GI Bill benefits may stop for vets dropping classes

Veterans going to school under the GI Bill could wind up in debt to the federal government if they drop courses or receive non-punitive grades under certain circumstances, the Veterans Administration cautioned today.

VA officials explained that a recent Congressional amendment to the GI Bill requires the agency to retroactively cancel assistance payments for a course dropped without a grade. This applies also in cases when a course is completed but the grade assigned is, in effect, ignored by the school for graduation requirements.

The new regulations do not apply when the situation was caused by circumstances beyond the student's control, VA said. VA described the new regulation as a major change in GI Bill benefit payments policy.

The new law provides that VA may not pay educational benefits for any part of a course which is not used in computing graduation requirements, VA officials explained.

This means, they said, that many students will find themselves overpaid under the GI Bill for courses from which they withdraw and for courses in which the assigned grade is not used in computing the requirements for graduation.

Payments for such a course must be stopped as of the first day of the school term, or Dec. 1, 1976, whichever date is later, they said.

For example, if a student withdraws from a course on April 1, under the conditions outlined, VA payments will, in effect, be terminated retroactively to the beginning of the term.

In the past, GI Bill payments would have been continued up to the date of withdrawal but the new law prohibits this.

Eight groups complain to Council about cutbacks in budget requests

Eight student organizations appeared before Student Council last night to register their disagreements with the 1977 proposed budget.

Organizations registering their protests against the proposed budget included: Geology Club, American Institute of Biological Sciences, Omicron Lambda, Youngstown Comic Art, Phi Mu Alpha, Israeli Students Organization and Organization of Arab Students.

The Geology Club, the YSU chapter of the American Institute for Biological Science, and the Omicron Lambda honorary biology fraternity received no proposed budget from the budget committee because their request for travel funds (field trips) were denied. Jimmy Jimenez, budget committee chairperson, explained that new guidelines formed by this year's budget committee included no funding for organization field trips, however, funding for conventions and events in which the organization would be recognized as one of YSU, would be considered.

The major complaint of the organizations was that they did not receive a copy of the new guidelines before the budget hearings. Any organization that was still not satisfied with its proposed funding was told to talk to a member of the budget committee for further reconsideration.

In other reports, George Glaros, president of student body, commented on the recent resignation of vice president of the student

Stan Kenton to appear in jazz concert as part of YSU Creative Arts Festival

What do Stan Kenton, drama critic Clive Barnes, six daytime soap opera stars, Sidewalk Sam, the YSU Jazz Ensemble and a herd of sheep have in common? They're a part of 60 events to be presented in this year's Creative Arts Festival "Expressions '77" to be held on the YSU campus May 7 through May 18.

With only the scheduling of space and the development of the promotional program remaining "Expressions '77" is a project that began over a year ago. Mark Shanley is committee chairman for the festival.

"We had no concept of how it would turn out," said Shanley. "It's been very exciting working with the program and watching it grow to a 12-day event with 60 different events. It should be an outstanding arts festival program."

Some of the highlights of the festival include a jazz ensemble concert featuring well-known musician Stan Kenton, five evenings of full concert programs with the Dana Symphony and the Concert Choir, selections by the YSU Wind Ensemble and music by the Afro-American Chorale.

Tennessee Williams classic, The Glass Menagerie will be staged by YSU's Spotlight Theatre. An adult puppet show, and a lecture by noted drama critic Clive Barnes are also scheduled.

Perhaps the most dazzling of the theatre events is a Broadway play Absurd Person Singular to be performed at Powers Auditorium with a cast of six daytime soap opera stars from such shows as Edge of Night, All My Children, The Doctors, and Love of Life.

Exhibits of photography, films, pop art of the sixties, poetry readings, artifacts from 18th-century Africa, pottery, paintings, wood burnings, carvings, slide shows, stamp collections, collections of dolls, leather and jewelry crafts, silk screening, folk dancers and printmaking, will be featured along with demonstrations, an old-time radio show, mini-cam and a sound and light show in the Planetarium.

Two other events will be Sidewalk Sam, an artist touring college campuses who will brighten the YSU campus with his sidewalk drawings, and live sheep getting sheared, the wool cleaned and spun into a fashionable garment.

Coordinators for the program are Dr. William Hulsopple, drama; Elaine Juhasz, art; and Wendell Orr, music. Along with major efforts of the committee these individuals have been responsible for a large percentage of the programs.

Information as to times and locations of all events for the entire festival will be available in future issues of the Jambar.

Discount Vouchers

Discount vouchers for the Monday Musical, Youngstown Symphony, Ballet Western Reserve and Youngstown Playhouse are now available at the Student Affairs Office, Kilcawley Room 116 and 117. These are sponsored by Student Government.

KSU's Olds slated as guest speaker at winter graduation

Dr. Glenn A. Olds, Kent State University president since 1971, will be main speaker at YSU's seventh annual winter commencement at 10 a.m. Saturday, March 26, in Beeghly Center.

There are 930 candidates for masters, bachelors and associate degrees. Last March there were 902 degree recipients.

The seventh president of KSU, Olds came to KSU from the United Nations where he served as the United States Ambassador to the Economic and Social Council.

Former Secretary General of the UN, U Thant, referred to him as "one of the authentic spokesmen for the cause of development of the poorer countries" as well as "an outstanding educationist... dedicated, concerned and articulate."

Olds has served four U.S. Presidents. He was special consultant in education to President Eisenhower and served on President Kennedy's Councils on Juvenile Delinquency and Youth and Youth and Physical Fitness.

Douglas Shasby will visit YSU; hosted by School of Business

The YSU School of Business will host School of Business Administration Advisory Council (SBAAC) member Douglas Shasby, district manager for customer services of the Ohio Bell Telephone Company, for a campus visit on March 9.

The SBAAC, which was formed in 1976, consists of business, industrial and labor leaders of the community. The purpose of the advisory council is to increase and encourage interaction between YSU's School of Business and Youngstown's business and industrial personnel.

Shasby, who has been with Ohio Bell Telephone since 1941, was a graduate of South Side High School and attended Youngstown College. An active member of the Youngstown community, he is a member of the Rotary Club of Youngstown; Youngstown Area Chamber of Commerce; Regional Growth Foundation—Executive Committee; Junior Achievement, where he is a member of the board of directors; and the Salvation Army advisory board.

The itinerary for Shasby's visit will be scheduled as follows:

10 a.m. to 11 a.m. Informal discussion with faculty, Faculty Lounge, Lincoln Project. 11 a.m. to noon Informal discussions with graduate students and faculty, Faculty Lounge, Lincoln Project. 2 p.m. to 3 p.m. Informal discussion with students, Rm. 103 Lincoln Project. 3 p.m. to 3:45 p.m., Rap session—open, Faculty Lounge, Lincoln Project.

Planetarium will celebrate 10 years beginning Mar. 10

A potpourri of planetarium entertainment, to commemorate the 10th anniversary of YSU's Planetarium, will be presented in a special program beginning at 2 p.m. Thursday, March 10.

Titled Te: Times Around the Sun the program will highlight, through sound and visuals, many of the most impressive special effects from past shows.

Free and open to the public, the program will also be shown at 8 p.m. Fridays, and 2 and 8 p.m. Saturdays, March 11-12, 18-19, and 25-26.

Featured will be a view of the night sky as seen from the North Pole to the South Pole. Stars and constellations from the Northern and Southern Hemispheres will be pointed out along with various myths and legends concerning them.

The Planetarium's unique time-machine capabilities will be utilized to transport the visitor to the ancient plains of Egypt and Stonehenge where a multi-slide panoramic projection system will recreate ancient horizons.

Returning to the present, a journey will be taken outward through the vast emptiness of deep space. In the future, viewers will witness the final days of the sun as the earth is baked to a lifeless cinder.

A special feature of the tenth anniversary is an intricately sophisticated automations system which controls Planetarium functions and special effects during the show.

Also presented will be a behind-the-scenes look at how a planetarium program is produced.

Dr. John McGurvey

Dr. John McGurvey of Case Western Reserve University will speak at 3 p.m. on Wednesday, March 9, in the YSU Planetarium.

McGurvey will speak on the subject of anti-matter and is being sponsored by the Society of Physics students.

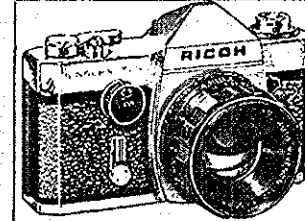

All students are invited to attend.

GRADUATING SENIORS

—Announcements are available at the YSU Bookstore Kilcawley Center.

One good turn deserves another.

From one beer lover to another.

Hey, Look Us Over

In today's page one council story George Glaros, student government president stated in response to the resignation of Vice-President Toni DiSalvo, "Her charges were highly emotional, as well as unsubstantiated by fact." Highly emotional? Maybe. Unsubstantiated? Hardly.

Mr. Glaros, let us not forget that in your campaign last spring you stated how you were going to work closer with the vice-president. Well, fall quarter came around and it took a lot of goading and cajoling to get you to follow-up on that promise. Several administration even talked to you about that. The Bethany leadership workshop in October was all but made ineffective because you wouldn't let the leadership committee do its own work by itself! The leadership committee can attest to that.

Many people have stated that since Glaros is in his first year as President, he is absolved from any wrong actions he may take. That is so much nonsense. There is no guarantee that he will have a second term to do better in, and furthermore, he should have realized what he was undertaking when he filed petition to run. The previous President, Bill Brown, did a fine job in his first term and didn't need anybody to make excuses for him. So Mr. Glaros before you defend yourself against allegations that hit close to home maybe you had better take a closer look at your actions in the past year, or as you said in today's story about DiSalvo's resignation, Her resignation has caused Student Government to re-evaluate its recent actions. (Italics Jambar's.)

Pat on the Back

A pat on the back is in order for all those who helped "stage" this weekend's NCAA basketball tourney. Unfortunately, from YSU's point of view, the tourney wasn't nearly as successful on the court as it was off. Now that the Penguins brilliant season has come to a sudden halt, one lingering question remains. Why wasn't the depth and strength of YSU's bench called upon in the overtime loss to Randolph-Macon? The visitors did not beat the Penguins as much as fatigue did. Throughout the season, time in and time out, substitutes helped out immensely and they would have—but were unable to last Saturday. Randolph got the most out of eleven ballplayers whereas only six members of the Penguins saw action. Their physical exhaustion late in the game was obvious to all and enabled Randolph-Macon to gain that little extra step to the basket and to victory. All-American Jeff Covington, our resident pillar of strength, suffered through his most inept performance of the season and could have used a moment on the bench to collect himself and get straightened out. But that was not the case and the results were disastrous.

Nevertheless, YSU can be very proud of their accomplishments. Seniors Bob Carlson, Tony Mitchell, Gary Anderson and Terry Moore have completed their final season here and nothing but the best is wished for them in the future.

Says stadium 'team' pressures faculty

To the Editor of the Jambar:

I'll tell you what I'd really like to see. I'd like to see Mr. Moon and the rest of his crew raise the money for our wonderful new stadium without strong-arming faculty and staff of the University. (Coach Coffelt and Referee Krill may take offense at my use of the word "strong-arming" here, but may I point out that the fact that a computerized, personalized pledge card has been made out for every member of the faculty and staff implies an obligation on the part of these faculty and staff members to pledge; and may I further note that when various members of the faculty and staff have been given the job of collecting donations from their fellow workers, as they have been, the person who may not wish to donate is placed in a potentially uncomfortable position.)

What sort of a set-up is this, anyway? First they fabricate a need for the stadium, and then they release glowing press statements saying how much the community is supporting them on the basis of how many pledges they have received—although the pledges, it turns out, have not come from the community at all, but from the administration and some of the faculty. Just who is this Mr. Moon trying to kid? As part of the big build-up about why we need the stadium and how good it will be for us, they tell us how all the area high schools will be able to rent the stadium, thereby providing revenue for YSU and producing many happy high school football teams, but then it turns out that not only have they not mentioned the stadium to the area high schools, but only two of these schools have even a fleeting interest in using the stadium once it's done, the rest being uninterested.

Six million dollars is a lot of money to waste. We already pour an unforgivable amount of student money from the general fee into the football team, giving the players scholarships that they don't deserve and paying for little overnight vacations at motels and the like. In the meantime, Maag Library has been forced to put a freeze on the purchase of new books and periodicals because of a lack of operating funds, our graduate program is bone bare, the CAST building is unusable on the third floor thanks to a leaking roof that has yet to be repaired, freshman classes approach enrollments of 100 students and higher, the lighting all over campus is deficient and a threat to safety, walkways and stairways are breaking up all over, etc., etc., etc. And what is Coach Coffelt doing in the midst of all this? Spewing forth rhetoric about a stadium that the administration wants, and is going to get, by God.

Why isn't that $6 million being spent on academic matters? Is this a university or not? Why aren't we hiring more faculty with that money so the enrollment per class per teacher can be brought back under control and teaching can be meaningful again, not to mention learning? Why aren't programs being added to the graduate curriculum so that YSU students aren't forced to go elsewhere for graduate school? Why isn't construction on this campus ever done right the first time? Why isn't student housing being located and supported? Why isn't the University administration concerned with improving the area that surrounds the University instead of ripping into it and blacktopping over it? Why doesn't the administration ever give a damn about the academic function of this University? Why? Why? Why?

The answer is obvious. Coach Coffelt and his band of merry jocks are interested only in making this University bigger, not better. And then we wonder why people still look at us with distaste and sympathy when we tell them that we go to YSU. Thank you, Big John.

Wants women to set world in order

To the Editor of The Jambar:

Today, March 8, is International Women's Day. I realize that this day will be seen as just another occasion for men to snicker and make ribald remarks about a woman's place and for women to giggle and mindlessly agree. But there are some men who won't make ribald remarks and some women who won't giggle. These are the people who recognize just exactly what women's place is in our present day society and who envision what it could be in the future.

For centuries women have been relegated to the role of men's ego keepers. We have maintained their households, raised their children, nursed their battered egos, and done all the their life sustaining work so that men could be out doing the "important" work of running the world. And look where it has gotten all of us. Today we live in a world of dwindling natural resources, life choking pollution, an ever-escalating armaments race, racial hatred, starvation, wars, tyranny...

I believe it is time that we women emerge from our homes and help to set the world in order. I am not calling for a return to matriarchy (though I doubt that we would do a worse job than the men have done with our world), but rather for a balance between the masculine and feminine powers.

Our world has been bullied long enough by the masculine powers which fail to perceive that all things are not only inter-related, but also inter-dependent. There is a desperate need in today's world for the feminine healing power of synthesis.

But it is up to the women of today to fulfill that need. It is up to us to realize that we have destinies of our own, apart from those of men. It is up to us to recognize the power that lives within us, the power that mankind has suppressed for centuries. It is up to us women to make tomorrow's world a better place for all to live.

So let's begin by showing our support for International body, Toni DiSalvo. He said, "...the alleged charges she mentions in her letter of resignation were highly emotional, in as well as unsubstantiated by fact."

Women's Day. Wear a black armband and join us for our march downtown starting in front of Elm Street School at 11:30 a.m.

He added, however, that DiSalvo's resignation was good in that it caused student government to re-evaluate its recent actions. He hoped that student government would now be able to move ahead and take care of business.

Also at last night's meeting, Frank Depiro was approved for a position on the Individual Curriculum Committee.

Cards, ZBT fight for title; HPE Club is women's champ

by Greg Gulas

So now the stage has been set and the Independent champion Cards will take on the Fraternity champion Zeta Beta Tau's for the All-University basketball championship.

In play-off action last Sunday, the Cards became Independent champions as they defeated the Celtics, 51-43. A nip and tuck fray with the score standing 27-23 at the half in favor of the Cards, it wasn't until mid-way through the second half that the Celtics began to fade just a bit. Leading the Cards were Jeff Patterson as he tossed in 12 points while four of his teammates combined to add another 34 markers to their final output.

Dave Moore had 17 points for the Celtics, just for the all important second half.

While the Cards may be champions, it is rather peculiar as to how they became the number one team. Earlier in the day, they met Ujama in their much disputed quarter-final battle. With one tick remaining on the clock in regulation play, Jeff Patterson sank the second shot of their two shot technical foul as they edged Ujama, 44-43. Then, in semi-final play, they came back to dispose of the Coup 55-49 as Jeff Patterson once again led the attack with 17 points. Jerome Underwood of the Coup led all scorers in the game with 21 as the Coup finished their season with an impressive 6-2 log.

On the other hand, the road to the championship game for the Celtics was a much tougher one. They made it to the finals by first putting down the powerful Knights 51-50. Down 50-49 with 5 seconds remaining, the Celtics Dave Moore tipped in a missed shot as they moved into the lead, 51-50. Then, when the Knights inbounded the ball, Cliff Stoultz was fouled and as time ran out, failed to convert two foul shots as the Celtics prevailed, 51-50.

In the Independent consolation fray, the Knights bounced back to avenge their earlier defeat as they edged the Coup, the team who had defeated them in the final regular season game to capture their division, 70-68. Down 38-30 at the half, the Coup fought back to cut the margin to within one at various times but were unable to gain the lead. Cliff Stoultz paced the Knights attack with 18 points while Ray Hernan and Rick Guyon chipped in with 16 and 15 respectively. Jerome Underwood once again led all scorers with 20 markers while teammates Joe Christopher, Paul Simone and Tom Walters each connected for double figures.

In the fraternity encounters, John Moser, "Mr. Do-All" of the Zebe's led Zeta Beta Tau to a 39-35 victory over Phi Delta Theta. Down 24-16 at the half, Moser led all scorers with 21 points while Pete Mohl and Denny Dobrindt combined for 22 of the Phi Delt's 35 points.

Then, the consolation fray saw Theta Chi put together a well-balanced scoring attack as they defeated Sigma Phi Epsilon, 40-33. Sigma Phi Epsilon held a slim 11-10 halftime lead but not hold force as Theta Chi took command in the second half. Frank Dixon of the Sigma Phi Epsilon took game scoring honors as he hooped 20 points.

Not to the lost in the shuffle, the HPE Club, ranked number one throughout the entire basketball season, proved just why as they captured the Women's championship with a 20-14 decision over the Happy Hoopers. Five of the HPE Club's players each hooped four points to lead their attack while Alice Ball pumped in 11 of the Happy Hoopers 17 output.

In the consolation fray, Bo's Pros failed to show and Benny's Jets laid claim to a 2-0 forfeit victory.

As it stands now, the All-University consolation will be staged tomorrow night pitting the Independent runners-up, the Celtics, and the Fraternity second place team, Phi Delta Theta in the 6:30 p.m. tip-off while the championship game will take place Friday at 6:00 p.m. The Independent champion Cards, will take on the fraternity champion Zeta Beta Tau's.

Submit faculty award nominations by March 15

Any student or faculty member interested in nominating a faculty member for the "Distinguished Professor Award" should submit their nomination and written justification to Dr. Earl Edgar, vice president for academic affairs, by March 15.

Faculty members, chairpersons, deans and students may nominate faculty for the awards, which are given for excellence in teaching and scholarship. As many as 10 awards may be given each year at the spring commencement on the basis of excellence in teaching scholarship.

Management Dept. offers a new specialized major

A new major in Management, offered by the Management Dept. with a B.S. in business administration and available to all students, will be officially programmed into the academic curriculum next week.

Chairperson Dr. Rama Krishnan, management department, announced the Feb. 12 approval by the Board of Trustees of the new major. The major is designed to provide a program of specialization in management with a broad liberal education base.

The newly introduced management major, described as extremely flexible, allows the student to obtain two minors in addition to the Management major or a second major for those students majoring in other fields of study. According to Krishnan, "Graduates with majors in two areas will have a greater flexibility in the job market. There are much more opportunities for the student."

The new major, established after three years of departmental research, can be effectively applied to almost any job area in the field of career opportunities. Students with questions concerning the new program can direct them to Krishnan, room 513, Lincoln Project, or at 746-1851, ext. 306.

Your last 2 years of college can be your first 2 years of management.

This summer, you can begin 2 years of management education to complement your college degree program. Then, upon graduation, enter a position of instant management responsibility. As an officer in the active Army or Reserves. The Army ROTC 2-year program starts with 6 weeks of summer training at Fort Knox, Ky. With pay (over $500).

You'll learn what it takes to be a soldier — to have your body toughened, your confidence developed.

Do well and you can qualify for Army ROTC courses in the fall. Do exceptionally well, and you may be heading back to college with a two-year full tuition scholarship.

For the next 2 years, you'll learn what it takes to be an Army officer. You'll be challenged both mentally and physically. You'll get the kind of management experience that will be an asset to you in any career, military or civilian. You'll receive an extra $100 a month, up to 20 months. And when you graduate, you'll have earned your college degree along with the gold bars of an Army officer.

If you'd like to graduate with 4 years of college plus 2 years of management, apply by April 1 for the Army ROTC 2-year program.

President Johnson appointed him to assist Sargent Shriver as principal architect of the Vista program. From May, 1968, to February, 1969, Olds was a special assistant for policy and manpower development to President Nixon.

He has represented the United States on delegations to Japan, Yugoslavia, Thailand, Singapore, Liberia, Nigeria, Mexico, Switzerland and the U.S.S.R.

Olds also served as university dean for international studies and world affairs in the State University of New York system, president of Springfield College (Mass.) and guest editor of The Saturday Review.

Olds, a professor of philosophy at KSU, also teaches a freshman philosophy course.

Veterans

VA urged students enrolled under the GI Bill not to drop a course or request a non-punitive grade until they have contacted their school's veterans affairs office and understand what effect the withdrawal from a course or grade may have on their monthly VA checks.

The agency also recommended that both students and school officials provide a brief statement concerning circumstances of the withdrawal or grade assignment when reporting it to the VA.

VA will then determine the effect of the circumstances on the withdrawal or non-punitive grade and notify the student of the action taken to adjust his or her educational benefits.

Our heritage of struggle can not be denied reprinted with the permission of Jonathan Kozol

Many young people in the last few years have started to accept a quite persuasive, but extremely dangerous, idea-one that many people in the right wing of this country dearly hope they will believe. This is the idea that something very special, once known as the "Movement," is all over.

There are at least three points about this issue that should be restated loud and clear.

The "Movement" first of whatever news reports might seem to say is not something that "began" like a mushroom popping up after a rainstorm, one day back in 1960 or in 1963 and ended on a warm spring day in 1972 when Richard Nixon told us it was time to give up our conscience and go back to class.

The whole idea of social struggle, whether it is called a "rent strike" "protest action," "student boycott," "union battle" or full-fledged "rebellion," started long before the 1960's. Few of us ever got a chance in public school to hear about the major labor union battles of the early 1900's. Few students ever heard about the genuine labor leaders of the working poor. Fewer, still, ever have the opportunity to read about the first authentic grassroots labor movement in the United States-the IWW-or "The Wobblies."

All the better reason, then, that we establish, here and now, that what some people call the

Jonathan Kozol
"Movement" is not something that began ten, twelve or fifteen years ago and died of weariness in 1972. The principle of permanent struggle in the cause of justice goes back, in this nation, to the women organizers of the Massachusetts mills, to Emma Goldman, Big Bill Haywood, Woodie Guthrie and Joe Hill-and, in an earlier era, Wendell Phillips, Frederick Douglass, Theodore Parker, Garrison, Thoreau. It is essential that we do not let the television networks, textbooks corporations or the daily press deny us our real heritage of struggle and revolt.

A second point is that the reckless statement heard so often nowadays, that "kids are quiet in all sections of the nation," is, in literal terms, not so. I have visited and talked at length with kids, at something like 200 colleges and high schools in the last five years. In some cases, students are supporting the farm workers. In others, they are fighting for the rights of women. In others still, they stand up in support of ethical teachers who have been improperly suspended or expelled.

The truth is not that students are less active than they were in 1964. The truth is they are far more active, but in battles far less grandiose and less flamboyant.

This leads to one final point: To a large degree, the press not only tells about the truth, but also makes so. If television keeps saying that the kids are "quiet" now, thousands of students start to say, "I guess it must be so." If Time devotes a cover story, as they did a few years back to something they designate "The Cooling of America" thousands of students respond understandably, by saying to each other: "Well, I guess we must be cooling down." The point is that it isn't true unless we want it to be true. If the editors of Time attempt to tell us things are "cooling down," it's in our power to "heat things up" and prove it isn't so.

The student scene (the "mood on campus," as reporters like to say) isn't something long ago and far away, congealed in heaven and decided on television. Editors in New York don't know any more about the "student scene" than do the squirrels in New Hampshire. The only people anywhere who know the student scene are those who are the student scene.

History is not something that is done to you or me. History is made by men and women. It will be changed by men and women too, if it is ever changed at all. If there is a battle to be fought against racism, hunger war and sickness and the exploitation of the poor, it is a battle which depends upon the solidarity of young and old, black and brown and white, of rebel rich and devastated poor, right here and now in our own energy, exhilaration and our nerve.

We can be exiles from the transformation of an unjust social order, or we can step forward in the vanguard of an army of nonviolent rebellion. The choice does not belong to men and women who create the news and cut the tapes at CBS and NBC.

The choice belongs to you and me.

Is it sick to love a pen?

Is it crazy to love marker pens that give you the smoothest, thinnest line in town...and feel so right in your hand? Is it mad to worship pens with clever little metal "collars" to keep their plastic points from getting squishy?

Not if the pen is a Pilot marker pen. Our Razor Point, at only 69c, gives the kind of extra-fine delicate line you'll flip over. And for those times you want a little less line, have a fling with our fine point 59c Fineliner. It has the will and fortitude to actually write through carbons. Randolph-Macon nips YSU; Penguins finish year at 22-7

Playing the role of perfect host, YSU had to be content with third place as upstart Randolph-Macon captured the championship of last weekend. NCAA Division II Great Lakes regional basketball tournament with a pair of slim verdicts over top-seeded YSU and No. 2 seed Eastern Illinois.

"They (NCAA) told us that we were only the fifth best team in our region, so we felt we had something to prove," said jubilant R-M Coach Hal Nunnally. "I think we are the best 21-7 team in the nation."

He might get an argument from the major college ranks on that statement, but not from any of the Great Lakes entrants. The Yellow Jackets nipped YSU, 71-68 in overtime, and then shaded EIU's defending regional champs, 69-66.

In each case, an inbounds play in the final seconds proved to be the difference. Randolph-Macon scrambled for a loose ball on an inbounds play against YSU, leading to a 15-foot jump shot by Danny Connor for its win on Friday. They stole an EIU inbounds pass Saturday, with Connor being fouled and hitting both free throws for the victory.

Randolph-Macon will host Cheyney State, the Eastern Regional Champion, this weekend in a national quarter-final game in Virginia.

Junior Jeff Covington had an outstanding NCAA tournament with two-game totals of 46 points and 35 rebounds to earn a spot on the all-tournament team with MVP Joe Allen of R-M, Floyd Smith of Bellarmine, and Charlie Thomas and Rich Rhodes of Eastern Illinois.

In the process, Covington accomplished the following:

Raised his season scoring total to 679 (23.4 avg.) eclipsing Tony Knotts, junior scoring mark of 657 set in 1954-55.

Moved past Billy Johnson into fifth spot in career scoring with 1,764 points.

Broke Phil Gaston's season field goal percentage record of 57.3% with remarkable 59.3% (265-447) shooting mark.

Named to three All-American teams last season as a sophomore. He has an excellent chance of equalling those laurels this year. The important fact, according to Coach Dom Rosselli, is that Jeff has on season of eligibility remaining.

In three years as a YSU regular, Covington has led the Penguins to a pair of NCAA Division II tournament appearances and a glittering 58-25 record and .699 percentage.

Playing their final games in a Penguin uniform were seniors Gary Anderson (10.0 ppg, 7.2 rb) Bob Carlson (2.1 ppg., 1.1 rb), Tony Mitchell (12.8 ppg., 5.4 rb), and Terry Moore (3.4ppg., 1.76 assists).

Rosselli started Covington and the four seniors in the 81-79 consolation game triumph over Bellarmine, but also went with what could be considered next year's lineup of freshman Joe Sekora and sophomore Gerald Parks (13.4 ppg., 2.5 rb) in the backcourt, with Covington at center and junior Frank Andrews (4.2 ppg., 3.6 rb) and freshman Steve Miodrag (5.4ppg., 3.7 rb) the forwards.

The 22-7 final record is the third best mark in YSU history. Rosselli has procured a total of 13 post-season teams with an over all mark of 19-13.

Si Fore of Sigma Phi Epsilon in the consolation game of the One-on-One competition. And John Moser will take on Dave Moore of the Celtics in the one-on-one championship.

Both squads are made up of ten players with two players who have been chosen as reserves to be used if some unforeseen circumstances arise.

The squads were chosen by the captains. In all, 36 players were nominated, no more than two from any one squad. The result are the twenty players chosen with both fraternity and independents competing on the same squads. It should make for an interesting game. Just who comes out the winner remains to be seen Friday night.
