

Senate action may give problems to non-members of YSU-OEA here

Lisa Yamell

The Ohio Senate's decision last week to override Governor Rhodes' veto against Senate's Bargaining Bill 222 may eventually cause some problems for 18 University faculty members if the House also votes to override the veto. The 18 faculty members had won an injunctive suit against YSU and the YSU-OEA last fall regarding the legality of a service fee clause included in their contracts.

In October, 1977, the 18 plaintiffs had asked the court to enjoin the University and the YSU-OEA from withholding a $137 service fee from the paychecks of those desiring not to be either members or financial supporters of the OEA.

Common Pleas Court Judge Sidney Rigelhaupt handed down a ruling in favor of the plaintiffs, citing the Ohio Revised Code, sec. 941. Rigelhaupt said that the service fee clause of the YSE-OEA Agreement was not in accordance with this section of the Code and was therefore illegal.

According to Dr. Daniel O'Neill, YSU-OEA's president, Rigelhaupt's decision was contrary to the language of the Ohio Revised Code, and the YSU-OEA is presently appealing the ruling on this ground.

"However," stated O'Neill, "if Senate Bill 222 is accepted, we will have a legitimate piece of legislation in the state of Ohio which would give legal status to the service fee." O'Neill believes that this approved legislation would undoubtedly influence the final court decision concerning the service fee controversy.

O'Neill mentioned the United States Supreme Court's ruling concerning the Abood vs. Detroit Board of Education case. In this instance, the Court established the validity of an "agency fee" concept. O'Neill explained that the "agency fee" concept of the Detroit Federation of Teachers is equivalent to that of YSU-OEA's service fee. "Our problem is that we have no legislation in this state which provides or prohibits a service fee. Senate Bill 222 would be that enabling legislation," he said.

According to the Dec. 16, 1977 issue of Ohio Schools, Senate Bill 222 is an OEA-backed measure, sponsored by Sen. Harry Meshel, D-Ygst. The bill sets up recognition and bargaining procedures for public employees in Ohio, including elementary, secondary and higher education teaching staffs. It establishes the right of public employees to organize and bargain collectively, and provides for detailed steps in the negotia-

Energy saving is aim in Tod Hall refacing

by Greg Garramone

Energy conservation is one of the reasons Tod Hall is being refaced, according to Edmund Salata, dean of administrative affairs.

"The main reason we're remodelling the Tod Hall-old library building is to add efficiency to the operation of the University through the use of space for classrooms, offices, and however else we can use it. But energy considerations have since become a factor as well, and the remodelling will reflect this."

Says Salata, "When this building was first designed, energy was not a consideration. There was thought to be an abundant, maybe an infinite, supply of the resources needed. Now we know this is not the case, and must adjust our planning accordingly."

This attitude can be seen in the variety of improvements being made on the Tod Hall/old library building. The entire building is being retrofitted; that is, plans are being modified to include improvements and advancements made since the building was designed. These include refacing, reducing the window areas (thus reducing possible leaks), replacing heating and air-conditioning units (the old ones are not energy-efficient), and adding better insulation.

With these improvements, Salata expects the University to recover the investment of remodelling in about ten years. He also adds that these improvements will bring a cleaner and more uniform environment, and expects that eventually other buildings will be similarly modified.

Construction starts on deck; should be open by fall 1978

by Barbara Janesh

Construction of YSU's new parking deck officially began last Friday morning with groundbreaking ceremonies at the facility's proposed site on Wick Avenue.

The deck, according to William J. Lyden, chairman of the YSU Board of Trustees, will serve a three-fold purpose; the first being to provide more parking spaces for University students.

The parking deck is also "the first phase in the construction of the all-sports complex," said Lyden, explaining that construction of the sports facility, to be located behind Beeghly Physical Education Center, will follow. "It goes beyond being just a parking deck," Lyden added, saying that he views the deck's construction as a positive step, symbolizing faith in Youngstown as a growing community, despite the city's current economic problems.

University President John J. Coffelt announced that the deck should be open at the beginning of fall quarter 1978. It will provide 2,150 parking spaces at a general construction cost of approximately $5.5 million. The facility will be six levels high, with each level served by passenger elevators. Major entrances and exits will be on Wick Avenue and Walnut Street.

The groundbreaking ceremonies were originally scheduled for Friday, Jan. 27, but were postponed because of poor weather. Approximately 60 people attended last Friday's ceremonies on the sunny, but cold, day.

Governor James A. Rhodes was scheduled to speak at the ceremonies, but was unable to attend because of Ohio's snow and coal crises, reported Lyden. Mayor Phillip Richley, also unable to attend, was represented by Kenneth Gran, Youngstown water commissioner.

Other speakers at the ceremonies were Michael Del Bane and Thomas J. Carney, state representatives; George J. Bindas, chairman, Mahoning County Commissioners; Richard Hughey, first ward councilman; John J. Carano, president, Student Council; Fred Carlton, representative at Dalton, van Dijk, Johnson and Partners, architect; Daniel O'Horo, president, A.P. O'Horo Company, general contractors; and Robert Dolittle, chairman, Ohio Board of Regents.

Lyden thanked area legislators saying, "all the construction at the University has been made possible through the hard work of our area legislators and through their untiring efforts this University has become a growing, vital force in the economic, cultural and educational growth of our community."

Reverend John Alexandrou, pastor of St. John's Greek Orthodox Church, gave the invocation and benediction.

Air your complaints Kilcawley Gripe Booth open today

by Lisa Yarnell

If you have a complaint or question concerning YSU and want to talk to someone about it, then stop in today from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Student Government's "Gripe Booth," located in the Kilcawley Center Arcade.

The "Gripe Booth" will be manned by Student Government and Student Council workers, who will help answer questions or provide information on problems that students may have. The workers will keep a record of all complaints or questions and these will be presented to Council at next Monday's meeting.

Linda Schajatovic, Student Government vice-president, and Alisa Basara, secretary of Student Organizations, created and put together the "Gripe Booth" project, and are in charge of its operation.

According to Schajatovic, the gripe table will act as a go-between for YSU students and their student representatives. "If students respond honestly," she said, "we will at least be able to get some direct feedback and find out what the problems really are." Schajatovic explained that most students who have complaints or questions usually don't know where to take them. "This way, they'll know where to go. Students will realize that somebody is there to listen to them," she said.

The theme of the project is "Core of Complaints-What A Bite! (symbolized by brightly painted apples and apple cores, "bites" are the students' problems). Banners and signs will be posted on or near the gripe table so that students will recognize it as a complaint center.

"Hopefully, we will be able to deal with most student problems-but we're not miracle workers," Schajatovic said. "Naturally, there is nothing that we can do about parking or the general fee, but if an advisor is giving a student the run-around, or a student would like to inquire about filing a grievance, then we can do something."

The Jambar asked Schajatovic if she thought that this would change students' opinions of Student Government of Student Council. "No-not overnight, that would have to be a gradual thing," she stated. "Some students have a low opinion of one or two members of Student Government or Student Council and unfortunately, this biases their opinions of the group as a whole."

But according to Schajatovic, the "Gripe Booth" is a step towards development of better relations between YSU students and student representatives. Schajatovic would like to see the "Gripe Booth" project repeated and is working on the possibility for setting up another complaint table in the Kilcawley Arcade the first Tuesday of every month.

CAMPUS SHORTS

Design Contest

The student chapter of the American Institute of Industrial Engineers is sponsoring a design contest set for Monday, Feb. 20. The Contest will consist of building a rubber-band-powered device that will climb an eight-foot ramp. First-place prize is $25, and all students and faculty are welcome to enter the competition. For details and applications, inquire in room 237, Engineering Science Building, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Advisement

All CAST business technology and CAST undetermined/associate in arts majors are urged to sign up for an appointment for advisement for spring quarter in room 2068, CAST. Sign-up must be at least 24 hours in advance.

Poetry Session

"A Journey . . . from Birth to Death" will begin with the reading and discussion of T.S. Eliot's "Journey of the Magi" at 8 p.m. Wed., February 8, in the basement lounge of the Newman Center. Dr. Susan Mason, English, will lead the informal session.

Withdrawal Date Change

The last day to withdraw with a grade of "W" for winter quarter, 1978, has been changed to Saturday, Feb. 18 at 12 noon. The previous deadline of Monday, Feb. 13, was extended because the closing of the University for several days did not permit some faculty members to have a graded mid-term exam returned to students by this time.

Graduate Assistantships

Graduate assistantships for the winter and spring quarter have been announced by Dr. Leon Rand, dean of Graduate studies and research. New assistants in the English department are William Paris and Robert T. Benson. Working as an assistant in the department of mechanical engineering is Pongdet Wipasuramontorn.

Free Film Showing

The 60-minute documentary film "Guess Who's Pregnant" will be shown continuously on Wednesday, Feb. 8, from 1 p.m. until 8 p.m. in the Chestnut Room (Multi-Purpose room) in Kilcawley Center. The film is being provided by the Education Department of Planned Parenthood of Mahoning Valley, Inc. and is being sponsored by the Counseling Center.

Poetry Reading

The poetry reading by Jan Minich, Nancy Takacs and Mary Beth Witt, scheduled for Friday Jan. 20 has been rescheduled for Friday, Feb. 10 from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. in room 216, Kilcawley Center. The readers are published poets and members of the English department. (Cont. on page 10)

"Yankee Ingenuity YSU triumphs over parking lot

by Ann Stewart, Barbara Janesh,
Liz Lane

Students have proved their creativity—not only in the classroom, but in the parking lot—in making suggestions on how the current parking-space shortage should be handled. Construction of the new parking deck has led to the loss of 450 spaces, and students are finding alternate parking methods and solutions.

Students solve their parking space dilemma by coming early, parking behind Beeghly, walking, car pooling, having someone else transport them to school, praying, or some combination of the above.

Jane Simmons, advertising and public relations instructor, also attends graduate school at the University of Pittsburgh. Comparing the two universities, she said, "I really don't think YSU has a parking problem."

Clare McQuade, junior, Education, said she solves the problem by "riding with someone else and letting them worry about it."

Yet, there are problems. Robin Paparodis, freshman, Business, is forced to park off campus because of the lack of University spaces.

Paparodis suggested that security "pay less attention to illegally parked cars." She thought the spaces on Lincoln Avenue and the side streets around the University should be utilized as legitimate parking spaces.

One faculty member, who purchases space in a private lot for $10 a month, thinks that the development of a more effective bussing system between YSU and the Republic Steel parking lot would cause more students to use the lot, and would alleviate some of the on-campus problems.

Paul Kana, senior, Arts and Sciences, suggested that a more practical solution to the problem should come from the students themselves. He claimed that 90% of the cars coming to YSU have only one person in them and said that students could cut the number of needed parking spaces in half by car pooling.

Many students suggested that the University construct new lots and parking decks. Mark Westhart, junior, Arts and Sciences, recommended the use of more foresight in planning. He pointed out that construction of the proposed sports complex will eliminate numerous parking spaces behind Beeghly. But the new deck, which would help compensate for the loss, will not be completed.

Mary Jo Getsy, junior, CAST, questioned, "Why tear up the lots when you can't begin construction until spring?"

The Wick Avenue parking deck may solve many problems, but it can do nothing for the complaints about the current conditions of the lots. Chuck-holes, ruts, and snow problems have caused many difficulties.

"I've been getting stuck in lots even when it's just muddy out," said Cindy Tortora, senior, Arts and Sciences.

Kathy Benish, junior, Business, complained that snow plowing has backed up many lots, blocking entrances and causing parking difficulties.

Slippery floors and ramps in the deck and insufficient gravel in the lots were included with the complaints about parking conditions.

Joe Sproviero, sophomore, Arts and Sciences, solved all his parking problems. He parks in the lot of the church to which his grandfather belongs.

Sue Smith, freshman, Arts and Sciences, had what she thinks is an ideal solution for everyone's parking problems: "Let's close the University for winter quarter!"

Senate Bill

tion process, including impasse machinery."

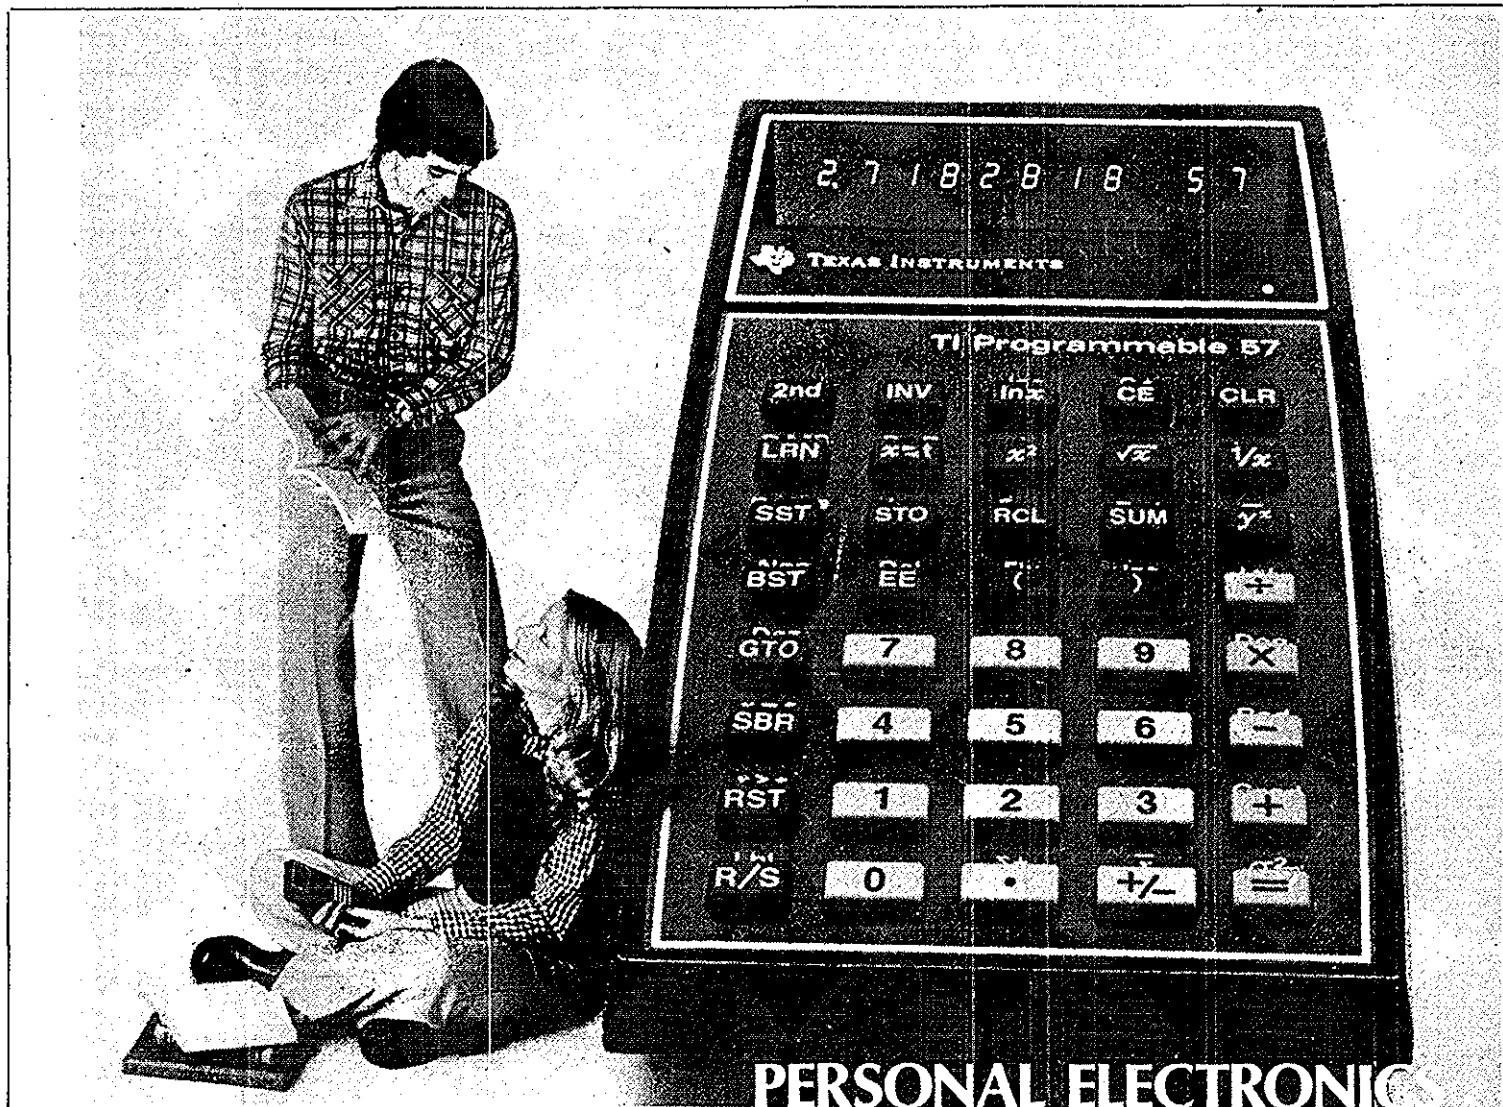

Included in the bill is the provision that a service fee requirement for non-members may be negotiated. There is also a carefully-limited right for an individual with a religious belief conflict to pay the service fee to charity.

Dr. Howard Mettee, YSU chemistry professor and member of the state OEA's executive committee, explained this "conscientious objector" exception. "These people will have to affirm that their religion forbids them to pay a service fee. The Mormons and Mennonites would be examples. Since a determined donation to a charity would be required, free-riders will be eliminated," he added.

When asked if he had any idea why Governor Rhodes vetoed Senate Bill 222, Mettee stated that he believes the governor is trying to prevent unionism in order to encourage the maintenance and attraction of new businesses to Ohio. "But in essence, he is selling out one for the other. In trying to keep taxes low, he is willing to let businesses run all over," Mettee said.

O'Neill informed the Jambar that regardless of whether legislation is passed, the YSU-OEA will continue to pursue the validity of the service fee by appealing Rigelhaupt's October 1977 ruling.

The TI-57. The super slide-rule that'll get you into programming... fast and easy.

Even if you've never programmed before.

For the student who requires slide-rule functions, the TI-57 delivers an exceptional combination of advanced mathematical and statistical capabilities. From functions such as trig, logs, powers, roots and reciprocals... to mean, variance, standard deviation and much more.

And as long as you're in the market for a super slide-rule calculator, why not buy one that can also put the power, speed and convenience of programming at your disposal?

Programming a calculator simply means giving it a logical set of instructions for accomplishing what you want it to do. Programming enables you to solve lengthy and repetitive problems quickly by substituting new variables into the set of instructions which you have already entered into the machine.

The end result is more efficient use of your time in problem-solving.

All this and more is explained in our unique, illustrated, easy-to-follow guidebook, "Making Tracks Into Programming." This 200-page book comes with the TI-57. It contains simple, step-by-step instructions and examples to help you quickly learn to use programming functions to make your problem-solving faster, more accurate and fun.

Contradictions

It is a fact of life that in a University setting, much of the campus-related news is based on information released from the administration.

College newspapers often use statements made by and derived from Presidents, deans and others high up in the administrative bureaucracy as basis for news stories.

Although there is, in itself, nothing wrong with this practice, some problems begin to arise when the way the administration views situations at the University contradicts what the students see.

For example, students were informed in the Jan. 6 issue of the Jambar by Don Minnis, director of auxiliary services, that even with a loss of 450 parking spaces "Everything seems to be going OK" in the area of parking. Yet, while students are told everything is "OK," they continue to have difficulty finding a place to park their cars.

In the area of campus security, the Jambar recently reported Paul Cress, director of campus security, as saying that crime is not a big problem at YSU. Yet this statement doesn't ring true to students who have had their cars broken into and tape decks stolen, and to female students who are afraid to walk to night classes.

In a more recent example, in the Jan. 31 issue of the Jambar, President Coffelt stated that it was his decision, and not Governor Rhodes', to close YSU. Rhodes announced Thursday that all public offices were to close, but Coffelt said this did not include state universities. Yet, on Thursday Jan. 26, a recorded statement made by Coffelt was aired on area radio stations in which Coffelt said the University was closed "as per Governor Rhodes' instructions" and that state employees should remain at home.

The explanation - well, there could be many. Is it merely a case of mistaken information on the part of either students or administration, or does the administration really view things differently from the way students do? Are administrators revealing the University as they see it or as they wish the students to see it? Is it a case of we know what's best for you - open wide and swallow?

Whatever the reason, it is a shame that these contradictions occur. In such instances it is easy for the students to feel as if they are being misled. The only result is that students, in time, will begin to doubt the credibility of the administration.

GUZ SAYS

by Guz Scullin

In the past few months, a lot of information has come to light from various government agencies about the dirty tricks and tactics used by other government agencies.

One study revealed that, in the early sixties, the CIA had a plot to kill Castro. A CIA agent was to learn to speak Cuban, and then go to Cuba. When he got there, he was to go to Castro's palace, and tell Castro that he was a cook. After the agent got hired, he was to go to the kitchen and make Castro a bowl of Campbell's Tomato Soup. Into the bowl of soup, the agent was to slip a bullet. The plot fell through when it was discovered that the agent being trained for the mission was actually a Cuban spy.

It has also been learned that every agent was supplied with a "Top Secret, CIA Super-Duper Disguise Kit." The kit contained fake eyelashes, beards, moustaches, warts, beauty marks scars, and an arrow that went through the head.

Every agent was also supplied with "The Top Secret, CIA Super-Duper Dirty Tricks Kit."

This kit contained onion-flavored gum disguised by a Doublemint wrapper, joy buzzers, chocolate-covered garlic, plastic doggie doo, and whoopee cushions.

The study also revealed that the CIA had many security problems. One such problem was that many agents went to bars after work, and got drunk. These agents then started to shout that they were "Secret CIA agents," and flashed their union cards. These agents were fired. In order to keep the other agents' identities secret, buttons were printed that read, "I am not a CIA agent." All agents were required to wear these buttons at all times.

The report also revealed that in 1964, CIA spies tried to abduct Sean Connery.

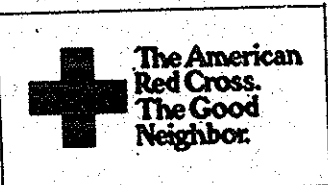

"On May 8, 1964, four CIA agents stormed into Connery's house, and demanded he give them 'Some of those neat spy gadgets James Bond uses.' Connery was startled, and tried to explain to the agents that he only pretended to be James Bond. Connery later said he had to talk with the agents for over three hours, telling them that there were no 'really neat 007 gadgets,' and there was no James Bond. He said he also had to feed the agents milk and cookies."

A study was also recently released that exposed some dirty practices done by the FBI. It was found that J. Edgar Hoover used agents to clean his house and yard-all at the taxpayer's expense. There were also agents who had to give him piggyback rides, and one agent whose sole job was to tie Hoover's shoes.

"The Cat and Dog Study" revealed that attack dogs for the FBI were also guilty of dirty practices. The dogs bullied cats, and ate the cats' food. Some of the dogs refused to attack unless fed a medium-rare sirloin steak with a side order of onion rings. Already, two dogs have resigned from the attack force.

Another study made by "The Committee to Undercover Dirty Practices" found itself guilty of dirty practices. The committee was headed by Senator Willy (Vince) Oplked. Oplked found out that he was guilty of having accepted bribes for over twenty years, and that he had three mistresses and four wives. Oplked said that he was truly sorry about finding these facts out about himself, and then resigned as chairman of the committee. A capital idea. Enough said. The End.

INPUT : Snow business

To the editor of the Jambar:

What can possibly be the rationale for calling over 17,000 people out onto the roads after a six-or-seven-inch snowfall? As Dr. Coffelt has himself said in the Vindicator, the Jambar, and in his informal question-and-answer session with the student body last quarter, he is concerned that when he closes the school, the University loses money since it has to pay people who would have to come to work anyway. It's a shame that the President doesn't put a concern for the safety of the students, faculty and staff before his concern for money. It is incredible that when every school system in the tri-county area is shut down, when Kent State and all its satellite campuses are shut down, when all community events are cancelled, YSU remains open.

This is just one more sign that the University is completely disinterested in its students. The University is busy trying to convince older people to come back to school, but when a city school system closes down and the University remains open, the mother who is attending YSU is put in a difficult position. Why should she be penalized for not being able to come in, unless she brings her kids along?

Unless the University begins to think of the community instead of itself, the community will continue to resent and ignore the University.

And what about the average student? YSU is a commuter school - only a very small portion of the student body lives near the University, forcing most students to make a difficult choice: should they risk the hazardous driving conditions and take sometimes two or three times as long to get to school, or obey the Ohio State Patrol and stay off the roads? But if they stay home, they miss whatever goes on in class, since most teachers do not stay at home. It's the conscientious student who gets hurt most. The student who doesn't care about his grade doesn't care if he misses class; the student who is conscientious does.

This situation shouldn't exist. If Dr. Coffelt insists on keeping the University open in order to save money - doesn't anyone resent this? - the very least he could do is inform the public that he is keeping the University open as a formality and encourage students and faculty to stay at home where they belong. (When you get right down to it, there must be a veritable legion of workers who have to struggle in to the University even when the place is closed in order for the University to really lose money. What could they possibly be doing down here in all that snow, anyway? The walks never seem to be cleared, so it couldn't be that. Hmm.)

This place is incredible. Several years ago our ex-president Dr. Pugsley informed us that we had better be prepared to brave the weather because this is "Northern Country." Obviously Yukon John feels the same way. From this point on, if the Youngstown Public Schools are closed, I'm not going to classes. This will probably hurt my grades, since most teachers for some reason come plowing in too, instead of waking up and asserting themselves. But if the weather's bad enough for me, too. Dr. Coffelt can issue his call of the wild to come to classes all he wants to - some of us can think for ourselves.

Council discusses election; Engineering seats open

by Irene Taylor
Student Council Reporter

Student Council, during its meeting yesterday, announced the opening of two seats for representatives from the School of Engineering in the up-coming Student Council elections. This is contrary to an ad in last Friday's Jambar, in which only one seat was announced for the School of Engineering.

John Carano, Student Council chairman, said the mix-up occurred when "I mistakenly believed that the Dean of Engineering would appoint someone to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Cherrie Lytle. Lytle's resignation was announced at Council's previous session. Council decided to open two seats for Engineering rather than accept the winner and runner-up in the up-coming election.

Carano also announced the March 15 nominating deadline for the Distinguished Professor Award. The annual award is given to 10 YSU professors who have been judged outstanding in their fields. Carano said nominations may be submitted by Council members, students, faculty and staff. Forms may be obtained from Student Government.

In other action, Council accepted and approved the nomination of Jimmy Jimenez, sophomore, Business, as the student government secretary of finance. Jimenez was once a council member and served as budget committee chairman.

George Glaros, Student Government President, announced that seven student government-funded organizations failed to submit their quarterly reports by last Friday's deadlines. Glaros said he strongly recommends that their funds be rescinded.

Excellence encouraged Leaves given 17 faculty members

by Jo Ann Nader

Faculty Improvement leaves were granted for 17 YSU faculty members for the 1977-78 academic year. The leaves were approved by Dr. Earl Edgar, vice president of academic affairs.

The purpose of this leave is to enhance the faculty member's performance in teaching, research and scholarship and University service at YSU, according to the YSU/JOEA Agreement.

Taking one-quarter leaves are for fall quarter, Lawrence A. Davis, marketing, and for spring, Dr. Ronald L. Gould, music. Davis spent last quarter supporting his work in the logistical relationships between business costs and energy conservation. Gould intends to spend spring quarter working with Professor Vogel in Freiburg on the organ repertory of the 17th and 18th centuries.

The following 15 faculty members took three-quarter leaves. Working towards his Ph.D. in Italian, Dr. Domenico B. Alberti, foreign languages, will be studying at Rutgers University. Also working on his Ph.D. is Eugene A. Sekeres, advertising and public relations, studying mass communications at Syracuse University.

In the history department, three professors are taking leaves. Dr. Fei Huang is writing a book on the Ch'ing Dynasty. Dr. Joseph May is maintaining his study of the Bricker Amendment. Dr. James P. Ronda is supporting his work on Indians and Christian Missions.

Dr. Leonard B. Spiegel and Dr. John D. Van Norman are the two professors in the chemistry department who are taking leaves. Spiegel is at the University of Pittsburgh working in biochemistry, and Van Norman is spending a year in residence at the Clinical Laboratories of the Youngstown Hospital Association.

In chemical engineering, Dr. Henry P. Sheng is furthering his work in coal liquefaction under

Penguins defeat Zips once again; Covington and Parks pace victory

by John Creer

YSU's tourney-hopeful basketball squad recorded their thirteenth victory in 19 outings Saturday night in rallying to beat Akron, 91-78, in the "Rubber City."

The win, however, was eclipsed by Jeff Covington's shattering the all-time career individual scoring mark with 2,248. Jeff pumped in 36 points against the Zips which enabled him to pass Tony Knott on the list of the elite and enabled head coach Dom Rosselli's crew to remain in contention for a coveted post-season appearance in the Great Lakes Regional Tourney.

"I wanted to get those points as soon as possible, so that we all could concentrate on the game," explained the modest Covington. "I'm happy to have broken this record, but not ecstatic. Records are meant to be broken, and this one will surely be broken some day too."

Saturday's contest started out as anything but a potential YSU victory as the Zips combined some hot shooting with some excellent floor play to zoom out to a fourteen point lead by the midway point of the first half. But the resilient Penguins, who will meet the University of Buffalo on the road tonight, behind the juggernaut Covington and the effervescent Gerald Parks retaliated and rebounded to seize a one-point lead on two foul shots by Covington with six seconds remaining in the half. But Akron's John Britton sunk a 20-foot jump shot with no time remaining on the clock to give the Zips a one-point advantage at halftime.

The final twenty minutes belonged to the inspired Penguins. Parks drilled in 23 points on an assortment of shots and used his outstanding speed to drive to the hoop at will to pace the Penguin surge. YSU was successfully able to handle the Akron full-court press by combining the swiftness of Parks and his counterpart, Joe Votino. Such efforts allowed the Penguins to build as high as a 23-point lead before the Zips made a futile rally and made things somewhat exciting before YSU once again flexed their muscles and controlled the game until the buzzer, preserving a 91-78 triumph.

Covington's teammates provided a strong supporting cast as Parks finished with a career high 33 points and played as well as he has all year and, perhaps, the best of his career. Gerald now needs only 125 points to reach 1,400 for his career to become the eighth leading scorer in YSU history. Parks with 33 and Covey with 36 tallied the brunt of the scoring. Frank Andrews also was in double figures with 10.

YSU collectively connected on 35 of 66 shots from the field for a fine 53% while Akron had a miserable shooting night, connecting on only 32 of 81 for 38%. The Penguins also went to the foul line 29 times and cashed in on 21 while the Zips only made 15 trips to the line, connecting on 14.

Akron, now 6-12 for the season, was led by Reggie Hannah with 23 points. John Britton chipped with 19.

With the school's career scoring record in his pocket, and another important road win under their belts, All-American Covington and his mates will play two games this week.

The Penguins will travel to the State University of New York at Buffalo for a contest tonight. On Saturday night, Feb. 11, YSU returns home for an 8 p.m. showdown in Beeghly Center with the Mavericks of Mankato State.

The Bulls of Buffalo currently are 2-15. Their latest loss came last Friday with a 90-79 defeat at the hands of the University of Maine. Maine had decimated the Penguins earlier in the season, 88-74.

Ed Johnson, a 6-1 senior guard, leads the Bulls scoring parade with an 18.5 average. Sam Pellom, a 6-9 senior center, has been a domineering force for the Bulls on the boards, grabbing 12.8 rebounds per contest.

Penguin wrestlers win two; Moser and Hernan feature

by Bill Snier

The YSU wrestling team increased their season record to 7-3 Saturday by scoring a double victory in a triangular meet at Beeghly Center. The Penguins defeated Allegheny 29-21, and Defiance, 28-18. In the other matchup, Allegheny topped Defiance, 28-18.

Penguin grapplers Dane Stilgenbauer and Ken Moser remained undefeated this season, each sweeping their two matches. Moser pinned his opponents in two separate weight classes, defeating Paul Parvialis in the 167-pound class at the 1:43 mark and Mike Edmunds in the 177-pound class at the 1:20 mark. Stilgenbauer decided each of his opponents in the 155-pound class

Senior Don Hernan also got back on the winning track, pinning both of his opponents. Hernan, wrestling at 142, pinned Bret Palmer at the 3:28 mark and Jerry Seikel at the 6:58 mark. Don suffered his only loss of the season last week at California State (Pa.).

Other grapplers recording victories for YSU were Jerry Pasquale by forfeit (118), Fred Mahnke by forfeit and decision (126), Mike Hardy by decision and default (134), Ken Hrycyk with one decision (150), and Greg August with one decision (heavyweights).

The Penguins return to action tonight against Hiram College at Hiram. Match time is 7:30 p.m.

COVEY AND PIZZA HUT

The name of YSU All-American Jeff Covington has been included, along with the names of many other basketball stars, on the official ballot for the Annual Pizza Hut Basketball Classic to be played at the Las Vegas Convention Center on April 1.

According to YSU Sports Information Director Dick Sapara, Jeff needs "about 350 thousand votes" to give him a fighting chance of being included in the classic. At this point, Covey is not even halfway there with just a little over 150,000 ballots in. The final day for votes to be sent in is March 1.

Ballots for the voting can still be obtained at any Pizza Hut location, from Dick Sapara (Room 102 Beeghly), or at any of the remaining home basketball games.

And From the Sports Desk.....

The record chase is finally ended and Jeff Covington is now the leading scorer in Penguin history. Its a shame that his final conquest did not come at home, but really isn't it great to do it against Akron? Jeff now has scored 2248 points in his illustrious career at YSU, which is thirty better than another Penguin mainstay from another era, Tony Knott, who roamed the hardwoods at YSU (well, not really here because the Penguins were then playing at South High Field House then) from 1952-56. We've heard a lot about this prolific scorer in the last few weeks, but really don't know much about him. So I dug up a few facts about this great athlete. Tony, known as "Mr. Basketball" back then, came to YSU from Farrell High School. A sparkling jump shot artist, who also drove to the hoop well, Knott became only the 28th player in the history of basketball to score over 2,000 points in his career. Tony broke the barrier on February 4, 1956 against Adrian College and received the game ball in tribute. The ball was later bronzed in memory of the accomplishment. Tony scored 305 points as a freshman, 551 as a sophomore, 657 as a junior, and an amazing 685 points as a senior. On February 8, 1956, the student body of YU (we were not yet a state university), then 4,000 students strong, presented Tony Knott with a night in his honor during a home game with Akron. The entire evening was dedicated to this man, who is remembered as being one of the Penguins' greatest student-athletes of all time.

So much for the past. But what about the present? In our lifetime, we may be seeing possibly the greatest basketball player in Penguin history. But Jeff is more than that. He is probably one of the greatest 'men' ever to attend this university. His talents on the court speak for themselves, but the warm and friendly person that he is enhances his value to this institution even more than any basketball game possibly could.

The Penguins final home game is February 25 against Westminster. This would be a chance for the student body of this university to pay tribute to a man who has meant so much to YSU athletics, as another group of students did in yesteryear. In my opinion, his number '55' jersey should be permanently retired to history. After all, other people could fit into that jersey, but could anybody fit in it as well as Jeff Covington?

INTRAMURALS

Intramural basketball charged into its fourth week of competition with two division champions being decided.

Action of the south court saw Commodores Return pick up their third straight, beating A.I.B.S. Turtlox 47-27. The Roundballers defeated Monty Python's Flying Circus 58-13. The Kiwis, with Bob Fetsko's twenty points, squeaked by Godfather & the Gang 38-34. Joe Beraduce scored 20, to lead Uncle Dom's Squad to a 60-20 rout of S.O.B.C. Yuk Fu defeated The Local Boys 43-30, while B.M.F. outplayed The Players 70-35. Gib Stit beat the Stars 44-35, and the M.V.R. Cards had a 50-35 win over Bionics. Kevin Statzer, with 22 points, paced the Killcawley Diseases to a 68-18 romp over the Untouchables, while Sadaharu Oh forfeited to the Ohio Players.

The River Rats defeated Assassins 36-26, while Quantas Bears outscored the Blazers 39-16. The Pickups captured their first win 45-40 over the Double Faults. Despite the efforts of Mike Fannon, with 24 points, Random Sample lost to Zoom 45-40. Earl Scheib's Rear Bumper forfeited to the Coneheads of Langerhans, while New Castle forfeited to Street Shooters. Five Easy Pieces took their fourth straight, defeating Wizards 55-22, while C.J.'s Funk Mob, lead by the dynamic duo of Steve and Chester Mitchell, romped to a 72-14 victory over Mad Dog/Royal Oaks. Joe Cappuzzello with 18 paced the Fishermen to a 48-39 win over O.V.A.C. The Mob defeated Morton's Marauders 38-34.

Cagers split tourney games; gymnasts drop third meet

by Bill Snier

The YSU women's basketball chalked up their fourth victory and also suffered their first loss of the season last weekend during action in the West Virginia Invitational Tournament. The Penguin women soundly defeated Marshall, 85-63, Friday in opening round action, but dropped the championship game to West Virginia, 73-54.

In the opening round game with Marshall, now 0-11 on the season, the Penguins led all the way building up a 46-24 half-time bulge. The Penguins one-two freshmen combination of Wanda Grant and Vicki Lawrence again led the women to victory. Lawrence, who was the Penguins' leading scorer entering the game, tied for high scoring honors with her freshmen teammate, both tallying 24 points. Grant also equalled her point total with rebounds, pulling down 24 boards. Veteran Linda Fredricks, also chipped in with 17 points. Mary Lopez topped the Thundering Herd with 18 points.

In Saturday's championship game, West Virginia won with surprising ease, led by Lisa Morton's 22 points. As in Friday's game, Wanda Grant again led the Penguin attack tossing in 20 points. Linda Fredricks also scored in double figures with 11 for the losers.

The Penguins return home for a date with Clarion State Wednesday night. Tip-off time at Beeghly Center is 6 p.m.

The YSU women's gymnastics team suffered their third loss of the season Saturday narrowly dropping a close decision to West Virginia, 129.6 to 111.7, at Morgantown.

The Penguin women did achieve their highest point total of the season however as the women continue to improve with each meet.

"I was pleased with the performance," states Coach Helen Mines. "We are starting to get our routines together and we're looking much improved. We were aiming for 110 points and scored more," Mines further stated.

Individually for the Penguins, Lisa Labozan took third place on the balance beam while Linda Wiegel was fifth in floor exercises. Valery Lippert was fourth on the uneven parallel bars and Barb Ford fifth in vaulting.

The Penguins will return home Wednesday night against Kent State. Meet time is 7 p.m. at Beeghly Center.

SPORTS SHORTS

YSU will honor its fall sports teams with a banquet on Monday, Feb. 20, in the Kilcawley Center multi-purpose room.

Open to the public, the banquet will begin at 6:30 p.m. It will honor YSU intercollegiate athletic squads in football, soccer, volleyball, and field hockey.

Most Valuable Player awards will be presented in each sport, while Penguin Pack awards for football will also be given. In addition, those athletes who lettered four years will receive the Four-Year Award.

Tickets, at $7.50 each, will go on sale this Friday, Feb. 10. They will be available to the YSU Athletic Ticket Office, at James Modarelli Jewelers, all three locations of Paul Morris Sporting Goods, and at Plaza Records. ★★ ★★

Three Penguin athletes were honored by the University's chapter of Black United Students (BUS) at its Second Annual Awards Banquet held last Friday, Feb. 3 in Kilcawley Center.

The trio of student-athletes recognized for their athletic and academic efforts were junior Marschell Brumfield in football, and seniors Jeff Covington and Gerald Parks in basketball.

Philiatric Society to offer review for upcoming tests

The Philiatric Society is offering a new MCAT Review Course in preparation for the upcoming Medical College Admission Test to be given April 15.

The course, which will be taught by YSU professors, will be comprised of 42 hours of instructional review in biology, chemistry, and physics. Dates for the course, which will run from 5:30-8:30 p.m. on Fridays and from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturdays, are Feb. 18, 24, 25, March 3, 4, 25 and April 1 and 8. The cost of the course is $42 and the deadline for payment is Feb. 14.

The course instruction will consist of a review of theories and concepts of the respective topics, along with mathematical problems stemming from these theories. Topics that will be covered are: anatomy and physiology, genetics, evolution, embryology, cell biology, virology, solution chemistry, general chemistry, organic chemistry, biochemistry, thermodynamics, mechanics, wave forms and electricity.

YSU professors teaching course will be Dr. Janet DelBene, Dr. Steven Schilderout, Dr. Marvin Lukin, Dr. Elmer Foldvary, Dr. John Yenma, Mrs. Doris Cannon, Dr. Monica Rudzik, Mrs. Aurora Sebastiani, Dr. Stephen Hanzely, Dr. Donald McClenan and Dr. Edward Monney.

All checks and money orders for the course are payable to: Philiatric Society, 272 E. Howard Street, Girard, Ohio, 44420. Students are urged to obtain a Baron's MCAT Review Book for the course.

Any further information and applications can be obtained through Dr. Irwin Cohen, Room 318, Ward Becher.

If less than 35 students sign up for the course, it will be cancelled and money will be refunded.

Country Concert a success

Music history part of show

by Molly Gerchak

A cold Saturday afternoon and evening was made warmer for the folks who attended the Bill Anderson, Bob Luman and Penny DeHaven Country Music Show, Feb. 4, at Packard Music Hall in Warren.

After the talented Luman and his Stones Rivers Band and the lovely Penny DeHaven staged excellent performances for the audience, Anderson, Mary Lou Turner and the Po' Boys Band took over in super-showmanship style.

The Po' Boys and Turner enlivened the crowd with their special brand of talent before the super star was introduced. Anderson walked out on stage to enthusiastic applause and, with his own magic "Whispering" Bill style, sang "World of Make-Believe," "If You Can Live With It, I Can Live Without It," "Don't She Look Good" "Still The One" and many more of his hit songs.

After concluding his duets with Turner, "Sometimes," "Where Are You Going, Billy Boy?" and their new release, "I'm Way Ahead of You," Anderson added, for the first time, a new dimension to his show.

While a technician ran a series of computerized slides, Anderson related the story of country music from its humble beginning to the multi-million dollar industry it is today.

With Turner and the band singing and playing songs from different eras of country music, Anderson spoke softly as each slide was flashed onto the screen.

He talked of a man and his guitar as being the beginning of the country sound, and through gospel, country rock, bluegrass and contemporary country music. How country music covers every corner of the globe and is translated into every language was brought out in his presentation.

He said of country music, "I'm proud of where it is, I'm proud of where it's going and I'm proud of where it's been. And we should never forget where it started, with a man and his guitar."

Playhouse provides free tickets to students for current drama

Continuing a tradition that began seven seasons ago, the Youngstown Playhouse is offering free tickets to YSU students. This year, the free show is The Cold Wind and The Warm, considered by many critics to be one of the finest dramas of the American stage. Students in Composition 550 and 551 are eligible for the free admission to any Thursday or Sunday performance of this show. Each year, the Playhouse makes available free tickets for one show on the main stage.

The Cold Wind and The Warm, directed by Bentley Lenhoff, was written by S. N. Behrman, who is most well-known for his drawing-room comedies about high society. This play marks a dramatic departure for the playwright, for it is a warm-hearted play about simple, everyday people -- his family and neighbors -- as seen in his memory. Although it is billed as a drama, the play is filled with the warm winds of humor.

A former YSU student in The Cold Wind and The Warm is Ed O'Neill, who has a leading role as Willie, the brilliant young man whose undisciplined ambitions lead to tragedy. O'Neill was seen recently at the Playhouse in this season's Murder Among Friends.

The Cold Wind and The Warm will play for two more weekends at the Playhouse, through February 19. Those students who are using the free tickets for this show are requested to call the Playhouse box office at 788-8739 for reservations for the Thursday and Sunday performance dates and times. There are also a few free tickets left for this show that can be made available to students not in the composition classes. The tickets may be picked up in the English department office, Room 306, in the Arts and Sciences Building.

Dana also announces the Monday, February 13th concert performance of the Dana Faculty Woodwind Quintet. The concert, featuring music by Dutch composers, will be held in YSU's Bliss Recital Hall at 8:00 p.m. (left to right are: Walter Mayhall, flute; Joseph Lapinski, clarinet; Lois Hopkins, French horn; Donald Byo, bassoon; and Loyal Mould, oboe.)

All concerts will be held in Bliss recital hall.

String recital starts off Dana's concert musicales

YSU's Dana School of Music will present five concerts in its regular Monday and Wednesday series during the month of February.

Feb. 8 starts off the concert schedule with the student string recital at 8:00 p.m. in the new Bliss recital hall.

On Feb. 13, the "Woodwind Quintet" will present a program of music by Dutch composers. This is followed by the Feb. 15 performance of the "Contemporary Ensemble" under the direction of John R. Turk of the Dana faculty at 8:00 p.m. in Bliss recital hall.

On Feb. 20, a cello recital by Michael D. Gelfand of the Dana faculty will be given at 8:00 p.m. in the Bliss recital hall.

A concert by the "Brass and Percussion Ensembles" with Esotto Pellegrini and Joseph Parlinsk directing, will be given on Feb. 22 at 8:00 p.m. in the Bliss band rehearsal room.

A special concert will be presented on Sunday, Feb. 26 when the "Dana Concert Choir," under the direction of Ronald L. Gould, will present Muccini's "Messa di Gloria" at St. John's Episcopal Church, 8:00 p.m.
