Task force studies university spending

■ The audit should be complete by April.

BY VALERIE BANNER
Jambar Editor

The YSU Operations Improvement Task Force formally launched its study of YSU's operations Friday morning.

The goal of the audit is to improve the efficiency and cost effectiveness of the university, said information provided by John Habat, special assistant to the president, who is providing overall staff management. Organizational and managerial recommendations by the auditor's office are expected to provide immediate and long-term benefits.

Meeting with the state auditor's office representatives in the Gallery of Kilcawley Center, the Task Force's executive committee unveiled the focal points of the study.

The auditor's office will be evaluating the areas of technology, finance, customer relations, facilities and human resources, said representatives at the meeting.

Mark Shutes, faculty union president, said he is glad the audit has been initiated.

"I think it's a good beginning. There are serious budget problems that are now impacting student enrollment and faculty workload. We believe this is the best first step," he said.

YSU President David Sweet requested a performance audit from State Auditor Jim Petro earlier this year. The audit does not include the academic budget or athletics, according to an audit update sent to faculty members by union leaders.

Information passed out at Friday's meeting noted that in addition to the executive committee, an operating committee and study teams will comprise the task force.

The executive committee is composed of members of the university and the community and will define the policies and operational framework, recruit volunteers, evaluate reports and issue recommendations to Sweet.

The operating committee will include university personnel and

Memorial gathering honors English Festival founder

BY CAROL WILSON
Jambar Assistant Editor

The memorial gathering for the late Thomas Gay, former YSU English professor, was an opportunity for friends to honor their former colleague and reflect on his accomplishments during his lengthy career at YSU.

Gay began working at YSU in 1955 where he remained an active faculty member until his retirement in 1994.

Throughout his 38-year career, Gay taught courses in composition, drama and advanced writing. In addition to work inside the classroom, Gay's professional achievements outside the classroom can be accounted for as well.

"Tom, for many years, was the editor of a newsletter for the College English Association of Ohio (CEAO), a statewide publication responsible for keeping English instructors abreast of new programming and curriculums being tried across Ohio," said Dr. Gary Salvner, chair, English, recalling some of Gay's past achievements. Gay was also noted for organizing yearly local area English teachers and YSU faculty for a day of activities and programming at YSU.

"He had a long history of organizing activities of this sort, even before his work with the English Festival," said Salvner.

The English Festival, Gay's most noteworthy accomplishment as co-founder, has been an annual YSU event since 1979.

It began when Gay and his wife, the late Dr. Carol Gay, who at the time was a YSU faculty member as well, had lost their 13-year-old daughter Candace to a rare form of cancer.

After Candace's death, the Gays set aside a fund through the university and asked a small committee from the English department to help plan a writing contest to be held in Candace's honor, which in 1978 was named the Candace Gay Memorial Essay Contest.

with the YSU homecoming court

ALL CANDIDATES DID NOT RESPOND TO THIS SURVEY.

NAME: TOM LAWSON
RANK: SENIOR

MAJOR: CHEMICAL ENGINEERING

1. What brought you to YSU?
I came to YSU because of the great engineering program, and it fit my financial situation.

2. What is there about you that people would be surprised if they knew?
I will drop anything to play a good game of UNO.

3. What is the biggest prank you ever pulled?
When I was much younger, I put shaving cream on my teacher's red car. It took the paint off of the car. It was really bad because I had that same teacher the next year.

4. Where do you see yourself in 10 years?
I will hopefully be employed by a prestigious company. I also hope to have a great family.

NAME: LISA LUCHEY
RANK: SENIOR

MAJOR: ELEMENTARY EDUCATION

1. What brought you to YSU?
My major is elementary education, and YSU has an excellent education department. It also seemed like a sensible economic choice. It would have been nice to go away to school, but I'm happy with the decision I made.

2. What is there about you that people would be surprised if they knew?
Most people I've met in college seem surprised to know I played the violin for eight years.

3. What is the biggest prank you ever pulled?
I've pulled tiny little pranks on my friends and my brother, but I don't like when they're pulled on me, so I don't make a habit of it.

4. Where do you see yourself in 10 years?
By that time, I'll be 31. Hopefully, I'll be teaching in a school system with my master's degree and going back to school for a second career of study. I want to continue my education.

NAME: TINA NASTOFF
RANK: SENIOR

MAJOR: PSYCHOLOGY

1. What brought you to YSU?
I grew up in Boardman, so I wanted to stay home and be close to my friends and family.

2. What is there about you that people would be surprised if they knew?
I am very shy around people I first meet. People that know me never would think that I am a shy person.

3. What is the biggest prank you ever pulled?
Besides prank phone calls in middle school, I really haven't done much in the prank department.

4. Where do you see yourself in 10 years?
I see myself with a challenging career and hopefully having a family. I hope to be having the time of my life and traveling a lot.

NAME: KELLY PRICE
RANK: SENIOR

MAJOR: PSYCHOLOGY

1. What brought you to YSU?
It is close to home, and I received a good scholarship.

2. What is there about you that people would be surprised if they knew?
I love action movies. I can watch anything with Sean Connery or Bruce Willis.

3. What is the biggest prank you ever pulled?
My friends and I hid my one friend's dissection pig on April Fool's Day. She thought she was going to have to start all over.

4. Where do you see yourself in 10 years?
I want to be working in an institute of higher learning as an administrator.

NAME: LUKAS SAMUELS
RANK: JUNIOR

MAJOR: BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

1. What brought you to YSU?
My parents made an offer I couldn't refuse. They offered to pay for a lot. However, the main reason I am here is because of my friends.

2. What is there about you that people would be surprised if they knew?
I'm a total packrat. I collect everything from hundreds of pairs of sunglasses to match boxes, SoBe bottles, comic books, designer socks and boxers.

3. What is the biggest prank you ever pulled?
There are a plethora of pranks I used to pull, but I will incriminate myself no further.

4. Where do you see yourself in 10 years?
I hope to manage a large corporation, perhaps with the international market. Since I'm always exploring new options, I also see myself running businesses on the side.

NAME: MARIANNE STANEK
RANK: SENIOR

MAJOR: EDUCATION

1. What brought you to YSU?
I came to YSU because my uncle is here, and my brother was attending at the time.

2. What is there about you that people would be surprised if they knew?
I think people would be surprised to know I am shy. I tend to hold a lot of things in and keep them for myself.

3. What is the biggest prank you ever pulled?
When my senior class from high school tried to toilet paper the houses of the juniors. Everything went wrong. We were chased by dogs and had shotguns held to our heads and had to dive into the bed of a speeding truck. We never did get to toilet paper.

4. Where do you see yourself in 10 years?
I see myself very secure in a stable job. I would hope to have a family of my own started.

NAME: DARLA ZUBAL
RANK: SENIOR

MAJOR: POLITICAL SCIENCE

1. What brought you to YSU?
I transferred here from Mount Union College my freshman year, and I knew YSU had a good political science department.

2. What is there about you that people would be surprised if they knew?
I have an obsession with "Gone with the Wind," and I collect Beanie Babies. I was also an intern in the U.S. Capitol.

3. What is the biggest prank you ever pulled?
I skipped school on senior skip day in high school.

4. Where do you see yourself in 10 years?
I hope to be practicing law. I'm not sure what area, though. I also hope to run for a public office someday, and I want to have my own law firm and live in Washington, D.C.

NEWS BRIEFS

General Motors selected Dr. Jane Reid's marketing class to participate in an internship program fall semester. Reid is a professor of marketing at YSU.

The class was separated into groups forming university promotions. The 26 students are sponsoring the Grand MaliBOO Cash Bash, which will be held on Halloween.

The students will research and promote GM vehicles. The students' duties will include advertising, public relations, campaign development, research and presentations.

YSU police arrested Jonathan Hill, 33, of 931 Albert St., Youngstown, for begging and vehicle trespass Wednesday. Hill entered a student's car while the car was stopped at a red light at the corner of Wick Avenue and E.B. Service Road. The student gave Hill $12 to get him to leave the car. Police were able to apprehend Hill on Wick Avenue at the Time Warner Cable Building.

representatives from the auditor's office and the executive committee, according to the faculty update.

The study teams will conduct the analyses, prepare draft reports and make preliminary recommendations, according to the faculty update.

The task force said the university has raised $283,500 of $300,000 needed to fund this study.

The money has come from community corporate support.

The auditor's office has been on campus since Oct. 2 and expects to present the final report to the YSU Board of Trustees in April, according to the update.

GAY, continued from page 1

"The longer we talked about it, the more we talked about having not only a writing contest but an entire day of activities, and that really is what became the English Festival," said Salvner.

After his retirement in 1994, Gay left the Youngstown area but remained in touch with friends and continued to take an active interest in all aspects of the English Festival.

His death this past July was never acknowledged publicly by friends from the Youngstown area until Friday.

"This is all very informal. Those of us who knew Tom personally and professionally now have this chance to offer brief comments and remarks. This is our way of remembering Tom and thanking him for all he's done for the university, the community, the students and for all of us," said Salvner.

Student remembered for passion of music

By AMANDA SMITH
Jambar Reporter

William J. Meyer Jr., 27, of 2460 Athens S.E., a YSU student, died of liver cancer Oct. 12 in his home. Meyer, who studied electronic technology, was a tuba player in the YSU marching and concert bands.

"We were on the tuba line together in 1997 and 1998," said Stephanie Kommel, senior, music education, a friend of Meyer's. "The funniest thing happened when we played the Star Wars show. We were playing the Cantina band song. There was a part where all the tuba line ran to the front [of the performance]."

"We all kneeled and heard this noise, and we knew it came from Billy. We all looked over to him, and all we could see was the bell of his tuba flying through the air."

"He marched the rest of the show without the bell of his tuba," she said.

Dr. Steven Gage, associate director, Dana School of Music, said he remembers Meyer as a "dedicated and outstanding young man."

"His passion flowed from him about his music and personal pride for participation in the group," Gage said. "When I saw him a year ago, after he first found out he had this [condition], the first thing he wanted to do was come back to play the sousaphone. I think that speaks volumes about him," Gage said.

Gage said a tribute halftime show for Meyer is planned for November.

According to the Gray lab cancer research trust, adult primary liver cancer is a disease in which cancer (malignant) cells start to grow in the tissues of the liver. For more information, visit the lab's Web site at <http://www.graylab.ac.uk/>.

Material tributes in memory of Meyer may be made to the American Cancer Society.

YSU homecoming events are plentiful

There are more than 20 activities scheduled during Homecoming Week that cater to a wide variety of students, faculty, staff and alumni.

From a pizza-eating contest to sumo wrestling to an alumni lunch, the homecoming committee did its best to try to cover all bases. And for that the university owes the committee a great big thank you.

The campus won't even be able to fight over the music selection since HOT 101, Y-103 and K-105 will be representing three very different musical tastes on three different days.

If someone doesn't like pizza but wants to compete for a $50 gift certificate for the YSU Bookstore, that person has the choice of BW-3 wings and Arby's roast beef eating contests.

There wasn't a whole lot left out.

Greek alumni can meet current members of the Greek system at a special tailgating tent, and students and faculty can bring their children to enjoy the velcro obstacle course or "funny fotos."

As visitors flock to campus, especially Saturday, they will find a wide variety of activities, all culminating Saturday with the parade, homecoming king and queen crowning and, of course, the football game.

Students who complain there is nothing to do on campus will be hard pressed to criticize this week without sounding like cynics and nit-pickers.

Although there are not Halloween-related activities, which is the impression one gets from the "Horror in the Ice Castle" slogan, homecoming is homecoming, and activities should reflect as such.

YSU may not be a resident campus that marks homecoming the social event of the year as some schools do, but that doesn't mean students can't enjoy what has been planned for them.

A lot of planning and work went into this event — now all YSU needs is students to enjoy the festivities.

Check out The Jambar Web site, and get the news before getting to campus.

Library outlaw

By AMANDA SMITH, Jambar Editor

So, I have this overdue library book. I mean, its REALLY overdue. Like, four years overdue.

What should I do? I just can't bring myself to return it. The shame! The agony! The utter humiliation of turning in a book marked "Due May 5, 1996" to an unsuspecting librarian!

I can offer a million excuses. I didn't have enough time. It was too nice out to drive to the library and too far to walk. I had to study for tests, write papers, read papers, clean my fish tank, clean my cat's litter box, etc.

What it breaks down to is this: I am the not-so-proud borrower of a book due back more than four years ago.

It's not the fines that bother me; it's the humiliation of admitting that I am a victim of laziness and irresponsibility. I never actually read the book, yet I've had it in my possession for more than four years, sitting innocuously on my bookshelf. Its paper-back binding is a little more beat up now than it was when I originally checked it out for my high school sophomore-year book report.

I'm a little worried — according to The Daily Illini Online, a student at the University of Illinois was once arrested for having overdue library books — a bunch of them. The student had, 174 books worth about $10,000, a search of his home revealed.

My case isn't quite that bad. Still, YSU's Maag Library has had its share of overdue books. Jim McTigue, library media technician, said Maag just had a book returned that was 480 days overdue.

"People loose them, misplace them, stick them under car seats or in boxes with other textbooks without realizing it," he said.

So anyway, here I am with my 1,460-day overdue book. Should I return it? Or just add it into my collection?

I don't know. I really don't. But I swear, I will never check out another library book again.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Homecoming issues clarified

Dear Editor,

Homecoming campaigning just came to an end, and there are issues that need to be clarified. Here is a retort to a story written by Breanna DeMarco, Jambar sports editor.

Organizations do not pick the most popular person and see how they stack up against other people's popularity, as was alleged by DeMarco. Instead, organizations choose a person whom they say they feel will best represent YSU. Being liked is one thing, but every single candidate for king and queen has outstanding credentials and extraordinary accomplishments. There are approximately two dozen out of 1,200 students nominated, therefore to be one of them is an honor.

DeMarco expressed concern about homecoming fliers being hung everywhere and as she stated "being assaulted by some homecoming terrorists."

First, both of these things are campaigning.

Second, YSU is cluttered with a wild array of posters all year, so blaming it on the homecoming nominees doesn't hold much relevance.

Third, the homecoming candidates are not trying to assault anyone but rather be down to earth and meet a lot of their fellow peers. They are trying to make new friends, or at the very least, inform some about who they are.

I would also like to clarify the myth on the expense of some of the posters. The amount of money spent on posters is at the individuals' discretion, and it is absolutely irrelevant to the homecoming process. I know that most candidates had really good deals or large discounts.

Also, an exorbitant amount of money was not spent on photography either, as many candidates used pictures from other events, such as modeling, cheerleading or a professional portfolio.

The Internet is a rapidly growing phenomenon, and I believe there will be a growing trend in the years to come for campaigning through such means.

For people such as DeMarco, who say they don't think it's worth the effort just to get a crown and some flowers, let me elucidate. Campaigning teaches many things, such as advertising strategies, leadership, effectively assembling people, better time management, improved self-promotion and above all, it builds character.

Denim Day letter elicits responses

Dear Editor,

I am writing in response to the misguided, ill-informed, egocentric missive that Meredith Clark used to sour the pages of the Oct. 17 Jambar. Denim Day is not purely a vehicle for the university community to label those who wear denim as "gay," so you can put your ego aside for a moment (because I'm sure EVERYONE was looking at you).

Denim Day is a way to celebrate diversity and to show one's support for a lifestyle that, although one may not embrace it as his or her own, is still worthy of respect. It bears saying that not all the members of this university community are backward-thinking homophobes. So the gay community lost your respect? Clark, it is quite apparent that they never had your respect.

So does it make you feel better about yourself to add to the already-too-large hate quotient in this country? Do you feel better about yourself now that you have heaped disdain on a community of human beings? If you are not part of the solution, then you are in fact part of the problem.

The only mistake made was the printing of such an awful piece where those who respect humanity in all its forms would have their collective stomach turned after reading it. I suggest in the future that you make sure your facts are straight before you expose your ignorance to the public and damage your own reputation as well as the reputation of the student body. Your ignorance made more of a statement than a thousand Denim Days could.

Matt Grote
graduate, chemistry

Dear Editor,

I would like to say I appreciate the fact that people write articles just to get their name in the paper. I mean, is it really necessary to make such a big deal out of Denim Day? I would like to know how it is an infringement on our rights.

Everyone could still have worn jeans; it's not like by wearing jeans you're wearing a big sign that says, "I'm gay." All it means is that you have no problem with different organizations having the right to have their "day."

So, basically, what Meredith Clark is saying is that if a fraternity or a sorority or any other student organization had a day where they wanted you to wear denim if you support their organization that that would also be an infringement on our rights?

Of course it wouldn't because everyone supports those sorts of organizations.

I think the major problem Clark has is she didn't want to be labeled gay. But no one said that if you wear jeans, you're gay; all they're saying is that you support their right to be gay. Is that such a bad idea?

I don't think so.

Pete and the Penguins denied perfect season

Swim team off to rocky start

The women's swimming and diving team suffered their first loss of the season, 149-86, against Saint Francis University.

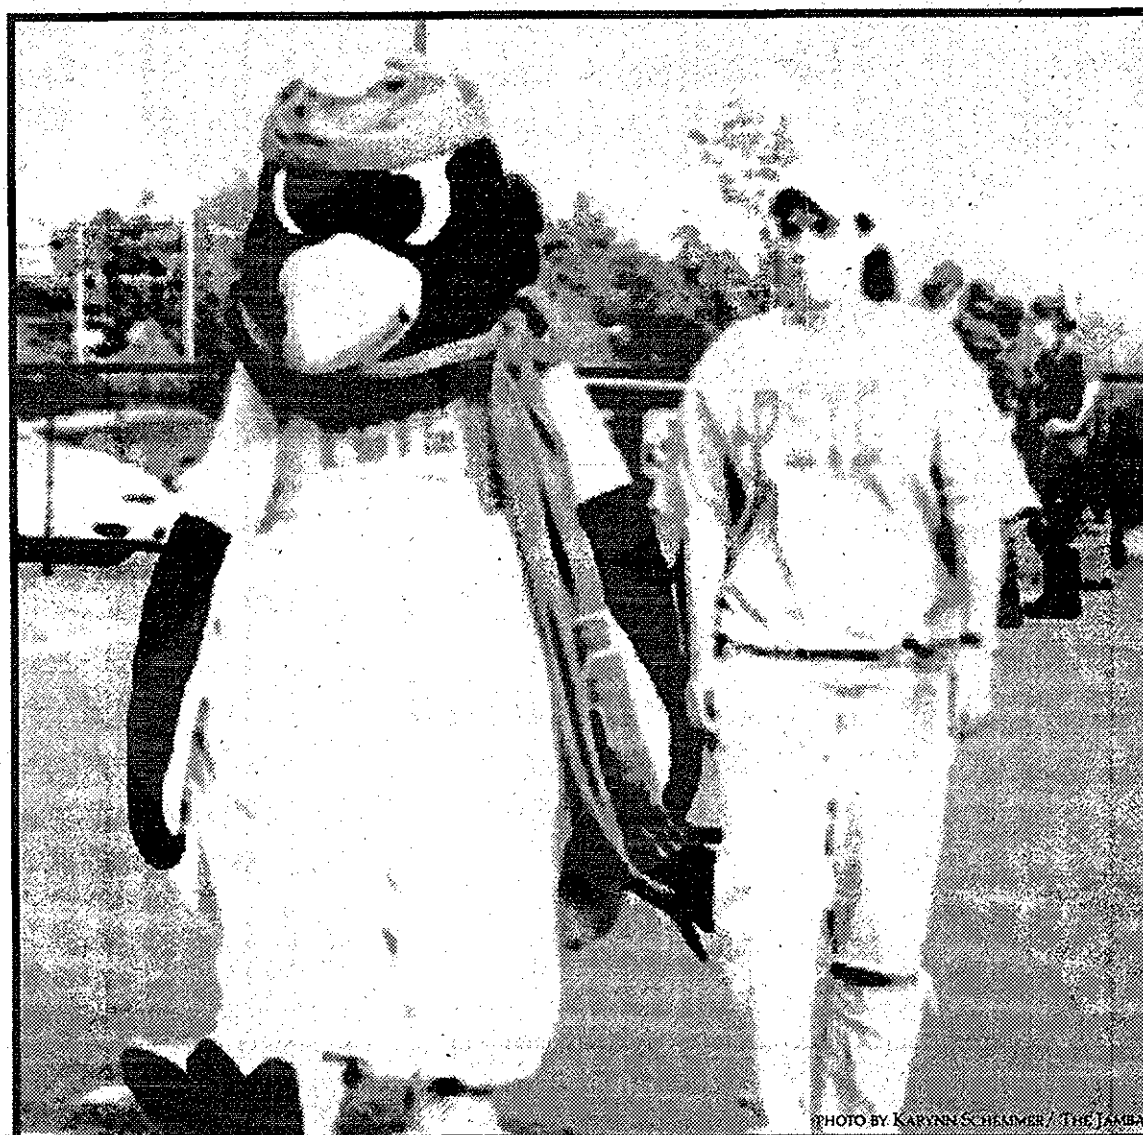

Leading the way for the Penguins was Brandi Goettsch, junior, in the 1-meter and 3-meter dives.

She set a new school record in the 3-meter dive with a score of 273.3, beating her former score of 270.20. This new record qualifies Goettsch for the NCAA Zone C Diving Championships.

Also scoring for YSU was Kara Humes, senior, in the 1,000-meter freestyle with a time of 11:53.47. Additionally, she placed second in the 500 freestyle with a time of 5:47.72.

Kristi Schmidt, senior, placed second in the 100-meter breaststroke with a time of 1:16.38 while Megan McAtee, senior, placed high in both the 200-meter freestyle with a time of 2:05.27 and the 100-meter backstroke with a time of 1:03.81.

The swimmers, who now carry a record of 0-1, will return to action at 4 p.m. Friday, at Ohio University.

THE PENGUINS, DEFEATED: No. 2 YSU football team suffered its first loss of the season Saturday at the hands of No. 7 Western Illinois, 24-10. The Penguins have fallen to 6-1 overall and 3-1 in the Gateway Conference. YSU came up short as its winning streak broke. The Leathernecks now hold a one-game edge over YSU in conference standings with two games remaining for each. YSU plays host at 4 p.m. Saturday against Indiana State University.

Double matches topple the Lady Penguin team

The volleyball team fell to an overall record of 11-10 and 3-5 in the Mid-Continent Conference after losing Friday to Valparaiso University, 13-15, 15-10, 8-15, 5-15.

Rebecca Sylak, junior, lead the team with 16 kills while Kristen Meech, senior, was able to get a double-double with 15 kills and garner 11 digs while collecting six blocks.

Saturday's matchup against IUPUI fared no better than the previous day as the Lady Penguins lost 13-11, 9-0.

Sylak garnered 10 kills, and Lyczkowski collected 24 assists.

At 7 p.m. Friday, the Penguins play host to Chicago State University at Beeghly Gymnasium.

Fifth place finish earns cross-country team honors

By SUSAN DEVANNY
Jambar Reporter

Friday, the YSU men's and women's cross country teams traveled to the 2000 Ohio Intercollegiate Cross Country Championships.

The All-Ohio meet pitted 36 of Ohio's colleges and universities against each other for state bragging rights.

Colleges and universities from NCAA Divisions I, II and III were represented along with a few NAIA colleges in this "backyard brawl."

The All-Ohio Championships are known for the "challenging" course and tough team and individual competition.

The races were no disappointment this year.

Under unseasonably hot conditions, the men began their 5-mile trek to determine Ohio's top running programs.

When the dust settled, YSU upset many of the top contenders to finish fifth out of 36 teams.

The team surprised many of its Division I counterparts as they beat the likes of University of Cincinnati, The Ohio State University, University of Dayton, University of Akron, Ohio University and many more.

YSU's fifth place finish tied the best finish ever for the program.

Brian Laraway, senior, raced to a 14th place finish out of 245 competitors. He completed the 5-mile course in a time of 26:49.

Laraway's finish earned him All-Ohio honors for the first time in his career.

All-Ohio honors are bestowed upon the race's first 20 individuals.

His place was also the fourth highest individual finish in the history of YSU at the All-Ohio Championships.

"Being named All-Ohio is a tremendous honor. All the credit for this achievement goes to Coach Gorby and his program, Coach Folk and my teammates. They are the ones that push me everyday in practice," said Laraway. "Of course, running 100 miles a week probably has something to do with it as well."

Once again, YSU utilized their pack to defeat their competitors. This time the younger runners lead the way.

Freshmen Jeremy Riehm and Matt Paulin stepped up at the championships to finish 30th (27:25) and 35th (27:28), respectively.

Following closely behind were Adam Belmonte, junior, in 40th (27:32) and Jeri Hull, senior, in 45th (27:40), who finished out the team scoring.

Matt Paulin captured the spirit of All-Ohio.

"This was definitely one of the most competitive meets I have ever run in. I loved getting a chance to race against all of my old rivals," said Paulin.

Strong performances were also turned in by Matt Schaffner, sophomore, and Sean Voorhies, senior.

Schaffner was 83rd in 28:17 while Voorhies finished up in 94th in 28:24.

About the team's performance, Laraway said, "I'm really proud of our team. A lot of other teams didn't give us any credit coming into this meet. Our guys just used their comments as motivation and stepped it up to beat them."

The women also ran a strong race against a talented field.

The Lady Penguins finished 17th out of 36 teams. They were led by Jen Moore, junior.

Moore covered the 5K (3.1 mile) course in 20:49, which placed her 56th out of 249 runners.

The veteran Lady Penguins were also paced by seniors Annabelle Hunt and Lori Ruggles, who followed closely behind Moore in 20:59 (68th) and 21:06 (78th), respectively.

Andrea Bardy, freshman, ran 21:31, which placed her 106th overall.

Finishing up the scoring for the Lady Penguins was Courtney Houck, junior, who crossed the line in 22:32 (155th).

Sophomores Lindsay Frontz and Jen Gavala turned in solid performances for the Lady Penguins:

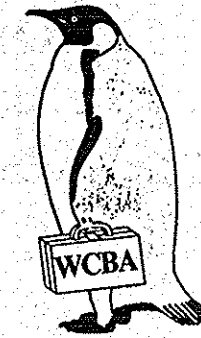

Frontz was 182nd in 23:04, and Gavala was 184th in 23:06.

For the next week, the teams will be preparing to take on their conference foes in the Mid-Continent Conference Championships in Macomb, Ill.

Hull summed up the team's current focus:

"All-Ohio was a great way for the team to gain confidence going to the conference meet. The team is showing signs of maturity, and it is great to see. Knowing that it was just a first step, we have to keep getting better to be the best in the conference."

Cadet challenged by local DJ

By TIFFANY BOGDA
Jambar Reporter

"On your mark, get set, go!" These are the words that are going to be heard at Stambaugh Stadium Saturday between ROTC cadet Kimmy Hensel and radio personality AC McCullough.

Hensel, senior, human resource management, is the blonde-haired cheerleader that swiftly dashes through the mounds of coaches, players and wires at the football games to where the ROTC locate themselves in the corner of Beede Field, to perform push-ups with her superiors and peers everytime the Penguins score.

McCullough, morning disk jockey, WHOT 101.1 FM, started to talk about Hensel one morning and her athletic abilities in terms of being a woman.

Becky Lesho, secretary, ROTC, was the first to hear McCullough talk about Hensel on the morning radio program. Lesho then told 2nd Lt. Jerry Nunziato, who encouraged Hensel to call up McCullough during a ROTC PT exercise.

Hensel, along with Nunziato's persistence, decided to call McCullough. Jokes were made back and forth, and the idea of a push-up contest was conceived.

"He was the one who challenged me, I just took him up on it," said Hensel. "I am always up for a great challenge."

"[The ROTC] started the push-ups at football games about four years ago, but this is the first time it has become a household topic," said Nunziato.

"I had Kimmy call him because I think that it would be good for two reasons. First, for friendly competition, and second, that it would be a quasi-advertisement showing [the ROTC] is a friendly organization, not a hard-nosed military unit," he said.

With more energy than a electrifying bolt of lightning, this cheerleader, who is also a member of the track team, is ready for this challenge.

"I don't know how things are going to go," she said as she laughed halfheartedly. "I have never seen him. I've heard [McCullough] is prior service. I guess we'll see when it happens," said Hensel.

Many people may wonder why she wonders away from her fellow peppy cheerleaders.

"I have too," she said. But added, "I like it. It's fun."

She enlightens just about everyone who watches her. With the added cartwheels, she definitely has won the hearts of YSU fans.

Donating blood saves lives at YSU

By BREANNA DEMARCO
Jambar Editor

In the United States, every two seconds someone needs a blood transfusion. The Red Cross works to avoid both shortages of blood and excesses in the supply by carefully planning blood drives, but very few people donate blood — 5 percent of the eligible population.

The Mahoning County Red Cross is holding a blood drive today and Wednesday with the help of Student Government. Donors only need bring identification to Kilcawley Center 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. today and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Wednesday.

Nearly six million volunteer blood donations are made, and the Red Cross provides tissue for nearly one quarter of all transplantation surgeries. Blood collection by the American Red Cross began in 1941 as a volunteer program to provide blood for American and British troops in World War II. The public response was enthusiastic, and after the war the Red Cross continued to collect blood for domestic use. But the times, how they are a-changing.

Dr. James Devitt, medical director of blood transfusions at Miami Hospital in Dayton, had to call surgeons at home and urge them to postpone all non-emergency surgeries, as they had a severe shortage of available blood.

"If we didn't get some of these surgeries done soon, they would become emergencies," Devitt said.

Devitt was not alone. Due to a national blood shortage, doctors up and down the eastern seaboard were forced to postpone surgeries.

Melissa McMillan, spokesperson for America's Blood Centers, said, "It's absolutely a last resort."

The blood shortage is so grim that about half of all U.S. blood banks carry less than a one-day supply. Under normal circumstances, the blood banks stockpile three days' worth.

The blood is needed. One trauma patient can quickly and efficiently wipe out an entire blood supply. Blood industry experts say the long-term outlook is bleak. Hospitals need more blood to treat an ever-aging population, and donors cannot keep the pace.

According to the Harris Poll, only 5 percent of those eligible donate, and even fewer will this year.

Designed Expressly for Working Women and Female Students

Located at the heart of the YSU campus is this beautiful "home away from home" just for women. At Buechner Hall, you can live comfortably, as well as inexpensively. Thanks to the large bequest of the Buechner Family, which completed the construction of Buechner Hall in 1941, more than 3/4 of all residents' costs are still absorbed by the Buechner Fund. Residents are responsible for an average $1,261.13 per semester for double occupancy or $1,362.88 for single occupancy. This includes a weekly $28 cafeteria allowance, for up to 15 meals each week.

This first rate residence hall includes:

- Completely furnished double and single occupancy rooms, including linens
- Telephones, voice mail and free cable
- Air conditioning
- Professional security
- Weekly housekeeping service
- Decorated lounge areas
- Quiet study environments
- On-premise dining room and home cooked meals

RETIREMENT INSURANCE MUTUAL FUNDS TRUST SERVICES TUITION FINANCING

Deferring taxes with TIAA-CREF can be so rewarding, you'll wonder why you didn't do it sooner.

Call us for a free tax-savings calculator

One of the fastest ways to build a retirement nest egg is through tax-deferred Supplemental Retirement Annuities (SRAs) from TIAA-CREF.

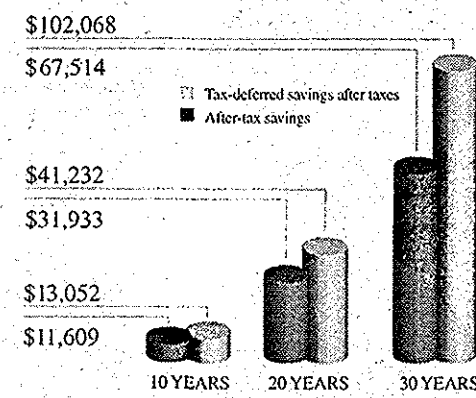

With funds automatically deducted from your paycheck, you can easily build income to supplement your pension and Social Security.

And your contributions to SRAs grow undiminished by taxes until you withdraw the funds.* Add to that TIAA-CREF's solid history of investment performance, bolstered by our commitment to keeping expenses low, and you have more money working for you.

So why wait? Let us help you build a comfortable retirement today with tax-deferred SRAs. We think you will find it rewarding in the years to come.

INVEST AS LITTLE AS $25 a month through an automatic payroll plan!

IT'S EASY TO SAVE MORE THROUGH THE POWER OF TAX DEFERRAL

In this hypothetical example, setting aside $100 a month in a tax-deferred investment with an 8% return in a 28% tax bracket shows better growth than the same net amount put into a savings account. Total returns and principal value of investments will fluctuate, and yield may vary. The chart above is presented for illustrative purposes only and does not reflect actual performance, or predict future results, of any TIAA-CREF account, or reflect expenses.

*Note: Under federal tax law, withdrawals prior to age 59½ may be subject to restrictions, and to a 10% additional tax.
