and two vice-presidents of the University, Dana and the practice studio in the rear of it, the Counseling Center, the Animal House, and the Linder House which serves as offices and studios for the Dana School of Music.

Leonelli explained that although it is impossible at this time there are also plans to tear the Pollock House down. He said that the Pollock House is very expensive to maintain, does not give maximum service to students and is not equipped for the handicapped. However it is in use presently and will be on campus for the time being.

After Dana is razed the area will be used for parking. The music department then will be housed in Bliss Hall now under construction on the corner of Wick & Spring. Now that Maag Library is opened the old library and the Tod Hall Complex will be remodeled in order to house the President's and other administrative offices.

Where the Executive Office building is now located there are plans to construct a bridge that will cross over Wick Avenue and

Winter Weekend well attended, provided range of activities

Winter Weekend activities were highly successful and very well attended, according to Mark Shanley, coordinator of Student Activities. The Weekend which started with Half-Assed Tuesday, an amateur talent night in the Pub, provided a wide range of student activities throughout the week, and concluded with a skiing trip to Blue Knob on Sunday.

Half-Assed Tuesday, presented talent such as K.J. Satrum, assistant director of Kilcawley Center, Sue Schaeffer, music, and Ann Steward, music, doing a Supremes type singing routine, with K.J. as the lead singer, and later Jim Senary, Student Council chairperson, playing the piano. The talent show climaxed a day that also saw students Tom Wasko and Tom Jones win the "chug a yard of beer" contest, with Wasko accomplishing the feat in seven and a half seconds. Dean of Student Affairs Charles McBriarty won the contest in the faculty/staff beer drinking competition.

Wednesday's activities were equally well-attended, noted Shanley. "The rock group Island played in the Snack Bar from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and was so well received that other such concerts have already been budgeted in next year's Fall, Winter and Spring Weekends."

Shanley stated that the after-game party in the pub with Kink-Relief Nite entertainment was well-attended; Woodwork had played.

Thursday's Winter Weekend activities included a Casino and Old-time Saloon, which were set up in the Snack Bar. Ten women students were dressed as saloon girls for the event and ten men dressed as gambling dealers, said Shanley; at one point, he noted,

YSU Vets to stress active participation

YSU Veterans Organization held its initial meeting Thursday, Jan. 22 for the purpose of acquainting interested students with the purposes of the organization. These purposes are to permit active participation for the vet on campus socially, politically, and economically.

The immediate objective of the organization is to reach out to those interested vets and provide them with the help they may need to orient themselves and adjust to the university environment within an organizational framework of people who have shared the experience of service in the armed forces.

Mention was made of all the handicapped vets on campus who are not receiving full recognition of their various impairments received in duty. An attempt will be made to secure these people special consideration.

A primary objective of the organization is to ensure that the veteran be made aware of all government action affecting veterans' benefits and to make sure that all benefits to which they are entitled be secured for their use. This is not a radical organization but one working for the veteran.

The purposes of the organization, as enumerated in the constitution, are to encourage veterans to university life. This includes sponsoring meaningful social functions, arranging transportation and parking for handicapped veterans and providing a book loan service within the organization.

A special point was also raised that those veterans whose benefits are late in coming have trouble when registering. It was suggested that an attempt be made to allow a waiver of payment for 30 days while awaiting arrival of benefits. If membership is expanded and the organization pulls together as a group, this may be possible.

Mention was made that YSU has the largest number of veterans on campus as compared to other state funded institutions, and is without an active veterans organization. Plans were made to contact all local and national vet organizations to maintain communication and ideas concerning those areas of interest to vets, including feedback on all government-veteran interaction with veterans.

Membership now stands at 25 active members and three associate. Eligibility for membership is simply that one be a veteran and a member of the student body, faculty or staff. Associate membership is also available for all interested members of the University community.

Acting officers are Hal Timberlake, president, John Siwicz, vice-president, Ray DeCarlo, secretary, and Steve Martoncik, treasurer. The advisor is Dr. James Dale of the social science department. Interested persons may contact those listed or attend meetings at 3:30 p.m., which will be held the first Thursday of each month. The room number will be listed in the Campus Calendar.

Council selects four reps. for Michigan conference

Student Council Monday voted on four representatives who will attend a collective bargaining conference to be held in Ann Arbor, Michigan. The representatives are Jim Senary, chairperson of council, Bill Brown, president of student government, George Glaros, council member, and Ed Sturgeon, former council chairperson and former student.

Brown argued in favor of Sturgeon's inclusion in the representatives going on the basis that he and Sturgeon have been together on collective bargaining sessions before. Sturgeon also offered in his defense the fact that it would not be the first time a non-student has been funded to provide services to the students. He said his function would be primarily to compare notes with Brown on the last conference they had attended on collective bargaining.

Liz Strouss is the fourth choice to attend the conference should any of the forementioned people be unable to attend. It was announced prior to the vote that reservations had been made for a double hotel room and that should a woman be named a

Dancers to perform at YSU in Feb., noted innovators

Dan Wagoner and Dancers of New York, who will participate in a dance residency program at YSU in February, are noted for being one of the country's most innovative modern dance companies.

The seven-member troupe will visit YSU Feb. 17-21, conducting a lecture/demonstration, technique classes and seminars, and climaxing their Youngstown residency with a public performance Friday, Feb. 20, in Stambaugh Auditorium.

The Wagoner group began to emerge as a performing modern dance company in 1968. Dance Magazine reported in 1974 that Wagoner "has developed a repertory distinguished by imagination and vigorous movement and has emerged as a prominent choreographer." His company has toured England, South America, the US and India.

Wagoner's inimitable style is influenced by his upbringing in the West Virginia hills and his varied dance background.

The Wagoner troupe will conduct a lecture/demonstration for area school children in Beeghly Center Wednesday, February 18, and technique classes and seminars for dance students.

The lecture demonstration will be held in cooperation with the Youngstown Public Schools and the Junior League of Youngstown as part of their Arts Holiday Program.

The poet, George Montgomery, who associated with the dance company and whose poetry is utilized in Wagoner's performances, will visit YSU drama and English classes.

A special performance will be presented at 8:30 p.m. Friday, Feb. 20, in Stambaugh Auditorium. Tickets, $2.50 for students in advance, and $3.50 for general admission, are now available at the University Ticket Office in Beeghly Center.

The residency is sponsored by the University's Bicentennial Committee. The engagement is supported in part by a grant from the Ohio Arts Council with funds provided by the Council and the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal agency.

Adams Chronicles
The Adams-Chronicles is a series of thirteen hour-long dramatizations of American history from 1750-1900. It premiered at 9 p.m., Tuesday, Jan. 20 on PBS and will continue in the same slot. The series was funded in part by the National Endowment for the Humanities.

The historical narrative focuses on formative periods and events in America's past, as seen through the lives of four generations of the Adams family which gave the US its second and sixth presidents.

YSU Counseling Center offers personal, vocational counseling

by Greg Garland

The purpose of YSU's Counseling Center at 615 Bryson Street, according to Dr. George Letchworth, Counseling Center director, is to offer a counseling facility for students who have something on their minds—whether it be vocational or personal.

The goal of counseling, as defined by Letchworth, is to "expand students' awareness and capabilities and to help them become more accepting of themselves. By increased awareness they become better students, better citizens, and better human beings."

Vocationally, the Counseling Center helps students who are uncertain about what field they want to go into. They look closely at a person's interests to see how they might fit into the world of work.

A person's interests may be determined by an "interest" test that is given at the Counseling Center. The test is composed of around 350 questions dealing with how a person spends his/her free time, what kind of books he/she reads, and so forth. The answers are fed into a computer which compares them with the interests of people in various areas of employment.

The academic goals of a student should be reality-oriented, said Letchworth, but he added that a student has to do what he wants to do. "The world of work must be looked at differently," he said. "Many jobs aren't available and there is no indication the situation will change. People may have to go into jobs they may not like but that doesn't mean they cannot pursue their interests on their own time."

Letchworth noted that personal matters often become involved in vocational counseling. "Matters such as family influences are important and must be dealt with," he said.

Letchworth said some of the personal problems they counsel vary from people having problems with their boyfriends or girlfriends to the marital problems of older students and the adjustments of older students to university life.

This period of a person's life involves many adjustments, he noted. Students are undergoing a "cultural shock" in moving from their family to the outside world. "We try to provide a place to talk over these adjustments," he said.

In addition to individual counseling, Letchworth added, they offer two to three growth groups every quarter. The growth experience offers people a chance "to come in better contact with their feelings and to experiment in an environment free of the risk of ridicule and criticism."

Letchworth said there generally has to be a crisis, personal or vocational, before a student seeks help at the Counseling Center. He outlined three crisis periods that often occur: When the undecided student comes closer to his junior year and must choose a major; during registration, when a student must decide whether or not to continue with school; And right after grades, when a student may have failed to do what he/she set out to do.

Letchworth said that problems build up for many YSU students because they work and go to school and just don't have time for their problems. But, he added, living at home means they have their parents to rely on for some help and guidance. "This is positive," he said, "but it is negative in that it sometimes

Fulbright posts are still open for 1976 exchange

A number of lecturing positions remain available in all parts of the world in the 1976-77 Fulbright-Hays exchange program for college and university faculty member.

Applications will be accepted until nominations are made for each position. Several openings exist in the following fields: American history, literature and studies; anthropology; business administration; economics; education; engineering; geology; life sciences; linguistics and English as a foreign language; physics and political science.

A few spaces also are open in several other fields, and in research for both senior and junior scholars. Some positions in Africa require fluent French or Portuguese and in Latin America fluent Spanish, but English is acceptable in most other locations.

Applicants must be United States citizens and have qualifications appropriate for the post. Further information may be obtained from the Council for International Exchange of Scholars, 11 Dupont Circle, Washington, D.C. 20036. Please indicate the discipline, specialization and any geographic preferences.

Political Spectrum

Liberal, Conservative and Far Out: An Analysis of the Political Spectrum, a lecture by Gordon D. Hall, Beacon Press Author and columnist, will be presented at 8 p.m., Friday, Jan. 30 at the First Unitarian Church, Elm Street and Illinois Avenue.

Hall has done extensive studies on political label profiles and political extremism throughout the US. The lecture is free and open to the public.

inhibits a person from becoming independent."

Letchworth sees this, independence vs. dependence, as the underlying component to most problems. Parents have a stake in the student being dependent, he explained, and the student has some stake in remaining dependent. But the student also has a societal and individual stake in becoming independent—learning to be responsible for his own life.

Access

Yesterday's decision by student council to send former student Ed Sturgeon on an expense-paid trip to a Michigan collective bargaining conference was grossly irresponsible.

Brown's contention that Ed has to be there because he knows more about collective bargaining than any student on campus (and possibly on earth) doesn't make any sense.

Why should Sturgeon go to Michigan with the students footing the bill with their general fee money when he won't even be back on campus to benefit anyone with his newfound knowledge?

Why not send one of the many other student council members who wanted to go? They'll be back next year.

If Sturgeon knows more about collective bargaining than any other student, it is because student power has been concentrated for too long in the hands of the Big Two, Brown and Sturgeon. Why so jealously guard the knowledge? Why is access so carefully controlled?

The clever snow job laid down before council yesterday by Brown was carefully planned. And the pity of it is that members of council swallowed it, twisted reasoning and all.

The only hope, for the students, is that Dean of Student Affairs, Charles McBriarty will veto the move.

Finds Lyden article 'depressing'

To the editor of The Jambar:

I found last Tuesday's Jambar article praising our newest Trustee, William Lyden, quite depressing to say the least. It is rather hypocritical when a member of the Board of Trustees of a state university cites as two of his primary goals expansion of the sports program and the building of a stadium. This is supposed to be an institution of higher learning, it is not the National Football League.

Granted an athletic program is somewhat of an asset to a large university, if for nothing else as a promotional gimmick. But expansion? Sure, why not?

Perhaps we should buy our own hotel so that all the teams can get a "good night's sleep" whenever they feel like it. Maybe we should double the size of the football squad, take up a collection, and send them to Columbus to serve as tackling mannequins for Ohio State. If nothing else they might learn something about football.

Mr. Lyden also cited further physical growth as a goal for YSU. Now, seriously, if the buildings presently under construction are ever completed what possible need could there be for any further construction besides, of course, adequate parking facilities? I think Mr. Lyden's labor and union interests surface rather bluntly here. Expand east to Andrews Avenue; better yet, why don't we tear up our fancy sidewalk network and put in a new pattern of triangles or stars?

I fail to share in the glimmer of hope that Tuesday's article portrayed. If I may use the words of my good friend Geoffrey Gay, I am afraid that our new Trustee will only serve to carry on YSU's "tradition of sublime mediocrity."

Exposes 'misguided' Mr. Zabel

To the editor of The Jambar:

On Jan. 22, I attended the breakfast meeting held by Pres. Coffelt. Mr. Zabel was invited but did not attend. Obviously, he stayed up all night, thinking up metaphors for his disorganized, tilted ideas he poured forth on this newspaper, in graphic form. Thus, his "overly-pampered" and "frail little ass" was not the only one which didn't make it to school. (In reference to last Friday, Jan. 23 issue) I now wish to entirely expose the misguided Mr. Zabel.

I feel that Mr. Zabel's letter is filled with inaccurate remarks, conceived in stupidity, and racked with childish emotion.

Initially, there is an undiscovered parking lot off of Walnut Street, and student council has generously had maps drawn up with the directions to this new lot. Student Council Pres. Billy Brown discussed this in the breakfast meeting, so when you go to get your maps from Student Council tell them Billy Brown sent you.

As for Mr. Zabel's ridiculous suggestion to raise the cost of the parking stickers, might I say that it is a fallacy to think that raising the price of bread could help the poor starving masses to feed themselves. Mr. Zabel's suggestions runs along this same line of contention.

It has also been brought to my attention, that Mr. Zabel lives close enough to the University to walk, and thus does not require a parking sticker. Mr. Zabel does not even own a car and therefore, he knows neither the time nor the frustration it takes to find a parking place on campus.

Thus, I consider his opinions prejudicial and derogatory towards the people who don't have the convenience Mr. Zabel has of living next door to YSU. Also, Mr. Zabel, anyone who works in Youngstown, lives in Youngstown, or puts a penny in any parking meter pays money into this city.

In conclusion, Mr. Zabel, I feel that your circular reasoning proved nothing except that your ideas represent a miscarriage of thoughts. In a battle of minds, you haven't come fully equipped. I'm afraid that The Jambar must have lowered their high standards to allow your highly emotional response to this serious problem of parking and fees. Might I remind you that YSU is a commuter college, and that you represent a very small faction. But I'll make you a deal, Mr. Zabel. I won't tell you where to put your sidewalks on the Northside, and you don't tell the people of YSU where and how to park.

Terms letter 'piece of trash'

To the editor of The Jambar:

We were very provoked that a recent letter, suggesting that the parking fee be raised to $20 was published in The Jambar. It was an insult to the normal college student's intelligence (for that matter even the abnormal ones). Such a pointless piece of trash is light years below the dignity and maturity of a typical student in Gabe Kotter's classroom.

It is beyond us how such a student, upon completion of high school and acquiring senior status at college, can still have such limited argumentative vocabulary as nincompoops, rectum-rejects, etc.

It should also be pointed out that God has nothing to do with the parking situation, the police force, or our taxes. Needless to say, it is easy to see how the author felt that his vulgarity added strength to his viewpoint, for it has been said that profanity is the effort of a weak and feeble mind to express itself forcibly. Ordinarily such a monumental work of literary ignorance would have gone by unacknowledged but hopefully this will discourage others from writing in a similar fashion.

P.S. For any faculty member who may have lost their faith in the student body, as a result of last week's letter, it might be reassuring to know that very few share equivalent amounts of scholastic achievement; that being nothing at all.

Compares 'Honest Joe' to Lincoln

To the editor of The Jambar:

I'd like to talk about Joe Zabel's letter to the editor. (Jan. 23) Joe said, "I, for one, am delighted that car-driving YSU students are having such a frantic time finding empty space to clutter with their foul-smelling, ugly-looking, environment-wrecking pollution machines..." From this sentence, I must gather that Joe, poor dear unfortunate Joe, doesn't drive. He says that Lincoln walked numerous miles, to school every day; who said Lincoln would have walked if he had access to a car? So, Joe wants to be like Lincoln—I bet he also lives in a log cabin.

Joe fails to see the importance of adequate parking. One important structure of any university is to have order, not disorder. Go ahead Joe, look up the word order in your new dictionary, you seemed to use goddam, frail little asses, and nethergas nincompoops very well.

Also look up the word M-O-N-E-Y. Yes Joe, these are hard times like in Lincoln's day, and raising parking to $20 is not a very wise thing to say.

I'd like to close by saying that if anyone should see a guy walking down the street wearing a beard and stove type hat, you'll know it's "Honest Joe."

Says agency fee 'discriminatory'

To the editor of The Jambar:

I laud the statement of the YSU-AAUP Executive Committee that in support of academic freedom, the YSU-AAUP "stands opposed to any attempt to coerce faculty members to join any organization to which they are philosophically opposed."

Permit me to comment further on the financial inequity of Article XX of the Agreement which the YSU-OEA Chapter proposes to enforce, through court action if necessary.

Members of the YSU-OEA Chapter pay $118 a year in dues. Out of this amount, $25 goes to the NEA for national affiliation, $65 goes to the OEA for state affiliation, plus another $3 goes to the state for a regional fee. This leaves $25 in the treasury of the local chapter. If I am forced to pay the $118 agency fee and choose not to join the OEA-NEA, then $118 stays in the local treasury.

Why should I be forced to support the local chapter to the extent of $118 a year when the members contribute only $25 a year to the local treasury? I maintain that an agency fee amounting to 472 percent of the contribution of the members is highly discriminatory and inequitable.

Yet the only alternative under the present Agreement to this unfair "tax" is to join an organization to which I am philosophically opposed.

Gives solution to YSU-OEA crisis

To the Editor of The Jambar:

While I fully endorse the statement of the YSU-AAUP in the Jan. 23 Jambar supporting academic freedom and opposing coercion in the matter of the agency fee, I can also understand the desire of the YSU-OEA for some financial support from the other members of the bargaining unit to defray expenses involved in performing necessary services.

Fortunately, there is no real obstacle to a reconciliation of these opposing views. The statement in The Jambar to the contrary, the contract does not require "all faculty members to pay a $118 annual service fee to the OEA." Article XX merely requires non-members to pay "a service fee equivalent to the amount of dues uniformly required of members of the Association." Since "the Association" is clearly defined in Articles I and III as only the YSU Chapter of the OEA - not any of "its state or national affiliates" the amount in question is obviously only that portion of the dues that remains in the treasury of the local (YSU) chapter for expenses arising from direct service to YSU faculty.

Since the contract is clearly and unequivocally between YSU and the YSU-OEA, any interpretation that would force unwilling financial contributions to third parties would obviously be a violation of due process and without legal standing, particularly since these unwilling contributors had no part in either the negotiation or the ratification of the Agreement. However, attempting to circumvent this problem by requiring a larger contribution to YSU-OEA from non-members than from members would be a violation of the "equal protection" clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. And, of course, the entire concept of the agency fee is extra-legal at best, since a bill attempting to legalize such a transparent attempt to circumvent the state "open shop" law was vetoed by the Governor just last fall.

Since the Executive Committee of the YSU-OEA are all reasonable people, who must surely be cognizant of these facts, they must realize that any other interpretation of Article XX would not only be in conflict with the Constitution, academic freedom and the Agreement itself, but would create bitterness, dissension and divisiveness within the bargaining unit. Since everyone is aware of the material benefits the YSU-OEA has brought to the entire faculty, however, I am likewise confident that non-OEA members would be perfectly willing to pay the "more equitable fee" recommended by the YSU-AAUP.

Here we go again! The general fees...$36 per quarter...$108 per year... what are they? Where do they go? and who says so?

The general fee was established by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio by an Appropriations Act. This Act allows the board of trustees at a state-assisted university to set a fee not to exceed $30 per quarter for a student, to help defray the university's expenses. The general fees are to be used for non-instructional services performed for the benefit of enrolled students. YSU students (full-time) pay $36 a quarter, while other university students, such as Kent's, must pay the maximum figure of $50 per quarter. After the first day of classes the fee is non-refundable.

For the academic year 1975-76, YSU expects to collect over one million dollars in general fees. This money ($1,216,800) will be allocated into twelve areas. The areas are:

1975-76 Appropriations	% of total
Intercollegiate Athletics	43%
Kilcawley Center	28
Career Planning & Placement Office	8.6
Student Government	6
Neon	4
Jambar	2
Artists & Lecture Series	0.9
Dana Concert Series	0.7
Drama	0.6
Forensics	0.4
Penguin Review	0.4
Graduate Student Assembly	0.2
	$1,216,800

As you can plainly see the major share goes to Intercollegiate Athletics. What you don't see is that nearly $220,000 of the Athletic Budget goes for athletic scholarships. Perhaps it is too much of a dream, to think that YSU would realize that universities and colleges were founded as institutions of higher learning and not as farm systems for the pros. But if you are one of those who realize this and are also one of those individuals who are tired of subsidizing an athlete's education you could start by making yourself known to the Subcommittee on the Allocations of the General Fees. This subcommittee is composed of five student members and three administration members. The students are selected on the basis of position they hold. The five student members are James Senary - Student Council Chairman, Mary Makatura - Jambar editor, Bill Brown - Student Government President, Cindy Getting - Athletic Dept. Representative, and Don McTigue - Kilcawley Center. The three administration members are Charles McBriarty, Dean of Student Affairs, Dr. Looby - Special Ass't, to the President, and Mr. Rook - Vice Pres. Financial Affairs. This subcommittee makes recommendations on the total general fee allotment for each of the twelve areas to the University Budget Committee composed of nine administration members. The UBS has the final decision on how the fees are to be used.

If you are fed up with paying for someone else's education besides your own and tired of subsidizing a non-making business, then get in touch with these people and let them know!

YSU sophs can become eligible for two-year ROTC program

YSU sophomores not currently enrolled in Military Science may still become eligible for the two-year advanced Army ROTC course, LTC David Longacre, Professor of Military Science, announced this week. This same opportunity is available to junior college and community college graduates who will be entering YSU next fall.

Longacre explained that students who do not take the basic ROTC course, Military Science I and II, may qualify for advanced ROTC by attending a special six-week summer program at Fort Knox, KY.

At the basic camp, students receive instruction in military drill, tactics, history, weapons, communications, and leadership techniques.

According to Longacre, "The ROTC basic camp stresses leadership development. Its purpose is to bring the student to a level of military education and experience which will allow him or her to enter the advanced course next fall."

For most students, completion of either the basic course or the basic camp is required for enrollment in Military Science III and IV. "However," Longacre added, "veterans normally receive credit for the basic course based on their prior service, and can enter directly into the advanced course."

The Military Science Department will be interviewing prospective candidates for the summer program until 31 March 76. Students interested in basic camp and the advanced course should contact the ROTC Instructor Group, at YSU.

"Or," said Longacre, "they can call me or CPT. Carrol Howard at 746-1851, extension 296 or 297, and we'll be happy to talk about the two-year program."

It's got several advantages and benefits that we think many students will be interested in."

Basic camp cadets are paid about $500 for the six weeks of training. While at basic camp they also receive free room and board and are reimbursed for transportation to and from Fort Knox.

Students in the advanced course are paid $100 each month of the school year and upon graduation are commissioned as second lieutenants in the US Army.

Buildings razed

will connect with the new parking deck which will be located on the southeast side of the Art & Science Building near Walnut Street. The architects Dalton, van Dijk & Johnson have already been contracted to begin designing the project that is scheduled to get under way before the end of the year, said Leonelli.

Jones Hall will be remodeled shortly after the completion of the old Library/Tod Hall project. It will then serve as administrative offices and will house the Dean of Admissions, records, registration, the Registrar's office, Financial Aids, Student Offices, Career Planning and Placement Office and possibly others.

A classroom office building is being built behind Kilcawley in an area that previously served as a parking lot and will house all the arts and sciences except four of the science disciplines—biology, physics, chemistry and geology all of which will remain in Ward Beecher.

Leonelli said that the University is still in the process of acquiring land in the Walnut Street area for parking. He said that the University hopes to eventually take all of Smoky Hollow for parking. Leonelli said that once the new parking deck, which will hold a minimum of 1500 cars, is ready for service, the area behind Beechly will be done over to make outside classrooms for the Physical Education Department. The new parking deck should be open within 18 months said Leonelli.

Once Dana and the practice studio are razed, commented Leonelli, the area will also be used as parking space.

Asked about the rumors that YSU will get a stadium, Leonelli explained that it was merely speculation as there is presently no money with which to construct one.

Leonelli said that YSU's expansion projects for the future will not carry the campus across Fifth Avenue or further up the North Side but only in an easterly direction in the Smokey Hollow area.

Winter Weekend

there were about 250 students for the five game boards set up. He said that next year Weekend planners hope to expand the Casino and Saloon and have about ten game boards.

Prizes were auctioned off after the gambling ended and players bid for a pocket calculator, an instamatic camera, an AM/FM digital clock radio, and a 12-inch black and white TV with the play money they had won in the Casino and Saloon.

An estimated 5 1/2 million dollars in play money was given away to "gamblers", who then bid on the prizes. Shanley stated that the digital clock sold for $850,000 in play money and the TV went for $3,800,000. Next year, he said, a lottery will follow the night of gambling because there were many complaints from students about individuals consolidating their funds in order to be able to outbid the big-money winners.

Summarizing Friday's activities, Michele Mousseau, assistant director of Kilcawley Center, stated that Rainbow, an area rock band, played in the Pub for Happy Hour and, as usual, the hour attracted a good crowd.

Shanley noted that the dance with Mojo at the United Steel Workers Union Local Hall was successful, with 400-450 people in attendance, but next year he hopes to hold the dance on campus since there were problems with security, such as students not showing up with I.D.'s.

Other weekend activities also were successful, stated Shanley; they included two fraternity parties and a skiing trip to Blue Knob, which was attended by about 40 people.

Penguins lose 63-54 to Nebraska-Omaha

A hot shooting pace in the second half enabled nationally ranked Nebraska-Omaha to defeat YSU Saturday night, 63 to 54 before 4,560 at Beeghly Center.

The loss was the fourth in thirteen outings for the Penguins and temporarily derailed Dom Rosselli's march to the 500 victory circle.

The visitors jumped out to an early lead until the 11:17 mark of the opening half when YSU guard Gerald Parks sank a 20 footer tying the contest at ten. Parks later sank a shot from the top of the key to give YSU a 27-24 half-time lead.

The shooting of forward Bob Carlson, (9 points), and the rebounding of forward Frank Andrews were instrumental to YSU having the lead at the midway point.

Jeff Covington opened the second half with a basket for YSU. Unfortunately, the Mavericks ran off nine unanswered points to regain a 33-29 lead over the Penguins. While YSU was cold and erratic shooting in the initial seven minutes of the final half, the visitors upped their lead to a commanding 49-35 margin before a three point play by Carlson temporarily gave momentum back to the Penguins. With 6:50 left Parks scored chipping Nebraska-Omaha's lead to 49-42.

However, the visitors increased the margin to 55-45 with four minutes left and held on to a 63-54 victory.

The shooting statistics of both teams in the second half and the rebounding department tell the story of the game. The visitors sank 15 of 24 while the Penguins made only 10 of 36 in the second half and 22 of 62 overall. The Mavericks also held a 50-38 edge in rebounds.

Covington lead with 19. Carlson, the team's lone standout on the evening scored 14 and, hustled throughout the contest.

YSU will entertain Wilberforce Wednesday night and Steubenville Saturday night at Beeghly with both games scheduled for an 8 p.m. tip-off.

delegate, more funds might have to be allocated to cover the expense of a separate room.

Senary reported to council on the expansion of medical facilities on campus. He said he has received complaints from students who don't feel that a nurse can handle all medical problems on campus. He suggested that a physician be on call, perhaps full-time and assigned a committee to review the situation.

Senary also mentioned a plan that he was working on with council vice-president Chuck Owens to extend the hours of accessibility to the new library, especially on Sunday. The plan was to conduct a student survey of the number of students who use the new library.

Liz Strauss was elected to fill the post that Ed Sturgeon formerly held on the Kilcawley Board. This post must be held by a member who will be in for at least a year. It gives council a voice in the various policies of the Center.

Intramural teams move closer to playoffs

Intramural basketball was in full swing over the weekend and a few teams inched closer to earning a spot in the playoffs.

The Blue Hens, pacesetters in their division, got an 18-point performance from Dave Kyle to dump the previously unbeaten Eyeballs 62-35. The Ohio Players and Brown Dirt Cowboys, both undefeated in Division 6, edged closer to a showdown with victories over the Warlords and Buckeyes respectively. The Players prevailed 62-36 while the Cowboys squeaked by 36-34.

The Roundballers, led by Tom Mako and Don Lee, dumped Canadian Club 39-23, while Aaron Mitchell's 28 points led Surprise over Cool Blue 61-31.

Ron Denson's 27 points paced the Commodores past Morton's Marauders 71-39 while Cliff Stoudt's 26 points and Don Gibson's 20 led the Gamecocks to an 86-10 drubbing of the Bleacher Bums. A balanced scoring attack led Squash to a 48-38 win over the Sox while the Nads and Cards captured their tilts subduing Circle K and the P.E.

Majors respectively. In other independent action the Engineers knocked off previously-unbeaten Mad Dog 42-38 and Ron Sinata's 30 points led the Stars to a 48-31 win over the Boozers.

The highlight of the evening saw the Kilcawley Diseases need five overtimes before finally putting away the Bombers 51-50. Randy Montgomery led all scorers with 19 points.

Fred Thomas led White Lightning to defeat Valley Crew 66-11, while a balanced scoring attack led the Whiz Bang Gang to a 64-10 victory over Sons of the Valley Crew.

The Mean Machine topped the Green Wave 31-28, and Ruane Concrete toppled the Lonely Hearts Club 48-22.

BMF defeated the Golden

Bears 37-28, while the Terps put down the Hopeless Wonders, 40-23. The Adidas got by the Saints 28-15, with the Quantas Bears having no trouble putting away the K's, 63-37. Flash nipped the Dunkers by a 40-37 count and the Denver Nuggets bested the Winners, 64-42. The Jayvees, led by Chuck Bobosky's 24 points, rolled over Matza Bella 45-6, while Saturn's Saints got by AIBS Turtox 44-37. Bob Skupienis had 20 points in a losing effort.

The Turkeys got by the North Side Blues 50-33, with the Celtics having an easy time with the Scarabs, 55-35.

Gaining wins via the forfeit route were Alpha Phi Omega, the Smooth Shooters, the Average White Team, the Conquistadors, the PCB All-Stars, and the Family, one of the pacesetters in division 1.

In the fraternity division, Theta Chi, led by John Georgiadis' 18 points, rolled past the Kappa Sigma's, 60-30.

Elsewhere, a balanced scoring attack led Alpha Phi Delta past Sigma Tau Gamma 54-30, and Phi Kappa Tau's Steve Goske looped 27 to lead them to an easy 53-34 win over Phi Delta Theta. Phi Sigma Kappa toppled Sigma Alpha Epsilon 35-11 while Dan O'Bruba's 18 gave Sigma Chi Alpha a 42-16 win over Tau Kappa Epsilon.

In women's action, Bridget Mahoney had 10 points to lead Benny's Jets over the Pork Chops. The Carnation Creamers were victors via the forfeit route.

Gymnasts edge West Virginia ; Marik, Pallante, Catheline excel

Martha Pallante, Lorraine Marik and Pam Catheline led the YSU gymnasts to a slim victory over West Virginia, 86.90-85.35, Saturday at West Virginia's Coliseum.

YSU now has compiled a 3-1 record with the only loss being to Slippery Rock on Jan. 20. The next meet is 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 4 at Beeghly against powerful Kent State.

West Virginia proved to be stiff competition this year, partly because they gave four scholarships this season. In vaulting, YSU placed first and second with Peggy Lesigonich scoring 8.00 and Pam Catheline 7.95 although West Virginia led the running score after the first event, 23.60-23.35.

Lorraine Marik scored 7.90 to place second in floor exercise for YSU. Sue Simko and Pam Catheline tied for third at 7.45. Running score was now 46.95-46.15 still in West Virginia's favor. The balance beam again proved to be YSU's weakest event even though Martha Pallante, with an excellent performance, captured first place with a 7.25.

After three events YSU was trailing 66.05-64.30 but outscored West Virginia on the uneven parallel bars to win the meet. Pam Catheline was first with a 8.10 score and Lorraine Marik placed third at 7.75. YSU placed first, second and third in the all-around event. Lorraine Marik was first at 28.80 individual points, Martha Pallante was second at 28.35 and Pam Catheline finished a close third at 28.30.
