

Well, folks, at last it has arrived. What has? No less than a picture of the new College building as it will look when completed. Truly, fellow students, if that building will be only half as nice as the picture, it is going to an edifice of which we may well be proud. Drop into the office sometime soon and take a look at it. It is expected to be complete by next September. This is the first step in the realization of a greater Youngstown College. Let the good work carry on.
