

City Council To Vote Wednesday On Proposed Zone Change

SAE Installed As Twelfth National Frat On Campus

Phi Gamma Installation Held Sat

On Saturday, December 5th, Phi Gamma Fraternity was officially installed as the Ohio Alpha Chapter of Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity. A total of 34 actives and 15 alumni were initiated as charter members of the new chapter.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon is one of the largest social fraternities in the world with well over 100,000 alumni. It was founded in 1856 at the University of Alabama and has since grown to where today it has 143 chapters located in 46 of our 50 states. The addition of Ohio Alpha brings the number of SAE chapters in Ohio to twelve. SAE was a southern fraternity until 1885 when the first permanent northern chapter was established at Mount Union College in Alliance, Ohio.

Many national, province and local officials of Sigma Alpha Epsilon were present for the festivities which began Friday with registration at the chapter house. It was a busy weekend for the Ohio Alpha Chapter with over 200 guests registering at the house during the weekend. Telegrams of congratulations poured into the chapter house from all parts of the United States. Heading the list of guests was Howard P. Falls of Richmond, Virginia, national president of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Friday evening found all visiting national and province officials at a dinner at the Hotel Pick-Ohio given by the Youngstown Alumni Association of Sigma Alpha Epsilon. Following the dinner, the officials proceeded to the Visual Education Room of the University library where a final indoctrination session was held for all the initiates to be.

Marterie To Play For Snowflake

The main attraction at this year's Snowflake Frolic will be Ralph Marterie and his Marlboro Orchestra. The dance will take place on Dec. 18th, at Stambaugh Auditorium from 9 to 1.

Special entertainment will be presented at intermission by Mel Zito, a brother of Sigma Phi Epsilon, and dancers from the Fred Astaire Studio. Hostesses will also provide entertainment.

Student Council and the administration both request that there be no drinking at the dance. Drinking at a social function is prohibited by Student Council law.

Co-chairmanship for the dance is shared by Gary Jones and Don Preston of Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity.

Christmas Chapels 9 O'clock Wednesday

Chapel Hours

Chapel hour this Wednesday, December 16, is 9 a.m., when classes will be excused.

Protestant services are to be at St. John's Episcopal Church where the Reverend Mr. Clark Oler, Associate Minister will speak.

Father Paul Petric will speak at the Catholic services which will be held in St. Joseph's Church.

RIL Carol Sing Set For Sunday

The annual RIL Carol Sing and Christmas Party will be this Sunday evening, December 13.

The Carol Sing Tour of the rest homes and homes for the aged will begin at 7 p.m. At that time all Carolers will meet at the home of Reverend and Mrs. Albert L. Linder, 634 Bryson Street. A schedule of the tour will be available at the Chaplin's Residence.

The Christmas Party will follow at the Linder home and is to begin at 9 o'clock. Fun and refreshments are in store for all.

Committee Urges Students To Contact Councilmen

Student Committee Circulates Petitions Opposing The Proposed Zone Change

On Wednesday evening, December 16, at 7:30 p.m., the Youngstown City Council will vote on the proposed zoning change for the property immediately north of Y.U.'s Pollock house. This rezoning of property owned by the Lombard Corporation, a purely profit making organization, has been okayed by the City Planning Commission.

In voting on this issue, our City Council will not only be voting on a zone change but on the future of Youngstown University and the rest of the surrounding area. This area, which is the only cultural area in this part of the state, will certainly be arrested in its development since changing the zoning from residential to commercial will increase the price of nearby property to almost three times its present value. A price of this magnitude would undoubtedly be prohibitive as far as expansion is concerned.

Mr. Ted Cubbison, President of Y.U.'s Alumni Association, and the University's lawyer in this matter has stated that, if the proposed rezoning passes, it will not only be a further encroachment on this cultural area but a detriment to the city itself since it will be detracting from the city's only cultural area. Mr. Cubbison has further stated that businesses such as the Lombard Corporation are free to go elsewhere while the University cannot. This is the only area in which it can continue to grow and develop.

Perhaps you are now wondering what you, a student can do to help out in this situation. The fact that the City Planning Commission has approved the rezoning does not make its acceptance by City Council automatic. As has happened in the past, a little pressure brought to bear on City Council by you, the voting public, could cause them to vote against this change and your University.

To bring this about, a committee of students consisting of Chuck Williams, Mickey Bruner, Larry Florman, Donna Zalski, Alice Misocky, Bob Steiskal and Frank Platenak has been organized. After carefully going over the situation, they have decided that you can best help the University by: contacting your City Councilman either in person, on the phone, or by mail and informing him of your views and feelings in this matter; signing the petitions against rezoning that are being circulated and attending the student rally to be held in Strouss Auditorium Monday, December 14 at noon.

YU Opera Workshop Scheduled For Jan.

The Youngstown University Opera Workshop presents Jacques Offenbach's gay comic opera, "La Perichole", in the new Metropolitan English version January 18 and 19 at 8:30 p.m. in Strouss Memorial Auditorium.

Workshop Set For SC Candidates On Jan. 8

The date for the Student Council Workshop has been set for January 8, 1960. All prospective candidates and other interested students are asked to meet in the Audio-Visual Room of the library at 5 p.m. The meeting will last approximately one hour.

During this time speeches will present the ins and outs of being a Student Council member. The new campaign rules will also be announced for the first time. Each student will have an opportunity to ask questions on any phase of Council.

Each candidate must be present at this meeting in order to have his name appear on the ballot.

Sketches and Pictures Due

Voters elect candidates who will do the best job. Each candidate for Student Council is asked to write a short sketch of his qualifications that will make him a good Student Council Member. It should include any offices the person has ever held, and any clubs he has been a member of.

These sketches accompanied by a picture must be handed in at the Jambor Office by December 18th.

Social Science Club Sponsors Party

The Social Science Club will have its Christmas Party at the Kimmel Brook Community Center, 1402 Wright Drive, the evening of December 17, beginning at 8 p.m.

Members of the International Student Organization and all others interested in the club are cordially invited.

Transportation will be provided from the University Library at 7:30.

Dr. Low's Book Reviewed In Several Publications

The student body may possibly be interested in the following article which contains excerpts of reviews of Dr. Low's book LENIN ON THE QUESTION OF NATIONALITY, which was published last year, including two recent reviews.

In addition, during the last months a number of review articles and reviews have been published by Dr. Low. In the April issue of THE AMERICAN HISTORICAL REVIEW appeared a discussion of the work of a leading German historian, Walter Goetz: HISTORIKER IN MEINER ZEIT, in the July issue of THE RUSSIAN REVIEW a discussion of a new study by J.P. Meyer, LENINISM, and in the December issue of THE SOCIAL STUDIES is to be found a review of W.B. Walsh, RUSSIA AND THE SOVIET UNION. - Dr. Low also just learned that a longer article of his, "The First Austrian Republic and Soviet Hungary", the first fruit of research done by Dr. Low in the archives of the Austrian foreign ministry in the summer of 1958 in Vienna, has been accepted for publication by THE JOURNAL OF CENTRAL EUROPEAN AFFAIRS, to appear early in 1960. This research was made possible by a grant from the American Philosophical Society which enabled him to travel to Vienna, Austria.

Reviews of Dr. Alfred D. Low's LENIN ON THE QUESTION OF NATIONALITY (N.Y., Bookman Associates, 1958)

(The foregoing study was one of those selected for the U.S. Moscow exhibit and also one of those objected to by Soviet authorities; U.P. dispatch, Aug. 6, 1959, New York Times)

1) THE AMER. HISTORICAL REVIEW, Oct. 1958, p. 182, Prof. Hans Kohn "Alfred D. Low has earned the gratitude of students of Russian communism and of twentieth century nationalism by a careful and well-documented study on the conceptual framework of Lenin's approach to the problem of nationality ... Low confines himself to an analysis of Lenin political thought with regard to nationalism, but he shows also how far this segment of Lenin's thought has been accepted or modified by early Soviet policy ... clear and concise analysis ... revealed the inconsistencies in Lenin's thought and the distortion of that thought not only under Stalin but even during Lenin's lifetime."

2) INTERNATIONAL REVIEW OF SOCIAL HISTORY, Amsterdam, 1958, Nr. 3, p. 527.

"A very useful and well documented survey is given here of Lenin's opinions on the nationality question-how much they were influenced by the peculiar Russian conditions, in what measure they corresponded with the ideas held by Marx and Engels, and how they changed under the impact of practical problems, especially after the October Revolution. A very appreciable characteristic of the book is thoroughness with which Lenin's opponents in the socialists movement's camp-Renner, Bauer, Luxemburg - are dealt with; in this way a framework is offered which contributes to an understanding of Lenin's own standpoint."

3) THE AMER. POLIT. SCIENCE REVIEW, Sept. 1959, p. 887.

"This is a brief scholarly discussion of a topic of abiding importance. The author rightly attributes to Lenin the lion's share in the development of Bolshevik thinking and early policy on nationality thereby relegating Stalin to his original place. The analysis concludes that Lenin's theory was opposed both to later Stalinist practice, which gave preeminence to the Great Russians throughout the communist world and to Titoist claims for genuine equality among sovereign socialist national states ... Some of the most interesting discussion and material can be found in the Notes at the end."

4) THE SOCIAL STUDIES, Nov. 1959, pp. 236-37.

"This interesting and penetrating analysis of Lenin's ideas on the problem of nationality reflects a thorough familiarity with the basic writings of the noted Bolshevik leader ... This book furnishes a helpful background to an understanding of Soviet encouragement of national movements in the Near East, Africa, and Asia."

Jazz Society Presents

Concert On Dec. 29

The Jazz Society of Greater Youngstown is presenting "A Concert in Jazz", Tuesday, December 29, 1959, at Raven High School Auditorium. The program, which will begin at 8 p.m., features the "Les Musicians" Band and the best of the local groups. Admission is free.

The "Les Musicians" Band is comprised of 20 members from the Cleveland-Youngstown area and is directed by Ray Fullum. The local musicians' union is sponsoring the band.

The Jazz Society invites all fans, musicians, and anyone interested in jazz to join the society. Meetings are every Tuesday night at 8 p.m. at St. Augustine Church on Parmalee Avenue. Following the weekly business meeting is either a workshop or jam session and panel discussion (alternating each Tuesday).

President of the Jazz Society is Bob Hassey and vice-president is Frank Halfacre.

For more information contact Bob Hassey c/o WBBW or attend a meeting.

Biology Fraternity Inducts 6 Members

Omicron Lambda, honorary Biology fraternity, held its first social meeting of the season at Pollock House on Sunday evening, Nov. 22. Dr. Tandatnick, Pathologist and Director of Labs at Saint Elizabeth's Hospital, spoke to the group and showed a documentary film, "The Tragedy of Dr. Semmelweis," depicting the dawn of antiseptic procedure in the field of obstetrics. A discussion and social hour followed.

The current officers of the organization are: Jerry Dusza, President; Dale Keller, Vice President; Florine Thompson, Recording Secretary; Kay Miller, Corresponding Secretary; Bob Spak, Treasurer; and Francis Belcik, Historian. Mrs. Hirabayashi and Dr. Marcy serve as faculty advisors.

Recently inducted members into the fraternity are: Joe Allegretto, Lawrence Billy, Andrew Conti, Sam D'Onofrio, and Dale Keller. Plans have been made for the group to visit St. Elizabeth hospital in the near future to witness an autopsy.

Phi Gamma Installation

A tour of the city of Youngstown began Saturday's activities for all visiting guests. The motor caravan, complete with police escort, began at the Hotel Pick-Ohio and proceeded to Youngstown's scenic Mill Creek Park. After visiting several other places of interest throughout the city, the tour concluded at Youngstown University where the visiting guests were conducted on a guided tour of the school.

Mayor Kryzan Initiated

The actual initiation ceremonies began at 2:00 with representatives from the neighboring collegiate chapters serving as members of the installation team. Among the initiates was Mayor Frank X. Kryzan, a Phi Gamma member during his college days. Following the initiation the chapter held its first official meeting where the oath of office was administered to the officers of the chapter. The officers included James Douglas, Eminent Archon; Ronald Reneker, Eminent Deputy Archon; Don Kolunie, Eminent Treasurer; George Melody, Eminent Recorder; Tom Henninger, Eminent Correspondent.

The climax of the weekend was the installation banquet Saturday evening at the Elks Club Ballroom where more than 300 guests gathered to honor the newest chapter of Sigma Alpha Epsilon. Youngstown University's officials present at the banquet included Dr. Howard Jones, president; Dean John Gillespie, dean of men; Dean Olive McCarty, dean of women; Rev. Petric and Rev. Linder, University chaplains; and James Corbet, president of IFC.

The principal address for the evening was delivered by Howard Falls on the topic "You've Got the Whole World in Your Hand." The talk was aimed primarily at the new initiates and stressed the valuable opportunities that avail themselves to members of a large national fraternity.

Newman Party Dec. 20; Caroling Featured

The Newman Christmas Party scheduled for December 20 in the Cardinal Mooney Cafeteria will begin at approximately 8 p.m.

Carolers will leave CMHS at 6:30 to visit the homes of President Jones and Dean Gillespie and the charitable institutions of the area.

Co-chairmen of the event are Linda Kramer and Don Archer who promise entertainment, food and fun.

NEWLAND

ON EISENHOWER

President Eisenhower left the United States last week on the longest trip ever made by an incumbent U.S. President.

Eisenhower will travel for 19 days and cover a distance of 19,600 miles. He will travel by plane, ship, helicopter, train and car.

Important diplomats of the world will be following President Eisenhower's mission with great interest as it will provide clues to the effectiveness or ineffectiveness of this "space age" diplomacy.

The President will make the following stops during his mission.

ROME

It is possible, at this time, to give a brief account of the President's visit to Rome as he stopped there on Sat., Dec. 5.

Eisenhower's reception in Rome was accompanied by drenching rains, color and ceremony.

Formal talks were held with Italian President Giovanni Gronchi and Premier Antonio Segni. Segni has frequently complained that the U.S. has taken Italian loyalty for granted.

A most unexpected welcome was given the President by the Italian Communists who for years have denounced him.

The Communist press indicated it had received instructions from Moscow on how to handle the Eisenhower visit. All stories appearing in the papers were related to Premier Khrushchev's recent visit to Camp David with much praise for "the great hope of peace lighted in the souls of people by the Eisenhower-Khrushchev meeting."

ANKARA

After leaving Rome the President will visit Ankara. While in Turkey the President will talk with President Bayar and Premier Adnan Menderes; both faithful to the U.S.

KARACHI

Eisenhower and Pakistan's President Ayub Khan will probably discuss the possibility of an Indo-Pak defense against Red China.

KABUL

The stop in Afghanistan should prove to be a difficult one as Afghanistan trade rules and policies are very favorable to the U.S.S.R.

NEW DELHI

While in India the President will deliver an address to the Indian Parliament and open the U.S. exhibit at the Agricultural Fair. Delhi University will award an honorary degree to the President during his short visit.

After departing from India Eisenhower will travel to Teheran to lunch with the Shah of Teheran.

ATHENS

In Greece, the President will meet with King Paul and Queen Frederika.

FRANCE

Eisenhower will meet Secretary of State Christian Herter at Toulon and then travel to Paris for the much talked about Western summit meeting.

MADRID

The most important meeting in Spain for the President will be with Generalissimo Franco, who desires to assume a more important part in Western defense planning.

MOROCCO

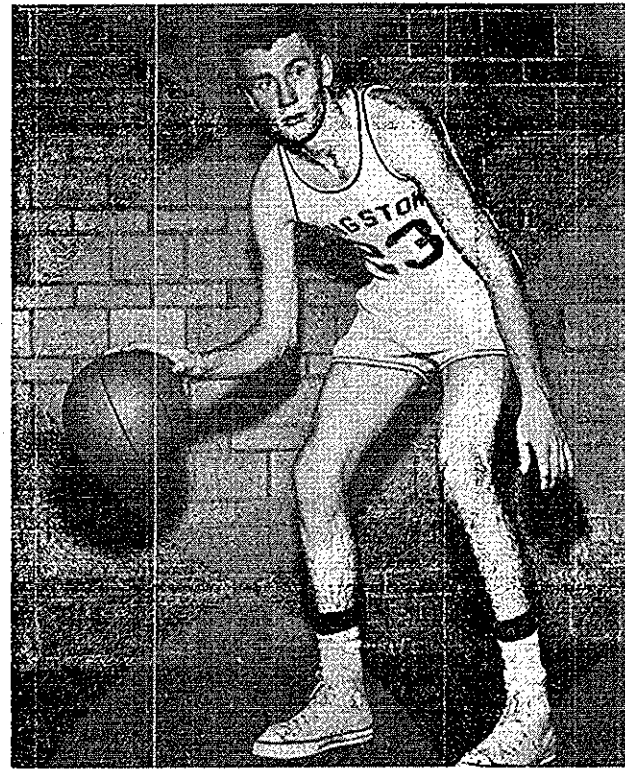

This is the last stop in the President's sojourn. He will confer with King Mohammed V of Morocco about the popularity of the U.S.'s recent announcement that it will abandon the Strategic Air Command in this country.

All other forms of diplomacy have seemed to fail to achieve world peace; it is with hope we witness President's Eisenhower's unprecedented diplomatic mission.

Calendar Goes Back

... (1932) "Y" COLLEGE CO-EDS PUT RAN ON GIGOLOS. LOCAL GIRLS REFUSE TO SUBSCRIBE TO CALIFORNIA SLOGAN THAT THEY PAY HALF OF EXPENSES ON DATES.

"Youngstown College men make good companions - but they must be men - not gigolos. A survey by the JAMBAR disclosed that the local co-eds wouldn't subscribe to the slogan - "Let the women pay at least half."

PENGUIN'S CAPTAIN: Heading the Rossellimen this season is Senior performer Mickey Yugovich. Mickey has dumped in forty-three in two games thus far this season from his forward position.

THE LOCKER ROOM

By Pete Arlow
(Jambar sports columnist)

Once again the locker room remains silent. The dull thud of head-gears, the clicking sound of cleats on the floor, the musty odor of sweat filled jerseys are gone. All has been cleaned and gear is being repaired in preparation for spring training. The loud yells, the hustle and bustle has turned to a period of stillness which will remain during the winter periods. Gridders have turned their equipment in and will soon be putting on excess poundage during this time of inactivity. Of course they'll all be sorry in the spring when the training grind begins again, but for now calm and quiet.

Fred Quatro, Y.U. end, suffered a torn ligament in his knee during the season finale against Akron U. and had to have his leg operated on a few days after the close of the season. Frank Horvath, freshman wingback, received a head injury in the Akron game and was held in the hospital for observation a short period. Both are all right and have responded to treatment very well.

CAGE TEAM

Y.U. cage opener was somewhat of an unhappy one as the Penguins dropped an 88-81 decision to the Golden Flashes of Kent State.

In their home opener against Alma College of Michigan, Youngstown copped an 81-55 verdict. Mickey Yugovich led Youngstown's attack with 29 and 24 points respectively along with doing most of the rebounding.

There is much conversation on the campus as to expectations from the cage squad this season. In the past years the Penguins compiled a formidable record and also swept the N.A.I.A. state championship, along with being an entrant in the national championship at Kansas City. Such key performers as Herb Lake, Beanie Gordon, and Jim Cramer are gone and the Penguins are in a building stage. This year's attack will be built around 6'6" Mickey Yugovich, one of last years stalwarts. Along with "Yug" are Howie McElroy, Roy Taylor, Bob Chuey, and newcomer John Mandish. The Penguins this season will lack the razzle-dazzle of past seasons, but the club will be a steady one with pretty good height. All that is necessary is a little confidence and student backing, which will help a great deal. So don't sell the Penguins short!

YU Piano Teacher Gives Recital Dec. 12

Mr. Robert Witt, a member of the faculty of the Dana School of Music, is giving a concert recital on Saturday, December 12. The program will begin at 8:30 p.m. in the auditorium of Strouss Hirschberg's Music Center.

A teacher of Theory and Piano, Mr. Witt is presented in recital by the Youngstown Music Teachers Association.

The program includes selections by Mozart, Beethoven, Bach and Brahms. Of the modern composers, works of Bartok and Pints will be played.

Mr. Witt will also perform several of his own compositions, including Sonatina No. 2, Two Preludes, and Toccata.

Looking Around...

by Blase DeLeo & Pat McCarren

For a real adventure, try moving some of the cars in the parking lots in order to get your own out. Everyone is now in the habit of leaving their keys in the car, and that is fine with us, but if you think your car is in bad shape, look at some of the others. There are those cars in which you have to work a combination to get the ignition key to turn. Some cars have no brakes to speak of and ... oops, there goes someone's fender. We drove one car last week that merits special mention. It is a white convertible owned by one Bill JohnJulio. It has both standard and automatic transmission, and affords a real adventure for the inexperienced driver. We hope that everyone has a chance to drive this vehicle some day; the car of last week.

As long as we're in the fender-bender, crinkle-chrome world of blinking taillights, we noted one of the university's little red station wagon's bouncing from fender to fender in the faculty parking lot last week. Even though the damages were practically negligible (if you're in the habit of neglecting fifty dollar bills), we didn't stay around to be hauled in as a witness. However, we have reconsidered, and if anyone is in need of a witness for anything, please contact our branch office in Thule, Greenland.

Several people were seen and heard poking fun at one gentleman seen carrying snowshoes around campus last week, but they're eating their words now after the snow that fell Sunday night. "He who laughs last, . . ." right, Jack? The snow slightly disrupted classes Monday morning. In some cases, the instructor was the only one in the room, and in other cases, the instructor was the only one absent. It has been reported that one late arriving professor rounded up half of his class in the Snack Bar.

Now that students are setting up their schedules for next semester, there is considerable noise coming from behind the office doors located on the second floor of the Library. Cries of "But I don't want to take that course from that professor," and "I have to go to work at that hour" filter through the glass partitions, and disturb those who are trying to study. As far as the rest of the Library is concerned, Mr. Jones is still carrying on his one man campaign for quite in the study areas. "Credit where credit is due" is our motto.

WANTED ... signs reading "Slow, students playing," to be erected on the drive through the campus. Purpose: it is hoped that the signs will slow down those drivers who think they are driving old "99" in the "Grand Prix" of Ohio. Just remember, Little One, the cold steel you feel in your back is not "Mack the Knife", but the hood ornament of a delivery man, late on his morning donut route.

You say you put five hours a night on a subject all semester to find out now that you took the wrong course, is that what's troubling you brother Flunk-out?

Last Saturday night, the Youngstown University basketball team played their first home game of the season. Although the field house was over half-filled, the percentage of students attending was very low. Since the inception of the semester, the JAMBAR has been promoting a "school spirit" campaign along with the YUSA, but everyone thought the effort was only for the Homecoming game. We want you to get out to the games and other events and support the various teams in all contests.

The cheerleaders, who are supposed to be leaders in whipping up enthusiasm for the men who represent our school in these athletic contests, were not at the game either. If they do not come to games and set the example, why should anyone else? Why bother to even have a team? We wish to remind the cheerleaders that when they accepted the prestige and honor of their positions, they took on certain responsibilities, including that of going to ALL games. If they do not wish to carry out the responsibilities as cheerleaders, let's get some people in there who will. Perhaps some of the men on campus should try out as cheerleaders. Some of the best and most popular cheerleaders at the bigger colleges are men, and these fellows are envied, not looked down upon as sissies, as some people might think.

We noted that the void at the game was partially filled when two night school students started to yell some encouragement to the team, and they were soon joined by a group of Sigma Phi Epsilon members. If it has to be up to the fraternities to take up the cheering, we know they'll follow through. We'll be there with our brothers.

The purpose of this column, or the paper as a whole, is not to step on toes, but if things get so bad that we feel it necessary, we will step on toes in order to get a point across or accomplish a mission.

Ler's all turn out tomorrow night, including the Cheerleaders.

Spanish Club Sets Yule Party Dec. 12

The Spanish Club of Youngstown University will hold their Christmas party Saturday evening the 12th of December at 8:00 p.m., in the cafeteria of the St. Columba's Cathedral. Proceeds from the party will go toward the club's Scholarship Fund.

Besides social dancing and refreshments the program will include such international folk dances as Greek, Croatian-Yugoslavian, Italian, Russian, Latin American, Scottish, and American dances, performed by members and friends of the club.

Group singing of Spanish Christmas carols, the breaking of the pinata, and Santa Claus with gifts will aid in fulfilling the prospects of a happy evening for all.

Mrs. Margarita W. Mills, Professor of Spanish at Youngstown University, is club adviser.

NOSMO KING

Campus Philosopher

by Frank Court
(Jambar feature writer)

It appears that a modern trend has evolved that is of great interest to historians and anthropologists. Nosmo King describes this trend as the resistance to the progress of education and the total destruction of a growing young culture.

Historians and anthropologists are interested because this trend can be paralleled with a movement that began as far back as 25,000 yrs. B.C., when a young Neanderthal painter, named Clyde, ran out of wall space in his cave.

It all started one day when Clyde, who came from along line of painters, was painting a portrait of Uncle Irving on the northeast wall of his cave. For many months, Clyde had been worried. He realized that he was rapidly running out of wall space and would have to slow up his progress or look for new quarters. The cave situation being scarce, left little doubt in Clyde's mind of the possibility of finding a new one.

Suddenly, there came a loud knock at the cave entrance. Clyde pulled back the bearskin and there stood Ignor and Amus, the biggest misers in the village. They were so cheap, they thought the March of Dimes was a drill team and Christmas Seals swam around the north pole.

Clyde asked them in and, noticing the squeak they produced as they walked, asked them to pull up a boulder and sit down.

"We're not here to visit", replied Ignor. "We are here to issue an ultimatum."

Surprised, Clyde begged them to tell him what was the trouble.

Ignor continued, "We are starting a new movement that is called Culturis Destructionis." "We are in need of cave space for the expansion of our Moonshine Mill and have decided that since your cave is used for nothing except culture and education, it is of no value and therefore we are moving in."

"Wait", pleaded Clyde. "Don't you realize that my cave is the last cultural center in the village?"

"That means nothing to us", screamed Ignor.

"Money, money", drooled Amus. Dollar signs lighting up everytime he blinked his eyes. "There is no market for culture but with this cave for expansion our moonshine will bring top price."

Clyde became furious and attempted to stop them. He barricaded his cave and threw rocks at the contractors when they came to begin construction. Ignor and Amus were influential and had the capital. They had poor Clyde convicted of Rockery in the first degree. Found guilty, Clyde was sentenced to be barbequed.

The following is an account of the fate of Clyde, as it appeared in the Neanderthal Town News:

BEFORE HE DIED, POOR CLYDE CRIED,
"PRESERVE THE CULTURE."
AND THEN HE FRIED.

All the boys at the Moonshine Mill had a marshmallow roast.

Nosmo tells us that Clyde was not alone in his plight. Many years later, there was a period of history, known as the Dark Ages, when culture and education were almost destroyed completely.

How about today? You say, impossible? Wake up, friend, Ignor and Amus are knocking on the entrance of your cave.

All but one girl laughed at the boss' story.
"I don't have to laugh," she said.
"I'm leaving Friday."

Let's Talk About Clothes

By Pat McCarren

The next time you're sitting in the Library, try this little character study of the average American college man.

At least three times out of five, when he comes in to do some work, after taking off his coat he'll immediately roll up his shirt sleeves. The reason for this is that, although he likes a shirt with sleeves, the cuffs on a long-sleeved shirt always seem to get in the way when he's doing something. As a matter of fact, you've no doubt heard the expression, "Let's roll up our sleeves and get to work."

Now, in Strouss' Young Men's Department, we have the solution to this problem... the new Continental shirt with the three-quarter length push-up sleeve. Originating in the Caribbean area where so many of our fashionable sport clothes come from, these shirts have spread to our own area where they have become widely popular.

These shirts are available in the latest and most popular colors and are styled in the modern tapered manner. The three-quarter length sleeve ends in a smart new cuff design that eliminates bulkiness under your coat or jacket.

Chances are that you've already seen and admired these new Continental shirts being worn around campus. If you've been wanting one, or if you haven't seen them yet, be sure to stop in Strouss' Young Men's Department on the Mezzanine and see this new idea in shirts.

A postscript to the ladies... two or three different shirts in this new style would make an excellent gift for your boyfriend, husband, father or brother this Christmas.
