

Fourth-ranked YSU to meet Akron; Penguins rebound from Dayton loss

by John Creer

YSU's fourth-ranked Penguins are back on their victory trot after stumbling for the first time Monday night. Dom Rosselli's cagers turned back a hot-shooting Steubenville aggregation Wednesday night, 84-71, to rebound from their initial loss of the season to the Flyers of Dayton, 83-59 last Monday night. YSU, now 10-1 and rated fourth by the Associated Press in Division II polls, will next clash with Akron University tomorrow evening at 8 p.m. in Beeghly Center.

In their latest win, the Penguins managed to hold a slim 39-36 halftime margin although the visiting Barons shot at a torrid 64 percent from the floor. In the first half 6-7 All-American Jeff Covington tallied 14 points to pace the Penguins who at times appeared lethargic and listless.

Nevertheless, the locals never relinquished their lead and relatively coasted to their tenth success. Once again, the 6'7" Covington led the way with 24 points on a perfect 11 of 11 from the field and two of two at the foul line, despite missing 26 minutes of action because of foul trouble. Senior forward Tony Mitchell hit on six of his first

Student grievance process passed by vote in Academic Senate Friday

by Sharon Levy

Students with academic grievances now have a channel in which to work out their problems. The Academic Senate passed a formal student grievance procedure with a majority vote in their meeting last Friday.

A formal procedure for airing student grievances was mandated by the YSU-OEA Agreement over two years ago, according to Dr. Edgar Cobett, education, who is chairman of this year's student affairs grievance committee.

Students may file their problems in the student government office in Kilcawley Center. Betty Semberger, senior, English, is student grievance secretary. She urges students with grievances to fill out the standard grievance forms in her office within 12 school days following an event, or following the student's discovery of an event, such as receiving a grade in the mail which the student wishes to grieve. Semberger is in her office on Tuesdays 10-11 a.m. and Thursdays 10-12 a.m. However, students may find forms there at any time. Copies of the formal Student Grievance Procedure are also available in the Student Government Office.

This procedure states that a student has the opportunity to appear and seek redress for concerns involving official academic advisement, instructional practice, such as those delineated in a course syllabus, and grading for a class or laboratory.

The procedure further states that it is not intended, nor should it be used, as a means of modifying, changing or addressing University policies which are mandated by the Board of Trustees or adopted by any policy-making agency of the University.

The Student Academic Grievance Committee, to be named in two weeks, will have responsibility for coordinating and implementing this procedure. This committee will be composed of 13 members: six faculty members, (one from each school) appointed by the Executive Committee of the Academic Senate; six student members (one from each school) appointed by Student Council and one Administrator (organizationally responsible to the Vice President for Academic Affairs) appointed by the Vice President for Academic Affairs.

This committee structure is outlined in the official procedure.

This committee is intended to resolve conflicts of interest and, according to Semberger, "act as a mediator between parties."

"All circumstances are reviewed by the committee," she explains, "and a majority vote is necessary before any action would be taken."

In an amendment to the Procedure (printed in The Jambar on Nov. 30), students with complaints are urged to resolve the conflicts through informal discussion before initiating the formal procedure delineated.

Dr. Charles McBriarty, dean of Student Affairs and a member of the grievance committee, outlines the informal procedure a student may take. "He may go

Grievance filed on retirement matter; steps toward arbitration will follow

by Pat Kemmerer

The YSU Administration has violated the clear and unequivocal provisions of Article XVI of the YSU/YSU-OEA Agreement between the Trustees and the Bargaining Agent, with the apparent intent of prematurely and obliquely squeezing out certain professors who taught at the predecessor institution, Youngstown University, in the views of Professor Fred Rosenberg, Dana School of Music, who has filed a grievance in the matter, and J.J. Koss, his Labor Relations Consultant.

Rosenberg is one of 12 faculty members who received a letter last May with the 1976-77 contract stating that the University did not intend to renew yearly contracts for those turning 65 or older in the course of this academic year except in the most critical circumstances. A "grandfather clause" to Section B of Article XVI being questioned by Rosenberg and Koss states, "For those currently employed faculty members who served one or more years as full-time faculty members in the University when it was a private institution, the normal retirement age for the term of this agreement shall be 68, with the option of continuing on a yearly basis to age 70, subject to the consent of the individual and the University."

Rosenberg sees the clause as clearly stating that for those professors who taught at Youngstown University, the normal retirement age is 68; and for them, the "option" mentioned above operates beyond their normal retirement age which is 68, not 65.

Rosenberg will turn 65 during this academic year.

The last line of the "grandfather clause" reads, "This exception to the normal retirement policy shall not be available after the termination date of this Agreement as stated in Article IV (June 15, 1977)."

In a letter to The Jambar last week, President John Coffelt interpreted this line as meaning "...there will be no differential in retirement age as of June 15, 1977 between faculty who served in the private University and those who joined the state university.

According to Koss, "Implementation of the Administration's interpretation of the retirement provision of the Agreement will result in permanent and irreparable harm and damage to (Cont. on page 8) to the faculty member with whom he is having the problem; he can come to see me in the student affairs office or see my two assistants, Patricia Bleidt or Dr. David Bertelsen; he can go to his department chairperson or to his individual academic dean or he can file a grievance with the student grievance secretary," he said.

In this informal procedure, the committee is hopeful many of the problems can be worked out. The procedure states that "informal discussions...are essential in the early stages of a dispute and should be encouraged at all stages."

The amendment further states that should informal discussion fail to resolve the matter the student may "follow the formal procedure beginning with Step I." Step I of the procedure outlines the method in which the student should proceed with his grievance. He may obtain a copy of this form in the student government offices.

The amendment continues: "...the student may agree with the parties involved that no further results can be achieved from further meetings as specified in IA and IIA. In this case the student will prepare a written statement of the grievance to be filed with the Student Government Secretary of Student Grievances and each member involved with the grievance will file a written deposition within 12 school days following the last informal meeting of the parties in order to move directly to the final conferences in Step IIB."

The next step required to resolve the issue is outlined in Step IIB. If all other avenues have been exhausted, the Grievance Committee sets a hearing whereby the parties involved may be heard, may present pertinent, relevant evidence, may confront those expressing opposing viewpoints and may refute evidence. After the Committee has heard both sides, states the Procedure, it reaches a decision on the disposition.

The Procedure says that the decision of the Committee will be forwarded to the dean of the academic school involved. Copies of its findings will be placed in the student's permanent file as well as in the faculty member's personnel file. In addition, the Committee's findings shall be forwarded to the faculty member's Department Evaluation Committee.

"Knowing these findings will be recorded somewhere may resolve the issue," said Semberger when asked by the Jambar if the implementation of this Procedure will be carried out by the parties involved.

She added, "We must let students know that although the Committee cannot force teachers to change a grade, for example, the findings of the hearing will be entered both on the student's and the teacher's permanent records." "We are hopeful," she continues, "that the parties involved will act upon the decision of the committee." Serving with Cobett and McBriarty on the student grievance committee are: Dr. Pei Huang, history; John Ritter, civil engineering; Esotto Pellegrini, music; Edwin Deiderick, marketing; Dr. Paul Dalbec, physics; John Wales, director of financial aids; Dr. Jack Bakos, engineering, last year's chairman of the Committee; Judith Lemme, junior, education; Bill Yeaton, senior, engineering; and Paula Stabile, junior, English.

Don't take crap

You don't have to take any academic crap anymore; just file a grievance if you think you have been wronged. The new Student Grievance Procedure will be available for students who feel that they have been wrongly advised, have been given undeserved grades or feel that their teachers have deviated from what they told the students to expect.

The procedure is already in effect so students may begin filing their grievances now.

VD increase is due in part to greater sexual activity

By Mike Braun

As the age old joke goes "VD' is nothing to Clap about." No more truthful phrase could have ever been spoken.

Last year, in the United States alone, over a million cases of various types of Venereal Disease (VD) were reported. In Youngstown, particularly, over 1400 cases of VD were seen at the VD Clinic, at South Side Hospital in a seven month period.

According to Mrs. R. Price, a registered nurse who works at the clinic, most of the cases that are seen are gonorrhea and syphilis (489 and 20 cases respectively) with various other types also turning up. (See Story at Right)

The main age group affected in Youngstown is the 15 to 24 year old group (the 15 to 19 year old sub-group has had a slightly higher incidence).

According to Price one reason for the high rate of VD among young people is that today there is "more sexual awareness and kids engaging in sex earlier" without an understanding of what they are getting into.

"We have kids coming into the clinic having no idea how they got it (VD)," stated Price.

Many area secondary schools now have mandatory V.D. education programs taken with the permission of parents. Price said she had knowledge of several instances where parents of school age children attended lectures along with their children.

Treatment at the clinic depends on what type of VD the infected person has. Penicillin is the main combatant against VD, although there has been a new strain of VD discovered recently that all but thrives on the "Wonderdrug."

For gonorrhea a quick acting form of penicillin is used, while syphilis sufferers rely upon a slower acting and longer lasting form of the drug.

In some cases a person may be allergic to penicillin. Other drugs (less powerful, but effective) are then brought in. Tetracycline is one of the safest drugs that can be used by those allergic to penicillin.

One big problem of VD is that pregnant women who get infected with the disease stand a great chance of losing their babies or having them born deformed. Getting a suspected VD carrying pregnant woman to a doctor or clinic as quickly as possible is the policy against birth defects. Syphilis, infecting the baby before birth, may cause extensive damage to the brain and other parts of the body, while if a baby is born infected with gonorrhea he/she may be blind forever.

The transmission of VD is usually by sexual activity (oral-genital, anal-genital or vaginal-intercourse).

In gonorrhea the transmission takes place between mucous membranes since the gonococcus (bacteria) reside in the mucous membranes. The gonococcus can only live within the human body; it dies within seconds if exposed to the outside. This fact makes it impossible to catch the disease from toilet seats, towels, cups, etc.

Early symptoms of gonorrhea

from the cervical opening. It is sometimes hard for a woman to notice a cervical infection since the cervix is situated high in the vagina. A tell-tale sign of the cervical infection is also a yellow-green vaginal discharge which irritates the vulva. A common mistake is confusing the normal white vaginal discharge with the infected discharge according to a VD pamphlet issued by the Montreal Health Press.

There are other areas of the woman's body which may be infected with gonorrhea. The urethra and the opening of the vagina are alternate sites where white discharge which irritates the vulva) is the application of Metronidazole for one week with the woman abstaining from sexual activity for that period.

Lymphogranulomavenerium (LGV) is a VD type disease of the lymphatic system. In LGV the lymph nodes are attacked by disease-causing organisms, called bubos, which swell up and begin forming pus. If not treated properly or quickly the disease will form complications and is capable of forming cancer if left untreated too long.

The best treatment for any type of VD is to get an exam-

Herpes virus causes concern with officials, as no cure is known

(CPS)—Worried about contracting one of the lesser joys of sex? Are you secure in feeling that a shot of the old cure-all, penicillin, will eradicate any of those nasty, painful symptoms that come packaged with venereal diseases? Did it ever cross your mind that one of the little buggers may be immune to all known cures?

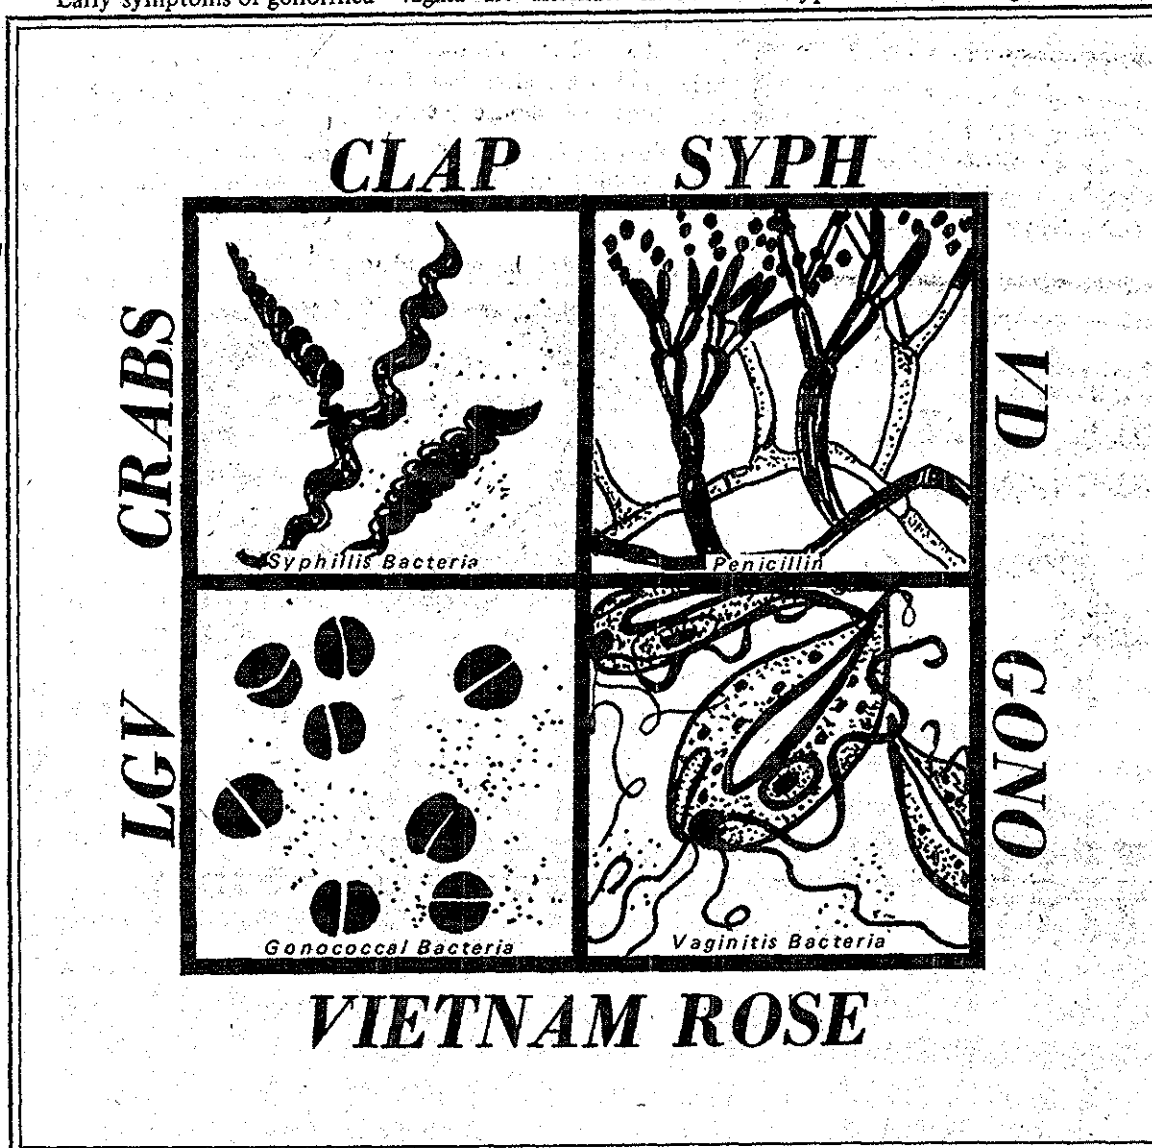

The National Center for Disease Control reports there is a new strain of VD catching both the public and the medical community with their pants down. It's called Herpes Simplex Virus and there is no known cure. The more common version, HS 2, is generally called Genital Herpes and its increase as a communicable disease is causing public health officials to have more than an occasional headache.

Herpes is not your everyday infectious disease. Unlike gonorrhea or syphilis, which are bacterial infections, herpes is a virus. But unlike other known, curable virus infections (i.e.—Hong Kong flu), herpes will lodge in the nerve cells. Permanently. Antibodies already present, or injected, have little or no effect.

Normally, the human body can produce its own defenses, antibodies, which will attack and kill foreign substances. Even after a case of measles, mumps or the flu, the body will "id up resistance to ward the disease off the next time around. One health official in Denver, Colorado said that 90 percent of the adult population over twenty have herpes antibodies already built into their circulatory system. These will gobble up some of the herpes virus entering the body but the disease can still be caught and the symptoms are quite painful.

Recent studies confirm that women who have herpes have eight times greater chance of getting cervical cancer. One medical text estimates that six percent of the women who have herpes will get cervical cancer within five years. One of every four infants include (in the male) a thin clear mucous discharge which oozes out of the opening of the penis. This usually occurs 3 to 5 days after engaging in sexual intercourse. After a day or so the discharge becomes white and heavy (the color may also be yellow to yellow-green). About this time the opening of the penis becomes enlarged and swollen making it difficult to urinate. The urine is pus-filled and may contain a little blood. About one third of all gonorrhea infected men have swollen lymph glands in the groin as a result of the disease. In homosexual men a gonorrheal infection is likely to develop in the anal region (gonococcal proctitis). The infection in this area may be accompanied with a discharge from the anus and blood in the feces.

Gonorrhea in the female usually is not noticed until a few weeks to a few months after infection. A primary sign for women who suspect they have gonorrhea is the infections of their partners.

The cervix (opening of the uterus) is the focal point for most new gonorrheal infections. After the initial days of infection a woman may notice pus discharged from the cervical opening. It is sometimes hard for a woman to notice a cervical infection since the cervix is situated high in the vagina. A tell-tale sign of the cervical infection is also a yellow-green vaginal discharge which irritates the vulva. A common mistake is confusing the normal white vaginal discharge with the infected discharge according to a VD pamphlet issued by the Montreal Health Press.

There are other types of VD which are less prevalent than gonorrhea or syphilis. Vaginitis is one of the most common diseases that is contracted in the female genitals. The most effective treatment for this disease (usually a frothy injection as quickly as possible. In Youngstown there are several clinics, Oak Hill, McGuffey, and the Free Clinic on the corner of Spring and Wick, which takes care of VD. The VD Clinic is also available or your own physician should be contacted, if you suspect you have VD. Ignoring the symptoms has never been a very good treatment.

VD undergoes name change to update old connotations

(CPS)—For those of you who want to be on the in with medical circles, the acronym currently being tossed about for VD is STD, which stands for Sexually Transmitted Disease. The change was made because the twenty-odd afflictions in this area are no longer seen as being caught in the old-fashioned way and many doctors now look askance on the use of the old term.

Dr. William McCormack, a professor of medicine at Harvard said that "the term VD has certain legal and moralistic connotations which those of us in the field are trying to minimize as best we can." Taking the issue a step further is Dr. Harold C. Neu, editor of the journal Infectious Diseases. In a recent issue he wrote "the term 'venereal disease' has fallen by the wayside, since it is freighted with historical connotations that are repugnant to many younger physicians . . . Many of these newer professionals have never seen one of those old clinics where the doctor in charge, to impress the young medical students in attendance, barked at the clinic patients, 'Drop your pants, take it out and milk it!'" Medical science marches on.

New pool lights needed for acceptable standards

"What's going on in the pool now, has been an on-going process concerned with the health and welfare of those students who use the pool, and also to help bring our pool to acceptable standards for competition," stated Tucker DiEdwardo in response to a recent Jambor editorial.

DiEdwardo feels that the problem of insufficient lighting stems from the architectural design of the pool area. The pool was designed to use natural light for illumination, which met minimum regulations of lighting, according to Swimming, Pools—A Guide to Design, Planning and Operation. In order to maintain the proper environment in the pool, non-glare material had to be installed on the windows. This caused loss of light, and thus lowered the standards of light below minimum. The new lighting is being installed in order to meet adequate levels of safe lighting for swimming and competition.

The problem in Beeghy Center stems from the lack of research by designers into the complete use of the center by students and Varsity teams.

YSU's Spotlight Theatre will present two additional performances of Robinson Jeffers' adaptation of Euripides' Medea on January 16. There will be a matinee at 2:30 p.m., and an evening performance at 7:30 p.m. For additional information please contact the box office in Jones Hall or call Ext. 239.

HS2 Virus

of infected mothers die at birth. Children that do survive may have serious complications, including brain damage.

Although gonorrhea is still first on the list of venereal disease, herpes is bucking for the number two slot with an estimated 300,000 persons infected annually. Symptoms include either cold sores around the mouth or blisters and open sores around the genitals, thighs or buttocks. The symptoms may disappear within a month but may recur periodically up to two years after the initial contact.

While the virus itself cannot be killed, local treatments may be applied to reduce pain and prevent infection. Several other treatments are now being studied in Seattle, Washington. Doctors recommend no sexual contact if a person has lesions, or open sores. Any sign of the above symptoms warrants an immediate visit to a doctor or local health clinic.

Retirement Grievance

the Grievant (Rosenberg) by reason of being prematurely deprived of his position. Such detrimental consequences include significant losses in salary over the next three to five years, significant losses of retirement income for life, and the irremediable psychological harm arising from the denial of the opportunity to continue to teach music in the University and to perform in the recitals and performances at the long-awaited and soon to be available Bliss Hall of the School of the Fine and Performing Arts."

salary and fringe benefits of the remaining younger professors—until, of course, their own turn comes—and this fact, whether intended or not by the YSU-OEA, has caused it difficult intra-organizational problems."

Koss also said, "Nor does the Administration come off completely unscathed when its interpretation on retirement is seen against its recent action in suddenly coming up with $3 million for a new stadium practically on the eve of negotiations. (for the 1977-79 Agreement). Their priorities, in view of all the other needs of the University, are immediately called into question."

Also, under the State Teachers Retirement System of Ohio (STRS) which covers the YSU faculty, a contract cannot be terminated because of age except as provided by the Ohio Revised Code. The STRS states, "An employer may, as of the thirtieth day of June of any year terminate the employment of the contract of any member who has attained the age of seventy by the following thirty-first day of August."

The Rosenberg Grievance on Retirement has been advanced to arbitration, and steps are being taken to choose an arbitrator. Another grievance on Retirement has recently been filed by Rosenberg. No disposition has been received to date.

Koss added, "The difference between the Agreement retirement provisions and those incorporated into the law for the STRS has been cause for internal dissension within the (OEA) bargaining unit. The 'de facto' effect of the implementation of the Administration's policy, if it goes unchallenged, is to ease out the senior professors and provide an estimated $250,000 to $300,000 to help finance the

According to Koss, it is expected that the local YSU-OEA Chapter, the Ohio Education Association in Columbus, and the National Education Association in Washington will fully support Rosenberg's effort. "If they do not do so," Koss said, "an independent drive for funds will be initiated in order to finance what now appears to be a long and exhausting litigation on an extremely important and precedent-setting case for the faculty at this and other Universities in Ohio."

Spotlight Theatre's opening night was called on account of snow. It was postponed until Wednesday night. Therefore, to compensate for the loss, the Theatre will present an extended schedule of performances of Robinson Jeffers' adaptation of Medea on both Saturday and Sunday nights. It is the most intense dramatic performance Spotlight has presented this season.

The set designers are to be commended for projecting the play's intensity through their usage of Classical Greek architecture to set the play in Medea's courtyard, a courtyard that becomes the arena in which we, the spectators, witness Euripides and Jeffers successfully blended in a vivid and violent emotional mesh. It is Classical Greek drama modernized and modern ideas classicized. Action is introduced, by an intense performance of the nurse, as played by Jo Ellen Pavlicko. Her performance remains in the ascendancy, serving to keep the dramatic tension at a high level during the first act and serving to revive the flagging intensity in the second act.

Alexandra Vansuch, as Medea, is overpowering in the first act, though by the second act, her power has somewhat flagged as Charles Lawrence's Jason projects a heat and anger rivaling that of Vansuch.

The women of Corinth again outline this underlying tension from their first appearance to their last. They are, respectively, Denise Tkach, Kelly Schreck, and Marilyn Thomas. Their dramatic, intense performance cannot be truly singled out, as each other's action serves to underline that of her sister's. If favorites were to be played, I would favor Denise Tkach, the First Woman of Corinth. However, her dramatics give impetus to her sister performers, as it should be.

The first act is dominated by women, in terms of intensity, but Dennis Pallante's Aegeus, is properly, pompously played. The first act is given, in intensity, completely to women, though Lawrence's Jason reaches a peak in the first act shortly before intermission Robert Dubec's Creon cannot carry out the intensity required for such a role. In fact, to carry it out, he would have to shout down Vansuch and his voice does not have that projection.

Other players can be dealt with in terms of blocking. Blocking is an important part of a production, thus, this relegation is justified. The aforementioned Women of Corinth weave a mystical circle, mime emotions in an attitude reminiscent of a tradition that can only be described by comparing their interminglings with that of a combination of the three Muses and the Three fates. Their interactions with the attendants do serve to underline Vansuch's magical intensity as Medea.

Though Dubec had to wrestle with three inch Japanese sandals, as he very clumsily clambered the steps to throw himself at the door, it was a dramatic moment, heightened by Vansuch's confused, but uncompromising Medea. Lights up on the children's bodies did serve to heighten the intensity—especially since the lights were red. It is simply a question of knowing which lights, what action, what scenery and what effect to reach for to make the play achieve such an agonizing intensity. The make-up, the music and the costumes lent themselves to this emotional performance, the most intense performance, to date, of the season.

Young grapplers prepare for home opener following five straight impressive triumphs

by Bill Rowan

YSU wrestling coach Tom Cox has been quoted many times in the past three years saying "you must wrestle the best if you are ever to become the best." So his schedule included such national wrestling powers as Cleveland State, Ashland, Lock Haven State College, Clarion State, California State, Pa. to name a few.

With this type of schedule, progress had been slow in the first two seasons, but Cox's enthusiasm for, and knowledge of, the sport, never lost one step thru all the disappointments and now it would seem that in this, the 3rd year of his program, things are starting to fall into place.

After an opening loss to powerful Lock Haven State College the Penguins reeled off 5 straight triumphs including a big win against a rugged and highly ranked California, Pa., State team back in December.

Coach Cox and his matmen are working extra hard this week for two reasons. The first being the upcoming match on Jan. 18, against powerful Edinboro State. This is the Penguins home opener and promises to be one of their better matches. Edinboro is ranked highly in many polls a victory by the Penguin grapplers would be an outstanding achievement in their young season. The other reason Cox and his grapplers are pushing extra hard is because the new national ratings are due out this month and from all indications they have received thus far they are about to realize another team goal; that goal being, a team that is rated with the best wrestling teams in the country.

If you think this accomplishment is anything but a complete team effort you are sadly mistaken. Wrestling at home before small crowds, sometimes only the wrestlers family's are on hand to watch and cheer the team, and the fact that coach Cox and his wrestling program must hope to lure mat talent with out the benefit of any athletic scholarships are handicaps that could only be overcome by complete dedication to wrestling by all the team members and especially the coach. There is some aid available to wrestlers based on a students needs, but no scholarships.

Don Hernan, the rugged 134 pound junior, is the only veteran from all three of YSU's wrestling seasons. A local product, Don wrestled at Austintown Fitch, he was 16-4 the first year and qualified for the NCAA tournament. He was 26-6-1 last year and is currently 5-1.

Dane Stilgenbauer, also came to YSU last season from Austintown Fitch. The rugged 150 pounder has an 18-7-1 record as a freshman and is also currently 5-1.

Transfers Ken Moser, a 158 pounder from Howland who came to YSU from Clairion State, and 177 pounder Mike Lowery, and Ohio Wesleyan transplant, have bolstered the Penguins considerably.

Newcomers to this years squad include unbeaten Ken Hrycyk at 167 pounds. Heavyweight Stan Spencer of Grove City, Ohio and Mark Barto of Reynolds, Pa.

Other members of the squad include Gordy Myer of West Branch, Gary Dillion, Bill of Brookfield, Ohio, Jerry Pasquale of Boardman, Al Tucciarone, and Dan Dinger of Titusville, Pa.

seven tries and finished with 18. Senior "quarterback" Terry Moore added 10 on five of seven and junior forward Frank Andrews tallied personal season high of ten points.

For the night, the Penguins netted 37 of 63 field attempts (59 percent) and 10 of fifteen (67 percent) from the charity stripe. Guard Jerry Fetter led the losers with 20 and forward Dan Rogich hooped 18. Steubenville sank 33 of 51 floor shots for a glowing 65 percent but managed only five of 13 foul shots (38 percent).

In Jayvee action, YSU downed the reserves from Baldwin-Wallace 72-70 in a very competitive struggle. The Penguin reserves are now 7-0 under coach Roger Lyons. Guard Brian Hunter and forward Mark Yurjevich each scored 16 to lead the YSU. Center Mark Brown collared 12 rebounds to help the cause.

In the Dayton debacle, YSU's misfortunes could be attributed to a season high 31 turnovers and an anemic 38 percent from the floor.

The Flyers shot down the soaring Penguins early Monday as they staked out a 28-11 lead midway through the first half. However, YSU, behind a tremendous indi-

Penguin Terry Moore excels in class and on the court

by John Creer

To the superficial, half-interested "fan" . . . you know the type, the type that regards final statistics and points as gospel . . . Terry Moore's career point average of 5.6 is hardly impressive. For that matter his career rebounding mark of 2.7 certainly does not jump out at you off the paper. I mean, what the hell, the most points he has scored in any one game this year is 13. Jeff Covington usually gets that many before he breaks a sweat—yet Penguin senior guard Terry Moore is perhaps the most vital member of the 76-77 edition of the Penguins who are currently ranked fourth in the nation by AP in the initial small-college poll of the season.

Terry Moore

The true, perceptive followers of the YSU roundball program do appreciate and acknowledge Moore's efforts on the hardwood. In a personal "poll" that I took at a recent YSU contest, I asked twenty fans, selected at random, who they felt was the most valuable member of the Penguins. With all due respect to All-American Covington, the majority of those questioned answered, "Terry Moore," which will probably come as a surprise to many of you.

And just how does Terry Moore react to his tag of being underrated and unappreciated? The soft-spoken but amiable red-head replies, as rather succinctly that he "doesn't really think about it. My efforts are geared toward a total team effort . . . my fellow teammates understand my contribution to this effort."

Winning has been a way of life for the 1973 Canton Lehman dual performance by Covington fought back. Jeff scored 22 first half points and hauled in 11 rebounds to impress a Dayton Arena turnout of 11,187 who braved the snow and cold to witness the hardwood battle. Unfortunately, Dayton still maintained a comfortable 41-30 advantage at haltime.

During the final half the Flyers "ganged up" on Covington and YSU's usually reliable outside attack failed to materialize. By the six minute mark, Dayton had turned the game into a 73-46 rout as top scorer Jim Paxton unloaded a barrage of points. The clock graduate. While in high school, Moore and his fellow mates were the top-ranked "AAA" champs in the entire state. In 1973, Lehman was once again on the top in both AP and UPI surveys. As a senior, Moore scored nine points a game while guiding the Lehman attack. Terry's biggest high school thrill was being a member of an undefeated and top-ranked team. Moore's biggest disappointment came in the 1973 post-season tourney when Lehman was narrowly beaten by Canton McKinley in double overtime.

Following his senior year, Terry accepted a full-ride athletic scholarship from YSU and as he puts it "has no regrets whatsoever." A starter since his freshman year, Terry has compiled several accomplishments which are truly indicative of his unselfish playing attitude. Moore holds the Penguins single game assist record (20 mercifully ended the 83-59 affair—an affair the Penguins were hoping to forget soon.

Covington's final total of 26 points was only four shy of the Dayton Arena standard set by Jacksonville's famed Artis Gilmore in 1969.

When considering the outcome of the Dayton game, one must remember, that, for starters, the Flyers were a major college foe and have held their own against the likes of UCLA this season. Dayton also performs in what is known in basketball circles as a "snake pit" and sport a 9-1 home record thus far in 76-77. After the Akron confrontation, YSU will travel to Northern Kentucky on Monday and will be back home for an 8 p.m. Saturday night tip-off with Ashland College against Georgia State), the season assist mark of 230 set in 74-75, and, you guessed it, the all-time career assist total of 663. Terry is the Penguin's "quarterback." He directs YSU's game plan and is the guy who points coach Dom Rosselli's offensive "gun" at the hoop . . . his teammates take turns pulling the "trigger." Since his sophomore season in high school, Moore has participated in 143 games; his team has reigned victorious in 104 of them for a very enviable winning average of over seventy-percent.

As to the tremendous success of this year's squad, Moore notes that YSU "is playing more as team, we are a closer-knit group." Moore is also quick to point out that Rosselli is "a great guy and a great coach. He is very helpful in all aspects of college, not just basketball. Coach Rosselli helps out in our studies and all-around problems."

Rosselli's 500th victory last season and triumphs this year over Philadelphia Textile and Pitt rank as Terry's top thrills as a Penguin.

As a pre-law student with an accumulative grade point average of 3.47 Moore excels off the court as well as on it. Terry has twice been nominated for Academic Intramural Notes: In reference to the ratings, you'll notice that the World's Finest, the Commodores of last year, were not included in the top ten after gamering the top slot in the pre-season poll. The reason for this is that the World's Finest no longer exists. The team has disbanded this season because some of the players have chosen to play for other intramural teams, while a few others did not return to school. This weeks top slot is held down by the Kilcawley Diseases.

Also, any persons interested in competing in intramurals, but haven't a team to compete for, are urged to see the secretaries in the intramural office. They will do their best to see if they can find a team for you. The secretaries are Mary Pat Julius and Mrs. Barbara Shimko.

YSU sent a representative chess team to the Pan-American Intercollegiate Tournament in New York City last month. The results were: First board: Gerald Rescek (YSU), 4 1/2-6; second board Robert Fini (YSU), 3 1/2-6; and third board Henry Dietz (YSU), 2 1/2-6. The tournament had 108 teams represented over 80 schools coming from as far away as California.

The club is having a business meeting to elect officers, select fees and rewrite the constitution. Upcoming tournaments are to be held on March 11 and 12 at the Trumbull Branch of Kent State University.
