

DAVENE UCCELLO TO REIGN OVER Y. U.'s NINETEENTH HOMECOMING

Student Council Meets Amidst An Uproar

By Lynn C. Newland

The usual quiet air of a Student Council meeting was shattered last Fri. when the 22 members met amidst a roar of boos, cheers and hisses.

The various forms of approval and disapproval came from the large proportion of students who were present to discover how Council planned to cope with the problems which arose from the recent Homecoming election.

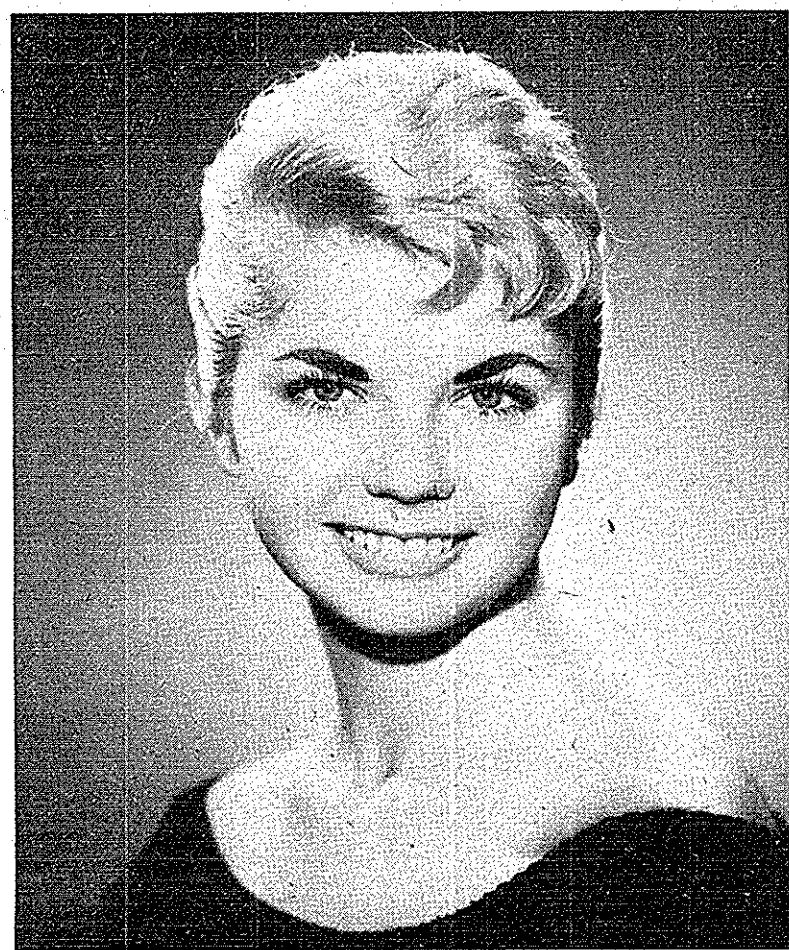

Grievances, filed by several candidates against campaign tactics employed by one sorority, were the focal point of the afternoon.

The highlight of the proceedings came when two members of the Discipline Committee were accused of participating in and permitting illegal campaign practices.

The Discipline Committee, composed of four members of Council, decided to confirm the election returns during a two hour afternoon session. The votes were validated after consultation with the persons who submitted grievances agreed that they should be confirmed.

An uproar of disapproval was heard from students wanting to know if any action was to be taken against the guilty parties. Gary Swanson, chairman of the Discipline Committee, explained that his committee would meet to discuss the grievances and issue penalties if they deemed it necessary.

President of Council, Leonard Loopp, stated that if students would adhere to election rules put forth by Student Council illegal campaign practices would not occur.

HOMECOMING QUEEN: Davene Ucello will reign over YU's nineteenth annual Homecoming festivities after being elected in an all-school balloting last week.

Nov. 11 Next Showing of "Cinema 16" Series

Britain may have its Alec Guinness, but France still has Fernandel to match against him in any sort of contest of comic talent. No better demonstration of the veteran French comedian's mighty skill can be had than his in "THE SHEEP HAS FIVE LEGS".

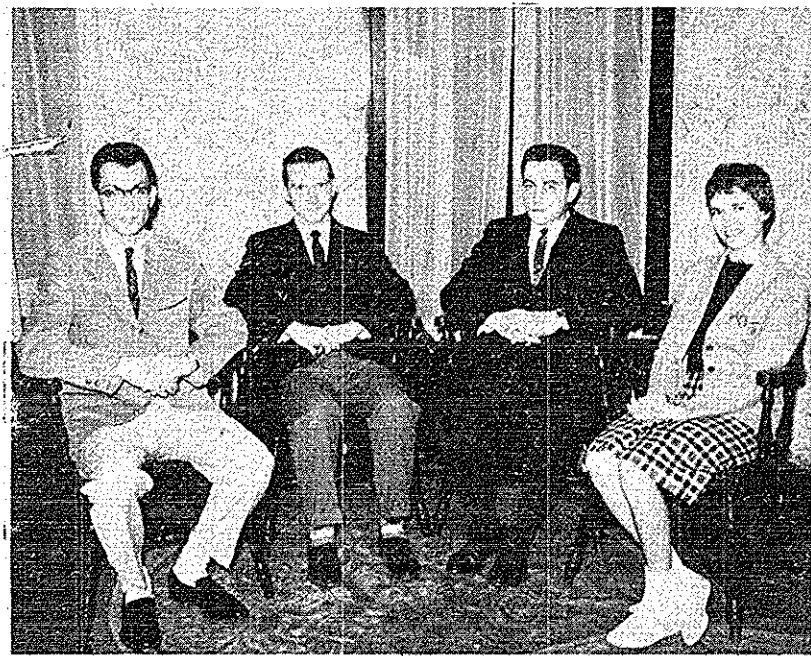

Fernandel proves he is one of the most versatile comedians alive by playing half a dozen roles in a set of five delightful stories about an old French vintner and his quintuplet sons who are assembled from the four corners of the earth for a family reunion. An entertainment of rare variety and wit, "THE SHEEP HAS FIVE LEGS" has entranced the critics and convulsed its audiences.

'Blues in the Closet' Depicts Jazz Position

By Stephen Hawthorne

"Blues in the Closet" is the name of a jazz composition composed by Bud Powell, a contemporary jazz pianist, and was chosen as the title of this column because it so vividly depicts the position that jazz has played in the past and is still playing in some places.

Jazz Intolerance

How strange have been the fortunes of this music which seemed destined to remain confined to the banks of the lower Mississippi! What contemporary observer would have guessed that the folk music of a small group would become the language of an entire people fifteen or twenty years later and in a few more years a world wide phenomenon with jazz bands existing from Tokyo to Stockholm.

What does this success mean? It has been said that jazz is the most fully alive form of dance music of our time, this is true, but jazz is much more than dance music. The importance of the movement it has given rise to may be judged by the number of books and magazines on the subject published all over the world. Nothing is stranger and nothing more reassuring for humanity, than the world wide diffusion of this message first launched by a people numbering ten million.

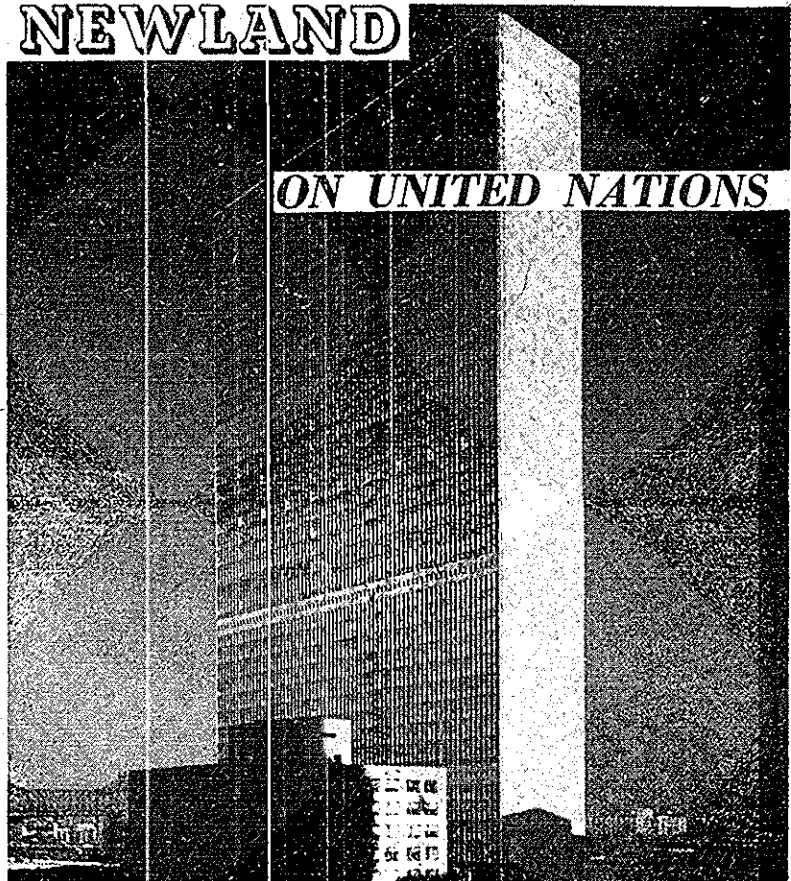

However we must not delude ourselves. Jazz has found followers all over the world but there is still resistance. The protest that jazz aroused upon its interjection into American and European culture seems to have given way to a fashionable indifference. People no longer become indignant when they hear "Louis Armstrong" sing, they smile politely. A very small number of the newspapers and magazines concerned with the arts feel it their duty to carry a jazz column. This limitation on an expansion that has been so great in other respects present a problem we cannot avoid.

What are the causes of these apparent contradictions? At first, it might seem that jazz is incapable of touching the masses and is suited only to the elite. This hypothesis would explain its limited success but unfortunately it is contradicted by facts. In fact jazz seems to be accepted only with the greatest reservations by those regularly referred to as the elite - that is to say the small part of the public that is capable of fully appreciating both classical and modern artistic thought.

There is a simple explanation for this cultured public aloofness. Anyone who tried to place jazz in the perspective of a culture foreign to it without first revising his traditional artistic habits has hardly any chance of understanding it. Jazz appears to him in its negative aspects. He thus rejects this music which is not thought out, not worked over, not constructed, whose harmony is dull and sugar coated etc.

This is his conclusion - severe but in many respects well founded - reached by the music lover who expects from jazz the satisfaction he received from classical music.

To me this attitude is rather nonsensical. Would jazz have the slightest interest if its function were to bring back to life in its own way the very same musical emotions that European art cultivates. It is obvious that our music lover is only showing how hard it is for him to broaden his listening scope. Certain habits are so strong that not everyone can free himself from them. If this be the case then our listener has the right to state that he can do without jazz. The musical universe with the exclusion of jazz, is diversified enough to take up a lifetime by itself.

Will we ever have a World government? The League of Nations failed, will the United Nations also fail? What are the internal mechanisms governing the many countries which form the United Nations?

Origin

The League of Nations came to an end after World War II. But the idea of a world conference group remained in the minds of people and in 1945 the United Nations Organization was formed in San Francisco.

General Assembly

The General Assembly is the core of the UN. It is composed of all the member nations. Each member nation sends five representatives to the Assembly, but only one member of a nation's delegation may vote.

A President and Vice-President are elected for each session by the entire Assembly. The General Assembly also appoints six Main Committees to prepare work for the regular sessions.

Security Council

The Security Council is made up of 11 members; five of these being the Permanent Members: China, France, Great Britain, the United States and Russia.

Powers of the Council include the organization of a UN police force, ruling on disputes likely to lead to a breach of peace and the power to veto admission of new members to the United Nations.

Secretary General

The Secretary General is the chief administrative official of the UN. He is "appointed by the General Assembly upon the recommendation of the Security Council." Trygve Lie, first Secretary General of the UN, developed the privilege of coming before the Council to present matters that in his opinion may threaten the peace of the world.

The Secretary General serves a term of five years and until his successor is elected. One of the many duties of this position is to make a report to the General Assembly on the work and accomplishments of the UN.

World Government?

Briefly, that is the internal picture of the UN and its operation. Is it, as some people maintain, a "baby" world government?

Many factors must first be considered before this question can be answered. For example, what is a government? How will the police power be handled?

Also, it can be said, with reasonable safety, that the people of the world are not willing to forfeit complete world power to a central authority. This clearly implies that any form of world government would not possess the "consent of the governed".

It is doubtful if the sovereignty of free nations will ever be subordinated to that of a world government. But, all free nations of the world must agree that peaceful coexistence is the only manner in which we will attain a safe and free world.

President Eisenhower, in a speech for United Nations Day in 1953 said, "With all its defects, with all the failures that we can check up against it, it still represents man's best organized hope to substitute the conference table for the battlefield."

Agonizing Choice

Instructors have as much right to have convictions as everybody else. What they do not have is the right to teach their beliefs as fact.

It places students in a peculiarly uncomfortable position. Should they challenge the instructor's version of, say, the Industrial Revolution—and risk a bad grade? Or should they commit the very sin Universities are teaching students not to commit—and go along with the instructor for the sake of a good grade?

It's a toughie, all right.

NOSMO KING

Campus Philosopher

by Frank Court
(Jambar feature writer)

Once upon a time, in the Kingdom of the Forest, was an Institution for the Advancement of Forest Creatures. This institution was very similar to other institutions. Its inhabitants were a happy lot and vigorously followed their daily routines. Nothing was different -- except its August Body.

Most of the August Bodies of other institutions were fair and very impartial, but this August Body was plagued with some members who were undemocratic and used their positions to promote their own selfish interests. Besides that, the Body's Charter of Law was so full of loopholes, it resembled a piece of swiss cheese.

Many inhabitants of the institution realized the sad state it's Body was in, but the majority of the little creatures remained unconcerned. That is, they remained unconcerned until The Porridge Case came before the Body.

The Porridge Case

It seems that a group, called the Bears, had accused a group, known as the Goldilocks, of stealing their porridge. The Bears also implicated a member of the August Body in the theft. The case went before the Body for judgment.

"We demand justice," cried one of the Bears when the meeting convened. "The Goldilocks stole our porridge and a member of the August Body was behind the theft." "Tell me, Grand Magistrate?" asked the Bear. "Is action going to be taken against them?"

"Well," hesitated the Grand Magistrate of the August Body, "what kind of bowl was the porridge in?"

"That's not what I asked," replied the Bear. "All I want to know is if any action will be taken against the Goldilocks?"

"Well," once again hesitated the Magistrate, "was the porridge hot or cold?"

"Please Grand Magistrate," replied the Bear, "you are avoiding my question." "All I want to know is if action will be taken against the Goldilocks?"

"It seems to me," replied the Grand Magistrate, "that you and the rest of the Bears aren't getting the message." "Find yourself a waste basket and make a home for you and your insignificant case." "Furthermore," he added, "it states in Article 2, Paragraph 5 of our Charter of Law, '... that no person or group of persons shall be held responsible for any acts or accusations because Yankee Doodle cant to town riding on a pony and the Three Blind Mice weren't blind at all, the August Body's phony.'" "That was taken directly from the Charter of Law and the August Body is governed accordingly," said the Grand Magistrate.

At that point, the member of the August Body who was accused of taking part in the porridge theft jumped to his feet and angrily said, "Your paws out of the Body's business." "Your smelly old porridge wasn't any good anyway." With that remark, the investigation ended.

Contrary to reality, this tale had a happy ending. The administration of the Institution for the Advancement of Forest Creatures became aware of the malicious faction in the August Body and after dissolving the old Body, established a new democratic one with a fixed proportional ratio that strived for the good of all the forest creatures and for the furtherance of the institution, instead of themselves or the herd they were affiliated with.

The August Body became a pattern of Democracy. A free and unbiased voice that set a democratic example for the creatures of the institution and banished from the kingdom political monopolization and control by the select few.

'Child of Our Time' Reviewed

By Audrey A. Zagorec

"Leave hate to those who are too weak to love."

CHILD OF OUR TIME by Michel del Castillo is an indelible account of the unbelievable, terrifying barbarities a small, uncomprehending child is subjected to in the time of war.

It is a grim commentary of life in which Tanguy, a seven year old French boy desiring only to be ordinary and to have a home with parents and friends, is continually afflicted and stripped of all hope by the tragedies of war. Though too young to fully understand the wretchedness of war Tanguy is sent to a concentration camp in Midi with his mother who has been denounced as a Communist by Tanguy's father. There Tanguy lived for eighteen months among the screaming, swearing, quarrelling and filth where one day was no different from the other except that the pains of hunger became more intense. Tanguy and his mother who became severely ill were sent to Montpellier for a short time which was followed by a disastrous separation. Tanguy's mother left for Madrid where Tanguy was to join her but the night before his departure he was captured along with many Jews by French officers and was sent to another concentration camp in Germany, clutching a picture of his mother, his only possession.

Tanguy Befriended

In the concentration camp Tanguy was befriended by Gunther, a German who gave the boy the needed strength to struggle for life however bare and antagonizing it might be. Tanguy spent his first real Christmas with Gunther even though it was a Christmas enclosed in the agonies of a concentration camp. Days that followed were incessant repetitions of vexations. Each day brought more hunger and less hope for freedom. Finally a door opened, Gunther was taken away, a shot was heard and

Franko Speaks To Newmanites

The Democratic nominee for mayor of Youngstown, Mr. Frank R. Franko, spoke to Newmanites this past Sunday evening, November 1st, in the Cardinal Mooney cafeteria.

Preceded by Attorney John H. Oesch, a former 5th ward councilman whose topic was "City Council and Political Science", Mr. Franko talked on "The Philosophy of Politics".

Beginning with the Declaration of Independence, the mayoral aspirant summarized the history of the United States and its political revolutions to date.

Stressing integration, free competition and mass individual benefit of every national resource, Mr. Franko pointed out the various situations confronting the development toward the American ideal.

ZETA PHI EDGES KSK, 13-12

Bodines Bandits Pilfer IFC Football Crown

Parm, Renaldo, Klingler Feature In Second Period Scoring At Borts Field

By Paul Jagnow
(Jambar sports editor)

Rebounding from a six point deficit, Zeta Phi's invincible football squad nudged across two final stanza touchdowns to nip Kappa Sigma Kappa, 13-12, last Sunday, at Borts Field, bagging them the 1959 IFC football championship.

Zeta Phi's winning point came on an evasive plunge by Mel Klingler on the conversion attempt following their first tally.

Kappa Sigs Tally In First Half

Kappa Sigma Kappa's initial touchdown drive got under way when aerial expert Bob Cain, hurled a pass into the arms of Larry Kunkle, netting them a first down. On the next maneuver, Cain scurried around the right end and ran to the 40 yard marker before being halted by the Zeta Phi's defense. On the following play, Cain returned to the air waves again, this time arching a 40 yard aerial to Sonny Joseph, who was standing unheeded in the striped area. A pass attempt for the extra point was incomplete.

A second Kappa Sig drive late in the first half sparked by a 16 yard pass to Kunkle was curbed by the staunch Zeta Phi defense before it could materialize into a definite threat. Halftime found the Kappa Sigs still holding their own by a 6-0 margin.

Zeta Phi Scores On Pass Play

After an exchange of punts, early in the second period, Zeta Phi took possession of the oval on the Kappa Sig 35 yard marker. After one unsuccessful pass attempt "Corky" Parm launched another aerial which bobbed through the hands of Mike Giambattista but was hastily scooped up by Mike Renaldo on the KSK 19 yard line, giving "Bodines Bandits" a first down.

Despite the terrific defensive play of Bill Senn and Nick Aulisio of Kappa Sigma Kappa, Zeta Phi forced their way to the seven yard stripe in the next three plays. Faced with a fourth down situation, and only seven yards from a goal, Parm called upon his deadly arm and tossed the pigskin to Renaldo in the endzone. Mel Klingler then plunged over for the conversion which gave them a 7-6 edge over the Kappa Sigs.

KSK's Second Bid Pays With TD

Kappa Sigma Kappa's second bid came mid-way through the second half, when Parm's punt bounced out of bounds at the KSK 25 yard line. Bob Cain again took to the air lanes, and whipped a pass to Jim Corbett for a first down. A second pass flew wild but Jerry McCarthy dove head first and snatched it before it fell to the ground. Cain's third aerial landed in the outstretched hands of Corbett, who bounded to the one yard mark before being checked. With third and goal to go, Cain fired his final pass to Larry Kunkle in the endzone and the Kappa Sigs again hooked the lead. Cain's pass attempt for the conversion was foiled by the Bandit's, leaving the score at 12-7.

Bandits Snare TD With 1:30 Left

With the clock ticking away precious time, Zeta Phi began their second touchdown thrust, and finally struck paydirt with 1:30 remaining in the contest. After a series of plays that carried the Bandits to the KSK 21, "Corky" Parm flung a 19 yard aerial to Mel Klingler, who slipped into the endzone for the score. The try for the conversion failed, and Zeta Phi took the lead, 13 to 12.

Kappa Sigma Kappa then took over the ball handling duties but time expired before they could retaliate.

Zeta Phi's Second 13-12 Victory

This is the second year in a row that Zeta Phi has beaten the Kappa Sigs, 13 to 12. Last years game went through five 10 minute over-times before the bandits could edge the Kappa Sigs.

By pulling through with a perfect season record, Zeta Phi has now added six more games to their three year winning streak, boosting the total to 18 straight contests. Throughout the three year span the Bandits have been scored upon only three times.

Penguins Downed 13-7 By Buffalo Bulls

By Ray Dolak
(Jambar sports writer)

Youngstown University's Penguins bowed to a highly rated Buffalo U. eleven, 13 to 7, under swamplike conditions at Rayen Stadium, last Saturday night.

Penguins Score

The Penguins lone touchdown occurred when quarterback, Harold Green, after finding no open pass receivers, scooted through the center of the line and tore 48 yards to paydirt. "Mr. Versatile", Tom Smolanovich, booted the extra point to give the Penguins a 7-0 lead.

After an exchange of punts, the Bulls moved the ball from their own 27 yard line to score on a line plunge by Bill Brogan eight plays later. An end run by Willie Evens added two points and Buffalo swung into the lead, 8 to 6.

Y.U. Drive Fails

As the half was drawing to a close, a pass from Green to Fred Quatro placed the ball on the enemy 35. Green then carried the mail seven times but failed to deliver the final punch and the drive bogged down on the one foot line as the half ended.

In the third period the rugged Buffalo squad drove to score again on the hapless Penguins. Willie Evens burst through the Penguin line and into the endzone from the Y.U. three yard line. Bukaty then ran around the end to give the Bulls an added two points.

Penguins Tackle Owls Saturday Night

Youngstown University's Penguins will oppose the New Haven State eleven, tomorrow night, at Rayen Stadium. "Dike" Beede's football troupe will be seeking their fifth win in nine outings.

Coach Jesse Dow's footballers have thus far compiled a perfect season having captured tilts with American-International, Bridgeport, Norwich, Brockport State, New Britain, and Quonset NAS.

Penguins Won First

The Penguins won their initial tilt with the Owls, 20 to 15, last year.

The New Havenites pulled through a good season last year losing only two of nine games, those being to Youngstown and Baldwin-Wallace.

Youngstown is still faced with the problem of injuries, Butch Morelli being missed the most. It is doubtful that the burly fullback will see much action in tomorrow's game.

Coronation of the 1959 Homecoming Queen, along with a parade of floats made by members of campus organizations, will highlight half-time ceremonies.

THE LOCKER ROOM

By Pete Arlow
(Jambar football writer)

This year's ten game schedule is one of the toughest and longest in the history of Youngstown University. Teams such as Gastavus Adolphus, Tennessee State, Ohio U., and Buffalo U. are among the best small college teams in the country. As a matter of fact Buffalo University was voted the best small college team in the East for which they received the Lambert Trophy, emblematic of Eastern college supremacy. Each of these games poses the same problem in the way of depth and size. The Penguins are always out-sized and out-manned, especially in the line. But you can be sure that each and every ball player will give all he possesses to bring a victory.

In Saturday's game against the University of Buffalo, the Penguins played for the sixth time on a wet field or during a rainfall. The only word which seems to be descriptive of the weather the Penguins have played in is a "jinx". The remainder of the games will probably be played in cold weather which would be somewhat of a break from the rain and mud.

Hungry Penguin

I would like to pay tribute to a guy by the name of Jim Rich. He is known to all his teammates as the biggest eater on the squad. At a recent dinner which Jim, myself, and three other men attended, he really amazed all of us by his enormous capacity to eat. Long after we had finished, Jim continued to consume gigantic portions of home made raviolis. He cannot be matched by three men in his ability to eat. The whole locker room wishes you lots of luck and good eating, Jim.

Looking U Around..

by Blase DeLeo & Pat McCarren

We just could not pass up the opportunity to comment on the Homecoming elections last Wednesday and Thursday as the activities around campus and in the Main hall were really something to behold.

First, we wish to congratulate each one of you who turned out to vote. More than 1990 people voted, a new record for campus elections. We hope that this show of school spirit will continue throughout the year.

Walking through the door of Main, one faced a formidable line of people waiting to pounce on you and carry you to the voting table. Personally, we'd rather face the Pittsburgh Steelers than try to rush that mob. People kept shouting candidates names at you while trying to stop you to listen to their pitch. Many people, students and instructors alike, were late for classes. One poor fellow was last seen being swallowed up by quite a number of girls pushing him to the polls. His last words were, "Herman! Help me Herman! Hermannnnnnnn...."

In addition to the six lovely ladies whose pictures were published a few weeks ago, several last-minute "write in" candidates made their showing. One of these was a prominent BMOG (if you don't know what that means, come on in from left field my friend) whose anonymous supporters became a wee bit over-enthusiastic with the paint brush on election eve. Signs and badges are OK, but let's keep the malicious destruction of university property OUT.

Another of the last minute candidates was one lady whose campaign sign stated the fact that she was being supported by absolutely nobody. Also, we hear that one of the candidates in the very hot race for mayor of the city received a few votes.

We have been asked to mention, as a public service, that there will be a meeting of the "Movement for the Protection of Voters" in the Emergency Ward of Northside Hospital at 2:30 P.M. on October 32, 1959. The temporary president of this newly formed organization, Mr. I.M. Maimed, has told us the group will petition Student Council for a charter. Their first project will be a sale of such items as football helmets, shin guards, chest protectors and ear plugs. These items can be purchased at the club's meeting place in the back room of North Hall on Elm Street.

You say it is the eve of Homecoming and you just discovered that the girl you were to take to the game and dance just got a bad case of the African Sleeping Sickness, is that what's troubling you Bunky?

It is rumored that Butler Art Institute is considering a sidewalk diagonally across the lawn facing the Library. This is no doubt due to the high traffic through that area. The probable reason that so many people cut across the grass is that the swamp jokingly referred to as a parking lot is jammed tight with cars all the time.

Speaking of the parking problem, we have a few pet peeves. People who use the lots that must park in the aisles sometimes take their keys or lock the car. This is inconsiderate of the other students, and could lead to the flattening of your tires by some disgruntled person or a damaged fender. Then there are the ones who park in the street. These fall into two classes. First, there are those who spread their cars out, and park four cars in the space that seven could use. Secondly, there are those who wedge their autos in so tight that no one can move at all. How do they slide them in -- sideways? Let's try to correct some of these bad habits and be a bit more considerate of others.

For your information, locker No. 74 on the first floor of Main has a big mirror hanging inside. By the way, did you ever just stand and watch when some of the lockers are opened? They hold all sorts of treasures, and quite often these treasures come out to meet the unlucky one who opens it.

Don't forget, Little One, tonight is the big rally down behind Ford Hall with a dance in Strouss Auditorium, and tomorrow, the parade, game and dance at Idora. We'll see you at all these events.

Letter To The Editor Voices Sentiments About Homecoming

EDITOR:

Youngstown University should be proud of her beautiful homecoming queen. She has beauty, charm, and poise and will represent her school well.

But there are some narrow-minded people around school who are poor losers, and have blown this whole homecoming campaign into an uproar, even going as far as to degrade our queen. This should never happen because we are college students and should be able to think for ourselves, not as a group.

This homecoming election was the worst election ever seen on this campus. The candidates this year were of high caliber and each one would have represented Youngstown University very well.

Being so, that meant the one who was going to win was going to have a strong backing and good organization. Davene had a group with very high spirit behind her and they worked hard.

Because the other backers didn't have that strong spirit behind them. They had to revert to unethical tactics to win votes. I feel that if a campaigner couldn't sell his or her candidate on the candidates own merits, then they should leave it go at that and not slander the other candidates.

Lets not have our university be known for its rotten campaigns and elections. New rules should be set up by Student Council to curb a lot of these practices.

Careers Conference To Be Held At Pitt

PITTSBURGH, October 26 -- Careers in the federal government will be discussed by representatives of 35 government agencies at the Third Annual Federal Careers Conference for colleges and universities in the tri-state area. The Conference will be held at the University of Pittsburgh in the student union November 6 and 7.

The Conference aims to inform students and faculty members about the wide variety of professional opportunities available for college graduates. The Federal Service Entrance Examination and the Management Intern program will be discussed in detail.

In addition to the agencies recruiting through the FSEE and regular Civil Service channels, there will be representatives of intelligence and security agencies available for student and faculty consultation.

Many of the agencies are sending exhibits to illustrate some of the phases of their work.

Child of Our Time

Tangy was left with memories without hope. Once more a boy alone.

After his release from the camp he went to Barcelona in search of his grandmother. She had died three years before. He was sent to the Dumas Orphanage and Reformatory where a group of notorious sadists cloaked in the cloth of monks were in charge. Life there was as unbearable as it had been in Germany and Tangy fled to Madrid where he was enrolled in a college run by Father Pardo who appeared to understand the feelings of this unfortunate child; and, gave him the happiness he so deserved. With Father Pardo's help Tangy discovered where his father was living and set out to find him. But Tangy and his father were strangers who had lived different lives and could never understand each other. Before their separation Tangy learned his mother was in Paris, struggling to piece life together. Tangy went to his mother who still fought for a divided world and had no sympathy for Tangy's kind. Tangy left her with his indestructible love for a country that had never knowingly given him anything.

Alone with this unbelievable life Tangy is left on the street he loves with the people he knows and trusts. Will he be happy; who knows?

DIARY OF A COED

MONDAY: Prof. Pomfritt sprang quiz in English lit this morning. If Shakespeare didn't write Canterbury Tales I'm a dead duck . . . Lunch at the house—turkey hash. Question: how can we have turkey hash when we never had turkey? . . . Smoked a Marlboro after lunch. I dig those better makin's the most! . . . Played bridge with sorors in afternoon. When game was over, my partner stabbed me several times with hatpin. Must learn weak club bid . . . Dinner at house—lamb hash. Question: how can we have lamb hash when we never had lamb? . . . Smoked a Marlboro after dinner. What filter! What flavor! What pack or box! . . . Chapter meeting at night. Motion made to abolish capital punishment for pledges. Motion defeated. . . Smoked more Marlboros. Quelle joie! . . . And so to bed.

TUESDAY: Faculty tea at the house. Spilled pot of oolong on Dean of Women. She very surly. Offered her a Marlboro. Still surly. Offered skin graft. No help . . . Dinner at Kozy Kampus Kafe—24 hamburgers. But no dessert. Have to yatch waistline . . . And so to bed.

WEDNESDAY: Got our marks in English lit quiz. Lucky for me Shakespeare wrote Canterbury Tales! . . . Afternoon date with Ralph Feldspar. Purely platonic. Ralph wanted to consult me about love trouble he's having with his girl Nymphet Calloway. I assured him things would get better. Ralph said he certainly hopes so because last four times he called on Nymphet, she dumped vacuum cleaner bag on him . . . Smoked several Marlboros. Wonderful cigarette. No confusion about which end to light. Saves loads of time . . . Dinner at house—bread. That's all; just bread . . . And so to bed.

THURSDAY: Three packages from home—laundry, cookies, records. So hungry I ate all three . . . Quiz in American history. If Millard Fillmore didn't invent cotton gin, I'm in big trouble . . . Dinner at house. Big excitement—Nymphet Calloway announced her engagement to Ralph Feldspar. While sorors flocked around to congratulate Nymphet, I ate everybody's side meat . . . Then smoked Marlboro. Oh, what a piece of work is Marlboro! . . . And so to bed.

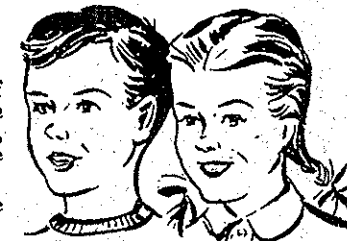

FRIDAY: Got our marks in American history quiz. Was shattered to learn that Millard Fillmore did not invent cotton gin. He wrote Canterbury Tales! . . . How very odd! . . . Lunch at the house—bread hash . . . Marlboro after lunch. Great smoke. Must send valentine to manufacturers . . . Spent entire afternoon getting dressed for date tonight with Norman Twonkey. Norman is tall, dark, loaded—a perfect doll! Only thing wrong is he never tells a girl where he's going to take her. So I put on a bathing suit, on top of that an evening gown, and on top of that a snowsuit. Thus I was ready for a splash party, a dance, or a toboggan slide . . . So what do you think happened? He entered me in a steeplechase, that's what! . . . Would have taken first prize easily if I hadn't pulled up lame in the last furlong . . . And so to bed.

Yes, the college life is a busy one and you may be having trouble choosing the cigarette that's right for you. Here's a handy guide: For filter plus flavor—Marlboro. For flavor without filter—Phillip Morris. For filter plus flavor, plus coolness—Alpine . . . All made by the sponsors of this column.

College of Hard Knocks for Your Children?

Not if you can help it, of course. But can you? By the time they reach college age, will the college you choose be able to take them in?

Let's hope so. But maybe not!
Many college classrooms are overcrowded today. By 1967, applications are expected to double. On top of that, low salaries are driving too many gifted teachers into other fields and reducing the number of capable people training for teaching careers today.

By the time your children are ready for college, there's a good chance the college of their choice just plain won't be ready for them—unless we take steps to remedy this situation now. You can help, by helping the college of your choice now.

Super Sub!

It's been said that the atomic submarine "Nautilus" stays submerged so long that it only surfaces to let the crew re-enlist.

Perhaps for this reason, the Navy has taken valuable space aboard the "Nautilus" for the only soft-drink vending machine in the entire submarine fleet.

Naturally (or you wouldn't hear about it from us) it's a Coca-Cola machine. And not unexpectedly, re-enlistments are quite respectable.

Rugged lot, those submariners. Great drink, Coke!
