

Plans for fund raising unveiled for stadium

by Greg Gulas

Plans were unveiled for the raising of $3 million to make possible the construction of a sports complex on the YSU campus at a press conference held last Friday in Kilcawley. Serving as chairman of the campaign will be Frank C. Watson, president and secretary of the Youngstown Welding and Engineering Company.

Outlining the plans for the fundraising campaign, Watson noted that, "The Mahoning/Shenango Valley community has the unique opportunity to join with YSU in building a comprehensive sports complex of which the entire area can be proud." Since it will be a community effort and project, it will be open to the community for various community functions.

Noting that the Trustees of the University have provided $3 million, of which includes the purchase of the land as well as money for the site development, Watson added, "We now have the challenge to match university funds for a 13,000 to 16,000 spectator stadium. State funds are not available for spectator facilities."

The total project is divided into three phases, the first two of which (site development and a successful fund campaign) will complete the major external components of the total sports complex.

Planned for the stadium will be readily available press and broadcasting areas, public facilities to include elevator, concession areas and restrooms. Also planned are an electric scoreboard, stadium lighting, players and officials' dressing rooms, coaching offices and equipment storage.

The third phase will be the development of educational and administrative staff facilities within the stadium shell and the development of additional recreational areas for basketball backstops, outdoor handball, volleyball and badminton courts.

Assisting Watson in the fundraising campaign will be six area interest groups. They are William G. Lyden Jr., president of Lyden Oil Co., who will head the initial gifts division; Thomas J. Travers, board chairman, Commercial Shearing Inc., advance corporations; R. Thornton Beeghly, president, Standard Slag Co. and Metal Carbides Corp., advance

May festival to promote awareness in creative arts

YSU's campus will be filled with colorful and informative demonstrations, programs and exhibits during a nine-day period in May known as Creative Arts Festival: Expressions '77.

Nearly fifty events are now scheduled for the festival which aims to promote an awareness in the fine and performing arts.

The festival will be held May 7 through 16 and application deadline is Dec. 3. Mark Shanley, coordinator of student activities and committee chairman, explains that even though the committee has received applications from many campus groups, "we are particularly

Jazz Ensemble to appear in concert on Wednesday

The YSU Jazz Ensemble will appear in concert at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 10 in the Multi-Purpose Room (old cafeteria) of the Kilcawley Student Center. Both the senior Ensemble, which swept both big band and small group competitions at last year's Wichita Festival and the new junior band will appear. The senior Ensemble has been invited to appear at the National Jazz Educators' convention at Daytona in January.

Appearing with the YSU Ensembles will be an all-star group from the Thad Jones-Mel Lewis big band; a band which has dominated jazz polls for several years. The group includes leaders Jones (trumpet and flugelhorn) and Lewis (drums); Greg Herbert, tenor saxophone; Pepper Adams, baritone saxophone and Dana graduate Harold Danko on piano. Tickets are $3.00 from Jazz Ensemble members. Proceeds from the concert will be used toward the band's travel-expenses to the Daytona festival.

Winners of the Student Affairs survey contest are: Daniel R. Pressly Jr., senior, business, and Sherry L. Collins junior, CAST. Both Pressly and Collins will receive a Texas Instruments Model 30 Electronic Slide Rule calculator.

Senary argues that council members don't seek feedback

"Either the students are so apathetic that they don't know what's going on or else you aren't doing your job," was the statement made by Jim Senary, Chairman of Student Council, to council members regarding lack of student feedback at Monday's meeting. Senary complained that although he requested council members to talk to students and see what problems they have "as of yet I haven't had any feedback."

Senary also suggested that students support the idea of a full-time intramural director. "I think the program's expanded now to where it is a full-time job." In other council business a motion based on request by Afro American Chorale to take money from this years music fund to pay for a debt incurred last year was defeated.

The Policy Publication Committee discussed their plans considering talking to various people on where to put posters around campus and other problems relating to student signs.

Ignazio terms campus housing situation 'varied'

by Steve Roberts

"Housing is so varied here that you could get anything from a cottage near a waterfall to a shack by a sewer." This statement made by Anthony Ignazio, housing inspector for YSU, describes the varied housing situation on and around the YSU campus.

Students desiring to live near school can choose among three types of housing: the on-campus YSU dorm, the off-campus YSU approved but privately owned and operated dorm or apartment or the off-campus, privately owned, non-endorsed apartment. Each alternative offers advantages and disadvantages from which a student must base his or her decision.

The only on-campus dorm owned and operated by the university is the Kilcawley men's Residence Hall. Any male student is eligible to apply for a room. A $50 security deposit and $375 dollars for the first quarter are paid and rent thereafter costs $350 per quarter. This figure, which includes meals, qualifies Kilcawley as one of the least expensive alternatives. Although there is a waiting list for the dorm's approximately one hundred double units, rooms become available as students move off campus. Despite rules and regulations enforced in the dorm, including room inspections, visitation policies and conduct standards, students often return after trying off-campus life. Three quarters of the dorm's 206 residents (including five resident assistants and a resident director) are from out of state.

Although there is currently no YSU dorm for females, the soon-to-be-abandoned Arts and Sciences building, which was once a motel, could be converted to meet this shortage.

The second choice, for the majority who prefer off-campus homes, is in YSU approved units. Although the housing office sets standards and recommends these dorms and apartments, YSU is in no way responsible for their operation. A list of these approved apartments is available in the housing office. Despite the fact that these rooms are sometimes expensive and in some cases such as Lincoln Towers and Buechner Hall, have strict rules and regulations, waiting lists are not uncommon. One reason for this is their all but guaranteed superior living standards. All approved apartments must meet specific requirements set by the university, including health, safety, and fire standards. The landlord must then agree to annual and occasional surprise inspections to insure the upkeep of the property. Any legitimate complaint made by a student involving an apartment's failure to meet the regulations and standards set by YSU could, if not corrected by the landlord within the allowed time period, result in his being heavily fined. With the exception of the dorm-type facilities, most of these apartments have few, if any, rules governing the student's conduct. This extra measure of personal freedom and privacy, and the high standards set by the university, make these off-campus apartments highly desirable.

The third type of housing is off-campus, privately operated and non-approved apartments which vary in size and condition. Since the university is in no way responsible for the rental of these apartments they are sometimes not as well maintained as the other types. The houses around the campus are mostly about sixty years old and have the problems one would expect. Since the loosely enforced city standards are the only ones controlling the condition of these homes, a student must usually take what he can get. Still, they are mostly inexpensive private homes where one can do whatever he or she pleases, within the bounds of his or her own choice, rather than the university's.

According to Ignazio, to entice or draw out-of-state students, a university must be able to offer them good housing. If YSU hopes to maintain its growth rate, it will have to take an active hand in obtaining or building new housing.

First table tennis tournament sponsored by YSU student government association

The first Youngstown Open Table Tennis Tournament, sponsored by the YSU's student government, will be held on Nov. 13 in the Multi-purpose room in Kilcawley Center.

Cash awards will be awarded as follows: "A" singles, first place will receive 25 percent of class "A" entry fee. Second place will be given 15 percent, third place and fourth place will win five percent of the class "A" entry fee.

Trophies will be given to all first and second places in all other classes. All entries should be received by Thursday, Nov. 11. Equipment to be used includes ten tables and Nittaku balls.

Players must wear solid dark colored clothing and sneakers.

In regards to eligibility, the combined Womens and Junior event, is open to all women, regardless of age and all men under age 17. Class "D" is open to all players with a USITTA rating under 1300 or novice players only. Class "C" is open to all players with a USITTA rating under 1450 or an average table tennis player. Class "B" is open to all players with a USITTA rating under 1650 or an advanced player. Class "A" is open to all players. If you are unsure of your eligibility for an event enter and your money will be refunded if you are ineligible.

A consolation event will be held at 4 p.m. Saturday for any first round loser in any event.

Make all entry fee checks or money orders payable to Stanley Wolf, 115 Wick Oval Youngstown, Ohio 44502.

Tourney rules state that no sandpaper paddles are allowed and all players must abide by all United States Table Tennis Association rules.

All events will be played on Saturday, Nov. 13. The cost and times are as follows: Combined Juniors and Womens—$1.00 at 10 a.m., Class "D"—$1.00 at 11 a.m., Class "C"—$2.00 at 1 p.m., Class "B"—$2.50 at 3 p.m. and Class "A"—$3.00 at 5 p.m.

Gary Fagan, one of USA's top players and Charles Butler who has traveled with the Harlem Globetrotters conducting halftime table tennis demonstrations will be conducting a free table tennis clinic and demonstration during the tournament. Both players will be available for coaching and demonstration throughout the day. The clinic and demonstration are open and free to the public.

Anthropology Colloquium

The Anthropology Colloquium, in conjunction with Student Government, is sponsoring a field trip, this Saturday, Nov. 13, to the Indian mounds at Chillicothe, Ohio and to the Columbus Museum, Columbus.

The trip, which will return the same night, is open to all members of the university community but reservations must be made by Friday, Nov. 12, since there are only a limited number of seats left. Cost to non-colloquium members will be $5.00.

Call Gaye Nikolin, president, Anthropology Colloquium at 744-3614 for complete details.

Wacky Slapstick

Mel Brooks heads up this video week with his wackiest comedy starring Zero Mostel and Gene Wilder as down and out theatrical producers with a "foolproof" plan to make a fortune by producing a Broadway flop. The play Springtime for Hitler, starring Dick Shawn, is of course a hit. A wild slapstick romp ensues as the producers try to "save" their project.

All Video Week Programs will be shown daily in the Kilcawley Center from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Video Nights will be held in Kilcawley Center and will feature the video program of the week and student produced tapes. Video Nights begin at 8 p.m. in the Pub and are free.

Education Center

A Teacher Education Center will be established in the Canfield Elementary School, winter quarter, 1976. The following courses will be taught at the school site: Education 812, Education 813, Education 801, Education 708, and School Arts.

Enrollment is limited to fifteen students who have completed student observation, who need all the courses in the block of courses. Applications may be obtained from Regina DeMatteo, Elementary Education Department. Further information can be provided by Dr. Roderick, Coordinator of the Teacher Education Center projects for the Department of Elementary Education.

Visiting Professor

The YSU Mathematics Department is pleased to announce that Professor Morris DeGroot from Carnegie Mellon University will be visiting our campus on Nov. 9. He will present two lectures on statistics.

The first lecture entitled "Statistical Fallacies" will be at noon in Room B031 of the CAST Building. It will be at a level suitable for persons who have taken or are taking a one quarter course in elementary statistics.

The second lecture entitled "Choosing the Best" will be at 3 p.m. in Room B031 of the CAST Building. This lecture will be at a more advanced level. It should be understandable by persons who have taken or are taking a second course in mathematical statistics or the equivalent.

Professor DeGroot is a fellow of the American Statistical Association, and of the Institute of Mathematical Statistics and is an editor of the Journal of the American Statistical Association.

The lectures are partially supported by the American Statistical Association, the Biometric Society, the Institute of Mathematical Statistics and IBM Corporation.

For further information, contact T. Dillon, Math Dept.

Barbershop Quartet

The Austintown Rotary Club is sponsoring the 28th annual Youngstown Barbershop Quartet Show. "Happy Birthday Uncle Sam" at 8:15 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 19 in Powers Auditorium. It features The Youngstown Chapter Barbershop Quartet and the Western Reserve Chorus Bluegrass Student Union Quartet (4th Place International Medalist, 1976) and the Expression Marks Quartet, Lima Ohio (District Finalists). All seats reserved. Tickets are $3.50 and $4.50.

Special student prices $1.75 can be purchased at the Student Government office by contacting Jim Senary.

Tickets Available

Advance tickets for Equus, the award winning Broadway play, are available at the Kilcawley Music Listening Lounge Desk. Tickets are $3.50 for students and $5.00 for non-students. All tickets sold at the door will be $5.00. Equus will be presented Nov. 14 at Powers Auditorium.

Complex situation

Well, they are really going through with building the new sports complex. The University is going to try and raise 3 million dollars to build a sports showcase that, supposedly, will be used by area schools in addition to the Penguin teams.

The Beeghly Physical Education Center was built on the same idea several years ago, that area schools along with YSU teams would be able to use the facilities. To date only a few local schools have taken advantage of YSU's offer, one main reason is because the rental fees and the like are much too high for small school budgets.

The plans that have been revealed in today's Jambar will be implemented as soon as the money has been gathered. Hopefully when the complex is completed the same thing that happened to Beeghly will not happen to it.

One last comment on the complex; how in the world will the YSU Penguin football team fill the seating capacity of the complex (estimated at between 13,000 and 16,000) when they have continual trouble filling the Rayen Stadium (around 10,000)? Maybe a second look should be taken at our present Intersarsity Athletic program so we don't spend money for a fruitless cause.

Doris Burdman home offers many services to aid area residents

"I feel lucky to be working here at the Burdman home," YSU alumna Martha Katz said in an interview recently regarding the home, its functions and her position there.

The Doris Burdman home, located at 278 Broadway, was instituted to provide residential treatment for men and women after hospitalization for emotional problems. In some cases, it is an alternative to hospitalization, Katz said.

Katz, who received her M.S. in education from YSU in June of 1976, serves as a "family" counselor at the home.

Doris Burdman, for whom the home is named, started the program 20 years ago with her visits to women patients at Woodside Receiving Hospital. She presently resides in Youngstown and is still very active in charitable works, according to Katz.

Residents of the home are referred through Massillon State Hospital, Woodside Hospital, private physicians and mental health agencies. Referrals come from a tri-county area but Mahoning County referrals are given first priority, said Katz.

The home is funded through the Mahoning County 648 Board in conjunction with the mental health and retardation levy. Residents who can, pay a small fee monthly to cover living expenses. However, the home does not turn anyone away if they cannot pay.

The treatment for residents involves dividing them into three "family" groups. Katz explained that the "families" then meet for five days a week, one and a half hours each day for group therapy.

The "families" are also responsible for three chore areas; food preparation (residents do all the cooking), maintenance and outdoor area work.

Residents are encouraged to be independent and plan their own activities. A few residents have their own cars but for those who do not there is a van on the premises readily available to provide transportation.

There is a level system which determines the amount of freedom given to each resident. Level one includes new residents who are not allowed off the grounds alone. Level four includes established residents who are permitted maximum freedom, explained Katz.

The average stay of a resident is nine months. The present

YSU reference booklet provides instant information for area media

The University Relations Office at YSU has printed a booklet entitled, "Youngstown State University at Your Fingertips, The Reference Booklet of Youngstown State University." The booklet was prepared to provide area media representatives with background information on the University. Copies of the booklet were sent to all newspapers, radio stations and television stations within a sixty-mile radius of YSU. find this information, now he can look it up."

"There are certain things in this booklet that reporters would have a hard time finding otherwise," explained Phil Snyder, director of University Relations. "For instance, a sports reporter may want to know how the nickname 'Penguins' originated. Before there was no one single place where he could

Information provided in the booklet includes lists of the members of the YSU Board of Trustees and other administrative officers, a brief history of YSU, enrollment figures from 1930 to the present, admission information and information on the campus expansion program. The booklet also has a section dealing with Community Services which provides background information on the Artist Lecture Series, The Dana Concert Series, WYSU, the Planetarium, NETO (Northeastern Educational Television of Ohio), the Center for Urban Studies and the Office of Continuing Education and Public Service.

Although this is the first media reference book at YSU, Snyder explained that it really isn't a new idea. "Many Universities and colleges across the country have reference guides for the media and most of them have really helped the media give better news coverage to these universities," said Snyder.

The reference booklet was printed at a very low cost to YSU so that it could be distributed to the local media free of charge.

Dr. Householder becomes new chairman of YSU civil engineering department

Dr. Michael K. Householder, associate professor of civil engineering at YSU has been appointed chairman of the YSU civil engineering department, effective fall quarter. He succeeds Dr. John Cernica who resumed full-time teaching duties.

Dr. Householder, a YSU faculty member since 1968, received a bachelor of science in civil engineering degree from Valparaiso University and a master of civil engineering and Ph.D. degrees from Purdue University. His field of specialization is hydraulics and sanitary engineering.

Author of several research articles in his field, the Chicago native recently received a faculty instructional improvement grant for work on "Interactive Computer-Based Lessons Engineering Education." This summer he presented a paper before an annual conference of The American Society for Engineering Education on "Interactive Design of Wastewater Treatment Plants."

Dr. Householder, a Professional Engineer, is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers and American Society for Engineering Education.

Student Government, brought up the problem of student's posters being torn down. "If anyone is caught tearing down campaign signs a means of discipline will be taken." Senary added, "If any signs are seen being taken down, report it to Liz Strouss."

The discussion of constitution and by-law changes was brought up by Bill Yeaton. "The committee feels current by-laws are in sheer chaos." Changes are needed according to Yeaton because a lot of the by-laws are now ordered in a haphazard way. "The new changes are better structured." Senary felt the changes were "something Student Council needs and something that should be established."

These constitution and by-law changes were open for discussion to council. Council will vote on the passage of the changes at the next meeting.

The abolishing of Student Council awards was brought up by Mark Stec.

Council now gives pens to members who have served four quarters on council and plaques for recognition of special service.

Stec said, "I'm of the opinion that they (the awards) are unnecessary; traditions are fine but some traditions must be put to an end."

It was the consensus of council that such awards should not be abolished, with fourteen members voting to retain the awards and two members voting to abolish them.

Council also appointed Toni DiSalvo to Intramural Advisory Board filling the vacancy left by Lynn Johnson.

Jeff Gwin gave a report on the success of the Election Dance held last Friday.

Senary appointed Jeff Gwin and Debbie Nanni to serve on the committee for the Spring Arts Festival.

A consensus of council occurred in favor of changing the filing date average of 2.5 and points accumulated for acting and technical experience in YSU's Spotlight Theatre.

Dr. Bill G. Hulsopple, director of theatre, is advisor for the Eta Phi Cast.

A national honor fraternity recognizing achievement in university theatre, Alpha Psi Omega is dedicated to promoting growth, development, quality and interest in the theatre arts. The Eta Phi Cast sponsors Spotlight Theatre's cafe during the theatre's salute to a foreign country the month of February. In addition, Eta Phi is responsible for the annual spring awards banquet. The banquet recognizes acting and technical achievement and presents the Eddie Dowling Awards, named in honor of Broadway actor, producer and director Eddie Dowling.

Butler Art Show, student involvement

by Sharon Levy

YSU's art department can be very proud of its representation in the 38th Area Artists Annual which opened Sunday at the Butler Institute of American Art. Artists and craftsmen within a 40-mile radius of Youngstown (including former residents) submitted over 1550 items, of which 119 were selected for viewing by the judges who were Joseph and Algea O'Sickey of Kent.

Of this number, 17 current students, 14 former students and 11 faculty members were accepted into the juried show which will be on exhibit until Nov. 28. Rocco Guido, art department, feels that "the show is very representative of what's happening today." Diverse abilities and styles are displayed in the array of graphics, sculpture, crafts and paintings in the second floor galleries.

Paintings range from photo-realism to hard-edge with only a few abstractions. Michael Walusis, of the art department, exhibits another in his series of acrylics entitled, "Subway Graffiti, No. 21." This one differs from his others by the decorative use of white bands along the edges of the painting and by the incorporation of silver leaf squares.

Guy Shively's work projects photo-realism. Shively works with popular scenes and contemporary subject matter, disclaiming those critics who say our art department fosters only non-representational art.

Everyone can identify with the large box of crayons seen in the painting by junior, Robert Savage. Entitled "Crayola No. 2," Savage's work shows his concern with the placement of forms and shapes within the composition. His mixed media palette of crayons, wax and acrylics lends a painterly quality to his work.

The interaction of color planes is the problem defined in senior art student Howard Vari's large acrylic where areas of color advance and recede. A technique of sprayed paint is evident in the work of a former art student, Don Williams. "This is the last in a series of twenty paintings using this technique," Williams said. "While this painting has well-defined edges, my new work will have soft-edges. I am concerned myself with muted color changes with an overall tonal field and a limited palette."

A color response is evoked in a linoleum print by Edward Hallahan, another former student. Through a process of repetition and a building up of design and color, Hallahan's surface print emits a textural feeling. As he builds up his print, the original color color comes through the layers providing a relationship between the colors.

A different problem concerned Nancy Jo Bizzari, junior, in her print entitled, "Holly's Reflection." A conceptual artist concerned with recording situations and events, she has used the copy machine as her media in a print depicting the same scene in three different ways. Evelyn Faras, junior, has used the same media in her print, "Leather Jackets." Her composition is set in a grid pattern where her subject matter evolves into shapes. Bill Barron, an August graduate, made one of the two ceramic pieces in the show. His raku platter is the product of an ancient technique. He explained that the piece was fired in the kiln until the glaze became liquid and then the bowl was put in a trash can filled with hay, leaves and paper. The resulting smoke created a lack of oxygen in the can causing a reduction atmosphere taking oxygen from the pot and changing the glaze color; discoloring the clay to a greyish-black.

Barron's talents extended into the darkroom where his expertise is evident in his photograph entitled, "Enter: Laughing." By manipulating the paper under the enlarger, the artist has obtained a color print with a mirror image. Dr. Frank D'Isa, engineering, won an honorable mention for his color photograph of a lighted taffy store at night which he calls, "Tribute to Clyde Singer."

Another faculty member to win an award was Alex DiGiacomo, art, with his watercolor, "Times Passed." DiGiacomo received the director's purchase award.

The judges' first choice was Albert Parella's watercolor, "Thistle and Juniper," which also won the Friends of Art purchase prize for the permanent collection. Three additional cash awards were given: A hard-edge acrylic titled, "Diesel" by Doug Stewart won $100 and a lithographic by Jane Goldcamp called "Alligator Dream Cloud" won one of two $50 awards. The other $50 winner was Cleo William's pastel drawing of a seated girl "Debbie."

Donors of around $1,250 in prizes this year consisted of the director of Butler Art, the Institute and the Friends of Art. There were no solicitations of business firms as in previous years.

In addition to the money prizes, four honorable mention awards went to George Breckner for his watercolor scene; Martha Burlingham, this area's "grandma Moses," for her primitive, "Clover Hill Cheese Factory," to James Walker for his futuristic

Miracle Worker

by Debbie Vivalo

The first production of YSU Spotlight Theatre, "The Miracle Worker" was one of the finest examples of the versatility and extreme talent presented at YSU. Under the direction of Dr. Bill G. Hulsopple, the cast on the whole worked extremely well together to portray the hardships and obstacles that faced all involved with a blind, deaf and mute girl, Helen Keller.

Playing Helen Keller was Denise Tkach, a junior theatre major. Tkach gave a truly outstanding performance and totally captured the audience by her very realistic approach to portraying Helen Keller. Her movements on stage gave one the feeling of her helplessness and her detached relationship with her family.

The role of Annie Sullivan was played by JoEllen Pavlicko, a junior art education major. While portraying Helen Keller's tutor, Pavlicko gave an incredible performance as a young woman, who after facing many personal tragedies takes on the job of bringing Helen Keller into the realistic world in which she has been deprived because of her handicaps and her native family who did not know how to handle her. Pavlicko's ability to release and exert energy in the struggling scenes, when Helen Keller cooperates with her, is a pure example of Pavlicko's fine acting ability.

Other outstanding performances were given by Sara-Jane Pesick and Michael Miller, who played Helen's parents, Captain and Kate Keller.

Charles Lawrence, who portrayed Helen's half-brother, also gave a fine performance as a totally heartless young man who eventually realizes that the world does not revolve around him and there are others that need attention besides himself.

The production was hopefully an indication of the oncoming productions going to be offered here at the University. A truly sincere congratulations is due for all those involved with "The Miracle Worker."

Ballet

by Dina Novak

Four ballets, under the direction of Michael Falitico, will be presented by the Ballet Western Reserve on Saturday, Nov. 13, from 8:30 to 10:30 at Powers Auditorium.

The show will consist of Deux Valses; a neo-romantic ballet, Grand Faux pas de Deux; a comic ballet, The Duel, a dramatic ballet based on the poem, "Jerusalem Delivered" by Tasso; and the Side Show, a modern ballet performed by four men.

The Duel is a premiere ballet presented for the first time in Youngstown staged by guest choreographer Rachel List.

Robert Tupeper, YSU student, will be performing in Deux Valses and Side Show. He is a professional dancer and has been a member of the ballet company for four years. Featured also in this program from Detroit, Michigan, will be two new professional resident artists; Martin Andrews and Steven Nage.

WORKERS stamp sides of beef with inspection seal in Meat, the latest in a series of documentaries on American institutions produced for public television by Frederick Wiseman. Meat was filmed in Colorado and examines step-by-step the process by which Americans receive their beef and lamb. Meat will be broadcast Nov. 18 at 8:30 p.m. on Channel 45.

Fall Concert

Jay Friedman, principal trombonist of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, will be guest artist at a "Fall Concert" at 8 p.m. Monday, Nov. 15, in Stambaugh Auditorium, presented by the YSU Symphonic Wind Ensemble.

Friedman, who joined the world-famous Chicago Symphony Orchestra in 1962 at the age of 21, became the youngest principal trombonist of a major orchestra in 1965.

He studied at the Chicago Musical College of Roosevelt University and performed in the Chicago Civic Symphony and the Florida Symphony. This past summer he served on the artist faculty of the First International Brass Congress in Montreux, Switzerland.

Friedman will perform Larsen's "Concertino, Opus 45, No. 7" which encompasses twelve concertinos, one for each orchestral movement. "Concertino for Trombone," the seventh in the group, makes wide use of chromaticism in melodic and harmonic content.

The guest artist will also participate with the Wind Ensemble in a performance of Berlioz's "Funeral and Triumphal Symphony" and be featured soloist in the second movement, funeral sermon.

Tickets for the concert are available from Ensemble members or at Stambaugh the night of performance.

MEAT

"Meat," the newest in a series of films produced, directed and edited by Frederick Wiseman will be shown at 8:30 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 18 over Channels 45 and 49.

Filmed in Greeley, Colorado, "Meat" is the tenth of Wiseman's series of documentaries on American institutions. It examines the process by which Americans receive one of their main food staples—specifically, beef and lamb—from the auction and fattening of cattle and sheep to the slaughtering, packaging and retail sale.

The film details the slaughter and packaging process step by step, emphasizing the machinery involved, the people who run the equipment, raise the animals and handle sale of the products as the ways in which the whole field of meat production is becoming more systematic and computerized.

As with all of Wiseman's films, "Meat" depicts the daily activities of the institution and its employees and leaves the final answers as to its purpose and results to the viewer. Filmed in black and white, the program has no narrator or commentator to explain or interpret the filmed events.

A lawyer turned filmmaker, Wiseman made his first film in 1967, the controversial "Titicut Follies," concerning a hospital for the criminally insane in Connecticut. It was followed by "High School" (1968), "Law and Order" (1969), "Hospital" (1970), "Basic Training" (1971), "Primate" (1974), and "Welfare" (1975).

Winner of several Emmy awards for his work, Wiseman has been called "TV's only great documentarian." (Time Magazine).

Equus

Tickets are still available for the performance of "Equus" at 8 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 14, in Powers Auditorium by the American Theatre Production touring Company, a presentation of the YSU Artist Lecture Series and YSU Major Events.

Reserved seat tickets for "Equus" are being sold in advance at YSU's Kilcawley Center Music Lounge desk and at the door the evening of performance. General public tickets are $5.00, YSU student tickets are $3.50. A limit of two tickets per validated I.D. card is in effect. All tickets at the door are $5.00.

"Equus" is making its first national tour after being the first play to win all major Broadway awards. A stirring combination of psychological suspense and mythic thriller, "Equus" is British playwright Peter Shaffer at his best.

On one level the play unravels the story of a young stable boy who has committed a hideous crime of blinding six horses with a metal spike. On other levels, through the intense probing of the boy's psychiatrist, both actor and audience alike explore the forces at work in us—all sexuality, guilt, worship, power. The subject matter of this play is adult. It is suitable for mature audiences only.

First performed in London's National Theatre in July, 1973, "Equus" opened on Broadway in October of 1974.

Network

Peter Finch and Faye Dunaway both members of United Broadcasting Service discuss Finchs career with the station. The release, "Network" promises to be a real box office smash when it opens in the next few weeks.

New Years Party

by Neil Yutkin

The snows have begun to fall, and the cold November winds have swept the last traces of October twilight from the area. The wind has become cold and biting.

With the weather turning, so do our thoughts, to Christmas Break, and New Years. This year New Years Eve will fall on Nov. 19.

Kilcawley Center Program Board has planned a New Year's Eve party for Nov. 19. There will be a band, a clock counting down the time until midnight and tons of beer and chips and such.

In short, it will be a party worthy of New Years Eve, and it will only cost $.50 per person and will be held in Kilcawley's Multi-purpose room.

sculpture, "Towering City" and for D'Isa's photograph.

Hundreds of viewers attended the opening Sunday hosted by the Friends of Art. Polly Law, Poland, demonstrated the art of batik. The show will run through Nov. 28 and gallery hours are 1 to 5 p.m. on Sundays and 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays.

Faculty members represented in the show are: Al Bright, Mario Bertolini, DiGiacomo, Frank A. D'Isa, Mary D'Isa, Samuel Faccioben, Guido, Russell Harder, Jr., Beebs Newman, Walusis and Robert Yalch.

Students who have acrylics or oils on exhibit are: Joan Chopko, George Kovach, Sharon Bohm Levy, Gary Schlag, Shively and Vari. Tom Haverfield and Shively have watercolors displayed and Savage's work is listed under the mixed media category. Eileen Scragg and Levy have drawings in the show and Bizzari, Faras and Carlo Rubino display their graphics.

Photographs are exhibited by Susan Geer and Jeff Olsavsky and ceramics by Mary Bobersky.

Former art students in the show are: Barron, Eleanor Bostwick, Barb Burgermyer, Carol Gallo, Hallahan, Carole Lynn Johnson, Susan Klein, Polly Law, Mary Mayer, Ron Mistovich, Cheri Mohn, Patrick Simon, Blanche Weiss, Williams and Ken Yacavone.

This year only one item in each classification was accepted for showing by each artist.

Patty Jo Corron, 4572 Rita Ave., Austintown, a voice major at YSU, has been awarded the annual scholarship of the Warren Alumnae chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota international music fraternity.

Burdman Home

program has been in existence one year so there are no conclusive results as to its 'success'

...There has been successful rehabilitation for some and Ms. Katz is very optimistic it will continue.

There is training provided for YSU students through the University's sociology, psychology and guidance and counseling departments. These students work with the staff to get experience in their respective fields. Katz did her own 20-hour internship at the home and claims it was instrumental in her attainment of her present position.

The home operates under the direction of Roger White, a social worker. In addition, a psychiatric social worker does the referral interviews. At least seven staff members are YSU graduates, according to Katz.

Katz also mentioned the home's need for volunteers to teach sewing, music, carpentry, dance or any other skill or craft.

Volunteers are required to go through a training program of several weeks to encourage development of a professional atmosphere.

While the Doris Burdman Home in its present form is relatively new, its future looks bright provided funding levies continue to pass, Katz said.

She said she was also glad to have the opportunity to make people aware of the home and its functions. She encourages any student contemplating a career in the area of sociology or psychology to consider doing volunteer work at the home.

Katz, a 35-year-old divorced mother of two, began her college career in 1961. She received her B.S. in 1974 with a dual major of psychology and English. Recently she was part of a panel program on Channel 45 which dealt with divorce, presenting her views on the issue. Currently she is enrolled in a Gestalt Family Therapy Class at YSU.

Katz, a feminist, said she is happy to be able to put all her years of study into actual practice through her position at the home. She said perhaps she can be a positive example for other women who are trying to gain financial and emotional independence.

Action intensifies in Intramural football play

With only one week of action remaining in intramural football, several teams are still alive in hopes of gaining a post-season play-off berth.

In independent action this past weekend, the Bleacher Bums upped their record to 3-0 in Division I as they defeated H.O.A. 13-12 in overtime. Valley Crew remained alive in Division I as they defeated the Stars 21-0. This sets up the showdown for the Divisional Championship between the Bleacher Bums and the Valley Crew next Saturday. Also, the Adidas remain alive for the divisional title.

In Division II, the Burnt team won by forfeit over I Pheta. This as they upped their record to 3-0. Also, the Qantas Bears did the Kilcawley Diseases in as they posted a 7-0 victory. For the divisional title, the P.E. Majors, boasting a 2-1 record, must play Burnt this weekend. Should the P.E. Majors win, a possible three-way tie could occur with the Qantas Bears the third team involved in that triangle.

The Division III and IV teams were idle this weekend but will resume battle this Saturday and Sunday. In Division III, Theta Xi will square off with the All-Stars in hopes of nailing down a play-off berth. The All-Stars sport a 3-0 mark while the Xi's lay claim to a 2-0 mark. Theta Xi must still come back on Sunday to play the Hopeless Wonders also.

In Division IV, Gib Stitts and the Cardinals each sport perfect 2-0 records and will square off on Saturday at 2:00 p.m. with a post-season play-off berth in the offing.

In Division V, all teams were idle also with action resuming this Saturday. However, the Roundballers have already nailed down the divisional crown. They presently sport a 3-0 mark.

In Division VI, the Salug Gang and Austintown All-Stars do battle for the divisional crown as they will face off this Sunday at 10 a.m. In Sunday's action, the Salug Gang posted an 18-0 win over the Maroon Marauders while the Austintown All-Stars shut-out the Engineers to the tune of 26-0. Other action saw the BMF combine post a 33-0 whitewash of the Outlaws.

In Division VII, the APD Gang nailed down a play-off berth as they sailed past previously undefeated Red Pride, 13-0. APD finished the regular season with an unblemished 4-0 mark while Red Pride settled at 3-1.

In Division VIII, Bo's Pros nailed down a post-season berth as they won by forfeit over the Gamecocks. The Canadian Club also won by forfeit as the Sox failed to show in their encounter.

In fraternity action, the four teams nailing down play-off berths were Theta Chi, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Phi Delta Theta, and Sigma Chi Alpha. Theta Chi advanced by drubbing Phi Kappa Tau 33-0 and finishing the season with a perfect 4-0 mark. Sigma Phi Epsilon shut-out Phi Sigma Kappa 20-0 to end their campaign at 5-0. Phi Delta Theta topped Zeta Beta Tau 25-7 as they ended their season at 4-1. Sigma Chi Alpha also advanced to the play-offs as they finished their season with a 3-1 mark.

Other fraternity action had Kappa Sigma defeat Tau Kappa Epsilon 32-6, and Nu Sigma Tau break in to the win column via a 13-0 win over Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

In women's action, the Bleacher Bums defeated Bindas & Palermo 27-6, the OB's topped Danny's Angels 13-6, Benny's Jets handed Sigma Sigma Sigma a 21-7 setback and Women of the Valley Crew won by forfeit over the HPE Club. As it stands right now, the divisional races for the women will be announced this week by the Intramural department due to the amount of forfeits that have occurred.

INTRAMURAL NOTES: With

the weekend action now complete, the Intramural Rating Committee has once again placed the Roundballers at the top of the Independent division. The Roundballers collected all first place votes as they tallied 40 points, followed by the APD Gang with 33, Burnt with 32, the Salug Gang with 29, All-Stars with 23, Gib Stitts with 18, the Austintown All-Stars and Theta Xi tying for seventh with 14, Bo's Pros with 11, and the Bleacher Bums rounding out the top ten with 3 points. Points are tabulated with the first place worth 10, and so on down the line.

In the fraternity rankings, Theta Chi once again holds down the top slot as they collected every first place vote and a final total of 40. Sigma Phi Epsilon held on to the second slot for the second week in a row as they got 36 points followed by Phi Delta Theta with 31 points and Sigma Chi Alpha with 29 points.

The women's ratings showed Benny's Jets copped all first place votes and an eventual total of 40 points. Following Benny's Jets were the OB's with 35 points, the Bleacher Bums with 32 points, and the HPE Club with 29 points.

As an added note of interest in reference to the final week of regular season action this upcoming weekend, the possibility of a three-way tie is prevalent in divisions one and two, with divisions three, four, and six boiling down to the final game this weekend.

Also, the Intramural department has notified the Jambor that the Austintown All-Stars will square off against the Salug Gang at 10 a.m. on Sunday, Nov. 14. The IM director has looked at all angles and decided to replay the game over instead of awarding the All-Stars the game by forfeit. This action was all due to the protest of the Salug Gang by the All-Stars as to the eligibility of one of its players. Interestingly enough, both teams' defense enter the game without allowing a single point by the opposition all season long.

Penguins upset Eastern Illinois for third triumph

The end or more appropriately the ends were the beginning Saturday at YSU upset nationally ranked Eastern Illinois, 36-14, behind the superb play of defensive ends Ron Pentz and Quentin Lowry.

Lowry hit EIU quarterback Russ Zonca in the third period with Pentz grabbing the ensuing fumble out of the air and scampering 47 yards for the touchdown that broke the game wide open.

Coach Bill Narduzzi's Penguins (3-6), who held the Panthers nationally ranked rushing attack to 149 yards (137 below their average) are hoping for a second straight upset this Saturday at Central State (6-3).

The Marauders were beaten 23-0 at Hillsdale Saturday but have been ranked nationally much of the season by both the NCAA and NAIA. In fact, Coach Jim McKinley's squad will participate in the Dec. 4 Orange Blossom Classic against Florida A&M.

Pro scouts have made countless visits to Wilberforce to chart the Marauders this year, particularly to see the "Black Forest" front four that averages 235.8 pounds per man. The group is made up of Wallace Watkins (6-9, 260), Jim Ladd (6-4, 218), Curtis Anderson (6-7, 235) and Ulysses "Too Tall" Thompson (6-6, 230).

"They're so big that they can only put four men on the line without running over the sidelines," said Narduzzi.

This will mark just the second YSU visit to Central State, the first being a 27-14 Penguin victory in 1974. In that game, split end Russ Musiel returned a Marauder punt 70 yards for a touchdown to lead the come-from-behind effort. YSU holds a 4-0 series advantage, dating back to 1970.

Enroute to their lofty record, the Marauders have upset such notables as Ashland (35-13), Tennessee State (24-18), and Kentucky State (27-21).

CSU and YSU have met two common opponents—Eastern Illinois and Western Illinois. The Marauders bowed to both, 35-32 to Western and 24-8 to Eastern.

YSU upset Eastern, 36-14 and bowed to Western 28-12.

Youngstown native Jerome Harrell, a junior from South High, is a standout defensive back at CSU and nationally ranked as a kick returner.

Ball control, in Narduzzi's opinion, was the key to Saturday's big win over EIU. "We knew we had to maintain possession as much as possible since Eastern came here with the second best running team in NCAA Division II," said Narduzzi. The Penguins ran 78 plays to just 58 for the Panthers, outgaining the losers 330 yards to 231.

Fullback John Kinch led the way with 92 yards in 20 carries, increasing his career record for attempts to 523; while tailback Marschell Brumfield added 78 yards in 22 trips. Freshman Curt Huffman, used often in a Wishbone-type backfield, ran for 49 yards in 11 attempts.

Quarterback Cliff Stoudt, who at 6-5 may be dwarfed by the Central State defensive line, completed seven of 14 passes for 84 yards and one TD. Musiel caught four of them for 57 yards and the score, while tight end Emmett King added two receptions for 113 yards.

Freshman kicker Chuck Haynall wrote his name into the record book for the third time in four weeks with three field goals and 12 total points. With Jim Ferranti holding he made good on kicks of 22, 32, and 27 yards to eclipse the old mark of two field goals shared by himself and two others. Last week he set a Wayne State Stadium mark with a 72-yard punt.

Turning his attention to the defense again Narduzzi praised both Pentz and Lowry, as well as linebackers Greg Fitzpatrick and John DiDomenico.

"The ends did a terrific job," he said. "On at least two other occasions they were knocked down, got back up and made the tackle." Fitzpatrick and DiDomenico each intercepted EIU passes, while center Ed McGlasson and DiDomenico recovered opponent fumbles.

Women's field hockey team is top-ranked in northeastern Ohio with 10-5 record

The YSU's women's field hockey team, currently top-ranked in northeastern Ohio, spread its dominance into eastern Pa. last Saturday as they crushed the University of Pittsburgh 8-1.

The Penguins dominated all aspects of the game as they rolled to their tenth victory of the season. YSU held a 3-0 lead at the half and then exploded for five goals in the second half. Sandy Franks led the scoring with three goals followed by Cindy Burazer and Donna DeFiore with two apiece. Linda Marker scored one goal.

Pitt, a top-ranked team in eastern Pa., scored its lone goal with only ten minutes remaining in the game. On Sunday, YSU dropped a 2-1 decision to the Cleveland Field Hockey Association at Kent in an exhibition match. Franks scored the lone YSU goal.

Field hockey, boasting a 10-5 record, will travel to Kent on Saturday for a 10:30 a.m. match in its season finale. YSU has defeated Kent twice this season already, both times by a slim 1-0 margin.

The women's volleyball team dropped a close match to Clarion last Saturday afternoon at the Beeghly gym. YSU easily captured the first game of the match by a 15-7 margin before buckling under in the final two games to lose the match. The scores of the final two games were 9-15 and 4-15.

YSU, 7-7 on the season, travels to Geneva tomorrow for a triangular meet which also includes Carlow of Pittsburgh. The matches begin at 7 p.m. The girls' squad has also qualified for the Ohio State Tournament to be held Friday and Saturday at Ohio University in Athens. The team will leave Thursday for the tournament.

Football

In addition to Pentz's touchdown—his second of the year—a key to the victory was a fourth-period Penguin drive that consumed 8:34 and resulted in a four-yard scoring run by Stoudt. The slick senior quarterback now has 25 career rushing TDs and 5,177 yards in total offense—4,143 passing and 1,034 rushing.

Narduzzi substituted an entirely new offensive unit when the Penguins regained possession of the football with 49 seconds to play. On the second play from scrimmage, freshman quarterback Keith Snoddy raced 14 yards to end the scoring.

PENGUIN NOTES—The 36 points scored Saturday are the most by a Narduzzi-coached team, surpassing the 33-point outburst against Morehead State last month. . . Ten seniors were honored prior to the game and own the distinction of a 15-4 record at home over the past four seasons. . . Kinch, coveted by many Canadian Football League teams, raised his career rushing total to 2,265 yards—third all-time behind Frank Horvath (2,567) and Dave Garden (2,521). . . Musiel has now caught 76 career passes for 1,168 yards (15.4 avg.) . . . Penguins are 4-0 against Central State, outscoring them by a total of 93-20. . . Marauders have not scored in the last five quarters of this state rivalry, going back to the final period in 1974. . . YSU won 10-0 last year at Rayen Stadium on a 7-yard run by Kinch and a 20-yard field goal by Pentz—all in the second period. . . Named "players of the week" were Kinch on offensive Saturday and Pentz on defense. The honor was the third this year for Pentz.

Rifle Results

YSU's Varsity Rifle Team collected its tenth victory in eleven contests as it turned back Geneva College by 1316 to 1259.

Al Snow was the Penguins' top marksman with 270 out of a possible 300. He was followed by Buzz Bainbridge 266; Ken Tillery 265; Dan Brown 259; Kevin Cooper 256 and John Dance 256.

The Penguins will participate in the second of four LEIRC tournaments to be held at Akron University on Nov. 19 and 20. Eleven schools will be participating in this second tournament. YSU's lone loss thus far this season has been to Akron University 2626 to 2615.

Spotlight auditions

Auditions for the next Spotlight Theatre production, Medea, by Robinson Jeffers will be held at 8 p.m. in Strouss Auditorium on Nov. 15 and 16. An adaptation of Euripedes' Medea, the play is scheduled for performance Jan. 10-15.

for those wishing to run for Student Council to two weeks before elections thus allowing the candidates time to attend two council meetings.

Council also discussed its obligation to publicize the names of candidates running for election.

Members of council felt The Jambar should make more of an effort to publish candidates names. Senary said, "In the past The Jambar hasn't always been cooperative."

Dear Raven,
Hope you're feeling much better!!!
