

Blood bank successful 233 persons attend

by Marie Taafe

Faculty, staff and students donated 189 pints of blood to YSU's Blood Bank from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday, October 24 in Kilcawley Center's Multi-purpose Room.

A total of 233 persons came to donate blood. Of that 189 were productive donors. The remaining number of persons were not able to donate blood at that time for various reasons.

Frank K. Stillwagon, chairperson of the Mahoning Red Cross Blood Program, attended the drawing. He said he was happy with the fine operation of the program and the cooperation of all those involved.

Tony Koury, student coordinator for the Blood Bank Committee, said the committee members acknowledged everyone that worked for the blood program and everyone that volunteered to donate blood. Likewise, Student Government was acknowledged because they paid for all the advertising for the program. The committee members also acknowledged Hardee's Restaurant for their donation of doughnuts and orange juice for the blood donors.

The Red Cross also donated refreshments for the program.

Bill Padisak, member of the Blood Bank Committee, donated a pint of blood on the program Good Morning, Youngstown.

This was televised on Channel 33, Station WYTV on Monday, October 24.

Rose Marie DiMuccio, assistant director of the Mahoning Red Cross Blood Program said there was a steady flow of donors and a lot of cooperation from the faculty, staff and students. Also, she said many students went through the registration process, had their physical examinations and then went to their classes. Later, during the day, they came back to donate blood.

The starting point of a donor was the registration area, where his name, address, etc. was obtained. Then a blood sample was taken. Next, a medical history was obtained, with the student's blood pressure, pulse and temperature being ascertained. After the donor gave a pint of blood, he was given refreshments and a place to rest for a short period of time.

Every YSU faculty member, staff member and student, whether they donated blood or not, is entitled to free blood, according to Koury. This includes all members of their immediate family.

Anyone in need of blood can call the Student Government Office. He should leave the name of the person covered in the program, the name of the person that needs the blood and his relationship to that person. How much blood is needed or was used, if known, and the name of the hospital involved should also be given.

DiMuccio said the Red Cross plans to return to the University two or three times during the school year. The organization's next visit is planned for the early part of the winter quarter.

'Laboratory of the future'

Playwright Lee speaks at Bliss

by Denise Lloyd

Award-winning playwright Robert E. Lee spoke at the Tuesday dedication of Bliss Hall, saying that the new building was a "laboratory of the future."

Lee, the co-author of Inherit the Wind and the musical play Mamie, among others, spoke to a near capacity audience at Bliss Hall's Ford Auditorium. He stressed the importance of the arts. "Fine and performing arts breathe purpose into all our lives. There is a growing hunger for the fine arts in America and Bliss Hall speaks to that hunger."

Lee added that "Bliss Hall is a place where a live audience can meet live performers and living art face to face."

The author condemned the American public's attachment to television, comparing it to the quote from The Rime of the Ancient Mariner, "water, water everywhere, but not a drop to drink," which he paraphrased "communication everywhere, but not a thought to think."

Lee urged the audience to support the theater, musical productions and art gallery of Bliss Hall. "Don't come to Bliss Hall to be soothed, come to be surprised, Come out of the door changed," he urged.

The dedication, which began at 4 p.m., was opened by John Coffelt, YSU president. He referred to the opening of Bliss Hall as a "rather long awaited event." Coffelt stated that the dedication ceremony "launches a month-long series of events."

Coffelt introduced Tomas P. Gilmartin, State Representative, 51st District, who spoke of the many people involved in building a project like Bliss Hall. He also stated that a bill had been passed in the state house this week appropriating money for the building construction of the YSU sports complex.

Law Director William Higgins spoke for Mayor Jack Hunter, saying that Bliss Hall shows "those in the future that this city was a community that believed in the arts."

Councilman Richard Hughey presented Coffelt with a council resolution marking the dedication.

Subsidy cut blamed for surcharge; Fees still lowest for Ohio schools

by Colleen Haddox

Tuition is now $20 more than last year. When the tuition surcharge expired last summer tuition was raised on a permanent basis.

Last year students were made aware that a surcharge would be added to their tuition. However, students were not notified of the increase in tuition which started fall quarter.

According to Richard Glunt, acting vice president of financial affairs, the University did not have to notify students. YSU policy is, "The University reserves the right to change any fee without notice."

The state subsidy for the 76-77 school year was cut from $17.6 million to $15.3 million after a 3 percent cut by Gov.

CAMPUS SHORTS

The English department will be administering the freshman composition placement test at 4 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 3, in Schwebel Auditorium. All current students at YSU who have not yet taken the placement test and who have not received credit for English 550 should take the test Nov. 3 in order to receive placement recommendations and permits to enroll in appropriate sections of 550.

Please bring 2 pencils, a thirteen cents postage stamp, several sheets of white notebook paper and your social security number. There is no fee for taking the test: Any questions should be directed to Nancy McCracken at the English department.

Anyone interested in performing this year with the modern dance group should report to the dance studio (room 100 Beeghly) on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 3:30-5 p.m. To join the group, you must have taken Modern Dance I and II or the equivalent. See one of the dance instructors if you are in doubt about your qualifications or cannot be free at those times. The most important prerequisites are a willingness to attend regularly and to work hard as we would like to do several performances this year. First practice is Tuesday, November 1st.

Any student interested in signing up for a 700 level Latin course spring quarter, 1978, should contact the foreign languages department in the A & S Building.

Case Western Reserve is sponsoring a Guest Day for senior students interested in Library Science at 10:30 a.m. Saturday on their campus in the Allen Memorial Library. This is a one-year professional school and at the end of the year the students are awarded a M.S. in Library Science.

Lunch will be provided and all majors are welcome. For more information contact the Placement Office, ext. 323.

Dr. John S. Thayer, assistant professor at the University of Cincinnati, will present a seminar for the Department of Chemistry at 3:15 p.m. Friday, Oct. 28 in Ward-Beecher Science Hall Room 212. This talk is entitled, "Organometallic Compounds and the Environment." Dr. Thayer is interested in the biological effects of organometallic compounds and this talk will present some of the research findings in this area. Organometallic compounds contain metal groups in an organic molecule. One example of such a compound is methylmercury which has been implicated in pollution of Lake Erie and other places. Dr. Thayer received his B.A. (with honors) from Cornell University in 1960 and his Ph.D. from the University of Wisconsin in 1964.

All students registered at the Placement Office who intend to take interviews must attend Interview Seminars conducted by Mr. Charles Whitman, assistant director of the Placement Office. Any interested YSU students are invited to attend as well.

No appointment is necessary to attend these seminars. Times are as follows:

- Noon to 1 p.m., Monday, Oct. 31, Kilcawley Room 216.
- 2 p.m. to 3 p.m., Tuesday, Nov. 1, Kilcawley Room 216.
- 10 a.m. to 11 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 2, Kilcawley Room 236.
- 6:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 2, Kilcawley Room 236.

This is to remind students, faculty and staff that donations of time or/and money are needed. Look for boxes about campus in Kilcawley or in Beeghly (nurses's office). The Health Service requests that crutches or canes (whether borrowed or personal) that are not being used be turned in to us at Room 200 Beeghly, so that others might use them. We would like to call your attention to an added program, the "rap sessions" to be held at the CCM Clinic on Wednesday evenings 7:30 to 9 p.m. Just drop by.

The Alpha Tau Gamma Honorary Accounting Fraternity of YSU is conducting a series of three lectures on "Total Asset Management", an approach to investing at 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 19 and 26 and Nov. 2 in Kilcawley Hall, Room 236.

The series will be conducted by the New York Stock Exchange firm of Butcher & Singer Inc.

The program will be moderated by Gerald Smolen, Ph.D. and Richard Otterson, Investment Banker from Butcher & Singer's Youngstown office. Speakers-partners and specialists from Butcher & Singer will provide a basic understanding of available securities and will explain investment strategies leading to an investment program of "Total Asset Management".

The course is open to the public and free of charge.

For more information call Richard Otterson at Butcher & Singer (216) 747-6701.

Bowler has handicap

Blind student enjoys challenge

by Sandy Kachurek

Almost everyone realizes the great amount of precision and practice involved in the sport of bowling. Luis Donato, junior in education, probably realizes it more than anyone. Donato is a blind student and attends Dr. Joan Philipp's bowling I class at McGuffey Bowling Lanes every Wednesday.

Bowling is not a new or unfamiliar sport to Donato. He has participated in the Youngstown Society for the Blind's bowling league for the past two years. Nevertheless, Donato finds it more difficult bowling in the class at McGuffey Lanes than in the league.

"The Society for the Blind has a rail to help us (the blind bowlers) bowl in the league but there is no rail for me to use in my bowling class," says Donato. A rail is an instrument that is shaped like a chute and sets in front of the alley. A bowler places a ball at the top of the rail, pushes it and the chute, or rail, guides the ball down and sets it on a straight course toward the bowling pins. The rail is moveable so the bowler can adjust it to his or her preference.

At first, Philipp, Donato's teacher, was "not aware of what to do," says Donato when he told here that he was enrolled in the class. "But I told her what I can do and what I would need help with," he added. Without the aid of a rail, Donato receives instructions from his classmates and teacher. They tell him where to stand and how to aim and throw the ball.

"Without the rail, I feel insecure, not knowing where to throw the ball," explained Donato. Donato says that he does feel himself improving with every game and growing in confidence, too. He would like to enroll in bowling II in the future to continue improving himself in the sport.

Why would a blind person want to engage in a sport that is usually considered for sighted participants? Donato explained, "for three reasons: one, I like to have fun; two, I like the challenge of going against sighted people (in a competitive sport); and three, I like to show that even with a handicap, if there is an interest, a person can try anything."

Donato can see things going smoother for future visually handicapped bowlers if it were possible for the Society for the Blind or other institutions for the blind to have access to or produce an instructional booklet on bowling for those who are visually impaired. It could be put in brailled print for blind bowlers for their own personal reference, and it could also be printed up for the non-handicapped person to inform him of the rules and tips on teaching bowling to the blind.

Donato encourages any handicapped student to become involved in the sports programs offered at YSU. If there is an interest and a desire to meet and confront the expected challenges, a visually or physically handicapped student should pursue this area of study. Donato says that the student will, like him, experience some difficulties, but one must be strong to handle these difficulties. Donato is proving that it can be done.

Student Government, said that it is through a civilization's arts that they are remembered. He spoke of William Bliss, the man for whom the building was named, as a person who had given much to the community and to the University.

Coffelt acknowledged members of the University Board of Trustees and members of the Bliss family.

John M. Newman, chairman of the YSU Board of Trustees's Building and Property Committee, was presented the key to the building by Robert L. Hanahan and Robell F. Strollo of Hanahan, Strollo and Associates, who did the architectural work on the building.

William J. Lyden, chairman of the Board of Trustees, in accepting the building, said "this building and this University could well be the catalyst for further growth in Youngstown."

Dr. William McGraw, dean of the College of Fine and Performing Arts, introduced Mrs. William Bliss, who took part in the unveiling of a portrait of her late husband which is to be displayed in the building.

ernor Rhodes. To compensate for the loss a tuition surcharge for the winter, spring and summer quarters, was unanimously approved by the Board of Trustees.

However, the approved state subsidy for the 77-78 school year is $18 million. Yet tuition has been raised.

According to Budget Director Sullivan, a decrease in enrollment by 202 students, and the increased cost of running the University due to inflation were the reasons given for the increase in tuition.

The YSU instructional fee is now $210 as opposed to last year's $190. Together with the general fee of $36 tuition and fees for one quarter are now $246, which is still the lowest for all state schools in Ohio.

The last increase in tuition was for $10 in 1975.

We need a bright idea

The lights are on. Although this news may not result in dancing in the streets, students can at least feel safer walking the campus sidewalks.

It is also reassuring to know that the person in charge of campus lighting are making an effort.

According to Mike Roth, Physical Plant staff engineer, a new lighting maintenance program has been developed.

Each lighting fixture on campus has been given a code number designating the type of lighting and its location. The night staff then does periodical checks, noting any lamp fixtures which are not working and relaying the information to the day repair crew.

Roth feels this system will keep the lights in better repair because those in charge of lighting will have information on the condition of lighting fixtures.

Although it is good to see that all the available lighting is being put to use, the problem is not solved. The campus is still too dark.

The core of the campus, between Kilcawley, CAST and Engineering Science, because of its rolling landscaping, has many poorly lit areas. Also, the fountain area to the east of Kilcawley could have more light on it.

Some steps must be taken. Either more fixtures or fixtures which shed more light should be installed.

If those involved would make a concentrated effort, surely someone could come up with a "bright idea." Our lighting situation could use it.

INPUT:

Angered by complaints

On October 21 I read the input on special lectures being discriminatory towards blacks and women. This is false and made me angry. I'm telling the true facts. A short while ago the committee was altered so two brochures come out (Fall/Winter, and Spring/Summer) yearly and only popular lectures to be submitted. The list for the brochures are made up in November 2nd week and April, 2nd week (November for following spring, and April for following fall).

Anyone may submit requests but must follow these rules: 1. No riotous individual - one who may cause a riot if brought here. 2. Request must be typed and include a recent biographical description of the person's accomplishments and who they are. 3. The request must be in by deadline above. 4. There must be four requests for the person (one by the original person, one by an interested organization, one by a faculty or department chairman willing to request the person, and one by an influential individual who will assist to get people to come and how to contact the speaker). 5. Requestors must help in promoting the program by preparing posters and flyers and making personal contacts and notifying teachers in their classes but no financial.

The budget of the committee is limited so if costs are too high outside sources for cutting costs such as having the speaker's organization to pay for transportation is sometimes required. Black and Women speakers are expected this spring if approved in time. All the lectures are free but some are paid by the Skeggs Foundation and a few by general fee. To contact the Committee write me or Sid Roberts and we will forward it to them. Send lists of speakers you want right now or next week.

Parking inconvenient at RS

To the editor of the Jambor:

So they're still trying to push parking at Republic Steel. Why don't they just shut up? It is a fact that soon many students will be forced to park there, whether they want to or not.

As for the statement by Minnis, "There could well be a charge for parking there (Republic Steel) in the future," tell me something new. I don't doubt that as soon as the other lots close, a fee will be slapped on Republic Steel parking. Why should we pay any less for this inconvenience than we do for everything else around this campus? Our slogan should read: "The more inconvenient, the more you pay!"

As for the survey conducted by the Auxiliary Services, just who did they survey? If they surveyed those who now park at Republic their response is not surprising because those who are not satisfied do NOT park there.

Blood Drawing successful

To the editor of the Jambor:

The Red Cross Blood Drawing held last Monday, Oct. 24, was a success. A total of 233 donors presented themselves between the hours of 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. From those donors, 189 units of blood were received and processed. Many, many people contributed to the success of this event. Thanks should be given to the donors, all 233 of them; Hardee's for providing coffee, juice and donuts; to the many student volunteers that assisted throughout the day; to Student Government and Student Council who helped fund the advertising and to the ad hoc committee made up of Tony Koury, Kurt Hahn, Dr. John Buoni, Mr. Phil Rogers and Rose DeMuccio of Red Cross.

Congratulations to all the participants and donors. The University has demonstrated its ability to contribute to a very worthwhile project in an overwhelmingly successful manner.

Mayoral candidate seeks support of students at rally day speech

by Brenda Shick

"We're going to win this election and we're going to win it because we are the only candidate who has the audacity and the courage to tell the truth."

So stated Ron Daniels, independent mayoral candidate for the city of Youngstown, at the Dollars for Daniels Day rally held at Kilcawley Center, Friday afternoon, Oct. 21.

State Senator Julian Bond, Dem.-Georgia, the intended speaker for the rally, was unable to appear due to illness and remained at his home in Georgia.

Apologizing for Bond's cancellation, Daniels himself spoke to the audience of some 45 YSU students and citizens about the need to organize the community's voting power and his campaign platform. "It is very crucial that over the next few weeks we get support from the YSU campus... I would consider it a great pleasure if from this campus, that I once had the privilege of teaching at, if you would begin to organize to get bodies out for us on election day."

Daniels went on to say, "If I can get some help from you on election day I'm absolutely positive there's no way we can be defeated."

From there Daniels went on to outline his stand on labor and how it relates to the working person. He noted four points. First, he cited the need for an end to the "dictatorship of the multinational corporations, conglomerates and giant industries." Daniels feels it is important to allow people a greater input into how corporations run, since they have such an overwhelming effect on the way people live. He favors the concept of worker-community owned and operated plants, noting that people living in the community, rather than an outside firm, are more likely to be more productive and concerned with how the plant operates.

Secondly, Daniels supports a policy of increased taxation on corporations doing business abroad. He feels this is necessary in order to take away their incentive to "exploit" the cheap labor force in Taiwan, Mexico and South America, thereby making huge profits and creating layoffs among American workers.

Daniels also evokes the repeal of section 14B of the Taft-Hartly Act, which makes it easy for companies to move their operations South to take advantage of the right to work laws with regard to union organizing.

Finally, Daniels would like legislation implemented forcing corporations to give adequate warning of plant closings; in order for cities to better prepare for the company's move and its repercussions.

In other work related issues, Daniels favors collective bargaining rights to "insure the status of public employees...so that they can achieve dignity in the work ranks and just compensation for the proper performance of their duties in the public interest." He would also like implemented a full employment act, to insure that every person who wants to work can have a job.

Daniels closed his speech with a topic which, in his words, "is very dear to me." That topic is a corporate tax reform program to close this country's tax loopholes. Daniels stated that currently $114 billion, or one-fourth of the national budget each year, slips through tax loopholes. He feels that "these are resources which could be used to insure the right of a decent life for every American in this country." Specifically, the money recovered would be used to fund a national health care service, full employment, a national housing bill of rights and a higher education for everyone who wants it.

In another comment Daniels stated, "The choice is between the old politics and the new politics and it seems to me that those politics cannot be shaped by any single person or individual, not by Ron Daniels. It must be a community communion of thousands of individuals working together. However, we have the capacity to try to ignite over the next few weeks people who'll march together to elect a person, in your behalf, mayor of all people."

Basketball coach receives unusual honor

Rosselli to be 'roasted' by Uptown Kiwanis

Although he has received many, many honors in his long and very successful career as basketball coach for YSU, Dom Rosselli is in for the most unusual honor of his life when the Uptown Kiwanis Club "roasts" him at the annual Rib and Roast dinner dance Saturday, Oct. 29 at the Maronite Center.

"Man of the Year" Rosselli will be affectionately ribbed and "roasted" by a table full of friends who will enjoy putting him on the spot as well as in the spotlight.

Included in the line up of speakers on the dais will be Joe Valicenti, Don Gardner, Mike Jaffee, Nels Lazar, Paul Amodio, Dave Culliver, Victor Frolund and last year's recipient of the Uptown Kiwanis honors, Tony Vivo. Master of Ceremonies will be Buzz Altemus of Uptown Kiwanis. All of them have known or have worked with Rosselli for many years and will have many interesting anecdotes to relate.

A basketball coach for 33 years, baseball coach for 23 years, Rosselli has served YSU at various times in the capacity of assistant football coach, intramural director and assistant professor of health and physical education.

Among his many accomplishments at YSU are thirteen post-season basketball tournament appearances with an overall record of 19-15. That includes three Ohio NAIA championships, close to 900 combined basketball and baseball victories on the collegiate level are credited to Rosselli, and he was named NCAA District IV "Coach of the Year" in 1977, in balloting conducted by the National Association of Basketball Coaches.

Modestly, Rosselli has often quipped to newsmen, "If you coach a long time, you ought to win a lot of games."

During Rosselli's long tenure at YSU perhaps his greatest moment was the dedication of the $5.25 million Beeghly Physical Education Center—the first on-campus home of the basketball Penguins. For much of his coaching career, Rosselli had to transport his players to local high school gymnasiums for late night practice sessions and all of their home contests. Now he finally has a place to call "home."

Rosselli's number one fan is his wife, Connie. They have three daughters and one son.

Tickets for the Uptown Kiwanis Roast for Dom Rosselli, Oct. 29, are available at South Park Restaurant, Dick Adgate Florist Shops, the Sports Department at YSU or from any member of Uptown Kiwanis Club. The social hour will begin at 6:30 p.m. at the Maronite Center on Meridian Road, and after the dinner and roast there will be dancing to the Joe Ranelli Band.

7 from YSU plan to participate in forensics event

Seven members of the YSU speech team will be competing at the second tournament of the Forensics season this Friday and Saturday to be held in Frostburg, Maryland.

Competitors from YSU and other universities will be judged in the areas of Dramatic Duo, Poetry, Prose, After Dinner Speaking, Persuasion, Informative, Extemporaneous Speaking and Impromptu. Contestants are permitted to participate in anywhere from one to five events. Each of YSU competitors will be competing in at least two categories.

On October 14 and 15 at Clarion University, Carole Colburn, junior, and Josanna Parenti, sophomore, competed together in Dramatic Duo. They presented their interpretation of a scene from the play The Children's Hour by Lillian Hellman. Colburn and Parenti qualified for final rounds and placed fourth in that event.

Colburn also competed and placed second in Persuasive Speaking. The topic of the speech she wrote and presented was School Records and their confidentiality. Both Parenti and Colburn will

Upper division nursing program may earn NLN accreditation by fall of next year

by Elizabeth Stare

Accreditation by the National League of Nursing may come as early as fall 1978 for YSU's upper division nursing program, states Nancy Harig, upper division nursing instructor.

The upper division nursing program, leading to a bachelor's degree, is a two-year extension of the associate degree nursing program. It is open to those who have already obtained a registered nurse (RN) certificate. A bachelor's degree is necessary before the RN can go on to graduate school.

The associate degree program, which already meets the minimum requirements for state approval, has recently undergone changes to meet the standards for accreditation. Accreditation means the program has met the National League of Nursing's (NLN) standards of excellence.

Accreditation will give those in nursing who wish to go on to graduate programs more variety in choosing the school they wish to attend. Many graduate nursing programs will not accept as students those who have not graduated from a NLN accredited program until they have made up certain deficiencies. However, Harig finds that students have been accepted into graduate programs after individual evaluations.

Last spring Dr. Elaine Friesner, a nursing consultant of the Council of Baccalaureate Programs of the NLN, visited YSU and made recommendations for changes the upper division program must undergo in order to qualify for accreditation.

These recommendations included expansion of the curriculum and deletion of blanket credit for incoming RN's without testing. Friesner also suggested that all faculty members have a master of science in nursing or plan to get one in the very near future. According to Harig, many of the faculty have already obtained their masters or are in the process of getting it.

No major curriculum changes are foreseen, Harig states, but more nursing electives will be added. Three upper division nursing electives are offered now.

They are coronary care nursing, intensive care nursing, and introduction to pharmacology. No definite plans for nursing electives have been established.

A school nurse certification program is also awaiting state approval, said Harig. This program will be under the administration of the School of Education.

The school nurse program will include the upper division courses presently being offered, plus 16 hours of additional work in the School of Education, including a school nurse practicum. The classes, Harig believes, may possibly be used as electives.

Beginning this quarter incoming RN's are evaluated individually and tested for the credit they receive for nursing courses taken in other programs. Formerly, all RN's automatically received 44 hours of credit for their former nursing classes.

A formal application must be completed, inviting the NLN to come and re-examine the program for possible accreditation before it can be received. The visit is made by the consultant

YSU tackles Wayne St; Penguins seek fifth win

by Bill Sniier and Dick Sapara

Despite last week's Homecoming loss to Dayton, the YSU Penguins cannot be counted out of the post season playoff picture. As a matter of fact, if the Penguins win their remaining games they will fall only one victory shy of the most wins ever achieved by a YSU football team.

The two most dominant teams in our region at the moment are Northern Michigan and North Dakota State. But the NCAA must also select four at-large teams to complete the playoff picture. That is where YSU and this week's opponent, the Wayne State Tartars, fit in. The Tartars, too, have visions of a post-season playoff appearance. They are well aware of the importance and meaning of a triumph over YSU. Neither team can ill-afford a defeat.

Wayne State brings a 6-2 record to Rayen Stadium, with victories over the University of Wisconsin at Stevens Point, Evansville, Northwood, Valparaiso, Ferris St., and Eastern Illinois, the Penguins' opponent next week. More importantly though, they lost their opener to Akron 24-14, a team YSU has beaten.

Wayne State will present one of the most formidable defensive units for YSU this season. In eight contests, they have permitted only 66 points for an outstanding defensive average of 8.3. The Tartars have four shutouts to their credit. When Eastern Illinois scored twice in the fourth quarter Saturday in a 24-14 loss to the Tartars, it ended a string of 15 consecutive scoreless quarters on the road by WSU's defenders.

Stars on the Tartars' tough defensive unit include senior tackle Al Hartley (6-6, 205), senior middle guard Jon Zimmer (6-0, 205), and senior linebackers Randy Epley (6-0, 190) and Paul Schultz (6-0, 195). Epley and Schultz are the team's two leading tacklers.

Big reasons why the Tartars are averaging 23.3 points on offense are junior quarterback Jim Gendron (6-0, 185) and junior fullback Bruce Nichols (6-3, 198). Gendron is leading WSU in scoring with eight TD's. He has rushed for 298 yards in 84 carries. In addition, Gendron has completed 29 of 58 passes for 408 yards and six TD's.

Nichols, who started the season at tailback, was moved to fullback two weeks ago. He is the Tartars' leading rusher with 493 yards in 137 rushes. He is also second in scoring with five tallies.

When Nichols became the starting fullback, sophomore speedster Maurice Dozier (5-9, 170) was inserted at tailback. He has gained 205 yards in 60 tries.

Gendron's favorite target is senior split-end Dean Morrison (6-1, 183), who has 15 receptions for 254 yards and four TD's. Saturday's showdown will be the third time the two schools

COACHES CORNER

by Bill Narduzzi

Saturday, a week ago, we put our offense, defense and kicking game together against Akron and produced a significant victory. This past Saturday exactly the opposite was true. We didn't play up to our potential and we lost to a good Dayton football team.

There could well have been one key factor in this game. After a solid week of great practice sessions, we obviously came into the game itself a little too keyed up, too tense, too anxious. The result was a disappointing, below average performance by both units and costly mistakes at key areas during the entire contest.

On their first possession, Dayton drove the entire length of the field to kick a field goal while our defense failed to "move" or "stem" from one defense to another. We always play better when we jump defenses because that's our style of football. It doesn't bother me that we "lined up" in the defense called, because our players were doing it, I'm sure, to eliminate mistakes. What bothers me is that the dumb head coach didn't realize it was happening.

Score Dayton 3, YSU 0. On our first possession of the ball, second play, we fumble on the six yard line. We were operating "up-tight" on the offense, also. Three plays later - score Dayton 10; YSU 0.

We came back to within three points (24-21) at one time and fumbled 21 yards from our end zone, allowing them to take the half time lead of 27-21.

The second half was slightly different. Our offense generated enough of an attack to maintain field position so that, "at any time" one break could win the game.

Were we over-anxious when we fumbled on the 6-yard line with 10 minutes left on the clock? Were we too anxious to win the big game when we tried to recover the muffed punt, but accidentally kicked it closer to the goal line to have it recovered by the opponent? Maybe we were or maybe the fact that the three YSU players chasing the errant ball were all freshmen doing their best and giving a real effort to win the game. We got the breaks and couldn't capitalize on them.

Despite the acknowledged caliber of this Dayton team, the staff and the team are convinced that, had we been able to sustain a couple of good drives to achieve a degree of good field position to play defense from, we could have won the ball game.

Nobody likes to lose, especially this team which has a lot of pride in itself and has come a long way. Our major concern now is to iron out the kinks, get reset and take dead aim on Wayne State tomorrow afternoon.

Intramural Big Ten

The intramural Big Ten is determined by a committee of officials, intramural supervisors, and the intramural director. Each member rates his own big ten and then the individual ratings are compiled into the final intramural Big Ten.

The third week of the season has shown a tremendous change in the Big Ten, especially for the defending all-university champions of 1976-77, Austintown All Stars, who were upset by a powerful B.M.F. Team. The loss moved Austintown All Stars from first in the Big Ten to tenth place, while B.M.F., who was unranked last week, has earned fourth place this week.

In the battle for the top, Theta Chi, who has scored an unbelievable 104 unanswered points in only 2 games, is ranked number 1. Richley for Mayor, who boasts of the fact that their defense has only given up one first down in 2 games, ranks a close second.

This week's intramural Big Ten are:

1. Theta Chi
2. Richley For Mayor
3. Ohzones
4. B.M.F.
5. Gib Stit
6. Roundballers
7. Hana's Bananas
8. Sigma Chi
9. Mad Dog/Royal Oaks
10. Austintown All Stars

For the first time, the intramural rating committee has ranked the women's teams, with the following results:

1. Ram Jammers
2. Army-Navy 1112
3. Specialty Team
4. Stars

Women's Volleyball

The YSU women's volleyball team was handed a heartbreaking setback Wednesday night, as the girls dropped a match to Wooster College three games to two in the best of five sets played at Beeghly Center.

The girls had some defensive difficulty at the outset of the match, dropping the first two games 15-9 and 15-12.

But the Penguins stormed back to sweep the next two games 15-11 and 15-13 to knot the match at two games apiece.

In the deciding game, Wooster again found the winning touch they held in the initial games of the match, edging the Penguins 15-13 to take the match.

Individually for the women, Linda Fredericks and Paula Patrizi had tremendous games at the net. Judy Rutz and Rosanne Neapolitan also had fine games offensively for the Penguins.

In addition, Judy Rutz also had a fine night serving. The senior captain served at 100% for three games during the match.

The girls return to action Saturday at Duquesne University for a triangular match with Duquesne and St. Francis College. Game time is 1:30 p.m. This will be the first of four consecutive away matches for the Penguin volleyballers.

Varsity Soccer

The YSU soccer team lost a 2-0 lead they held early in the second half and were forced to settle for a tie with John Carroll University, 2-2, in a varsity soccer action at Roosevelt Park Wednesday.

The Penguin's record now stands at 1-5-1 for the season. YSU jumped out to an early 1-0 lead in the first half on a goal by senior wing Mohammed Shokrollahi. The goal was also the only goal scored in the first half by either club, which gave the Penguins the halftime lead.

The Penguins increased their lead to 2-0 on a goal by Craig Peck early in the second half.

But the determined John Carroll booters got two goals late in the match to manage a tie with the Penguins.

The soccer team will return to action on Saturday at Roosevelt Park against Hiram College. Game time is 3:00.

Bus Service

The University will provide free bus service between Kilcawley Student Center and Rayen Stadium for the football game between YSU and Wayne State University Saturday, Oct. 29, 1977. The game will start at 1:00 p.m. The bus will leave Kilcawley Student Center at 12 noon, 12:20 p.m. and 12:40 p.m. Return trips will be made following the game.

Wrestling

Two YSU varsity wrestlers placed high in the 4th Annual Open Wrestling Tournament held last Saturday at Lafayette College in Easton, Pennsylvania.

Don Hernan finished first in the 142 pound class, defeating last year's champion Joe Lazzari of Kutztown State.

Another Penguin grappler, Mike Hardy, took third place in the 234 pound class.

A total of 400 participants took part in the open tournament.

A 31-yard field goal with only five minutes left in the game gave the West Virginia Junior Varsity team a 16-14 victory over the YSU Penguin JVs Monday at West Virginia.

The winning field goal was set up by a fumbled punt by the Penguins deep in Mountain-eer territory.

The Penguins were paced by tailback David Townsend, who ran 23 yards for a YSU tally in the first quarter.

The Penguin JVs, who now stand at 2-2 for the season, return to action Monday at Pittsburgh for a date with the University of Pittsburgh Junior Varsity. Game time is 1 p.m.

Intramural Deadlines

Entry deadline for men's and women's racketball singles is this Friday, Oct. 28. Entry deadline for co-ed table tennis doubles is Friday, Nov. 4.

Cheerleading

The YSU cheerleading squad has one opening for the 1977-78 basketball season. Interested persons are invited to a practice session on Monday, Oct. 31 at 3 p.m. in Beeghly Center, Room 302. Tryouts will be held on Monday, Nov. 7, also at 3 p.m. in Beeghly Room 302.

Phillips wins YSU position in Bob Hope Talent Search

by Sandy Kachurek

"A Star is Born" is fast becoming a reality for Bob Phillips, junior in music education and voice, who will compete in the Bob Hope Search for the Top in Collegiate Talent, northeastern Ohio area competition, November 5 at Hiram College.

Phillips won first place at YSU's campus contest held on October 10. He sang and accompanied himself on the piano for two songs that he also wrote and composed. The first song was entitled "I Never Loved This Way Before". With a melody of nostalgic swing rhythm. The music of Phillip's second song was that of a folk tune and was entitled "Our Love."

Phillips enjoys auditions and opportunities to perform. The Bob Hope Talent Search is a "good chance for exposure," said Phillips. Phillips has recently finished playing for the Youngstown Playhouse production of the musical, The Boyfriend, and is currently staging for the upcoming production of the opera Suzanna given by the music department. Phillip's would like to pursue a career performing on stage, nightclub or theatre.

Phillips will be competing against approximately 30 area students at Hiram. If he wins, Phillips will continue on to Bowling Green State University to compete for sectional representative.

Placement adds MBA recruiters

Two additions have been made to the recruitment schedule at the Placement Office. Cleveland State University and George Washington University will be on campus this quarter to explain their MBA programs.

Cleveland State University will be conducting interviews at YSU on Monday, Oct. 31.

On Wednesday, Nov. 9 representatives from George Washington University in Washington, D.C. will meet with students at 1:30 p.m.

'Inherit the Wind' opens Good acting, pleasing atmosphere at Bliss

by JoAnn Nader

Over 50 years after the famous Scopes trial in Tennessee, the dramatic courtroom battle between William Jennings Bryan and Clarence Darrow over the teaching of evolution was given a new genesis Wednesday night.

Skillfully directed by Dr. Bill G. Hulsopple, the opening of Inherit the Wind celebrates the dedication of the Ford Memorial Auditorium and Bliss Hall.

By going to the pages of history - the history that was written in Dayton, Tennessee, in 1925 with the colossal legal hippodrome known as the "monkey trial," authors Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee had two purposes in mind. The first was to write a moving drama of people caught in an intellectual ferment they did not completely understand; the second was to remind us all once again that conformity and thought control are enemies of progress and enlightenment.

Technically, the issue in Dayton was entirely clear - an open and shut case as the lawyers say. A young school teacher - in real life named John T. Scopes, in the play, Bertram Cates - has dared to test a law written in the statute books of Tennessee. He dared to teach the Darwinian theory of evolution to his students.

Arrested, he was brought to trial and William Jennings Bryan, in the play Mathew Harrison Brady, came to speak on behalf of the prosecution.

The great trial lawyer, Clarence Darrow was hired to handle the defense. Darrow is named Henry Drummond in the play. The courtroom battle was rather one-sided and Drummond withered his rival with scorn and ridicule.

All this and what went on in the town beyond the courtroom walls, the play has tried to encompass. It shows the nature of the local citizens, their beliefs and dogmas. It contains taut and telling scenes such as when the Rev. Jeremiah Brown (Jim Ennis) summons his flock to remind them of their allegiance to the fundamental word of the Scriptures.

There is strength and power in the second act when Gary Solomonson, portraying the defense attorney, relentlessly hounds and reduces to gibberish Robert Dubec, playing the role of Brady. And there is a touching moment when Dubec collapses in obvious but undaunted defeat.

The character of Henry Drummond epitomizes the ambivalence of the drama. He is a familiar theatre stereotype, but some of the immortal fire burns in his bones, and he has sharp, enlightening, enkindling things to say.

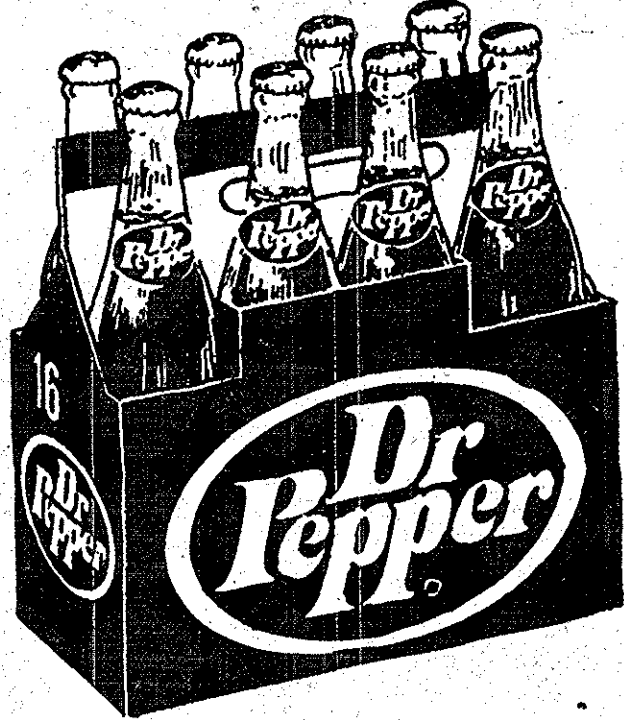

Credit Solomonson with a magnificent performance. Not a detail has been overlooked as he gets inside the character - the shuffling gait, the unpressed suit, the ruffled gray hair, the commanding voice of the lawyer rushing in for the kill.

He plays the act with intellectual passion. Without exploiting the melodramatics of the courtroom scene, he makes the moral issue both lucid and thrilling. (Cont. on page 12)

Murder mystery opens at Youngstown Playhouse

Murder Among Friends, a most unusual mystery, opens tonight at 8:30 p.m. at the Youngstown Playhouse. This recent Broadway thriller skillfully weaves suspense and comedy into an intricate, entertaining plot. The author, Bob Barry, following in the best Agatha Christie tradition, twists the storyline back and forth so no one can be sure until the very end who, indeed, committed the murder. The dialogue is filled with wit and humor, giving the mystery a unique character.

YSU students, through student government funding, can see all Playhouse main stage productions at half the usual student ticket price of $3.50. For $1.75 per ticket you can see Murder Among Friends on any one of its nine performance dates. Simply stop in the Student Affairs Office in Kilcawley, present your I.D. card, and receive a voucher to present at the Playhouse for the $1.75 rate. The office requests that only two tickets be made available per I.D. card.

Murder Among Friends, directed by Bob Gray, plays weekdays through Nov. 13. Two YSU students are included in the cast. Ed O'Neill, who has appeared in Spotlight Theatre productions of Rosencrantz and Guildenstern Are Dead, The Diary of Anne Frank, Death of a Salesman and The Rose Tattoo, has the leading role of Palmer Forrester. Alice Weiss, senior, geology, plays Gertrude Saldenberg. She has appeared at the Playhouse in Oklahoma, Fiddler on the Roof, Lysistrata and Move Over, Mrs. Markham. Others included in the six-character cast are Lynn Nelson, Doug Wilson, Steve Pladna and John Dingethal.
