Coffelt, students discuss current campus problems

by Lisa Yarnell

YSU President Dr. John Coffelt spoke before a small audience of students and faculty this Wednesday in Kilcawley Center's Multi-Purpose Room. Coffelt had arranged the meeting so that students could ask questions and voice their opinions concerning University issues.

Coffelt began the meeting by stating that he would entertain questions from students only, and that these questions must be restricted to topics of student concern. He then read a list of questions that students had submitted to him by filling out the questionnaire forms which were available in the Jambar. Many of these questions dealt with campus construction and remodeling.

The first question concerned the recent renovation of the exterior of Tod Hall. One student wanted to know why the building was being refaced at all, and why the money could not be used instead for better campus lighting. Dr. Coffelt explained that the funds allocated for renovation of Tod Hall were earmarked for that specific purpose. In other words, the capital and state appropriated monies were allocated specifically for reconstruction of the exterior of Tod Hall, and there was no way that a transfer of funds would be permissible. Coffelt also commented that high maintenance costs and loss of energy were other influencing factors in the decision to reface Tod.

Another concern was in the area of student services. One student wanted to know why close-circuit televisions couldn't be used for security purposes on campus. Dr. Coffelt replied that the matter was being looked into with YSU Chief of Security, Paul Cress, and that their answer would be the result of a collective decision. But Coffelt pointed out that in order to actualize these plans, "monitors would be needed, someone would always have to be there to go and solve the problems (a standing security unit), and the televisions would have to be installed in the proper places."

Questions were brought up concerning the University bookstore. One student asked Dr. Coffelt where bookstore profits go. Coffelt explained that University auxiliaries, such as the bookstore, must be operated out of the income they produce. "Whenever there is any income in excess of expenditures, this money goes back to the auxiliary," Coffelt explained. "There it is usually applied to expansion or improvement of the auxiliary, itself."

Another student questioned why the University was putting down sidewalks and then tearing them up. Coffelt, as an example, referred to the recent sidewalk reconstruction of the area between the bookstore and Kilcawley Center. He explained that often times the original bids for exterior and interior landscaping and construction were above the amount of monies available. "In order to minimize cost," Coffelt said, "something must be eliminated. In this case, it was the sprinkler system. Other possible alternatives were tried for a year, but failed," he commented. "Then, when the monies were finally available, it was necessary to tear up the grass in order to install the sprinkler system."

New problems that arise after construction, and deterioration, are other reasons why the sidewalks may be torn up," added Coffelt.

A major concern of the students was the Republic Steel parking lot. "Will the University tack on a parking fee?" one student wanted to know. Coffelt explained that the long-range purpose of the Republic lot was to accommodate those who needed parking. The lot had been acquired from Republic Steel for a three-year period and was to be used as a back-up. "We are going to operate it at no cost for as long as possible. Hopefully, within a two-year period, the parking deck will be up and we will be able to return the lot to Republic Steel," he commented. Coffelt added that there would be a charge, however, if the demand would become so great that the University must use more buses for transportation from the lot up to YSU. The charge would be proportioned to the cost of the additional bus service, and would be necessary only so that the University could break even.

Another student wanted to know why there wasn't a woman's dorm on campus. Coffelt replied that the University had observed no real demand or urge to suggest a need for it. He also explained that according to the state of Ohio, the University could not unilaterally build one since YSU is considered a commuter campus.

Other questions concerned problems with registration and class scheduling, out-of-state fees, the Beeghly parking lot, and the University's Budget Committee.

One question posed to Coffelt was "Why aren't students allowed to serve on the University's Budget Committee?" Coffelt answered that if students were permitted to serve on the committee, then faculty must be allowed also. He also added that he does not feel the University's tuition is that much of a problem, and that YSU's is the lowest in the state of Ohio.

At the end of the 50-minute session, Coffelt proposed that if the students are in agreement, other informal gatherings shall be scheduled periodically.

What's on your mind? President Coffelt held an open meeting with students in the multi-purpose room on Wednesday. The students were encouraged to ask the president questions concerning them.

Additional space acquired

Lost parking spaces to be made up

by Greg Garramone

The 450 parking spaces on Wick Avenue expected to be lost next winter quarter due to construction of the new parking deck will be made up by additional space, according to Mr. Donald Minnis, director of Auxiliary Services.

Minnis cites the acquisition and leasing of certain properties, particularly the lot across from Ursuline High School, as an easing of the burden caused by construction. "We're only 150 spaces short at this time, and we're looking at surrounding properties now in an effort to make this up. In fact, we have entered into negotiations to acquire or to lease some of this land for parking."

Minnis expects the situation to stabilize as more students begin to use the Republic Steel lot downtown. He notes, "The fact that the lot is free, and that students can take a bus from there to campus is already beginning to attract more students since last spring quarter. I expect this use to rise." Minnis also points out that soon the lot at the new Arts & Science office building will be open, and that the Arts & Science staff will be able to park there.

In related developments, the University has received the $2 million appropriations for parking funds feared lost as a result of the passage in September of an Ohio House Bill calling for the cutback of those funds. The bill was not passed by the Ohio Senate, and the funds were released. The money will be used for the construction of the new parking deck, which can now be totally built, with the full complement of 2,000 spaces.

According to Minnis, the new deck will be available for partial occupancy by September of 1978, if everything proceeds according to schedule. "In this way, as the lot behind Beeghly is closed for construction of the Sports Complex, the new deck should be open for partial occupancy, with room for maybe as many as 1,000 cars. We shouldn't lose any spaces."

DeBartolo Jr. resigns from Trustees Board

Edward J. DeBartolo Jr., member of the YSU Board of Trustees, has resigned from the board because "his time has become so limited" and he felt that it was unfair to YSU and the student body. Announcement of his resignation was made in the Vindicator on Wednesday, Nov. 30.

DeBartolo, vice president of the Edward J. DeBartolo Corp. and owner of the San Francisco 49ers, was appointed to the board in 1974. According to the Vindicator DeBartolo delivered his letter of resignation personally to Gov. James A. Rhodes, in which he stated that his "heavy involvement on the West Coast with the San Francisco 49ers, in addition to his regular duties, had prevented him from regularly attending the board meetings. "Under these circumstances I feel I cannot properly serve the University as a member of the board" stated DeBartolo in the letter.

DeBartolo felt that he would be of greater service to the University if he resigned and allowed someone who could devote more time take the position.

Governor Rhodes is expected to take action on a successor to DeBartolo in the next few weeks.

DeBartolo, at 28 when he was named to the post, was one of the youngest university trustees in Ohio.

Processing Center has open house to acquaint students with facilities

by JoAnn Nader

YSU's Word Processing Center, located on the third floor of CAST, recently held an open house to familiarize parents and high school students with the program's brand new facilities.

Invited to the open house were the parents of students already in the program and senior business students from some of the area high schools. Three hundred people attended the open house. An open house will be offered every quarter.

Word processing is "a combination of equipment, procedures and trained personnel to transform ideas into printed form to meet the needs of an organization in the most efficient and economical ways," said Peggy Potts, business education and technology.

The course, Business Ed 718, trains the student to be a correspondence secretary, one who only types from copy or tape recorded dictation, as opposed to an administrative secretary, who would take dictation by

Let Santa bring you a windmill as a holiday present

by Greg Garramone

Are you stumped again this year over choosing just the right Christmas presents for those close to you? How about His-and-Hers windmills or maybe mink earmuffs? Maybe an $800 rocking horse would fill the bill, or a tree-of-the-month club membership may make someone happy.

These unusual gifts, and more, are featured in the Neiman-Marcus catalog for Christmas of 1977. Based in Dallas, the Neiman-Marcus Company has been noted for their unusual selection of wares, many of them carrying a rather high price.

The windmills, for example, harness solar energy, are approximately forty feet high and cost a mere $16,000 each. Her windmill, provided there is a wind velocity of about 12 MPH, can fry an egg, power a stereo and brew her coffee. Under the same conditions, his windmill can power his tools, his typewriter, even his blender for some Daiquiris.

The mink earmuffs cost much less, $60, but if someone you know has her heart set on fur, you can buy her a purse made of Russian sable, only $4,000. If she's really special, maybe she deserves a floor-length wrap coat, made of Russian lynx, a bargain at $130,000.

Do you know a little brat you want to spoil just a little bit more? N-M will sell you an English gliding-rocking horse, complete with real horsehair mane tail, and a bronze plaque with the kid's name on it, for $800.

Know any nature nuts? Sign one up for the N-M tree of the month club. For $800, the nut will receive one tree, between two feet and four feet in height. These are nice trees: Cork Oak, Norway Spruce, Cranberry Tree, to name a few.

If you want to get clever, and make someone think you're liter-

An encouraging step

President Coffelt held an open meeting with students on Wednesday. The number of students who attended was negligible, but the event was, nevertheless, noteworthy. Although student turnout was low, a large number of administrators were present, apparently to answer questions which, according to Coffelt, he was unable to answer fully because of the "decentralization of the decision making" process which exists at the University.

The president, who appeared well prepared, answered questions from students on parking, campus construction and dormitories.

The questions were typical and somewhat general which resulted in answers that were far from specific.

Yet it was not what was discussed which made Wednesday's meeting important, but instead, the fact that the meeting took place.

Any exchange between students and administrators is always worthwhile. Also, Coffelt's expressed willingness to participate in future gatherings of this sort is encouraging.

Hopefully this is just the first step in better communications between the students and the administration.

INPUT:

Student Support

It is said that students of YSU are apathetic towards the present Student Government because they feel it accomplishes very few results in solving student problems. This idea may or may not be true, but one thing that is true about Student Government is that the main ingredient for a strong Student Government is presently missing. The ingredient I refer to is strong student support! Without this ingredient, Student Government representatives are regarded by the Administration as representing only a small percentage of the student body. This view is what puts student representatives at a disadvantage when they attempt to negotiate issues and problems with the administration. One way students can show support for their Student Government is to turn out strong in numbers in voting in elections or on issues which concern the campus. This will help put Student Government in a stronger position to recommend policy to the administration, and be heard.

Strong student support and strong, dedicated student government leaders can turn Student Government from being considered weak and non-functional into a unit which can resolve student's problems with faculty and administrators with direct negotiations.

What I feel important to remember is that with small support, only small results can be accomplished. However, with large support, the maximum results to your ends can be produced, and a stronger base to negotiate from may come into effect.

A Look Back

To the Editor of the Jambar:

I have been reminiscing upon the close of my final quarter at YSU . . . When I entered the University in the Fall of 1971, tuition was $150, girls were still wearing skirts to school, we were still in Vietnam, and guys with hair longer than mine were opening doors for me. There was no parking deck, Beeghly, Bliss Hall, CAST Building, or Kilcawley Annex. There were very few flowers, shrubs, or benches, and no grassy hills and valleys. There was only the rock with paint splattered all over it. It was just Youngstown State -- nothing special to anyone who got to go away to school.

But then, how could I expect anyone to appreciate YSU who hasn't had an English class in a tiny, quaint room in Jones Hall, or a music class in a church converted lecture hall, or a professor who acts out history for you (Dr. Roberts), or a professor who teaches history backwards (Dr. Berger), or an astronomy class, wherein, for a fleeting moment, I grasped the theory of relativity.

I've been here for six years, and that is as long as I can possibly stretch my four year curriculum. Good-byes have always been difficult for me . . . I've grown accustomed to this place, like breathing out, and breathing in . . .

A brief view . . .

of New Organizations

by Guz Scullin

Students at YSU are becoming very diversified; they are not settling for the organizations that are presently on campus--they are forming new ones. These new organizations are not for just anybody. I have spent considerable time researching these new clubs, and I wish to inform you, the general public, about them.

First, let's take an inside look at "The Fun Club." This club is open to male and female humans only. The organization is dedicated to fun. I talked with the president of the club about this radical concept.

"People who join our outfit had better be ready to have fun. We do almost anything to have fun, we play army, we bob for apples, we even swallow goldfish!" commented the president. "Fun, fun, fun, we have fun in the fun club," he sang. The dues of the fun club are $700 and two Barbie dolls.

Another interesting organization on campus is newly formed Alpha Beta Gamma Fraternity. Some call it "The Radioactive Club." I spoke with the president, a man who stands 40 inches tall, and has no facial features.

"The whole purpose of the frat is to study the effects of radioactive materials on the members. You see, I have this piece of plutonium, and we set it on the living room floor. All the members sit around and we pass the plutonium to each other. We do this while watching Gilligan's Island or something. It really is amazing what it does to you, I mean, I'm just astounded at the effects! I used to have a nose, and I was 5'9" tall. It's really something!"

Next there is the "Cliche Club." The members speak only in cliches. As the president put it, "Our club is more fun than a barrel of monkeys, and you don't have to be as rich as a Rockerfellow to join. We're just some plain Janes and Joes out for a swell time. I wouldn't give up my membership for all the tea in China!"

"The Boring Club" is also an interesting new organization. As one member put it, "We just sit around and talk about boring stuff. Things like 'What would you do if it rained and the ground got real wet?' Then when everyone is really bored, we yawn and go home. It's a total waste of time."

"The Gopher Club" has 23 members. The club studies the gopher and its life. The president commenting about the club, said "Basically, we want to find out more about that amazing creature called the gopher. The gopher is our friend. That is why we study him. We have a pet gopher named Wilbur, and we do a lot of really neat experiments on him. Like this one time we wanted to see what Wilbur would do if we put him in a dark room. It was great! Wilbur was in the room for over an hour. Only bad thing was that we never found out what he did in the room because it was too dark. But it really was something!

"The Sunshine Club" has 14 members. The club president had the following to say about the organization. "When the weather is really lousy, we get together and look at pictures and talk. We talk about Florida and California, anywhere where there is nice weather year-round. We have all these travel brochures with lots of pretty pictures of warm things. Beaches and pictures like that. And we trot the globe, but all the while we're right here in Youngstown!

Probably the most unusual organization on campus is "The Anti-Club." This club was formed in 1975 by Mr. X. The club has no members. Mr. X spoke with me about this unique club.

"It's my club, dammit! I don't have to let anyone join. I go to all the meetings myself. I'm the president, I'm everything! This club doesn't want nobody to join. It's my club, mine, all mine," Mr. X said as he broke down in tears.

Other new clubs include: The Brown Eyes Club, The Brown Hair Club, The Blue Jean Club, The Moustache Club, The People Who Live In Houses Club, and The Air and Rikshaw Club.

There are, of course, many other organizations on campus, but I haven't the time or space to tell you about them. If any of the above organizations sound good to you, try to join them.

By the way, if none of the above organizations interest you, join my new club. I do not know what it will be called yet, but it should be really great. So send me some money, about $50 should do it, I'll see that the club gets off the ground. I'm thinking about a balloon group, and we will use the dues as ballast.

The class works "not as a regular class room but as a work center," says Potts.

SPORTS SHORTS

YSU's basketball team will be shooting for its second victory of the season this Saturday, Dec. 3, when the Penguins travel to Ohio University to battle the Bobcats. Tipoff is 3 p.m.

The Bobcats and Penguins have battled six previous times on the hardwood. OU leads the series 4-2. The two schools last met during the 1972-73 campaign with the Bobcats winning a 68-59 decision.

Ohio opened its season last weekend by playing in the IPTAY Invitational Tournament in Clemson, S.C. The Bobcats lost to Rhode Island, 81-69, in the opening round of the tournament on Friday night. They came back on Saturday to win the consolation contest, 78-64, over Texas Christian.

Intramural Basketball

Intramural basketball rosters are due by December 9, 1977 with the $10.00 forfeit fee. Remember independent teams are permitted to have one faculty/staff member on their team. Play begins January 8, 1978.

Wrestlers open 4th season; Hernan tops lettermen list

YSU's wrestling squad will begin its fourth season of intercollegiate competition, under the coaching of Tom Cox, this Saturday afternoon, Dec. 3. The Penguins will host Thiel College and Fairmont State in a triangular meet which begins at noon.

"We should be very respectable this season," stated Cox. "We have four returnees back who participated in last year's NCAA Division II championships."

The four include Don Hernan, Dane Stilgenbauer, Ken Moser and Ken Hrycyk.

A three-year letterman, Hernan (Austintown) wrestled at 142 last season. This winter, he will compete at 134. A senior, he compiles a dazzling 20-4 mark last year.

Stilgenbauer, another former Austintown Fitch standout, is a junior who has lettered twice for the Penguins. Last season, he finished with a 19-3 record.

Junior Ken Moser (Cortland), earned his first varsity letter last season while compiling an 18-4 mark at 158. This year, Moser will compete at 158 or 167 whenever necessary.

The fourth member of this quartet is sophomore Ken Hrycyk (Akron) who lettered as a freshman last winter. Hrycyk boasted a 17-5 record a year ago at 167.

And like Moser, he too will be called upon to wrestle at either 158 or 167 this campaign.

Other returnees being counted on by Cox include sophomore Gordon Mayer (W. Branch) at 126, Mike Lowery (Youngstown Ursuline) as a backup at 167 and heavyweight Herman Spencer (Columbus).

Cox has been impressed with the pre-season workouts of Mike Hardy, a transfer from Slippery Rock College, who will wrestle at 134.

Moser, Hernan and Stilgenbauer will serve as the Penguins tri-captains this season.

Three years ago, in its initial season of intercollegiate wrestling, YSU was winless in 20 meets. Last winter, the Penguins improved in leaps and bounds by finishing with an 11-6-1 overall mark. That was good enough to be ranked 19th in the nation in the NCAA's Division II rankings.

"Our schedule is better this year, and I feel that we'll be able to compete against all teams on our schedule."

After their triangular meet this Saturday, YSU's grapplers will be back in action three days later at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, Dec. 6, when they host West Liberty State in a dual match.

"How I found 36 extra days last year"

"I used to be too uncomfortable to do much of anything when I had my menstrual period. It was like losing at least three days every month. Then, last year, I switched to Tampax tampons. Now I'm always on the go."

Making every day count is what Tampax tampons are all about. They eliminate chafing, bulk and bulges. In fact, once the tampon is properly in place, you can't even feel it's there.

And Tampax tampons are uniquely designed to conform to individual vaginal contours. Which means there's less chance of leakage or bypass.

With Tampax tampons you get a lot more days out of the year. And a lot more fun out of life.
