A blast from the past

MUSICAL MILESTONES: The first big-name band to visit YSU since half the students were in diapers, The Violent Femmes, rocked Beeghly Sunday night. At one point in time YSU was known for its mainstream concerts, but in recent years local bands were the height of entertainment for the university. Many hope The Violent Femmes will lead to other big concerts on campus.

Along with other construction that has been ongoing throughout the year on YSU's campus is the addition of the Beecher Center to the Butler Institute of American Art.

Dr. Louis Zona, professor of art and director of the Butler Institute, says the Beecher Center will be "the future of art institutions." It will deal with the visual arts as they are today and how they will exist in the future.

"This will be the first museum in America built for the creation and display of electronic and digital fine art," he said.

The center will be a world-class facility that will alter the ways in which museums are experienced from this point forward.

Involved in the center will be an interactive learning environment design to enhance the teaching and dissemination of research conducted on and about American Art.

Zona said building construction should be completed by March 1999, with programming beginning in the center by fall of 1999.

The first exhibition will take place in March with featured artist Nam June Paik, a Korean-born American who is the world's best-known video artist. Paik's works are known to be thought provoking and entertaining.

The center will contain a computerized research center where university students and faculty, as well as the general public, can gain first-hand knowledge of our American visual arts heritage.

It will also house a Public Access Internet Cafe which will be open to the Youngstown community for Internet-based events and

YSU Task Force to be under way soon

■ Diversity Task Force sets out to sensitize faculty and staff to gender and racial issues.

JOHN W. GOODWIN JR.
Assistant Copy Editor

In light of the changing make up of the community and an effort to make the university a more diverse, efficient and effective institution, YSU President Leslie Cochran is in the final stages of developing a Diversity Task Force. The task force should be fully functional in four to six weeks.

According to Cochran, the task force is needed at YSU to address areas of diversity in hiring, student make-up and gender and racial sensitivity campus wide. Cochran said over the last five years he has wanted to make sure the university made a special effort toward diversity.

"I guess I would say, in all candor, in my judgment I don't think the institution has done that as well as we might have done," he said.

Cochran said making a move toward better achieving that goal had been set aside due to other major concerns of the university, but several events last spring brought the issue to the forefront and, he said, now is the time to do this.

The catalyst, Cochran said, came in a constructive way, dealing with several accreditation visits, each of which have specific criteria regarding gender and minority hiring.

Cochran said YSU has made strides in hiring female and minority employees in the last 10 years. He said YSU's minority hiring is compatible with the entire tri-county area served by YSU, but because the university is located in Youngstown, a special commitment must be made.

The first objective of the task force will be to sensitize faculty and staff to gender and racial issues Cochran said.

"I am not aware of blatant issues or people who are intentionally doing these things, what I think is in many cases people are just not sensitive," he said.

Two speakers are scheduled in October and November to address sensitivity issues.

Cochran said the task force will be comprised equally by members of the community and of the YSU community. He said he is currently waiting on names from all the vice presidents, asking for the names of four or five students to choose from, sending letters to ministers in Youngstown and receiving names from the mayor of Youngstown. He said goals for the task force will be defined once the group members have been decided.

Cochran said the task force is another tool that will help YSU prepare students for leadership roles in the future. He said the first few years will be primarily laying the ground work and direction for what will be a long term commitment.

Penguin Review gets back on track after a hectic year

■ The Review is back in business and is looking for additional staff and equipment to get the job done.

EMILY D. CRONK
News Editor

The Penguin Review is recuperating after the 1997-98 year brought the staff nothing but hardships. Staff involvement wasn't what it should have been, and there was virtually no money left in the organization's account. That's all going to change this year under the new direction of Eric Murphy, senior, ICP for film marketing.

"Being on staff last year, I wasn't at all happy with the way the publication went," said Murphy. "And this year I am having a difficult time getting people from last year's staff to come back and join the team again due to the disappointing previous issue."

The Penguin Review is trying to put itself out there for the entire YSU campus to see. A lot of students aren't aware the publication even existed until now.

"No one really knows we're an organization on campus," said Murphy. "And we finally had our name placed on the sign outside Kilcawley West."

Being an organization on campus takes a lot of work and dedication. And The Penguin Review is battenning down the hatches to make this year the best year ever for the literary publication.

"We're in the first stages of marketing ourselves and making the public aware that we do exist and the staff and I are planning to make this the best publication ever," said Murphy. "I have already planned about four fund-raisers and the rest of the staff has been made aware of their responsibilities, as far as helping to do fund-raisers and getting other businesses interested in advertising with us."

The Penguin Review is a literary magazine that presents poetry, short stories and artwork of many students from YSU and a few others who are outside contributors. Last year's publication has been completed and is now available.

Editor, Penguin Review

"The magazine is done basically in black and white, but I would like to raise enough money to have the artwork donated to The Penguin Review done in color," said Murphy. "It is robbing the artist by putting the artwork in black and white."

The staff from last year was contacted by Murphy, asked to come back for meetings and promised a better year this time around.

"When I called them, they were a little hesitant but they knew I could handle myself, and they had faith in me as an editor," said Murphy.

The troubles for The Penguin Review aren't over yet. Despite their efforts to bring forth a better issue than the last, the group is plagued by a lack of equipment.

"Our main problem is not having a computer to do layout and design," said Murphy. "Someone has to do the layout on their personal time and computer, and we then have to pay someone else to print it."

Murphy is trying to keep a level head about the situation.

"I have a passion for the written word, but I still understand the marketing part," said Murphy. "I need money to make money. And that is the only way The Penguin Review is going to be the best. The staff and I want to improve the quality of the book overall."

Currently the staff has four members and needs ten in order to make things work. The Penguin Review is no longer under misdirection and will succeed if all goes as planned.

YSU physical therapy Q2S fundamental facts explained

department sponsors Wheels for the World

CINDY MILLER
Assistant News Editor

The Physical Therapy Association at YSU sponsored a charitable event known as "Wheels for the World" in conjunction with Physical Therapy month.

At the suggestion of the Ohio Association of Physical Therapy, YSU chose to be a drop-off site for mobility equipment such as wheel chairs and walkers.

The designated drop-off site was the Salata Complex on West Rayen Avenue.

Volunteers were on hand to collect the equipment from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday.

The equipment collected will be sent to volunteer-staffed facilities and prisons to be refurbished. After being refurbished, the equipment will be sent to countries such as Chile, Poland, Romania, Ghana and Russia, where they are in high demand.

Trained disability specialists in these countries will work with local organizations to distribute the equipment. More than 18 million wheel chairs are needed worldwide.

Nancy Landgraff, interim chair of the Physical Therapy Department and assistant professor of Physical Therapy, said the Wheels for the World program was started by Joni Eareckson Tada, an internationally known activist for the disabled. Tada became an activist after becoming paralyzed in a diving accident at the age of 17.

When the final count was in, the volunteers from the Physical Therapy Department had collected 12 wheel chairs, 16 walkers and 12 crutches.

Sarah Gross, Physical Therapy Association senior class president said this was the first year the department has chosen to participate in the event, but added, "hopefully this will be an annual event."

Gross said, "People who are handicapped and live in other countries are sometimes overlooked, or they can't afford wheel chairs. Maybe we can help them become more active in society by giving them a way to get around."

People in the United States sometimes take the availability of wheelchairs and other mobility equipment for granted. Equipment that is outdated or undesirable to us can be restored for use in developing countries where it is in great demand and greatly appreciated, Gross said.

Several other sites in northeastern Ohio participated as collection areas last weekend.

Monetary donations can be sent to Wheels for the World, P.O. Box 3333, Agoura Hills, Calif., 91301.

The transition from quarters to semesters is two years away and more information about the switch is being made available to YSU students.

"The transition is happening because it is not in the best interest of YSU to be out of step with peer universities," said Dr. Fred Owens, chair of the department of communication and theater.

The transition from Q2S makes it easier for students wishing to transfer to YSU from another university, or for YSU students to transfer to another university.

"All Ohio universities are on semesters or will be switching to semesters in the next few years," said Owens.

YSU students can expect many changes to occur in the transition. There may be changes in the curriculum in certain departments.

"Major changes like this always represent the opportunity for a big step," Owens said.

Students who will be affected by the transition will be able to obtain much information about what they should do when the switch takes place. There will be an "awareness campaign" for students that will include an informative booklet and a transition guide. Students can also search the web for information. The site is <http://cc.ysu.edu/q2s>.

The site contains information concerning the switch including: a copy of the 2000 academic calendar and an explanation of the two-thirds rule the Transition Team has approved for the transition.

The way the two-thirds rule works is a student who has been taking classes under the quarter system will receive two-thirds credit for each class they took before the transition.

Under the semester system the requirements for graduation will change.

To obtain a bachelor's degree will require 124 credit hours as opposed to the 186 credit hours required under the quarter system.

Students can begin meeting with advisers about the transition in spring quarter 1999. Each student will meet with an adviser to find out what is required of him or her to finish under the semester system.

"I do not expect students to have any problems dealing with the transition. They will have almost two years to find out what they need to do," said Dr. Nancy White, chair of the Q2S Transition Team.

"The semester system will allow students more time to work on their classes.

Instead of cramming a bunch of information into a 10-week quarter, students will have 15 weeks and a more relaxed class than before," said Owens.

The transition can be more cost effective for YSU students. Instead of making three payments to the university each year students will make only two payments, unless they are taking summer classes.

The amount of money a student may pay for books can be reduced as well, because a full-time student under the semester system will take an average of five fewer classes over a four-year period on the semester system.

HOW 'BOUT THOSE NEW COUCHES: YSU students enjoy the new over-stuffed couches in Peaberry's. The new cafe has become a popular hangout for students looking to socialize with friends or study in one of the many leather chairs or sofas.

United States should get over president's personal life

Sex. Sex. Sex. It seems like that's the most important thing to most people in the United States. Point in fact — the Clinton Scandal. The whole situation is really ridiculous.

It's almost completely obvious that the president isn't the only government official who has had an affair. As a matter of fact, most of the people who are thinking about impeaching him have probably had affairs of their own. If any of them were put into the same situation Clinton was, I doubt they would have fessed up about any similar affairs.

In addition, think of all the other presidents who had affairs. John F. Kennedy was considered to be one of the greatest presidents of all time by many people, and it's no secret he had numerous extra-marital affairs while in office.

Granted, Clinton is the president of the United States, and most people believe he should hold higher standards than anyone else in the country, but what most people forget is he is human like everyone else. When you expect perfection from someone, you're always going to be disappointed.

Extra-marital affairs are wrong, but they should be handled only by the people who are affected by them — the family. They really don't concern anyone else. The Clinton problem should be between him and his wife. However, the entire country has gotten involved due to some legal jargon. Did he or didn't he commit perjury? This question is even ridiculous because the testimony that he "lied" was in a civil case, and perjury shouldn't be a factor.

But even with all that aside, how much of an effect does someone's personal life have on his or her ability to do their job? The president's extra-marital affairs obviously haven't had that much of an effect on his job. For the first time in a long time, the country ended this fiscal year with a budget surplus. Although Clinton can't take all the credit for that, he deserves some of it. And all of this happened during the most rocky time for Clinton — during the whole Paula Jones fiasco. Just think of how much better a job he could have done had he not been bothered by all of these things that have no bearing on his job.

The release of the tapes of Clinton's grand jury testimony is another ridiculous aspect to the whole situation. The public already had access to the entire thing on the Internet. Did we really need to see those tapes?

This country needs to focus on more important things and let Clinton's personal affairs stay in his personal life.

A STAFF VIEW

Staffer hopes Greek system won't disappoint

Assistant News Editor

I recently began to ponder the reasons why an incoming freshman would be interested in joining a sorority or fraternity. Then I began to ponder the entire Greek System in general. Since I am not a member of a sorority, I have no idea how the system works. Then I realized that if I don't even know what the Greek system is all about, and I'm a third year student, what do incoming freshmen know about it. They must be less informed than I am.

Some of them may begin college with the hopes of joining a fraternity like Delta Tau Chi in the movie Animal House. Of course, we all know that is totally fictitious — or at least I hope it is.

I have been informed by a former member of a YSU fraternity that the first obligation of members of the Greek System is to achieve and maintain a good academic standing. This is very important because if members receive bad grades, the organization can be placed on probation for a year. The second obligation is to remain active in the organization. The third obligation is to remain active in helping the community.

Students hoping to become members of these groups should realize that there is much more involved in the Greek System than the social functions for which fraternities and sororities are often stereotyped. Perspective members should realize that sororities and fraternities are intended to help individuals manage school work and social activities and become well-rounded individuals.

This also brings about the important considerations that employers must make when interviewing former members of sororities or fraternities. Employers assume a lot when they see the name of a fraternity or sorority on a resume. The mere mention of membership to one of these organizations alone does not prove that a person has learned anything. Employers should ask graduates what they learned from being involved in the Greek System and what they accomplished while they were active in their group.

I hope that the fraternities and sororities on campus are stressing to new members the importance of their obligations to both their Greek organizations and the public. We assume the entire experience of being involved with a sorority or fraternity has been beneficial to the individual and in some way has also been beneficial to a charitable cause. Please don't disappoint us.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Financial aid responds to editorial

I read with interest the September 29th article and editorial in The Jambar concerning financial aid satisfactory academic progress appeals. In light of some of the concerns raised, I want to share with you some additional information and clarification.

YSU's financial aid satisfactory academic progress policy impacts eligibility for federal aid programs only — specifically, Federal Pell Grants, Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants, Federal Perkins Loans, Federal College Work Study or any of the Federal Stafford or Direct Loan Programs. State, agency, local and institutional financial aid are generally not impacted.

Unlike academic standards for "good standing," federal regulations require financial aid policies to include quantitative measurements (percentage completion and maximum time frame) as well as qualitative measurements (GPA). YSU's financial aid satisfactory academic progress policy has been revised to provide maximum flexibility to students while ensuring regulatory compliance. Under our new policy, approximately 900 fewer current students were cited this past spring and another 2,200 prior students regained satisfactory academic progress status.

Our financial aid satisfactory academic appeals policy is likewise student-oriented. Any first appeal (with or without third party documentation) is automatically approved if it is timely filed and indicates the student has reflected on what went wrong and what corrective action is planned. No student appealing for the first time is ever referred to the Center for Student Progress. Any and all subsequent appeals are reviewed on a case-by-case basis by a committee. With retention in mind, referrals to the Center for Student Progress are made for students who have not made significant progress in regaining satisfactory academic progress on their own, but may benefit from the assistance the Center can provide. It is important to remember that students are not forced to participate — they must want to regain their satisfactory academic progress for federal financial aid purposes.

Perhaps some statistics on the 70-some recent referrals will put this issue in perspective. Students cited for qualitative reasons had a 1.78 average cumulative GPA. Students cited for quantitative reasons had an average rate of completion of 62.9 percent — for every 12 hours attempted and paid for with the support of taxpayer dollars, only 7.5 hours were successfully completed.

Our current financial aid satisfactory academic progress policy effectively balances student advocacy and fiscal responsibility over taxpayer dollars. The policy has been widely distributed and is readily available in our office. I encourage students with questions/concerns about this policy, or any other financial aid matter, to meet with one of our financial aid counselors for personal attention.

Comedian comes to Chestnut Room

Mike Veneman has performed at comedy clubs all over the world.

Pursuing a doctorate in sociology just couldn't cut it for Mike Veneman. After one shot at an open-mike night at Hilarities comedy club in 1985, he was hooked. "I got one big laugh, and it was intoxicating," said Veneman.

He will be performing 11:15 a.m. to noon Thursday in Kilcawley Center's Chestnut Room.

Getting his start around the same time as Steve Harvey and Drew Carey, Veneman quit school to make comedy his full-time career in May 1986. Since then, he's toured the world — headlining every major comedy club in the country — and made 54 television appearances, including HBO, Showtime and "The Rosie O'Donnell Show." He also helped Jeff Foxworthy write his first "You Know You're a Redneck When..." book and he's currently writing a

But all this doesn't stop him from visiting numerous universities every year. He even considers his shows a "comedy lecture series," since he used to be an instructor at Kent State.

"My shows give you a chance to learn in a fun way," he said.

Veneman described his comedy as "observational," dealing with things such as family, college and life after college — specifically relationships with the opposite sex. He said coming to his show would be a much-needed break for students.

Joelle Sayhoun, chair of the Homecoming committee, would like to thank the members of the committee for the great job they did in helping to prepare for this year's event.

"I hope that everyone will come out and support the team during Saturday's game, and also to see the different organizations featured in the parade," said Sayhoun.

She also noted that the Violent Femmes Concert on Sunday went extremely well, and that she hopes there will be more concerts held at YSU in the future.

"Funny Fotos" will be taken from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. today in Kilcawley Center's Chestnut Room, along with a sub-eating contest sponsored by CD-106 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. in Arby's.

Sorority Fall Formal Rush is in full swing

Booklet explains Greek System to new students.

ASSISTANT NEWS EDITOR

Fall formal Rush activities were held Thursday and Friday in Kilcawley Center's Schwebel Reception Room. YSU's national sororities, Alpha Xi Delta, Delta Zeta, and Zeta Tau Alpha introduced themselves to perspective new members interested in learning more about the Greek System.

Missy Mastell, Panhellenic public relations chair, said, "This is an exciting time for our Greek System. It is a time for all of our sororities to showcase their sisterhood, their campus and community philanthropies, as well as scholarship opportunities."

Bid matching took place on Sunday. Perspective members ranked the top two sororities they were interested in joining.

"The chapters decided which perspective members they wanted. If the choices matched, the girl became a member of that sorority."

Lori Kolenich, first vice president in charge of rush, said "It went really well. There were about 30 girls there. All of them got a chapter. The girls had a great time."

Greg Gulas, coordinator of student activities, said 35 girls participated in rush. Each chapter accepted no more than 12 new members.

Gulas said YSU Student Gov-

The booklet was given to students who expressed an interest in becoming members of the Greek System while attending YSU's SOAR program.

The two local chapters, Gamma Phi Delta and Alpha Omega Pi, began rushing today. Starting at 8 a.m. today all sororities, including the national chapters, can begin continuous open bidding.

YSU suffers first loss of the season

JAMIE LYNN REESH
Sports Editor

MACOMB, Ill. — Nemesis — an unbeatable rival according to Webster. Western Illinois University has now proved both in the Leathernecks' 14-0 blanking of the YSU football team Saturday.

WIU handed the Penguins their first loss of the season, as well as giving YSU its last loss of the 1997 season.

"Turnovers hurt us and we didn't make plays offensively you have to do in a big game," said Wide Receivers Coach Herb Williams. "You have got to give credit to Western Illinois for taking advantage of the turnovers."

The Penguin turnovers and the Leathernecks' capitalism started early, as Western Illinois scored a touchdown on their second possession of the game. WIU obtained the ball on the Penguin 34-yard line after a fumble on the punt return by senior Jake Andreadis.

YSU came up short on a 39-yard-Mark-Griffith field goal with 3:47 left in the first quarter.

Western Illinois' award winning running back, Aaron Stecker, ran the ball in from 20 yards out to put the Leathernecks up 7-0 after the kick.

WIU's second touchdown also came off a Penguin fumble, giving the Leathernecks the ball on their own 28. A little over eight minutes and 72 yards later, WIU crossed the endzone on a 9-yard pass to Kevin Walsh form quarterback Mark Zanders.

Penalties were also a huge factor in the game — both teams had seven penalties, with YSU losing 58 yards to WIU's 80 — YSU's just happened to come all at extremely bad times costing them needed first downs.

The tale of the tape runs evenly. YSU finished with 289 total yards, including 144 rushing to WIU's 252 yards, who rushed for 184 yards. Both teams had two fumbles, but Western was able to recover.

Freshman quarterback Jeff Ryan threw two interceptions, while completing 11 of 18 attempts for 102 yards. Ryan also found himself underneath the Leathernecks twice, taking on two sacks for losses of seven yards each. Senior Jared Zwick tossed four of eight passes for 43 yards.

Sophomore Fon Nanji intercepted a pass that led YSU downfield to the Western 48, but that's where the drive stopped and the Penguins punted.

YSU's defense, despite giving up 188 yards rushing to Stecker, held him to only one touchdown.

"The defense played all right, but not up to par," said defensive lineman senior Eric Brown.

Junior Dwight Smiley led the defense in tackles with 12, and senior Jarritt Goode followed with 11, including one for a loss of 7 yards. Senior Mike Stanec recorded two tackles for a loss of 13 yards and one sack for a loss of 7 yards.

Junior Adrian Brown led YSU in rushing with 71 yards on 18 carries. Junior Renauld Ray caught five passes for 60 yards.

Junior Anthony Razzo punted eight times for 278 yards.

"We need to do things we do well and we'll be a good football team, if we don't do things we do well we won't," said Brown. "This week we will look at the problems and hopefully we won't make the same mistakes."

"As a team we have to learn from our mistakes to get better so we can be the best team we can be," said Williams. "If we do that then we have a chance."

YSU will look for redemption Saturday in the Homecoming game against Southern Illinois. The game is at 1 p.m. in the Ice Castle.

Soccer picks up two victories

The Lady Penguin soccer team picked up a win Sunday, defeating Wisconsin-Green Bay 2-1 in overtime.

Junior Missy Laforet assisted on Kaydo's goal, as well as scored her second goal of the season.

Freshman goal keeper Christine Handte made 15 saves for the Lady Penguins.

YSU was also successful earlier in the week, blanking St. Francis 1-0.

YSU scored again in overtime, when junior Jen Argiro kicked in her second goal of the season. Laforet aided with the assist.

YPSILANTI, Mich. — The Lady Penguin volleyball team's winning-streak was stopped short in a hard fought battle with Eastern Michigan where YSU came up short.

15-12, 14-16, 12-15, 7-15 Sunday. Senior Amy Hermann led the team with 24 kills, 25 digs and two blocks. Junior Vickie Robinson tallied 20 kills, 18 digs and six blocks. Freshmen Kristen Meech and Michelle Bartlett made a contribution as Meech recorded 12 kills and five blocks and Bartlett grabbed 24 digs.

Freshman Melissa Lyczkowski had 65 assists and 12 digs.

Before the streak was ended, the Lady Penguins extended it to eight-straight wins, capturing a 15-8, 15-13, 15-5 victory over Oakland University Saturday in Rochester, Mich.

For the Red and White, Meech pounded a career-high 15 kills, while registering five blocks. Robinson nailed 13 kills, seven digs and one block in the outing, as Hermann blasted nine kills along with four aces and 10 digs.

Lyczkowski aided with 38 assists, five digs and one block.

YSU's record is now 9-8 and 3-0 in the Mid-Continent Conference. They will resume play Friday against fellow Mid-Conner, IUPUI.

Everything you need to close down a crackhouse.

You aren't helpless when crime invades your neighborhood. You're fully capable of helping police and they're ready to show you how.

The case of The Stanton Park Stand-off.

When crack moved into a row house on a quiet block of Stanton Park in Washington, D.C., folks decided to serve an eviction notice.

They met with police to find out what they could do to keep drugs out of their neighborhood.

The cops told them to keep an eye out—to let police know whenever something suspicious happened. They began to notice faces. They wrote down license numbers of strange cars. They noted the times of odd behavior.

They worked with each other. They worked with the police. Armed with field glasses, note pads and telephones, folks kept track of the neighborhood.

Within one month, enough evidence had been gathered. Police moved in. Crack moved out.

Citizen participation beat crime in D.C. It can do the same for you. For more success stories, Police become even more responsive when their people are their partners. Together we can help...

The last challenge of a socially conscious society?

Depression strikes millions— indiscriminately. Depression is simply a suppression of brain activity that makes life unbearable. And even though depression is readily treatable, only 1 in 5 ever seeks treatment. Why do so many just drag themselves along or eventually seek relief through suicide? First, there's the lack of awareness of depression— as an illness and as the threat that it is to each and every one of us. Second, there's the unwarranted negative stigma attached to it. You know, the 'mental' thing. It's time to collectively face depression. To know it's an illness, not a weakness. And it's a challenge that's long overdue. It's taken too many of us already.

PRINCIPLES of SOUND RETIREMENT INVESTING

IF YOU THOUGHT COLLEGE WAS EXPENSIVE, TRY PUTTING YOURSELF THROUGH RETIREMENT.

Think about supporting yourself for twenty-five, thirty years or longer in retirement. It might be the greatest financial test you'll ever face. Fortunately, you have one valuable asset in your favor: Time.

Time to take advantage of tax deferral. Time for your money to grow.

But starting early is key. Consider this: If you begin saving just $100 a month at age thirty, you can accumulate $215,655* by the time you reach age sixty-five. Wait ten years and you'd need to set aside $236 a month to reach the same goal.

TIAA-CREF makes it simple.

At TIAA-CREF, we not only understand the value of starting early, we can help make it possible—with tax-deferred SRAs, IRAs, mutual funds, a diverse portfolio of investment choices, and a record of personal service that spans over 80 years.

Over 2 million people in education and research are enrolled in America's largest retirement system. Find out how easy it is to join. Call 1 800 842-2776 and see how simple it is to reach your goals with time and TIAA-CREF on your side.

Buechner Hall Truly Has Everything

This beautiful residence hall for women, located mid-campus at YSU, is truly first-rate. Single and double occupancy rooms are completely furnished, including linens, telephones, and free cable. The building is fully air conditioned, and staff and guards provide professional, 24-hour security. Weekly maid service, exquisitely decorated lounge areas, quiet study environment, on-premise dining room and home-cooked meals, fitness room, and laundry rooms are other features supplying their share of full-comfort living.

Sound expensive? Not at all. Thanks to the large bequest of the Buechner family, which completed the building in 1941, more than half of all residents' room rental is still absorbed by the Buechner fund. The remainder required from residents including 15 meals per week, is $837 per quarter for double occupancy and $907 per quarter for single. Payable weekly. Your inquiry is solicited.
