YSU gains tourney berth...

Great Lakes regional event to be held here

by John Creer

If members of YSU's basketball squad are spotted walking around campus with swelled chests and perhaps an extra-large hat size, well, they have every right to!

On the strength of their impressive 18-5 record, YSU has earned a berth in the NCAA Division II Great Lakes regional tournament and, to top it off, have been selected to host the March 4-5 event.

Official announcement of the invitation was made shortly after 6 p.m. Tuesday by the NCAA and immediately accepted by Dr. John J. Coffelt, YSU's president. The selection of the Penguins marks YSU's ninth NCAA basketball appearance and 13th post-season berth overall. This is the first time the Penguins will host an NCAA basketball tourney.

"I feel the credit for this honor should go to Coach Dom Rosselli, assistant Roger Lyons and the young men who have contributed to this successful season," said athletic director Paul Amodio, who will serve as tournament manager. "The NCAA realizes that Youngstown is a valuable market because of its outstanding support of intercollegiate athletics."

Amodio announced the following purchase policy for tickets to the two-day happening at Beeghly

Center:

1. Reserved seat tickets will be priced at $4.00 each for Sections 7 & 8 (Century Club) and $3.50 for all other reserved sections. Tickets must be purchased for both nights in advance.

2. Current season ticket holders will have first priority to purchase tickets. Their regular season seats may be reserved now by contacting the athletic business office in Beeghly.

3. General admission tickets will be priced at $2.50 each. Students will have first priority to purchase general admission tickets through Feb. 25. Public sales will take place beginning Feb. 28. No student ID cards will be honored because this is an NCAA event and not school-sanctioned.

Rosselli, in his 33rd year here, stressed to "give all the credit to our players, because they have

A weekend of theater entertainment has been lined up for YSU's Spring Theater weekend in New York City on April 15-17, announced the department of continuing education.

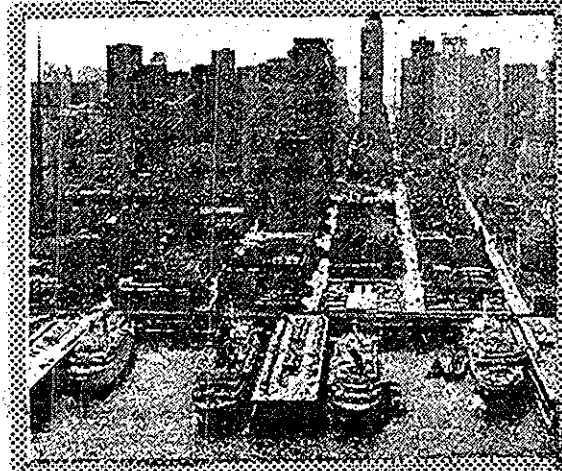

Included in the theater package is round trip airfare from Pittsburgh to New York City (the group will travel to Greater Pittsburgh International Airport by motor-coach); two nights double lodging at the Americana included are meals, New York City taxi or items of a personal nature.

On Friday evening the group will see Sly Fox starring Oscar Winner George C. Scott.

Saturday afternoon the group will attend a performance of California Suite, the Neil Simon smash comedy hit of the season.

Saturday evening the group will have tickets for the performance of the musical A Chorus

City Square Inn located at 51st Street and 7th Avenue; charter bus; between the New York Airport and the hotel and orchestra theater tickets for three Broadway performances.

The price for the theater package is $214 per person. Not

Line. Between the performances there will be free time for individuals to visit the galleries and museums or to shop.

The group will depart from the University at 11 a.m. on Friday, April 15, for the motor trip to

Criticizes stadium opponents

To the Editor of The Jambar:

I would like to dedicate this article to the one-laned minds who believe the stadium and football program are a waste of money. Well, my dear comrades, I would like to broaden your education on the matter at hand and I'll do it for free!

Let me point out for the misguided student, who is being abused by the saturation of one-sided articles appearing in The Jambar, that our unbiased editor and his groupies have proposed to abolish the football program and curtail the construction of the badly needed stadium because it's irrelevant to a rounded education. What they are really suggesting is that the money allocated and raised for these programs be set aside and used in a more constructive manner.

Now that the editor and his anti-athletic commune has glanced at the situation most objectively, they have reassured the student that they have been on the ball by conjuring up worthwhile, not to mention brilliant, ideas for projects that should have more priority over such utter nonsense as physical fitness. I want to list just a few of these brilliant and practical suggestions:

The first suggestion was the proposal to build more campus housing. Now this would seem logical if YSU was as big as Ohio State, but it's not! And for all those students who have a touch of amnesia, YSU has been and still is a commuter school. But why piddle around with the details . . . right? Have no fear! If this proposal doesn't strike you as practical and sound there's more.

How about the practicality of spending a pretty penny (or should I say dollar?) on adding more landscape to the campus surroundings? Here again, the editor and friends have come up with another practical idea. I mean, what else can be more practical than installing newer grass and trees on our "spacious" campus grounds, so that the neighborhood dogs will have more room to spread their warmth to the students. If there is any doubt on the practicality of the last idea do not fret, because I have saved the best for last.

The third suggestion, and probably their best, is to build newer and larger parking lots. Now I ask you, what can be so drastically needed and so well thought out than the addition of more parking lots for a university that has, at any given time, more parking spaces than students. The only reason that there are students complaining about the lack of available parking spaces is because they are too damn lazy to walk a few feet to class. The solution is not in the building of newer parking lots, but rather in the building of the body through physical fitness programs, so that these poor complaining students can handle the strenuous walk.

If there is one thing that I have learned at this school it would have to be in the discipline of objectivity. For the sake of the students who haven't taken this 500 level course, the word objective means to learn and understand both sides of the story before you start throwing stones. I strongly suggest that the hypocrites who write derogatory letters to The Jambar about the stadium and football program learn the discipline of being objective and rid yourself of your ignorance. There are more benefits to be obtained from the stadium and football program than there are from a new parking lot, and I recommend that you look into these benefits "objectively" because I would hate to see this school lose its football program and the hopes of getting a new stadium due to a few ignorant "pencil necks."

Jack Dever
Senior Business

Editor's note: "Pencil necks?" Derogatory and non-objective?

Every Last Drop

Although the Jambar has not agreed with Student Council and Student Government in the past, there is one upcoming event to which the Jambar lends 100% support. On Tuesday and Wednesday (if the nurses strike, then only Tuesday) of next week Student Council and the Mahoning Valley Community Blood Center will hold a blood donor "clinic" for all interested YSU students. The clinic was planned so that (if the 6% quota is reached) if needed, every student at YSU could receive free blood. The clinic is going to be held in the lobby of the CAST building with refreshments being served after the donor has finished giving his or her blood. The process won't take very long, it's relatively painless, and above all, it will be nice to know that if you ever need blood yourself, you can get it for free.

NOT VERY WELL...

Explains use of microfilm readers

To the Editor of The Jambar:

The letter by William Hansen that appeared in Tuesday, Feb. 15, Jambar has prompted me to respond as the library staff member currently most concerned with the microform room. I want to make it clear that I am not part of the library administration.

There are many things to complain about in the Microform Room, this I don't deny. But Mr. Hansen has chosen to complain about something that is simply not true—namely, the "idiotic" way the new Bell & Howell microfilm readers are loaded. This misunderstanding could have been cleared up if Mr. Hansen had spoken to the Serials Librarian—or to me. But since he chose to go the public route, so will I.

The new microfilm readers quit working after about one week. Since they are fully automatic, with no manual back-up, they are now completely out of order. But we will be receiving replacements very soon, so this problem should be solved in a short time (I said should). We do have three manually operated microfilm readers that have been around for about two years. The only electricity required for them is for the light bulb, and the film can be wound just as quickly or as slowly as a person's hand can turn the crank.

The fact that the old readers load from the right and the new readers load from the left has absolutely nothing to do with the film being projected "backwards or upside down." If the film on a reel is backwards or upside down it is because the previous user didn't rewind the film back to the original reel when he or she was finished, but continued winding all the film onto the take-up reel. This action produces a reel of film on which the last page of the last date (or issue, etc.) appears first on the reel instead of last where it belongs. There is a great probability that Mr. Hansen encountered some reels like this, but the problem lies not in the new microfilm readers, but in the carelessness or innocent ignorance of previous users. Unfortunately, I can't spend all my working day checking each of the thousands of reels of microfilm to be sure they are wound properly, and so these problem reels are only discovered as people use them and bring them to the staff's attention. I realize that this is an annoying problem, but it isn't something that happens each time anyone uses a reel of microfilm.

As for the other minor problems that Mr. Hansen wasn't even going to mention, the spindles do not jam easily (in fact, they are designed to take all kinds of reels and both sides of the reel—you just have to push a little harder on the film if you meet any resistance and all the microform reading machines have sharp corners.

Symphony Concert

The phenomenally gifted young violinist, Miriam Fried, will appear as guest soloist with the Youngstown Symphony Orchestra Franz Bibo, conductor, at the 4th concert of the 50th Anniversary Year, 8:30 p.m., Saturday, Feb. 19, in Powers Auditorium, Youngstown Symphony Center.
 Fried will perform Sibelius' beautiful and poetic, Concerto for Violin and Orchestra in D Minor. Other works to be performed are Overture to Marriage of Figaro by Mozart and Mendelssohn's Symphony No. 3 in A Minor (Scotch).

All season ticketholders are asked to use their Number 4 tickets for this concert. Concert No. 3 featuring pianist Jeffrey Siegel was cancelled earlier this month. The new date for Concert 3 will be announced shortly.

Those not able to attend Saturday's concert are urged to call the Symphony office and release their seats for re-sale.

Tickets for the concert and the Meet the Artist lecture at 1:00 p.m. on Friday, at the Butler Institute of American are now available at the Symphony office, 260 Federal Plaza West. Phone reservations accepted by calling 744-4269.

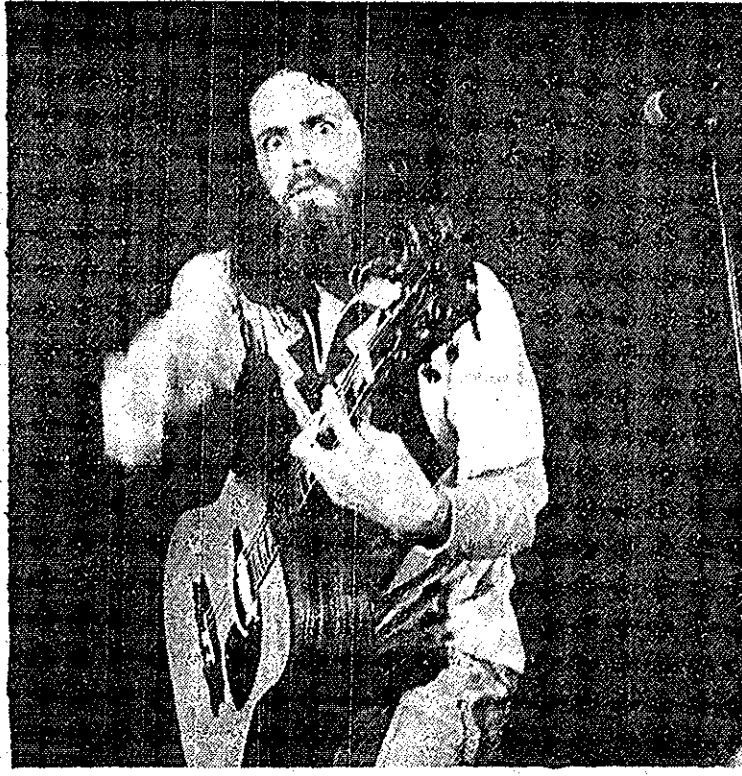

The lights went down, and it was the mid-sixties again. The room was no longer the Kilcawley multi-purpose room, but it was Le Cave in Cleveland, the Gates in Youngstown, the Cellar Door in Athens, or a just starting place in Columbus, the Agora.

That was the atmosphere Saturday night for the mini-series concert featuring Terry Beard and James Lee Stanley, two performers of quality, but with different styles of music.

Stanley is definitely the better musician and singer, but Beard, who appeared first, pleased the audience more.

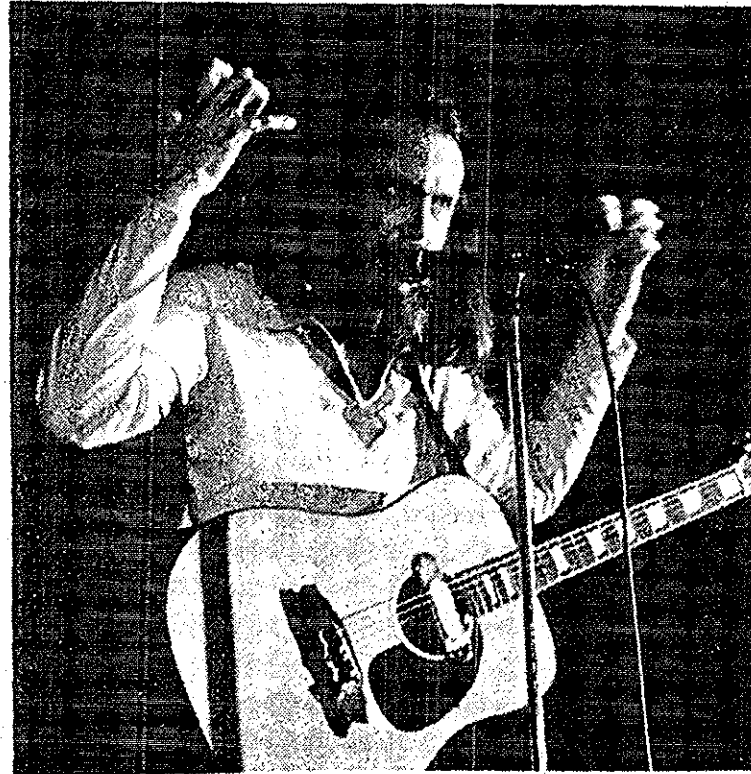

Beard's performance was somewhat of a rock opera about the typical male and female relationships, that leaned toward the raunchy side. The humor was excellent, the songs fun and the audience completely receptive.

Next, as happened so often in the old style coffeehouses, James Lee Stanley, whose style was completely opposite from his predecessor. Quiet and mellow, concentrating more on the sound, Stanley began his set and gave the audience some part of himself.

More than Beard, he was reminiscent of the old coffeehouse performer, turning off some of the audience, but finding the ones that he can relate to and playing for them and himself. One had the feeling that if there was no pay for his performance, he would still have played with his payment being the applause, and more than that, the audience.

Many thanks to KCPB and the Major Events committee for co-sponsoring this concert. For a dollar fifty, it was one of the better buys this year.

WIZARD

by Neil S. Yutkin
and
Steve Furgas

The man in black casts his spell, and the music weaves its way magically through the air to challenge our moods and create a new image of radio for Youngstown, and especially for our minds. The man in black is the Wizard, and the music he plays is spell-binding.

The Wizard is FM 101 or what once was WHOT-FM. It is also three DJ's: Mark French, Tommy John and Jerry Starr. Each one's theory of music is projected in their shows.

The idea was conceived a full five years ago, but not born until recently on a napkin in the Mansion restaurant. The idea is not altogether progressive; but it is what is known as "album oriented rock" (AOR).

"There are no longer any truly progressive stations left, with steamboat whistles playing for half an hour," stated Jerry Starr, the grand old man of the Wizard. "Progressive still connotes underground at a small station where the DJ's bring their records from home and play what they are into," added Thomas John, the daytime Wizard.

There was a novice Wizard for about a year. It was the Jerry Starr Midnight to Dawn Show. When the popularity of this show became obvious, and it was proven that AOR would be accepted in this market, the change that had long been contemplated was made, and Youngstown had its first "progressive" sound.

There is planned a gradual orientation to the new sounds, the ones that are not Top 40. This will be done by mixing the

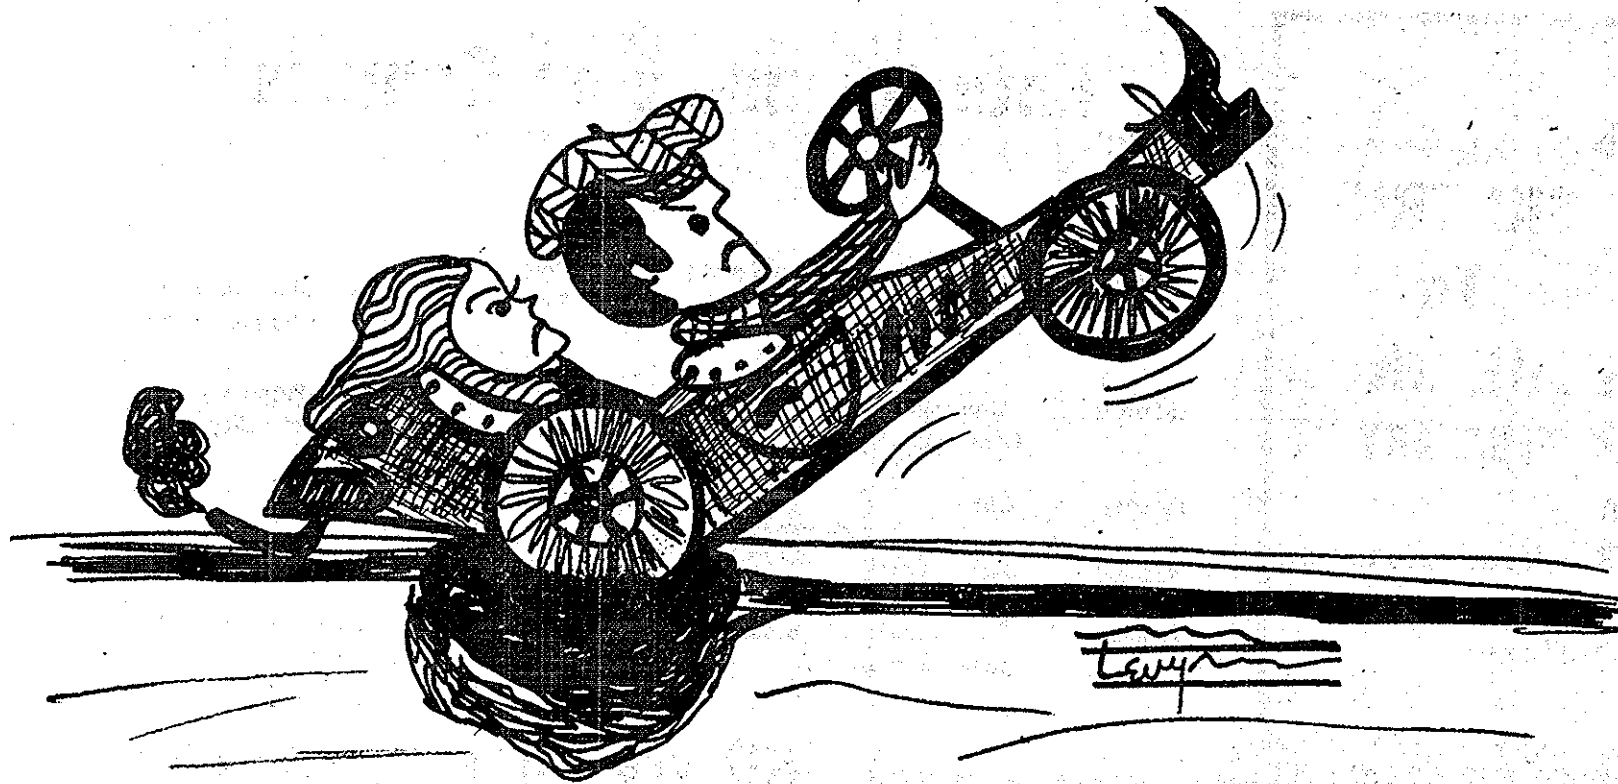

"now" sounds and some oldies, with the non-top 40 songs, until the listeners become comfortable with the new sounds.

Some of the new ideas that are planned include Sunday Night Specials with a comedy hour, two hours of jazz and an artist profile hour. There is also in the planning stages, album previews every night at midnight and on Saturday at midnight, a classic album hour.

Eventually, the Wizard, combining with a number of other stations in a loose form of network, will evolve completely into a free-form live style that has characterized many of the more famous "progressive" stations across the country.

"Seven wonders of the world lay before your feet, from far off lands and distant shores so many friends to meet; are you sitting comfortably let the (Wizard) cast its spell . . ." (Moody Blues).

Dodge the Chuckholes

or how to save your muffler without really trying

by Neil S. Yutkin

There's a great new game that most students, faculty and administrators have been playing for the last week, without knowing the rules. It's called "Dodge the Chuckhole," and the penalty for not playing of following the rules can be anything from losing a muffler to a cracked frame or a blown tire. The penalty is assessed according to the speed of the infraction.

Theatre trip

Pittsburgh. Arrival in New York City is scheduled for 2:03 p.m.

Return from New York is scheduled for 2:25 p.m. with the return to the YSU campus at 5:30 p.m. on Sunday, April 17.

The package price of $214 is a savings of nearly $50 over the individual cost of arranging the trip on one's own, according to Dr. John Loch, director of continuing education.

Only 40 reservations will be accepted and those interested are urged to sign up early by calling 746-1851, ext. 483 or by stopping at the office, room B086, CAST. A deposit of $50 made payable to YSU is required before March 15 to hold one's place. Full payment of the $214 is due on March 15.

If for any reason it is necessary for someone to cancel, a full refund will be made through April 1. After that date a refund of the portion which is uncommitted will be refunded.

All three plays have received good reviews. California Suite revolves around four playlets by Neil Simon. Each is concerned with different people occupying the same suite of the Beverly Hills Hotel at different times and for differing purposes.

Critic Walter Kerr's comment upon seeing the play was that "the evening as a whole keeps its brightness intact." Directed by Gene Saks, Suite stars Tammy Grimes, George Grizzard, Jack Weston and Marge Redmond.

A Chorus Line deals with the life and times of the Broadway show dancer. Michael Bennett directs this musical which Kerr described as "stunning in both its economy and its force. A simple falling into place took my breath away."

George C. Scott stars in Sly Fox, Larry Gelbart's play based on Ben Johnson's "volpone" (fox) about a trickster who feigns death.

"What was once rather cerebral verse becomes sumptuous contemporary vaudeville," Kerr commented. "Mr. Scott glitters, the others shine almost as brightly," he added.

The New York theater trip is the first of the new Edu-Travel series planned by the department of continuing education.

A trip to Stratford, Ontario, Canada is being planned for June 16-18 to witness the Shakespeare Festival Theater productions of Richard III, All's Well That Ends Well and A Mid-Summer Night's Dream.

Details of this Edu-Travel trip will be announced later. More information may be obtained by calling the office of continuing education or by stopping at the office 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday.

The rules are rather simple. There are three types of chuckholes to be dodged, with varying points for missing each one. First, there is the pot hole, usually in a group, which scores only five points for a dodge (hardly worth the effort). Next, comes the large chuckhole where a dodge scores 10 points, or three points if you hit it and come away with your muffler and tailpipe intact. Finally, there is the lie type of hole, which generally zig-zags across lanes of traffic. To dodge this type, gives the driver a whopping twenty-five points.

There are also bonus points to be earned. For example, you can receive 25 points for dodging in the same manner as the car in front of you, thus creating a sort of line dance with cars. Fifty points will be awarded (the top prize) for driving from Boardman to Liberty, or Austintown to Campbell without hitting a chuckhole, or being arrested for driving under the influence.

The contestants who succeed in piling up large amount of points before the warm weather allows the road crews the chance to patch the roads, will win, and not have to spend money on repairs or a new car.

YSU grapplers top W. Va.; four may qualify for NCAA

A pin in the heavyweight bout cost Youngstown grapplers their ninth victory of the season Saturday, Feb. 12, 24-22, at Waynesburg (PA) College.

The Penguins returned to their winning ways on Tuesday by defeating West Virginia 39-6 at Beeghly Center. West Liberty State won the meet by defeating the Penguins 24-15 and West Virginia 34-11.

Double winners for YSU in Tuesday match were: Don Hernan, wrestling up one class at 142; Dean Stilgengauer, 150; Bill Perkins, 177 and heavyweight Star Spencer.

Other winners were; Dan Din ger, 134; Ken Moser, 158 and Ker Hycryk, 167. Hycryk's loss to Spencer of West Liberty was his first of the season.

Ken Hycryk, 167; Don Hernan 134 and Dane Stilgenbauer, 150 ran their records to 12-1 with victories last week. Ken Moser, 167 is currently 11-2 for the season. All four are expected to qualify for the NCAA Division II Wrestling Championships, March 4-5 at Northern Iowa University.

Sunday games to determine Intramural playoff picture

by Greg Gulas

This Sunday will perhaps be the most hectic thus far in Intramural basketball for almost every hour will have bearing on deciding divisional representatives for post-season play.

At 10:30 a.m., the Blazers and Yuk Fu, both 3-1 will tangle to decide the division XIV crown while the 11:30 a.m. fray will pit the Concrete Cagers, 3-0, against the once beaten Bleacher Bums. Should the Bums win, an eventual tie would result in division I.

In the 12:30 p.m. encounter, the Knights and the Coup, both with unblemished 3-0 marks will lock strategy as they vie for the division II crown. At 1:30 p.m., Zeta Beta Tau, (3-1), will face Nu Sigma Tau, (3-1) as both are try-to garner the runner-up slot in division I and an eventual play-off berth.

At 2:30 p.m., women will assume the spotlight as the H.P.E. Club, (3-0), go up against the Happy Hoopers, (3-0) with the division I crown on the line. Then at 3:30 p.m., women are on top again as Benny's Jets and the Bleacher Bums, both with 3-1 records, battle for the division II crown.

At 4:30 p.m., the APD Gang and Bo's Pros, both sporting undefeated 3-0 records, square off for the division IV title while at 6:30 p.m., Red Pride at 3-0 face the Canadian Club, 2-1 in a key division X encounter.

In the final fray of the evening, the Salug Gang and the U.S. Funk Mob, both with unblemished 4-0 marks, will do battle for the division V crown.

All in all, it should make for an interesting play-off structure no matter who the divisional representatives should be.

INTRAMURAL NOTES—

'Andy' finishes career as complete team player

by Ralph Morris

Playing the role of a good rebounder and a steady defensive player is often a hard thing to do in a game where a player's worth is most often measured in how many points he has scored.

However, Gary Anderson played the role quite well in high school where he was the leading rebounder on Braddock's 1973 Pennsylvania Class A state championship basketball team and he has been willing to do the same to help the YSU Penguins gain a spot in the NCAA Division II Great Lakes basketball tournament.

Following high school, Anderson, who is nicknamed "Andy" or "Goose," chose to attend YSU rather than accept offers from a number of schools in Pa., West Virginia, and North Carolina. He chose YSU primarily because of its proximity to his Braddock, Pa. home and also because he felt he might have a better chance to play ball here.

Anderson, 6'8" and 178 pounds, is now in his fourth year as a Penguin having already won three letters playing as both a starter and as a substitute.

Asked which role, starter or reliever, he prefers, Gary smiled and replied, "I really prefer to start because a player doesn't always know whether or not he is ever going to come off the bench." However, he said he doesn't discount the importance of doing well in relief and being called on to substitute "makes you feel depended upon."

Whenever he has been called upon to play Gary has proven himself a valuable contributor. Gary started the final eight games of the 1975-76 season, six of which the Penguins won and the other two were dropped by a total of seven points.

Prior to this season, "Goose" had accumulated 553 career points good for an even eight per game and has also hauled in 421 rebounds for a per game clip of six.

This year Anderson has hooped 86 of 164 field tries and 35 of 45 free throws for 206 points and a per game average of slightly under 10. Gary's 30 point outburst against Alliance College early in the campaign remains as the top individual performance for YSU. After getting off to a tremendous start this season Gary suffered a severe finger dislocation which knocked him out of the lineup.

Anderson then spent much of the middle part of the season languishing on the bench until recently when he entered Wednesday night's fray with Maine and responded with 19 points and a game-high of 8 rebounds. Gary also netted 15 and grabbed 10 in the Penguin's win over Buffalo last week.

Head coach Dom Rosselli recently noted that, "Andy is solid, there isn't a harder working player on the squad." Rosselli continued by exclaiming that,

"Gary is what I consider a '110 percenter' . . . that is he is a dedicated performer on both offense and defense and is a very fine all-around person and very well-liked."

Gary is an industrial management major and hopes to start his own business someday. If he carries his attitude towards basketball, being involved in the action and competing to win, into the business world he is sure to be as successful in it as he has been on ment." Continuing, the veteran mentor said, "We are especially happy to have the opportunity to host the event in Youngstown." "I wish to publicly thank our many loyal fans, whose support helped make this season a fine one," added Rosselli. "I know that without their outstanding support this invitation might not have been possible."

YSU's latest triumph was a 77-68 verdict over a strong and scrappy Maine five on Wednesday night. Leading seasonal scorer Jeff Covington did it once again by canning 25 and was trailed by forward Gary Anderson with 19 on a perfect night that included 8 of 8 from the field and 3 of 3 from the foul line.

The initial half of the win over the Black Bears was extremely well-played with few turnovers. In fact, YSU did not shoot a single foul shot in the first half. The Penguins held the biggest lead of the half, 8-2, early in the contest and the ensuing leads changed hands often. Senior Tony Mitchell, freshman Joe Sekora and Covington sparked in the first half which was as close as the score, 36-36.

Second half action featured the exceptional play of Covington and Anderson who combined to score 30 of YSU's final 41 points. Gary also hauled in 8 rebounds to pace the squad and played an intimidating brand of defense underneath. As mentioned Covington finished with 25, Anderson with 19 and Mitchell also reached double figures with 14. Sekora's fine play, which included 8 points, was labeled as "superb" by Rosselli. YSU shot at a hot 56 percent from the floor on 32 of 58 and hit on 13 of 17 foul tries for 77 percent.

Maine, who did not play like a team with a mediocre 11-10 record, were led by guard Dan Reilly with 24. The visitors sank 30 of 65 field goal attempts and 8 of 13 at the charity stripe.

On Monday, the Penguins travelled across the state lines to neighboring New Wilmington to face Westminster and came away with a 54-53 overtime win. The Titans (12-6) held YSU to an unbelievable total of only 18 halftime points while scoring 28 to take the lead after the first twenty minutes. However the Penguins, behind Parks, Covington, Mitchell and Gerald Parks fought back in the final half to nod the score at 45-44 at the end of regulation time. The Penguins had held the lead 45-44 with only seconds left but Parks drew a technical foul and Greg Smith of Westminster calmly converted the free throw.

Covington hooped 6 of YSU's 8 points in the overtime period including a crucial three-point play with only a minute remaining to insure YSU's success. Covington led overall with 21, Parks had 15 and Mitchell 10.

Cannon College will visit Beeghly Saturday for an 8 p.m. tip-off. Although the pressure to achieve a tourney spot is off, the Penguins will be out to avenge a humiliating defeat to the Knights only two weeks ago and are also hoping to reach another team goal of 20 victories. Cleveland State will be here on Wednesday night.

PENGUIN NOTES—Roger Lyon's reserve team also won a pair this week with wins over Westminster and an Alumni All-Star squad. . . . Against Westminster guard Joe Votino scored 24 including a streak of 14 consecutive free throws. . . . Against the Stars, center Robin Vincer led with 25 and Steve Taczak had 21 as the Penguins upped their fine record to 11-3. . . . No other tourney teams have been announced yet for the regionals. . . . YSU owns a post-season mark of 18-12. . . . Covington now stands sixth on the all-time career scoring list with 1602 points. . . .

Spring Quarter to offer broadcast opportunity

"The Spring Quarter Telecommunications Seminar will offer a rare educational opportunity for students interested in the field of television broadcasting," stated Stephen Grceovich, director of the YSU Broadcasting Department.

According to Grceovich, the main objective of the training seminar is to prepare people who will be considered for paid student staff positions at the TV Center. "It is for this reason," Grceovich said, "that it is important that students realize that we aren't playing TV, this is the real thing." Grceovich went on to say, "It will be a rough seminar, demanding almost 15 hours per week of the student's time and the student must show a genuine enthusiasm for the project." Grceovich emphasized, however, that participation in the seminar, which he termed, "an 11-week job interview," will not guarantee the student a position on the staff. "Only those students who display an excellent performance, a high degree of motivation and can be termed self-starters will be offered positions on the staff," Grceovich said.

Grceovich explained that of the 52 people who signed up for last spring's seminar, only 15 were offered positions as members of the student staff. Grceovich said that the work of these individuals have, "sold me on the idea of a student staff. We are very pleased and proud of the staff who rival and in some areas are even superior to their commercial broadcast counterparts."

Grceovich outlined the material that would be covered in the seminar as being all aspects of studio, production, studio control room operation, use of YSU's minicam, use of the YSU mobile van and post production and editing of video tape. Students wishing to enroll in the course for credit can do so by obtaining a permit from the TV Center and signing up for the 897 Telecommunications Seminar which is listed under the course code 6952.

Expanding home ec. moves to temporary spot in CAST

The Home Economics department has moved from Clingan-Waddell and has set up temporary residence on the first floor of CAST.

Dr. Aili Hakojarvi, department chairman said, "Many students don't even know we've moved." The move occurred because the home ec department out grew its old location at Clingan-Waddell. Hakojarvi said, "When I came here five years ago there were two full time instructors." The program now has five full-time instructors and 280 students.

The program is made up of three courses of study. Home Ec combines instruction in cooking and sewing and can be acquired with a teaching certificate. Food and nutrition prepares a student to work in a hospital or any food service institution. Child Care is also offered. It serves as a training to enable a person to manage a preschool or child care center.

Miss Cramer, clothing instructor, said they would like to someday expand the furnishings and interior design class into a complete program.

For spring quarter the department is offering a new class called Family Clothing 704. It is offered to majors and non-majors in home ec. Hakoharvi said the class is not listed in the catalog, but it will cover men's, women's and children's wear.

Class assignments will include making something for another member of the student's family. Also ideas on sewing clothes for the aged and handicapped will be taught.

Cramer said the 503 classes are also offered to majors and non-majors. They are designed for students with an interest in home ec, but no background experience.

The grading in home ec classes, Cramer said, is "Based on classroom participation, tests and lab work. She said much of the grading is self evaluated.

This means that the students themselves decide how well they think they have progressed according to guidelines set by the instructor.

The department's temporary facilities consist of seven offices, a workroom and a lab on the first floor of CAST. The lab is a converted classroom. It contains 16 sewing machines and several cutting tables.

Hakojarvi said they are looking forward to finally being able to move up to the third floor of CAST. She said the CAST roof must be repaired before they can move. No completion date for the repairs has been set. The facilities on the third floor are to be more extensive, and will have seven labs instead of one.

"The Army's come around to believe that women are needed in executive positions and that they do have the stamina to be leaders."

"I came into the Army with the idea that I'd be a supervisor, an executive. And I've found that to be quite the case."

Marlene Guynes, 2nd Lt., Adjutant General Corps; Miami University of Ohio, BA/French.

Marlene Guynes is a personnel action and postal officer for the 194th Armored Brigade at Fort Knox. She became an Army officer after a year as an executive administrative assistant at a major mid-western university.

"Women are treated much differently in the Army than they are in the outside world. The Army's opened doors to women in employment that corporations on the outside haven't yet opened. We still have some problems when it comes to getting certain jobs. For instance, sometimes it's difficult for a woman to get a command. But there's a lot more opportunity for advancement in the Army than in a lot of other organizations.

"In my primary job as chief of the personnel action section, I have five people working for me. We handle any actions which deal with the careers of the 5000 people within the brigade...branch transfers and discharges, applications for officer's candidate school, awards and decorations, and extensions on active duty. As brigade postal officer, I have about 110 people. Even some captains and lieutenants, who are the postal officers for units subordinate to the brigade, are responsible to me in this capacity."

You can prepare for responsibility as an Army officer while you're earning your college degree. Army ROTC offers you leadership courses resulting in your officer's commission upon graduation.

"The best thing I've learned to be as an officer is flexible. Because you face continuous change in the requirements of your job. It's challenging to come into a new situation and have to take charge. You'll have some prior training, but mostly academic. And you have to get organized and do the job. Just since I've been here, we've completely reorganized the section so that we've reduced the turnover time on personnel actions from two days to three or four hours.

"As an Army officer, you become ready to meet any challenge or job that's put in front of you, even some things you know absolutely nothing about. But if you were to leave the Army after three years, this type of experience would make you a lot more employable in the outside world."

Art Gallery announces senior show as part of spring quarter program

The Kilcawley Center Art Gallery Committee has announced that the annual YSU Senior & Graduate Student Art Show will open the spring quarter Art Gallery program.

The Senior Show will run from March 28-April 15 and is open to participation by any YSU senior or graduate student. Applications for the annual Student Show are available in the Kilcawley Center Staff Offices, Art Gallery and in the YSU art department. Due to the limited size of the Kilcawley Gallery, the Student Show is limited to YSU seniors and graduate students.

The Student Shows have grown in popularity over the years and this year's organizers expect this year to be the largest yet. Each participant may submit up to two works. Every effort will be made to use all works submitted and ensure that each participant has at least one piece on display. Limitations will be subject to the size of the Kilcawley Gallery and suitable presentation. Application deadline is March 1. All applications, as well as any questions, should be directed to M. Kevin Fahey, assistant director, Kilcawley Center.

The remainder of the spring program will include a Pop Art Show from the New Gallery in Cleveland and a student photography show (details forthcoming). Currently in the Kilcawley Gallery is a show by Willis (Bing) Davis which will be followed by Monotypes circulated by the Ohio Foundation of the Arts.

The three YSU members were at the Blood Center to kick off next week's Blood Donor "Clinic" to be held in the lower lobby of the CAST building. If six percent of the student population of YSU donates at the clinic next week then all YSU students will be able to receive free blood for up to a year afterwards. The dates of the clinic will be Tuesday, Feb. 22, and Wednesday, Feb. 23, from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. on both days. If the Youngstown nurses should go on strike the Wednesday clinic probably will be cancelled. photo by Mike Braun

The third annual Town and Gown Lenten discussion series sponsored by St. John's Episcopal Church, will focus this year on Dietrich Bonhoeffer's The Cost of Discipleship. The six-week series begins at 8:30 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 24 in St. John's parish house lounge. Copies of the book will be available for purchase at the first meeting. All members of the University are invited to participate. For further information, contact Dr. James A. Houck, English Department.

Microfilm

done on this campus all the time, but think about it. The library administration knowingly orders microfilm readers for which every single reel used (sometimes 100 per day) has to be first rewound twice on a contraption, then re-wound again to be used on the other microfilm readers. This sounds like one of those work-related nightmares from which one awakes in a cold sweat of terror. Things have not gotten this bad yet. I would be glad to show Mr. Hansen or any other interested person, that I know what I'm talking about, and I'm not just covering up for some administrative blunder.
